Say Rezoning Opposition Hurts Small Theatre

EXHIBITORS

HERALD WORLD

CLARA BOW ★ EDDIE CANTOR ★ RUDY VALLEE ★ GEORGE JESSEL ★ CHARLIE RUGGLES ★ LILLIAN ROTH ★ GINGER ROGERS ★ CHESTER CONKLIN ★ WILLIAM AND EUGENE HOWARD ★ ARMIDA ★ RUTH ETTING ★ REAL STARS IN NEW PARAMOUNT SHORTS

PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS
PARAMOUNT ACTS
PARAMOUNT COMEDIES

PARAMOUNT SCREEN SONGS
PARAMOUNT TALKARTOONS
PARAMOUNT PICTORIALS

No Wonder The Best Theatres Play Them!
Down-to-earth FACTS from Hal Roach's nationwide flight!

Imagine!
Here's a comedy producer who actually visits theatres to get audience and exhibitor reaction to his comedies. He's back from his latest air tour of the country.

(Confirming detailed survey made by M-G-M)

1/3 of M-G-M Comedies play with M-G-M features, proving that M-G-M features are strong enough to stand alone—

2/3 of M-G-M Comedies play with other companies' features, proving that M-G-M Comedies are depended upon to strengthen the majority of programs

HAL ROACH makes 'em
M-G-M releases 'em
BOX OFFICE WALLOPS!

“ANYBODY’S WOMAN”
“ANIMAL CRACKERS”
“MONTE CARLO”
“MANSLAUGHTER”
“LET’S GO NATIVE”

and now . . .

“THE SPOILERS”

EDWIN CAREWE’S mighty new production of REX BEACH’S novel.
With GARY COOPER, Kay Johnson, Betty Compson, Harry Green and others.

Next in the powerful parade of Paramount Greater New Show World hits is this 1931-style all-talking version of “The Spoilers.” Now the talk of New York’s Broadway and Chicago’s Loop! With that famous fight heard as well as seen — they go wild over it! A surefire theatre-packer anywhere.

PARAMOUNT HAS THE KNOCKOUTS!
SINCE January 1930, RCA PHOTOPHONE has been making theatre installations at the rate of 132 a month! ... Dominating the field of careful buyers!

Each month the number increases! ... Today, RCA PHOTOPHONE is the dominant equipment! ... leading all in sound quality!

Only QUALITY could account for such tremendous growth ... the QUALITY that is built into the equipment ... QUALITY of installation ... and QUALITY of service after installation!

SOUND QUALITY has placed RCA PHOTOPHONE in its superlative position in the talking picture world.

RCA PHOTOPHONE has brought to thousands of theatres, large and small, a perfection in sound reproduction that is the logical result of the unmatched resources, the unrivaled engineering genius, the strength and stability of the world's greatest electrical and acoustical organizations.

The theatre, whether it be 500 seats or 5,000, equipped with RCA PHOTOPHONE is giving to its audience THE UTMOST IN SOUND QUALITY!

LEADERS! ~ in Sound Quality and Service!

RCA PHOTOPHONE, Inc.

(Subsidiary of Radio Corporation of America)

EXECUTIVE AND COMMERCIAL OFFICES—411 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY

U.S. BRANCH OFFICES: ... ALBANY, De Witt Clinton Hotel; ATLANTA, 101 Marietta St.; BOSTON, Storer Office Bldg.; CHICAGO, 100 W. Monroe St.; CLEVELAND, Film Bldg.; DALLAS, 1200 Commerce St.; DENVER, U.S. Nat. Bank Bldg.; DETROIT, Fox Theatre Bldg.; DALLAS, 1200 Commerce St.; DENVER, U.S. Nat. Bank Bldg.; DETROIT, Fox Theatre Bldg.; KANSAS CITY, 1717 Wyandotte St.; LOS ANGELES, 7000 Santa Monica Blvd.; PHILADELPHIA, 261 N. Broad St.; PITTSBURGH, Wm. Penn Hotel; SAN FRANCISCO, Ross Bldg.; SEATTLE, Orpheum Theatre Bldg.; WASHINGTON, 1910 K St., N.W.

CANADIAN DISTRIBUTORS: ... MONTREAL, RCA Sound Equipments, Ltd., 503 Lindsay Bldg.; WINNIPEG and 3566, 39th St., W., VANCOUVER, B.C.

Branches and Agents in All Principal Foreign Countries.
OPENING

IN 25 KEY CITIES

HERMAN

BOOKED:

NEW YORK, GLOBE
Starting Oct 3rd

DETROIT, RKO DOWNTOWN
Starting Oct 10th

GRAND RAPIDS, EMPRESS
Starting Oct 11th

KANSAS CITY, MAIN STREET
Starting Oct 11th

LITTLE ROCK, MAJESTIC
Starting Oct 12th

MILWAUKEE, PALACE
Starting Oct 3rd

MINNEAPOLIS, HENNEPIN ORPHEUM
Starting Oct 11th

NEW ORLEANS, PALACE
Starting Oct 10th

SAN FRANCISCO ORPHEUM
Starting Oct 11th

OAKLAND, ORPHEUM
Starting Oct 15th

OMAHA, ORPHEUM
Starting Oct 10th

PORTLAND, ORPHEUM
Starting Oct 11th

ST. LOUIS, ST. LOUIS
Starting Oct 10th

SEATTLE, ORPHEUM
Starting Oct 11th

ST. PAUL, PALACE
Starting Nov 1st

TACOMA, ORPHEUM
Starting Oct 11th

BOSTON, KEITH'S
Starting Oct 11th

CLEVELAND, HIPPODROME
Starting Oct 11th

PROVIDENCE, ALBEE
Starting Oct 11th

ROCHESTER, PALACE
Starting Oct 17th

TOLEDO, PALACE
Starting Oct 10th

WASHINGTON, KEITH'S
Starting Oct 11th

NEWARK, N. J., PROCTOR'S
Starting Oct 4th

SYRACUSE, KEITH'S
Starting Oct 18th

LOWELL, KEITH'S
Starting Oct 18th

DIRECTED BY TAY GARNETT
PRODUCED BY E. B. DERR

HELEN TWELVETREES
MARJORIE RAMBEAU
RICARDO CORTEZ
PHILLIPS HOLMES
JAMES GLEASON

WORLD PREMIERE

OCT. 3RD

GLOBE THEATRE
NEW YORK
HITS WILL DOMINATE AS THEY

THE WALSH PUNCH!

Raoul Walsh's TREMENDOUS ACCOMPLISHMENT

The BIG TRAIL

with JOHN WAYNE
MARGUERITE CHURCHILL
EL BRENDAL • TULLY MARSHALL
TYRONE POWER • DAVID ROLLINS

Scenes shot in seven different states. 93 speaking parts. 20,000 extras. 4 months in making.

Prodigious effort and danger while filming marvelous scenes—big wagon train crossing flooded rivers; lowering wagons, cattle, people from dizzy cliffs; stampeding big herd of buffalo; Indian attack upon wagons.

Most exciting of dramas. Most dramatic of romances. Staged in the wonderful scenery of the last American wilderness.

FOX CHINESE THEATRE,
LOS ANGELES NOW

EACH OF THESE 2 BOX OFFICE
De Sylva, Brown and Henderson. Creators of one of the biggest, "Sunny Side Up". David Butler, director of that same picture. What a combination!

How will the boys and beauts look, act, dress, talk and make love in 1980? New sensations pour on you like rain. Ballet of 100 in gorgeous hypnotizing dances.

Startling, beautiful, original, funny, tuneful, spectacular!

OPENING AT CARATHAY CIRCLE, LOS ANGELES, OCTOBER 10

SUPER-HITS IS BIGGER THAN ANY 2 PICTURES EVER MADE
100% BOOKINGS

Warner Bros. books entire Universal product, including features, shorts and newsreels for its nationwide circuit of 800 theatres. . . . So does R.K.O. for its National string of first run theatres. . . . So does Springer-Cocalis Circuit operating 15 theatres in Manhattan and New Jersey. . . . Also Manhattan Playhouses in 20 theatres, Lee Ochs with 4, Sidney Cohen with 2, Brandt Bros. with 4, Harry Harris with 5, William Salkin with 4, entire Rosenblatt Circuit of Staten Island. . . . Also Griffith Circuit, largest in Oklahoma City territory.
Events in the film industry:

2. "A LADY SURRENDERS" BOOKED

3. "ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT" BOOKED

4. "THE KING OF JAZZ" BOOKED

5. "THE INDIANS ARE COMING" BOOKED

6. SHORT SUBJECTS BOOKED

7. "UNIVERSAL-GRAHAM McNAMEE NEWSREEL" BOOKED
   Playing in George M. Cohan Broadway House. . . Also at Beacon, Winter Garden and New York and Brooklyn Strand.

8. "RESURRECTION" BOOKED
   By ROXY, big New York theatre. . . "LITTLE ACCIDENT" did $7,500 business in first 3 days at Rialto Theatre, Washington, a sensational figure. . . "THE WHITE HELL" of Pitz Palu literally caused a riot at the Cameo Theatre, New York.
Producer, exchange, exhibitor—the triangle of the motion picture business. Each is dependent on the others...each equally important. Orders, inquiries, instructions, reports—between them flash the important messages of a great industry. Contacts must be speedy. They must be accurate. They must leave a printed record for future reference.

Daily increasing thousands of business telegrams flash across the vast network of Postal Telegraph wires—reaching 70,000 points in the United States and 8,000 in Canada.

Executives appreciate the speed and accuracy—the alert messengers, highly trained operators, second-splitting equipment, and the sense of responsibility that Postal Telegraph employees make evident in every transaction.

Postal Telegraph

The only American telegraph company offering a world-wide service of coordinated record communications.

Postal Telegraph, through affiliation in the International System, goes to Europe, Asia and the Orient over Commercial Cables; to the West Indies, Central and South America over All America Cables; to ships at sea via Mackay Radio.
WHAT THE GOLD STAR MOTHERS SAW—

The perfect reel for your program during ARMISTICE WEEK

"OVER THERE TODAY"

A journey through the land of memories

PATHE"
FIRST NATIONAL gives you the edge on the industry with the greatest line-up of hits in history . . . and now —

"Pass over those Box-Office Records" to Ann Harding as THE GIRL OF THE GOLDEN WEST

JAMES RENNIE
HARRY BANNISTER
J. Farrell MacDonald · Bert Roach
Based on the play by David Belasco
A John Francis Dillon Production

"Vitaphone" is the registered trade-mark of the Vitaphone Corp. designating its products.
EXHIBITORS

HERALD WORLD

In This Issue—

REZONING

LABOR
Sympathetic Strikes Loom as Musician Controversy Goes On—Stage Hands and Operators Threaten to Walk Out in Two Cities Unless Agreements Are Reached—Ultimatums Are Issued By Labor Executives at Philadelphia and St. Louis.

COMPLETE INDEX TO CONTENTS

NEWS
Erpi has extended ten million credit to film industry, says Osborn; company has fallen far below 20 per cent set as maximum profit, press is told.
Big improvement claimed for new process of showing pictures on wide screen—Laboratory device is attached to printing machine.
Bright outlook is reflected in net profit returns of four companies—Radio to make all prints on Coast at million dollar plant.
Percentage plus 50-50 profit split is blamed by operators and bookers of independent chains as making this "hardest buying season."

FEATURES
New Product .................................................. 29
The Voice of the Industry (Letters from Readers) ................ 38
Securities Price Range .................................................. 20
Hollywood, by Douglas Hodges .................................. 33
Broadway ................................................................ 18
Sound Reproduction .................................................. 37
Pictorial Section .......................................................... 21
J. C. Jenkins—His Column ........................................ 41

ADVERTISEMENTS
Editorial

BY MARTIN J. QUIGLEY

The Road to the Public

The key man of the picture business, now and always, is the exhibitor. While this fact is never denied it is frequently ignored. And when it is ignored it leads to some very serious complications.

When we speak of the exhibitor as the "key man" we mean that he controls the situation, that if the door to development is opened the exhibitor is the person to do it.

Examine, for instance, the case of production:

Producers generally are aware that both the present existence and the future growth of the picture business depends upon reaching a higher degree of merit in screen entertainment. Producers know, from experience, that the same old thing done in the same old way leads nowhere except, possibly, to the sheriff's office.

Hence, the studios pour their efforts toward finer and better accomplishment. In the natural course, they do not invariably succeed but everyone who knows production knows that from its earliest days there has been a constant striving after better things. Some of these efforts have led to very poor attractions but others have, to the great surprise of persons who are afraid of anything but the old formula, resulted in the production of those very fine subjects—which at the same time have been great entertaining—that dot the road of the industry's progress like milestones.

The typical exhibitor attitude on anything new and different in production is a heavy load for the producer to carry. We do not hold the exhibitor blameworthy for this attitude because, as a matter of fact, the blame lies with the producer.

This exhibitor attitude is a heavy load because it brings fear and apprehension to the producer when he undertakes consideration of a subject like "Liliom," "Outward Bound" and "Abraham Lincoln." He realizes that the road to the public leads through the mind of the exhibitor. He realizes that to traverse this road successfully the mind of the exhibitor must be a helpful influence and not a hindrance.

The exhibitor principally judges pictures by what he thinks they will do at his box office. And it is very proper that he should do so. But in looking for a box office attraction the exhibitor, after noting merely his attendance records, is too prone to be unwilling to risk using a production unless it happens to contain elements which in the past have proven successful for him. As the result of this condition the new and different type subject starts out into the booking market under a severe handicap.

We do not say that the exhibitor should jeopardize his business by passing over attractions containing the established elements of success and in their place put in subjects that to him appear of obscure if not doubtful worth.

No, it is the business of the producer to keep the exhibitor so fully and accurately informed with respect to developments in production that when the producer has undertaken to do a different type of subject the exhibitor will be well aware of the reasons for this action.

With more done in this direction along the line of information to exhibitors about current trends and necessities in production, the producer will have less difficulty in getting on the screen—and properly presented—those finer subjects without which the picture business very shortly would land on the down grade.

* * *

Approval

In an important address in Omaha last week, His Eminence, George Cardinal Mundelein, Archbishop of Chicago, while referring to what he describes as a serious laxity in modern morals made mention of the influence of the stage and of current literature upon the existing situation.

It will be very interesting to persons engaged in the picture business to note that Cardinal Mundelein did not place the motion picture alongside of the stage and current literature as unwholesome influences upon modern morals.

This distinct compliment to the motion picture, we feel sure, was contributed not because there are not objectionable motion pictures as well as objectionable stage plays and books in current literature but rather because the motion picture industry has done what neither the stage managers nor the book publishers have made any serious effort toward doing.

We refer, of course, to the Code for Motion Picture Production adopted last Winter by the producers association. This document is a serious and sensible effort to maintain right moral standards in motion picture production and it is very reasonable to assume that the attitude of Cardinal Mundelein, as indicated in the Omaha address, has in some measure at least been influenced by the announced policy under which production is now being carried out.

The fair and liberal attitude of Cardinal Mundelein toward motion pictures is a very valuable development for the motion picture business. It doubtless is the result of the industry's effort toward maintaining a wholesome screen. With this effort honestly and faithfully carried out such approval from high places may be depended upon.

But failure or half-success in the carrying out of this effort could—and quite certainly would—result in the quick withdrawal of such support.

* * *

The plan of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America to organize and maintain among their members an informational service for the guidance of production is an especially promising undertaking. The association is to be congratulated on this constructive plan.

Theatremen are the general receivers of information for the industry—as well as the general receivers of revenue. Through having the information received properly assembled and systematized, a very great service can be rendered to production and to the industry at large.
Say Opposition to Rezoning Only Hurts Small Exhibitors

Protection Agreements Blocked
In Chicago and New Orleans

Efforts Stumble Over Allied, Clearances and Double Features—San Francisco Approves Plan

(Special to the Herald-World)
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Organized opposition to rezoning is only hurting the small exhibitor and he is the one whom organization is endeavoring to help.

This is the view of those who have observed the difficulty in drafting new protection regulations, especially in Chicago, where opposition has been voiced by the local unit of Allied States Association.

"Protection as adopted in Chicago is one of the fairest documents in the country," said C. C. Pettijohn, who with Gabriel Hess, also of the Motion Picture Producers & Distributors of America, was present when the rezoning plan for Chicago was ratified.

[In Chicago it was stated officially that the plan had not been ratified but only initiated by some committee members].

Determined efforts to achieve finally a definite solution of the zoning and protection issue in Chicago and New Orleans have failed, it became known this week following committee conferences. However, it is believed that some progress was achieved, the attempt is regarded as having fallen far short of success.

In San Francisco, however, the same plan voted for reconsideration the week previously, met the approval of the general meeting. The plan (presented in detail on an adjoining page) covers the full San Francisco territory, including part of Nevada. Flat opposition to any system restricting its members was asserted by the Independent Theatre Owners of Illinois, Allied States organization in Chicago, and this attitude is regarded as meaning little likelihood that any protection plan can be adopted in this territory with general approval.

Double Features Hit

Announcement of this position came following a series of conferences between distributor and exhibitor groups. Aaron Saperstein, president of the association, withdrew from the negotiations, and after a conference with Al Steffes of Allied, who had arrived for the day, dictated a telegram rejecting the plan in toto, to the Film Board of Trade.

Specific objections to the plan, which in the main is understood to be very similar to that in operation last year, are stated by Saperstein to be aimed at restrictions placed on the smaller theatres, which comprise the membership of his organization. These restrictions provide that there can be no double features, two-for-one admission prices, or gift nights, prior to eight weeks after general release. This would make the period extend 17 weeks after first-run showings.

"The big houses can run stage shows and give double shows in that way," declared Saperstein, "so why can't we?"

Miller Group Seeks Changes

It is also disclosed that the proposed system hasn't the full approval of the Exhibitors Association of Chicago, Jack Miller's organization, the membership of which includes many small houses and practically all of the larger exchanges in that city. However, that these objections will be ironed out without difficulty and that the plan, which is now to be referred to the distributor executives and ex-

Pathe Kills Foreign Talker Plan; Silents And Sub-Titles Stay

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 2.—E. B. Derr, vice president and general manager of Pathe, today said that Pathe is giving up plans for talking pictures abroad. Sound copyright law will not be distributed only domestically, he explained.

Pathe will, however, continue to sell silent pictures and sound tracks for foreign consumption. The purpose of the sound track will be to carry musical scores, which are written by Josiah Zaro, the company's musical director.

The procedure in production of foreign silent films will be the same as that used for talking pictures, except that the English dialogue will be removed after the film is finished. Sub-titles will be substituted and a few retakes made for proper synchronization.

The first picture to be made under this plan is "Her Man."

U. S. Importers at Prague Day Inspiring Riot When German Films Were Used

(Special to the Herald-World)

PRAGUE, Oct. 2.—The charge made by several Prague newspapers that recent rioting and attacks on motion picture houses showing German talking pictures were inspired by importers of American films has been vigorously denied by the latter.

Prague representatives of American film companies have submitted the matter to their directors and to the American legation. Julius Schmitt, director of United Artists and film advisor to the Czechoslovakian government, in commenting on the situation, said, "I repudiate as a base and monstrous fabrication the insinuation that the demonstrations were financed by American film capital. We have absolute proof that this allegation has been used to excite prejudice against American films among the German speaking citizens of Czechoslovakia.

The newspapers implicated in the case claim they published their insinuations on the basis of information from police headquarters.

Begin Ohio Publix House

(Special to the Herald-World)

STUEBENVILLE, OHIO, Oct. 2.—Work is in progress on the $250,000 Paramount-Publix theatre to be erected here. The general contract has already been awarded.
“Meanest Buying Year” Laid to Percentage Plus 50-50 Split

Exhibitors Operating and Booking Independent Chains Call Percentage Logical Rental Solution But Say Companies’ Demands Bar Profits to Some Houses

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—This has been “the meanest buying season we have ever encountered.”

That is the opinion expressed by a number of exhibitors operating and booking independent chains of from five to 20 theatres.

Percentage, these men contend, has made the process of contracting for the 1930-31 product an extremely slow one, with the result that often there is a shortage of pictures for future playdates.

Favor Percentage Principle

In no instance did an exhibitor condemn percentage in its entirety. On the contrary, they all favored it, but stated that the difficulty arose in the methods of applying it.

“We have no quarrel with percentage booking,” declared a prominent chain operator. “In fact, I think it is the logical solution of the rental problem.

“However, the percentage demands of some of the companies make it impossible for some of our theatres to show a profit.

“Straight percentage without a split is very acceptable, and in a majority of instances has been the basis of our contracts. We have been holding out, however, on those companies asking a percentage and a 50-50 split on all receipts over a certain gross.

“It is not just the manner of percentage which has made this the meanest buying season we have ever encountered. In some cases it has made a shortage of pictures for my theatre.

“Two companies asking a percentage and 50-50 split have suggested that I book the product and get together later on the contract. This naturally would give me product immediately to set in, but such a plan does not appeal to me.

How It Works

“Just to show you how the percentage and 50-50 split work: One company, for instance, wants 25 per cent on receipts up to $800 and a 50-50 split above that.

“Suppose we gross just $800. The company would get $200, and after I pay for shorts and other overhead my profit is slightly over $26. The minute my receipts start dropping below the $800 mark I start losing.

“It is that knowledge, and an effort to try to avoid it, that have made this a tough buying season.”

Takes Film Board Post

MONTREAL, Oct. 2.—Mrs. Clare Sullivan has succeeded Miss Helen Channing as secretary of the Montreal Film Board of Trade. Mrs. Sullivan, formerly Miss Foley, has served in similar capacities at Omaha and Buffalo.

Plan Radio Campaign For Advertising New Gloria Swanson Film

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Gloria Swanson’s “What a Widow,” which opened at the Rialto last Friday, is to be heralded for the next three weeks by one of the most extensive radio campaigns ever undertaken, it has been announced by United Artists. 952 radio stations in the United States and Canada will present vocal or orchestral renditions of the three songs in the picture, and it is planned to climax this international campaign by having Miss Swanson sing over an international hookup from Culver City, California, at the end of October.

Coast-to-coast hookups of the National Broadcasting company, the Columbia company and the Quality group are being employed, and noted radio entertainers are participating in the campaign. Among those who will take part are Rudy Vallee, Billie Jones and Ernie Hare, Bernie Cummins, Wendell Hall, Phil Cook, Bert Lownes and Jack Albin.

Incidentally, the star of “What a Widow” has been invited to make a concert tour of the United States and Canada next fall by the National Broadcasting Company’s Artists’ Bureau, singing from such stages as that in Carnegie Hall.

Paramount Ready to Begin 100th Picture in Film Plant Near Paris

(From Special Foreign Correspondent)

PARIS, Oct. 2.—Production will soon begin on the hundredth talking picture made in the Paramount studios at Joinville, near here. A German cast is now being selected in Berlin for the picture that will mark the century figure in film production at the studios.

Production was begun at Joinville only six months ago.

“Hell’s Angels” Banned in Toronto; Charge Film Reflects on Air Force

TORONTO, Oct. 2.—The Ontario board of censors has banned the air picture “Hell’s Angels,” which was scheduled for showing in a local theatre.

The film is alleged to present an unfavorable picture of the Canadian Royal Air Force among its producers, it is understood, had declined to consider the board’s request for elimination of certain scenes which were considered to cast a reflection on the personnel of the force, and therefore the board was unable to approve the picture. This explanation for the decision was made by Major J. C. Boylen, chairman.

New Firm Formed Merging Christie And Metropolitan

Charles Christie Heads Corporation

—Capitalization $10,000,000, All Common Stock

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 2.—Actual merger of the Christie and Metropolitan Studios properties has been effected here in an agreement just consummated calling for exchange of interests of Metropolitan Sound Studios, Inc., the Christie Studio City properties, and the Christie Film Company by a new corporation called the Metropolitan-Christie Pictures Corporation. Incorporation is under the laws of Delaware, and capitalization, represented entirely in common stock, is for $10,000,000.

Charles H. Christie, who with his brother Al, has long been an outstanding comedy producer, heads the new company, while William S. Holman, general manager of Metropolitan, will continue in that capacity in the new organization.

Financing was through San Francisco and New York bankers, representatives of whom will serve on the board.

James Cruze Finishes First Tiffany Special; Starts Another Soon

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—James Cruze has completed directing of “She Got What She Wanted,” the first Tiffany special. The film is now in the cutting room.

Selected as one of the best ten directors by national poll in 1926 and 1928, Cruze has directed for Paramount, Pathe and Caddo. One of his most recent directorial vehicles is “The Great Game.”

In handling the first of the Tiffany specials, Cruze directed his former wife, Betty Compson, who is starred in the picture. Other leading roles are taken by Lee Tracy and Alan Hale. Cruze is to direct another special production on which work will commence in the near future. This will be the second of the Tiffany specials for the new season. The title has not been announced.

Reopens After Installing Sound

EAST ST. LOUIS.—The Columbia theatre here has reopened, following the installation of sound. Louis Meuser is the owner.

Hoover Has His Own Preview of “Big Trail”

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Raoul Walsh’s epic, “The Big Trail,” a Fox picture, was given a special showing before President Hoover and his family and close friends in the White House. Arrangements for the preview were made by Harley L. Clarke, head of Fox, over long distance telephone from Chicago. Clarke was a luncheon guest of the President a few days ago.
Erpi Extends 10 Million Credit To Film Industry, Says Otterson

Profit Far Below 20 Per Cent Maximum Set, Press Is Told

Program As Public Service Corporation Expanded to Non-Theatrical Fields, He Says

_New York_, Oct. 2.—Operating on basis of a public service corporation, Electrical Research Products has extended credit totaling $10,000,000 to the motion picture industry, according to J. O. Otterson, president, who in an address to members of the press, stressed the significance of talking pictures to industrial, religious, social and educational fields throughout the world.

Erpi, he said, operated under a controlled profit plan, as does its parent organization, the American Telephone & Telegraph.

"We have set 20 per cent as our maximum profit," Otterson said, "and thus far we have not fallen below that mark."

Otterson stated that with the inspection of the first all-talking picture in May that their activities would extend no further than the development of apparatus and the licensing of its patents. However, he said, it became apparent that the screen was not confined to the theatre and it was really then realized that the company should be operated as a public service corporation so that it might provide continued servicing to its customers, just as A. T. & T. does.

_Purpose to Develop, Not Produce_ Erpi, he said, was in the motion picture field only to develop and service of sound apparatus.

"We are not in the motion picture industry," he said, "to produce pictures. Our purpose is to develop talking pictures for use not only in the theatre but in industry, religion and education throughout the world."

Otterson said that a recent survey by his company, it was shown that there were only about 15,000 legitimate motion pictures in the United States, those 10,000 which had already been wired. Of this 10,000, he said, about 5,000 are using Western Electric apparatus.

Younger producers, who formerly played their product in as many as 10,000 theatres today book only about half that number. "Yet," he said, "they are receiving greater profits from these 5,000 theatres than they previously were from the 10,000."

Erpi, he said, has one price for its apparatus and service for theatres of any size. This irrespective, he said, of whether it is a theatre operated by an independent or a circuit.

_SeeS Perfect Sound At 5 Years_ "Chains will order apparatus for a certain number of theatres without even asking the price," he pointed out, "for they know we have one price for all, depending on the type of theatre in which an installation is to be made."

Otterson expressed the opinion that talking pictures would become a potent factor outside of the theatre. To illustrate the possibilities in other fields, medical and instructional films are exhibited following luncheons tendered by Erpi at its head-quarters in the Fisk building. Rapid developments in recording are being made, he said, and within five years, at the most, he believes, talking pictures will be presented to the public with nearly perfect reproduction of voice, music and other sounds.

Standard Regulations For Film Storage Are Recommended by Cooper

_OTTAWA_, Oct. 2.—Standardization of regulations governing film storage and the recommendation that all structures in which pictures are screened, other than theatres, be brought under the Canadian standards because of the risks involved, were brought up at the annual convention of the Dominion Fire Prevention association of Ottawa by Col. V. A. Cooper, president of the Motion Picture Distributors of Canada.

Cooper outlined the wide improvements that have been made, including the new film buildings in Montreal, Ottawa and Calgary. He also declared that nitro-cellulose film could be kept in good condition for 25 years when properly stored in unheated and ventilated vaults.

Add "Bunk Rumors" (Special to the Herald-World)

_New York_, Oct. 2.—Under the general heading "Bunk Rumors" this week is a report emanating from Chicago that C. C. Pettijohn is resigning from the M.P.P.D.A. There is positively no truth in this report.

Entire U Output Is Billed by WB Chain
_In $3,500,000 Deal_ (Special to the Herald-World)

_New York_, Oct. 2.—Warner Brothers officials and the Universal sales department have signed contracts covering the booking of Universal's entire year's output of feature productions and short product, which amounts virtually to a solid booking over the Warner chain of theatres.

This deal, which for feature pictures alone, will run well over $3,500,000, follows closely the $3,000,000 deal recently completed with RKO. It will give Universal first run representation in cities in which Warner Brothers theatres are admitted strong.

The short product involved includes all the Universal comedies, its serials, and its serials. The booking is understood to be as near 100 per cent as prior bookings will permit.

_Columbia Obtains Long Time Lease on Chadwick Studios_ (Special to the Herald-World)

_New York_, Oct. 2.—Columbia Pictures has leased the Chadwick studios in Hollywood on a long term as one of the steps in its extensive schedule for the 1930-31 season. The new acquisition adjoins the present Hollywood site of the Columbia producing plant. The Chadwick studios have a sound proof stage and are connected to an office building.

Addition of these studios will make Columbia one of the largest studios on the coast, it is said. During the past year it has practically doubled its equipment with the addition of new cutting rooms, projection rooms and erection of several sound stages.

_RKO Mayfair Replaces Old Columbia House in N. Y.; Capacity Is 2,300_ (Special to the Herald-World)

_New York_, Oct. 2.—The RKO Mayfair is scheduled for the new motion picture house nearing completion on the site of the old Columbia theatre at Forty-Seventh street and Seventh avenue.

The building is expected to be ready for dedication on November 1. With a seating capacity of 2,300, the new theatre will run on a policy of sound pictures only.

Add "Bunk Rumors" (Special to the Herald-World)

_New York_, Oct. 2.—Under the general heading "Bunk Rumors" this week is a report emanating from Chicago that C. C. Pettijohn is resigning from the M.P.P.D.A. There is positively no truth in this report.
BROADWAY

WE have sat at the dinner table with tall men, fat women, dwarfs and others of the sidelines world, but never, until Al Selig and Joe Rivkin of Tiffany got the bright idea, did we partake of chicken legs, potatoes au gratin and other delectables with a chimpanzee as the honored guest.

This was our pleasure, however, when Joe had a group at Arrowhead Inn to meet Snookums, the Tiffany monk who is starring in the company's clever comedies.

No star of the screen ever shone brighter than did Snookums that night. So interested were patrons of the inn that food was forgotten.

In the monk comedies—all talking—Tiffany has about the cleverest short features yet seen and heard by this writer. If they don't bring a howl a second then something is radically wrong with a person's spleen. The doctor should be called in immediately.

These shorts are burlesques of popular features of the past. Two shown to the press were titled "The Little Covered Wagon" and "The Blimp Mystery," "The Little Big House," "Chasing Around," "The Little Divorcee" and "Sweet Patootie" are on the way.

This has been a week of luncheons and dinners, with Electrical Research Products also contributing to the trade paper man's three squares a day.

Erpi's luncheon was to bring members of the press together to meet J. E. Otterson, president, and to view on the audible screen sound and acoustic demonstrations and industrial films.

PRIZE FRONTS: This week's prize (we haven't decided what it will be) for the most attractive theatre front goes to the Rivoli, where "Whooppee" opened at $5.50 top on Tuesday. Eddie Cantor made a personal appearance.

Col. H. A. Cole of Texas, a leader in Allied States Association, has been graceing Broadway the last few days. As usual he carries with him a pleasant smile but little conversation for the interviewer.

JAY M. SHRECK.

Warner Brothers Plan
Home Office Addition
(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Estimates are being received for the erection of the new Warner Brothers building adjacent to the present home office on West 44th and West 45th streets. It covers 75-foot frontage and will have the same height as the other two structures.

The erection of the addition is in line with the company's expansion policy.

"Trails of Danger"

Just to look at the title makes the imagination run away to lonesome hills, guns, flying fists and lurking shadows which haunt all the little recesses of some rocky trail. It is the title of the Big 4 Corporation's latest western thriller, and might well be termed a synonym for double-barreled action in a rugged and romantic setting where love is fraught with danger.

The leading players are Wally Wales and Virginia Brown Faire.
Sympathetic Strikes Loom as Musician Controversy Goes On Stage Hands and Operators Threaten Action in 2 Cities

Would Involve About 650 Employees in St. Louis Non-Union Projectionists’ Band in Kansas City

(Special to the Herald-World)

MONTREAL, Oct. 2.—The musicians and the leading theatres of Montreal have buried the hatchet with the signing of new contracts, thus terminating the trouble which started August 31 with the refusal of the Capitol orchestra to accept a new agreement which provided two weeks’ notice. The accepted contract has a four weeks’ cancellation clause and stage shows will be introduced October 11. At Loew’s the musicians have accepted a year’s contract without cancellation provisions, and the organist returns to the Palace. The Imperial will continue without an orchestra. Loew’s return to pictures and vaudeville October 5.

Sympathetic strikes on the part of the projectionists and stage hands are threatened at St. Louis and Philadelphia as the latest development in the controversy between the musicians’ organizations and the theatres. At St. Louis, John P. Nick, international vice president of the Theatrical Brotherhood, has announced that unless some agreement is reached by October 9, the walkout probably will be general in the motion picture theatres in the city. In Philadelphia, an ultimatum setting October 7 as the date for a similar possible walkout has been announced by John Colaprete, president of the musicians union.

In Kansas City, as a means of combating the demands of the local unions, an organization of non-union projectionists has been started. It is called the Sound Projectionists Association and is run along union lines. It might be called a non-union union. Union troubles in Portland, Maine, have caused Lillian Lockwood, owner of the Irvington, to file an injunction against the operators’ union there to prohibit picketing after her refusal of a demand by the Picketers’ Association to attend her house with union operators.

Theatre operators in the advertising plan were the RKO Capital, Orpheum and Garrick houses, and the Strand, Parkway and Eastwood. The Majestic, Palace and Orton were listed as theatres not employing union labor, according to one of the advertisements.

6 Madison Houses
Advertise Hiring of Union Operators

(Special to the Herald-World)

MADISON, WIS., Oct. 2.—An advertising system sponsored by Local 251 I. A. T. S. E. was undertaken by six theatres here to inform the public that they employ union labor. The theatres carried cooperative display ads with bold type urging theatre-goers to attend houses with union operators.

Theatre cooperating in the advertising plan were the RKO Capital, Orpheum and Garrick houses, and the Strand, Parkway and Eastwood. The Majestic, Palace and Orton were listed as theatres not employing union labor, according to one of the advertisements.

MPTO of Virginia
And Pennsylvania
To Meet Oct. 20-21

(Special to the Herald-World)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 2.—The MPTO of Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia will hold its tenth annual convention October 20 and 21. D. J. Selznick will be chairman of the meeting, while Fred J. Herrington, secretary of the organization, is in charge of arrangements.

Questions to be discussed include zoning, and standard form of insurance.

1,270 Replacements of Other Sets Made by Erpi

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—C. W. Bunn, general sales manager of Western Electric, has announced that replacements of other types of equipment with Western Electric apparatus have reached the total of 1,270. Of this number, 1,055 are in the United States and 215 in the foreign field.

Seeks Injunction on Picketing

(Special to the Herald-World)

PORTLAND, OCT., Oct. 2.—Lillian Lockwood, woman exhibitor, operating the Irvington theatre here, has filed an injunction against the Portland Moving Picture Machine Operators’ union and the Central Labor Council to restrain them from picketing her theatre. The pickets had been stationed at the theatre after she had refused to meet a demand that only union members be employed, she charged.

Organize Non-Union Union

(Special to the Herald-World)

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 2.—As a step in combating the demands of the local operators union, an organization of non-union projectionists has been started here in the name of the Sound Projectionists Association. The organization has been granted a charter.
Bright Outlook Seen in Profit Returned by Four Companies

Fox Gains 21 Per Cent in 39 Weeks—MGM Net for 12 Weeks Is $3,186,267—Technicolor Net for Eight Months $942,590—Paramount Film Rentals Up 3 Per Cent

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Recent reports of earnings by four companies of the industry carry with them an optimistic note. The Fox Film company, in a tentative statement of earnings for the 39 weeks ended September 27, reports a common stock dividend balance of $10,104,196 as against $8,337,196 for the same period of 1929, an increase of 21 per cent. The Paramount Publicity corporation has announced that receipts from film rentals in the United States and Canada for the quarter ended September 27, were 3 per cent in excess of the receipts for the corresponding period last year.

A net profit of $3,186,267 is shown by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures Corporation for the 12 weeks ended June 6, 1930, in a statement of income just issued. Gross profit totals $4,753,443, and operating expenses reach the figure of $1,733,446, resulting in an operating profit of $2,999,997. Miscellaneous income is listed at $186,270. The net profit figure is noted as before taxes.

Technicolor, Incorporated, reports a net profit for the eight months ended August 31 of $942,590, after operations, amortization and Federal and state taxes. Gross profit was $1,849,019 for the period.

Current assets are noted at $1,397,396, of which cash comprised $289,387, and accounts receivable $570,880. Current liabilities are listed as $389,364, accounts payable totaling $320,861 and surplus $1,891,217. Total resources of the company and subsidiaries are $7,790,307.

The Fox statement of tentative earnings shows a gross revenue of $34,496,124 compared with $28,553,607 for the corresponding period of 1929. Amortization of inventory films including participations increased $3,710,300. If the same rate of amortization of film costs as used in 1929 had been maintained, the statement said, net would have been $2,896,092 more.

Club Paper Going Again

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Publication of Warner Club News, the social organ of Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., and its numerous subsidiaries, was resumed this week. Its editors are Alfred N. Zimbalist and Sidney H. Rechten.

New Warner Theatre to Open Soon; Two Others To Be Erected in East

(Special to the Herald-World)

WEST CHESTER, PA., Oct. 2.—The new Warner Brothers theatre here, now nearing completion, will in all probability be ready for operation during the last week in October or the first week of November. It will seat 1,646. Rapp and Rapp are the architects.

In Morgantown, West Virginia, ground will be broken within two weeks for the erection of a 1,200 seat house, and in Torrington, Conn., Warner Brothers have been receiving estimates for the construction of a new 1,100 seat house. Thomas W. Lamb, designer of the Hollywood theatre in New York is the architect.

Cutler-Hammer Moves Philadelphia Offices

(Special to the Herald-World)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2.—The local sales office of Cutler-Hammer, Inc., has been transferred to the tenth floor of the new Commerce building, 401 North Broad street.

SECURITIES PRICE RANGE

Week Ending October 1

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Recoveries, in which amusement stocks helped lead the way, followed the onslaught of the bears in the first two days this week. In Wednesday’s trading Eastman Kodak gained 8 1/4 points, A. T. & T., 3 3/4, General Electric, 3 3/4, Radio 2, Westinghouse 4 3/4.

Following is a summary of the past week’s trading:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Stock</th>
<th>Sales</th>
<th>High</th>
<th>Low</th>
<th>Close</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Shubert Theatre</td>
<td>$11,800</td>
<td>$1</td>
<td>$1</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Universal Pic 1st pfd</td>
<td>$320,275</td>
<td>$23</td>
<td>$23</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Warner Brothers</td>
<td>$320,275</td>
<td>$23</td>
<td>$23</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd.</td>
<td>$47</td>
<td>$47</td>
<td>$47</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sherry</td>
<td>$270,500</td>
<td>$27</td>
<td>$27</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd.</td>
<td>$36</td>
<td>$36</td>
<td>$36</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lasky</td>
<td>$11,800</td>
<td>$1</td>
<td>$1</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd.</td>
<td>$2</td>
<td>$2</td>
<td>$2</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Loew's</td>
<td>$1,840</td>
<td>$8</td>
<td>$8</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd.</td>
<td>$9</td>
<td>$9</td>
<td>$9</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, pfd.</td>
<td>$260</td>
<td>$26</td>
<td>$26</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd.</td>
<td>$35</td>
<td>$35</td>
<td>$35</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mutuals Carpet</td>
<td>$1,700</td>
<td>$17</td>
<td>$17</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd.</td>
<td>$10</td>
<td>$10</td>
<td>$10</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paramount</td>
<td>$98,700</td>
<td>$54</td>
<td>$54</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd.</td>
<td>$6</td>
<td>$6</td>
<td>$6</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pathé Exchange</td>
<td>$1,800</td>
<td>$8</td>
<td>$8</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd.</td>
<td>$4</td>
<td>$4</td>
<td>$4</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Radio Corporation</td>
<td>$2,490</td>
<td>$40</td>
<td>$40</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd. &quot;A&quot;</td>
<td>$1,750</td>
<td>$55</td>
<td>$55</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd. &quot;B&quot;</td>
<td>$1,750</td>
<td>$55</td>
<td>$55</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Radio Keith Orpheum</td>
<td>$280,200</td>
<td>$33</td>
<td>$33</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

NEW YORK CURB

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Stock</th>
<th>Sales</th>
<th>High</th>
<th>Low</th>
<th>Close</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Columbia Pictures</td>
<td>$1,500</td>
<td>$1</td>
<td>$1</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd.</td>
<td>$35</td>
<td>$35</td>
<td>$35</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Film Exp.</td>
<td>$1,200</td>
<td>$2</td>
<td>$2</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd.</td>
<td>$34</td>
<td>$34</td>
<td>$34</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fox Theatres</td>
<td>$9,000</td>
<td>$75</td>
<td>$75</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd.</td>
<td>$75</td>
<td>$75</td>
<td>$75</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Loew's rts.</td>
<td>$2,000</td>
<td>$28</td>
<td>$28</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. war.</td>
<td>$18</td>
<td>$18</td>
<td>$18</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>National Seven</td>
<td>$3,000</td>
<td>$3</td>
<td>$3</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd.</td>
<td>$1</td>
<td>$1</td>
<td>$1</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Technicolor, Inc.</td>
<td>$16,000</td>
<td>$29</td>
<td>$29</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd.</td>
<td>$11</td>
<td>$11</td>
<td>$11</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>U. S. Gypsum</td>
<td>$5,600</td>
<td>$15</td>
<td>$15</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd.</td>
<td>$25</td>
<td>$25</td>
<td>$25</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Loew Talks to Group In Australia by Phone

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Arthur Loew, head of the international department of MGM, spoke to a group of delegates attending a company meeting in Sydney, Australia, over a specially arranged long-distance telephone connection a few mornings ago. The conversation lasted for 30 minutes.

1930-31 Committees of Catholic Picture Guild Named by James Ryan

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—James Ryan, president of the Catholic Motion Picture Guild, has announced appointment of the following guild committees for 1930-31: Executive, James Ryan, chairman; Johnny Hines, John J. Gain, John W. Considine, Jr., Jack Coogan, Sr., Winstead Sheehan, James W. and Joseph P. Kennedy and Edward Manning.

N. Y. Loew Chain Buys All Tiffany Chimp Comedies

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The Tiffany Talking Chimp comedies series has been booked in its entirety for the Loew New York circuit, including all the deluxe houses. Booking was arranged by Phil Meyer, in charge of the New York division for Tiffany.

The same series has also been booked for the complete group of Loew theatres in Cleveland, Washington and other key cities.
Not quite as bad as it looks, although we're not the least bit sorry that we're not the patient. Looks like more of an experiment to us than an operation, but being a subject for that — well, anyhow, Ellen McCarthy, ZaSu Pitts and Hedda Hopper try a little of their new knowledge of surgery on Helen Jerome Eddy between scenes of Edgar Selwyn's picture, entitled "War Nurse," at M.G.M's studio.

We wonder what disturbed this gentleman as he sat reading, possibly at his fireside? Lawrence Grant as he appears in Universal's thriller, "The Cat Creeps." Rupert Julian wielded the megaphone during the shooting of the film.

Two ragged little love birds, one all set to protect his sweetheart against all odds. Phillips Holmes and charming Helen Twelvetrees make a most romantic pair in forthcoming Pathe picture, which goes under the title of "Her Man."

Forty years after! Otis Harlan and George Marion discovered an old show poster which served in Warner Brother's "Barber John's Boy," the temporary title. The poster turned out to be one for the old Thatcher, Primrose and West's Minstrels, in which both Harlan and Marion played when that blackface show was in its prime and going strong. They tell some of the episodes to Allan Dwan.
Doug, Jr., and his Dad (we hardly need to mention the last name) are a mighty fine looking pair of gentlemen in their golfing togs. Doug, Jr., will be seen in his latest film for First National, the title of which is "Little Caesar."

James Hall, "geared" up for Warners "Maybe It's Love." Below, Mary Doran, playing heroine for William Haines in MGM's "Remote Control."

Little Dorothy De Borba and Wheezer are very much interested in the story which Grandma (Margaret Mann) is telling them. They all appear in the latest Hal Roach-MGM comedy of Our Gang, "Helping Grandma."

Indian and White Man heap big friends, so it seems. And what do you think of the feather head-dress? It certainly is a beauty, fitting to be worn by a redskin chief. Here is Tim McCoy, the male lead in Universal's serial, "The Indians Are Coming," shaking hands with Chief Thunderbird, who has an important role in the picture. "The Indians Are Coming" to Broadway soon at the Roxy theatre.

Getting a hearty shove up the ladder of fame, Olsen and Johnson, stars of Warner Brothers "Oh, Sailor, Behave," being assisted up the "ladder" by Al Dubin and Joe Burke, who prepared the melodies and songs for this production.
See Big Improvement in New Process for Wide Screen Use

Laboratory Device Attached to Projecting Machine Said to Possess Ordinary Negative with No Graininess or Sacrifice of Quality—Invented by Ernest Stern

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Results of a newly invented processing method for the showing of films on a wide screen was exhibited this week at the Paramount theatre at a private showing attended by officials and producing company engineers.

One-half reel of regular 35 millimeter film was shown on a screen 27½ by 40 feet in size. It was explained by means of subtitles that heretofore it has been impossible to take 35 millimeter film and enlarge it to a proportion as in the demonstration at the Paramount without sacrificing the quality of the picture and exhibiting the graininess of the film.

Attached to Printing Machine

With the new system, which was invented by Ernest Stern, it is possible to take ordinary negative by a woman, which is divided among the audience representatives of practically every producing company as well as engineers from RCA and Western Electric.

Call Improvement Remarkable

Several observers, in commenting on the demonstration, said that the processed film did show a remarkable increase in quality over ordinary negative heretofore shown on the wide screen.

It is generally conceded that the use of wide film is of very great value in the showing of pictures from the exhibitors' point of view as well as the public; and it must add to the effectiveness of many types of productions not only in widening the scope of the medium but also in means of attaining unusual scenic effects.

The principal obstacle in the way of general use of wide film, however, has been the high cost to the exhibitor, which in the case of the small theatre owner in particular, has made it impracticable at the present time because of the expense incurred in sound installation. Special projection machines are necessary to run wide film, and the average exhibitor is not able to afford the addition to his overhead expense.

Such a development as has just been demonstrated, if proved practical, would bring the medium of the wide film pictures within the financial range of all exhibitors, large or small, it is said.

H. M. Warner Believes

“Illusion” Is the Basic Law in Making Films

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—H. M. Warner, president of Warner Brothers, who, when asked what, in his opinion, was the basic law in pictures, a question that has been discussed and is being discussed at various times by critics of motion pictures, said:

“If I were asked for my honest-to-goodness attitude on fundamental law of pictures that might be termed basic for motion pictures, I would do so in one word. The word is illusion. Under that heading comes everything that the experts and the theorists of dramaturgy and movie technique elaborate: construction, unity, character drawing. Illusion must shed its glamour over every picture whether of realistic or fantastic tenor. Let it have illusion and it is a fine picture; let it be without it, and it is ready for the scrap-heap, no matter how well-constructed it be.”

Proceeds of Dinner in Cartoonist’s Honor to Be Given to Charities

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The net proceeds of the dinner to be given as a testimonial to Harry Hershfield, cartoonist, on October 11, in honor of his birthday, will be divided among the following charitable organizations: Catholic Actors’ Guild, Episcopal Theatrical Guild, Jewish Theatrical Guild of New York, the N. V. A., and the Actors’ Fund of America.

Harry Reichenbach will officiate as toastmaster.

Two-Way Television to Be Featured of Meeting of SMPE October 20-23

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—A demonstration of two-way television by the Bell Telephone laboratories will be one of the features of the fall meeting of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers to be held at the Pennsylvania Hotel, October 20-23, according to the program committee.
SAN FRANCISCO ZONING

ZONE 2 (Mission District)—El Capitán theatre— Key 2a, New Mission—Key 2a, Rialto—Key 2a, Ma. jestic, Gaiety, Roosevelt, Palmer, Castron Courtland, Lux, Shamrock.

ZONE 3 (Fillmore District)—New Fillmore thea. tre—Key 3a, American, Haight, Riviera, Princess, Regent, Plaza, Temple, Harry, Uptown.

ZONE 4 (Richmond District)—Coliseum theatre— Key 4a, New Vaudeville, etc., Key 4b, Lincoln.

ZONE 5 (Polk Street District)—Alhambra theatre— Key 5a, Royal—Key 5a, Metropolis, Marina, Larkin.

ZONE 6 (North Beach District)—Milo theatre, Veed, Broadway, Acme, Kear.

ZONE 7 (Excelsior District)—Excelsior theatre, Stato, Daly City, Amazon, Colma.

ZONE 8 (West of Twin Peaks District)—Irving theatre, Tokyo, Victoria, Versailles, Key 8a, Balboa, Key 8b.

ZONE 9 (Potrero District)—Avenue theatre, Bay. shore, Bayview, New Potrero.

Any theatre in Zone 1, 2, 5 inclusive, designated as a key house, which is sold second-run in San Francisco, may commence exhibition not less than 47 days after first-run; and complete exhibition not less than 70 days after first-run closing. In the same zones key houses other than the limit exhibition, shall not operate more than 75 and 87 days; first-runs in Zones 6, 7, 8, 9, or second-runs in Zones 2, 3, 5, and the following theatres, New Balboa, Balboa, West Portal and Roosevelt, and charging not less than 30 cents, 88 and 99 days; any houses in 2 to 9 not specified in foregoing, and any 30, 100 and 110 days; any house averaging 25 cents or more matinee and night, 120 and 140 days; all others charging 25 cents at night, 140 and 161 days; not less than 20 cents, 200 and 221 days; less than 20 cents, nine and ten months.

San Francisco first-runs shall have 7 days clearance over all houses in counties of San Mateo, Santa Clara (except San Jose first-run), Marin and Sonoma, provided first-run showing within 30 days after national release.

OAKLAND—Any house sold first-run may start exhibition 14 days after San Francisco first-run; and complete exhibition charging 35 cents or more, may start not less than 45 days after Oakland first-run and shall complete exhibition not less than 70 days after Oakland first-run; second-runs in zones 1, 2, 3, 4 charging not less than 30 cents, 60 and 74 days; other houses in 2, 3, 4 charging 30 cents, 75 and 89 days; zone 1, 30 cents, 90 and 100 days; all 25 cents, 100 and 110 days; 20 cents, 130 and 140 days; less than 20 cents, nine to ten months.

BERKELEY—First runs charging not less than 50 cents, 421 days after Oakland first-run; charging 40 cents and 14 and 28 days; all houses, 35 cents, 60 and 74 days; 30 cents, 75 and 98 days; 25 cents, 100 and 110 days; 20 cents, 130 and 140 days; less than 20 cents, nine and ten months.

ALAMEDA—First runs, 30 and 44 days after Oakland first-run; 30 cents admission, 75 and 89 days; 30 cents, 100 and 110 days; 20 cents, 130 and 140 days; less than 20 cents, nine and ten months.

ALAMEDA AND CONTRA COSTA COUNTIES—All other houses in Alameda and Contra Costa counties may start exhibition 7 days after Oakland first-run closing.

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO—First runs charging not less than 30 cents may show not less than 74 days after first-run and shall complete exhibition within 74 days; 25 cents, 81 and 95 days; 20 cents, 135 and 156 days; less than 20 cents, nine and ten months.

BURLINGTON—First runs, 30 cents, not less than 56 days after San Francisco first-run, showing and completing within 74 days; 25 cents, 81 and 95 days; 20 cents, 135 and 156 days; less than 20 cents, nine and ten months.

BURLINGTON—First runs, 7 and 28 days after San Francisco showing; second-runs, 35 cents, 60 and 74 after Burlington first-run; second-runs, 30 cents, 90 and 100 days; less than 20 cents, nine and ten months.

SANTA ROSA—First runs, 30 cents, not less than 56 days after San Francisco first-run, 30 days over Sebastopol, provided completion 45 days after San Francisco first-run; 30 cents, 90 and 100 days; after San Rosa first-run; 30 cents, 75 and 89 days; 25 cents, 90 and 100 days; 20 cents, 120 and 130 days; less than 20 cents, nine and ten months.

NEW PORTERVILLE—First runs sold to play ahead of Burlington, 7 and 28 days after San Francisco; first-runs to play after Burlington may start at once and complete exhibition within 74 days.

REDWOOD CITY—First runs, 7 and 28 days after San Francisco.

PALO ALTO—First runs, 7 and 28 days after San Francisco; Mayfield, Menlo Park or Palo Alto sold second-run charging 35 cents, 60 and 74 after Palo Alto first-run; second-runs, 35 cents, 90 and 100 days; 20 cents, 120 and 130 days; less than 20 cents, nine and ten months.

SAN JOSE—First house protection over all houses within 30 miles, Palo Alto and others hereinafter specified, and shall play ahead of any other house in the Santa Clara Valley from Palo Alto to Barcelona—cluding King City, provided starting within 14 days after San Francisco first-run; San Jose second-runs, 35 cents, 60 and 74 days after San Jose first-run; second-run 30 cents, 75 and 89 days; all 30 cents, 90 and 104 days; 25 cents, 105 and 115 days; 20 cents, 120 and 130 days; less than 20 cents, nine and ten months.

BAY DISTRICT ZONING

ZONE I (Oakland District)—Fox theatre, T. D. Orphen, State, Century, Broadway, Hippodrome, Regent, Imperial, etc., all in Oakland.

ZONE II (Oakland District)—Chimes—Key 2, Sen. agor—Key a, Grand Lake—Key a, New Piccadilly, Rialto, Plaza, Hollywood, Parkway, all in Oakland, California.

ZONE III (Oakland District)—Central, Acme, Key a, Fairfax, Capitol, Dimond, Alameda, Palace, Golden Gate, Menlo, Home, Grand, Oakland, Palace, San Leandro, Hayward, Hayward.

ZONE IV (Oakland District)—Lincoln, Asian, Gold Rose, all in Oakland.

ZONE V (Oakland District)—Campus, U. C. Fom, Oaks, Rovil, Lorin, Strand, all in Berkeley; Golden State.

ZONE VI (Alameda District)—Strand, Lincoln, Nevada, Alhambra.

SANTA CLARA—First runs, 30 cents, and 44 days after San Jose; 25 cents, 74 and 89 days.

SALINAS—First-run, 30, 44 and 44 days after San Jose; 25 cents, 74 and 89 days.

SANTOS—First-run, 30, 44 and 44 days after San Francisco first-run; 35 cents, 75 and 89 days; second-runs, 30 cents, 90 and 104 days; 25 cents, 120 and 134 days; 20 cents, 140 and 160 days; less than 20 cents, nine and ten months.

WATSONVILLE—First run, 30 and 60 days after San Francisco; 25, 75 and 89 days after Watsonville first-run; 30 cents, 90 and 104 days; 25 cents, 120 and 134 days; 20 cents, 140 and 160 days; less than 20 cents, nine and ten months.

Maurice—Second-runs, 80 days after San Francisco; 25, 75 and 89 days; 20 cents, 120 and 130 days; less than 20 cents, nine and ten months.

WAUCONDA—Second-runs, 80 days after San Francisco; 25, 75 and 89 days; 20 cents, 120 and 130 days; less than 20 cents, nine and ten months.

WOODLAND—Second-runs, 80 days after San Francisco; 25, 75 and 89 days; 20 cents, 120 and 130 days; less than 20 cents, nine and ten months.

SAN MATEO—First runs, 30 cents, 75 and 89 days; 25 cents, 90 and 100 days; 20 cents, 120 and 130 days; less than 20 cents, nine and ten months.

MODESTO—First-run, 30 and 60 days after San Francisco first-run; 35 cents, 75 and 89 days; 25, 75 and 89 days; 20 cents, 120 and 130 days; less than 20 cents, nine and ten months.

HANFORD—Any house charging not less than 35 cents, 60 and 74 after Hanford first-run; 30 cents, 75 and 89 days; 25 cents, 90 and 100 days; 20 cents, 120 and 130 days; less than 20 cents, nine and ten months.

MONTEREY—Monterey shall have the privilege of exhibition 14 days ahead of Pacific Grove and Carmel, provided complete within 30 days after San Francisco first-run.

PETALUMA—First run, 30 and 60 days after Petaluma first-run; 35 cents, 60 and 74 days after Petaluma first-run; 30 cents, 75 and 89 days; 25 cents, 90 and 130 days; 20 cents, 120 and 130 days; less than 20 cents, nine and ten months.

PORTERVILLE—Any house charging not less than 35 cents, 60 and 74 after Porterville first-run; 30 cents, 75 and 89 days; 25 cents, 90 and 100 days; 20 cents, (Continued on page 26, column 3)
Protests Move Ohio Censors To Lift Ban on "The Big House"

Board Does an About Face After Announcing 10 Days Ago It Positively Would Not—MPTO Official Given Much of Credit—Exhibitors Ready for Big B. O.

(Special to the Herald-World)

COLUMBUS, Oct. 2.—Succumbing to a wave of public protest that has surged in upon the Ohio board of censors ever since it banned M G M's picture, "The Big House," from showing in the state three months ago, the film court has practically been forced to reverse its decision and permit exhibition of the picture.

The official verdict to drop the bars came September 20. Ten days earlier it was announced, just as officially, that the ban positively would not be removed.

Many credit P. J. Wood, business manager of the Ohio MPTO, with a large part in the movement that resulted in a reversal of decision. He made a sort of political issue of the affair in Columbus. The Democratic party subsequently took it up as a state issue in the governor's race.

Said It Affected Morals

The censors have heretofore steadfastly maintained that "The Big House" depicted too strongly the menace of overcrowded prisons and that it cast an unfavorable light upon state officials. The opinion was also advanced that it was detrimental to the morals of Ohio youth.

In passing the picture, Dr. J. L. Clifton, state director of education, under whose jurisdiction the censor board functions, gave out the following statement:

"The Big House" was presented to the Ohio film censor board for censoring several months ago. It was held up at that time because a doubt existed in the minds of the board members as to the merits of the picture.

"Although that doubt still exists to a certain extent, the board has now come to the conclusion that, on account of what seems to be a state-wide demand for his picture which has arisen, it should take into consideration the will of the people and release the picture for showing. This is in keeping with the action of other states. Therefore the board of film censors has considered its action and has today approved "The Big House."

Exhibitors Expect Big Business

Exhibitors throughout the state are now making preparations to show the film at advanced prices, and it is predicted that all houses will do capacity business. Several years ago an identical occurrence took place in connection with "The Birth of a Nation." The picture was first suppressed and later released, with tremendous results at the box office.

So it appears that the suppression action, rather than harm the exhibitors, will prove a large financial benefit. It has been a big exploitation campaign at no cost whatever to the showman.

The first Ohio showing of "The Big House" will be in Akron October 4. On October 11, it will open at Lowe houses in Columbus, Cleveland, Dayton and Canton.

Film Made Evidence in Jersey City Injury Suit

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—A novel use of the motion picture was illustrated in a court room in Jersey City recently. Suit had been brought on behalf of a boy injured by an automobile. The short film, showing the boy at play on two occasions since the accident, was exhibited by the defense, "for purposes of illustration."

Despite the motion picture evidence, however, the jury awarded $15,000 damages to the boy.

National Screen Films Trailer for Holloween

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—In connection with the special Holloween matinees and evening performances planned by many exhibitors, National Screen Service has prepared a special trailer. A pictorial Holloween art background was selected, with four types of exploitation copy available.

Clark Silvernail, Actor And Director, Takes On

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 2.—Clark Silvernail, "stormy petrel" of the Equity-Producers battle last year, died here after several months illness.

He was a writer, actor and director.

Radio to Make All Release Prints on Coast at a New Million Dollar Plant

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 2.—A million dollar addition to Southern California's industry was announced yesterday by RKO. Within thirty days ground will be broken for a film laboratory which will be one of the most modern plants in the world. Announcing it was made by Joseph I. Schnitzer, president of Radio Pictures, on his arrival here.

Schnitzer and William LeBaron, vice president in charge of production, are inspecting six sites near the company's studios and will select one.

LeBaron said that Frank Garbutt, widely known laboratory expert, will supervise the building and take charge of operation of the laboratory. Employment will be given to 150 to 175.

Most significant is the revelation that all RKO release prints will be made on the West Coast. Virtually all such prints of all producing companies are now made in New York. The laboratory will have a normal capacity of sixty million feet of film a year. It is expected that the laboratory will care for some of the 34 features on this year's program.
Showman-Mayor Calls Censor Session
As Ministers Present Petition

Mayor Baker of Portland Wants Everything Brought Out in the Open—Paper Raps Censors—Churchmen Endorse Hudson Bill
(Special to the Herald-World)

PORTLAND, ORE., Oct. 2.—Mayor George Baker, a showman himself at one time, has called a meeting with the leading members of the Portland Ministerial Association to discuss censorship, and also stated that he desired everything to be brought out in the open and that if anything was found to be radically wrong with the present method of censoring motion pictures, he wanted to know it.

This meeting was called as a result of a petition bearing the names of 10,000 persons, or, as Mayor Baker put it, enough intellect or ability, or whatever it is that censors are supposed to possess, to determine honestly and soundly what is adequate for all of us. The Mayor believes that the people have a right to decide for themselves, and that no person, or group, or fanatics, has any right to censorship, or any censorship whatever, as it is anti-American. It violates the very spirit of the American system. And when a group of people is to take himself seriously as such, then censorship becomes hideous.

Group Indorses Hudson Bill
(Special to the Herald-World)

SOMERSET, KY., Oct. 2.—At the annual convention of the Disciples of Christ in Kentucky, held recently, it was declared that this church wields a powerful influence for good or evil, and it was also declared that such amusements should be kept free from suggestion of evil. The Hudson Bill, which is now up in Congress, and which, it was contended, struck at the root of the motion picture evil, was heartily endorsed.

MGM Plans for French
Versions of Two Films
(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Plans for making French versions of "Let Us Be Gay" and
"Call of the Flesh" have been announced by the studio. The films will be produced as well as act in the French version of the former, while Ramon Novarro will handle "Call of the Flesh." In commenting on the new French production, Novarro will begin work on "Daybreak," his new starring film adapted from Schmitzler's novel of the same name, with music by Ascar Straun.

New Rules Are Operating Now Despite Saperstein's Group, Says Pettijohn

plans, which are understood to be as follows:
1. Sixty days protection for all first-run houses (sponsored chiefly by Publix).
2. Forty-five days protection on all initial second-run houses, and all subsequent run in the same zone. This is said to have the backing of United Theatres, Inc., though the general wording of this organization does not make anything part in any protection conference.
3. Thirty days protection on all first-runs, and 15 days on all second-runs in the same zone (presented by the Louisiana Allied Association of Motion Picture Exhibitors).
4. No confirmation of these plans could be obtained at the New Orleans Film Board, that office referring all inquiries to the Hays office in New York.

New Committee Named
It is stated by the Louisiana Allied Association that it will not accept a proposal to restrict pictures shown at ten cents to those available six months after a first-run showing.
The only objection raised at the San Francisco meeting referred to the membership of the standing committee. In response to this demand, the following standing committee was named:
Carol Nathan, H. V. Harvey, C. C. Griffin and Gerald Hardy, representing the Independent Theatre Owners of Northern California;
William Wolf, R K.O. M. E. Cory, Palhe;
J. J. Patridge, Paramount; and Morgan Walsh, Warner Bros., representing all of those companies; and A. M. Bowles, Charles Koer-er, Louis R. Greenfield and Robert A. Mc-Nell, representing the Allied Amusement exhibitors, of which includes the large circuit houses and several independent theatres. From this standing committee a continuing committee is to be selected.
It is understood that upon the attainment of sufficient approval to place a formal plan in effect in Chicago, this continuing committee will also approve it for the territory.

Protection for Benefit of Small Exhibitor: Pettijohn
(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Protection is for the benefit of the small exhibitor, "and when Allied or any other organization backs it that organization is hurting its own members," said C. C. Pettijohn, chief counsel for Saperstein Film Company, in commenting on the situating on general and on the latest developments in Chicago.

The new protection regulations are functional right today in Chicago regardless of the opposition by Saperstein and his organization (Illinois Independent Exhibitors Association, affiliated with Allied States).

"Saperstein is a member of the sustaining committee and he has the same privilege of appeal as do the other members. If he believes that one of the members of his organization is not getting a fair deal in the matter of protection he can carry the case to the committee.

"If the exhibitors who are condemning the new protection regulations it is because they had the best of the deal previously and it will be better than them on a fair basis with every other exhibitor, whether large or small.

"Every exhibitor, through his representative, has had a voice in drafting the new regulations and for that reason they are equitable to all."

Zoning System for New Orleans Area

The New Orleans zoning system provided is as follows:
Zone C-1—Newcomb, Wonderland, Lyceum and Lafayette theatres, with Lyceum and Lafayette regarded as in the same drawing area with the Isis.
Zone S-1—Arcade, Rivoli, Imperial, Bell.
Arcade, and Progressive, same drawing area.
Zone S-2—Capitol, Casino, Harlequin. Casino and Gaiety, same draw.
Zone S-3—Dreamland, Famous, Avenue,
Valentine, Gaiety, Ivy, Avenue and Piety.
Gaiety and Casino, same draw.
Zone S-4—Piety, Bijou, Dream, Roseland.
Piety and Avenue, same draw.
Zone S-5—Carrollton, Cortez. Cortez and Escorial, same draw.
Zone S-6—Escorial, Queen, Progressive.
Escorial and Cortez, Progressive and Arcade, same draw.
Zone S-7—Polpar, Ashton, Roxy. Poplar and Mecca, same draw.
Zone S-8—Mecca, Lyceum.
Zone S-9—Pettijohn, Zone S-10—Napoleon, Laurel. Laurel and
U. S., same draw.
Zone S-11—Arts.
Zone S-12—Tivoli, Lincoln. Lincoln and Granada, same draw.
Washington and Granada, Happy Hour and Couriel, same draw.
Zone S-14—Granada, Coliseum, Isis. Coli-sium and Lafayette, same draw.
Zone S-15—Fortier’s Dream, St. Maurice.
Zone S-16—Gentilly, Peacock.
Zone S-17—Village Movies.
Zone S-18—Towns of Algiers, Gretna, Mc-Donoughville.

SAN FRANCISCO PLAN

(San Francisco Plan)

MARRYVILLE—Any first-run charging not less than 50 cents, 30 and 60 days after San Francisco first-run; 30 days clearance over Yuba City provide 30 and 60 days after San Francisco first-run.

Any house charging not less than 35 cents, and 74 days after first-run; 20 cents, 75 and 89 days; 25 cents. 90 and 100 days; 20, 120 and 130 days; less than 20 cents, nine and ten months.

RENO, NEVADA—First-run charging not less than 50 cents, immediately after San Francisco first-run closing, and 30 days

Sono Art Gets Rights
To Gainsborough Film
(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—American distribution rights to “The Charge of the Light Brigade” have been acquired by Sono Art-World Wide. The film is a Gainsborough production based on the classic by Alfred Lord Tennyson. It was made under the supervision of the British war office, and will be released as a special.

It's here! Released by United Artists! The living, breathing, talking, singing, dancing 1930 model of "WHOOPPEE"—one of Ziegfeld's greatest stage knockouts.

This is another all-Technicolor laugh carnival. With all the delicious side dishes that a full-fledged "it" cast, Florenz Ziegfeld, and—natural color—can serve.

Schedule "WHOOPPEE." Feature it. ADVERTISE it! For here's a picture that means box-office if any picture ever did.

a box office natural for you
CHARLES ROGERS, NANCY CARROLL, THELMA TODD, ZELMA O'NEAL and a score of others make Paramount's newest release—an ALL-Technicolor screen version of "Follow Thru"—one of the brightest B. O. stars scheduled for the current season. A tense, colorful, tingling, tuneful dish of heart-interest, served à-la-golf. An unforgettable feast!

SOME OF THE TECHNICOLOR PRODUCTIONS

BRIDE OF THE REGIMENT, with Vivienne Segal (First National); BRIGHT LIGHTS, with Dorothy Mackail (First National); DIXIANA, with Bebe Daniels (Radio Pictures); FIFTY MILLION FRENCHMEN, all-star cast (Warner Bros.); FOLLOW THRU, with Charles "Buddy" Rogers and Nancy Carroll (Paramount); GOOD NEWS, all-star cast (Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer); Technicolor Sequences; GOLDEN DAWN, with Walter Woolf and Vivienne Segal (Warner Bros.); HELL'S ANGELS, with Ben Lyon, James Hall, Jane Winton and Thelma Todd (Caddo); Technicolor Sequences; HOLD EVERYTHING, with Winnie Lightner, Georges Carpentier, and Joe E. Brown (Warner Bros.); KING OF JAZZ, starring Paul Whiteman (Universal); LEATHERNECKING, with Eddie Foy, Jr., Irene Dunne and Benny Rubin (Radio); Technicolor Sequences; LOTTERY BRIDE, with Jeanette MacDonald (United Artists); Technicolor Sequences; MAMBA, with Eleanor Boardman, Jean Hersholt and Ralph Forbes (Tiffany); PARAMOUNT ON PARADE, all-star cast (Paramount), Technicolor Sequences; SHOW GIRL IN HOLLYWOOD, with Alice White (First National), Technicolor Sequences; SONG OF THE WEST, with John Boles and Vivienne Segal (Warner Bros.); SONG OF THE FLAME, with Bernice Claire and Alexander Gray (First National); SWEET KITTY BELLAIRS, with Claudia Dell and Perry Askam (Warner Bros.); THE CUCKOOS, with Bert Wheeler, Robert Woolsey and Dorothy Lee (Radio); THE FLORODORA GIRL, starring Marion Davies (Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer), Technicolor Sequences; THE LIFE OF THE PARTY, with Winnie Lightner (Warner Bros.); THE MELODY MAN, with Alice Doy, John Sain-...
NEW PRODUCT

This department does not attempt to predict the public's reactions to pictures. It does, instead, present detailed and accurate information on product, together with the frank and honest opinion of the reporter.

AMOS 'N' ANDY
"Check and Double Check"

CHECK AND DOUBLE CHECK "is a big picture on which Radio has spent many diligent hours and it has received the painstaking treatment that was expected.

It's a story about two negroes, the Fresh Air Taxi Cab Company, Ineopulated, and Madam Queen. It is more than a radio act. It has love interest, suspense and climax.

It should be noted that the love interest and climax is not nearly so important to the picture as the comedy. It is, like others of the big comedies of the year, attempts to subordinate the plot for the sake of good hearty laughs; and it succeeds in doing so, remarkably. There was no danger of Amos and Andy losing their place of importance in the cast. And that goes despite the fact that I have regularly admired the work of Charles Morton, the juvenile lead, in other shows.

Morton incidentally is the only white character to appear in any scenes with the negroes. In each scene Melville Brown has seen it that the Africans don't their hats as he leaves.

The story of the co-stars runs more or less parallel to that of Sue Carol and Morton up to halfway in the picture. Then Morton's effort to locate papers in an unoccupied building in Harlem brings him into contact with them. From that point Amos and Andy continue to be an indispensable quotient in the solution of the plot.

The dialog is fast and effective. The picture apparently is not hurt by the fact that the negroes in the cast made no attempt to speak with a Southern accent although they were practically all of Southern birth and breeding.

The Amos and Andy dialog is as excellent as would be expected, and their pantomime appeared to please patrons of the theatre preview night as well as the dialog. Their expressions are fairly as funny as their utterances. Toward the end of the picture their excellent acting and the business given to them brings a fine piece of pathos into the show.

The balance of the cast is important. Ralf Haroldo as the menace is a good heavy. Irene Rich adds much loveliness to the picture. Sue Carol is herself; she has very little to do, but does it charmingly. Edward Martindel is an able father again.

It's one of RKO's best productions to date and it's packed with laughs.—Douglas Hodges, Hollywood.

HEROES OF THE WEEK

CIRCUS CAPERS
AN AESOP SOUND FABLE  Pathè—Sound
After an endless succession of more or less stereotyped animated cartoons, Pathé has in this one a good deal of real originality, which has been the crying need of these short features. The circus comes to town, with elephants that dance and the clown who is in love with the bareback rider. Really amusing stunts follow in the big top. When the clown returns from an air journey, on which he has been propelled by means of a cannon, he lands in the dressing room of his sweetheart, to find her in another's arms. His rendering of "Laugh, Clown, Laugh" is a clever satire on the original thought behind the song, and when he spurs the sorry "girl" it is a good laugh. More animated like this one would help a great deal. Running time, 10 minutes.

THE BAD MAN

WALTER HUSTON is more than a little appealing as the jolly bandit who is in a law unto himself 'round and about the Rio Grande, in this screen adaptation of the stage play of the same name so popular a few years ago.

Huston, in a makeup featured by plastered hair, black mustache and darkened face, shows the teeth in elegant robber style, portraying the role created by Holbrook Blinn in the "legitimate" original. He is a good hearted Robin Hood, who gathers contributions at the points of several guns and enjoys immensely staying about three jumps ahead of the Rangers.

It is somewhat unfortunate that in this picture he is not given particularly able support in all instances by the supporting cast. Dorothy Revier, who has the feminine lead as the ill-treated wife of a Wall street promoter, seems to render her lines in a manner a bit too stilted to be real. James Rennie portrays the young ranch owner who is saved from the loss of his property (through the amusing efforts of Pancho

Moving slowly with their ox-drawn wagons across trackless plains, the pioneers struggled westward—scene from the Fox production of Ronald Walsh's "The Big Trail."
EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD
October 4, 1930

Lopez to be judge and jury), as though he were not altogether sure of himself.

However, the greater part of the action, which takes place at the ranch just north of the Mexican border, centers about and includes Huston, which is sufficient for anyone. Though this role is distinctly different from that in which he has recently been seen, his performance gives still further evidence of the remarkable versatility of his acting. He speaks his lines in broken English tinged with a strong flavor of Spanish, which is done without a single slip and is distinctly humorous at times.

Lopez and his band of gauchos raid the ranch with the intention of finding someone or other to hold for ransom, and incidentally to give Lopez an opportunity to abduct the girl, who, he understands, is very beautiful. The Wall street promoter is a guest at the ranch with his wife, who is in love with the young owner. A mortgage is about to be foreclosed, the demi-ter has treated his wife badly, there is a possibility of oil being found on the land, and several other complications.

Discovering unexpectedly that the unfortunate young man is an old friend, Lopez proceeds to hold court, and taking each situation in turn, iron out the difficulty in a most amusing fashion, with the idea in mind of making his friend happy. He disposes of the annoying husband, clears up the mortgage and leaves.

O. P. Heggie is at first delightful as the old uncle of the rancher, as he wheels himself about in a chair, revealing in a high pitched voice and an expression of all concern, their secret thoughts. After a time, however, he tends to become a bit monotonous.

There are many scenic views of the mountain country. Photography on the whole is satisfactory.

The film is, of course, almost entirely one-man story, but with Walter Huston as that one man, nothing more could be desired by an audience. He is a bad man who affords an hour of great entertainment.—Charles S. Astorson, New York City.

BARBER JOHN'S BOY

HERE is a delightfully different program-length film, and unusual as usual the title. Director Allan Dwan has taken every advantage of the possibilities offered in a splendid story by Ben Ames Williams and an especially capable cast, most of whom are new faces under the Warner trademark.

The unusual title of the film might indicate that it is of a comedy nature; actually there is little comedy but the story gets along splendidly. The main action involves four characters against a background of small town doings with the spoken lines rendered in Southern dialect, the story unfolds smoothly and there is a dull moment from start to finish. Phillips Holmes, as the boy, and Grant Mitchell, as Barber John, contribute excellent performances and Ira Morgan, who did such outstanding work in "Anna Christie," has a leading role and drew applause from the premiere audience. Miss Powers, feminine lead, is a new type of screen beauty and handles her role to perfection.

Partially the film is a sensitive boy and his stubborn refusal to accept his father, a prison barber, on the latter's pardon from the big house after eighteen years. A bank shortcrate implicates the boy and each assumes the other's guilt. Both are innocent.

The camera work and sound are excellent.—Tom Hacker, Hollywood.

DIRECTOR-HERO

MADAME SATAN

Cecil B. De Mille, with his conception of the fantastic, produced spectacular effects in this ultra-smart and excellently staged comedy features of husbands and wives and wild Zeppelin parties. It is as bizarre and as extravagant as the imagination would permit with elaborate settings and doings of New York's multi-millionaires. A spectacular masked ball, on board a giant airship, forms a highly imaginative background for a large share of the action.

There is more spectacle than story to Madame Satan." DeMille has taken the familiar domestic triangle plot and very cleverly illustrates how a modern neglected wife competes with her showgirl rival to recoup the love of a wealthy playboy husband. The wife decides to take advantage of the Zeppelin ball and masquerades as the siren, "Madame Satan." She meets her husband, who immediately falls madly in love with the new find.

A brand new and polished Reginald Denny appears in the leading role, that of the married but sadly misunderstood playboy. Denny reveals an excellent speaking and singing voice with several appealing song numbers in which he is assisted by Kay Johnson. The songs, written by Clifford Grey and Herbert Stothart, have one especially catchy tune, that bears the name of the picture. Denny's performance was thoroughly pleasing. Lilian Roth, as the showgirl rival, is at her best in two singing and dancing numbers. Roland Young gets the most out of a weak comedy part as the slow thinking party companion to Denny.

The film is a fast moving extravaganza right up to the final fadeout. DeMille has lavishly considered every minute detail of production, even to the most prominent names, but there is only a glimpse of them among the wild revelers of the airship party. A panic stampede as the huge ship breaks from its mooring provides thrills galore. The massive bulk splits and sends the frenzied passengers to earth in parachutes.

Helen MacPherson is again credited for the story, having been a collaborator with DeMille on many or practically all of his past successes. The photography, sound and costumes are excellent and the whole piece of work is, excellent entertainment.—Tom Hacker, Hollywood.

HER MAN

A ROUGH and tumble story—set in a dance hall in Havana—and packed with action from start to finish, is "Her Man." The romantic interest is there, of course, but most of the punch in the film is the knock-down and drag-out tangles of most of the sailor boys who frequent the hall. The concluding sequence of the picture offers one of the fastest and most exciting brawls that could well be imagined on any screen. Men, tables and chairs fly about in all directions, the whole scene making a decidedly fitting climax to a real action film.

Helen Twelvetrees plays the feminine lead in a cast which shies with star names. She takes the role of the girl who has been born and raised in the atmosphere of the cheap dance hall but who has a deep desire to live decently, as ordinary people do. She is most excellent in her part and in every bit of her cast has been eminently well chosen. Ricardo Cortez is the owner of the hall and Helen's boss. As an unscrupulous and concealed water front leader he does very well.

Perhaps the best piece of work in the film is that of Marjorie Rambeau as Annie, a woman who has made her living in the hall for so long a time that she has become merely a drunkard. The role is a difficult one but she handles it with perfect ease and a conviction of reality which is commendable.

The story itself is really not particularly new. We have the young girl with a desire for a better life and the sailor who offers her the opportunity which she has so long awaited. Mathew Betz and Phillips Holmes, who is the second half of the romance, stage their battle for the girl, with the girl remaining as usual.

Practically the entire picture is filmed within the dance hall or in the street outside. James Gleason and Harry Sweet, as buddies of the sailor hero, afford excellent comedy relief, several of their bits being extremely funny. Thelma Todd, often seen in comedy roles, has a minor part as one of the women of the water front, and she is quite attractive. Matthew Betz appears as an enemy of Cortez who receives a little gift from the latter in the form of a knife in the back, skillfully used in the film to indicate the character of Cortez.

Direction of the picture is good, particularly in the manner in which the action has been kept moving. A fast pace with every effort made to have each sequence contribute something to the pace of the story. A neat method of disposing of the villain of the piece is contrived at the end. Cortez, in the course of his fight with Phillips Holmes hurls a knife which sticks through a door, protruding several inches on the other side. Cortez is thrown back against the door, stabbing himself with his own knife, while Helen and her sailor man make a quick escape through a window.

This picture is an excellent example of the extent to which the addition of talking and sound will enhance the effectiveness of a film.
of this sort. The same type of thing has been done before on the silent screen but with not nearly as much punch as "Her Man" is able to offer to the picture public.—Charles S. Aaronson, New York City.

THE STEEL HIGHWAY

WHEN Warner Brothers titled this product "The Steel Highway" they planned to make a railroad story, but "The Steel Highway" is a powerful domestic drama, gripping from start to finish, with the railroad merely a background. It is a drama of great power, highly interesting and fascinating.

Mary Astor reveals herself as an actress and Grant Withers is just as strong in his role. Regis Toomey, who can laugh and at the same time give a catch in the throat, does his bit in making "The Steel Highway" one of the best railroad pictures of all time.

Massed in the picture, to begin with, a strong plot. With this to work on, Wellman has made a real production, and Miss Astor, Withers and Toomey follow through with their performances.

The railroad is made an indigenous element of the story only inasmuch as Toomey makes use of a train during a flood for a death trip. His suicide follows his discovery that his best friend, Withers, has found himself in love with Toomey's wife. The love affair proves to be the motive for Toomey to forgo his career of drinking and idling. It is all convincingly constructed.

While there are others in the cast, they, like the engines and the cars, provide the background for the story.

The camera work is good, and so is the sound. The picture is made real by the extraordinary natures of locomotives and such, even if they make the dialog hard to catch at times.

YOUNG WOODY

ENGLISH THEATRE'S FIRST! Produced and distributed by Elstree Brothers. Direction and Scenario, by Thomas Bentley. Dialog by John Van Druten. Based on the play by John Van Druten. Scenario by Frances Goodrich and Claire Friese-Greene. With Madeleine Carroll, Sam Livesey, Aubrey Mather, Billy Milton, Gerald Readinm, John Teed, Tony Hall, Penny Hollen, Frank Lawton.

DECIDEDLY able direction and an excellent cast are the conspicuous features of this, the opening picture at the Cohan theatre, leased by British International Pictures for the showing of English films on Broadway. Frank Lawton, who, it is understood, has been less than two years before the camera, handles the role of the young schoolboy, which was created by Glenn Hunter on the stage, with a naturalness and ease worthy of any actor.

John Van Druten, author of the original stage play, wrote the dialog for the screen version and did a most satisfactory piece of work. Direction is particularly commendable in that the film holds the interest closely throughout, despite the fact that the action is psychological rather than physical. The entire picture is the ring of authenticity about it, from the scenes of the school buildings and grounds to an interesting shot of a cricket match in progress. The latter, incidentally, provides well spaced relief from the dramatic intensity of the story.

The recording throughout is very clear (though in one or two instances the voices were a trifle too loud, a condition easily remedied). Though a bit out of the ordinary in that it is a psychological study of an individual, "Young Wooley" must rank as a really fine production.—Charles S. Aaronson, New York City.

DIVORCE AMONG FRIENDS

FOUR characters—James Hall as the bossy husband, Irene Delroy as the obedient but suspicious wife, Natalie Moorhead as the lure for Hall, and Lew Cody as the drunken friend of Miss Delroy—make "Divorce Among Friends," laughable, interesting and filled with good advice to young married folk.

For those who like domestic comedies which skirt along the edge of tragedy and through their very exaggeration reveal how husbands and wives should not act toward one another, the product is packed with interest from beginning to end.

There is considerable dialog—perhaps a little too much for those who are partial to action—but it is clever and well done by the four leading characters.

While Miss Delroy, Miss Moorhead and Hall are uniformly good, the veteran Cody practically takes over the picture. He displays a fine art as a comic and, in addition to this, reveals himself as an exceptionally clever actor—not that most theatre goes think he isn't. He improves with the years.

His piano playing is exceptionally good—a background for three or four domestic sequences. He, as the "drunk," fits his music to the moods of Hall and Miss Delroy, and this, as an overture, adds to the atmosphere. His intoxication is as near genuine in interpretation as anything which we have seen on the screen.

The action is slow, and I felt I wanted to get behind and push now and then.

The story involves the misunderstandings of Hall and Miss Delroy after two years of marriage. Miss Moorhead steps into the picture at the wrong time for everyone but herself, for the husband and wife have just had a spat. She makes Hall the unwilling victim of her advances. Cody also marches into the picture at about this time but fails to win Miss Delroy.

Cameras work is good and the recording is above par.

An orchestra plays throughout the picture. The musical score blends so well with the emotions which are being depicted on the screen.
screen that it in no way intrudes but, on the other hand, enhances and stimulates the action.

Most of the situations, as well as the acting, are good for laughs, especially when Miss Delroy and George Reynolds get into the back seat of an automobile in which Miss Moorehead has insisted that Hall take her for a ride. The four get stuck in the mud and are robbed. At this point, they learn for the first time that all are in the car. Clever direction and dialog make even the rain, the stalled car and the robbery a laugh.—Edward Churchill, Hollywood.

LOVE IN THE ROUGH

Release, September 6, 1930. Footage, 7688. Running time, 1 hour 15 minutes.

THE musical numbers in “Love in the Rough” are good, but the picture itself falls short of good musical entertainment.

The fault does not lie with the actors. Rather, it is the same as in so many stories and the manner in which it has been presented as film entertainment.

In the opinion of some exhibitors, however, the popularity of the songs, principally “Go Home and Tell Your Mother,” will give the picture a draw and contribute to audience satisfaction.

Other songs include “I’m Learning a Lot from You,” “I’m Doing That Thing” and “One More Waltz.”

The story is of the golf links and this angle should not be overlooked in the exploitation of the picture. Every community, large or small, has its golf enthusiasts and these people should be sold on the picture.

Benny Rubin provides the comedy. He has done well by his role, although some of his material has been brought in without regard for continuity.

Both of the principals, Robert Montgomery and Dorothy Jordan, are excellent and have very pleasing stage voices. J. C. Nugent, likewise, can be credited with a finished portrayal.

As a whole, however, the picture is not up to standard.—Jay M. Shrech, New York City.

THE PAY OFF

LOWELL SHERMAN’S newly born career as a director-star is blossoming well; it is evidenced by his conscientious and productive efforts in “The Pay Off.” It is a screen picture that shows him off to good advantage. He is more or less of a Robin Hood but nevertheless a villain.

The picture being what it is,—a good program length feature—not a great deal is expected in the way of astonishing sets, shots and acting. Yet it boasts of ingenuity in all these items.

It has a fine strength of story from the point where the two youngsters are taken, in highway robbery style at the outset to the point where they become charged with manslaughter in the closing sequences. Although Janney and Nixon are not stars in the production their roles are extremely important and they succeed in winning the sympathy of the audience at least. The picture later envelopes Sherman too when he throws aside his menacing role and signs away his life to save the two friends.

Sets are not numerous; but where one set may have been saved there is richness put into the remaining one. The place where much of the business is carried on is that of a night club. It is a beautiful thing.

Much credit is due the cast and the director, chiefly because the actors have revealed sensibility with which they have worked.

The scene between Sherman and Alan Rosco near the finish has the structure of many crime pictures; one is a conviction, the other an arrest. Yet the scene is interestingly convincingly. Nixon and Janney again enter that part to aid in the stage business of course.

This picture deserves at least high commendation.—Douglas Hodges, Hollywood.

THE BOUDOIR DIPLOMAT

ST. CLAIR, who has done many good pieces of satire for Paramount, is the director Universal assigned to this picture and he again displays that talent. This is not a stage play. The stage play was a much more satirical work but not more entertaining. As a stage play it was much better than as a screen play. In fact, the boudoir part of the play has been largely eliminated, and quite fortunately.

Practically the only cause for calling Ian Keith such a diplomat is that he has a propensity for hiding any one guest in the bedroom of his apartment while he entertains another in his living room. It is done quite gracefully and with a great deal of humor. All suggestiveness has been omitted.

It is the interiors of the house which do so dexterously. Keith is a little unexecuting in it, but he has many of the qualities the role demands.

Other of the cast who deport themselves creditably include Mary Duncan and Betty Compson. Andre Beranger steals every scene he appears in. Miss Lott is the girl who finally marries Keith but her scenes in the show are very few.

It is a good program picture.—Douglas Hodges, Hollywood.

HER WEDDING NIGHT

ADAPTED from the stage show, “Little Miss Bluehearth,” this starring vehicle of Clara Bow is distinctly farce comedy, which in certain sequences borders closely upon slapstick. Charles Ruggles is the ideal butt for the jokes in the film, ably seconded by Skeets Gallagher. Neither Clara Bow nor Ralph Forbes, however, work well together, though the complicated situation in which they figure is sufficiently humorous to carry them through satisfactorily.

For the most part the film centers in and about a bedroom in a hotel in the south of France. Forbes plays the part of a composer who, in an attempt to escape a host of feminine autograph seekers, permits his friend, Gallagher, to impersonate him. Clara Bow is a window-shopper who has fixed upon a few places that all happen to be on the same train bound for a French resort. When Gallagher and Clara are on the train they apply to the mayor for a night’s lodging. Accidentally, he marries them, and the knot of complication has its first loop.

Gallagher, Bow and Forbes, who has been thus married by proxy, is much sought after by several young women. At the hotel there arises the rather familiar situation, which finally straightens itself out to the satisfaction of all concerned. Ruggles as Bertie Bird is appointed, amusingly a friend of the two, playing no vital part in the progress of the story, but as a matter of fact providing the real kick in the picture. His appearance at the end, putting up the floor of a large room, is quite a genuine surprise to the audience, which goes into spasms of laughter at each fresh series of antics on the part of the comedian. This picture is one more large feather in the cap of Charles Ruggles.

The dialog is quite as familiar as the plot of the story itself, but the gags seem to catch well with the audience, particularly with Gallagher and Ruggles put them over. The bedroom scenes reach their climax at a house party, when there is an extraordinary thing going on about in and out of rooms and jumping on and off beds. However, it is rather good fun and not all offensive.

The picture is wound up and undawed again at rather too great length, but not to the extent of becoming monotonous. In fact, one could wish with Ruggles that the story after the story is finished. This is just a good lively hour’s entertainment, chiefly through the work of one whom I consider the best comedian on the screen today.—Charles S. Aronson, New York City.

AFRICA SPEAKS

REEL after reel of excitement! That tells the story of “Africa Speaks,” which has packed them in at the Globe theatre in New York since immediately following the special showing last Thursday night (September 18).

Other wild game pictures may have been intensely interesting (and by that sound and dialog have made this type of attraction 100 per cent more effective.

“Africa Speaks” is a real motion picture, for it has been assembled with that in mind. Here is drama. Here are scenes the like of which, to the knowledge of this writer, have never been shown before.

Highlights of the picture which for sheer thrill should bring down any house are:

The killing of a lion by a lion.

The large plague in which millions upon millions of these insects denude a vast area of all green vegetation.

The great flock of flamingoes, including perhaps millions of these birds.

A lion’s search for food ending in his killing of a wart hog.

The killing of a lion with spears by a group of natives in revenge for the death of one of their own.

Photography is very clear throughout the entire length of the picture. Add to this, drama and rapid action and you have elements so necessary to box office.

This reviewer wishes to offer his criticism of just one feature of the picture. It is his opinion that scenes of Hoeffler and a comrade on the expedition have been used too frequently. This is by no means serious, but it would have been more effective had such scenes appeared less often.

It looks like box office.—Jay M. Shrech, New York City.
HOLLYWOOD

Independents Maintain Lead
In Coast Production Activity

James Cruze Completes Tiffany Special and "Aloha" Goes Into Work—First National Quiet Except for Foreign Versions—Novarro to Direct Another for M G M

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 2.—Independent production again tops the shooting schedules this week with the finishing of James Cruze's "She Got What She Wanted" and the starting of Tiffany's "Aloha." Betty Compson essays the featured role in the Cruze film and Ben Lyon has signed for Al Rogell's "Aloha," by Thomas H. Inc.

First National has shut down entirely with the exception of foreign versions in German, Spanish and French. These films are foreign talker versions of "The Bad Man," "Sinfood" and "The Sacred Flame."

Novarro to Direct Another

M G M will let Ramon Novarro direct other Spanish and French foreign versions. The star recently has completed the Spanish translation of "Call of the Flesh" and is preparing the same story in French. He both acts and directs. Upon the completion of this he will do "Daybreak," from a novel by Dr. Arthur Schnitzler.

And still they come. Universal signed Marcel de Sano and Ernest Laemmle for more foreign versions this week. The French and German talkers of "Boudeo Diplomat" will be directed by de Sano and Laemmle, respectively.

Ruth Chatterton will have Richard Wallace as her next director. Paramount's "Right to Love" will go into filming this week. It is the first that Wallace has directed since his trip around the world recently.

LeRoy Moves to M G M

Mervyn LeRoy has moved his megaphone to M G M for "Girls Together," a comedy of flapperdom based on a story by Mildred Cram. LeRoy has been borrowed from First National.

"Dracula," from the stage play, has started under Tod Browning's direction at Universal. Bela Lugosi has the leading role.

Luther Reed, who originally was slated to direct "Hook, Line and Sinker" for R K O, has been replaced by Eddie Cline. Reed is preparing to direct another big feature. The Cline film stars Bert Wheeler, Robert Woolsey and Dot Lee.

Amos and Andy Prints Go East

Negative and working prints on "Check n' Double Check" are on their way East in great style. Guarded by the stars themselves and Pardo Berman, assistant to William LeBaron, the films left here in a special observation car. New York is the destination.

Phil Ryan will produce a series of two-reel comedies starring Chester Conklin for Paramount release. Arvid Gillstrom will direct. Production will be at the Metropolitan studios.

Grant Fills Sills Post
On Academy Directorate

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 2.—Lawrence Grant has been named to serve three years representing the Actors branch on the board of directors for the Academy, in place of the late Milton Sills.

Wide Film Cost Is
$8,000 to $40,000,
Expert Estimates
65 Mm Negatives and 35 Mm Prints Will Be Result, Is Dreyer's Belief

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 2—With the wide film controversy still raging, Carl Dreyer, head of the sound department at R K O, in an exclusive interview with a Herald-World reporter, estimated that it would cost large theatres from $8,000 to $10,000 for suitable installations, and that the cost to the largest houses in the country might range from $25,000 to $40,000.

Douglas Shearer, M G M executive, estimated the national cost of wide film installations at $40,000,000.

Dreyer, however, forecast that wide film can be adopted generally in only the largest theatres of the country and is inclined to believe that the industry would adopt 65mm negatives and 35mm prints for general distribution. This would mean only an alteration of the screens in theatres showing them.

"Deluxe houses could install equipment optionally at approximately the above prices," Dreyer said. "I would say that an installation of wide film equipment in a house like the Roxy would represent an investment of between $25,000 and $40,000. Theatres in medium sized cities, with better than average seating capacity, probably would have to spend between $8,000 and $10,000.

"However, the exhibitor has nothing to worry about at this time, for there has been no decision of any kind in regard to the matter. Most of the executives with whom I have spoken favor the 65mm-35mm proposition as the logical solution to the problem, if it is technically practicable."
I DID it. It was hard, but I did it. I saw a preview. There may be somebody reading this piece who isn’t impressed—but I doubt it.

It’s not easy to see a preview. No sincere, bob. The companies keep previews very secret. The companies don’t want all the nosey critics to see the pictures before the publicity departments get in their dirty work. And if there are a bunch of hard-boiled critics in the house then the company executives can’t get a true audience reaction—because everyone knows a critic can’t laugh or cry. It’s all very complex and there are a lot of other reasons why critics must be kept out of previews, but anyway, they’re very secret.

Well, it’s a funny thing. I was telephoning a friend of mine from a drug store, and looking out of the window of the booth, when I saw a small dark man, with his hat pulled over his eyes, slink into the booth next to mine. He seemed so sly I knew he was an escaped convict, or something. So I put my ear to the wall and I listened. Finally he got his number.

"This Joe," he said. "Listen, pal, I’ve got something important to tell you. Be sure and listen hard, because I’m gonna say it only once. There’s a preview on at the Broadway in Santa Ana. Be there. Orders of the boss. Goodbye." And he ran out of the booth and into a mauve sedan, and speeded away.

By this time I was perspiring. Boy, I had fallen into something Big! So I went up to my son, Doug Hodges, and I said, "Son, I know where there’s a preview." He almost collapsed.

"A real preview? Where?"

But I was not to be cheated of my laurels that easy. No, sir. I was firm. No one would share my secret. I bid him adieu.

Santa Ana is an hour-and-a-half’s drive out of Hollywood. It was a smart company, to take all that precaution. They certainly were putting it over on the critics. I dressed myself up as Southern mammy, one of my very best disguises, and jumped into the Rolls and was off. You may think I was a little off before then, but I wasn’t.

I got there at four o’clock in the afternoon, even though the picture would start at eight, because I didn’t want any of the executives to question me. I bought a seat in the balcony and saw the feature picture three times.

Then came the preview. There was no music or scoring to it, the cuts weren’t welded together yet, some of the dialog was out of synchronization, they transposed the fourth and fifth reels, there was no ending to the picture—but it was all right. I was seeing a preview.

It was a big night for me. I knew how Doug Hodges would tell everyone how I scooped the town. How they must be envying me. I was, you might say, made.

And then the picture was over. I waited ten minutes behind a fat lady so that none of the studio spies could find me, then I proceeded up the aisle, my shawl over my head. I had got half through the lobby when someone clapped a hand on my shoulder.

"Hey, you," said the hand. I turned around. It was Hodges. "I want you to meet," he said, "Piggle of Photoplay, Wiggie of New Movie, Jiggle of Picture Play, Figgle of Classic, Miggie of Screenland, Giggle of... Help, help, the man’s fainted!"

Norman Krasna.

Cowan Confers in East
On Technical Projects
(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 2.—Lester Cowan, assistant secretary and manager of the technical bureau of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, is in New York City making arrangements for the standardization of release print practice, confering with publishers on the printing of the book, "Recording Sound for Motion Pictures," and discussing other technical projects with leaders of the industry.

He left Hollywood late in September and expects to return here some time during next month. He is making his New York residence at the Park Central Hotel.

Projection Council Meets Cowan
(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The Projection Advisory Council will hold a meeting at the Town Hall here on Monday, October 6, to meet Lester Cowan, manager of the technical bureau of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

THE final scenes of "Ex-Mistress" are being shot at Warner Brothers West Coast studios.

"Ex-Mistress" is the story of the love of a junior and a senior partner in a business firm for an actress. Lewis Stone is the senior partner. Bebe Lyon is the junior. Bebe Daniels, in private life Mrs. Ben Lyon, is the actress.

We’ve been watching the progress of shooting out at the Stage 2, one of the largest in Hollywood, on which has been built a replica of most of Monte Carlo.

Workmen wind and unwind microphone stands, which look like big cranes, and must always be over the heads or near to those who are speaking. Other workmen adjust lights. The rubber-tired wagon which carries the camera is groomed.

There is shouting and talking and a general hubbub as the men go about their tasks in preparation for the shooting.

Obvious of all the noise—unmindful of the staring of a few interloping sightseers—ignoring the extras who sprawl languidly in the imitation casino—Ben and Bebe walk through the pseudo garden.

Ben’s arm is around Bebe, and Bebe’s arm is around Ben. They stroll back and forth, laughing, speaking in low tones, waiting for the men about them to finish their tasks and for their director, Roy Del Ruth, to summon them to their work.

They separate for a moment. Bebe continues to stroll in the garden, humming happily to herself.

Ben returns from an errand, whistling. Again oblivious to all that goes on around them because they have eyes only for each other they continue their stroll.

Neither is posing.

"That’s one romance that won’t bust up," says a stagehand.

The myriad lights flash on. They are called for work. The goose-neck cranes swing above them, microphones dangling. Signals flash. Work begins.

They are playing screen lovers. They are acting.

Or, are they?

As far as love interest is concerned, "Ex-Mistress" promises to be a natural.

In or out of love, Bebe Daniels is one of the most capable women in motion pictures. She not only knows how to act, but she knows more about the industry as a whole than does probably any other woman in Hollywood.

"I get a lot of kick watching Bebe pose for still pictures," declares George Thomas. "I’ve never seen anyone work with the skill she does."

"Sometimes she has to pose for fashions. The gowns she must wear are brought to her. She slips into them, knows just how to wear them and strikes a perfect pose. She tells the photographer when to shoot."

"The prints are turned over to her later and she indicates the retouching she wants done. She never cons.

"After the prints are ‘cleaned up’ she inspects them."

"It’s my job to arrange layouts and ‘plant’ them in magazines. Bebe never gives me a chance. She takes a handful of photographs, draws a layout, and says, ‘This one will hit with such and such a magazine,’ or ‘so-and-so will go for that.’ She is invariably right.

"You can imagine what fun I get making stills for the film. Oh, those long hours with empty-headed flappers to get them to pose intelligently."

Churchill.
Mary Astor Faces Collapse
If She Attempts to Diet
(Special to the Herald-World)
HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 2.—Mary Astor, widow of Kenneth Hais, is facing one of the most peculiar problems in the history of the industry. Many a nervous system has so disorganized as the result of her plunging into work to forget her husband's airplane crash that she cannot stand dieting. At the same time she is reported to be gaining weight rapidly. Physicians declare that any attempts at reduction would result in a complete nervous breakdown.

Robert Harris Now
Associate Producer
At Columbia Studio
(Special to the Herald-World)
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Columbia has signed Robert R. Harris, former head of the M.G.M. scenario staff, as associate producer on a long term contract.

Thomas Maloney Leads “California’s All Right”
(Special to the Herald-World)
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—State Senator Thomas A. Maloney has been made general manager of the “California’s All Right” project organized to combat the daylight saving movement. The question will be ballotted upon November 4. Maloney recently concluded duties as supervisor of the federal census in this district.

Huston Gets Male Lead
In “The Criminal Code”
(Special to the Herald-World)
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Walter Huston has been awarded the leading masculine role in Columbia’s “The Criminal Code,” a picturization of the stage success of the same name. Howard Hawks is to direct the production, which is scheduled as a special. Huston is to play the part of the district attorney.

Dialog Completed for Arliss’ “Ruling Passion”
(Special to the Herald-World)
HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 2.—The dialog for George Arliss’ next Warner picture, “The Ruling Passion,” has been completed by Booth Tarkington. The film is based on the book by Earle Derr Biggers.

Chase Shooting “High C’s”
(Special to the Herald-World)
HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 2.—Charlie Chase, comedian, has started shooting “High C’s,” a two-reel comedy involving Thelma Todd and the K.M.T.R. Ranch Boys in a singing version of life in the trenches.

Wanger and Schulberg Start
Eastern Feature Work Soon
Sam Jaffe, Production Manager at Hollywood Studios, to Accompany Executives to Astoria—Three Long Productions Now
In Action—Dozen Shorts Underway at Warner’s
(Special to the Herald-World)
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—In connection with the recent decision on the part of Paramount executives to cease short subject production at the Eastern studio in Astoria until next spring, Walter W. Wanger and B. P. Schulberg are expected to leave the Coast shortly to launch the new feature production schedule here.

Wanger, general manager of the production department, and Schulberg, managing director of production, will be accompanied by Sam Jaffe, production manager at the Hollywood studios. Ernst Lubitsch, ex-

Academy Sets Annual Award of Merit Dinner
At Ambassador Nov. 5
(Special to the Herald-World)
HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 2.—The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences will hold its annual business meeting and award of merit dinner at the Ambassador hotel here on November 5. Ballots are now being distributed to Academy members asking them to select from the nominees those whom they think best deserving of the Academy statuette for 1930.

The committee on arrangements for the dinner includes Harry Rapf, Sam Hardy, Reginald Barker, Jack Warner, Robert Eileen, Al Cohn and Clinton Wunder.

Hollywood Breakfast Club Given Phonofilm
(Special to the Herald-World)
HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 2.—The Breakfast Club, widely known ham-and-egg institution here, is to be wired for sound. M. A. Schlesinger, president of General Talking Pictures, during a recent visit offered the club a DeForest Phonofilm set. The formal donation of the contracts has been made and the installation is to follow.
Herald-World’s Production Directory

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Story</th>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Chief Players</th>
<th>Brand Name</th>
<th>Starting Date</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Cimarron&quot;</td>
<td>Wesley Ruggles</td>
<td>Richard Dix</td>
<td>September 13</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Beau Ideal&quot;</td>
<td>Herbert Brenon</td>
<td>Ralph Forbes</td>
<td>September 16</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Augusta&quot;</td>
<td>Louis Wolheim</td>
<td>Louis Wolheim</td>
<td>September 16</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Hi Diddle Diddle&quot;</td>
<td>George Marshall</td>
<td>Nick &amp; Tony</td>
<td>September 18</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Heel, Line and Sinker&quot;</td>
<td>Edward Clune</td>
<td>Bert Wheeler</td>
<td>September 20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

RKO Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Story</th>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Chief Players</th>
<th>Brand Name</th>
<th>Starting Date</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>&quot;The Painted Desert&quot;</td>
<td>Howard Higin</td>
<td>Bill Boyd, Helen Twentieth Century, William Forsen, J. Farrell McDonald</td>
<td>September 5</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Fox Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Story</th>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Chief Players</th>
<th>Brand Name</th>
<th>Starting Date</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Foot First&quot;</td>
<td>Clyde Bruckman</td>
<td>Harold Lloyd</td>
<td>September 20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Tearing to G&quot;</td>
<td>Nat Ross</td>
<td>Marian Shukley</td>
<td>September 20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Charley's Aunt&quot;</td>
<td>Al Christie</td>
<td>Charlie Ruggles</td>
<td>September 20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gayety Comedy</td>
<td>Arvid Gillstrom</td>
<td>Ford Sterling</td>
<td>September 20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gayety Comedy</td>
<td>William Watson</td>
<td>Clyde Cook</td>
<td>September 20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gayety Comedy</td>
<td>Johnny Hines</td>
<td>Christie</td>
<td>September 20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Mother's Millions&quot;</td>
<td>Vic Haferper</td>
<td>May Robson</td>
<td>September 20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Aloha&quot;</td>
<td>Al Rogell</td>
<td>Raquel Terry</td>
<td>September 25</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Universal Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Story</th>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Chief Players</th>
<th>Brand Name</th>
<th>Starting Date</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Dracula&quot;</td>
<td>Tod Browning</td>
<td>Bela Lugosi, Helen Chandler</td>
<td>September 29</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Resurrection&quot;</td>
<td>Edwin Carewe</td>
<td>John Boles, Lupe Velez</td>
<td>September 22</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Cohen and Kelly in Africa&quot;</td>
<td>Vin Moore</td>
<td>George Sidney, Charles Murray</td>
<td>September 11</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Ouraine&quot;</td>
<td>Harry Carson</td>
<td>Dorothy Janis (Location)</td>
<td>September 29</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Sailor Beware&quot;</td>
<td>Ralph Cedar</td>
<td>Sam Hardy</td>
<td>September 22</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Fingerprints&quot;</td>
<td>Ray Taylor</td>
<td>Kenneth Harlan, Edna Murphy</td>
<td>September 23</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Story</th>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Chief Players</th>
<th>Brand Name</th>
<th>Starting Date</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Trader Horn&quot;</td>
<td>W. S. Van Dyke</td>
<td>Harry Carey, Edwin Booth, Duncan Renaldo</td>
<td>August 18</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;The Passion Flower&quot;</td>
<td>William Demille</td>
<td>Eddy Frank, Eddy Johnson, Lewis Stone</td>
<td>September 29</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Within the Law&quot;</td>
<td>Sam Wood</td>
<td>Joan Crawford, Eunice Montgomery, Robert Armstrong</td>
<td>September 29</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;The Great Meadow&quot;</td>
<td>Charles Brabin</td>
<td>Johnny Mack Brown, Gavin Gordon</td>
<td>September 29</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Paramount Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Story</th>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Chief Players</th>
<th>Brand Name</th>
<th>Starting Date</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>&quot;The Right to Love&quot;</td>
<td>Richard Wallace</td>
<td>Ruth Chatterton</td>
<td>September 20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Fighting Caravans&quot;</td>
<td>Brower-Knopf</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>September 20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Pathé Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Story</th>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Chief Players</th>
<th>Brand Name</th>
<th>Starting Date</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Her Hero&quot;</td>
<td>Arch Heath</td>
<td>Daphne Follard (Comedy Series)</td>
<td>September 20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Sin Takes a Holiday&quot;</td>
<td>Paul Stein</td>
<td>Kenneth McKenna, Pauline Watson, Edith叭d Bennett</td>
<td>September 4</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Columbia Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Story</th>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Chief Players</th>
<th>Brand Name</th>
<th>Starting Date</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Digible&quot;</td>
<td>Frank Capra</td>
<td>Jack Holt, Ralph Graves, Howard Cosworth</td>
<td>August 12</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Sons and Daughters&quot;</td>
<td>John Robertson</td>
<td>Evelyn Brent, Robert Ames, Josephine Warren, Noah Beery</td>
<td>September 12</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Topeka David&quot;</td>
<td>John Blystone</td>
<td>Richard Cromwell, Henry B. Watson, Jean Peers, Noah Beery</td>
<td>August 23</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Criminal Code&quot;</td>
<td>Howard Hawks</td>
<td>Walter Huston, Mary Doran, Philip Holmes</td>
<td>September 23</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Dawn Trail&quot;</td>
<td>Christy Cabanne</td>
<td>Buck Jones, Miriam Seegar</td>
<td>September 26</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Hal Roach Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Story</th>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Chief Players</th>
<th>Brand Name</th>
<th>Starting Date</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Another Nice Mess&quot;</td>
<td>James Parrott</td>
<td>Laurel and Hardy</td>
<td>September 18</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

First National Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Story</th>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Chief Players</th>
<th>Brand Name</th>
<th>Starting Date</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Sinfonietta&quot;</td>
<td>German Version</td>
<td>German Version</td>
<td>September 20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;The Big Man&quot;</td>
<td>French Version</td>
<td>French Version</td>
<td>September 20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Tec Art Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Story</th>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Chief Players</th>
<th>Brand Name</th>
<th>Starting Date</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Voice of Hollywood&quot;</td>
<td>Louis Lowy</td>
<td>All Star</td>
<td>September 22</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Mickey Mouse&quot;</td>
<td>Disney Bros.</td>
<td>(Shorts)</td>
<td>Disney</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Vagabond Adventure Series&quot;</td>
<td>Tom Terris</td>
<td>(Adventures)</td>
<td>September 22</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
October 4, 1930 EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD

SOUND REPRODUCTION

F. H. RICHARDSON on PROJECTION

THRILLS IN CANADIAN DRIVE TO VANCOURVER

(Continuing Richardson's story of his travels in the interest of better projection.)

LEAVING Cranbrook we headed for the Carabou Trail, which includes a 40-mile boat trip across a lake from Kuskonook, Alta., to Nelson, B. C., where we struck Pacific time. This portion of our route included 40 miles of literally terrible road, in that it was very narrow, had almost unbelievable curves, wound around precipices in places, and was rather soft, very dusty and entirely without guards of any sort, regardless of how dangerous the situation might be. At one point our right fender was not to exceed six inches from a rock ledge and the right wheels were more than a foot from an almost sheer drop of at least 200 feet.

Please don't get the impression that I am criticizing Canadians for the roads. It is a damn shame there are no roads through this part of the country. The land is very sparsely settled and the marvel is that they have made it possible to get through at all. Improvements in roads are now going forward and within a year or two relatively good roads will be provided, so that the traveler may drive through with perfect safety and with reasonable speed. I must most sincerely compliment Canada for what has already been accomplished under fearfully difficult conditions.

From Nelson we drove to Osoyoos through giant mountains. Leaving a town called Trail we climbed about 2,000 feet, immediately dropping down 2,200 feet again. From top to bottom could not have been more than one mile, though we sighted back and forth on hair-raising curves many times that distance. Next immediately came a 3,200-foot climb, to an altitude of 5,600 feet, followed by a similar drop again.

At Osoyoos we were informed that to follow the Carabou Trail to Vancouver would require two and a half days' driving, but that by taking a cut-off over what I think was the Richter Pass trail (can't swear to the name of the trail) 150 miles could be saved. The trail was rough, they said, but we could get through in fifteen hours. So three miles beyond we turned into what seemed a little used roadway and almost at once began to climb up into the pass. Before three miles had been negotiated we wished to hitch Heaven we had not! It was little more than a farm wagon road, and there we were in a "pass," with night coming on, turning around next to impossible, and with what seemed to be a dark abyss in front of us. On either side were giant cliffs.

There seemed to be nothing else to do, so, grabbing our courage by the hair, we dived down that "road" into what was almost complete darkness, twisted and wiggled around sharp curves, struck bottom at last, and something like three miles beyond came out upon what seemed to be a fairly decent road. This road led us to the village of Keremeos, which boasted a hotel of sorts, and there we laid our weary heads for the night. My bed had a real classy spring and it certainly "sprang." With feet resting comfortably on the foot board, and head on the head board, my equator sank gently almost to the floor. We enjoyed nice running water basins, only the pipes were all broken so there was no water. It was a lovely hotel! Friend Daughter assured me next morning she had slept almost five minutes at one stretch.

Next morning Vancouver was 360 curvy mountain miles away. It seemed impossible that such a distance on such roads could be negotiated in one day, but we set forth with courage high. Along the road occasionally was a small gas station—gas four dollars for ten imperial gallons. At two or three of them we were informed that ours was the first that-far-east car ever seen in that territory.

At a place called Spence's Bridge we emerged upon the Carabou trail again, and for the next hundred miles the road literally beggars description.

When the world was made there must have been lots of material left over, so it was just dumped down in piles and eventually was called British Columbia.

Putting a road through these gigantic mountains was a huge task. The grades would be much too steep unless they were taken along the walls of the mountains so they have just carved a thin peeling from the canyon wall, sometimes down in the very great depths, at other times hundreds of feet above the raging torrent of the Fraser river. Had we not just come from the beautiful Banff country, I would surely say we drove through all the mountains of the world that day.

After negotiating curves and more curves all day, we stopped at dusk in a really nice "chalet" for dinner. We were then just 100 miles from our next 'appy 'ome and still feeling fine, except for cramps in ournecks from looking up at tatican mountains. Scarcely had the first spoonful of soup been comfortably put away, when out of the air came a hand and a "Hello, Rich. Where in Heaven did it come from?"

It was R. H. Ray, president, Ray-Bell Films, Inc., of St. Paul, Minn., who had been present at my lecture in that city. He introduced Wallace Hamilton of Vancouver Motion Pictures, Ltd., and Associated Screen News, and J. H. Boothe, general manager, Skreen Adz, Vancouver, all of whom had been on a shooting expedition up Fraser Canyon way. They were shooting colored pictures.

Well, finally, at about 10 p.m. we rolled into Vancouver, parked at that scrumptious and oh so welcome hotel, The Vancouver, where the local had made reservations, called up Secretary John C. Richards, Motion Picture Projectionist Local Union No. 348, who immediately came over to see that we were properly taken care of and to deliver a lot of mail. We had a sociable drink together—it's perfectly all right; this is Canada—and then, Brother Richards having departed, we fell into bed with 361 miles of the most mountainous mountain driving imaginable to our credit since 8:00 a.m. Should anyone tell you he has driven farther in an equal time on duplicate road, just advise him, with my compliments, that he is a lawyer.

We have been through Colorado, where Men are MEN. We have been in Yellowstone Park, where bears are bears. We will be in Hollywood where they're almost bears. We have been in Banff, where mountains are mountains, but take it from me brothers,

(Continued on next page, column 3)
Western Electric has added another customer in France. This time it's the Braumberger-Richebe Company, representatives of which are shown at Paris signing the contract that licenses them to record by the Western Electric sound system. Repro of left to right are: Pierre Braumberger, Samuel Simonson, Frederick R. Marion, general manager of Western Electric in France; de Boissiere, publicity director of Societe de Matérial Acoustique, and Roger Richebe.

RCA Head Sees Television Big "Technical Problem" of Future

Television, in the opinion of E. E. Shumaker, president of the RCA Victor Company, is still a technical problem in the field of radio development which will require much time and a great deal of money for adaptation to practical home use. It is a problem literally 100 times harder than that of radio, he says.

Shumaker calls television a "laboratory success" but offers the suggestion that the time for its general use still appears to be a long way off. He says RCA Victor engineers have been working on it for a number of years and have made phenomenal strides. They have overcome many of the technical barriers and made successful demonstration, but, the radio executive points out, "the apparatus necessary to carry out successful television today is totally unfitted, by its character, to installation in homes.

Broadcasting Another Problem

"Quite apart from the development of television receivers," asserts Shumaker, "is the problem of equipment for broadcasting television. It will take both time and money to parallel the transmitting equipment of the present broadcasting networks with equipment for broadcasting visual impressions. The erection and cost of a multitude of expensive transmitting stations, the proper and complicated choice of wavelengths for distortion-free transmission, the building of compact, attractive, simple and reasonably-priced receivers which will operate automatically and give a picture of satisfactory size, color, brilliancy and detail—these are vital factors in the problem television presents."

What of the Programs?

Program will be another big problem after television has been put into general use, Shumaker believes. What sort of a program it shall be, how it shall be co-ordinated with the musical or speech program, and how it will be paid for, are questions which will have to be answered. Whether actors and actresses must be handsome as well as mellow-voiced, whether they must have elaborate costumes and complicated backgrounds are other problems which must be faced when the time comes.

Shumaker asks the question: "Are we inheriting all the problems of the motion picture producing industry?" and answers it with "Apparently we are, and these things are not to be solved in the next few months.

Television Belongs to Radio

"We have noticed," says Shumaker, "a certain amount of public curiosity as to what effect television, when it does come, will have on radio receivers of the present-day type. The answer to that is fairly obvious, I think. Television will be a part of the radio set—a vital part, and it will add immeasurably to the entertainment value of radio. I think there is a perfect parallel in the motion picture field. Motion pictures were a going concern in a high stage of development before the coming of talking pictures, yet it was sound that really brought them to life."

"In the movies, sight came first and was subsequently joined with sound; in radio, sound came first and will certainly be united with visual impressions. Combination receivers for sound and television are logical, and inevitable."
DEVICES FOR SILENCING CAMERAS

[Concluded from preceding issue]

NEW E. R. P. I. MOTOR

Electrical Research Products has recently made available to the studios a new design of interlocked camera motor known as the KS-6723 motor. This new motor is a two pole machine, making its speed 2400 RPM instead of 1200, as on the KS-5210 type, an increase in speed which has resulted in a material reduction in size and weight, and permits direct drive.

The over-all length is about seven inches and the diameter four and three-eighths inches. As the weight is only nine pounds, this motor with adapters can be mounted directly on the frame of either the Bell & Howell or Mitchell cameras without seriously unbalancing the camera when mounted on the tripod. Also the size of the sound-proof blimp can be reduced to a minimum.

The official rated power output is sufficient to handle normal camera loads, and under actual test the motor delivers over four times this power without breaking out of synchronism. Due to this large factor of safety, there need be no concerns about overheating.

A new and very effective automatic cutout has been developed which prevents damage to the camera in case of film buckle. This device can be operated manually to cut the camera in and out.

Delectrically the motor has a higher impedance than the former KS-5210, therefore the line current is lower. This is an advantage because it results in a smaller voltage drop in the line leads, giving an additional improvement in operation. The higher impedance also results in a smaller disturbance to the remainder of the interlocked system should the camera be disconnected from the line while the remaining equipment is still running interlocked. This is important when cameras are cut in and out during takes.

UNITED ARTISTS' SPECIAL MOTOR

A recently developed special motor is used on United Artists studio cameras. It is a four-pole, three-phase motor, driven at 1440 RPM (the speed of the shutter shaft) through a distributor which is chain-driven to the regular distributor. In the base of the motor is a six-pole switch for cutting in and out of the circuit, and a relay for tripping the switch.

Studio Using Different Methods of Silencing Camera

Booths Balsamite 6000
Mack Sennett Bungalows 4400
Pathé Balsamite 6000
Tiffany Balsamite 6000
Universal Balsamite 6000
Warner Bros. Balsamite 6000
B-F (ito) Balsamite 6000
United Artists Balsamite 6000
Universal Balsamite 6000

MATERIALS USED FOR BLANKETS AND BLIMPS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Studio</th>
<th>Device</th>
<th>Material</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Educational</td>
<td>Blanket</td>
<td>Blanket and hair felt matress to insulate tripod from floor. Sydnham Wool Blanket with zipper. Radiant blanket.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>United Artists</td>
<td>Blanket</td>
<td>Blanket with insulating material.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>United Artists</td>
<td>Blanket</td>
<td>Blanket with insulating materials.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pathé</td>
<td>Blanket</td>
<td>Blanket with insulating materials.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Columbia</td>
<td>Blanket</td>
<td>Blanket with insulating materials.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>RKO</td>
<td>Blanket</td>
<td>Blanket with insulating materials.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paramount</td>
<td>Blanket</td>
<td>Blanket with insulating materials.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Metropolitan</td>
<td>Blanket</td>
<td>Blanket with insulating materials.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

COVERED DEVICES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Studio</th>
<th>Covers</th>
<th>Material</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>B &amp; H Mitchell</td>
<td>Covers</td>
<td>Standard rubber.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Columbia</td>
<td>Covers</td>
<td>Standard rubber.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

COVERED DEVICES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Studio</th>
<th>Covers</th>
<th>Material</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Balsamite 6000</td>
<td>Covers</td>
<td>Standard rubber.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Universal</td>
<td>Covers</td>
<td>Standard rubber.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

MATERIALS USED FOR BLANKETS AND BLIMPS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Studio</th>
<th>Covers</th>
<th>Material</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Educational</td>
<td>Covers</td>
<td>Standard rubber.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>United Artists</td>
<td>Covers</td>
<td>Standard rubber.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pathé</td>
<td>Covers</td>
<td>Standard rubber.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Columbia</td>
<td>Covers</td>
<td>Standard rubber.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>RKO</td>
<td>Covers</td>
<td>Standard rubber.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paramount</td>
<td>Covers</td>
<td>Standard rubber.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Metropolitan</td>
<td>Covers</td>
<td>Standard rubber.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

DISTANCE MICROPHONE CAN BE PLACED FROM CAMERA COVERED BY BLANKETS OR BLIMPS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Studio</th>
<th>Distance</th>
<th>Device</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Educational</td>
<td>Blanket</td>
<td>Blanket</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>United Artists</td>
<td>Blanket</td>
<td>Blanket</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pathé</td>
<td>Blanket</td>
<td>Blanket</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

EDISON CREDITS DEFOREST FOR DEVELOPING IMPORTANT LINK IN TALKING PICTURES

Thomas A. Edison, in an article published in the Saturday Evening Post entitled "Patents, Profits and Pirates," gives Dr. Lee DeForest of General Talking Pictures credit for providing one of the most important links in the development of talking pictures, namely, the amplifier, or loudspeaker. Edison commented on his first demonstration of talking pictures at the old Hampden theatre, New York, in 1913, as follows: "I want to say right here fairly and honestly that not until the amplifier was invented it was possible to make any permanent progress. DeForest supplied that link in the chain."

The machine used in 1913 by Edison was a record phonograph, or a sound-on-disc apparatus. The sound-on-film experimentation of Elias Ries and Dr. DeForest had not yet been demonstrated.

Two late in turn back, the pioneer pioneer goes over a thankless precipice to reach its western goal. Scenes from the Fox production, "The Big Trail."
Photophone Used by N. Y. Country Clubs For Outdoor Talkers

Outdoor talking pictures have been successfully presented by R.C.A. Photophone at a number of New York country clubs this summer. Two of these exhibitions were recently given at the Fenimore Country Club, White Plains, and the Westchester Country Club, Rye, N. Y. At the latter place an audience of 2,000 attended.

R. C. A. made 12 Photophone installations in New York during August. Bernard J. Scholtz, district representative, has reported the following new theatres equipped: New Madison, New York City; Brandt’s Carlton, Jamaica, L. I.; Park, Hudson; Brandt’s Windsor, Bronx; Bronx, Belmore, New York City; Glynn’s, Sag Harbor, L. I.; Fifth Avenue Playhouse, New York City; Paragon, Beacon; Tiffany, Brooklyn; Windsor Opera House, Bleevedere; Gloria, Brooklyn, and Liberty, Hoboken, N. J.

Has Shown Silents For 25 Years; Now He Installs Sound

John R. Minhinnick, operator of the Grand theatre, London, Ont., has finally succumbed to the lure of talking pictures after 25 years in an exhibiting “game.”

Minhinnick is one of the oldest exhibitors in Canada in point of experience. For a quarter of a century he has held the reins at the Grand and during all that time it has been a paradise for silent dramas of the screen.

It was only this month that carpenters and sound experts invaded the house, remodelled it, tore away the old top gallery or “nigger heaven” and installed sound equipment.

Microphone Angles Studied for Better Talkers by Metro

Sound engineers at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios have found that “microphone angles” as well as camera angles must be considered when singers are photographed for talking pictures.

Douglas Shearer, recording director at the studio, explains that a singer, by turning slightly away from the microphone on certain notes, can lose as much as 30 per cent of the effectiveness.

2 Ampion Sets Convey Sound at Tercentenary Festival in Jersey City

Two Ampion group address systems for conveying sound were installed in two parks at Jersey City for the Pavonia Tercentenary celebration during the last week of September.

One of Ampion sets was used at Lincoln Park on a huge outdoor stage. Two loudspeakers were placed on the stage. Each consisted of two Ampion dynamic units with 12-foot exponential horns and a single giant dynamic unit with two six-foot trumpets. The amplifying apparatus consisted of two 50-watt amplifiers mounted on a vertical panel and has to supply 100 watts. The microphone input amplifier, a model AC-60, was located in a small control room.
J. C. Jenkins—His Colyum

DEAR HERALD-WORLD:

This is the home of Senator George W. Norris—that is, it's his home when he is here. But he's only here during senatorial campaigns. George doesn't know we are in town tonight, which will be perfectly all right with both of us.

But speaking of politics (although we haven't said anything about politics), we wonder if the readers would be interested in knowing what we would do were we the Boss of these United States of America right now. Assuming they would (although it is somewhat doubtful), we will outline our program and then they can cast their ballots for the other fellow, which will be all right with us also.

If we were Boss of the United States, the first thing we would do would be to annul a number of special committee assignments and send the boss home to hunt up a job for themselves. Then we would reduce the Naval appropriation by exactly $0 millions of dollars and apportion this amount among the 48 states, with the understanding it was to be used in the construction and maintenance of highways. We would attach a rider to this appropriation, specifying that all employees under this appropriation must be bona fide citizens of the United States and be able to savvy what the Boss said when he told "em to grab a shovel and go to it. A good cement road over some of the mudholes we have traveled would look better to us than the whole United States Navy out on dress parade.

In this day of bombing planes and submarines, a battle-ship would be just about as useful as horns on a Plymouth Rock hen. And the only time it would become necessary to clear the deck for action would be when the Navy football team came on deck for practice.

If these birds across the water want to fight, we are in favor of letting 'em fight. And if they swell up and get chesty and want to step on the tail of Uncle Sams coat, we are in favor of Sam telling 'em to come on over and we will give 'em a belluva trimmin' just to show 'em that we want to be accommodating and kinda sorta-like. That's us, Mable, from the neck down, but we are not the Boss.

We know of only one class of people (and we are not very well acquainted with them) that can lie like hotel clerks. You walk up to the desk and register and the clerk advises you, with a very gained expression, that he is sorry but that he has nothing left but a four-dollar room. You ask him if that is just for one room or the whole hotel, that you were not figuring on buying the place, and that a room for a dollar and a half or two dollars would be about your size. Then he will tell you to wait a moment, he thinks there is a man going to check out and if so, you can have his room for two dollars. Then you realize that you exceeded the speed limit when you said two dollars. If you had stopped at a dollar and a half, the clerk would have stopped there also. If old Aminus would come back here now, he could find a lot of congenial company around hotel desks. (The boys are not selling film.)

We came up through the Republican river valley yesterday and we saw some of the best corn we have seen anywhere in the United States this season. They say the reason why they named the stream the Republican river was because it is so crooked. Senator Norris has his political home in this valley and that may have accounted in part for the name. (No, Gertie you are all wet, you have guessed our politics entirely wrong.)

The other night we stopped at a tavern and they soaked us two bucks and a half for room. The bed we had was one of these grainy, rough kind the kind you see in the Mississippi river. But when we went to sleep we were doubled up like a jackknife and when we woke up in the morning both hind feet were hanging over the dashboard and our head was resting on the floor. Yet there are some people who were bragging about what a wonderful thing Columbus did!

If we could stand on the bank of the Salmon river at Salmon, Idaho, at the back end of Fishy Phil Rand's lot, and fish for salmon, you could have all the rest of the fun in the world. We are pretty well acquainted with Phil, but he has two faults that we don't approve of. He doesn't care to fish and he knows the names and addresses of more good-looking lady stars than any man in the United States, unless it might be Grasshopper Sprague of Goodland, Kan. Outside of these two weaknesses, we would rate Phil as a right good boy.

When we came through Imperial yesterday, E. C. Dittman of the Imperial theatre was just starting out to play golf and he wanted us to go with him. Our rule through life has been that if business interferes with golf, cut out the business. But in this case we couldn't do it. We had to get over here to Scottsbluff for Sunday. In addition to being a "non-stroistie" (as that Kentucky exhibitor called us), we are the most self-sacrificing guy in the world. We remember we held a fellow's horse for two hours one night while he was in the house buzzing our girl and when he came out he didn't even thank us. We have always thought he was a pretty darned ornery guy.

When we got back that night in the tent we both looked like a Democrat parade in the Loop in Chicago. They stormed Billy Ostenburg's Egyptian theatre like Grant stormed Richmond and when the rush was over Billy was flattened out like a pancake.

Billy was playing one of those machine-made pictures where they used one of these college story mounds. We don't recall the name of the picture, it was one of that kind where they initiated a guy into some kind of a fraternity that sounds like "Egyptia pie" and they hold the sucker out in the rain until he catches cold and has the hay fever. And the last we saw of him he had both feet in a tub of hot soapsuds and was talking through his nose. We told Billy he ought to be ashamed of himself to take the money.

Our visit here has turned out just as we expected. We wanted Billy to play golf with us the next day but he had an all-day. He was putting in one of these pre-tee golf courses and couldn't get away. We never knew just what ailed that boy until now. Aside from Billy's pea-tee weakness, he's one of the best theatre operators in the West and his Egyptian theatre has all the comfort and conveniences that anybody has a right to expect. He has a HERALD-WORLD plaque, which he displays under a spotlight and which adds tone and distinction to his theatre.

At Julesburg, Colo., we met our good friends, Mrs. Zorn and her daughter, who operate Julesburg's popular playhouse. They are associated with two other theatres and have a HERALD-WORLD plaque in each of them, which goes to show that they are keeping up with the procession. We found the same to be true with Mr. and Mrs. Jensen, who operate the Silver Hill theatre at Oshkosh. They are two most delightful people who seem real glad we called.

At Ogallala we called on Mr. Goodall, who manufactures the Goodall talking device, and spent a couple of very delightful hours in his factory. We have run onto a great number of these devices, as far east as Ohio, and especially throughout the middle west, and they all seem to be giving perfect satisfaction. They are now equipping this device for sound-on-film.

J. C. JENKINS.

The HERALD-WORLD man.

P. S.—The HERALD-WORLD COVERS THE FIELD like an April shower.
Sophisticated Audiences Tired Of Slapstick, Says Mack Sennett

"The old, broad slapstick comedy is a dead issue today," declares Mack Sennett veteran comedy producer, who is changing his production formula to meet the need of sophisticated comedy for sophisticated audiences.

Sennett points out that the country is in a new cycle of comedy, an era which has passed beyond the silly gags of the slapstick days when audiences doubled up with laughter over a pie-throwing act.

"Theatre-goers demand a reason for their laughter today," says Sennett, "Characters must be legitimate and natural. They must be living people—kind of people who live next door to you—people you know in everyday life, and I am trying my utmost to develop human instances, current and news topics as the subjects on which to mold stories for future productions.

Makes Comedy on Rackets

"We have just finished a two-reeler called 'Racket Cheers,' based on the humorous side of racketeering. To me, it sets a new standard in short comedies. The characters portray persons you actually know in life."

To Sennett's way of thinking, there is no more important element in current comedy production than preparation of the story. He relates how in the old silent days, a director, with a few notes written on his cuff, went out to make a picture, developing his story and gags as he went along.

"Today the producer, director and members of the story department labor for weeks on the scenario," he says, "striving to build up humorous situations. The actual shooting, however, requires only a brief time."

An Era of Comedy, He Says

"We are now in an era of comedy. This is plainly evident during the run of almost any feature length production. The big pictures, whether they be drama or melodrama, lean toward comedy. After all, the public would rather laugh than cry. We know that true entertainment is laughter and, believe it or not, it is more difficult to make people laugh than it is to make them cry."

Sennett also believes that feminine legs are, like the slapsticks, losing their prestige as box office attractions. He does not deny that feminine beauty is admired by the public, but insists that bathing girls are no longer a drawer card.

"What we need, he says, "is witty, clever, sophisticated situations. The legs, the slapsticks and the grotesque characters are all passe."

Newspictures

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL No. 78—Ambassador Dawes inaugurates paganty for railway centenary in Liverpool—Englishman's Congress convenes in Omaha—New York blind institution installs new games—Lack of gas feels German scientist's balloon trip to the moon—Newest New York waggon in its day, turns out at the scene of a daring desert peril to hunt salt—Crack West Point pipeline hunter stalks the supply of foreign war vets.

KINOGRAMS No. 5644—Yale trims Maine in football opener—Lipton says he'll try for cup again—Jerry Gill's jack-in-the-box says in action—Superfans ask old age pension in New York—Society sees close finish in oldest hunt cup race—Schonkners prepared for Gloucester fishermen's race—Bobby Jones wins U. S. amateur and now holds four major golf titles.

KINOGRAMS No. 5643—Gen. Dawes opens England's railway centenary—1,000 cows gather in California rodeo—Philadelphia and New York curling play for female baseball title—12-inch railroad mortar guns tested at Ft. Hancock, N. J.—Massachusetts horse goes for polo—Monkeys have their own heaven in Milwaukee—Foreign soldiers visit West Point—all ceremonies unveiled in Harrisburg, Pa.

PATHE SOUND NEWS No. 81—Society rides in big steeplechase at Lake Forest, Ill.—Gymnasts star in Stanford's football contest at Boston—Sky tooters toot in toeing drill in Mount Carmel, Pa.—Indians attack 12-inch war wagons in Washington, D. C.—Harold Thurston reveals magic in a big way—Grade A gypsy stage road show in Illinois—Maverick dies after his war stride again.

PATHE SOUND NEWS No. 82—Bobby Jones golf champion—Lipton gives United States farewell message—Catholics hold solemn festival in Nebraska—Harvard set for football season—Status unveiled in Illinois to the memory of Abraham Lincoln—Englishman builds automobile shaped like "R-100"—Pick champion among Richmond types—Whitney scolds teachers.

HEARST METROTONE NEWS No. 200—Uncle Sam tests New York defense—Champion acesmen meet in Australia—Noted Irish poet pays us a visit—Stealing a march on Broadway—Backstage at Ziegfeld's newest show—Metropole visits great German zoo at Hamburg—Bobby Jones leads chase at golf war opens.

HEARST METROTONE NEWS No. 209—Bobby Jones captures major golf title of year at Ardmore—Montana cattle herder back to ranching after summer of grazing in forests—Hot time in old German town as natives dance to welcome of autumn—Al Jolson tells the sound camera about himself—West Point eleven routs Boston University 39 to 0.

8 Jones Westerns Billed into Midland Chain by Columbia

The Fox Midland circuit has contracted for the entire series of Columbia's eight Buck Jones outdoor specials. This marks the second major circuit into which the Jones Westerns have been booked solid, Public having recently billed the group in 11 towns of the New Orleans territory. Two of the Jones specials, "The Lone Rider" and "Shadow Ranch," have already been released. The third, "Men Without Law," will go into the exchanges next month, while the fourth, "Dawn Trail," is now in production.

Ready for action with the new R.C.A. Photophone sound truck being used by the Metropolitan Motion Picture Company, Detroit. Among their other activities, the operators of this outfit produce regularly a talking newsreel for the Detroit Times.
Department Store Hookups Work on Almost Any Film; Campaigns Prove It

Department stores are perhaps one of the most fruitful tieup sources in the exploitation game. Because of the almost unlimited variety of goods and the merchandise scope, there is always some article in the store which will fit well into a tieup on any picture. It isn’t like a drug store, where the exploitation must be narrowed down to the advertising of cosmetics, sundries or perfumes.

Tiffany’s publicity department, knowing the value of department store tieups, has negotiated for the exploitation of its new Chimp comedies in 30,000 stores throughout the country. The chief article to be displayed in windows will be mechanical chimpanzee, a toy.

Stores Available Everywhere

This is one good stunt, but there are hundreds and thousands of others that will work equally as well with department stores. And it doesn’t take a big producing company to put them across. Any exhibitor, whether he be in the smallest village or the biggest city, can do the same thing on a smaller scale. Every town has its department store. Some are bigger than others, but that has no bearing on the promotion campaign, so long as one of the larger ones in town is selected.

These same department stores usually have great expanses of window space. In the cities, experts are hired to trim them; in the smaller towns, more than one store manager often finds himself up against it to get his windows decorated nicely. Now what would be better than to have the theatre take some of this space occasionally. If the theatre has a house artist he can do the decorating job. Otherwise, someone else can be found for it.

El Capitan Tries It

That tieups with department stores, either on window display, or cooperative advertising, or on any other system of ballyhoo, is profitable has been shown in San Francisco, where the El Capitan theatre has worked out an interesting cooperative idea.

The tieup was in connection with a sale held at the Misson Street store. The merchandising concern agreed with the El Capitan management to run a double-page ad layout containing photographs of film stars who were coming to the theatre. Scattered in the group were pictures of department heads in the store. There were 18 pictures in all.

Copy on the page told the public of the identification contest being run with the photographs. Each picture was numbered.

Window displays at the store were a replica of the newspaper ad.

Under the likeness of each department head of the store, the full name and the department he directed were given, so there was no puzzle about that—merely information for the public. Given in this form, people couldn’t help but read it. For the screen stars the readers were to give identification and the star’s recent pictures. This data was to be filled out on a blank appearing at the bottom of the ad and turned in at store.

When contestants brought their contributions to the store they noticed the sale going on and many of them bought. In other words, many came to the store and became customers, who otherwise might not have attended on the strength of a mere advertisement of a sale. All of which goes to show that tieup ads carry far more effect than ordinary ones.

How much did this cost the theatre? Just exactly 100 show admissions, which isn’t a lot in San Francisco for a house the size of the El Capitan. The department store took care of all costs on the newspaper ads and windows. The theatre got its share of mention both in the ads and other display for providing the tickets as prizes. Its current attractions were also plugged.

The store assembled $55 worth of merchandise and split it four ways for the four highest in the contest. The 100 show admissions were also distributed.

When the tieup had been finished the management of both the store and theatre were agreed that it had been a good deal more profitable than a cut-and-dried advertising campaign could possibly have been.

Dancing Course at Indiana

Free dancing instruction is given at the roof balcony above the Indiana theatre in Indianapolis each Thursday evening as the latest exploitation plan at that house.
Selling 2 FN Pictures

Two First National films came in for some effective exploitation upon their opening in Los Angeles. "Girl of the Golden West," when it opened at Warners Hollywood, was greeted by an oldtime stagecoach. A living billboard, with a man dressed to represent Walter Huston, helped boost "The Bad Man" at the Downtown theatre.

!Stagecoach and sound truck for "Girl of the Golden West."

!Winner of sack of gold.

!Truck with human billboard.

Story of Meeting With Film Star Wins Newspaper Space

A newspaper at Waterloo, Iowa, carried a cut and half-column story on Joe Cook, star of "Rain or Shine," and it was all because Jake Rosenthal, manager, showed a bit of publicity ambition and gave the daily an interview on an incident which occurred between himself and Joe Cook. Crashing a half-column story for a motion picture isn't done every day either out in that country, so they say.

At any rate, the news story was pinned on the declaration of Joe Cook in a magazine article that Jake Rosenthal was partly responsible for his (Cook's) success. The magazine article related that the film comedian had at one time appeared on the stage of the Iowa theatre. In those days he was a blackface jester. Rosenthal advised him to discard the black makeup. Cook did and thereafter went right up the ladder.

This worked out into a nice news story, a good personal boost for Rosenthal and profitable exploitation for "Rain or Shine." Rosenthal also obtained Nemo, baby elephant which appeared in the picture, for a local appearance. The young pachyderm was taken to the city hall and introduced to the mayor, then paraded through the streets to the theatre.

Metro Issues Full Page Ad Mat of Information Stunt to Be Used on Films

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has prepared a full page mat now being distributed without charge to all theatres playing M-G-M product during the coming season. The ad carries the headline: "The Most Important Film Announcement Ever Made in This City!"

Below the headline is copy explaining that the theatre carrying the advertisement is playing M-G-M pictures. The exact wording of the copy is as follows: "The...theatre gets the great Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures. The management is proud to announce that it has obtained for its patrons the entire entertainment delights of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios for the new talkie season of 1930-31. M-G-M attractions are the talkies that all theatres seek to obtain. It is another triumph for the...theatre to have won them for our patrons."

A sketch of "Leo," the M-G-M trademark lion, appears in the upper left hand corner of the page, while at the bottom are pictures of M-G-M stars and a listing of the attractions on the new season schedule.

Indianapolis Lyric Reopens Ballroom and Dancing Class

The Lyric theatre ballroom in Indianapolis has reopened for the fall and winter season. New lighting fixtures and novel light effects are featured.

E. W. Mushrush has been re-engaged as manager of the ballroom and his classes in dancing are to be continued. An orchestra has been engaged and a new check room and orchestra stage have been built.

Snapshot Contest at Circle

An exhibit of 42 snapshots taken by members of the Indianapolis Camera Club is being displayed in the lobby of the Circle theatre, Indianapolis. Ballots are provided and patrons urged to select the best print in the collection. The winning photograph is to receive a gold medal, with silver and bronze, respectively, for second and third.
Human Billboard, Old Stagecoach
Exploit 2 FN Films in Los Angeles

We would refer those who want action in their exploitation campaigns to the lively promotion program carried out by the Warner Downtown theatre, Los Angeles, where a live figure in a moving billboard gave the populace all the action it desired.

The picture exploited was First National's "The Bad Man." A ballyhoo truck with loud speaker attachment was the only stunt used, but it was aplenty. Huge billboards on either side carried copy on the film. The billboards were really nothing but cheesecloth. In the center on either side was painted a picture of Walter Huston, star of "The Bad Man." A border of electric light ran along the outer edge of the billboards or signs on both sides of the truck.

This Billboard Shoots
The picture of Huston represented him as the Bad Man and he held a pair of six-shooters in bandit-like fashion. At intervals during the truck's progress through the streets, the border of electric lighting was switched off and suddenly the menacing figure of a real bandit sprang to life. This was done by having a man dressed in the same garb as Huston stand inside the truck. Inside lighting effects caused his figure to show through the cheesecloth.

Vividly illuminated while the rest of the sign was in darkness, this man announced particulars of the picture's showing through the loudspeakers. He punctuated his brief address by discharging both of his six-shooters, which carried blank cartridges, of course. But the stunt created a sensation in the streets of Los Angeles.

Stagecoach Reception
"Girl of the Golden West," another First National picture, enjoyed a successful run at Warners Hollywood theatre, Los Angeles, after a stagecoach reception, et al. The overland relic of the frontier days was drawn by four horses. A group of girls rode in it and cards on the sides said: "We're on our way to greet Ann Harding in 'Girl of the Golden West' at Warner Brothers Hollywood theatre."

Shortly before the picture opened it was announced that a "gold hunt" would be held outside the theatre. A bag containing $100 in gold was hidden in a niche in one of the first story windows of the Hollywood theatre building. When time for the gold hunt arrived the sidewalk was jammed with persons seeking the treasure trove.

Attractive Displays
Advertising and window displays played up the card angle of the picture, in which Ann Harding stars, it is said. "Sea Wolf," starring the late Milton Sills, was on the screen.

Another gift night was held at the Alamo September 24, when three radio sets were given away.

Cooking School Brings in
The Women at Fox Sequoia
Cooking schools are not an innovation, even in theatres, any more, but Tom Kane, manager of the Fox Sequoia house at Redwood City, Cal., finds that women still attend them in large numbers when he promotes one at his theatre.

Merchants who were goods were used in the school tied up for many pages of cooperative advertising. An expert cooking instructor was secured and a newspaper, also in the time, helped give the Sequoia much added publicity.

Book Stores Give Tickets
To Capitol at Galt, Ont.
Two book stores tied up with the Capitol theatre, Galt, Ont., and offered a show admission with every purchase of school books and supplies amounting to $1 or over. E. Landsborough, manager of the Capitol, sold the tickets to the book stores at a special rate and received space in the show windows plugging his shows.

“80% INCREASE”
Reported by an EXHIBITOR since giving away Movie Star Photos
You can also increase your BOX-OFFICE RECEIPTS by giving away these Beautiful Sets of 16 DIFFERENT FAMOUS AUTOGRAPHED MOVIE STARS ROTOGRAVURES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Package of 100 Sets</th>
<th>Raised in envelopes In Lots of 100 Sets for $10</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>100 Sets per 100 Sets for $10</td>
<td>1,000 Sets per 100 Sets for $10</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Write for set of "FREE SAMPLES"
M. E. MOSS (EHW) PUB. CO., Hartford, Conn.
Wisconsin Theatre Has Reception, Parade for Fifi Dorsay’s Arrival

Film stars making personal appearances at a theatre should be put across in a big way the first day. James Keefe, advertising manager for the Fox Midwesco Theatres in Milwaukee, did just that when Fifi Dorsay, actress, came to the stage of the Fox Wisconsin.

Scheduled to open her engagement on a Friday, Miss Dorsay was prevailed upon to come one day in advance so that the brilliance of the ceremonies attending her arrival would not be diminished by the coming of two trans-Atlantic fliers, Bellonte and Coste, who were to appear on Friday. Keefe made a special trip to Chicago to get Miss Dorsay’s consent to come a day earlier.

When she arrived in Milwaukee a band and 20 automobiles greeted her with “Welcome Fifi” banners. She rode at the head of a parade through the streets to the city hall, where she was greeted by city officials.

Lobby Represents Prison For “Big House” Showing

The Rialto theatre, Denver, used a prison setting in its lobby with marked success for the showing of “The Big House.” A prison cell was laid out on either side and the entire lobby was decorated with actual photographs from the prison riot at Canon City, Colo. Appropriate copy gave news of the picture’s billing.

A “mystery” car was driven about the city with all windows shrouded in black cloth and the name of the film painted on them.

Saenger Has Straw Hat Day

The Saenger theatre, New Orleans, helped to say goodbye to the straw hat season by accepting in lieu of a ticket of admission, one straw, condition, style and size forgotten. The promotion stunt lasted for one full day and the Saenger got enough straw hats to feed a flock of hungry goats for weeks.
Broadcasts Serials
Of "The Big House"

I. Wiensheink, manager of the Majestic theatre, LaSalle, Ill., followed the same exploitation system as an exhibitor in Terre Haute, Ind., when he promoted a radio program for "The Big House.

Each day, for three days, the story of the picture was given in serial form. Descriptions of the leading characters were also given, without giving the name of the character, however. Listeners were invited to send in correct names of the persons described. Winners received show admissions.

In addition, Wiensheink arranged with a local radio distributor for use of its advertising truck for two days. Compo boards were placed on the sides to represent prison bars. Behind these were cutout heads of Wallace Beery, Robert Montgomery and Chester Morris, leading players. Above the heads were signs reading: "Wanted! For further information, call the Majestic theatre."

Anti-Fire Organization
To Adopt Talker Program

Talking pictures are to be included in the educational campaign for fire prevention to be sponsored by the International Association of Fire Chiefs. This decision was reached at the association's recent convention in Winnipeg, Can.

The fire prevention program is to cost approximately $100,000, it is said.

Midnight Shows for the Heat

Hot weather hit San Antonio two weeks ago, and the Aztec theatre there fought off the high temperature opposition by running midnight matinees which jumped the box office to a neat figure.

The Texas theatre at San Antonio recently had an exhibition of new model roller skates on its mezzanine through a tieup with Philco.

Mayor of The Dalles Proclaims
'Chaney Week' for 'Unholy Three'

Tribute was paid to the late Lon Chaney in a special "Lon Chaney Week" program by Guy Matthews, manager of the Granada at The Dalles, Ore., with the cooperation of the city government. The tribute to the actor's memory proved to be a monument to a real monument in the line of box office records, too, for people flocked to the Granada who had not seen a show in many months.

The picture shown during the week was Chaney's own "Unholy Three." Mayor A. W. Manchester gave impetus to the movement honoring the dead film star by issuing a proclamation declaring the "Lon Chaney Week." His statement was this:

"Whereas, Lon Chaney, famed screen star, has passed into the great beyond, and whereas, the world mourns the loss of this beloved character whose exemplary life might serve as an inspiration to every American citizen, therefore, A. W. Manchester, mayor of the city of The Dalles, Ore., do hereby proclaim 'Lon Chaney Week.'

Several days during the picture's opening, Manager Matthews tied up with a local daily for publication of a serial of Chaney's biography. A daily introduction appeared at the head of the serialized biography telling of the "Unholy Three" showing at the Granada.

A former studio associate of Chaney in Hollywood chanced to visit The Dalles and wrote articles which appeared in the papers.

Lost Your Key? Come and Get It at the "Key Board"
In This Winnipeg Theatre

It is no trick at all to find lost keys at the Capitol theatre, Winnipeg, since Walter Davis, manager, installed a "key board" in the lobby.

The "key board" has hooks on which are placed all keys found in the house. Above it is a sign reading: "Have you lost your key?" The device saves attendants a lot of time and trouble, for patrons are free to come and take their lost key without bothering the box office.

Too Good to Be True—Almost

Receipts have been doubled three times within a month at the Regent and Imperial houses, Ottawa, Ont., on successive showings of the three pictures, "All Quiet on the Western Front," "Song o' My Heart" and "Animal Crackers." At this alarming pace, it is feared the theatres will soon collapse from over-crowding—maybe.

Gives Boys' Club Matinee

M. K. Gable, manager of the Circle theatre, Indianapolis, recently gave a special morning matinee of "Animal Crackers" for 300 members of two boys' clubs in the city.

You are reading this little ad because the dollar sign caught your eye. It always works.

By the same token, "Building Theatre Patronage", Barry and Sargent's great book for showmen will catch housewives for you because it contains the patronage building ideas that always work. 400 pages of money-making facts.

(Only 50 cents mailed to your door)

CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO.
516 Fifth Avenue, New York City
Essays on Romance

In Newspaper Plug
Greta Garbo’s Film

Essays on romance were the basis of an exploitation contest for Greta Garbo’s “Romance” at the Irwin theatre, Bloomington, Ill. A newspaper helped K. W. Lawlor, manager of the theatre, sponsor the contest and stories were run on consecutive days for a week prior to the picture’s opening. Photos of Miss Garbo were carried with each story. The essays were restricted to 100 words in which the paper’s readers were invited to express their opinions on romance, what really constitutes great romance, personal experiences on the subject and so on. Cash prizes and show admissions were given the winners.

Two thousand photos of Miss Garbo were also distributed, with numbers on the reverse side. These were handed out in the lobby with the announcement that 10 of the given numbers were to receive free tickets each day. The public library in Bloomington distributed 1,000 bookmarks made up as blotters, which suggested current romantic fiction and carried copy, playdate and name of the theatre at which “Romance” was playing.

Tram Cars Carry Youth
To “Disraeli” in Melbourne

Seeing “Disraeli” in Melbourne, Australia, was made such a convenient thing for children that thousands of youngsters in that city came to the Capitol theatre for the picture.

The “convenience” was nothing other than ordinary tram cars, provided by Roy Nelson of the Capitol to carry children to and from the house, thus eliminating dangers which might befall them in traffic. Ten cars were operated daily while the picture was shown. Was the idea a success? Well, answer that yourself. Twenty thousand children saw the picture at the Capitol.

The stunt was arranged through a tieup with the department of education. School was in session at the time the film was in Melbourne and the tram cars went directly to the schools for their passengers.

Photos of “Rogue Song”

Star Are Given at Aurora

Edwin Lewis, manager of the Tivoli house at Aurora, Ill., had 5,000 special coupons printed and distributed from house to house in connection with the showing at his theatre of “The Rogue Song,” starring Lawrence Tibbett. When these were presented at either of the two Atwater Kent radio dealers in the city they entitled each woman to an autographed photo of Tibbett.

Lewis also obtained numerous window displays through tieups with song dealers and stores.

W. M. Gollner Is Promoted

W. Marsh Gollner, formerly manager of the Princess theatre, Toledo, has been promoted to city manager for all Paramount houses in that city. H. L. Bresendine has been brought from Rochester, N. Y., as Gollner’s successor at the Princess.

Country Store Boosts B.O.

A country store program every Saturday night is helping to increase the fall business at the Lyric theatre, Fort Collins, Colo. A kiddies’ club, which meets every Saturday afternoon, is another stunt being used by the management.
Three Fox West Coast houses combine their advertising in this manner. A sketch of a bear, California emblem, characterizes every ad. The three theatres are all in San Francisco, and it so happens that they were all playing Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer attractions when this ad was made. The pictures were "Call of the Flesh," "Our Blushing Brides" and "The Unholy Three." Rudy Marquard is the artist.

Covent Garden Has Theatre Party for Chicago Merchants

J. B. Smelker, manager of the Covent Garden, Chicago suburban house, promoted a theatre party for business men in his community through a tieup with the Midtown North Business Men's Association.

The secretary of the association mailed letters to all members informing them of the theatre's offer. One of the provisions was that each merchant must bring his wife or a friend on a paid admission in order to make good his own free ticket.

Smelker asserts the response to the invitation was so numerous that he is now planning to give such parties regularly for business men. They will automatically become members of the Covent Theatre Merchant's Club.

This idea has not only brought better results at the box office but also helped to establish the theatre as a vital part of the community, Smelker believes.

Adopt Friday Policy

Following the lead of the Princess and Paramount, Public theatres in Toledo, the RKO Palace there will hereafter change pictures on Fridays. The Viva-Temple also in Toledo recently tried Friday openings, but concluded that they were not successful and changed back to Saturday.

"Swing High" Exploitation Gives Harrisburg Taste of Circus Life

The Victoria theatre gave Harrisburg, Penn., a taste of circus life in a delectable bit of exploitation for Pathé's "Swing High," which somewhat resembled the campaign put over by Louis Charnin in Kansas City a few weeks ago on the same picture.

Promotion was centered about the activities of a girl aerialist who performed on a trapeze above the marquee. Stunts of this nature, especially with a girl doing them, catch the interest of the public.

A heavy beam was anchored to a window sill and the trapeze suspended from it. The swing was far enough out from the building so that the huge electric sign could not interfere and pedestrians got a good view. While the girl did her acrobatics a theatre attendant stationed on top of the marquee kept the eyes as well as the eyes of pedestrians busy. With his megaphone he gave details concerning present and coming attractions at the house.

Girl Leads Circus Parade

But the trapeze act couldn't continue all day long. So when the girl became tired the management varied the stunts by sending a miniature circus parade through the streets. There were old wagons decorated in mock circus effect and all the other improvisations necessary. The clowns and whatnot who rode in the parade all had special costumes. The girl aerialist headed the caravan astride a horse. She rode bareback, a la circus, of course. Printed banners draped over the horse carried the title of the picture.

A man in clown clothes, who walked in the parade, distributed balloons to kiddies with tags carrying the name and playing date of "Swing High."

Get Window Display

Tieup with a store gave additional publicity. Carrying the circus idea a bit farther, a girl was hired to sit in a swing in the window in her circus costume. Stills from the film were scattered about her. A larger poster told window gazers that show admissions would be given to those who could correctly guess the girl's age, weight and height. On the drapes in the background had been pinned copies of "Shoo the Hoodoo Away," a song hit from "Swing High."

Also in this same window were countless pairs of stockings at special prices. Those who submitted guesses on the girl's weight, height and age were requested to present their answers at the hosery counter of the store.

A Correction

A story was printed in the Box Office Promotion department some time ago on the Los Angeles Hollywood theatre's campaign for "Top Speed" in which it was inadvertently stated that Hubert Voight was West Coast publicity director for Warner Brothers. Voight is not connected with Warners but is in charge of West Coast publicity for First National and in this capacity directed the exploitation for "Top Speed."

He's Community Booster

Joe Franklin, manager of B. F. Keith's theatre, Ottawa, Ont., believes in being a community booster. He recently accepted appointment as director of publicity for the Royal Humane Society and is now supervising its subscription drive.
BABY CONSOLE IDEA AIDS PROGRAM

DON GALVAN

STAGE SHOWS

CHICAGO ORIENTAL

WEEK ENDING OCTOBER 4

Charlie Crafts is back. That's almost enough to insure any stage show as being good, but this week it seemed to be better than usual, due mainly, to the greater part to Charlie, and most certainly in the bill of "Fall." No, it wasn't fair, it was good (please don't shoot), and the presentation went under the title of Spookland, a Publicx production.

The introduction was a picture purporting to be a health farm, and the Travelers, a clever ensemble of six boys and six girls, put on some very fine dance routines, demonstrating their talent. The girls appeared first, waving tennis racquets, and doing a fast dance. Then came the boys, with golf clubs, doing a pleasing number of steps. Again the girls with beach balls, which they augmented their steps with, and then the boys went into clubs. They all joined after this and did a fast tap that put everybody in good spirits for the rest of a very excellent performance.

Sis and Buddy Roberts came out, attired in aviation costumes, and went over like a million with their acrobatic tap dance. Then Stan Kavanaugh came out for just a moment, but we knew that something was going to happen before the evening was over.

It did, but we can't tell all about it here.

An airplane is heard, and suddenly in rushes Charlie, lugging a parachute, and looking as if he'd fallen at least 10,000 feet. Charlie and Stan joker a while and then Olive Fay appeared, and won her audience immediately by singing "When Pettin' Out in the Park," after which she did a short specialty tap. The Roberts (brother and sister) appeared once more, arriving on the stage in a little car to do another acrobatic tap dance.

Stan Kavanaugh appeared again and did a jug- gle. We'll say he juggled and how he juggled as he did juggle no one will ever know. It was just uncanny the way his arms would shoot out and catch whatever there was to be caught, be it a tennis ball, Indian club or a plate of plates. He cleaned and juggled and juggled and cleaned which could have sat there and watched him for hours, but it came time for the production number, so Stan led the Travelers in a few calisthenics with Indian clubs, then the lights were turned out, and the clubs were lit. It was most effective, the swinging arcs caused by the lighted clubs upon a black background. Stan had bright red lights, and we don't understand why his arms didn't fly off, judging from the rate at which those lights traveled. It's just too bad that Stan can't be on every bill.

Stan and Charlie then fooled around a little, and Charlie sang "Lovin' You Like I Do" and he cer- tainly won his audiences—whenever he won before, he just won them all over again. It's a real treat to hear Charlie warble, and when he started telling "Little White Lies"—well, if the song wasn't selling it would sure put it over. It ought to sell a copy to everyone at the theater, hearing Charlie sing it.

Olive Fay then appeared with a guitar, played soft music and sang "That's Why I'm Happy." George Sassy had his usual success in the house in a constant upturn with his comic songs and clever patter. You? Nothing to see but, and when he rolled into his drunken sailor act, with nothing but a sailor's cap for the illusion—well, it was just too bad. Of all the sailors in all the navies were like George, there wouldn't have to be any war. All they'd do would be to get together and sing; it would be like forming an international pike club, with a healthy thrift for the initiation fee.

(Continued on next page, column 2)
STAGE SHOWS

(Continued from preceding page, column 3)

The finale showed the whole company of the Travellers on the stage, assisted by Sil and Robert Roberts in doing a fast tap, and then the curtain rose, displaying a huge tri-motored airplane, with the wings outlined in pretty lights, and the motors purring away full blast.

A great show for Charlie's opener, and Charlie put on a great show.

Kansas City Pantages

Week Ending October 2

The Fanchen and Marx "Leo in Blue." Like most of the units which have played Kansas City, is carefully stumped and plentiful. This unit will introduce the little bits of the title and colorful and a little less to the popular than some of its predecessors.

The opening scene presents a dim blue-lighted stage, with a young man soloist. The chorus arises from the floor in blue and silver mantles and does a weird dance to symbolize the melodically "blue" song of the color. The specialty which follows is presented by two tumblers. The second chorus is in a particularly difficult and active one, with unusual costume. Perhaps the most pleasing chorus as far as costuming is concerned is the third, in which the dancers are dressed in pastel blue following effects, with silver headboards. The specialty dancer with this chorus is the most graceful and pathetic little miss to be seen here in many a day. Her name is Mitzi Mayfair. There is a dance of two statues which has come to life, and immediately after a baritone dance by two comic drummers who prove to be a whole show in themselves. The blue effects are not overdone, but are varied considerably so that there is no monotony.

San Antonio Majestic

Week Ending October 2

Little Baby Rose Marie, the National Broadcasting Company's cute six-year-old songstress headlined the current bill at the RKO Greater Majestic Theatre this week. Her crooning and hoop-a-dooing is very good for a young one, but in this reporter can visualize her as a great talking picture queen when she is grown. A big applause and several encore.

The Lander Brothers sing, talk and make merry with their chatty which keeps the audiences rearing with laughter. Their harebrained dialog and tomfoolery made the audience break up in laughter every few seconds. George Andre and company, adule dancers of the highest type, present several numbers in a most colorful manner. The costumes of his stepsisters in the act appear as different birds, their dress being made out of crepe paper feathers or something of that nature.

The Palm Beach Nights Review is made up of a series of tap dances and songs with six petite girls going, occasionally leaning backwards over the footlights and making a kind of "tintinnabulation" with their feathers. Then the Lander Brothers come in to help them to make this a longer act on the program. The boys put comedy into the number with a comic wedding, and the pretty maids are all drolled up in a presentable way as their costumes were attractive and smart. All this made a very nice closing for the finale.

Jean Sarll and his R-K-O Orans, the Majestic Greater orchestra, are heard in a novelty overture. Vernon Grey at the console of the organ renders his usual amount of musical gems in a pleasing manner.

Pittsburgh Enright

Week Ending October 2

Dick Powell, m. a., calls his stage attraction "Slow Lively and Stay Alive," because of a Safety Week Drive in Pennsylvania. The "Stay" part of the title is quite applicable when the audience is crammed with types of dancing.

In the first place, the Rockets do several novel dance steps. The girls are well drilled and are an integral part of the stage shows here. There are three tap dancers, two boys and a girl, whose names we did not get, who put on a good act. Their team work is excellent, and each solo with some difficult steps.

Then there is Roy Rogers who does a drunken dance, and is a true backwood character as the footlights
Before the Mike

By BOBBY MELLIN

Summer is here, and baseball season is ended. Dancing returns. So does Maudie Sherman, to the College Inn, Hotel Sherman, Chicago. Her daily afternoon booking in the Hotel Sherman, where she is presently a favorite. Maudie is also playing at the Casa Grandada until Paul Whiteman and the Casa Grandada Orchestra — the two, you know — who have Miss Martin, official hostess of KYW, will be interested to know that she is on hand again, after a vacation last summer. Maudie is bright, the new studio located atop the Strauss Block.

Fifteen minutes of foot stepping dance music by Jules Herbuvaux's orchestra introduces the Brownfoot Follies program to the radio audience. Friday, October 2, over a National Broadcasting company network. Jules is conductor of the studio orchestra and a "tact" player of no small repute. Another feature on the above program is the Frohme Sisters quartet. They are really sisters and the daughters of an Indianapolis dance master and have sung together ever since they were able to cry.

Although the date for the moving of the NBC offices into the new quarters on top of the Merchandise Mart, Chicago, was officially September 15, the office of Don Bernard, program manager, was ready and waiting for him two days earlier, September 13th. Thursday hangs a tale. All through Bernard's life, the number "13" has played a conspicuous part. Bernard was born on the 13th, married on the 13th, and entered both college and the music conservatory on that date. Anxious to open his office on his lucky day, Bernard pulled in which made it possible for him to stage a personal and opening two days ahead of the rest of the NBC.

Dropped in to see Miss Patricila Ann Manners the other day. She is the life of the broadcast is at a loss to understand why she did not enter the Miss Radio contest held by the NBC. She is uniquely gifted among the contemporary with the most charming miss in radio, for Patricia is petite, strikingly auburn locks, blue eyes and one of those "beams and cream" complexion, and a personality no one can possibly resist — Irving Margriff continues to please radio listeners twice daily from the Blackstone hotel. Tune in to his entrancing music.

Ted Pearson, whose twenty-seven years seem to be the fact that he is one of the veteran announcers on the broadcast. Ted, has recently been promoted to head of the production department for the Chicago studios. Pearson earned this honor by his excellent work as an announcer and production man during the past two years with the NBC. He announces such outstanding broadcasts as the "Armore Hour," "Shale Echoes," "Radio Household Institute," "Keystone Chronicle," and others, and has been in charge of many other specials for our outstanding chain programs.

One of the hardest working individuals in the music business is Irving Ullman, manager of Joe Morris' Chicago office. There is no doubt of the Chicago music man that the success of "Somewhere in Old Wyoming" and many other Morris song hits was due to the uncanny ability of Ullman to get in and land plagues where others fear to tread. Irving is in the old school, and never lets up on a plug until he makes sure that his plug song is set.

Our very good friend Jimmy Green leaves the Golden Pheasant Club, the West Side end, although booked for another job, cannot say what it is yet — Eddie Nelson replaces Herbie Carlin at the Goyon's Paradise Road. and is scheduled here for an indefinite period. Eddie is a Chicago favorite, having played at the Trianon and the Majestic with marvelous success. — It is rumored that Jack Crawford and his orchestra will soon be in Chicago playing at a ballroom on the West Side.

Charlie Arge, formerly master of ceremonies at both the Avalon and Capitol theatres, is back here again. Charlie is the leader of the Merry Garden Ballroom orchestra, and doing a very fine job of it. This is really Charlie's first love, for he is a student of J. E. Lamp, who conducted the Aragon and Trianon orchestra and turned out such leaders as Wayne King and Dell Lamp. Charlie always has a smile for his many friends and admirers and welcomes them to the Merry Garden for a merry time.

STAGE SHOWS

(Continued from preceding page, column 2)

San Francisco Fox
Week Ending October 2

This week's musical offering at the Fox theatre features Horne King, guest conductor, and the grand concert orchestra in a medley of light opera selections. An elaborate tableau participated in by twelve girls forms a lovely interlude in this being in the form of a Holland flower market, with girls in gay costumes, a wealth of flowers, and flower wagons drawn by dogs, with a Dutch windmill in action in the background.

The Fanchon and Marco stage offering is a "Southern Belle Idea," presented in a typical Southern setting and poppy with shuffle and crinoline ruffles. The opening curtain reveals Helen Warner, a stately young lady with a double-barreled voice singing in front of an old Southern mansion. At the conclusion of her song, twelve girls come out from beneath her hoop skirt and do a dance number, with twelve others. Some of the girls do a surprise turn by suddenly throwing their gowns over their heads, and then they take the form of diminutive Mammies, the old-fashioned bunsters forming a large circle around the stage.

Horne King offers a medley of airs on the piano, assisted by the orchestra and Hot Chocolate, a tap dancer, struts his rapid fire stuff. Nine girls come on in unique costumes which suggest that they are standing on their heads, and when so often it is difficult to tell whether they are standing on their feet or on their heads.

V. Joe Reynolds offers an acrobatic act, featured by hand-springs, and Helen Warner sings, "You Brought Me A New Kind of Love," glowing with Horne King. Jimmy Lyons, The Ambassador of Horns, is featured with a drum, and does some rapid fire talking that wins a burst of laughs.

The Southern Beauties, adorned in ruffles and crinoline, dance to music of past years and end with a cabaret in which all the performers take part. Hatt and Herman do a comic act on a set of springs, with Herman in the role of a beginner, but a very willing one.

The act is brought to a close by the girls swarming over a rope net at the rear of the stage and going through acrobatic stunts to fast music. The show is well balanced, but is without any real headliner.

San Antonio Texas
Week Ending September 25

The title of the current Public stage show at the Texas theatre this week is "Country Club Revue," featuring "The Earl and His Stage Band Boys, who have been holding full over all these units for some time. Ewen Hall sings "If I Could Be With You One Hour Tonight." Headlining the bill was Tex McLeod, known as "The King of the West," who does his Texas, yodeling, comical nonsense, etc. He received a nice hand and made the patrons feel pleased. Grauman, Hess and Van clean out every store and the performers, entertained in a most pleasing manner, and got a good hand, too. The Darling Twins, whom I reviewed at this house last year, presented an act of musical comedy which was quite different from that of last time, was well received by the natives. The Country Club Girls, twelve-in-line, all were seen in the finale composed of dances and song.

George Heiner and the Texas Grand orchestra in the pit, operated Operatic Gems, while Leo Weber, dynamic exponent of a wide repertory, played as his organ solo, "We're On the Air," a novelty number that got off to a fine start and encore came at the finish.

Chicago Chicago
Week Ending October 2

Al Evans, as master of ceremonies, did his share to make the stage presentation, "Vogues and Varieties" a half hour well spent for the patrons this week. The program opens with Al and his stage band behind a curtain in their usual spot, and the music while the Sharp ballet marches from the wings in flowing robes. The dancing girls discard their robes, go through a stepping number and work, to which Evans takes the limelight with his singing of "Little White Lies." He is his own accompanist at the piano and his tenor voice does the rest.

Somehow Al Evans' dignified way of mastering at the ceremonies is exceptionally pleasant. He doesn't fall all over himself and the footlights to please the crowd, but he doesn't need to. His type is the kind that one won't tire of in a hurry. He is en-

(Continued on next page, column 1)

ORGAN SOLOS

"Let's Do Some Imitations" — "Glorifying the American Song"

"A Goling We Will Go" and now

"Let's Be Unusual"

Every Solo a Wow! WIRE

MILTON KAE

Kae Studios, 125 W. 45th St., N. Y. C.
The Oklahoma City Orpheum
Week Ending September 26
The splendid R. P. Sharpe vaudeville and talking picture program presented at the Orpheum brings a group of acts seldom surmounted for entertainment qualities. Here are the famous comic vaudeville stars, Geraldine and Jo, in "Something Different," and Lane, Osbourne and Chico, a "Classical Diversion." Tom and Ray Evans, "Nobby Nippit," Harry Holmes, in "The Festivital," and the screen presents "A Noire Affaire" (FN), with Billie Dove and Bixl Rhodesbone.

Chicago Paradise
Week Ending October 4
Mark Fisher put on a whole of a show, a fitting anniversary presentation, as it was called, which went under the title of "Gingerbreads," and was a Frank Cambria production. Excellent acts, driving good music, and Mark put on the finishing touches by his masterly rendition of a few songs. You could collect yourself long enough to take your attention from the stage, just to glance around and notice with what rapid concentration, we might say, the audience had its eyes and ears glued on the stage, was a triumph in itself, as the show was going over, and in great style. But to a brief resume (it really should be given two columns).

The opening number found Mark out on the stage, attired as a gingerbread man should be, at least from the memory we have of the story books we read way back when. He sings his Little song, and then out come two little ladies, the Harrington Sisters, and they have taken their gingerbread men and want them repaired, or better yet, some brand new ones. So Mark gives the magic words, and the Gingerbread men come alive as very chill chefs, with pans of bread in their hands. They go through a clapping, funny, and finally it seems as though they are gone. A group, the lights go out, and there is a dancing ginger bread "radium" man, slowly dancing off the stage. Very effective, and the people raved.

Mark then gave a lengthy dissertation about John Smith (Al Smith ran for president, but John ran for Congress) and with some effects of the orchestra, from trumpet blares to raspberries. A few jokes, and the hand seemed to get a great kick out of it.

Next, the Harrington Sisters appeared, dressed in the black, little lady, and sang the old "Do I Care," very pathetically, and very humorously. Then they sang a little song entitled, "We're Going to Be Gold-diggers," and when they came on the stage, one carried a pick and the other a shovel, and they both wore miner's caps, and carried a sack to put the ore in. Their harmony was of the tingling variety, and every body sat and listen hours to, and they sang with so much ease that it didn't seem possible that they could be heard beyond the four lights, yet their voices just floated to every nook and corner.

A tap dance par excellence, in fact, we can't remember having seen anything like it, was put on by Dick and Edith Barcuse. On their toes every minute, running up and down stairs and not losing a beat. A most marvelous exhibition of skill and talent. They have taken years on the stage to perfect it, and the applause which they received was ample (we hope), for all the time and strain it took to learn to do it well. If we had a score board, we'd put them down at 100 per cent, and more, if we only knew what it was.

Mark then sang "Waiting for Ships That Never Come In," and did sing it. The audience was most excellent from the time he opened his mouth until he closed it at the end of the song. When he pointed and said "see the ships," well, it just seemed as though there they were, and you could almost hear the lapping of the water as it was swayed upon the stage. Much excellent for an show goes to Mark.

Rome and Gaut, the "tall and short of it," put on about fifteen minutes of plain foolishness that drew plenty of laughs. It seemed like all legs and no less, and the dances they did—well, there's no need to try and describe them because they would be impossible. Needless to say they were well received.

The grand finale found all the acts on the stage, doing their bits, and the curtain fell on an anniversary show that deserved every bit of that title, and made the word anniversary mean something.

Chicago Tivoli
Week Ending October 2
Frankie Masters presents "Hottest 'n' Hot!" as this week's offering. The show has everything from aero-batics to dancing to singing and Frankie has on important part in all. The acts include, "Noisy Neighbor," "Al Harrington," "Mindless Holmes," "The Festivital," and "A Noire Affaire." Frankie, always manages to dig a few additional laugher out of every act that the other performers couldn't find.

As the curtain rises, the Lambert Ballet dances out to the tune of "Dream Lover," a number played by the stage orchestra. Then Masters steps forth and sings "Swinging in a Hammock." His mellow tenor voice gets hearty applause. Frankie has certainly entrenchened himself in the hearts of the southwest Chicago youngsters.

Eddie Knoll, the male portion of the Lambert unit, draws a good reception with his handsprings and earthwheels in a solo dance.

To illustrate how "Swinging in a Hammock" would be sang among Masters have the box offices give Irish, Spanish, Scotch and German versions, and finally Chicou's own way of playing it, which he interprets at "hot.

A beautiful fan dance by the Lambert dancers, in Japanese costume, serves to introduce the Kanazawa. A set of five Jap acrobats. They toss each other about with an abandon that shocks the audience out draws a big hand. A few intentional mishaps are thrown in to make the stunts more interesting. In their last stunt Masters, always willing to help out, steps in to show the Japs how it should be done and gets himself considerably mused up.

Dalton and Craig, male and female dance comedy gives, due an act that goes over fairly well, but would be much better if cut down to half the length. It takes them too long to get started, but when they do the humor is rather lively. They must have been on the stage fully 15 minutes. During the last five minutes they were good. The rest of the time it was just flabby slapstick.

Lillian Roth, the screen star who is bringing the smiles at the box office with her personal appearance this week, sings four numbers, the best being "Loveydown" and "Sing You Sinners." She is well received. For an encore she puts on a wrestling match, with Frankie as her worthy opponent. Masters gets a bit the worst of it. In fact, he drops to the canvas but rise radiating with excitement.

This comic the the end into guffaws of laughter.

A group of girls who stand more driller on their steps form a half circle around Frankie and do the dance "Gone Funny." The Three Novellettes chimes in on another song for the finale.

Emil Vandah directs the Tivoli orchestra in the feature, "The Soldier."
Baby Console Idea Aids Program; Put Over By Ron and Don
(Continued from page 50, column 1)
phone record was used along with the organs, and the orchestra joined in. For atmosphere charged hammers, which produced electric sparks when they struck the anvil, were used.
Opening at the Portland house with "How Do You Do, Everybody, How Do You Do," they swung into a parody on the popular tune, entitled "Our Fate Is in Your Hands," then played "In the Air," "Counting the Stars Alone," "Honey" and "Tiptoe
Through the Tulips. The initial presentation established the team with a bang.

Atmosphere is Stressed
In all of their offerings the team uses slides and stresses atmosphere. A large measure of Ron and Don's success can be attributed to the unique manner, in which they project their personalities into their offerings, each of which is built on a central idea.

The Baby Console, which is said to be the smallest playable organ in the world, and is less than 36 inches in height, breadth, and depth, adds individuality to the programs. The small instrument was built according to the team's specifications and was introduced to showgoers Feb. 16, 1929.
It is connected to the main organ by a cable 185 feet long and through an infrac-itive system of wiring the whole range of the four manual organ is available. Ten combination pistons, directly above the keys, make change of tone color possible.
An example of the scale of size of the "Baby" is the dimensions of the pedal keyboard for the feet. The pedals are just 1½ inches over all, while the ordinary pedal rises some 9 inches off the floor.

Makes for Versatile Programs Enough time has now elapsed to prove the Baby Console of lasting value. It makes many versatile programs possible and the movability is a feature especially useful in the Saturday morning Organ Club programs. The club, which was organized at the Seattle last fall, has proved a decided boon to the box office. About a thousand children come every Saturday morning and gladly pay their dimes. Contests of all kinds—dancing, singing, playing various instruments and recitations, in which the children vie for prizes—and community singing, are on the bill.
Ron and Don are now organizing an Organ Club in Portland, and it is expected that the young fans will become as attached as did the Seattle boys and girls who tearfully turned out by the hundreds to bid the team farewell.

Rex Mayne Makes Change
(Special to the Herald-World)
SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 2.—Rex Mayne, Vitaphone recording artist and former master of ceremonies at the Gunter Nite Club, is now serving in a similar capacity at the Shadowland Night Club, enhance-resort featuring Miss Julia Garthy, blues singer, in the floor show.

Plantation Nite Club at San Antonio Reopens
(Special to the Herald-World)
SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 2.—The Plantation Nite Club on the Sommers Road reopened today under the management of Rilla East, with an army of stage and screen entertainers which includes: Jack and Betty Baker, formerly with George Olsen's Jungle Inn of Hollywood, California; Dolly Sterling, comedienne of Warner Brothers' Hollywood Studios; William Ritchie, a former master of ceremonies on the Publics Circuit, will act in a similar capacity, and Russell Lewis and His 10 Monarchs will provide the music for the floor show numbers. There are two shows of vaudeville nightly.

Lucky Strike Orchestra on Air 3 Times a Week
The Lucky Strike dance orchestra, under the direction of B. A. Rolfe, has inaugurated a third weekly appearance over the NBC network in addition to the two which it formerly made each week.

The new program is scheduled for Tuesday evenings at 9:15 o'clock, eastern standard time, coming from Station WRAP, New York. The other two weekly programs are given on Thursday and Saturday evenings.

Organist Presents Recital
Of Own Compositions
(Special to the Herald-World)
OAKLAND, Calif., Oct. 2.—Baron Hartough, organist at the Fox L. & R. theatre here proved a draw card by presenting a concert of some of his original compositions. The offering was featured under the title of "My Song of Slim," with an orchestra arrangement by Peter Bresila, musical director of the theatre. The lyrics were by Elliott Ames.

Report Shubert House to Use Publix Units
(Special to the Herald-World)
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2.—It has been reported that Keith's Chestnut Street theatre, a legitimate house controlled by the Shuberts, will play Paramount product, with Publix units and a stage band.
It has a seating capacity of 2,000 seats and will be in direct opposition to the Earl, a Warner theatre, only a block away.

Discontinue Publix Office
(Special to the Herald-World)
CLEVELAND, Oct. 2.—The Publix branch office here has been discontinued, having become consolidated with the office in Buffalo, N. Y. Clayton Bros. booker, has been transferred to the Denver office of Publix.

CHARLIE CRAFTS
Acclaimed by Press and Public
CHICAGO'S
Favorite Master of Ceremonies
2 Years at the Capitol and Avalon Theatres
Now at the Publix Ace House
Oriental Theatre Indefinitely
Chicago
ORGAN SOLOS

HARRY ZIMMERMAN (Bolmont Chicago) was greeted with applause again when his name was flashed on the screen for the opening of his last week's solo entitled "Experiments" showing that the audience anticipates his offering each week. His first numbers were "Just a Little Closer" and "There's Danger in Your Eyes, Cherie." Then followed an experiment with the girls to find out which class of girls sang the loudest—blondes, transfers, clerks, etch. Then followed—saxophone, book- luggers, real men, etc., to the tune of "Sweethearts on Parade" that seemed to tickle the audience. The next experiment was to see whether the audience could sing "Constantinople" without the aid of the organ. They tried but failed and Harry broke in with the organ. Following this the audience was asked to sing Constantinople backwards with gaps interspersed in the melody. Harry closed his solo with "If the Nightingales Could Sing Like You" and the audience went wild applauding well into the short subject that was flashed on the screen. If at all possible he should have taken an encore, but having no one else on first a wise move so show men say and there is logic in those words.

JACK MEYER (Brooklyn, N. Y., Fox Carlson) presented an entertaining novelty called "A Popular Song Parade," which was a review of songs of today, yesterday and tomorrow. Meyer has the happy faculty of easily making friends, and it appears that everyone coming to this house are personal friends of his, attimass, when attending in the rear of the house, nine-tenths of the patrons greet him by his first name. Consequently, when his organ solo goes on, Meyer does not have to spur them on, because they seem naturally to get right in to the spirit, and as if their lives depended on it. Meyer offered several classic or eight songs for his audience to sing this week, which included: "This Is a Hammock," "All the Stars Above You," "Where Can You Be?" "When You're Smiling," "Just a Little Closer," "Pickle Pete," "Nobody Cares If I'm Blue" and "Bye Bye Blues.

HAL PEARL (Sheridan Chicago) has some of the cleverest stunts and some of the best special material that I have ever seen. "Full P捣k-a-luick" is the title of the solo that I have in mind dealing in the passing of Summer and the coming of Winter. Some of the numbers: "Dancing in a Hammock," "Exactly Like You," "Little White Lies," and "My Wild Irish Rose." The biggest stunt: "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" he instructed the audience to sing the words loudest that were larger than the rest on the slide, this proved more than amusing to the audience. The next novelty was written around the phrase "Are You the Tree?" substituting the sobriquet of the old days for under the tree and injecting a lot of comedy. He closed the solo with "You Brought a New Kind of Love to Me" and should have taken an encore. His popularity here is increasing each week.

BOB WEST (Brooklyn, N. Y., Fox), the cheer-leader manner of the organ, is back after a very successful six weeks at the Fox, Washington, where he made just as many friends as he has in this city. (From the tremendous ovations given him at each performance one would think he is the hair-brained boy of the organ world) had the stage re-arranged for his return solo offers sneaks of the new, spontaneous, happy, entertaining novelties which this audience likes so well. It is called "Hello Pals," and is a medley of "sizable" songs including the following: "Sing You Sinners" (special version), "Ro-Ro-Rolling Along," "Dancing With Tears" (also special), "New Kind of Love," "Happened in Montana," "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," "Swinging in a Hammock," a tongue twister about "Sea Shells," to the tune of "Tiptoe Through the Tulips" and a final encore of "New Kind of Love." Bob pep up the audience with clever gags and clever talk after each song, and most of all really entertain them.

PRESTON SELLERS (Oriental Chicago) gave a clever little solo of seven numbers which were in the form of a travelogue, the whole scheme being a true record of his trip to America First, and which included nearly all of the country. The first slide was projected on the screen which, accompanied with moving pictures, gave the impression of being on a train, and was called, "Bye Bye Blues." Then came New York with "East Side West Side" after which the train reached Miami in a hurry, where they were playing the "Kiss Waltz." The next slide was "The Con- nut Grove. Then there was the Everglades to the tune of "Chloe" to Denver, where it was "Springtime in the Rockies." After leaving there, the tour got to Reno as "Little White Lies" were being played, and finally back to Chicago to the grand tune of "Hitchways Are Happy Ways." Everybody liked it, and they sang in a manner left no doubt in anyone's mind.

BEST SELLERS

Week Ending September 27

No. 1 "Little White Lies"—(Donaldson).
No. 2 "When It's Springtime"—(Villa Moret).
No. 3 "Betty Co-Ed"—(Carl Fischer).
No. 4 "Dancing with Tears"—(M. Witmark).
No. 5 "Kiss Waits"—(M. Witmark).
No. 6 "Somehere in Old Wyoming"—(J. Murphy).
No. 7 "If I Could Be with You"—(Remick).
No. 8 "Moonlight on Colorado"—(Shapiro).
No. 9 "Grove. 55 Meyer back.*
No. 10 "Words Jesse me form idea Byaldson, music Stein.—(Leo Feist)."

"DON'T TELL HER WHAT HAPPENED TO ME"—(De Sylva, Brown & Henderson)—A beautiful song by this hit combination. A powerful lyric and a great tune. Looks like another "Broken Hearted." By B. G. De Sylva, Leo, Brown and Bay Henderson.

"TRAV'LIN' ALL ALONE"—(Harms, Inc.)—A big thought in this song. A sort of spiritual but still different. Will be great for the better class songsters. Words and music by J. C. Johnson.

"MY BABY CARES FOR ME"—(Donaldson, Dougl- es & Gamble)—A hot tune by a master of this type. Is in the new Eddie Cantor picture, "Woopeez." This picture, from all reports, is in the bag so this song should go on a long ways. Made by Walter Donald- son, words by Gia Kuhn.

"THIS IS A NIGHT MADE FOR LOVE"—(Harris & Newman)—A local firm publishes this song and the man who wrote it also started it selling. Is composed and has some real merit. Words and music by Herbert Kay and Ros Metayer.

"JUST A LITTLE DANCE, MAM'SELLE"—(Irving Berlin, Inc.)—A cute French idea that reminds one of "Whoopee." This picture, from all reports, is in the bag so this song should go on a long ways. Made by Walter Donald- son, words by Gia Kuhn.

Lewis Manne Butler, Inc. MUSIC PUBLISHERS 54 W. Randolph St., Chicago, Ill.

Now in the East with the Sensational Hit of the West "What a Fool I've Been" (To Believe in You) Now in New York City EDDIE LEWIS Located at the Somerset Hotel Make Certain You See Him

WEEK ENDING SEPTEMBER 27

No. 1 "Little White Lies"—(Donaldson, Douglas & Gamble).
No. 2 "Springtime in the Rockies"—(Villa Moret).
No. 3 "If I Could Be With You" (One Hour Tonight)—(Remick).
No. 4 "Betty Co-Ed"—(Carl Fischer).
No. 5 "Dancing With Tears in My Eyes"—(M. Witmark & Sons).
No. 6 "Kiss Waits"—(M. Witmark & Sons).
No. 7 "Down the River of Golden Dreams"—(Leo Feist).
No. 8 "I'll Still Get a Thrill"—(Davis, Coots & Engle).
No. 9 "So Beats My Heart For You"—(DeSylva, Brown & Henderson).
No. 10 "Moonlight on the Colorado"—(Shap- piro, Bernstein).
No. 11 "Somehere in Old Wyoming"—(Joe Morri).
No. 12 "What's the Use"—(Leo Feist).
No. 13 "Swingin' in a Hammock"—(Irrgin Berl).
No. 15 "Just a Little Closer"—(Robbins Music Co.).
No. 16 "Tell Her What Happened"—(DeSylva, Brown & Henderson).
No. 17 "My Future Just Passed"—(Famous).
No. 18 "When the Organ Played at Twilight"—(Sinatra Bros.).
No. 19 "I'll Be Blue Just Thinking of You"—(Leo Feist).
No. 20 "Don't Mind Walking in the Rain"—(Forister).
No. 21 "If I Had a Girl Like You"—(Leo Feist).
No. 22 "Old New England Moon"—(Irrgin Berl).
No. 23 "Stein Song"—(Carl Fischer).
Mail Order Bargains

WE UNDERSELL THEM ALL—BRAND NEW MERCHANDISE—FACTORY TO YOU. Acoustical Felt, $29.50 sq. yd.; Theatre Flush Carpet, $10 per yd; Daenven Fireproof Drapes, 49c sq. ft.; W. E. Approved Sound Screens, 50c sq. ft.; Sound Mixers, $5.20; Sound-On-Film Heads, $198.50; Phonocorder, $145.55; G. E. Exciter Lamps, $60; Optical Systems, $28.50; Heat lamps, $25.60; 4 1/2 h.p. Synchronous Motors, $95.00; Turntables with Resonchamber, $90.00; Samson-Film 19 Amplifiers, $60.00; Audax Turned Puckets, $33.95; Standard Audax, $17.95; Wright-DuCofer Horns, $17.45; Giant Exponential Units, $46.35; Constant Faders, $13.90; Jensen Speakers, $17.80; Exponential Horns, $48.50. Bargains. Demonstrators, Rebuilt Booth Equipment, Projectors, Arcs. Refer to letter. Write or send your needs. Address Service-On-Sound Corporation, 1600 Broadway, New York City, New York.

Theatres for Sale or Rent

RENT THEATRE—PERFECT SOUND. County seat town. Lowest competition 65 miles away. Have to see location to appreciate deal. Talking equipment for sale. Address Post Office Box 241, Santa Rosa, New Mexico.

FOR SALE—ONLY PICTURE SHOW IN TOWN of 1,000 population. Talkie, for sale at a great sacrifice, must be sold before Oct. 1st. Address Box 501, Exhibitors Herald-World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Illinois.

FOR SALE—ONLY MODERN THEATRE WITH SOUND in radius of 40 miles; 660 seats: Sunday night, 6:30; Southeastern Nebraska. Address Box 397, Exhibitors Herald-World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Illinois.

FOR SALE—THEATRE F/AST GROWING TEXAS TOWN 3,500, no competition, good sound, clearing $600 month. Requires $1,000 cash to handle. Save stamps if you have this amount. Address Box 508, Exhibitors Herald-World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Illinois.

Theatres Wanted

WANTED—TO BUY OR LEASE, THEATRE IN Northwestern or Western State. Population over 5,000. Give full details in first letter. Address Box 503, Exhibitors Herald-World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Illinois.

WANT TO RENT—SILENT OR TALKIE theatre in town over 4,000 population. Give full details in first letter. Address Box 483, Exhibitors Herald-World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Illinois.

BEFORE YOU BUY A THEATRE, CONSULT US. Profitable houses always on hand. Address Albert Goldman, 5 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

WANT TO RENT TALKIE THEATRE, EQUIPPED. Town of 5,000. No opposition. Address Box 496, Exhibitors Herald-World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Illinois.

Positions Wanted

ARIZONA—NEW MEXICO EXHIBITORS—A YOUNG MAN, experienced sound projection duties; desires change; best of reference; reasonable, no reputation. Address E. F. Stahl, c/o National Theatre, Phoenix, Arizona.

Equipment for Sale

FOR SALE—150 square yards quarter-inch acoustic felt, 50c per yard, f.o.b. One Bell & Howell Induc- tor Compensator, 22 frames, 60 cycle, 40-60 amperes. Address John A. Greve, Ritz Theatre, Oak Creek, Colorado.

FOR SALE—Illusia Sound Screen, 12 x 16, with frame. Two 490 series 1 Super Lite Lenses, been used sixty days, 70 amperi General Electric Generator, price reasonable. Address Liberty Theatre, Providence, Rhode Island.

ONE PACE DISC TALKING EQUIPMENT IN PERFECT CONDITION—$600.00 cash. One extra good Simplex only slightly used for $400.00. One Simplex, good condition, for $300.00; one Powers 61 including GE Mazda units for $200.00; one Re- producer Pipe Organ for $150.00. Address Royal Theatre, Arkadelphia, Arkansas.

FOR SALE—ONE PHOTOTONE PRACTICALLY NEW. With 75 records, $350.00. One Compensator Are in very good shape, $25.00. Address Pastime Theatre, Lorainville, Louisiana.

MOVIEPHONE TALKING PICTURE EQUIP- MENT FOR SALE. Two machines including two stage amplifying horns and one booth horn set up for Powers 6A and Simplex Machines. Sale on account excepted lease. Price complete, $450. Address C. O. Littlefield, Whitman, Mass.

ADDITIONAL CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING ON FOLLOWING PAGE

BIG BARGAINS—Rebuilt Simplex Motor Driven Machines with type "T" Lamp Houses with late type flat belt friction drive speed controls, $300.00 each. Re-built Powers 6 B Motor Driven Machine, $231.00 each. Re-built Powers 6 A, $115.00 each. Deluxe Monograph machine, $225.00 each. Big stock of re-built Simplex machines for D. C. or A. C. current. Generators, all makes, ticket selling machines, film containers, etc. All at bargain prices for immediate shipment. Write for bargain list. Illinois Theatre Equipment Co., 1150 South Michigan Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

FOR SALE—TWO SETS OF TALKIE TURN- TABLE SIMPLEX—with motors and pickups, $150.00. One set for Powers or Simplex with pickups, $75.00. Address W. T. Zimmerman, Warrensburg, Missouri.

FOR SALE—2 Powers 6A Machines, Mazda equilib, 500, $275.00. Double 25, $110.00; Double 30, $140.50. Double 75, $615.00. Send for literature. Western Motion Picture Company, Danville, Illinois.

THEATRE EQUIPMENT, new and used. Operas chairs, projectors, screens, generators, reflecting arc lamps, etc. Write for bargain list and catalog. Address Movie Supply Co., 844 Washah Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

TWO COMPLETELY REBUILT SIMPLEX MACHINES with double bearing movements and Ashbrook low intensity lamps for $1000. Address Box 310, Exhibitors Herald-World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

THREE REBUILT $500 AUTOMATIC ABC COULED-REPLACEMENT-WRAP-AROUND-MOTOR-ARC-AMPS, 100 ampere, $250 each. Address Box 312, Exhibitors Herald-World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

Will Trade—Equipment

WILL TRADE—STANDARD DEVRY MOTION PICTURE CAMERA for pair Simplex Mazda Limp-houses with registers. Address Diamond Theatre, Lake Odessa, Michigan.

Stationery

Equipment Wanted

USED DISC EQUIPMENT FOR Powers Projectors, must be reasonable. Address Alamo Theatre, Plainfield, Illinois.

WANT SEVERAL SIMPLEX MECHANISMS in good or poor condition or incomplete. Address Pred- dey, 187 Golden Gate, San Francisco, California.

WANTED—GOOD USED DRAPES. Send price, sizes, colors in first letter. Address Silver Hill theatre, Osb.ub, Nebraska.

WANTED TO BUY—At best cash prices, Simplex Projectors—Mechanisms or complete machines. Address Joe Spratler, 12-14 East Ninth St., Chicago, Illinois.

WANTED—Peerless or Simplex projectors, also Strong reflector arc lamps. State price, condition and number of machines. Will pay cash, or one-third down and balance on delivery. Address Box 317 Exhibitors Herald-World, 400 S. Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois.

HIGHEST PRICES paid for used opera chairs, projection machines, etc. Address Movie Supply Co., 844 Washah Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

WANTED—GOOD SIMPLEX PROJECTOR. Address Ben Brinck, West Point, Iowa.

Chairs for Sale

FOR SALE—1000 Upholstered Squat Seats, Panel backs covered in imitation Spanish Leather, $2.00 each; 500 Upholstered Chairs with Squat Seats, covered with imitation Spanish Leather, Venetian backs, $1.80 each; 1500 Used Fyly Venetian Chairs, $0.50 each. Illinois Theatre Equipment Co., 1150 South Michigan Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

FOR SALE—253 THEATRE CHAIRS. Used about three years. Like new. Leather upholstered box spring seats, figured velvet backs. Address Strand theatre, Platteville, Wisconsin.

OPERA CHAIRS FOR SALE—SIX HUNDRED LIGHT Venetian chairs at very reasonable prices. Address Wm. Brooks, Johnson City, N. Y.

OPERA CHAIRS, seats and backs for all makes, five feet, at prices that save you money. John in new and used chairs. Address Redington Company, Scranton, Penna.

BIG BARGAIN in used Opera Chairs, 600 upholstered, 600 veneer. Address Movie Supply Co., 844 Washah Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

$50 3 and 5 ply chairs, extra bottoms, $1 each. Address E. Van Huying, Iola, Kan.

Managers’ Schools

WANTED THEATRE EMPLOYEES to learn modern theatre management and theatre advertising. The Institute’s training leads to better positions. Write for particulars. Address Theatre Managers Institute, 321 Washington St., Elmina, N. Y.

Films for Sale

BIG STOCK OF WESTERNS, SERIALS, CAR- TOONS AND COMEDIES priced low for quick sale. Write at once for our list if you are in the market to buy for CASH. Address Security Pictures, Film Exchange Building, Omaha, Nebr.

COMEDIES, ACTION, WESTERN and Sensa- tional Subjects at lowest prices. Perfect condition film. Address Colonial Film & Supply Co., 630 Ninth Ave, New York, N. Y.

Projector Repairing

SKILLED MECHANICS, specialized tools, and a shop equipped for but one purpose can offer you nothing but the best in repair work. That is what I have, and I can offer you the best in the overhauling of your motion picture machinery equipment. One of the oldest repair men in the territory, and serving some of the largest houses. Equipment furnished free. For results bring your work to Joseph Spratler, 12-14 E. Ninth St., Chicago, Illinois.

Side-Lines

Miscellaneous

THEATRE ADVERTISING—FLASHY 3 x 8 BILLS: 1,000, $1.00; 5,000, $4.25, postpaid. King Shopprint, Warren, Illinois.

BANNERS—1x10 cloth, $2.00; paper, $1.50. Scene- cards—Lobby-Cards. Address Pueblo Sign Shop, Pueblo, Colorado.

THEATRE LOBBY FRAMES—Manufactured to your. Low cost. Address Gem Frame Company, 2805 Brighton, Kansas City, Mo.

TRAILERS ON ALL FEATURES. Reasonable rentals. Address Worldscope Service, Box 4673, Kansas City, Mo.
THE VOICE OF THE INDUSTRY

LETTERS FROM READERS

Universal’s “Dracula”

To Have Romance and Thrills

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 2. — After puzzling for many weeks as to whether “Dracula,” soon to be produced by Universal, should be a thriller or a romance, Carl Laemmle, Jr., and Tod Browning decided to make it both. Accordingly, Lewis Ayres, whose work in “All Quiet on the Western Front” brought him national prominence, and Helen Chandler have been cast as the two lovers. As for the thrill portion, Louis Bromfield has written a screen adaptation of the novel by Bram Stoker which is said to preserve every possible thrill of the story. Bela Lugosi has been engaged to play Count Dracula, the role which he created on the New York stage, and Edward Van Sloan, also of the original cast, has been signed to play Van Helsing. Universal chiefs expect “Dracula” to achieve a box office equality to that of “Seventh Heaven.”

No Draw, Says Hancock

HERE’S ANOTHER PICTURE I WOULD like to report on—Sins of the Children (MG M). Why the producers go out and get these old stage stars with a broken dialect and foist them onto the public is more than I can tell. This Sins of the Children is about as poor a picture from the audience point of view as we have ever played. It is the first time in some months that we have had walkouts, the last being another Metro picture—Redemption, with John Gilbert. Laemmle commits the same error with Conrad Veidt. They don’t mean a thing to the average audience. No draw at the box office. Louis Mumm may be a draw in the legitimate stage but he is a long way from it in pictures. The average small town exhibitor has been in a tough spot this year and it looks a little brighter with good weather, but pictures must be good to hold them.—A. E. Hancock, Columbia theatre, Columbus, Ohio.

Three Outstanding Films

WE RECENTLY HAD THREE OUTSTANDING plays, Flight (Col), So This Is London (Fox), and The Border Legion (Par). The Texan (Par), Son of the Gods (FN), and Untamed (MGM) were good. Melody Man (Col), Maxicli Rose (Col), The Golden Gulf (Fox) were fair to good; Harmony at Home (Fox), and Sweethearts and Wives (FN) not good; and this week will get even worse.—So This Is London caused more comment than any play we have had to date. People are wild about Will Rogers, especially the older people. This brought out people seldom seen in the theatre, and the Democrats came out strong. Everyone likes his droll ways and pithy sayings in their homely garb. They think he is a real old-time American of the old hickory days. I wish Fox would give him other plays just like this, with Will discovering Germany, China, Japan, etc., and getting off his dry witicisms and take-offs, both on the countries in the film—and on ours. He is a mental as well as a box office tonic.

Ralph Graves, Jack Holt and Lila Lee put over Flight with a bang. It is as good as Wings. Richard Arlen, Jack Holt and Fay Wray make a fine trio in The Border Legion, and it’s a dandy for 10 weeks, as to whether “Dracula,” soon to be produced by Universal, should be a thriller or a romance, Carl Laemmle, Jr., and Tod Browning decided to make it both. Accordingly, Lewis Ayres, whose work in “All Quiet on the Western Front” brought him national prominence, and Helen Chandler have been cast as the two lovers. As for the thrill portion, Louis Bromfield has written a screen adaptation of the novel by Bram Stoker which is said to preserve every possible thrill of the story. Bela Lugosi has been engaged to play Count Dracula, the role which he created on the New York stage, and Edward Van Sloan, also of the original cast, has been signed to play Van Helsing. Universal chiefs expect “Dracula” to achieve a box office equality to that of “Seventh Heaven.”

Plaque Draws Attention

WE ARE VERY GRATEFUL TO YOU for the valuable bronze plaque for good sound just awarded this theatre, and assure you that we consider same a great mark of honor. This plaque, now on display in our lobby, is a memorandum from the general public, and we feel certain it will go a long way towards helping up the high standard of excellence in everything for which our house has been noted since its opening. Again thanking you, we are,—Henry F. Offutt, State theatre, Frankfort, Ky.

Educator Extols Technic

Of “The Big House”

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer points out as an interesting sidelight on the success of the prison drama, “The Big House,” the number of spontaneous tributes accorded the film by editorial writers, educators and other critics. One of them is a signed article in a California paper, called “I Visit the Big House,” by Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, in which he terms the picture: “In its technical excellence, one of the triumphs of the talking screen.”

Through? Hope Not!

I WANT TO SAY A FEW WORDS about the picture we are playing tonight. It’s a Warner Brothers production under the name of Those Who Dance, and advertised by them as an underworld crime plot picture. This kind of paper advertising placed out in my lobby kills the interest of the picture long before it comes on my screen. In buying this kind of a picture and this kind of advertising I am laying something to ruin my business with. I am through, brother exhibitors, because after all we say and do, and all we have said and done in the past, the big producers still ignore our wants and give us what suits them. So it’s up to you to fight. I will wait for results and still read what you say. I’ll play 10 pictures whether I come from now on, but my comments on them are at an end.—WALTER OOM & SONS, Dixie theatre, Durant, Miss.

(P.S.—Excuse everything. I have done the best I could, and I want to thank you.)

Not Western Stuff?

HERE ARE SOME REPORTS I WOULD like to you have. Montana Justice (U) — no Western? By this I mean, why don’t Universal get through with this. This Mountain Justice is about the biggest piece of cheese to call a Western that ever came out of a studio. In the first place, it has a theme song and a barn dance. Can you beat that in an action Western? “I Was Seeing Nelly Home.” Buffalo girls with a trick—alleged Kentucky mountain vernacular. The feud between the Harleux and the McCavishes. Oh, Lord, what a bunch of tripe to put a long-ago good Western in! I think the Laemmle aggregation need some talent from outside the family. It looks that way from the 1930 product that we played, and their Westerns have been the one bet we could depend upon to make up for the beating we took on their 1930 product.—A. E. HANCOCK, Columbia theatre, Columbia City, Ind.

Wants Disc Prints

COULD YOU TELL ME, IF POSSIBLE, just why the so-called “ace” producers are giving the users of disc equipment only a hum deal in the matter of prints, and sometimes even sound deal? By this I mean, why do they insist upon sending sound-on-film prints (to disc users) that have been synchronized to discs? At times this practice becomes very dis-
EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD

October 4, 1930

Sono Art Has “Three in One”
(Special to the Herald-World)
ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 2—Sono Art-world wide had its pictures showing in three first run houses here during the same week. “Once A Gentleman,” RKO Temple; “Blaze O’Gloiry” the Strand; and “Moulin Rouge” the Little theatre.

Butterfield’s Circuit
Signs Big 4 Westerns
For Most of 80 Theatres
John R. Freuler, Big 4 President, Plans Further Series of Six All-Talking Westerns

NEW YORK, Oct. 2—Big 4 Film Corporation has announced that the W. S. Butterfield circuit of Detroit, operating 80 theatres in Michigan, has signed for the producing company’s Westerns in most of the towns in the circuit.

John R. Freuler, president of the company, is due in New York shortly, when he will launch extensive plans for the coming season. His trip has just been negotiated for a further series of six all-talking action Westerns, in which type of product the company is specializing.

His present trip East is said to be an indication of a further production and distribution alliance, with a view to greater variety of product.

Alvin J. Neitz is directing “Breed of the West,” latest Wally Wales feature, which has gone into production at the Coast studio. Virginia Browne Faire is playing opposite the star in the feminine lead, and Bud Balfour has been given the villain’s role.

G. E. Holcomb has been appointed sales representative for Big 4, for the northwest territory, working out of the Celebrated Exchange in Minneapolis. Two new distributing centers for the product have been arranged, with Douglas Cooper and Jack Roher obtaining the franchise for Ontario and Quebec in Canada, and a new office opening in Portland. Haven under the management of Harry Furt.

Brand Motion Picture As “Worst Evil of Century”
(Special to the Herald-World)
PORT ARTHUR, TEX., Oct. 2—Motion pictures were severely arraigned in the report of the committee on civic righteousness, made to and adopted by the Southeast Texas Baptist Convention here. “It is quite clear,” the report sets forth, “that among the chief evils of this day and generation the modern motion picture stands at the top rung of the ladder.”

Spain Wants Talkers,
But Where to Get Them?
(Special from the Department of Commerce)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 2—Talking pictures are becoming increasingly popular in Spain and the number of silent films in first and second run houses being exceedingly small. Exhibitors, however, are faced with the problem of securing a sufficient number of pictures in Spanish dialog.

Showmen in that country are depending upon American production for a majority of their Spanish talkers, but these, it is said, are not expected to cover more than 25 per cent of the market demand.

Nat Ehrlich Buried in Albany
ALBANY, N. Y.—Nat Ehrlich, Pathe salesman, who followed a most appendicular operation, was buried here. He was 34 years old.

Putt-Putt Goes Over
Big in New Orleans;
30 Courses Are Busy
Estimated Investment $300,000—
Afford Employment for More Than 300 People
(Special to the Herald-World)
NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 2.—In a little over 10 months, 30 miniature golf courses have sprung up throughout the city, according an investigation in the neighborhood of $300,000. It might be called New Orleans’ most popular amusement. There are over 300 people employed in the operation of these courses, which account the scores of contractors, electricians, plumbers, gardeners, masons and others who have figured in their construction. It is estimated that the daily receipts from these courses range from $800 to $2,500.

Name of the newer ones, recently constructed, is said to be the most elaborate in the South. Built around a hill, it has a from side to side into two lakes where fish are swimming. It has marble steps and terrazza sidewalks curving around, and will probably have rich and poor alike, young and old, and now that school has again begun, there is no doubt but what the courses will be pretty good business for the truant officers.

It seems that the name Putt-Putt was coined by a New Orleans man by the name of Anderson, who discovered the course in the city in November, 1929. As to the origin of the game itself, it seems that in the Spring of 1929, two golf bugs by the name of Drake De Laney, erected the first course on the roof of a New York skyscraper. After some time, they finally discovered a substitute for turf, and their pile was made. Royalties now flow in to them from every corner of the earth.

Theatre Is Tiny Course Now
(Special to the Herald-World)
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2.—The Park theatre here is being converted into winter quarters for a tiny golf course. It is the first theatre in the city to be used for this purpose.

Owners of courses in the city and surrounding territory have indicated that they will follow suit. So the parks, if he persists in arresting those who operate on Sunday, The Tom Thumb Golf Course Association has retained an attorney to protect its interests. If arrests continue, legal action may be taken to force Schofield to arrest other blue law violators, it is said.

Old House Goes Putt-Putt
(Special to the Herald-World)
LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 2.—The 50-year old Madison theatre here, once the pride of the citizens and the rendezvous of such actors as Joseph Jefferson, Richard Mansfield and Robert Mantell, has followed the lead of the Auditorium in Chicago. It will be turned into a miniature golf course. It is one of the few houses in this vicinity which never was converted to talking pictures.

Thieves Get $201 from Raleigh Capitol’s Safe
(Special to the Herald-World)
RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 2.—Thieves took $201.68 from the safe of the Capitol theatre here in a night robbery. The money in the safe was to have been used for paying employees.

2 Bandits Get Night’s
Receipts at Ohio House
(Special to the Herald-World)
INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 2.—Two gunmen held up A. W. Heidger, manager of the Ohio theatre here and forced him to open the safe, which they looted of the night’s receipts.
CHICAGO PERSONALITIES

By JIM LITTLE

THE outstanding event of the past week was the "great matrimonial dinner frolic" given at the Congress hotel on Tuesday in honor of "Film Row's Sweetheart," Tess Heraty, who will soon be known as Mrs. Vincent Brady, a more representative gathering has perhaps never gathered in such entirety to pay tribute and respect to one who has been so integral a part of the film industry in Chicago.

The toastmaster of the evening was Felix Mendelssohn, and we have a faint idea that it would be somewhat difficult to find anyone who could fill such a chair with more adroitness. Among those who were honored by a call upon to speak were Mrs. Hight, who told a very delightful Irish fairy story, Jack Miller who charmed everyone with delightful spontaneity, Frank Schaffer, Clyde Eckhardt, Joe Pastor, Tess, "Vince" and Myrtle Collins.

The dinner was excellent, the speakers good, the entertainment unusual. The crockers were cool, and the affair was on into the wee small hours. Wishes for happiness for the two about to take that step, which, from all appearances, will be anything but fatal, were rampant, and may we say, in closing this brief recital, which, incidentally, is not written as it should be, that we speak of everyone connected in any way with the industry, especially those who are fortunate enough to be acquainted with the couple, though far too slightly, in wishing Tess and Vince all the happiness which this world sometimes bestows upon those who are deserving of it. In this instance, there isn't a bit of doubt as to whether this should be so. It couldn't be anything else but.

Al Lyons, formerly owner of the People's theatre, was seen along the Row the other day. After an absence of about—well, we'll be conservative and say three years.

L. E. Goetz, together with Al Dezel, are located in their new and very comfortable quarters at 804 South Wabash. Incidentally, Al informed us that a deal has just been closed with Jack Greenbaum, of Cleveland, who needs the rights to "The Primrose Path" in Indiana, Maryland and West Virginia.

Who did we bump into but Dan Roche, who has been a stranger to us, it seems, for a couple of months. One reason is that he has been under the weather, and another is that he has been extremely busy. He's what you'd call a much traveled man. We met him in Universal's screening department, during a showing of Pathe's "Her Man." (It's some picture.) It seems that Tom Hurlin, now selling Pathe shorts, Charlie Lundgren has gone to St. Louis as manager, Walter Reed Branson is in New York, connected with the short department, Lou Eills, formerly branch manager in Des Moines, is now holding that position in Milwaukee, and Nate Sandler is filling Lou's former position. Tommy Greenwood, who was branch manager in Milwaukee, is now on the sales force working out of the Chicago office. (This is a sort of garbled resume, but the information's all there, anyhow.)

Sam Schaffer, that redoubtable man who makes theatre seats sit up on their hind legs and beg, was busy, as usual last week, but gave us a few minutes of his valuable time. By the way. He has a most interesting display in the window front of his new offices, a display that has given—for—well, it must he at least fifty years. Seats that were used way back when, right up through to those used in this day and age. And does it attract attention? Tommy and a posse were needed to keep the crowd in order (we say this most advisedly) and we imagine all the school children that come anywhere near the window have had to write themes about it. Sam left for New York last Friday upon one of his frequent visits, so it seems of late, but he said that it was just for a few days. We wouldn't be a bit surprised if he came back with an order for a million chairs. Sam is like that, you know.

E. W. Hammonds, president of Education, passed through Chicago last week on his way to the Coast, to look things over.

Milt Kruger, formerly connected with Educational, is now working in Milwaukee, connected with Pathe.

Harry Graham, former division manager for Pathe, is associated with Universal, doing special work. We understand that he drove here from Cleveland, and that en route, somebody tried to put the finishing touches to the Graham family by running smack into the car. However, they all arrived safe and sound, and Harry has his desk all swept off, ready for action.

Alice Dubin, formerly with Tiffany, is now with Universal, connected with the contract department.

Miles of smiles are seen around the Universal office on the reviews of the latest release, "A Lady Surrenders." This picture, by the way, follows "Africa Speaks" into the Woods theatre, the date being October 4.

A newcomer, and a welcome one, in the Chicago office of Pathe is Miss Fern Cumings, recently appointed stenographer to Bill Drake, head booker. Miss Cumings comes to Pathe from the Commonwealth Edison Company, where she occupied a secretarial position.

Benny Benjamin hasn't decided as yet to his future plans, but we do know one thing and that is—a golf bag is going to see a good deal of service for a few days. You know, to talk to Benny, you'd almost think that he liked the game especially when the wind blows hard.

Incidentally, Sam Gorelick and Frank Young like to shoot golf in a high wind so they can bank their shots.

We heard that A. S. Frank is now former manager of the Paulina theatre, having handed in his resignation last week.

Henry Igel, chief projectionist of Film Row, whose habitat is the sixth floor of the Universal Building, is a pretty busy man. Every time we see him going into the booth, or coming out of it. It's just one show after another with him.

Louis Brecka, owner of the Eastern, Standard and Homan theatres has taken over the La Salle on Division street, and the opening was set for October 1.

Vera Rawley, formerly with Publix, is now working in Louis Reinheimer's mid-west office.

Now that the summer is over, and the possibility of flying dust is rapidly diminishing, dust strips are being put on all the windows of the United Artists exchange.

Ben Piazza, now associated with Irving Thalberg, of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, in selecting casts and material for pictures, said Chicago a very brief visit last week on his way from the Coast to New York City.

Frank Young, whom we fear we have grossly accused in mentioning going into his office at 10 o'clock and not finding him there (he was probably up long before us, selling some extraneous exhibition), was at his desk at 9 o'clock sharp last Thursday morning, and practically no one else was around. Why was nobody there? The date was October 2.

"Whoopie" opened at the United Artists theatre on October 3. People may change their minds about musical comedies in pictures after seeing that.
Every production can have both color-tints and sound

EASTMAN Sonochrome Tinted Positive Films give charming atmospheric tints that express the mood of every scene, or the prevailing lighting of the picture. Besides, these films reproduce sound with exceptional fidelity. Through their use every production can have both color-tints and sound, for Sonochrome costs no more than ordinary black-and-white positive.

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY
ROCHESTER, NEW YORK

J. E. Brulatour, Inc., Distributors
New York Chicago Hollywood
WEST COAST PREVIEWS SUCCESSION OF M-G-M HITS!

EXHIBITORS
Herald World

HOLLYWOOD TELEGRAPHING!

WAR NURSE

"A KNOCKOUT! OIL UP THE B. O. CASH REGISTER! IT'S GOING TO HEAT UP WITH THIS ONE! SURE FIRE!"
—Motion Picture News

"WAR NURSE BEST OF YEAR! SUPERB! DESTINED FOR LONG RUNS!"
—Hollywood Daily Reporter

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER
continuing the pace which has electrified the industry!
Normalcy Is Following Over-Expansion: Katz

The Longest Run in Show History is Leo's non-stop succession of hits!

And Still They Come!

Those 3 French Girls
"A box-office wow if there ever was one." — Hollywood Reporter

War Nurse
"War Nurse a knockout. Oil up the b.o. cash register. It's going to heat up with this one. Surefire!" — M.P. News

Billy the Kid
"King Vidor's epic of the West is something to look forward to." — M.P. News

Way for a Sailor
"John Gilbert comes through with flying colors." — Hollywood Reporter
"Comedy and action galore. To Gilbert goes the credit." — M.P. News

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer
Year In and Year Out!
Here they are!

BIG 4's BOX OFFICE WINNERS

SOUND ON FILM AND DISC PRINTS

You can book BIG 4 pictures with every confidence of complete satisfaction.

COMING 6 ACTION MELODRAMAS

COMING 2 Deluxe Specials

BOOK ALL TWELVE NOW . . . AT

ALEXANDER FILM SERVICE, INC.
Pittsburgh, Pa.

FIRST GRAPHIC EXCHANGE
Buffalo, N. Y.

PHOTOGRAPHIC EXCHANGE
Albany, N. Y.

EXCELLENT PICTURES CORP.
Detroit, Mich.

SECURITY PICTURES
Chicago, Ill.

SECURITY PICTURES
Indianapolis, Ind.

FISCHER FILM EXCHANGE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio

FISCHER FILM EXCHANGE CO.
Chicago, Ill.

WORLD-ART PICTURES OF N. E., INC.
Boston, Mass.

WORLD-ART PICTURES OF N. E., INC.
New York, N. Y.

EXCELLENT FILM EXCHANGE
Toronto, Canada

ARTHUR C. BROMBERG ATTRACTIONS
Atlanta, Ga.

ARTHUR C. BROMBERG ATTRACTIONS
Charlotte, N. C.

ARTHUR C. BROMBERG ATTRACTIONS
New Orleans, La.

ARTHUR C. BROMBERG ATTRACTIONS
Dallas, Texas

ALLIED FILM EXCHANGE, INC.
Tampa, Fla.

ALLIED FILM EXCHANGE, INC.
Dallas, Texas

ALLIED FILM EXCHANGE, INC.
Oklahoma City, Okla.

SHEFFIELD EXCHANGE SYSTEM
Seattle, Wash.

SHEFFIELD EXCHANGE SYSTEM
Portland, Ore.

SHEFFIELD EXCHANGE SYSTEM
Salt Lake City, Utah

SHEFFIELD EXCHANGE SYSTEM
Denver, Colo.

CAPITAL FILM EXCHANGE
New York City

CONTINENTAL REPRODUCER CO.
Milwaukee, Wis.

CELEBRATED FILM EXCHANGE
Minneapolis, Minn.

HOME STATE FILM EXCHANGE, INC.
Little Rock, Ark.

CAPITAL PICTURES CORP.
Omaha, Neb.

GOLD MEDAL FILM CO.

GOLD MEDAL FILM CO.
Washington, D. C.

MIDWEST FILM DISTRIBUTORS, INC.
Kansas City, Mo.

PROGRESSIVE PICTURES, INC.
St. Louis, Mo.

CO-OPERATIVE FILM EXCHANGE
San Francisco, Calif.

CO-OPERATIVE FILM EXCHANGE
Los Angeles, Calif.

BIG 4 FILM CORPORATION

130 W. 46th St., NEW YORK CITY

John R. Freuler, President
HAROLD LLOYD ANNOUNCES his latest all-talking comedy production "FEET FIRST" Produced by the Harold Lloyd Corp. A Paramount Release
5 REASONS WHY HAROLD LLOYD in "FEET FIRST" WILL ROLL UP RECORD GROSSES!

1. A brand new Harold Lloyd production is the Big Event of any show season. "Feet First" is Lloyd’s first in twelve months. They're ripe for it!

2. "Feet First", which has been finished and previewed, contains more laughs than the funniest Lloyd picture you can remember.

3. "Feet First" is packed with even more breath-taking thrills than was the famous "Safety Last".

4. It takes real big pictures today, more than ever, to smash records. Lloyd is the biggest comedy attraction on the screen.

5. You triple your normal drawing power when you book Harold Lloyd. You get all your regulars. Plus the crowds that come to see only the screen’s best. Plus the kids.

A TIP: "Feet First" is being bought and booked faster and wider than any Harold Lloyd picture ever released. The smart showman will get in touch with Paramount immediately and arrange his play dates.
REAL BOX OFFICE PROFITS IN SHORTS!

Smart showmen buy complete programs of Shorts from this book!

You can put real crowd-drawing power into your shorts if you'll book them from this book, containing detailed descriptions of PARAMOUNT'S COMPLETE 1930-31 PROGRAM OF 1- and 2-REELERS. You and your audiences will discover why the class of the shorts market is found in PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS, the industry's ace news reel; PARAMOUNT ACTS, starring the greatest headliners on stage and screen; PARAMOUNT COMEDIES, the funniest show-lettes on earth; the amazing PARAMOUNT SCREEN SONGS; the mirthful PARAMOUNT TALKARTOONS; and the new, brilliant PARAMOUNT PICTORIAL.
GODS OF RADIO

ALL SHOW RECORDS CRASH AS MIRACLE PHENOMS BLAZE TO VIVID LIFE!

GRANDEST TICKET-SELLING SMASH OF ALL SHOW AGES!

AMOS

IRENE RICH  SUE CAROL

MEL BROWN Production  Story by BERT KALMAR, HARRY RUBY SWEEP TO GLORY

UNLAX . .
UNLAX . .

Greatest All-Time Promotion Drive under Way!
Three Exclusive World-beating Tie-ups:

PEPSODENT
WILLIAMSON CANDY
MARX TOYS

Embracing thousands of first rank stores and nationwide sweeping retailer organizations all geared to fighting pitch. Double-page smash advertising in America's leading newspapers breaks day before the opening!

WATCH FOR OTHER CAMPAIGN SURPRISES!

'N' ANDY

"CHECK AND DOUBLE CHECK"
IT'S IN! RINGS THE DRAMATIC VERDICT AS COMETS HIT BULLS-EYE!

Hard-Hitting Coast Critics Rave in Frenzy of Acclaim. Big Show Clicks at Pre-view For Stupendous Audience Reaction!

Motion Picture News . . .
"An Amos 'n' Andy knockout that will pack them in for years and years . . . an audience and box-office WOW in capital letters. The answer to exhibitor's prayers. One swell comedy that will roll 'em in the aisles . . . It can't miss!"

Bill Wilkerson, Hollywood Reporter . . .
"A box-office smash! . . . Amos 'n' Andy panicked them! No exhibitor will be regusted for booking this talker . . . it's real entertainment. When Amos 'n' Andy are on screen the laughs overlap. Their name is box-office value plus."

ROARING EMPIRE OF COMMERCE GEARED TO FIGHTING PITCH FOR SHOW WORLD'S GREATEST DEMONSTRATION OF CO-OPERATIVE PROMOTION.

WATCH FOR CAMPAIGN DETAILS
Better Theatres—The Industry’s Merchandising Magazine

THE FALL BUYERS NUMBER
of
Better Theatres
Will be Issued OCTOBER 25th, 1930

This will be another DeLuxe Edition of Better Theatres

It is, however, one of the thirteen regularly scheduled issues, to which is added a number of special and important features.

Among special editorial features for this number are the following:
- Names and addresses of active theatre architects, with pictures and details of their handiwork.
- A complete list of dealers and distributors of theatre supplies and equipment.
- Personnel of firms supplying theatre products and services.
- Up-to-date and authoritative stories covering the installation and operation of modern sound equipment.
- Informative stories on theatre products, with alphabetical list of manufacturers.
- Other constructive features conducive to judicious buying.

The Spring and Fall Buyers Numbers of Better Theatres always contain a wealth of reference and informative material that is invaluable to the theatre architect, contractor, engineer, electrician, manager, projectionist, purchasing agent and the owner.

The Buyers Numbers of Better Theatres are the most complete, most up-to-date and most valuable aid available for the selection and purchase of all products for the theatre.

The importance and unusual value of the Fall Buyers Number warrants the careful consideration of all manufacturers and distributors of theatre products.

October 25th is the Publication Date
October 15th is the Closing Date for
THE FALL BUYERS NUMBER
of
BETTER THEATRES
Published in Conjunction with Exhibitors Herald-World by Quigley Publishing Company
407 South Dearborn Street, CHICAGO, ILL.
N. Y. EVENING JOURNAL

"Action aplenty in Her Man"

BY ROSE PELSICK

"Her Man" is a vigorously directed film with plenty of action that takes place in a waterfront dive in Havana. Helen Twelvetrees is Frankie, who pursues sailors' pockets while she makes them buy gin. And Ricardo Cortez is Johnnie, her flashy bor friend who collects her money, makes love to Nellie Bee and takes a customer in the back with a penknife. And in a climate there's a swell free-for-all in which the sailor mopeds up the harbor ferry.

CASTING EXCELLENT.

The homo-lonk atmosphere of the "Thick Cape" is well built up and Director Tay Garnett has injected the piece with a lively swivel. An excellent job was done with the casting: Miss Twelvetrees, one of the most promising young actresses of the new film generation, is an appealing Frankie, and Cortez gives a very realistic portrayal of the two-timing Johnnie who is killed through the hardwood door and an outstanding piece of work is done by Marjorie Rambeau as Annie, one of the waitresses of the waterfront joints. James Gleason, Harry Sweet, Slim Summerville and Frank Bush, with his notable character comedy, Thelma Todd, in Nellie Bee (whose share here in the Frankie and Johnnie legend is considerably toned down) and effective types were selected even for minor parts.

N. Y. EVENING POST

"Racy and Exciting"

The work which Miss Twelvetrees does in "Her Man" is enough in itself to lift the picture out of the ordinary, but it is by no means its only virtue. The cast is unusually young and colorful, and added to that, there is a story which is fitted logically and smoothly into the setting and manages at all times to remain credible.

"Her Man" is the current picture at the Globe, Pathe has brought forth a picture so colorful, so vividly realistic, so expert in its direction and so skillful in its acting that it must be set down at once as one of the most complete and convincing screen productions that have come to the notice of this reviewer in a long time.

The climax of the picture is a fight between Don and Johnnie in which several hundred personal participants take part. It is the gallant, manly, wild fight battle I have ever seen either on or off the screen. Chairs and tables are smashed on the heads of the fighters, bodies hurled through doors, the air is filled with the brains of those being struck, and glass is everywhere. It is a tremendous scene, and it is directed with consummate skill.

In this matter of direction "Her Man" can teach a lesson to the majority of directors. It moves exactly from incident to incident, letting the camera tell the story and waiting no time on dialogue. It is action throughout, with each episode into a single development, which has been the hallmark of many talkies. Director Tay Garnett has done a remarkable job with "Her Man."

By Thornton Delehanty

N. Y. AMERICAN

"Entire cast merits three hearty cheers"

Smashing melodrama is the order of the day at the Globe Theatre where "Her Man" is the featured photoplay. For straight, end-of-the-road entertainment it hasn't been topped on Broadway in a month of Sundays. Brisk in pace, it is a happy blend of thrills and laughter which is bound to please the picture public.

The picture has a million dollars worth of color, there's a fight that is as thrillingly realistic as any ever to come off of Hollywood, and if you don't howl at the antics of Jimmy Gleason there's something wrong with your funny bone.

The entire cast merits three hearty cheers. Ricardo Cortez is superb as a tough, cruel killer, Helen Twelvetrees is a revelation in the role of the dance hall moll. Philip Holmes, who plays the sailor boy, moves up a whole lot of runs in the ladder of film fame. And Marjorie Rambeau gives each of the principals a hard run for first honors in the role of the drunken drab superbly portrayed. In lesser support James Gleason, Franklin Pangborn, Harry Sweet, Stanley Fields, Thelma Todd and Thelma Todd do admirably. Hats off, too, to director Tay Garnett.

Regina Crews

EVENING GRAPHIC

"Worth viewing twice"

"Her Man" which arrived at the Globe late last night dramatic variation of the most interesting picture at the theater has housed this year.

It's a film worth viewing twice and brings out a new star of such potential talents and charm as to make it a doubly significant screen presentation. Helen Twelvetrees, after this film, Characterization should be accepted as one of the finest of the new camera artists in Hollywood.

The colorful Frankie and the man who did her wrong have served the moat as a pair of theme characters since drama was first served out in celluloid. But never has it been offered in such a smoothly constructed vehicle or with such a worthy cast. Every featured player in "Her Man" builds up the production against a hectic background of Havana dives. It moves so quickly through the familiar, but still exciting plot, balancing melodrama with slick comedy, every role perfectly cast and all working harmoniously through action that holds suspense until the last shot.

By JULIA SHEWELL

PATHÉ presents

Her

ANOTHER “BIG HIT” ON THE
THE MORNING TELEGRAPH

"Brimful of Zest"

by Al Sherman

The most stirring fight sequence I have ever seen in motion pictures is mounted in the Rob-Globe Theater. It is the punch of a picture replete with melodramatic interest, and I can well believe reports from the Coast that the participants in the display of fistfuls were ready to make reservations at the nearest hospital after that battle was over.

If you're interested in gory things, then you will, without doubt, be delighted to know that "Her Man" is based on that epic poem of blood and fire, "Frankie and Johnny." Of course, in the interests of art and morals (especially morals), the heroine is one of those virtuous maidens who remain still pure and wholesome despite a lifetime spent in the bluest of neighborhoods. By professing implicit faith in such a promise, you will then find that "Her Man" is the type of picture that will thrill you with a real kick and impress you with the very gristle of its nakedness.

Phillips Holmes, the goody-goody in this picture than he has ever been in another who plays his role—whether he is quite acceptable, indeed, while Helen Twelvetrees occasionally rises to the occasion of the latter.

There is quite a number of minor roles ably enacted by such excellent players as James Gerson, Frank Pangburn, Matthew Betts, and, frankly, I think that "Her Man." is one of those melodramatic efforts that will help maintain the Pathé determinations to do bigger and better things this coming season.

Marjorie Rambeau, as a drunken harlot, deserves some plaudits for an overacted role that rises to his strengths height only in one spot.

N. Y. TELEGRAM

"Melodrama of Havana Dance Hall Finely Picture"

From beginning to end "Her Man," at the Globe Theater, is in every way a really fine production and easily one of the best of the recent offerings.

Here Helen Twelvetrees—and, incidentally, she does by far the finest work of her career in this picture—plays Frankie, an entertainer in a dance hall in Havana, who falls in love with a hard-boiled but romantic sailor when he saves her from a roughneck longshoreman she has been entertaining.

The dialogue is splendidly written, and it is all quite brilliant and played for what it is.

N. Y. TRIBUNE

"Her Man is Grand Entertainment"

By Richard Watts Jr.

A real-motion picture, stemming from the good old days when a phototogriph possessed the power to set off dramatic, vivid, romantic, and moralistic scenes, and combining those nostalgic classic qualities with the occasioned values of sound and dialogue, in fact, a masterpiece on display at the Globe Theater this week, is "Her Man," a sentimental, sentimentally romantic drama of love and combat along the Havana waterfront, the picture, dramatically known as "Her Man," proves to be the best show that Hollywood has presented in a longer time than it is pleasant to admit. "Her Man" is grand entertainment.

The event is that the week

SUNDAY NEWS

"An Extra Special Action Film"

By Irene Thriller

Tense action and excellent acting, concentrated with careful direction, make "Her Man" a true gem of the present day, and the pretentious war film of the past.

Garrett took a hint from the old "Frankie and Johnny" film, but his characters could have had any other names and the picture would have been just as interesting and colorful.

Background is a cafe in Havana, a smoky, booby place where Sala Amne (supposedly portrayed by Marjorie Rambeau, who offers this as her initial episode) slugs down hard liquor; where the boys strike up the band so loud that it clamps out any sound of gaiety; where dance halls play in the other rooms while the boys get plastered.

Garrett has done an extra-special job on an extra-special action film. You'll be interested through every minute of "Her Man." His work, Helen Twelvetrees, Ricardo Cortez and Helen Holmes give fine performances.

THE MORNING TELEGRAPH

"Six Tense Shots Tell Dramatic Story and Personal History. It is, as we say, have gathered, excellent melodrama. A word must be said about the fight that ends the final episode. These has been more or less talk in cinema circles lately of the comparative merit of the various silence cinema level and the talkie level. In the two sections of "The Spiders," the contrast of the talking cinema has compared with the phototography brought to "Her Man." Here we get a fine picture that the noisy contrast in a manner of the most unostentatious sort and other worth-while. Even Dempsey and Purge might join the battle.
Every eye in the industry is set on this GIRL You'll break every record with

Ann Harding as

The GIRL OF THE GOLDEN WEST

JAMES RENNIE HARRY BANNISTER
J. Farrell MacDonald - Bert Roach
Based on the play by David Belasco
A John Francis Dillon Production

HAS THE EDGE ON THE INDUSTRY!
Another dramatic triumph by the director of "Common Clay"

Panics audience at preview in California. Critics rave and prophesy outstanding box-office hit.

Wanton woman, beautiful and treacherous. Four heroes of Foreign Legion in Africa became renegades all because she loved too lightly.

Another triumph from director of "Common Clay."

Another big one from Fox.

Success after success from livest producing organization in the business!
FOX PREVIEW PLAYS TO CAPACITY AUDIENCE

Warner Baxter and Myrna Loy, starring in their latest picture, "Renaud," were seen last night in a Fox Studio preview at the Fox Riverdale theater. Both stars of the cast were present. "Le Renegade," from the novel by Andre Armandy, is a real thriller. It is a story of four buddies in the Foreign Legion, an Englishman, a Russian, and a German, and the perils they would never dare reveal. Deserts, buried in the Sahara's scorching sands, battles, heroism, and the woman they loved. This is an amazing adventure, a thrilling picture. The story has color, pathos, pace, passion, comedy, and immense characterizations by one of Fox's biggest boxoffice sensations for the new season.

Riverside Daily Press, Cal.
September 26, 1930

with

WARNER BAXTER

Myrna Loy  Noah Beery
George Cooper  Gregory Gaye

From the novel by Andre Armandy
Directed by VICTOR FLEMING
NOW comes the CLASS picture for CLASS "A" Theatres — Right on the heels of such smashing successes as "ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT," which stood them in line for blocks at the Roxy for a hold over run; "THE KING OF JAZZ," which hit a new summer high at the Albee, in Cincinnati, to the tune of $30,000; "LITTLE ACCIDENT," which grossed $48,000 at the Mastbaum, in Philadelphia, and "A LADY SURRENDERS," which is playing to tremendous crowds at the Paramount, New York; Woods, Chicago, and other key cities.

The Affairs of a Master Lover

BOUDOIR

UNIVERSAL FIRST-along without It!

DIPLOMAT

IN FEATURES! FIRST IN SHORTS IN FIRST RUNS EVERYWHERE!
“—and in addition to the feature we have a Hal Roach comedy—”

WHEN THEY TELEPHONE TO INQUIRE WHAT'S AT YOUR THEATRE—the clinching argument is HAL ROACH makes 'em M-G-M releases 'em

EXHIBITORS

HERALD WORLD

In This Issue—

ALLIED STATES—MICHIGAN EXHIBITOR CONVENTION TAKES ON NATIONAL SIGNIFICANCE AS ABRAM F. MYERS AND SENATOR BROOKHART DEMAND CURB ON “BIG INTERESTS” OF INDUSTRY; STATE ACTION TAKEN AGAINST PROTECTION AND FOR MASSING OF ORGANIZATION FORCES—INJUNCTION THREAT VOICED AT ILLINOIS ALLIED MEETING.

COMPLETE INDEX TO CONTENTS

NEWS

Runs 75 theatres—and doesn’t seek profit! That’s an anomaly of United States Army Motion Picture Service—58 equipped with sound.

See uniform projection with new standard release print—Expect to eliminate waste and mutilation of films.

Epip Engineering is reorganized into three units to meet sound need—Fox will build four big houses in Texas, is report at Dallas.

Cincinnati union says theatres were sold to avoid contract; sues for $26,000—Tri-State MPTO meets in Memphis November 30 and December 1.

FEATURES

New Product ........................................... 37

The Voice of the Industry (Letters from Readers) ........ 66

Securities Price Range .................................. 30

Broadway .................................................. 24

Hollywood, by Douglas Hodges .......................... 41

Sound Reproduction .................................... 45

Pictorial Section ........................................ 31

J. C. Jenkins—His Colyum ................................ 40

ADVERTISEMENTS

Editorial

BY MARTIN J. QUIGLEY

The Danger

NEW YORK stage producers are up in arms over an attack recently expressed by His Eminence, Cardinal Patrick Hayes of New York in which the current stage was denounced for its lapse from decent moral standards. The stage producers assert that the Cardinal should have distinguished in his remarks between the unfit subjects that are on the boards and the other subjects which are not guilty of moral laxity. They point out that there are several good and wholesome plays now running in New York and because of this the Cardinal was unfair in his references to “the stage” without making distinction between the two kinds of plays.

Because of his widely known attitude of tolerance and fairness there is every reason to believe that Cardinal Hayes intended no unwarranted criticism of the stage as a whole. There is every reason, also, for believing that when considering the stage his concern over the several unfit plays now running resulted in these plays receiving his entire attention and the others undoubtedly were forgotten about.

This incident has a very direct application to the motion picture situation. At this time pictures are receiving the highest support and approval. The industry’s serious and determined effort to maintain a wholesome screen is not only saving it from criticism that would be most hurtful but it is enabling it to receive the support referred to.

But this fact must not be overlooked:

Just as the stage is now paying the penalty for certain objectionable shows that have been offered, so will the motion picture business as a whole suffer if any substantial percentage of its product falls into the objectionable classification. The immoral subject gets attention. Just as has happened in the case of the stage, that type of subject tends toward a general disrepute. It has the faculty of giving color to the whole institution with which it is associated.

Consequently, even an occasional motion picture subject which is of bad moral character represents a real danger that may lead to serious complications.

* * *

Uniform Advertising

THERE is a tendency in certain instances for large theatre circuits to undertake to produce for their own use a larger portion of the advertising accessories required, rather than to depend upon the material produced by the distributors’ advertising departments.

There is, of course, a class of smaller items of accessories which quite obviously may be gotten up to advantage locally but when it comes to the production of special lithographs it commences to appear as if an uneconomic and generally undesirable situation was being reached.

The home office departments of the distributors are better equipped for the production of the chief items in accessories and in the long run at least the work turned out is certain to be of a higher merit. If there is an exception to this case the trouble lies with the home office personnel and not with the system. It is quite conceivable that on an occasional subject an especially meritorious creation might be achieved but the larger and more experienced home office staffs can unquestionably do better work over the long period and at lesser costs.

There is in addition however a very important reason why the chief items of accessories should be produced in the home offices. It is because such an arrangement permits of centralized authority and greatly lessens the industry’s task of avoiding wrong tendencies and adhering to right principles of showmanship, together with the essential dignity and respect for moral considerations.

In New York facilities for outside criticism and discussion are available. This may not always be the case elsewhere.

* * *

Product Problem

CERTAIN of the smaller companies including Sono Art World Wide and Big Four are solving for a certain class of exhibitors what has been a difficult product problem. With much of the big theatre product consisting of sophisticated and adult subjects many of the smaller theatres have been encountering difficulties in obtaining subjects which appeal to the juvenile appreciation and to adult patrons who do not wish to have their minds taxed while attending picture theatres.

The action-full Westerns, to which have been added the advantages of sound and dialog, which appear in the programs of these companies offer the solution. These subjects were once a staple of the business and their return in the new form is very likely to reestablish them on that basis.

* * *

Progress

AN interesting feature of an informal talk given last week to the press by Mr. John E. Otterton, President of Electrical Research Products, Inc., was his references to improvements in recording and reproduction which may be expected periodically. Mr. Otterton pointed out that these improvements were in view when the present apparatus for recording and reproduction were designed and that their accommodation will be effected with only slight alterations.

Mr. Otterton indicated his belief that another five years of progress and development will be necessary before talking pictures will have achieved a state of practical perfection. He emphasized that a substantially higher degree of quality may be expected.

With the high degree of quality which is now present in the talking picture which is competent recorded and properly reproduced, it is pleasant to contemplate the expected betterment which Mr. Otterton refers to.

Such scientific improvement, coupled with production advances which the studios may be depended upon to make, presents a tremendously encouraging forecast of the talking picture of the coming decade.

Exhibitors HERALD-WORLD

MARTIN J. QUIGLEY, Publisher and Editor

Incorporating EXHIBITORS HERALD, founded 1915; MOVING PICTURE-WORLD, founded 1907; Monography, founded 1905; The Film Index, founded 1906.

Published every Friday by Quigley Publishing Company, 407 S. Desborn Street, Chicago; Martin J. Quigley, President; Edwin S. Clifford, Secretary; George Clifford, Assistant Treasurer. Member Audit Bureau of Circulations. All contents copyrighted 1930 by Quigley Publishing Company. All editorial and business correspondence should be addressed to the Chicago office. BETTER THEATRES, devoted to the construction, equipment and operation of theatres, is published every fourth week as Section Two of EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD. Other Publications: The Motion Picture Almanac, Pictures and Personalities, published annually; The Chicagoan.
Normalcy on Way But Waste Must Never Return, Says Katz

Optimism Fully Justified by Business Facts, He Declares

Paramount Organization Told the Methods Permitted Under Rapid Expansion Have Got to Go

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Although warning that "present and future conditions demand, in best interests of all concerned, the fullest measure of effectiveness from every effort and every dollar," Sam Katz, head of Publix, has told his executive cabinet that from facts presented by President Hoover in recent addresses, the conclusion is that there is reason for optimism.

"Industry in general," said Katz, "is assuming the steady, progressive pace of normalcy, following a period of over-expansion and over-production. "Expansion has encouraged some neglect in obtaining the fullest value from every dollar and every effort we expend," he admonished in reference to the Publix organization. "This, too, must be stopped so that a guarantee of company and personnel security may be had to the highest degree. Every dollar and every effort we expend must do its full, effective duty.

Waste Uncalled for
At Any Time, Says Katz

"Definitely, I want to say to everybody that this situation as to operating costs is not to be taken as a reason for pessimism anywhere in Publix. In reality, it should create optimism. Publix needs now and will need in greater number in the future, all the capable, intelligent, effective, energetic and loyal manpower and brainpower that we can develop. Even under emergencies of hasty expansion, waste and useless impediments had no reason for being. There is no justification for them under normalcy."

Stating that the financial standing of Paramount-Publix was greater than ever, Katz advised that "the readaptation of operating costs that is occurring is required in the interest of good business practice and for the security of every employee in the company.

This Period Seen as One of Changing Values

"At this time," he said, "we are passing through a temporary period of changing values and confusion. The firm foundation upon which the United States rests with its free, educated people, its natural resources and national resourcefulness, is a permanent, unchanging factor for optimism.

"Long ago Paramount-Publix insured its future and the future of its personnel by the adoption and strict maintenance of sane, conservative business policies, in order to provide a bulwark against dangers of possible world economic disturbance in the future. Our company and those in it who are usefully engaged may well feel reassured as to safety from any dangers which present and future conditions might threaten.

"This, of course, means a strict continuation and, if possible, more strict surveillance of effective and effectiveness.

"There exists a tendency to spend money for things that we can either do without or can create within ourselves. I expect this tendency to be curbed."

Vigilance Needed Over Expenditures and Promotion

Continuing, he declared, "The importance of exercising the utmost thought and effort to safeguard expenditures and similarly to increase income cannot be overestimated at any time. At this moment, anything less than a vigorous, determined vigilance and effort is dangerous. This fact is the only outstanding or alarming symbol of economic conditions of the present and future that confront Publix and nation. We can and will conduct ourselves accordingly and Paramount-Publix will emerge stronger and greater and its personnel will find more enduring and well-founded happiness in its daily tasks."

EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD

October 11, 1930

Fox Will Build Four Big Houses in Texas, News Story States

DALLAS, Oct. 9.—The Dallas News says that Dallas and three other Texas cities are to have $1,500,000 theatres by September 1, 1931, and connects Fox Film Corporation with the project. The story says further that the theatres will be elaborate and of modern design, with ample accommodations for the Fanchon and Marco stage shows, a part of the Fox organization.

The stated $1,500,000 cost is only an estimate, however, for the newspaper explains that it is being figured only on the basis of the outlay which Fox has made for deluxe theatres in other key cities.

The former Interstate Amusement Company has a one-year contract for Fox Films in the Majestic theatres at Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston and San Antonio. This contract expires September 1, 1931. Interstate Amusement is now a part of the RKO organization. RKO with its own product to exhibit in the four cities, is expected to renew the Interstate Amusement's contract with Fox.

According to the newspapers, Fox will have its real estate agents here within six weeks to select a site for the first of the new theatres.

Tri-State MPTO Meets in Memphis

Memphis, Nov. 30 and Dec. 1

Tri-State MPTO, comprising the states of Arkansas, Tennessee and Mississippi, will hold its fall convention here Sunday and Monday, November 30 and December 1.

The program and speakers have not been announced.

Find Heavy Percentages Of Youth at Showings Of "Abraham Lincoln"

Film So Popular Many High Schools In East Send Students En Masse

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The interest on the part of school pupils in certain types of motion pictures has led to the showing of Saturday morning matinees for their special benefit.

Last Saturday such a performance of "Abraham Lincoln," playing at the Central theatre, was given for high school pupils of New York. It was attended by members of the student body of Bay Ridge, Wadeleigh and Haaren high schools and the High School of Commerce.

It was pointed out that the greater part of the audience at the performances of this film are young people. So active is the interest of high school pupils in particular that they are buying tickets in groups and attending the theatre in a body.

A second Saturday showing was held for the pupils of the Abraham Lincoln High School in Brooklyn.
BROADWAY

IT'S last call for reservations for that Presidents' Beefsteak Dinner which will be held at the Motion Picture Club Thursday evening, October 16. Max says if you attend you will have steak that will make your mouth water and if you don't you will have regrets. Max knows, and should, for year 'round he tickles the palates of club members with the most delectable food in New York. It is planned to make this the outstanding get-together at the club.

There has been a temporary decrease in the use of color in motion pictures. Any number of several reasons might have caused this situation but only two seem logical.

In the opinion of many, color too frequently has been used in inferior screen product and therefore it has been impossible to get the true public reaction to it. Effort has been made by producers, according to some observers, to bolster up poor stories with color, and while this has increased production value it has not been sufficient to make these pictures box office during a period of economic depression. Bankers also, it is said, have influenced the situation through pressure brought to bear on production expenditures. Although producers are desirous of using color they have temporarily heeded the warning of financial interests. Wide use of color, it is thought, will be resumed soon.

Mike Simmons, president of Associated Motion Picture Advertisers and advertising director of Sono Art-World Wide, has pulled another fast one to exploit one of his company's current attractions. This time it is "Reno," starring Ruth Roland.

New York's Alimony Club impressed Mike as a natural, so this week RCA Photophone carted its portable sound reproduction equipment to this haven for those who, despite the court's ruling, believe that ex-wives should make their own livelihood, and gave them an exhibition of this picture authored by Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr. A group of more than 80, including members of the Alimony Club and the daily and trade press, attended and now, says Mike, "we'll renovate—a mop up at box offices."

Social events: Pathé's and Columbia's dances at the Hotel Astor. And words won't express the wonderful time had by all.

Aaron Sapiro. And where have we heard that name? Oh, yes, the man who once sued Henry Ford for libel and is now planning to organize operators of 10,000 independent taxicabs in New York. Had ambitious plans at one time or another to organize independent exhibitors of the country. Remember?

—JAY M. SHRECK.

---

History Was Made—

When the Oklahoma territory was thrown open to settlers. That race for land by hardy sons of the soil is unsurpassed in the annals of the United States by anything that has happened before or since. A pictorial version of the famous Edna Ferber novel, "Cimarron," dealing with that trying period of westward expansion, is being made by Radio Pictures, and it promises to be a distinct contribution for a better understanding of the hardships attendant upon this great movement. Shown below are Richard Dix, the star of the picture, in a Roosevelt Rough Rider costume, and the main street of a typical Oklahoma "boom" town.
Michigan Independents Weld Fighting Lines at Convention

Brookhart and Myers Hear
In Attacks on “Big Interests”

Allied States Affiliate Passes Resolution Against State Protection and Adopts Pledge System

By GEORGE SCHUTZ

GRAND RAPIDS, Oct. 9.—Measures adopted by the MPTO of Michigan, Allied States affiliate, at its convention here October 7 and 8, intensify that association’s fight on what the national Allied States organization calls an attempt to destroy the independent exhibitor. One resolution attacked state protection, another instituted a system designed to effect this fight a greater unity of state independent forces, while the issues these resolutions represent were carried beyond the state and into the national scene by Abram F. Myers, Allied States head, and Smith W. Brookhart, Senatorial block-booking foe.

The protection resolution, passed unanimously without argument, denoted “unreasonable competition” and its term limited at the end of a 60-day clearance period which is declared to be to the benefit of the Butterfield string of houses. Representing a board of directors to appoint a committee to seek the abolition of this protection in the state. Protection in metropolitan Detroit was not referred to.

Adopt Pledge System

The action for greater unity, taking the notion of the resolution, violation of which could mean expulsion from the association, was described by H. M. Richey, general manager, as the first step in the creation of “a great chain of independent theatres,” he pointed out that of course each operator would retain his individual identity as an exhibitor. The nature of the pledge, which is given elsewhere in this issue, indicates that the “chain” sought would act mainly to bind independent theatres more closely and assure ample financial support of the association’s program. One new source of revenue under the pledge would be advertising trailers run in member theatres, pay off for such screening going to the association.

Previous to the adoption to these members, the board of directors repeated its stand against percentage booking, with booking on a percentage-plus-guarantee basis being especially frowned upon. This matter, according to Richey, will be placed before the association for definite action at a later time.

About 110 members attended the convention.

Myers Asks Competition Test

Myers and Brookhart appeared for the meeting Wednesday afternoon, when both election of officers and the protection resolution took place. Routine business broke up the meeting on Wednesday Oct. 8, Col. H. A. Cole, Allied leader of Texas, and Allen Johnson, retiring president, immediately presented Myers as the first speaker. Almost at once the Allied States leader introduced the subject of protection as “the biggest issue up to this time in the history of the industry.”

Admitting that a theatre with small overhead, paying lower film rental and charging lower admission prices, should not compete with a theatre having a large overhead, paying high film rental and charging higher prices, if they are in the same zone, he declared that no effort had been made to find out what competition exists between such houses when they are in different districts. “The methods they [Hays organization] are using in drawing up these zoning and protection plans is based on pure theory,” he asserted.

Cites Chicago Plan

Attributing a sinister purpose to efforts to have zoning and protection plans adopted throughout the country at this time, Myers referred to the Chicago territory.

“There Aaron Saperstein [head of the Illinois Independent Theatre Owners, Allied affiliate] is holding out to prevent the greatest protection raid ever to be made in that territory. They [Hays organization] want their system in Chicago more than in any territory in the country. Why? Because they are paying the way to fight the government suits pending in the federal court there.

“When the plan was brought up at the last meetings, what were their methods? Did they invite in the trade papers? No, they held their meetings behind closed doors. Then they asked Mr. Saperstein to place his initials on the plan, along with the others, probably just so the paper could be identified later as the same one. And the next day we heard these initials were construed to mean that the plan had been ratified.”

See Government Action?

Declaring that any protection system could be justified only on a basis of actual competition between houses of varying classes, Myers demanded that tests first be made to determine whether or not such competition does exist. Further aims of

(Continued on page 34, column 1)

A CORRECTION

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—

Through an error in transmission last week, it was published in the HERALD WORLD that Electrical Research Products had extended credit of $10,000.-

This should have been $20,000,000.
Record Tieups on Amos' n' Andy; Opens Oct. 24 in 300 Theatres

200,000 Windows to Boost Radio Pictures Film—Fan Letters Bring Premiere of Premiere Stars on NBC Hookup

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Rapid gross returns on Radio Pictures' Amos 'n' Andy feature, "Check and Double Check," are assured the producing company as a result of the planned opening of the film in more than 300 theatres the week of October 24. By reason of these simultaneous showings in houses from coast to coast it is believed that subsequent run situations will benefit through earlier bookings than is usual in their case.

In this getting early play dates on this feature for which coporate tieups have been planned, the small exhibitor is enabled to show it while it is still fresh from first run performances. Radio officials have decided that the decision to have a country-wide premiere was based on numerous letters received from the radio audience of Amos 'n' Andy who seized the opportunity to see the blackface pair as soon as the New York public. It was originally planned to show an exclusive premiere on the picture here.

The radio and the press will be utilized to the fullest extent in what company executives describe as a most ambitious publicity and advertising campaign yet launched by any motion picture company. With the leading dailies of the country will feature a newspaper campaign to be conducted on nationwide scale. A coast to coast radio broadcast over the entire NBC "Red Network," in the hour, October 24, will start the publicity on its way. Amos 'n' Andy will be heard during the hour as well as Duke Ellington's Cotton Club Orchestra. Display advertising is planned to publicise the broadcast.

A majority of the 200,000 windows will be made available to exhibitors, will follow immediately. Pepsodent, which has agreed to loan the two stars for the opening broadcast, and which has some 100,000 accounts throughout the country is providing tieup possibilities of which Radio is making the fullest advantage.

The Williamsson Candy company manufacturers of the Amos 'n' Andy candy bars, are confining their selling efforts to this particular item. Salesmen have been instructed to book displays in cooperation with the local theatres at the same time they complete their sales. Another manufacturer tieup is that with the Marx Toy company, whose product is sold in many large department stores, and who are distributing display material which ties up closely with the show. This is in addition to the material now stocked in all RKO exchanges.

Further arrangements have been completed with T. B. Harms, Inc., Victor and RCA Radiola. Harms plan a radio campaign extending over a period of four weeks together with a concentrated drive on the sale of sheet music during the run of the picture.

Victor is releasing material for display in connection with the Amos 'n' Andy and Duke Ellington records, and requesting all Victor, Victrola and Radiola dealers to provide whatever cooperation possible while the feature is being shown. This arrangement is understood to offer tieup possibilities in some 20,000 excellent display situations throughout the country.

Cardinal Hayes Deplores "Low Morals of Stage"; Calls Legit "Reeking"

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Cardinal Hayes, in an address before the Guild of Catholic Lawyers here, deplored the present low moral standards of the stage. He declared that the stage is "recking with filth, and there seems to be no power in the City of New York to stop it."

Suspect in California Stench Bombings Held

(Special to the Herald-World)

SAN JOSE, CAL., Oct. 9.—A man giving the name of Jack Sutton was arrested here and turned over to San Francisco police after he was allegedy caught in the act of opening a package of stench bombs in a theatre here.

Sutton is said to have confessed to exploding two bombs in other theatres.

Two Tacoma Suburban Houses Bombed

After Cutting Down to One Operator

(TACOMA, Oct. 9.—Police are attempting to determine the perpetrators of a bombing which partially demolished one theatre and slightly damaged another here. Both houses were involved in disputes with operators unions and were using only one operator each.

The front of the Community theatre, owned by J. R. Porter, was blown out and the interior damaged by flying debris. A bundle of dynamite had been placed in the box office, it is believed. The projection room and machines were almost completely destroyed. The explosion occurred in the early morning hours and no injuries are reported. At the Sunset theatre, dynamite tore a hole in the roof.

Managers of the Community and Sunset, together with nine other suburban managers in the area, have been arrested. All but one of the nine were out of town when the attack was made.

Washington cities, have been employing only one operator instead of two. Economic conditions forced them to do this, they said.

The police department has been appealed to for protection and all suburban houses have redoubled their guards.

Fire Damages 4 Houses In San Francisco Area

(Special to the Herald-World)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9—Four theatres in this section have suffered heavy fire damages in the last few days. The West Portal theatre in this city has been forced to close for rebuilding of the interior and installation of new equipment as the result of a blaze.

The Premier house in Los Gato has been similarly damaged and will be closed for several weeks, pending repairs. The Great American, theatre, Berkeley, was burned last week and the projection room of the Rose theatre in Santa Rosa has been damaged by fire.
See Uniform Projection With New Standard Release Print

Suit Against EPRI
By Aelograph Goes Into Court Nov. 13

Claims of 50 to 100 Millions May Be Made, Says Manager, for Alleged Infringement
(Special to the Herald-World)

The Aelograph company brought the suit in equity to recover royalties and also asked for an injunction against the Research Products company last May, alleging infringements of patent rights. They asked for damages and according to C. S. McFerrin, manager of the company, they have established a claim from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000.

Aelograph is a Delaware corporation with offices and headquarters in San Antonio and owned by about 800 stockholders scattered over the United States. The company was incorporated in 1923, following the purchase of the patent rights from Allen Stowers and Leo DeHymel, San Antonians, who obtained the patents two years previously. Stowers is still a large stockholder in the company, which is incorporated for $30,000.

Former Communist Sees Terrible Red Menace in American Productions
(Special to the Herald-World)

PORTLAND, ORE., Oct. 9.—M. R. Bacon, formerly a member of the communists' organization, provided material for a good laugh in local film circles when as a witness before the federal committee investigating Red activities in the United States he declared that American producers were using the Soviet government to produce two propaganda pictures. He named "High Treason" of Tiffany and "Loving the Ladies," produced by Radio Pictures.

He added, however, that he had no evidence that this was done with the knowledge of the producers.

Miss Aldrich Still Active
(Special to the Herald-World)

MOSCOW, ORE., Oct. 9.—Miss Maude Maude M. Aldrich, vice-president and field secretary of the Federal Motion Picture Council in America, accounted for the Northern Idaho WCTU that motion pictures are undermining the influence of the home, school and church by creating false standards of art and said that they are "the greatest foes of prohibition."

City Gets New Theatre
For Repealing Blue Law
(Special from E. H. B.)

CANAHARIE, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Opening of the new Strand theatre here marks the fulfillment of a pledge which Jack Vas- sil, owner of the Strand, made to the city council last spring when he promised he would build a new theatre if the blue laws were repealed.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences through the MPPDA has announced a new form of standard release print to go into effect November 1 which is expected to result in uniform projection in theatres and to eliminate waste and mutilation of film. The standard has been adopted by all major producing and distributing companies and is endorsed by the National Board of Projectionists, completing six months' effort by the Academy to bring every technical branch of the industry into cooperation.

The chief features of development are:

Standardization of nomenclature for different types of prints as well as units comprising each reel, inscription for identification, synchronizing marks, and method for change-over from reel to reel.

In bringing about a uniform change-over method, one of the most troublesome problems in projection should be solved, making it unnecessary for the individual projectionist to place his own change-over marks. In addition, to this system, standard specifications cover leaders at both the beginning and end of the picture, including protective, identification and synchronizing leaders. Four types of prints are defined in the nomenclature, as follows: Sound print for film, sound print for disc, sound print combination, and silent print.

Technical Experts Cooperate

Beside making for easier handling and smoother projection for the exhibitor in showing pictures, the new standard eliminates the necessity of the director in the studio shooting silent dead action at the end of a reel. This is said to be the first time in the history of the industry that technical experts have joined in such a development.

Up to November 1, an advance educational program will be conducted to pave the way for the standard reaching every theatre, exchange and studio in the country, acquainting managers, projectionists, editors and laboratory executives with the features of the new standard.

The development was worked out by a sub-committee of experts under the supervision of the Academy, Producers-Techicians' committee, of which Irving Thalberg is chairman, and involved analysis, survey and correlation of practices of technicians throughout the country.

Committee of Experts

The committee of experts included Sidney Burton for the Projectionists, N. H. Brower for the exchanges, A. J. Guerin and laboratory representative, James Wilkinson as film editor, Gerald Rackett, former manager of the Technical Bureau, and Sidney J. Twining as chairman.

Projectionists active in furthering the standard are George Edward, president of the American Projection Society, Thad Barrows, J. F. McGuire, Lester Isaacs and Charles Eichorn, leaders of the Projection Advisory Council, which has formed a technical coordination committee to answer questions regarding the use of the standard. Lester Cowan, manager of the Academy Technical Bureau, is here contacting company executives on behalf of the new system.

Evanston Master Okays Sunday Films After 3-Year Fight

Evanston, a Chicago suburb and the scarred battleground of a blue law war that has smouldered and flamed for more than three years, is at last going to have peace—unless there is another outbreak.

George E. Gorman, master in chancery for the circuit court, who was appointed to hear arguments on the motion picture question, has decided that Evanston will have Sunday pictures. But William Lister, corporation counsel for the city, when he heard the decision, declared that the administration's fight against the theatres is not ended.

Chicago Denies Writ to Show "Primrose Path"

A circuit judge has denied a petition for mandamus by Greiver Productions, Chicago motion picture distributors, to compel the city to issue a license for showing of "The Primrose Path."

Cincinnati Union Says Theatres Were Sold to Avoid Contract; Sues for $26,000
(Special to the Herald-World)

CINCINNATI, Oct. 9.—Local No. 165 of the Motion Picture Operators' Union has brought suit against the Ohio Theatre and Show Company and the Dixie Amusement Company for $25,000 damages, charging the former company sold the Rex and Gem theatres to the latter to void a definite contract for union operators, expiring September, 1931.

Jennie Carlin and F. W. Huss, Jr., owners, sold the theatres to the Dixie Amusement Company last May.
20 Films from Sono Art-World Wide Will Include 10 by Cruze

"Thrill-O-Drama" Group Has 10 Attractions, Four of Them Specials; Two Pictures Ready for Production

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—With several pictures now playing leading theatres of the country and with a number of others ready for release, Sono Art-World Wide this week announces its complete production schedule for 1930-31.

TWENTY pictures are on the new season's program, 10 of which are "James Cruze-World Wide Winners" and 10 "Thrill-O-Dramas".

In the Cruze-World Wide group are the following attractions:

"Symphony in Two Flats," adapted from Shubert's Broadway play; featuring Ivor Novello and Jacqueline Logan. Directed by V. Garrick Gundry.

"Rogue of Rio Grande," a Cliff Broughton production, featuring Myrna Loy, Raymond Hatton and Jose Bor. Directed by Spencer Gordon Bennett.

"The Scoop," by John Drinkman, an exciting narrative of a newspaperman's exploits in helping to solve a baffling crime.

In the Thrill-O-Dramas group there will be 10 pictures, four of which are scheduled for special shows, the story material, casting and production of which will start in three weeks in Hollywood, as follows:

"Air Police" (Special) by Arthur Hoerl is an automobile racing story reminiscent of Wally Reid vehicles; "First Aid" (Special) by Michael L. Simmons glorifies the ambulance surgeon; "Cow Skin," by H. G. Wilson, is a story of a devil pilot who terrorizes a crew of primitive half-civilized men; "Casey Jones, Jr." (Special), by Gregory T. Kelsey, is a railroad melodrama; "Swann's River," by Roger W. Sherwood, is an absorbing "triangle" drama reaching its climax in a spectacular battle; "V.C. Runt," by G. Evans Prence, presents a new interesting drama of the Northwest Mounted Police who refused to give his man.

Of the above, "Air Police" and "Hell Bent for Frisco" have reached the continuity stage, with casting to begin in two or three weeks. George W. Weeks will supervise production of these.

Germans Would Join in Denial U. S. Men Caused Prague Riot, Says Hays

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Will H. Hays, president of the MPPDA, termed as "utterly without foundation" the reports received here from Prague that recent rioting over the presentation of German films was instigated by importers of American pictures. He has this statement on reports from American motion picture interests abroad.

"Such accusations are absolutely baseless," he said. "I believe every factor in the German motion picture industry will join us in resenting such absurd reports, which can only spring from a desire to affect the very cordial relations that now exist between the American and German film industries."

French Paper to Build Its Own Picture House

(Special to the Herald-World)

PARIS, Oct. 9.—A motion picture theatre to be made part of the regular equipment of the "M" is being projected, which has enlarged one wing of its office building to house it. It will be called Les Miracles.

This novel theatre will be devoted especially to the encouragement of French moving pictures, but pictures from Hollywood and other foreign places will also be shown. The paper also has a radio news service. The theatre will open in December.

Owners and Union Agree; Beaumont Strike Averted

(Special to the Herald-World)

BEAUMONT, Texas, Oct. 9.—A strike of Beaumont union motion picture operators did not materialize, owing to what the union men termed a compromise with their employers in their wage and hours dispute.

Rob's Tulsa Ritz of $20

(Special to the Herald-World)

TULSA, Oct. 9.—A youthful bandit stepped up to the box office of the Ritz theatre here and took $20 from the cashier.
Injunction Threats Voiced as Illinois Rejects Zoning Double Feature Ban Removed; Companies Make Own Deals

Exhibitor Says “95 Per Cent of Clauses of Zoning Schedule Detrimental to Smaller Independents”

The clause barring double features has been stricken from the protection plan for Chicago, according to a statement from the Film Board of Trade offices. Distributors will make their own deals on this question. This has been one of the touchiest points in the controversy between the independent exhibitors and the producer-exhibitor interests, as double-features were barred unconditionally from smaller houses. The rest of the plan remains essentially the same, it was stated.

The Allied States affiliated organization of Chicago met in a spirit of rebellion in convening to consider the proposed zoning and protection plan for that city and Illinois. At a meeting conducted at the Stevens hotel, October 3, the members of the Illinois Independent Theatre Owners voted unanimously to reject the plan, thereby sustaining President Aaron Saperstein, who had rejected it the week previously, and also the association’s executive board, who had voted it down just prior to Friday’s meeting. About 90 of a total membership of around 125 were present.

But the vote by the entire membership present on the zoning plan, coming toward the close of the full afternoon session, was the culmination of a stormy session which broke through any limitations of business created by the scheduled consideration of the zoning plan. Both Abram F. Myers, president of Allied States, and Al Steffes, one of the organization’s most active leaders, addressed the meeting. Myers stressed the importance of exhibitors maintaining a strong organization. It was Steffes who referred directly to zoning and protection, and it was his interpretation of zoning and protection, not as a local administrative matter, but as a scheme with which the producer-distributor-chain interests seek to hamper the smaller exhibitors, that sound ed the note of the entire meeting.

Injunction Talk Holds Sway

“I don’t know what’s going to happen,” Steffes flung after his speech, “but I do know we’re going to fight like hell!”

In this spirit, the meeting openly talked of injunction suits.

“The only way to solve the problem is to go into the civil courts,” said one exhibitor, and it was typical of sentiment from a number of sources. One member promised that if he could get help from enough independent exhibitors, he himself would go into the federal district court in Chicago to obtain an injunction forbidding application of the proposed protection plan. Threats of injunction suits were carried from the meeting room and into the corridors of the hotel.

In the discussion of the entire problem from the floor throughout the session it was evident that the independents linked the protection problem with that of chain domination.

Saperstein told the meeting: “We should be allowed to operate as we see fit. The chains should not be allowed to come in and tell us what we are to do. I told them: ‘Keep your noses out of our business.’”

Reject Regulation by Chains

Likewise the comment of one exhibitor from the floor:

“It seems to me that the question is not whether we show double features, have gift nights or anything else, but whether we are rejecting regulation by chains.”

In fact, one exhibitor arose to protest against the use of double features, one of the disputed angles of the protection plan which at present bars them. He said: “If double features are wrong for the chains there are wrong for us. I don’t think we should ask for something we think it’s wrong for the chains to do. What we must do is set an example.”

Detrimental to Smaller Independents

But on this Fred Guilford declared: “If we are able to show pictures, we’d eliminate the double features ourselves. Ninety-nine per cent of the clauses of the zoning schedule are detrimental to you independents.”

Saperstein told the assembled independents that the executive board suggested that a start should be made in changing the names of all units to carry the phrase Allied Theatre Owners. Thus the Illinois unit’s name, instead of Independent Theatre Owners of Illinois would be Allied Theatre Owners of Illinois.
Erpi Engineering Reorganized; Three Units Meet Sound Need

H. B. Santer Directs Commercial Engineering Department, G. E. Mather General Engineering, and H. M. Wilcox, Operating, Including Reproducing
(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Reorganization of the engineering activities of Electrical Research Products into three departments has been announced by H. G. Knox, vice president. The new departments will include commercial engineering, general engineering and reproducing, the last being taken over as part of the scope of the present operating department.

In commenting on the change, Knox pointed out that it involves primarily the effective consolidation into one department of the services rendered one class of customers, exclusively. It has been made to meet the changes which have come into the talking picture industry to best serve exhibitors and producer licensees under present day conditions.

How Departments Will Function

With the new alignment, the commercial engineering department will assume charge of all matters pertaining to recording and studio results, with the exception of major engineering developments. Its work will also include the maintenance of financial relations with all producer-licenser licensees. For this purpose B. L. Glaser, assistant treasurer of E.R.P., has been attached to the department. The recently announced acoustic consulting service, with S. C. Wolf as manager, also becomes part of the work.

The general engineering department will be devoted to scientific study of practical recording and reproducing problems with a view to the betterment of present conditions. A staff of consulting engineers will be maintained for this purpose, the department having at its disposal the resources of the Western Electric Company and the Bell Telephone Laboratories.

Field Engineer Group Taken Over

A group of field engineers, specialists in reproducing, have been taken over by the operating department under the reorganization. H. M. Wilcox, named as manager of this department, has supervised the servicing and maintenance of theatre equipment through a staff of 750 men over the country.

H. B. Santer and G. E. Mather have been appointed directors of the new commercial engineering and general engineering departments respectively.

Sam Moscow Named Southern Sales Head For Columbia Pictures
(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Sam Moscow, formerly on the Columbia sales staff in Boston, has been made southern division manager, replacing Leslie Wilkes, resigned.

Moscow will have supervision over Atlanta, Memphis, New Orleans, Dallas, Oklahoma City and Charlotte C. B. branches. His headquarters will be in Atlanta.

Charles Johnson, who has been on the sales staff of the Columbia exchange in Buffalo, is the new manager of the Albany branch. He succeeds H. C. Bissell, who will take charge of the Cleveland office.

Paul Hunter to Head Screenland Magazine
(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The Screenland Magazine, Inc., has announced Paul C. Hunter as its new president and publisher.

Two magazines are published by the company, Screenland and Silver Screen. The latter is a new publication, while Screenland has been on the newsstands for 10 years.

Weshner Heads Publicity For All Warner Theatres Outside New York City
(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—David Weshner, general manager of Warner Brothers theatres in New York, New Jersey, has been promoted to director of advertising and publicity for all Warner theatres in the country excluding New York City.

Harry A. Kalmine succeeds Weshner at the New Jersey post. The latter is now on two week’s tours, studying first run houses in the key cities.

John Harris is the new zone manager of Warner houses in Pittsburgh, succeeding J. Reeves Espy, who goes to St. Louis in an executive capacity to assist Charles Skouras, zone manager there.

Exhibitors to Get List Of Films for National Book Week Next Month
(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The National Board of Review has prepared a special list of films for National Book Week which includes all pictures with tieup possibilities.

Book Week is to be celebrated November 16 to 22, and the National Board of Review reports many exhibitors are billing short films on books for the occasion.

Pantages Theatre Sued By Neon Electric for Alleged Infringement
(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—Clarence Neon Electric Products has brought a suit for alleged patent infringement against Pantages Hollywood theatre and Metzler Corporation. It asks damages for the use of luminescent tube lighting.

Honolulu Chain Bills W B
(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Arrangement for showing of the entire Warner Brothers product has been made by the Consolidated Theatre Circuit of Honolulu, Claude C. Ezell, general sales manager of Warners, consummated the deal.

SECURITIES PRICE RANGE
Week Ending October 8

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th></th>
<th></th>
<th></th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>American American</td>
<td>600 75% 13% 13%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brunswick-Ball-Collinder</td>
<td>3,360 14% 13% 13%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Celotex</td>
<td>3,360 10% 10% 10%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. etc.</td>
<td>3,360 10% 10% 10%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Consolidated Film</td>
<td>3,360 14% 14% 14%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd.</td>
<td>3,360 14% 14% 14%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eastern Kodak</td>
<td>2,500 20% 20% 20%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. etc.</td>
<td>2,500 20% 20% 20%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Electric Storage Battery</td>
<td>1,000 61% 58% 58%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fox Film “A”</td>
<td>2,500 45% 39% 41%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>General Theatre Equipment</td>
<td>300 33% 25% 25%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Keith Albee Orpheum</td>
<td>100 100 100 100</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Loew’s Inc.</td>
<td>125 50% 75% 75%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd. ww</td>
<td>400 100% 100% 100%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. etc.</td>
<td>300 30% 30% 30%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, pfd.</td>
<td>500 25% 25% 25%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mohawk Carpet</td>
<td>17 17 17 17</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paramount</td>
<td>850 50% 50% 50%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pathe Exchange</td>
<td>500 50% 50% 50%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Radio Corporation</td>
<td>750 50% 50% 50%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd. “A”</td>
<td>200 50% 50% 50%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th></th>
<th></th>
<th></th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Gen. Theat., Inc.</td>
<td>4,500 19% 25% 25%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Marks Brothers, Inc.</td>
<td>222 6% 6% 6%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Moser Litho</td>
<td>800 3% 3% 3%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>U. S. Gypsum</td>
<td>4,500 41% 35% 35%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd.</td>
<td>1,500 10% 10% 10%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

NEW YORK CURB

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th></th>
<th></th>
<th></th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Columbia Pictures</td>
<td>400 35% 35% 35%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cons. Theat.</td>
<td>100 10% 10% 10%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fox Theatre</td>
<td>500 8% 8% 8%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Loew’s way</td>
<td>500 9% 9% 9%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Technicolor</td>
<td>900 10% 10% 10%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>U. S. Gypsum</td>
<td>1,100 35% 35% 35%</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Phil Goldstone, Tiffany Coast studio executive, halted production on "Extravagance" long enough so that a group of Tiffany branch managers could congratulate pretty June Collyer on her work. From left to right are M. A. Hulling, San Francisco; George Caldara, Los Angeles; R. C. Hill, Seattle; June Collyer, Phil Goldstone, S. Tewksbury, Portland; George Faulkner, Salt Lake City, and M. A. Brown, Western district manager.

A scene from "Razored in Old Kentucky," Radio Pictures production of the Nick and Tony comedy series. Nick Basil and Henry Armetta seem to be giving the Barbers Burial Ground a sad once-over.

Stranded and without a friend in the world, that is, outside of each other. Lloyd Hamilton and his pal. Lloyd has just finished the first in his new Educational series, "Won by a Neck."

A distinguished group posed for the cameraman in between scenes while shooting was in progress on one of First National's productions. It is Marilyn Miller's latest starring vehicle, "Sunny," in which she was so popular on the stage. Beginning at the left; Theodore Kosloff, dance instructor; Florenz Ziegfeld; Marilyn Miller; Jack Warner, production executive, and William A. Seiter, under whose direction the picture is being molded into shape.
Golden haired Shirley Jean Ricket is one of Hal Roach's MGM gangsters. Below, fascinating Evelyn Brent, who is appearing in Radio Pictures' "The Silver Horde."

Jim Tully, noted hobo-author, is to display his histrionic ability in MGM's "Way for a Sailor," starring John Gilbert. He is shown here discussing his lines with Sam Wood, who is directing him in the film.

"Let me out, or I'll tear these bars down," may be what this "jailbird" is muttering through his teeth. He is the popular Tiffany Chimp, and this scene is taken from the monkey comedy, "The Little Big House."

Ann Harding, beautiful star of some of Pathe's outstanding pictures, had a signal honor bestowed on her when she was chosen Queen of the Society Fiesta staged by the Daughters of the Golden West, celebrating Los Angeles' 149th birthday.

Just a typical scene of the wild and woolly West, where anything may happen, and where, apparently, anything may be harnessed, from water power to zebras and—well, mules. Astride the gaily bedecked zebra, rarin' to go nowhere, is charming Evelyn Knapp, while on the "crittur" that is all set to go roller skating, is Grant Withers. They both appear in Warner Brothers' "Sinners' Holiday."
Happy "newlyweds." Conrad Nagel has a lap-full of sweetness in Genevieve Tobin, one of his two wives in "A Lady Surrenders," a Universal picture adapted from John Erskine's novel, "Sincerity." John M. Stahl directed.

Looks as though they were going right over the top, doesn't it, but as this is not a war picture, Marian Shockley and Ray Cooke are just having a lot of fun in the Educational-Vanity comedy, entitled "The Freshman's Goat."

Two executives, one of the state, the other of the "city," pose for the cameraman. Honorable C. C. Young, governor of the state of California, with Carl Laemmle, Jr., manager of the Universal studios, on his recent visit to Universal City.

We're not sure just what is going on here, but at first glance it looks something like an experiment. Benny Rubin doesn't seem to favor the idea, but Robert Montgomery evidently wants to see if the can will explode. What benzine has to do with "Love in the Rough," we don’t know, but that is the title of M.G.M.'s picture in which these two appear. Dorothy Jordan and J. C. Nugent are also in it.
“Big Interests” Are Denounced
At Grand Rapids Convention

(Continued from page 25, column 3)

Allied States were implied in a closing reference to Brookhart.

“I am talking as much to Senator Brookhart here before you as I am to any of you exhibitors. I want to educate Senator Brookhart to what is going on in the motion picture industry and what we would like to educate his colleagues in Congress. For unless we fight, the elimination of all of us will take a long time.”

Brookhart didn’t get into the subject of protection until the latter part of his speech, part of which had been prepared and pre- viously quoted by him. The whole portion of his address was devoted to tracing the development of his interest in the motion picture industry as one of several fields in which he saw attempts to wipe out the independent business man. Block- booking was at first the great evil he saw, and he spoke at length in favor of his bill, long pending in the Senate, to modify this practice. Protection, he declared, would be aimed at, and in this same bill, by means of amendments.

Assists Monopoly Exists
On the basis of both practices he asserted the existence of monopoly by the producer-distributor-chains interests, and on the basis of this alleged monopoly he demanded gov- ernment action that he declared would be justified even if it went to the length of making the motion picture industry a public utility.

“I recognize in the movies an agency of tremendous potentiality in providing wholesome and economical entertainment for the people, in the advancement of culture, and in the promotion of ideas. I have no desire to retard the steady increasing growth of the business or to cramp the de-velopment of the motion picture art. But I would remind my friends in the industry that there is no government worthy of the name that has committed so vital a subject as education solely to private enterprise without retaining some measure of control.

“If it be said that the known effects and potentialities of movies as an educational medium are not sufficient to justify a public interest in what is regarded by some as a private business. The private business, then there are other grounds. The whole business is founded on a form of property that is not protected, and, as such, it is in effect a government bounty. It is a fair assumption that the framers of the Consti- tution and the authors of the copyright law never intended that a copyright should serve as a means for oppressing any part of the people, or of depriving the people of the right to regulate in all needful particulars any agency that is so intimately linked with their happiness and welfare as the movies.

Encourages Independents

“That the motion picture industry, both by reason of the copyright law and the ex- tent to which it has been manipulated with the indulgence of the prosecuting authori- ties, is a monopoly, scarcely admits of doubt.

He held out encouragement to the in- dependent interests represented by the con- vention. He believed that the high degree of independence can be restored and maintained in the exhibition of motion pic- tures, should reasonable practices be handled on the industry by the Hays crowd can be outlawed.”

Senator Brookhart’s address was followed by a reply of officers, which named A. Eiseman of Flint (former vice president), president; P. C. Schram of Kalamazoo, vice president; J. E. Niebo of Detroit (former treasurer), secretary; and H. T. Hall of Detroit, treasurer. Directors elected are:

Ray Branch, Hastings; Fred De Loder, Detroit; Allen Jensen, Rapid Rapids; E. E. Kirchmer, Detroit; Leon Krim, Mount Clemens; Tom Lancaster, Detroit; H. T. Reynolds, Grand Rapids; J. C. Ritter, Detroit; A. Robinson, South Haven; Alex Schricker, Detroit; Carl Schweigart, Detroit; H. A. Wood, Bangor; Frank Wetsman, Detroit; and Lew Wyrick.

Mount Clemens was decided as the site of the 1931 convention.

The convention was opened socially on Monday, with a golf tournament, and closed on the same note, with a banquet and dance on Wednesday evening. Wednesday morning num- ber members were entertained at the plant of the American Seating Company, where they were welcomed by President H. M. Talla- ferro.

Those Registered at Michigan Convention

The following were registered at the con- vention of the M.P.T.O of Michigan at the Pamplin hotel in Grand Rapids, October 7 and 8.

From Detroit
Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Fisher, Tom Lancaster, Mr. and Mrs. G. Caplan, C. H. Shalee, John E. Niebo, Carl Buermeele, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Kickey, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Schricker, J. John, H. E. Steiger, E. E. Kirchmer, Douglas Dickerson, H. C. Robinson, D. Mundstruck, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Cross, G. W. Carr, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Ritter.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Kirchmer, R. C. Taylor, P. M. Sprott, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Kinney, W. J. Schulte, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Goff, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. London, F. A. Wetsman, I. C. Partell, W. N. Flemion, S. K. Decker, Leonard Sheeter, Charles A. Komer, Ira A. Waddell, N. Shore, Roger Kennedy, Pettey Thompson, L. C. Becker, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. MacArthur, C. H. Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Lenahan, George W. Trendle.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Rundle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lauer, J. D. Goldhar, R. Barnett, Syd- ney Hockford, G. L. McCoy, S. L. Gilbert, C. H. Whiting, Mrs. Louis Winer, Louis De Golden, Samuel Ackerman, M. D. Thompson, F. A. Schneider, Gern K., T. Williams, W. Schulen and Arthur Prescott.

From Other Cities
Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Wayland; Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Dennis, Paw Paw; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Cassidy, Midland; L. A. Win- cherster, Grand Rapids; Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Harris, Hart; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Little, Hart; L. L. Ward, Mount Pleasant; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Pekk, Trenton; Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Schram and daughter, Williamston.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Kram and daughter, Mount Clemens; Ray Branche, Mason; C. H. White, Reed City; C. C. Pearson, Grant Rapids; Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Reynolds, Grand Rapids; Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Biehel, Charlotte; E. T. Conlon, Grant Rapids; Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Pennell, Bernice Spinigers; O. A. Brown, Ferrys; A. F. Mews, Shel; W. W. Brown, Grand Rapids; Her- bert A. Wood, Bangor.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Mars, Saginaw; Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Scharf, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Rhoad, Ferrys; H. A. Bird, Grant Rapids; Joe Roeks, Olive; Frank Finlin; A. L. Ruppert, Flint; and H. Terrv, William Cook, E. A. Hotchkiss and Mr. Lockwood of Lansing.

Michigan M P T O Votes
Greater Unity Pledge

(Special to the Herald-World)

GRAND RAPIDS, Oct. 10.—The M.P.T.O. of Michigan in convention be- longed a pledge and support aimed to increase the organi- zation’s effectiveness. Each member must sign the pledge, promising, un- der penalty of dismissal from the association, to:

1. Pay dues monthly in advance.
2. Fully and completely carry out every policy determined by a major- ity of the board of directors, after receiving notice of the measure, in order that the composition of the board of the organization may be maintained.
3. Voice any criticism of the asso- ciation, its directors or activities, only to the association headquarters or to the board of directors at their regu- lar meeting, either in writing or in person, that the organization not be handicapped by internal conflict.
4. Respond promptly when the or- ganization asks a member to render personal service.
5. Attend the state convention unless prevented, as many as other meetings as feasible.

6. Show in the member's theatre (if any advertising other than his own advance trade paper), the advertisement of one advertiser per week, slide, trailer or industrial reel, the revenue derived from such show- ing to go, in addition to the regular dues, to the association.

Three City Councils, 67 Commerce Groups Oppose Daylight Saving

(Special to the Herald-World)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9.—Thomas A. Maloney, president of California's All Right, the league fighting the daylight saving move- ment in this state, has announced that 67 out of 107 Chamber of Commerce organizations have gone on record as opposed to daylight saving. Of the 33 who have taken a neutral stand and only seven are in favor of it.

Local city councils in Oakland, Fresno and San Francisco have also refused to adopt the reso- lution.

Even picture studios are playing a prominent part in the drive against daylight saving, as are labor organizations, railways and other institutions.

The question goes to the polls November 4.

Court Orders Inquiry
Of Blue Law Violations

(Laurel Hild, Miss., Oct. 9.—Circuit Judge W. Joe Farkk scored on charges of moving picture shows or other persons guilty of violating Mississippi's Sunday blue laws and instructed the grand jury to investigate thoroughly such violations. He de- plored that those high in standing and in- fluence in a city openly defied the law and answered questions. He also stated that the plea that "the other fellow wasn't getting punished for similar violations" should not be accepted.

The jurist pointed out certain establish- ments, such as drug stores, are exempted from the blue law violations.

Swirling on Long Term

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Joe Swirling, playwright and novelist, has been signed on a long term contract by Columbia.
Runs 75 Theatres—And Doesn’t Seek Profit!

Considered Regular Feature of Routine
By Post Commanders

By CHARLES S. AARONSON

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—There is in the United States a circuit of motion picture theatres, not generally known, which operates some 75 houses, 58 of which are sound equipped, scattered throughout the county, and yet makes no attempt to show a profit.

The United States Army Motion Picture Service, operated under that department of the Adjutant General’s office known as the War Department Theatres, has paid its own way without the aid of government funds since its inception in January, 1921. The organization, fully as complete and competently manned as any civilian chain of theatres, was designed solely for the benefit of the soldier personnel of the army.

The picture houses are located in practically every camp and army post throughout the country, and though only evening performances are given, figures show that approximately 1,500 performances are offered to Uncle Sam’s soldiers each month, or about 17,000 a year. It obviously requires an organization which knows its business to handle the operation of that number of showings. These programs are not offered to the soldiers free of charge, but at a nominal admission of 15 cents, which is made still lower through an arrangement by which the soldier may purchase a book of 10 coupon tickets at $1.25. In the cases where it is necessary, these books of tickets are sold on credit.

Admission Fees Only Income

The admission receipts are the only source of income for the organization, from which it pays all its running expenses, yet it is a very rare instance when the Army Motion Picture Service must point to a deficit at the end of any year. The entire organization is self-sustaining. Theaters located at the larger posts, which draw greater audiences by reason of their size, help to support those at the smaller camps which must necessarily have a more difficult task making ends meet.

Every detail of the actual operation, including the construction of the houses, is completed by army personnel. Ushers, ticket takers, projectionists, are all soldiers trained by the staff of the department, which supervises operation from five branch offices located in key centers throughout the country. The theatres were constructed and sound apparatus installed by soldiers working under department engineers, who make periodical inspection trips of all theatres.

After a study by the staff, R.C.A. equipment was selected for the circuit. In this connection, it is interesting to note that since January 1, 1930, 56 houses have been completely equipped with sound apparatus, which gives a figure of six and one-half installations per month or more than one each week during the period. All this work is considered by the soldier as extra duty, for which he is paid in addition to his regular salary. In completing the sound installations, the men worked night and day, which indicates the feeling of the personnel toward the idea as a whole.

The houses seat on an average of 400 people, with one, at Fort Benning, Georgia, having a capacity of 1,500.

Commanders Like Idea

Post commanders in general are very favorably disposed toward the idea of motion picture entertainment for the soldier. Pershing is reported to have said on one occasion that he would rather command 1,000 men who had been entertained by motion pictures, than several thousand who had had no entertainment. One post commander has made the theatre in his camp one of his hobbies, calling it his “next to Roxy theatre.” The picture house has come to be considered by army chiefs just as much a part of the curriculum as any branch of instruction, as they believe the instructional value as well as the entertainment is useful in keeping the personnel in touch with current events.

The attitude is taken by the operating staff of the command that each theatre is catering to a small community in itself. Attractive programs are planned, describing the attractions current at the theatre, which is paid for by the advertising of local merchants. There is no competition whatsoever with the civilian theatre, since the army post house does not go outside the camp limits for its audience.

Great care is exercised in the composition of weekly programs, from the booking of pictures which are considered best fitted for the soldier, to the balancing of the program, in the same manner that is followed in the civilian circuit of theatres.

Complete Records Kept

Complete records of attendance, receipts, and audience reaction are forwarded to the main office by post commanders after each performance, thereby assisting in the formation of future programs.

Audiences at the theatres are very orderly on the whole. M. P.’s are in charge, and a disorderly soldier is merely requested to step outside, where his admission fee is politely refunded.

For soldiers in the field or on the border who are not near a camp, sound trucks have been developed in connection with the work of the Army Motion Picture Service, so that it is possible to set up a field theatre, so to speak, in about 15 minutes.

At the head of the staff personnel is R. B. Murray, director of the service in Washington, assisted by Herman Meyers as auditor, Thomas H. Martell from his headquarters in New York, is director of bookings, handling all price arrangements on film rentals with the producing companies, which item is the largest individual expense involved in the operation of the service.

Headed the other branch offices are: Fred Bund, Jr., at Washington; W. E. Crist at Dallas, Texas; Stephen Cronin in Seattle and M. W. Smith in St. Louis. Each branch manager is assisted by a projectionist and sound engineer, who develop operators for the various houses and supervise the maintenance and servicing of equipment.
Marked Progress Shown in Papers For SMPE October 20-23

Three Discussions of Color Photography Alone, Others on Stereoscopy And Myriad Other Problems of Industry

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—That unusual work is being done in practically all phases of motion picture engineering is evidenced by the program selected for the fall meeting of the SMPE October 20-23 on the roof garden of the Pennsylvania hotel.

There will be three papers on color photography, others on stereoscopic projection, open discussions on large screen and projection, and reports on microphones, loudspeakers, recording and reproducing equipment, including 16 mm. sound projectors, theatre equipment for the hard of hearing, and on printing and developing.

Foreign Situation a Topic

The foreign situation will be discussed by C. J. North and N. D. Golden of the Motion Picture Division, U. S. Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, by F. S. Kirby, associate editor of Electronics, and by J. W. Coffman, president of the Audio-Cinema, just home from Russia. On the last day the members will visit: The General laboratory of the Bell Telephone Laboratories and will see a demonstration of two-way television.

Entertainment includes previews of the first day, a boat trip around Manhattan, and a banquet October 22. Officers are to be elected at this convention.

Details of the program follow.

Monday, October 20

8:30 to 10 a.m. Convention registration.

Starting at 10 a.m.

Address of welcome by Major Edward J. Bowes, New York, last president of the SMPE.

Report of the convention committee.

Tuesday, October 21

8:30 to 9 a.m.

Registration.

Starting at 9:30 a.m.

"Improvements in Dynamic Speakers," by I. Bohrovsky Serge, consulting engineer, Rochester.

Open discussion: "Advantages and Disadvantages of Placing Sound and Picture on Separate Films.

Starting at 1:30 p.m.

"Madalor Process of Sound Recording and Reproducing," by H. Von Madalor, Hampton Bays, L. I.

"Demonstration Film Recorded of the Use of a Reflecter in Combination with a Microphone, by H. W. Dreyer and M. C. Batsel, RCA Photophone, Inc., New York.

Entire evening set aside for visiting Broadway theatre films.

Wednesday, October 22

Starting at 9:30 a.m.

"Cinematographic Analysis of Mechanical Energy Expenditure in the Sprinkler," by C. A. Morley, Eastman Research Laboratory, Rochester, and W. O. Penn, University of Rochester, School of Medicine and Dentistry, Rochester.

"Double Toning of Motion Picture Film," by J. I. Crabtree and W. Marsh, Research Laboratory, Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester.

"Removing the Fire Hazard from the Handling and Storage of Film in Laboratories," by S. C. Hubbard, Consolidated Film Industries, Inc., New York.

"Some Applications of the Comparison Microscope in the Film Industry," by O. E. Conklin, Redpath Laboratory, DuPont-Pathe Film Manufacturing Corporation, Parlin, N. J.

"Reducing Solutions for Motion Picture Film," by J. I. Crabtree and E. Mueller, Research Laboratory, Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester.

2:30 p.m.

Boat trip around Manhattan Island. Boat leaves Battery Pier at 2:30 p.m.

7 p.m.

Semi-annual banquet at the Grill Room of the Pennsylvania hotel. Dancing afterwards.

Thursday, October 23

9:30 a.m. at Bell Telephone Laboratories

1:30 to 2:30 p.m.

Luncheon (courtesy of Bell Telephone Laboratories, Inc., New York.

2:30 p.m.

Trip through Bell Telephone Laboratories including Sound Film Laboratory.

7:30 p.m.

Papers (Roof Garden, Pennsylvania hotel).

"Electrical Instruments for Test Purposes," by A. H. Wolfler, Weston Electrical Instruments, Cleveland.

8 p.m.

Exhibition of recent films in the Roof Garden.

"Realism" Cost $1,200; Was It Worth It?

(Special to the Herald-World)

MARTINEZ, CAL., Oct. 9.—A touch of realism was added to the showing of "The Big House," a prison drama, at the State theatre here, when a bandit staged a $1,200 holdup.

John Shaw, assistant manager, got both the "touch" and the "realism.

The gunman made his way into the manager's office and forced Shaw to open the safe and procured the money, he bound and gagged the assistant manager.

While the robbery was going on, a woman who had an appointment with the manager knocked on the door.

The bandit calmly told her to return the next day and then made off with his loot.
THE BIG TRAIL

"THE BIG TRAIL" is an epic. It is the story of the glory, tragedy, fun and romance of the people who settled the Lewis and Clarke territory. It follows the lives of a great group of pioneers from Missouri through the plains, across the deserts, into the mountains and then through the wilderness of Nebraska and Wyoming.

Raoul Walsh's production unfolds many fine spectacular events in the history of that trek. Approximately 100 great prairie schooners carried hundreds of men, women and children from homes of comparative security into the dangers of the unsettled country. Oxen, cattle, horses and poultry were taken. Walsh has placed all this on the screen.

At the outset he depicts by action and dialogue the fineness of spirit with which the people set out. He introduces Ian Keith, John Wayne, Marguerite Churchill and Tully Marshall as the central characters who have important parts in the story that runs through the entire drama. Their story is, after all, rather unimportant when contrasted with the tale of the moving community itself.

The finest part of the picture is the storm sequence. Rain in unprecedented quantities thrown upon the location set brought the first sight audience to its feet, applauding and awed. Never before that I have known has such a storm been brought to the screen. It was the more effective for the fact that it was on Grandeur.

The increased size of the film everywhere brought out the beauty and depth of the settings. The finest phase of the picture is the photography and the choice of the locations. With the Grandeur camera turned on those locations Walsh has been able to make truly sensational shots.

Another of the exciting parts of the show is a well constructed fight between the pioneers and the Indians who occupy the territory on which the whites expect to settle. A good piece of drama is enacted.

The individual acting honors go to Ian Keith and Marguerite Churchill, although, as said heretofore, it is not the kind of picture that permits the individual to stand out to any great extent. Miss Churchill appears to be a fine, wholesome type of young woman who has poise and dignity, modesty and charm. Her admirer, John Wayne, carries on very well.

Considerable time was given the production and much of it went into the business of finding locations that suited the story as well as into an intense effort on the part of the director and cameramen to get the most effective results after settings were found.

It is certainly not the kind of picture that is made every day. It is the kind that can be turned out only by the expenditure of unusual effort, organization, planning and scientific skill. Its vastness and its sweep make it what it is.—Douglas Dodges, Hollywood.

A FALL TO ARMS
LARRY DARMOUR PRODUCTION
Radio Pictures—Sound
A good story and a capable cast form a background for "A Fall to Arms," second of the Laugh series being produced by Darmour with Louise Fazenda starred. Miss Fazenda uses slapstick to great advantage and for a lot of laughs all through the film.

The story puts her in the role of a mistreated boarding house maid who falls heir to a supposedly giving oil-well only to find it a "has been" gasoline station when she sees it. The story is full of laughs from start to finish with Max Davidson getting a big share of them. The picture is 2,000 feet long.

THE SEA WOLF

This last screen appearance of Milton Sills, in the screen adaptation of Jack London's famous story, "The Sea Wolf," is a fine dramatic achievement in characterization. Ably supported by a most excellent cast, the late star gave life to a figure long familiar in print to the large group of London's readers.

It is the story of a rough sea captain, whose philosophy of life is summed up in the expression "the big fish eats the small fish," and who carries out that idea in all his dealings with men. When a young weakling is shanghaied by the crew and taken aboard Wolf Larson's ship, The Ghost, a water front girl, who had been attracted to the boy, follows to be with him. There follows the conflict between the boy and Larson, which presents an excellent opportunity for Sills to portray the unfeminine and heavy handed manner of the sea captain.

It is ironical that in the end, when Larson's ship has been left a derelict by the brother who hated him, the man who had no sympathy for the weak is blinded by the application of a hot poker in the hands of the cook. The young couple, who previously escaped from the ship, return to it, after floating in an open boat, to find Larson in a dying condition. Before he dies, he requests the boy to read the Lord's prayer, and in a most effective scene directs him to the nearest land.

Jane Keith presents an admirable performance, chieflly noteworthy for the restraint and sincerity of her portrayal of the girl who attempted to pit her wits against the "wolf." She is very attractive, and renders her lines quietly but effectively. Raymond Hackett plays the shanghaied boy who, under the lash of Larson's tongue and fists, gains in mental and physical strength, and does a fine piece of work.

John Rogers as the cook who fawns upon Larson because he fears him, but hates him for the manner in which he is ill treated, deserves special mention for his performance. He not only provides a bit of comedy here and there, which serves to relieve the intensity of the drama, but reaches a height of dramatic ability when he leaves his galley, poker in hand, to find Larson.

Photography is of a uniform excellence throughout, featured particularly by several fine shots of the sailing ship on the sea, and of the boy climbing to the top of the mainmast to shift a sail.

The development of Alfred Santell is of a very high order, making the film move at a pace equally as active and sharp as the original story, and taking every opportunity to bring out the character of Wolf Larson, as flawlessly pictured by Milton Sills. This is a really fine screen production, and forms a fitting climax to the career of the featured player.—Charles S. Aaronson, New York City.

* * *

THE LAND OF MISSING MEN

HERF is a Western that is superior to the usual picture of this type by a long way. Principally responsible are extremely able direction, a script that is better than one’s usual cost, and a cast which surely knows its Western business.

Bob Steele, featured player, has an excellent voice for singing and song as well as for song as well. In one of the opening sequences, Steele and his pal are seated beside a fire at night, while Bob, who is singing, and sings. The music shifts back and forth from one to the other, making a very effective scene, registering the reaction of the song on Al St. John, the tobacco chewing pal of Steele. The latter puts over his lines with a slow drawl that sounds real, and St. John works in perfect harmony with Steele, long, low, husky speech and action, and chews tobacco as though it meant something.

McCarthy, who wrote the screen adaptation as well as directed the film, gets the credit for several scenes which are decidedly better than are usually found in this sort of picture. Steele and St. John, after being accused of robbing stage coaches and abducting women, go into the mountains to bring back the real bandit, Lopez. During the night they make one stop at a saloon in a valley to get certain information. As they push open the door, the sound of an automatic piano is heard. Inside, lighted dimly by lamps, the barroom presents a dramatically lighted scene. The camera moves slowly about the room, showing, in various sprawled positions, five dead men, each with a gun in his lifeless hand, a dying old woman. The two get the last words of the dying man, then back out of the room, while the piano continued.

Traveled later at the bandit camp, Steele and St. John shot it out with the gang, finally cleaning them out as help arrives. Fortunately, the heavy love interest at the conclusion is somewhat subordinated, another example of the good direction, and indicating how much more effective a final scene can be when something of the emotion of the picture is reserved for the exposure.

Emilio Fernandez as the bandit leader, Lopez, makes a realistic appearance, and speaks with a Spanish accent that sounds real, and not "boots." Mention has been given to detail which enhances the realism of the picture, particularly in the use of Spanish when one of the bandit group speaks to another.

Al Jennings takes the part of the former sheriff who is instrumental in bringing out the fact that his former employer is behind Lopez and his gang. He is by no means a young man, but is a rather capable actor. Caryl Lincoln plays the feminine lead, though she has comparatively little to do.

Photography is good, and in certain instances excellent. A swift pace is maintained throughout the picture, which may justifiably be ranked "boots on the ground."—Charles S. Aaronson, New York City.

WESTERN-HERO

REMOTE CONTROL

BOB STEELE, who presents an excellent voice for dialogue and song in Tiffany's "The Land of Missing Men," in the role of the Western.

A NEAT blend of comedy, mystery and thrills are packed into the Sylvia Thalberg-Frank Butler edition of "Remote Control." On the stage, there was more mystery, perhaps, but less humor. William Haines is his rollicking self and gives a better than ordinary portrayal of the clowning radio announcer who, with his bland exterior, does some fast thinking.

John Miljan develops his part of a villainous heavy artfully, while George Grindley, as the police chief, is a perfect model of the typical police chief and adventuring required by the role. He is a very laughable bandit, and the climax of the film has a thoroughly satisfying conclusion.

THE STAGING of the show is a thing that the studio may well boast of. The sets are extraordinarily fine and the action of the actors letter perfect. The picture is one that demands a large screen and large audiences. The comedy is based on genuine humor.

The piano player, featured in the role of the picture, who knows comedy better than most feature directors, and at his side have been two writers who likewise have made their fame largely as authors of wholesome, clean humor.

The staging of the show is a thing that the studio may well boast of. The sets are extraordinarily fine and the action of the actors letter perfect. The picture is one that demands a large screen and large audiences. The comedy is based on genuine humor.

WHAT A WIDOW

GLORIA SWANSON has, in her present picture, "What a Widow," an unfortunate choice of story and production. Were it not specified more would have been gained.

In her first talking film, "The Trespasser," Miss Swanson gave a wonderful performance, and gave the screen a box office picture. It is unfortunately that her second audible attraction should be below the mark established by her initial effort.

One thing especially bad in her current picture was the sound. It was hard to determine whether our fault was in the recording or the reproduction. The picture was seen by this reporter the third day of its exhibition at the Rialto in New York, where the sound is generally excellent.

Direction of "What a Widow" fell below par. There seemed to be every indication that it was aimed to completion, whether or not that was a fact.

Miss Swanson wears gorgeous gowns and is surrounded by handsome men. As J. Harlow, if it is not a false inference, in the opinion of the writer, to give the star the dramatic opportunities which she is capable of handling.

Low and behold, in a difficult role of an inebrate, did an excellent piece of work. You can appreciate his portrayals much more in audible film than you could in silent.

"What a Widow" is the story of a widow, gay through the inheritance of a fortune from an elderly husband, who starts out to see the world via Paris.

It is our hope that Miss Swanson will make another "Trespasser."—Jay M. Shreck, New York City.

HER WEDDING NIGHT

CLARA BOW'S "Her Wedding Night" is the smartest of a funny-talking picture she has appeared in, according to a consensus following the preview.

She is the central character of the story and yet she is not the whole show. She appears in only those scenes where it is necessary and good show business for her to appear. Her lines have been well written as have the lines for the entire cast. She reads them with much greater grace than she would have done a year ago with her then paucity of experience in dialog. Her voice has become well modulated since her appearance in "Love Among the Millionaires." And she does no songs in this one.

That in a few words is the impression of many upon first viewing the picture.

Skys Gallagher, Ralph Forbes and Geneva Mitchell have important roles and share in a great amount of footage. Their work is such as to be good.

They, as a matter of fact, bear the burden of most of the action. Gallagher, quite by accident, becomes married to Miss Bow. Forbes is almost as prolonged to fall in love with her. She has been a stranger to both. A comedy tangle ensues that involves both couples. And as has been mentioned each is equally important in the action that follows.

It is a fast show and is entertaining from the opening shot.—Douglas Hodges, Hollywood.

ATLANTIC

KNOWING the work of Dupont, more is expected of him than is presented in this picture. Wrong principally, it seems, is the slowness of action.

It was a difficult story to adapt to screen presentation, that is granted. However, action and dialogue are splendid, which would have added a great deal to the picture.

The picture is now presented it is tiring. This is said with due credit to the cast, for the American public is very fond of English players.

But the action of the picture moved more rapidly it would have something to talk about at the box office for the story has the elements of a good picture. "Atlantic" carries with it the story of a ship disaster at sea—a ship (possibly the Titanic) which makes its fate when its steel armour was crushed by an iceberg.—Jay M. Shreck, New York City.

EAST IS WEST

"East is West," the story told before so successfully in another and as well as motion pictures, is again brought to the screen in dialog. It is an impressive picture. The story of the little girl from a Chinese village and in love with an American boy is the kind that pulls on the heartstrings and has given many a man, woman and child a good cry.

In this instance this is accomplished primarily by Lew Ayres (remembered for "All Quiet") and Lupe Velez. However, two others must be mentioned: "Coral," given up to C. Allyn Warren. The four of them are the show. They did expert work with the feeling that they had a job to do.

The action drags in places, something foreign to other pictures directed by Monta Bell with his fine sense of tempo. Nevertheless he has turned out an excellent piece of work.

The most moving scene appears early in the picture where: Velez, in the role of a Chinese girl, goes to the police station to help her pseudo father because he wants to sell a few of his daughter's goods to get money to buy more pigs. Velez and many other beautiful girls are thrown upon the market for purchase by Chinese who wish to rid themselves of aging wives in order to institute newer and younger ones.

The success of the theme of the picture, the highest order. Sets and locations chosen are remarkably effective and in many cases enchanting.—Douglas Hodges, Hollywood.

PARADISE ISLAND

"Paradise Island" will appeal to those who find the South Sea tales with their tropical accompaniment, plenty of rough and tumble fighting, lots of love interest, swaggering sailors and the gyrations of native dancers. It packs a punch and is good entertainment from beginning to end. Suspense developed by Katterjohn, who wrote the screen play, and Bert Glennon, the director, gripped the audience.

Paul Harst, as "Beauty," the homely and dumb sailor, and Vic Potel and Will Stanton, as Swede and Linsey rustamputs, not only help with the suspense but contribute considerable comedy.

The cast brings together Kenneth Harlan as the hero and Tom Santschi as the villain—both veterans of the rough and tumble type of screen play. They start the fight which is as real as any motion picture fight. You recall that Santschi learned how to stage a good free for all in the original version of "The Sporlers." His scenes at an island in the South Seas at the time Marceline Day arrives to marry Gladden James, drunkard, and in love with a beautiful girl, as the saloon keeper, covets her. Harlan falls in love with her.

Harlan decides to save James from both his wife and Miss Day from Santschi. He fails in the former and succeeds in the latter enterprise after a terrible battle with Santschi over the girl. In his idea, the book and movie should be shown by the native seductress of James, gave a clever portrayal. James was well cast.—Edward Churchill, Hollywood.

AUDIO REVIEW.—NO. 38
Pathé—Sound.
A pictorial description of doll making in Japan, which opens this review, is featured by the charm with which the art and workmanship of the Pathochrome color process. The detailed manner in which the small figures are fashioned and the way the colors are laid on in bright colors is interesting. "Biblical Waters" pictures natives fishing with nets in the Sea of Galilee in Palestine. The Hollywood Gardens, night club in the upper reaches of New York City, gains some extremely effective advertising in the concluding item of the review, closeups of celebrities who grace the tables of the club are shown, including Rudy Vallee, Paul Whiteman and others, followed by a sequence of pictures illustrating the type of entertainment the patrons enjoy. Except for the first feature, the review is not particularly interesting. Running time, 9 minutes.

MICKEY'S MUSKETEERS
LARRY DARMOUR PRODUCTION.
RKO—Sound.
The inimitable Darmour juveniles are well handled in this latest laugh riot. Mickey (himself) is well and the rest of the boys and aviator in a manner that delights kids as well as grownups. Each member of the gang has his own idea about what the airship should be built. The results are disastrous to the gang and a spasm to the audience. "Mickey's Musketeers" was inadvertently used as the title for another Mickey comedy produced on page 31 of the August 16 issue of the Herald-World.

THE GEM OF AGRA
NO. 13 OF "VAGABOND ADVENTURES" SERIES
Pathé—Talking.
The whole of the number of the Taj Terris Vagabond series is devoted to a description, pictorial and verbal, of the Taj Mahal, famous building constructed by an Indian emperor in memory of his wife. It is explained that seventeen years was required to complete the structure, generally considered the most beautiful of the world, and that the building was a revolution and the loss of an empire. The film shows the building from many angles, closeup views of the finest wrought and delicate designs cut into the face of the marble by hand and enhanced with examples taken out of its surroundings. Closeup views of the finely wrought and delicate designs cut into the face of the marble by hand and enhanced with examples taken out of its surroundings. Closeup views of the finely wrought and delicate designs cut into the face of the marble by hand and enhanced with examples taken out of its surroundings.
J. C. Jenkins
His Colym

DEAR HERALD-WORLD:

It may be interesting to the readers to know that Denver serves the smallest number of theatres in the largest territory of any exchange center in the United States. She serves Cody, Wy., on the northwest, a distance of 601 miles, and the towns along the Mexican border on the south, a distance of more than 800 miles.

Within the territory served by Denver there are 485 theatres, 320 of them in operation and the balance closed. Fox Mid-West and Publix own and control 55 of this number, situated in towns of 2,500 and over. The balance are located in towns of 2,500 and down to as small as 500. Many of the theatres in the smaller towns, and that includes the greater bulk of them, are having a hard time to exist, with chances that many of them will be forced to close.

In one respect, Denver and Colorado Springs are very much like Los Angeles, in that they are more or less dependent on the tourist trade.

Colorado Springs especially, is reported to have suffered a tremendous decline in business on this account. This is true of all the resort towns along the eastern slope of the Rockies. It goes to prove that when any section of the country is affected by a radical financial depression, it is bound to be felt to a more or less degree by all other localities.

For some time Denver has been overstepped, but in spite of that fact, Publix has recently built and opened another beautiful theatre, and Fox has under construction, soon to be opened, the second deluxe house, which will add a total of something like 3,500 more seats to what the city already has. Yet Denver is complaining of having too many empty seats.

We can't understand it. In other lines of business profits furnish the motive for expansion, but in the theatre business they seem to expand better on deficits. Study the situation as we may, we are able to arrive at but one conclusion, that the producer-owned chains will eventually drive all independents out of the business and will ultimately own and control the exhibition of motion pictures. They call it "the survival of the fittest." That sounds good and is probably a good theory, but that's what Mike Maloney called it when he knocked his wife out with a kitchen chair.

In 1767, we kicked up quite a rumpus in this country over a pet theory that all men should be free and equal. Every recurring Fourth of July we get out and make a lot of noise in support of this theory and we take a lot of credit to ourselves that Independence is the foundation rock upon which this country has built the greatest nation on earth, and we have a right to. But—

We have a law in this country against the formation of monopolies and it is less effective than the Eighteenth Amendment, if that could be possible, yet we have steel mergers, railroad mergers, bank mergers, harvester mergers, chain store mergers and theatre mergers, all thriving under the law against monopoly. To destroy the spirit of independence and individuality in the people is to lay the foundation of unrest and discontent in the minds of those who believe in "Equality before the law," and it is upon unrest and discontent that Communism and the "red" doctrines thrive best. Are we drifting in that direction? It is of but little moment what we see think about it. The important thing is that you give the matter careful consideration.

Will Rogers suggests that we each contribute a buck for the purpose of buying a loving cup for Sir Thomas Lipton and that the funds be sent to Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York for that purpose. We are in favor of this and are stronger for it than heretofore, because we all love Sir Thomas and think he is the finest sportsman Exchange has produced, and the notion is to have a lot of our wild personal we think that Mayor Jimmy is a square-shooter and a mighty fine guy. But the trouble is that the public won't dig up because they haven't any confidence in a New York politician, and outside of Jimmy, we haven't either.

About the hardest working man we have found here in Denver is J. J. Morgan of the National Theatre Supply Company. J. J. showed us all over the establishment and treated us as one of the boys.

We understand that this company has secured the contract for the complete furnishings for the new Fox theatre, which contract will run into several thousands of dollars. There seems no good reason why this company should not have secured the contract, since they are on the ground and have the goods, and besides that, who could refuse a contract to a square shooter as J. J. Echo answers "Who?"

We also had the pleasure of meeting B. P. McCormick, field representative for this same company. B. P. used to operate a theatre at Florence, Colo., and we recall that some years back we had a very pleasant correspondence with B. P. relative to some of the abuses of the industry. We are still agreed on some of these abuses.

Denver is in truth a city of homes. It is said that more people here own their homes than in any city of like size in the United States. She has 57 parks scattered throughout her residential district, all of which are decked out in gorgeous flowers of every color and shape. Portland, with all her gardens of roses, has nothing on Denver when measured by floral beauty.

We heard some more of that New Jersey henhouse music over the radio last night. It's no wonder that Morrow is a pronounced wet. Liquor is the only thing that can bring us relief.

The exchange managers here in Denver are about the nicest bunch of fellows we have ever met. There isn't a horse thief among them, not one, and we trust that Omaha will take notice of this. (Not that the Omaha boys are a bad lot, but you know how 'tis, Mable. With Ted Mendenhall of Paramount, and Sherm Fitch of RKO out on parole, one can never tell what will happen. It's always best to keep the stable door locked.

This cool, snappy mountain air this morning is suggestive of what is soon to follow. Right now we can see the mallards, canna-backs and redheads migrating southward to the lakes in Cherry county, Nebraska, and this suggests that our trigger-finger not become incapacitated from pounding this darned old writer. Were it not liable to throw the office force in confusion and disrupt the organization, we would try and send the HERALD-WORLD force a couple of dozen nice, fat mallards just to remind them that there is something in this life better than sowelly and prunes. With some nice roasted mallards on their dinner table, we can imagine just what would happen. Ernie Rovestad would throw a fit, George Schutz would write a verse of moonlight poetry, Edwin Clifford would order a dozen American Beauty roses for his wife, Bill Weaver would give his polo pony an extra quart of oats, Denny Shea would check and double check our account, and Perengardt would forget about those Hollywood bathing beauties. And now, since we have to leave room for that Abe Martin picture, we will say, auf wiedershen, or something like that.

J. C. JENKINS,
The HERALD-WORLD man.

P. S.—The HERALD-WORLD COVERS the field LIKE an April shower.
Metropolitan on 24-Hour Basis
With Eight Producers at Work

Summerville Comedy for Universal Completed on Magnachrome
Wide Film—Paramount Buys Hemingway’s “A Farewell To Arms”—Two Pathé Short Comedies Finished

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—Entering the fall season with a program that is practically taxing the entire equipment of the studio, Metropolitan is now the busiest center in Hollywood. Eight producers, all on shooting schedules or preparing to start, have more than 50 wellknown names appearing before their cameras. Harold Lloyd is completing “Feet First” and Caddo is filming foreign versions of “Hell’s Angels” and is at work on the Spanish translation which features Jose Bohr. Al Christie is directing “Charley’s Aunt” which stars Charlie Ruggles. The plant is working on a 24 hour basis.

Slim Summerville’s second comedy for Universal, “We, We, Marie,” has been completed on Magnachrome wide film. Magnachrome processing gives the regular 35mm, film a frame of two-to-one ratio and is brought about by a direct contact. This proceeding results in the same wide range effect with standard film and other methods accomplish by a reduction from a wider film negative to standard positive.

“A Farewell to Arms,” Ernest Hemingway’s best seller, has been bought by Paramount. The purchase includes both book and stage rights, as the story has just been produced on the Broadway stage by A. H.
Woods.

Two Pathé Shorts Completed
Marking the close of one of the busiest weeks yet experienced by Pathe’s comedy department, two shorts have been completed.
Daphne Pollard’s first, “Jack in the Box,” has been finished with Fred Guiol directing.
The second, “Under the Cockeyed Moon,” has been completed under the direction of Wallace Fox.

Paul Fejos, who recently signed with M G M, will direct “The Great Lover” as his first picture for that company. Lucien Hub-hard is now adapting the story which will have an all star cast.

Louise Brooks has returned to Hollywood after an absence of more than a year in Germany and France. She will soon start work.

Gregory Returns East
Paul Gregory is on his way back to New York for a conference with Florena Ziegfeld. He completed the male lead in Warner’s “Sit Tight.”

George OBrien returns to the Navy in his next film, “The Sea Beneath,” by Dudley Nichols and William Collier, Sr. John Ford will handle the megaphone.

Universal has completed 13 of the “Strange
As It Seems” series, suggested by John Hix.
Cameramen will be sent to all parts of the world to record scenes within the next few months. M. J. Nathan, Marshall Hahn and Jerry Fairbanks are producing the monthly single reel subjects.

DeMille Leads Charity
Campaign in Hollywood;
Ask $75,000 of Studios;
(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—With Cecil B.
DeMille as chairman again, the Community Chest drive is underway in all studios. Hollywood’s quota this year is $250,000, and the industry is expected to raise $75,000 toward it.
Chairmen have been appointed in all of the studios, under a plan submitted by Fox. Mr.
DeMille is expected to give a favorable report on solicitations at the first luncheon at the Roosevelt Hotel October 28.

Pathe and Paramount
Donate Films for Charity
(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—The Los Angeles Midnight Mission, charitable institution, voted “Ten Commandments” and “King of Kings” first place as the films they would like to see best in a forthcoming program. Pathe and Paramount-Public will donate the two pictures for the occasion of the showing within two weeks.
NOT all the funny people are in comic strips. There's a gentleman in this town who has both the Katzenjammer kids backed off the Sunday paper.

Nobody knows where he came from and nobody knows where he's going. At the present writing he is engaged as exploitation man for a theatre, but it's an even chance he will be selling vacuum cleaners or demonstrating a combination tooth paste and cake batter by the time you read this.

If you meet him in a crowd you'll know it's he because he'll be selling you something. Not trying, but selling.

It is rumored that he once saw an airplane catch on fire four thousand feet up in the air. He turned around to the man next to him and sold him the plane before it fell another hundred feet. At three thousand feet the wind fanned out the flames, so he rescinded the contract. At two thousand feet it caught fire again, so he started a raffle for the burning plane, collected all the money and gold watches in the crowd, rafled the plane off, called the company on the wire to buy the burning machine, signed the paper closing the deal, and watched the plane fall the last five hundred feet. He wasn't even breathing hard.

He's always thinking up stunts for picture exploitation. Whenever a picture comes out identifying itself with some particular town, like "Moby Dick" and New Bedford, Mass., he writes long and impassioned telegrams to the Chambers of Commerce, setting himself up as a local son, admitting that his family have been residents since the Indians were driven out of the country—admitting, in fact, that his family did it—and demanding that the mayor set aside a "Moby Dick" day, during which schools are closed, business is suspended, and there is a band parade by the local firemen, all wearing banners saying "See Moby Dick at the Plaza," banners paid for out of the city treasury. This is called a publicity stunt.

He walks into half a dozen stores, tells the owners he is a representative of a certain paper, and sells them advertising space for a special truck on the picture, thus risking ten to fifteen years minus good behavior in the penitentiary. And then he goes to the paper and convinces them that they ought to run the special two page truck. He gets it.

He knows how to get service over the phone. He calls up a printing plant, "Is this Mr. Cante? This is Mr. Jim Blow, President of Blow Pictures. I want you to rush me fifteen thousand throwaways of such and such description. If you don't give me your best price on them, and deliver them in half an hour, you'll lose my account. Deliver to the Merry Theatre. Goodbye."

Mr. Cante is in a perspiration. A call from the President. Maybe they'll get the whole account? He makes the throwaways at a special low price, rushes them out, and then finds that our hero is President Blow. What can he do about it? Our hero says, "What's the matter, I'm paying for it, ain't I! You don't mean to say you'd give better service to President Blow than you would me, would you? Of course not. I know you treat all your customers equally. Now don't be angry. I'll write you out a pass to see 'Moby Dick.'"

He gets away with it. He's still alive, at this writing. I know he was alive this morning, anyway, because just today he sold the local Miniature Golf Association the swell idea of running big posters on their golf courses, at their expense, reading, "Down with Daylight Saving. It Will Ruin the Movies."

NORMAN KRASNA.

Executive Prophesies
Long Wait for Novices
(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—C. Graham Baker, First National executive, says there are hundreds of highly competent actors, stars in their own right, who have been lured to Hollywood by tales of rich contracts issued to obscure actors and actresses. There are thousands of others, amateurs and novices arriving and on their way from all parts of the world, he points out. "But with the army of experienced, capable actors who have been on the ground a long time patiently waiting, what chance is there for the host of inexperienced players?" he asks.

Actors to Remarry

HOLLYWOOD.—Barbara Balford, actress, and Al Roscoe, actor and director, have announced their intention of remarrying. They procured a wedding license this week.

Change from Physical To Psychological Marks Film Progress: Laemmle
(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—Carl Laemmle, Jr., general manager of the Universal studios, believes that the trend is toward depicting the psychological instead of the physical struggle of its characters is an unmistakable sign of progress.

"Cruel melodramatic action is no longer the limitation of the cinema," Laemmle declares. "There are numerous examples of subtle and delicate dramas translated to the screen without any sacrifice of their spirit or significance.

"The realization of this has embarrassed Universal to undertake the production of a number of splendid stories which would have baffled us a short time ago. 'All Quiet on the Western Front' is an illustration in point.

Laemmle believes that victory of the psychological aspect may be attributed to the fact that most thoughtful and artistic minds are directing the destiny of pictures today.

New English Company Synchronizes Sound
(Special from the Department of Commerce)

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The Vocational Gramophone Company has erected a studio at Haves, England, where films are synchronized with sound on disc. The firm employs a large staff of men.

Films are delivered from motion picture studios and re-run in the "broadcast" record studio. Fifty sound synchronization versions have already been completed for British and American distribution and 30 more are now in work.

Berlin Film Workers Would Drop Pre-Titles
(Special from Department of Commerce)

BERLIN, Oct. 9.—The "Dachorganisation," an association of film artists and laborers, has started a movement to abolish introductory titles in sound pictures. The organization contends that the titles are no longer necessary.

The first picture without introductory titles to be shown is a Dreyfuss film directed by Richard Oswald.

Dolores Del Rio's Illness Halts Work on "The Dove"
(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—Production has been indefinitely postponed on "The Dove," United Artists' picture co-starring Dolores Del Rio and Walter Huston, pending the recovery of Miss Del Rio from an excrated illness.

Huston has contracted to make two pictures at other studios, after which he will take a three-months' vacation in Europe.

"Seed" Rights Bought By Carl Laemmle, Jr.
(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—Carl Laemmle, Jr., has purchased Charles Norris' "Seed," giving Universal talking motion picture rights to one of the best selling novels of the season.

Michael Vavic Dies
(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—Michael Vavic, actor and president of the Russian American Art Club, died here this week.
Astoria Plant Begins Feature, "Two Against Death," Oct. 20

Two Long Features a Month Called for at Paramount's Eastern Studio—Several More Shorts Are Completed by Warner

In Brooklyn—Mack Under New Contract

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Following the completion of production work on "The Royal Family" today, Paramount's Eastern studio in Astoria will take a short respite of about 10 days before launching into a concentrated schedule of feature production.

With the arrival next week of Walter Wagner, B. P. Schulberg and Ernst Lubitsch from the Coast, definite plans for fall production effort are expected to be set. During this rest period, the house will be set in order, with work confined to the completion of several short subjects, and a few necessary re-takes on "The Royal Family." Feature Starts October 20

On about October 20, production will begin on the next feature picture, starring Nancy Carroll, and tentatively titled, "Two Against Death," which will be directed by George Arliss. Present plans call for the production of two features in November, two in December, and an equal number of shorts monthly.

Several more shorts have been completed at the Brooklyn studio of Warner Brothers during the past week. Among the latest of the Vitaphone Varieties is "Revenge Is Sweet," said to be an old fashioned showboat type of melodrama, directed by the Coast importation, Al Goulding, from a script by Burnett Hurshey of the writing staff. In the cast are Barbara Weeks, King Calder and Leslie Adams. A comedy entitiled, "Storks and Bonds," also directed by Goulding, has as players Brooks Benedict, Clara Palmer, Helen Lynd and Billy Wayne.

Mack Has New W.B. Contract

"The Honest Thief," a comedy drama written by Walter Butlerfield and directed by Roy Mack, who has just received a new long term contract with the producing company. Playing in this subject are Rowland Hauye, the musical comedian, who has already acted in one other short at the Brooklyn plant, Martha Lorber, well known as member of the Follies; Lewis Donnelly and Lilyan Sahals. Two new writers have been signed for Varieties work, in the persons of Percy Robinson and Weare Holbrook, the latter being the conductor of a comic strip in one of the New York dailies.

Murray Roth, who supervises things in general at the studio, anticipates shortly starring Charles Hackett, famous opera singer, in several scenes from Romeo and Juliet, to be produced with a supporting cast as one of the Varieties.

Film Novice Gets Role In Fairbanks Picture

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—Arthur Schmidt, Jr., 21, a romantic rise to fame in the history of filmmaking! Although she never has appeared in a motion picture, and has spent most of her time on the New York stage, June McClow will play an important role in "Reaching for the Moon," with Douglas Fairbanks and Bebe Daniels.

She was signed on recommendation of Edmund Goulding, writer and director.

Boylan Doing Dialog for Fox "Connecticut Yankee"

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—Malcolm Stuart has been signed by Fox to do the dialog for "The Connecticut Yankee" starring Will Rogers. Emmett Flynn, who directed the silent version, is assisting. Shooting will start November 1 or shortly thereafter.

Arthur Schmidt, Jr., Joins The RKO Cutting Force

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—Arthur Schmidt, Jr., has arrived here to accept a position in the cutting department of RKO studios. He is the son of Arthur Schmidt, who, at the time of his death five years ago, was an executive of F.B.O.

Flagpole Sitter Sets Mark Atop Hollywood Starland

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 7.—Flagpole sitter, Walter Kemiston, has descended from his 51 day endurance record atop the Starland theatre here. Fox Movietone News has recognized the newly established record.

Gloria Swanson’s Titled Mate RKO Film Advisor

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—The Marquis de la Falaise, husband of Gloria Swanson, is giving advice on French versions of RKO pictures in the foreign department of that studio.

Marion Davies Film Starts

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—Work on "The Bachelor Father," starring Marion Davies, has started.

Anti-British? London Scoffs Ban on Film at Canadians

(Special to the Herald-World)

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 9.—"Ridiculous" was the term used by London censors to describe the action in British Columbia censor in barring "The Green Goddess" as "an anti-British picture."

The film stars George Arliss. When the local censorship board barred the picture, it resolved to consult censors in London for their opinion, too, with the "ridiculous" result.

Mexican-Produced Talker Shown at the California

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—"Las Campanas de Capistrano," first Mexican-produced talker, had its world premiere at the California theatre here this week. A four-reel Spanish Laurel and Hardy comedy was also on the bill.

Ned Sparks Back After Personal Appearances

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—Following a personal appearance tour with "The Conspiracy," and a visit to his home at St. Thomas, Ontario, Ned Sparks, R.K.O. comedian, is back at the studio ready for work.

Mary Pickford a Real Cavewoman in "Kiki"

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—Mary Pickford, who in her career as "America's sweetheart" has played practically every kind of part will do a new one in the new "Kiki." In this picture she becomes the girl with a positive determination to get the man she loves.

George Bowles Directs Exploiting for Christie

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—George H. Bowles has resigned as manager of Fox American Pictures to accept the position of vice-president in charge of exploitation for Christie at Metropolitan.

Add to Cast of U A Film

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—Walter Walker, Adrienne d'Ambricourt and Claud Allister have been added to the cast of "Reaching for the Moon," now in production at United Artists studios.

Mary Astor Rehearsing

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—Mary Astor is rehearsing for the lead in "The Queen's Husband," to be directed by Lowell Sherman for R.K.O.

Novarro Sued in Crash

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—Ramon Novarro is being sued for $50,000 damages as the result of an automobile crash here recently. His chauffeur is also named.

Marion Nixon Takes Rest

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—Marian Nixon and her husband, Edward Hillman, are in New York City for a holiday following her completion of her role in "Ex-Flame," a Liberty production.
Herald-World's Production Directory

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>STORY</th>
<th>DIRECTOR</th>
<th>CHIEF PLAYERS</th>
<th>BRAND NAME</th>
<th>STARTING DATE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>RKO Studios</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Cimarron&quot;</td>
<td>Wesley Ruggles</td>
<td>Richard Dix</td>
<td>September 18</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Beau Ideal&quot;</td>
<td>Herbert Bronson</td>
<td>Ralph Forbes</td>
<td>September 16</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Hi Diddle Diddle&quot;</td>
<td>George Marshall</td>
<td>Nick &amp; Tony (2-Reel Comedy)</td>
<td>Sept. 18</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Hook, Line and Sinker&quot;</td>
<td>Edward Childe</td>
<td>Bert Wheeler</td>
<td>September 20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

| Fox Studios   |          |               |            |               |
| "Lightnin' "  | Henry King | Will Rogers | Aug. 19    |
| "Shooper Newfounder" | Leo McCarey | Irene Rich | September 22 |
| "Stolen Thunder" | Hamilton McDadden | Begardin Danny | September 12 |

| Universal Studios |          |               |            |               |
| "Draak"          | Tod Browning | Bella Lugosi | September 29 |
| "Resurrection"   | Edwin Carewe | Helen Chandler | September 22 |
| "Cobena and Kelly in Africa" | Vin Moore | John Boles | September 11 |
| "Oursang"        | Harry Cason | George Sidney | September 22 |
| "Sailor Beware"  | Ralph Ceder | Sam Hardy | September 20 |
| "Fingertip"      | Ray Taylor | Kenneth Harlan (Short Serial) | September 20 |
| Summerville Comedy | Harry Edwards | Slim Summerville | September 20 |

| Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios |          |               |            |               |
| "Trader Horn"  | W. S. Van Dyke | Harry Carey | September 20 |
| "The Passion Flower" | William DeMille | Elvina Roach | Aug. 18 |
| "Within the Law" | Sam Wood | Joan Crawford | September 23 |
| "The Great Meadow" | Charles Bublak | Eleanor Beardman | September 20 |

| Paramount Studios |          |               |            |               |
| "The Right to Love" | Richard Wallace | Ruth Chatterton | September 20 |
| "Fighting Caravans" | Brewer-Knopf | All-Star | September 20 |

| Pathe Studios   |          |               |            |               |
| "Sin Takes a Holiday" | Paul Stein | Kenneth McKenna | September 4 |

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>STORY</th>
<th>DIRECTOR</th>
<th>CHIEF PLAYERS</th>
<th>BRAND NAME</th>
<th>STARTING DATE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>&quot;The Painted Desert&quot;</td>
<td>Howard Higgin</td>
<td>Bill Boyd</td>
<td>September 5</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Foot First&quot;</td>
<td>Clyde Bruckman</td>
<td>Harold Lloyd</td>
<td>September 22</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Aloha&quot;</td>
<td>Al Rogell</td>
<td>Raquel Torre</td>
<td>September 21</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Comedy</td>
<td>William Watson</td>
<td>Bert Roach</td>
<td>September 21</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

| Metropolitan Studios |          |               |            |               |
| "Drigible"         | Frank Capra | Jack Holt | August 12 |
| "Roses"            | Lionel Barrymore | Barbara Stanwyck | September 12 |
| "Madonna of the Streets" | John Robertson | Evelyn Brent | September 12 |
| "Tootie David"     | John Blystone | Henry B. Waithall | August 23 |
| "Criminal Code"    | Howard Hawks | Walter Huston | September 23 |
| "Dawn Trail"       | Christy Cabanne | Buck Jones | September 24 |

| Columbia Studios  |          |               |            |               |
| "Starboard"       | German Version | Java Holt |            |
| "Sacred Flame"    | Spanish Version | Monica Vilara |            |
| "The Bad Man"     | French Version | Jack La Rue |            |

| Hal Roach Studios |          |               |            |               |
| "Another Nice Mess" | James Parrott | Laurel and Hardy | September 18 |

| First National Studios |          |               |            |               |
| "Voice of Hollywood"  | Louis Lewyn | All Star | September 21 |
| "Mickey Mouse"        | Disney Bros. | Disney Bros. | September 22 |
| "Vagabond Adventure Series" | Tom Terri | (Shorts) | September 22 |

| Tee Art Studios      |          |               |            |               |

SOUND REPRODUCTION

F. H. RICHARDSON ON PROJECTION

IN THE FAR NORTHWEST

[Continuing Mr. Richardson's report of his trip, which he has been taking this summer in the interests of better projection.]

VANCOUVER, B. C.

The Vancouver meeting in the Dominion theatre was a large one numbering close to 300. It was composed of theatre managers, exhibitors, exchange men, projectionists, etc., from the whole of the province. The principal film inspector was W. E. Oswald, provincial theatre inspector. Friend Oswald was on his vacation, but learning of the coming of your editor, he got up out of his fishing camp at 3:00 a.m. and traveled a long distance to be present. There were two other Vancouver fire department present, though whether they came to hear the lecture or to grab your editor will set the air on fire I don't know.

And now, about my old friend, Oswald. Some of the boys had it in for him a bit, but I believe they, for the most part, now realize that they had not studied both sides of the matter quite enough. I believe he made a perfectly sincere statement to your editor when he said: "Some of the men occasionally get the idea that I am working against them and 'playing ball' with the exhibitors. The funny part of it is that most always the exhibitor at the same time has the idea that I have gone 'baywire' and am favoring the union. The whole trouble is that neither one of them has sufficient appreciation of the facts that I am a Government official and therefore cannot favor any one group against another. I have been in this position for seventeen years and could not 'play ball' with either side in any controversy without eventually getting caught at it. If I did not get caught the result would be that I would go out and be a new theatre inspector in my place."

And, gentlemen, I think that is a very concise and fair statement. I have known friend Oswald ever since 1917. I have kept a pretty close eye on his work, which I have found to be invariably good. I believe W. E. Oswald is a thoroughly honest and thoroughly competent public official. I believe he does what he is able to do to protect the interests of the projectionist, the exhibitor and the public, and, while I am the friend of the projectionists of Vancouver—I don't think it would be a very real fact—I would not wish it to be otherwise. I don't believe a public official ought to favor the projectionist, the exhibitor, or anybody else. If he does he is not an honest public official, and in the end he would favor one whom he might find it to his own interest to favor.

BELLINGHAM, WASH.

SOMETHING like 50 miles south of Vancouver and 20 miles south of the Canadian border, lies the city of Bellingham, Wash., which I remember as a small town no longer back than 1914. Today it is a city of 32,000 people—the fourth largest city in the state of Washington. It boasts five theatres, of which three, the Mt. Baker (in which the lecture was held), the American, and the Avalon, are operated by Fox. The other two houses are independent and are fighting the union.

I don't know just what the trouble is, but I may be permitted to say that this is a letter all too familiar thing to do. First of all, it is very difficult to do anything more than possibly temporarily win a fight with a labor union. When an exhibitor starts that kind of a scrap, it seems to me necessarily to present a large and possibly temporarily win a fight with a labor union. When an exhibitor starts that kind of a scrap, it means a never-ending struggle, and such a struggle must inevitably be a losing fight for the exhibitor. In any case, Mr. Exhibitor, that in this I am not intending to take sides. I am simply stating cold facts, which history has times without number proved.

Aside from this phase of the matter, however, the exhibitor should remember that even if he never loses, because of the fact that any cheapening of projection must and will inevitably mean a lowering in quality, and any lowering of quality must and will react against the box office. I don't make that statement as an expert. I just intend it as a statement of cold fact. Buying the services of projectionists is just like buying anything else in the world. You invariably get just exactly what you pay for. If you pay for a cheap article, you can bet your last suspender button that it will in the end turn out to be cheap.

Incidentally I might remark that at least one of our great theatre chains is now engaged in an endeavor to accept the price of one-man projection. Should they succeed in bringing this about, I venture the assertion that in the end it will cost the exhibitor more than a thousand dollars to pay the amount they will "save." The placing of one man in charge of modern motion pictures and sound equipment would, in my opinion, be the very acme of poor business procedure. It most certainly would make for rapid deterioration of equipment, which would in itself absorb a very large amount, or even all—"saving." Besides that, it would mean an inevitable deterioration of results upon the screen and through the horns, with the resultant loss at the box office. I am not seeking to tell this great corporation what to do, but I most emphatically am telling it that it is going to lose money good and plenty if it succeeds in its endeavor.

At the border line we had a game of hide and seek with the customs officers. They thought they won—and they did. However, we haven't shed any tears, so everything is all right.

At the Bellingham hotel we were met by the brothers James, W. A., and W. F. Long, of 117. They made us very welcome and took us for a tour of the hotel.

The meeting was held in the Fox Mt. Baker theatre. It was attended by all members of the local 117, and by all Fox managers. Incidentally, even the organist attended. Also, several men came in from Sedro-Wolly and Anacortes, each of which is about 30 miles distant.

Some of the people expressed their satisfaction with the result. Incidentally I am going to be able to talk to practically all of them every week for the next two years, through the medium of type, of course.

SEATTLE, WASH.

BETWEEN Bellingham and Seattle we almost needed a choke bit on the "Princess." Concrete pavement again—and how! We'd given her a little poof and she'd scoot ahead like a scared jackrabbit.

In Seattle we immediately called upon Junius H. Simpson, president local 154. He arrived with the glad hand of welcome extended something less than six feet. I am not going to say what was wrong with him, but —well, we are not yet far from Canada. Hardly had we exchanged greetings when the door burst open, and in marched five men from Vancouver, who had driven down all that distance to hear the lecture a second time.

In the evening we all went out to the residence of Business Agent McNabb, met his charming wife and two kiddies, and utterly ruined his harder. It was the first home-cooked meal I had had in ages. Two more bites and I would have burst a boiler.

It is amazing how the battle has grown since 1917. It is now well up to 400,000 population and has something like 40 theatres. The local has 112 members. Everything around the city of Seattle looks prosperous but, darn it all, it's not the Seattle I knew years ago. That lies deep, deep under the flood of years and improvements.

Between the Vancouver gang and the Seattle boys, we certainly had some party that afternoon and evening. But at midnight all members of local 154 and a good many of the theatre managers and exhibitors, and men from Vancouver and Tacoma were gathered in the Metropolitan theatre, where your scribe preached the gospel of better projection for two full hours.

If someone were to ask me what is the matter with Seattle, I would immediately answer, "It's all right."
SOUND STAGE EQUIPMENT AND PRACTICE

By L. E. Clark

Laboratory equipment for faithfully recording and reproducing sound is fairly new and has as yet no technical definition. On the other hand, equipment for recording sound in connection with photography in motion pictures is far less simple, as was disclosed as soon as sound recording equipment developed in eastern laboratories was brought to Hollywood to be put into actual production. Early talking pictures showed this very definitely. Many qualities of value in the silent picture were now sacrificed to obtain technically perfect sound recording, with the result that the first talking pictures with photography in motion pictures and their action stilted and unreal. The problem was immediately seen, however, and production attention focussed on relieving the situation. Great strides have been made toward restoring and extending the values which were developed in the silent motion picture, with photography in motion pictures; sound recorded on film by the variable density method and sound recorded on film by the variable area method. The essential difficulty of these sound stages lies in the method of placing the final record upon a receiving medium. In the first case, the intensity of a light is modulated to vary the exposure of the film and in the third case the intensity of the image is varied in order to produce a similar variation in area of exposure. With the exception of these cases, no glass is used and all the light limitations in response characteristics, the three types of recording equipment are identical. A long list of auxiliary devices which will be discussed in this article are equally applicable to each of the methods.

SOUND STAGES

In silent picture production no attention was paid to noise. The concentration of the actors on their work was so intense that the outside noises did not bother them. The microphone, however, is no discriminator of noises and the microphone's all-absorbing ear will add to the main theme the obbligato of the carpenter's saw, or the rhythmic overtone of an airplane motor.

The rush to produce the first sound pictures was so great that they were shot without regard to the stage. Work was done at night, or traffic stopped in the street outside. As soon as possible, however, sound stages were built. These have two primary functions: to keep all outside sounds from getting on to the stage and to keep sounds generated within the stage from penetrating the wall to wall and thus producing excessive reverberation. As the first of these requirements naturally means that no open doors or windows are permissible in the stages, artificial means of controlling air conditions and temperature must be provided.

*Technical Director of Sound, Pathé Studios, Eighteenth paper of Technical Diptich

The sizes of these stages vary from 60x80 feet, in the case of some of the first ones constructed, to as large as 150x225 feet in the large stages. Size was originally limited by acoustic conditions, but recently has been governed by studio space and production requirements. It has cost millions of dollars to build the sound stages with which all the studios are now equipped.

To produce adequate soundproofing in general requires a double wall construction, virtually a building within a building, the inner structure being supported on separate foundations from the other one. Care must be taken to prevent telegraphing of sound from the outside structure to the inside through any contact of rigid material. The floor of the sound stage is a very important factor. It, too, must be soundproof and as a practical requirement, the top layer must be damp proof wood to facilitate constructing sets. This wood can be laid over a concrete foundation, in the case of a stage whose floor is to be at ground level, or it can be floated upon a sub-floor filled with rock dust, cinders or sand. The purpose of these latter materials is to produce a heavy, non-vibrating base.

SYNCHRONIZATION

The coming of sound pictures immediately required a fixed speed for photography and projection. Silent pictures could be photographed over a wide range of speeds, from as low as fifty feet a minute to over a hundred. Sound pictures must be photographed at a constant speed, a rate of 24 frames a second, which amounts to 90 feet a minute, being standard. Furthermore, the picture and sound negatives must run always at precisely the same speed and must also be in perfect synchronization. For obtaining this perfect synchronization of picture and sound, additional machinery was necessary.

This equipment could be either mechanical or electrical, but from the standpoint of mobility of camera equipment the mechanical connection between sound and picture was immediately out of the question. Electrically there are two methods of keeping two machines operating in absolute step with each other. The first and simplest is by the use of the synchronous motor. Any number of synchronous motors when operated off the same power circuit will hold exactly the same speed relationship with respect to each other over long periods of time. The accuracy with which the speed is maintained is remarkable. However, no amount of mechanical synchronization can never get more than a very small fraction of a revolution out of step, even though they have been running for months or even years. For absolute accurate synchronization, motor is by the use of interlocking or, as they are sometimes called, Selsyn motors which, due to their peculiar construction, constitute what may be known as an electrical gear. Both of these motors are in use and are quite satisfactory after having been adapted to studio needs.

We now have mechanism of one type or another for providing our camera and our sound film or disc at the desired speed. In addition, it is necessary to provide a definite identification mark on both the picture and the sound record so that the two can be placed so that the prints from the picture and sound negatives can be properly matched. The start and end of each take, a man may step in front of the camera and clap his hands or wave two pieces of board together. A somewhat more ingenious device is to wire up an electric lamp and a buzzer, place the lamp in front of the camera when desired and touch the key that sets off both lamp and buzzer.

ACOUSTICAL CONTROL

An entirely different set of accessories may be grouped together and classified as "Acoustical Control." First in this list comes the acoustic set, i.e., motion picture sets constructed of such materials that the recording conditions will be good in as many respects as possible. If a sound is generated between two solid parallel walls, a set of echoes is set up, reverberating within as a flutter echo. If the distance between the walls is exactly right, actual standing waves will be produced in the room. Most interiors of the property are reflection, that is, of reflecting certain frequencies more than others. One way out of this is to use a material which has either both of materials having uniform absorption characteristics or materials which are essentially porous. Use of cloth walls in certain studios is an example of what can be done along this line. Other studios have met the reflection problem by building sets with non-reverberating walls. In this case very good results can be obtained with the old-fashioned set materials, but at the expense of artistic or realistic photography or camera work.

There are frequent cases, even in the best of sets, where, due either to considerable action or peculiar camera set-ups, it is difficult to secure a good quality of sound pickup. The usual effect is an excessive reverberation, sometimes known as "boominess" and sometimes known as "liveness," depending upon the type of set. To remedy this, several devices have been used. Any noise absorbing surfaces can be so grouped that they will kill most of the undesirable reverberation. In other cases, a small piece of equipment has been placed between the mike and the wall from which the reverberation is coming, will produce the same result is other, and not as common, trouble comes from resonance with-
FIGURE 3
While the lights were being adjusted in front of the cameras (right) Director Tate Garrett took the sound mixer's place in the portable mixing booth to hear the voices of the cast as they will be recorded. When the door is closed the mixer communicates by telephone, lines for which lead out from the front of the booth.

SYNCHROFILM

Utterly free from foreign sounds, the actor's voice comes to the audience exactly as it is spoken or sung on the stage. This triumph of sound reproduction is the result of an already boosting box office gross in 1,500 theaters and can be due only to the superiority of Synchrofilm Sound Equipment.

Illustrated here is the Synchrofilm sound head for the Simplex Projectors. It is a finer piece of workmanship than the watch in your pocket, no matter what that cost. All steel parts are hardened and rustproofed with chrome or cadmium plate. All bearings are special bronze or hardened steel balls. The optical system delivers four times the usual quantity of light, concentrated in a beam less than .001" wide, which performs results from both density and area recording. Yet, with all this, prices are rigidly in line. Write.

WEBER MACHINE CORPORATION
FIFTY-NINE RUTTER STREET
ROCHESTER, NEW YORK

Export Dept.: 515 Lafayette St., New York City
Cable Address: Artex New York

104 DeForest Sets Installed in Two Months by Chicago Office

The Chicago branch of General Talking Pictures has reported a total of 104 installations and sales of DeForest sound equipment during August and September. Bert Rosenberg is general manager for General Talking Pictures in Chicago.

The DeForest sales include theatres in practically all large cities of the Midwest and as far west as Utah and Colorado. The installations and contracts follow:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Theatre</th>
<th>City</th>
<th>State</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Lyric</td>
<td>Chicago</td>
<td>Illinois</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Center</td>
<td>Chicago</td>
<td>Illinois</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Garfield</td>
<td>Chicago</td>
<td>Illinois</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oak Park</td>
<td>Chicago</td>
<td>Illinois</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Franklin</td>
<td>Chicago</td>
<td>Illinois</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>King</td>
<td>Chicago</td>
<td>Illinois</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Opera House</td>
<td>Hartford</td>
<td>Wisconsin</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Regerent</td>
<td>Colby Falls</td>
<td>Iowa</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bluebird</td>
<td>St. Paul</td>
<td>Minnesota</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Strand</td>
<td>St. Louis</td>
<td>Missouri</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Family</td>
<td>Grand Rapids</td>
<td>Michigan</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wealthy</td>
<td>Grand Rapids</td>
<td>Michigan</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Trail</td>
<td>Bridgeport</td>
<td>Illinois</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Richland</td>
<td>Richland Center</td>
<td>Wisconsin</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ritz</td>
<td>Dunkirk</td>
<td>Indiana</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Betteford</td>
<td>Bettendorf</td>
<td>Iowa</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>North West</td>
<td>Davenport</td>
<td>Iowa</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fremer</td>
<td>Graysville</td>
<td>Illinois</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bijou</td>
<td>Carrollton</td>
<td>Illinois</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>California</td>
<td>Hammond</td>
<td>Illinois</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Adams</td>
<td>Chicago</td>
<td>Illinois</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Myers</td>
<td>Troyville</td>
<td>Indiana</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brown</td>
<td>Wapakoneta</td>
<td>Ohio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Whitehouse</td>
<td>Milwaukee</td>
<td>Wisconsin</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Music Hall</td>
<td>Newport</td>
<td>Kentucky</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Illinois</td>
<td>Metropolis</td>
<td>Illinois</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harmony</td>
<td>Chicago</td>
<td>Illinois</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Broadway</td>
<td>Mt. Pleasant</td>
<td>Michigan</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Waunee</td>
<td>Ft. Wayne</td>
<td>Indiana</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Regent</td>
<td>Anderson</td>
<td>Indiana</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Colonial</td>
<td>Oglesby</td>
<td>Illinois</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Peru</td>
<td>Peru</td>
<td>Illinois</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Princess</td>
<td>Urbana</td>
<td>Illinois</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>State</td>
<td>Rockford</td>
<td>Illinois</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rex</td>
<td>Steheinville</td>
<td>Illinois</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crumps</td>
<td>Columbus</td>
<td>Indiana</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Leda</td>
<td>Minneapolis</td>
<td>Minnesota</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Columbia</td>
<td>Pittsboro</td>
<td>Illinois</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Elk</td>
<td>Olney</td>
<td>Illinois</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Grace</td>
<td>Milwaukee</td>
<td>Wisconsin</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Open House</td>
<td>Aledo</td>
<td>Illinois</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Palace</td>
<td>Chicago</td>
<td>Illinois</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Queen</td>
<td>Chicago</td>
<td>Illinois</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

With Richardson

In Far Northwest

(Continued from page 45, column 3)

him was us, and he got his buggy going fast enough to catch us, we were away downtown and it was too late.

In the evening I dropped in at the RKO Orpheum and had a talk with its manager, J. F. Rogers, and his assistant, W. L. Skelly. I also went up to the projection room and met Projectionists C. A. Ellis and H. M. Lenndor. The room was very neat, though small. I did not make any particular examination of the equipment, but the sound was good, as was also the picture. Manager Rogers reports business very poor, due, he believes, to presents slackness in the number business. I also dropped in for a moment at the Fox Broadway theatre and met A. V. Albertson and Wesley Bews. This projection room also was small, but in excellent condition. The sound was good, but in my opinion more light might well be used on the screen. The Broadway is a mighty nice theatre, as is also the RKO Orpheum.

During the late evening, Projectionists W. H. Jarmon and L. Craig came in and we had quite a little visit. Brother Craig is business agent of local 175.

Tacoma has ten suburban theatres and six downtown theatres. I have found Tacoma projectionists always progressive and up-to-date. That city was represented in the projection department of the former Moving Picture World many times.

Oh, yes, by the way, I had a most pleasant surprise in Tacoma. One of my callers was Mr. W. Wolstead (at least, that is as nearly as I can remember the name), who years ago invented a very practical projector table, by means of which both projectors were operated separately. This device was very practical but of course changing conditions in projection equipment made its use unnecessary.

I might add that several projectionists from the city of Olympia, the capital of Washington, were at the lecture, which was attended by all the projectionists and some of the managers of Tacoma.

 ABERDEEN, WASH. **

Local 429, which includes the cities of Aberdeen and Hoquiam, had invited us to visit them, so we pulled out of Tacoma next morning, and we made a two-hour run on excellent pavement landed us in Aberdeen, which in former days was the center of Indian logging operations. All along the road we saw what to me seemed monuments—dead stumps of gigantic trees which, before the advent of the lumbermen, towered heavenward everywhere. Today they are gone, all but the sun-whitened or fire-blackened stumps, thousands upon thousands of which tell the story of the past.

We were met by Secretary J. E. Newell, who is just as clean-cut a man and motion picture sound projectionist.

We accepted the invitation of himself and Mrs. Newell to take dinner at their home, and believe me, it was some considerable dinner. I quite fell in love with his daughter—age four. Incidentally, Mr. Newell was born in that far north mountain country, Iceland.

The meeting at Aberdeen was, of course, a small one. The men from Centralia were coming, but it was a 60-mile drive, and the weather looked none too promising, so at the last minute they telephoned telling us that they wouldn’t come. The weather had concluded that discretion was the better part of valor. The meeting was attended by all the Aberdeen and Hoquiam projectionists, plus some of the managers.
Sound Laboratory Is Designed to Test Theatre Acoustics

A portable sound testing laboratory has been designed by Vesper A. Schlenker, acoustical engineer of the Vitaphone Corporation, which is being used in an attempt to adapt talking equipment to the peculiarities of the individual theatre.

Schlenker contends that no two houses have the same acoustical defects, although they may have the same cubical content, and for that reason each theatre needs to be individually diagnosed for sound perfection.

One of the experiments performed by the sound testing apparatus was in connection with the reproduction of a speech over a theatre horn. The speech was photographed as it came out of the horn and simultaneously photographed at scattered spots in the theatre by means of microphones. The horn photographs were used as a basis of comparing reception at various points in the house.

The reverberation test is another trial used. Single tones are projected and suddenly interrupted electrically. During the short time that the sound dies away it is photographed. The rapidity of its disappearance provides the measure of reverberation.

In a third experiment, a single syllable is projected so that its path can be followed completely around the theatre and photographed. Schlenker says this serves as a basic test, for when one sound receives the proper acoustical reception, all others and all combinations of sounds will be similarly received.

William R. Hearst Installs Photophone in Long Island Home; His Third R C A Set

William R. Hearst, newspaper publisher and one of the producers of the Hearst Metrotone News, a newsreel, has contracted for installation of R C A Photophone sound equipment in his summer home at Sands Point, Long Island.

This is the third Photophone set put in use by Hearst. He has previously placed models of the small theatre type in the private theatre on his ranch in California and in his Santa Monica home.

Expert Explains DeForest Phonofilm to Visitors at Edgewood Theatre Opening

When the new $350,000 Edgewood theatre opened in Baltimore, an expert of General Talking Pictures Corporation explained operation of the DeForest Phonofilm sound set to visitors in the projection booth.

The mayor of Baltimore attended the opening night ceremonies and helped dedicate the theatre.

The house is owned by the Frank H. Burkee Enterprises.

Boys’ Club of New York to Install 2 R C A Photophones

Sound pictures are to be provided for the 12,000 members of the Boys’ Club of New York, through a decision of the executive committee. Two R C A Photophone reproducing sets are being installed in the auditorium of the Tompkins Square building.

Installation will be completed about October 25.

The Award of Merit

That the awarding of the HERALD-WORLD plaque for better sound reproduction has proved of practicable value to the theatre winning the award because of its sound presentation is attested in the experience of the Opera House at Bellows Falls, Vt., which received the award this summer. The formal presentation is shown herewith. R. A. Kiniry is lessee and manager of the Opera House.

"The reactions of our patrons were far greater than we expected. They seem to be just as anxious to tell their friends as we are to tell them through our various forms of advertising."

Thus writes T. J. Goggans, manager of the Riverview theatre at Riverview, Ala., in commenting on the result of the winning of the HERALD-WORLD Award of Merit for excellent sound reproduction.

"Where Sound—Sounds Best"

It is to be noted that the Riverview is a small theatre, operated by the West Point Manufacturing Company of West Point, Ga., which has a number of sawmills and power plants in the South.

"Where Sound—Sounds Best," is the slogan that was adopted by the Riverview as soon as it had reached the standard of talking picture presentation which was the aim of the management.

And when the news of the awarding of the plaque reached Riverview, the public was apprised of it in no uncertain tones. In the next succeeding issue of the Chattahoochee Valley Times appeared a reproduction of the plaque in two columns above the theatre’s regular advertising, while on the back page was a one-column reproduction with a running story more than half a column long.

Describe Equipment in Paper

“We told you so!” ran the story. “And now we have the actual proof that the Riverview theatre ranks both for projection and perfect sound with the nation’s best theatres.”

There followed a complete description of the reproducing equipment, and this also has been an interesting sequel to the decision to acquaint the public with the quality of sound in theatres that were not satisfied with less than the best. The public has become interested in information regarding the equipment itself, and thus the mechanical side of presenting a story upon the screen has become news to the townsfolk.
BOX OFFICE PROMOTION

Small Town Theatre Needs Consistent Ad Policy, Says Wisconsin Showman

By KEN W. THOMPSON

A consistent advertising policy pays best for the theatre in the small town. Spasmadic newspaper advertising, as for example taking a large space just as an experiment for the next and nothing for the next, usually does more harm than good. Patrons are led to believe a theatre is in business one week and out of it the next.

I do, however, want it understood that I believe an exhibitor should regulate his space and copy according to the exploitation value of each individual picture, but keeping the weekly spaces as consistent as possible, with plenty of variety in makeup and copy. This will keep the readers out of the rut of thinking you have the same entertainment to offer them at every show.

Urges Variety in Ads

If it is important that the exhibitor provide a new film program at set intervals, why shouldn’t it be just as essential to vary the advertising makeup from time to time. Many showmen in small towns are prone to let their advertising “slide” and then turn around and place the blame for a loss of patronage upon the newspaper, not realizing where the real trouble is.

I have had outside experiences which I believe have enabled me to see advertising problems from perspective. For 10 years I was actively engaged in motion picture exhibition, and previously and concurrently in the newspaper business. In the fall of 1927 I was forced by bad health to drop my active connections and go to California. At that time the first sound camera shots were being made in Hollywood. The requirement for silence in sound production had not yet been enforced and visitors were permitted on the lots. I visited the first National and Pathé studios and picked up considerable information on production angles of the industry.

Study Exploitation Angles

Hollywood may be a long way from “main street” of your town or my town, but talking pictures bridge the gap. And part of the results you have with selling the finished product depend on how well you are acquainted with the situation at the time when you show it. By this I mean that the man who has a broader knowledge than what he picks up in his limited little town will better know what exploitation possibilities a picture possesses.

Being a newspaper man as well as an experiand they know this. They also feel that an advertiser knows this or should know it. Consequently, the advertiser, the exhibitor in this case, realizing that the readers will want to know the truth about what he has to offer, will tell his prospective patrons in his ad what he knows to be the facts, in the most honest manner possible, thereby winning the confidence of the readers. This kind of advertising, though it may not bring big, immediate results, will be found a consistently good paying method in the long run.

Don't Let Printer Plan Your Ad

There is an old but true saying, "You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear." Neither can an editor make a good, talking picture advertisement out of nothing. Some exhibitors rush into the newspaper office, half out of breath, just before press time, with the following: "Oh, Mr. Editor, I just got word that I am to have a big special Saturday night—"The Big House"—Here's a press sheet—fix up a good ad—put on the dates and the prices are the same as last week." And away he goes, maybe fishing, hunting or what you will. The editor, proficient in his own business, as most of them really are, is really incapable of writing a suitable ad from the viewpoint of showmanship, and struggles for a few brief minutes trying to pick out something from a maze of material for an ad, doing the very best he can under the circumstances. Perhaps, if the exhibitor were to be taken up with something more important, the task of writing the ad is delegated to the office boy, who cares less than anyone else in the world whether the exhibitor does good business with "The Big House." And then when show time comes at Mr. Exhibitor's theatre, you will hear him say something like this: "Gosh, but there's a slim crowd out for a show like this special. "Mr. Editor, I've got to have a sale of dresses of the latest styles and creations and new material at reduced prices, next Saturday. Just slip in a couple column five-inch ad, that I have a new lot of dresses just arrived and I will sell them Saturday for $6.75 each." Of course, Mr. Progressive Merchant does not say this at all. What he does do is this: He studies what he has to offer, very carefully in advance, writes a stunning piece of copy with real selling appeal, requests the editor to put in an illustrated cut, as marked in space on the copy, and brings it around in time so the newspaper force does not have to fall all over itself to get it in type and printed. But in many cases Mr. Exhibitor will trust the copy writing and arrangement of the newspaper advertisement any way, to Tom, Dick or Harry, and expect record breaking crowds at his shows. Instead of studying his own material and exploiting its possibilities it offers for newspaper advertising, the exhibitor shuns this important medium of publicizing his attraction.

Mata Big Help in Small Town

Several successful small town exhibitors are now using the mat illustrations in their ads with good, pulling results. In the writer's

(Continued on next page, column 3)
Wagon's Card Gag Attracts Sailors to "Oh Sailor Behave"

Whether or not the sailors behaved has not been ascertained, but anyway, "Oh Sailor Behave" plus a simple little exploitation stunt brought a lot of the Navy lads to William B. Wagon's Embassy in San Francisco.

The occasion for the stunt was the landing of the Pacific fleet in San Francisco Bay. Wagon was all ready for the sailors with his timely picture and a batch of throwaway cards on which the following copy was printed: "Oh Sailor Behave," a merry, mad mirthquake with Ole Olsen and Chic Johnson, two gobs who raise Hades with the ladies in Naples.

A group of pretty girls distributed the cards at the landing points on the waterfront. A lot of sailor patronage came which would ordinarily have been lost.

Waiting in Line Becomes Pleasure in Los Angeles; Fox Patrons Get Parasols

A promotion idea such as the one which struck Fred Cruise of the Fox Criterion house at Los Angeles may not come around every day but the thought should be a welcome one—even if it comes only once a month.

It all happened over a bit of "blushing." Cruise had been showing "Our Blushing Brides" at his 1,500-seat house and the seats didn't go around. All through the first day a line of women waited and waited outside the theatre. The next day the line was even longer.

To save his patrons from that "blushing" red which sunburn brings, Cruise hit upon the idea of distributing Chinese parasols to the women waiting in line. This served a two-fold purpose. It not only sheltered them from the sun but gave them something new to talk about. It was a boost for the picture and a boost for the courtesy of the theatre.

Has Style Show, Wedding

Warner's Ohio theatre, Sidney, O., recently held its annual fall style show on the stage. At the conclusion of the style display a local couple was married on the stage.

Uses Puzzles in His House Organ

C. O. Littlefield, manager of the Mayflower Grove theatre at Bryantville, Mass., writes to the Box Office Promotion Department acknowledging receipt of two puzzles he requested. The puzzles, which were first run in the Herald-World approximately a year ago, were mailed to him for use in his house organ. "They stimulate interest and keep the ball rolling," Littlefield says.

Small Town Theatre Needs Consistent Ad Policy, He Maintains

(Continued from preceding page, column 3)

estimation, an ad for a talking picture with an illustration is increased from 50 to 100 per cent in selling appeal. The psychological fact that the illustrated advertising done locally or nationally by such advertisers as the motor car industry, the clothing industry and a thousand and one other industries proves so remarkably true to the responsive advertisers, they should demonstrate to small town exhibitors that they, too, can do the same thing in a more proportionate rate to their efforts. There is so much more that can be said about the value of effective newspaper advertising to exhibitors, which they themselves are already aware of but for one reason or another do not take advantage of, that it would be of little use for me to say it. In conjunction with this article are shown a few theatre ads from weekly newspapers in central Wisconsin which I have reason to believe are business getters. The ads may not appeal to a severe critic as perfect typographical displays, however, to me they commend themselves as having good selling appeal and good arrangement, made up as they are by printers having limited tools to work with.

Montreal Exhibitor Caters

To Native Patronage with French Sub-titles on Films

Harry Dahn, manager of the Capitol theatre at Montreal, has inaugurated the policy of inserting French sub-titles in all feature sound films to spur interest among his French-speaking patrons. "The Man from Wyoming" was the first picture in which this was attempted.

The sub-title stunt is only another of the numerous schemes Dahn has employed for the benefit of the particular patronage to which he caters. He has previously added French talking comedies to the regular bill and not long ago he offered an all-French program, headed by the film, "Le Trou dans le Mur."

Oakland House Assembles War Relics for "All Quiet"

War relics of all descriptions were gathered by C. A. Tomlinson, manager of the T. & D. theatre in Oakland, Cal., for "All Quiet on the Western Front." At his house. Contributions from private collections, museums and American Legion posts helped to swell the display. The souvenirs were assembled in the lobby. A hurricane wagon, with poster copy on the Remarkable story, was another feature of the campaign.

Stage Wedding Is Popular

A stage wedding at the Saenger house in Biloxi, Miss., attracted a crowd said to be the largest that ever attended that theatre. A minister from a nearby town performed the ceremony for the couple. The stage had been decorated to represent a garden, with latticework around the sides.

Benjii in Paramount Post

Edward J. Benjii, who has been shunted between the Fox theatres in Sheboygan and Oshkosh, Wis., for the past several months, has been permanently assigned to manage the Fox at Sheboygan. For several weeks up to the time of the change, he was in charge of the two Fox houses in Oshkosh.
Ohio Theatres Told to “Strike While Iron Is Hot” in “Big House” Drive

Funny what censors can do for exploitation of a picture. In Ohio, the censorship board has perhaps done as much to boost “The Big House,” simply by banning it, as a whole army of exploitation men could have done. Now that the bars have been let down and the picture is at last to show in the state, exhibitors are ready to do as big business as they probably ever have done on any one picture. This story may be of small value in giving shownmen exploitation ideas but it is an excellent illustration of the importance of a followup campaign when an emergency occurs such as the one in Ohio.

P. J. Wood, business manager of the Ohio M.P.T.O., has sent out two circular letters to theatre operators in the state pointing out the financial possibilities of the picture. Samples of his live-wire writing have been taken from his letters. Sometimes they may help other exhibitors in just such an emergency. Here is one of them:

Serial Made Available

“We have won our battle for ‘The Big House.’ Now let’s cash in on it. Through arrangement with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, we (the M.P.T.O.) can supply you with newspaper serial rights on the powerful story of the picture for immediate use and without cost. It has 24 chapters but can be doubled up and run in less time. Mats and proofs are furnished without cost to anybody. It is the most timely story of the day and has unlimited reader interest.

“Let’s show the world that as live shownmen we know how to utilize every legitimate angle of publicity.”

In another letter, the M.P.T.O. official says: “If you have bought ‘The Big House’ date it in as soon as possible and thus secure advantage of the marvelous publicity which the picture has received during the past three months. I have seen the picture twice and heartily agree with the members of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences that it is one of the five finest pictures produced during the year ending July, 1930.

“The theme of the picture is very opportune, as the people of Ohio are faced with a serious problem of prison reformation and reconstruction.”

Shaw at Cleveland State

Harry Shaw has taken over the management of the State Theatre in Cleveland, O. Known as a “man of parts,” Shaw is said to be capable of pinch-hitting as an actor, comedian or musician, and has frequently done so when something went “haywire” on the stage.

INDOOR MINIATURE GOLF COURSE

A tremendous money maker. Just the thing for fall and winter. Each hole different, each one interesting, interesting, sporty. Fascinating to play. Can be changed daily. 9 or 18 holes. Store room 2x5x0 will accommodate 9 hole course. Portable, location easily and quickly changed. Comes complete ready to lay. Installed in a few hours. Small investment. $50 to $200 a day net. Write or wire for particulars.

WHITNEY GOIT & CO. 1925 Baltimore Avenue KANSAS CITY, MO.
A countless number of war relics made a very fitting display for Tiffany's "Journey's End" at the Nation theatre, operated by the Steel Pier Amusement Company in Atlantic City. The intermingling of posters with the war exhibits was a good stunt.

Mezzanine Stunts Help Solve Seating Problem for Gault

Jack Gault, publicity manager of the California theatre in San Francisco believes he has gone a long way toward settling the time-worn problem of how to get patrons to sit in the balconies.

A perpetual struggle with overflow crowds who refused to sit anywhere except on the main floor spurred Gault to action and he conceived the idea of offering special attractions on the mezzanine. This induces the crowds to take the incline and many of them ultimately find their way to the balconies.

For the first week of these special attractions he obtained an expert on beauty culture who was available for consultations. Another week he had a bridge expert give instruction on the mezzanine. Cards were sent to a large mailing list for this stunt. Arrangements have now been made with a photo studio whereby a photographer will set up a temporary studio in the theatre and present a large photograph gratis to each person who desires to pose for it

Similar tiups are to be carried on in the future, with the aim of presenting a new stunt each week. In other words, it will be spice on the theatre menu at the California.

Canadian Famous Shifts Managers in Toronto Houses

Further important changes have been made in the managing personnel of leading Toronto theatres by Famous Players Canadian Corporation. After two weeks as manager of the Imperial house, Thomas Daley has been appointed director of advertising and publicity for the Imperial, Uptown and Tivoli theatres.

Howard Knevels of Hamilton, Ont., has succeeded Daley at the Imperial. His brother, Robert Knevels, has been appointed manager of the Uptown to succeed Nelson Shea, who has retired from the exhibition field.

Fred Schaeffer, formerly manager of the Toronto Imperial, has gone to the Hippodrome in New York. James Lynch is manager of the Toronto Tivoli. He was formerly employed in a similar capacity at the Runnymede theatre.

Indianapolis Lyric House Rewards Careful Drivers

Cooperating with the Accident Prevention Department of the city government at Indianapolis, the Lyric theatre there has helped to promote a safety first campaign for careful driving. Each day five drivers, regarded as above average in careful driving, are selected. Each one receives a pass to the Lyric.
A Few Tunes for Your House Organ

[Use the articles below in whatever form you desire for your house organ. They may be lifted as a whole or in part and reprinted to suit your individual theatre.]

Organize a Theatre Party

Does the entertainment problem ever bother you when you put on a party for your friends? If it doesn't, you are an exception. The season of cooler weather and longer, darker evenings has come and you can't take your friends on motor trips or picnics into the country as you could during the summer.

We offer a solution for your entertainment problem. Bring your guests to our shows. Organize a theatre party. The cost will often be less than for a party in your own home. And think of the time and trouble it will save you. Instead of thinking up wisecracks and clever things to do, you can leave it to the motion picture characters. Let the actors on the screen entertain you.

Your parties in the home always carry with them the problem of finding something interesting for every one to do. Some like to play bridge and others don't. Some like music; others don't. Take them to our motion pictures and every one gets what he or she wants.

There is the newsreel, a comedy, a short feature and the main picture.

And don't forget the comfort we offer. The seats are restful. You won't have to run down to the basement every half hour to see if the furnace is functioning. The temperature in our theatre is always just right.

Ted Hilgendorf, the up-and-coming manager of the Ritz theatre, North Milwaukee, writes an interesting editorial for each issue of his house organ. He writes in a style that is easy to read. Here is one of his articles. Take a few tips from it.

We Hate to Brag, But—

Six months ago when we presented our first talking picture we adopted as our slogan, "Visit the Ritz, Where Talkies Talk the Best."

We were not the first theatre to be equipped for "talkies." We waited to see how you liked the "talkies" at other theatres, whether or not you were satisfied with them—You were not.

Then we gave you what we had found to be the best talking pictures available. You instantly voiced your approval, just like the hundreds of others of our friends who have been elsewhere and have made comparisons.

If you have not heard our "talkies" come and hear and be convinced. Join the thousands of entertainment seekers who have learned to "Visit the Ritz, Where Talkies Talk the Best."

"80% INCREASE"

Reported by an EXHIBITOR since giving away Movie Star Photos

Y ou can also increase your BOX-OFFICE RECEIPTS by giving away these Beautiful Sets of 16 DIFFERENT FAMOUS AUTOGRAPHED MOVIE STARS ROTOGRAVURES

Packed in envelopes in Lots of 100 Sets for $10.00 Per Set

300 Sets for $29.00

1,000 Sets for $75.00

Write for Set of "FREE SAMPLES"!

M. E. MOSS (EHW) PUB. CO., Harfard, Conn.

Another of Arthur Calin's frequent tieups at the Loew's Allen in Cleveland was this one with the Austin Motor Company. The company donated the use of a car which carried a banner reading: 'Norma Shearer, star of 'Let Us Be Gay,' Allen theatre, says of the new 'Austin Bantam,' 'A Good Car to Run Around In.'"

Wives Tell How Husbands Proposed In Toledo Tieup With Newspaper

Many pictures carry titles which, in themselves, give the exhibitor all the suggestions he needs for exploitation. For example "Our Blushing Brides" has a title that tells its own story. The showman doesn't have to dig into the plot or even see an advance filming to know the drift of the story. The title tells him what it is about—somebody gets married. Knowing that much, he immediately has a big field for exploitation. He can promote a stage wedding. He can have a young couple ride through the streets in a car labelled "just married," or he can do a hundred and one other things.

Walter Caldwell, manager of Loew's Valentine theatre, Toledo, conceived a unique plan for boosting interest in "Our Blushing Brides" by having actual brides tell their own story. That is, he had brides write descriptions of how their husbands proposed to them.

Anybody knows that a story of that kind must be rather a personal one. Naturally, that is what attracted interest in it. A cash prize was awarded to the bride writing the best description.

Another stunt Caldwell used was a tieup with the local plants of the Ford and Studebaker motor companies. On the film's opening day an automobile was driven through the city with three girls seated in it. Card copy told of the Valentine's showing of "Our Blushing Brides." The auto stopped at several street intersections and distributed tags bearing imitation wedding rings.

Girl Sits on Marquee

A girl performed a "sitting" act on the marquee of the RKO Strand in Dayton, O., to attract attention to the double bill, "Mawas" and "Captain of the Guard."

POSTER PRINTING

Cards—1-2-3-4-6-24 Sheets
Type or Special Designed Engraved Posters

CHICAGO SHOW PRINTING CO.
1335-45 West Lake Street
Chicago, Illinois
MONROE 2257

Ballyhoo Trucks Advertise "Unholy Three" at Criterion

Tom Johnson, manager of the Criterion house at Oklahoma City, advertised well the fact that "The Unholy Three" Lon Chaney's starring picture, was coming to his theatre by dispatching decorated trucks with loudspeaker victrola attachments through the business and residential districts.

A male quartet sang on the stage, with a hookup making it possible to reproduce the music on a loudspeaker above the box office. Appropriate marquees and lobby displays rounded out the exploitation.
Barney Gurnette, manager of the T. & D. Jr. Lodi theatre, Lodi, Cal., finds this type of monthly calendar the most practicable. It is very simply made, being laid out from press book clippings, with an art work wherever necessary and drawn twice a week. Writing to the Box Office Promotion Department, Gurnette says he prefers this calendar because of its low cost. His house artist does the work and the price of engraving is much less than for type-set space of the same amount. Notice the ads at the bottom.

Nice 'Proposition':

"Sho, Sho," Quoth The Orpheum Usher

Soon the ushers at the New Orleans Orpheum will break out with "Sho, sho," instead of "Yes, sir," or "Yes, mam."

This is part of the program to get the public Amos 'n' Andy-minded prior to the exhibition of "Check and Double Check." October 24 has been set as the general release date on the film and the Orpheum will play it a day ahead. The clever idea of having ushers address patrons with dialog from the picture is expected to do much for the advance advertising.

Trailers have been prepared showing only the feet of the two blackface stars. Views of their faces and figures are being reserved for the showing of the picture itself.

Amos 'n' Andy are virtually unknown except through their voices. Photographs have appeared in newspapers, it is true, but they have never been shown on the screen and the curiosity over what they look like in pictures is expected to sell many tickets.

Vic Meyers, manager of the Orpheum, is in charge of the exploitation at the New Orleans house.

Midnight Shows

Put Fox House on Top

That midnight shows are popular has been evidenced by the public interest they have attracted in San Francisco. Initiated as a regular event at the Fox, they drew tremendous crowds and have since been adopted by the Paramount, California, St. Francis, Capitol and Green Street houses.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT!

On October 31, 1930 comes a picture that is at the same time a picture and a story. It is "Hollywood," a majestic production by G. B. C., which is marvelously produced, and one that will make history. The picture is a moving record of the film, the stars, and the people—every man, woman, and child who has been known in Hollywood. Such is the picture we are proud to present to promoting men—producers who play upon the history of the day and the current issues—"Hollywood" are set to establish their place in the annals of the film industry.

ANN HARDING

ROBERT AMES

STANLEY

Hamrick Ownership Is Celebrated With Twin Anniversary

Hamrick's Music Box theatre, Portland, Ore., added materially to its business by celebrating twin anniversaries. One was the observance for the taking over of the Music Box by John Hamrick and the other was the anniversary of the introduction of talking pictures in that city.

Hamrick acquired theatres in Seattle, Tacoma and Portland just as sound was making its entrance into the exhibition field. The houses were all equipped with sound and all of them hung up new box office records at once with the showing of "The Jazz Singer," "The Singing Fool," "Glorious Betsy" and other films.

These events were celebrated, with the exploitation ammunition fired in newspaper advertising. The staff of the "Music Box" was given bouquets of arrangements by business men in the community and by film exchanges.

Nolan Hurt in Boat Race

Manager Ambrose Nolan of the Avalon theatre, Ottawa, Ont., is going to stick close to theatre management, for a while at least. While participating in the Eastern Canada speedboat championships recently, his craft dove to the bottom. Nolan got a ducking and had to have several stitches taken on gashes on his face.
A parade and everything for "The Floradora Girl" at the Regent theatre, Springfield, O. The five girls in ancient dress rode the antique vehicles through Springfield's streets behind the guidance of an officer who evidently found the modern motorcycle more convenient in traffic than the oldstyle tandem or the horse cart. It's another example of the unlimited exploitation possibilities which a picture of this kind offers. Manager Willard Osborne reports the M G M film was a home run for the box office.

TIEUPS

A. P. Waxman, in charge of publicity and advertising for Warner Brothers, has arranged a neat tieup on "The Office Wife," now at the Winter Garden in New York, with two tabloids, the Evening Graphic and the Daily Mirror.

The Graphic is distributing $250 in cash prizes for the best 200-word stories on "My Experiences as an Office Wife." In addition to the cash prizes two tickets are awarded for each of the next 50 best stories about the feature. Five columns covering an entire page announced the contest, featured by two leading questions, "Have you ever felt it necessary to resort to the display of silk clad legs to hold your job?" Did you ever feel impelled to resign because your boss made unpleasant advances?"

The Daily Mirror runs a coupon daily which, when presented at the Winter Garden with admission price, entitles the bearer to an autographed photo of either Dorothy Mackaill or Lewis Stone, featured in the picture.

Home Town Stage Actor
Given Dinner at San Jose

A. M. Miller, manager of the Fox California house at San Jose, Cal., believes it pays to play up the local angle in a performance at every opportunity.

When one of Fanchon and Marco's stage attractions came to his theatre he found that one of the girls was a former resident of San Jose. He immediately arranged a complimentary dinner, and of course the newspapers heard about it.

Blind Are Show Guests

Members of the Canadian Federation of the Blind are periodically the guests of Manager R. S. Roddick at the Capitol theatre, London, Ont. They can't see the shows but at least they hear them.

Sends 7,500 Folders Each Month

C. L. McVey, manager of the Dreamland theatre at Harrington, Ky., distributes 7,500 folders every month containing the calendar of coming attractions at his house. He sends 4,500 of these out into the rural section, covering a radius of 25 miles. McVey has maintained this monthly custom for eight years and finds it a good business puller.

Newspapers Print Supplements For Fox Greater Show Season

Tieups, cooperative advertising and news stories by the score have been obtained by the Fox New England Theatres in the Greater Show Season drive conducted through a number of New England cities. The Greater Show Season in New England is only part of a national campaign being put on by Fox.

The principal form of promotion used is newspaper advertising. Large supplements have appeared in newspapers, carrying announcements of feature productions in large display ads. A number of Connecticut newspapers have given headlines and long stories to the film event. Some of the newspaper supplements contain as many as 20 pages. In them are unlimited tieup ads, in connection with either the pictures or the stage shows at various theatres.

Clever Copy Writing

It is interesting to note the type of copy used in the supplements, much of which has been supplied by the theatres. In one column, called "Advice to the Lovelorn," there appears this letter pertaining to a film: "Dear Miss Hopler—If a girl makes one wrong step, does that make her a bad woman? I have been shunned and looked down upon because of an innocent escape—but no one will believe me. What should I do?—Ruth.

"Answer: You will find your problem answered in 'Common Clay' when it plays in this city. Be sure to see it."

Stage Shows in Style Stunt

Exploiting a Fanchon and Marco stage show, one of the newspaper supplements carries a cut of styles in women's dresses with this copy: "Capes and Belles—Bells and Capes are interchangeable words in Fanchon and Marco's newest idea, 'Bells and Belles,' coming soon to the Fox theatres in New England.

"Capes are 'of the mode' this season, and Fanchon has designed a frock made interesting with capes. In the full-length sketch, the gown is a smartly tailored street dress. In the three smaller sketches accompanying it, intriguing capes give it an air of sauciness. The dress as designed by Fanchon has lines that are suitable for every figure. The V-neck with slashed blouse is extremely flattering. The cut of the skirt is effective for hips that have more than their share of—"This Thing Called Avidorpuo's," (The latter is also the name of one of the stage acts.)

Neth Enterprises Install Head Sets In Columbus House

The Neth Theatre Enterprises company which operates a chain of motion picture theatres in Columbus has installed headphones in a number of the front seats in the Eastern theatre to accommodate the hard of hearing. This is the first installation of head phones that has been made in Columbus to accommodate that class of patrons. The manager reports that quite a few have taken advantage of the installation.

Patrons Contribute Gags

The Cinema Artguild theatre, a Chicago silent house, has inaugurated a contributing department for patrons called the "Cinema Reporter." This department accepts anything from poetry and wise cracks to gossip and caricatures. All patrons receive cards at the door with information on the stunt and blank space for their contribution. The witcittians received are featured on the screen every week.

Fill Your Seats with Original Box-Office EXPLOITATION NOVELTIES

ECONOMY NOVELTY & PRINTING CO.
340 W. 25th St., N. Y. C. Tel. Medallion 2864
THE SHORT FEATURE

Theatre Has Newsreel Taken Of Fliers; Shows It Same Day

The Aztec theatre, San Antonio, scored a news "beat" when it showed a locally produced newsreel of Bellonte and Coste the same day that the French trans-Atlantic fliers arrived in the city.

The theatre management had J. H. Britton, cameraman, "shoot" the aviators as they arrived at Winburn Field in the afternoon and paraded downtown. The scenes were shown on the Aztec screen the same evening.

Other theatres showed the pictures about a week later.

Dallas Schools Equipped With Projection Machines Under Visual Education Plan

Projection machines are being installed in auditoriums of public schools at Dallas, as an aid to the study of geography and history in the sixth and seventh grades. The project is sponsored by the Visual Education Bureau of the Department of Education.

Among the historical subjects to be shown are reproductions of the ride of Paul Revere, the landing of the Pilgrims and the Boston Tea Party. A number of government educational films are to be shown for classes in geography.

The visual education plan, as Miss Mary Walter, who is in charge, explains it, is for the purpose of vitalizing classroom work.

"Parlez-Vous" in Spanish Is U Plan; Summerville Series in Two Languages

Following its policy of producing foreign language versions of talking pictures, Universal announces that Slim Summerville, star, and Eddie Gribbon and Pauline Garon will appear in the Spanish version of the two-reel comedy "Parlez-Vous." It is the intention of the producers to make the entire Summerville series in Spanish, as well as English.

This production of foreign shorts is in addition to the filming of 12 Universal features already set, with others to follow.
EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD

MUSIC AND TALENT

Chicago Set for Vaudeville Treat

STAGE SHOWS

Chicago State-Lake
Week Ending October 3

Here is a bill so uniformly good that it is hard to find any act that stands above the rest in merit and just as hard to find one that is outstandingly bad. Dan Zelara, a pianist with a classical bent, but one who also handles jazz like an artist, was a big hit, there can be no mistake about that. Coming onto the stage he launched into a discussion of music, why certain people like certain types of music, how it all started and so on. In fact, he gave an evolu-

The three girls and Lynch gave ideal atmosphere in the powerful light. Among their songs were "Where'd You Get Those Eyes," "If I Had a Girl Like You" and "Miniature Gulf." One of the sisters also danced while the other played the piano and Lynch the saxophone.

Buster West and Company was the name of an act by a youth named West, but Buster was pretty nearly the whole act. He and a partner are apparently men of the navy out in search of a good time. They don't have to go far to find it. Buster is not only a very good clown but an excellent acrobat. He even tries to sing, and actually makes a success of modelling.

Bert Ford and Pauline Price, a pair of tight wire artists, offer diversion in the program. Their way of introducing it is clever. Two huge telephones are shown in the background, holding between them a taut wire. Ford comes out on the stage carrying a small telephone. He gives the effect of receiving a telephone call for his partner, Miss Price, and promises he will put her on the wire, which he does, but on the taut wire. Together they go through a series of stunts on the wire and Ford wins it by dancing to music with a large parasol for balance.

Bob O'Brien leads the RKO-Ians in the overture.

San Francisco Fox
Week Ending October 9

Jan Rubini comes to the Fox this week as guest conductor of the Grand Concert Orchestra, pinch hitting for Walt Rosem who is still in the East. The offering is selections from "Faust" and is presented without the usual tableau or vocal artist. The coloratura strains are particularly effective and arouse such an applause that an encore is necessary.

The stage show of Fanchon and Marco, entitled "Rhythm-A-Tic," is presented with the orchestra in the pit and is marked by some especially good ensembles. The gong and cymbals are particularly effective and some such applause that an encore is necessary.

An airplane landing field forms the opening scene and when the whirring of motors comes to an end girls aviators in the garb of 1930 appear and do an ultra modern dance. This scene fades into a

(Continued on next page, column 2)
HELLO EVERYBODY—While Al Johnson’s engagement at the Capitol theatre last week, Harry Akst, w. k. song writer, accompanied him at the piano, and has since admitted that he has been associated with Johnson for the past twelve years, led the Capitol Grand Orchestra during Mr. Johnson’s appearances on the stage. Al Kornheiser, former general manager for Leo Feist, Inc., has joined the field of music publishers. "Good Luck, Pal," and all your sons be successful. ... Sam Sorwer, in charge of publicity for the Warner Brothers music affiliations, sends another letter to his friends before they see and hear the screen. ... Red Star is planning a tremendous exploitation drive for the "Song of the Big Trail," the only musical number in the latest Fox film, "The Big Trail." The Warner boys are active in every phase of sound. ... Olsen and Johnson, stars of this Vitaphone picture, are transposed to the sheet music world. They are now making a vaudeville tour through every section of the country, and naturally plug the production through the songs. As their initial contribution to the talkies, Dorothy Fields and Jimmy McHugh, Broadway’s popular song writing team, who won fame with their "I Can’t Give You Anything But Love, Baby," have supplied seven new numbers for "The Big Trail." ... New York, Oct. 10.—The Paramount Players, through P. R. Vanguard, has friends an infratiling rhythms, based on percussions, and is somewhat after the style of the "Boleros" of Ravel, and interest in the usual announcer and drum soloist. ... The ensemble is cleverly costumed and well drilled this week. In one number they are dressed in black and half white even to their wigs. In another Dorothy Bainey leads them in a nifty song and dance to the tune of "Strike Up the Band." ... (Continued from preceding page, column 1) really hard to find someone of Miss Barry's caliber these days, but RKO knows how to do it. Once in a blue moon, a smart, good looking and popular, staged an original presentation, "Mr. Mag." With his band to help him and with a young brunette as the Bernette, he put over a clever stunt. The hand, each one a soloist, contributed greatly to the entertainment.
STAGE SHOWS

(Continued from preceding page, column 3)

The chorus of eight dancing girls made plenty of opportunity for applause during the progress of the show.

Joe Lawson made merry on the organ and a news reel closed the program.

Cincinnati Albee
Week Ending October 10

The Albee, which is at present specializing in names from stage and screen, is reaping a bountiful box office reward as a result thereof.

This week Ruth Etting, one of the American girls glorifying Florenz Ziegfeld's newest show, made an appearance.

Miss Etting, who knows her crooning, has no difficulty in turning her way into the hearts of her audience. Accompanied by Victor Breidt and Phil Schwartz on grand pianos, this star of "Whoopee" ( staged) sings "Cryin' for the Candles," I'm Happy When I Sisr Exactly Like You" and "You Can't Do This," using "I Want Your Love" as an encore number. Accompanied a rowing hand at the finish, Miss Etting makes a short speech, but the audience wants more songs.

The Lucky Boys, six in number, just opening for an extended route over the RKO radio time, draw the biggest applause with their difficult Rivery feats. They use just enough comedy to balance the act nicely. The finale in which one of the boys catches another with his feet as he jumps from the box top is sensational.

Fred Arliss, assisted by Earl Hall and a blonde girl, not billed, puts up a humorous skit, "Man Among Women," which brings laughter galore.

Billy Pindell does some nifty trick hoofing, while his partner, Isabelle Duan, contributes her singing bit. The entire act is of the "wurst" variety, which gets across in good shape.

The Tanzas, a man and two girls, have a dance turn in which they work their songs. The only problem they have is getting something particularly new or startling. They are well received.

San Antonio Majestic
Week Ending September 25

Jean Sassli and His R.K.O.-Giliano open the program playing several popular and march numbers for the outbreak in the orchestra pit.

This is the first intact RKO show to play the Alamo City. These shows are booked for a tour of the 84 weeks of RKO vaudeville because of their unusual quality as a show, being well diversified to present an entire entertainment.

Those featured this week are Eddie Nelson, musical comedy star, presented a turn of comic dialer, songs and music. Laughter ran the gamut during his well received number. For the opening show, Enos Frazeren did circus thrill on a trampoline, some of the most daring feats ever seen on the stage. Anne Fitchard with her troupe of five dancing and singing young men, were seen in tap and tap numbers. Zelda Stanton, a rare impersonator of the character."The stars of the show and screen, is marvelous with her impersonations of famous stars. Verna Geyer was the huge organ.

Des Moines Paramount
Week Ending October 4

Still running consistently to blonds in its series of personal appearances, the Paramount presented Stanley Smith, personable young actor, as part of the star attraction. Three with introducing Rosemary and Priscilla Mulligan, sisters of Lora and Lala Lane, in a cute sister act. The Mulligans are blonds, too.

"Good News" brought Stanley Smith to the screen in a small part. Also, Lala Lane. Mulligan before the stage career, came from Indianapolis, Iowa, to small Des Moines. This added local interest. With the addition of the charmingly young Mulligans, the show played to crowded houses from first to last.

Young Stanley made a brief talk and then sang some favorites. The Mulligans both sang and danced so delightfully and with such youthful spirit and charm that they captivated the audience like nobody's business.
Before the Mike

By BOBBY MELLIN

When Ben Bernie arrived in Chicago last week, fresh from triumphs in California's cinema capital, prominent personalities dropped in on the famous director in a specially planned celebration at the College Inn. A broadcast of the affair had been arranged with K.W.B.C. through the mediation of the famous director, and Phil Baker acted as master of ceremonies, and introduced the following celebrities: Lillian Roth, Shaw and Lee, Allen Staney, Coen-Sanders, Ward Perry, Jess Smith, Belfin & Herowitz, Chester Cohn, Clarence Fanning and many others. Numerous to mention, Ben is a marvelous musician and a showman par excellence and will no doubt be the greatest drawing card the Inn has ever had.

Tom Geran's soft-playing, sweet band, under the management of the MCA, is the latest addition to many unusual dance orchestras now available every night over KTV. Playing at the Congress Hotel, Geran is packing in the crowds and drawing heaps of fan mail with his broadcasts nightly. Part of the secret of Geran's success is the knowledge of music and his youthful desire to rate at the top. Another factor is his ability to organize. All in all, Tom is a great boy and deserves his every bit of success attainable.

Harold Bean, tenor singer, who has had considerable experience with the microphone, and who was most recently affiliated with a Columbus network key station, has been employed as a top artist by KYW. Mr. Bean elinks with Jules Herbeaux's orchestra in its programs over the station.

Clue (Racce) and Harry (Hoford), piano-sausado and comedians of more than local popularity who are heard over various stations in Chicago, will do a new program starting Monday, for Klee Brothers.—Our good friend Eddie Lewis is now in New York City in the interest of the firm of which he is a partner, Lewis, Manne & Butler. I understand that Lewis is the financial man. Butler, the professional man of huge proportions, and Manne's name being there so you and I can ask "Man-y" questions.

Since Louis Prisco is back at the Canton Tea Garden, the management is all smiles, for it seems that Louis is sure to bring in the throngs of listeners that crowd there. We are all glad to see Louis back in Chicago so that we can listen to his marvelous music each evening. Louis's band has many old favorites, though infused with some new material.

Henri Gendron and His Ambassadors, recording artists, and one of Chicago's most popular bands, have just signed a long term contract to play in the new Rialto Gardens now being erected on Han-dolb street. Henri, whose versatility as the violin made him one of the favorites of the radio audience when broadcasting in its infancy, has developed into an inimitable technician, and we are expecting him on the network very shortly. He is deserving of it.

Sel Wagner and his orchestra opened at the Golden Pumpkin Cafe last evening with much掌声 and enthusiasm. Sel is an old favorite of Chicago dance music and has just returned from a very successful engagement at the Golden Phoenix Cafe, Milwaukee, Wis. —Herb Carlin and band are now playing an engagement at the Triangle Cafe, Forest Park.

Lee Murphy, a protege of Iham Joses, is now playing engagements around Chicago. His new station WMAQ every day between the hours of 11:30 P. M. and 1:30 A. M.—Barney Richards and orchestra will now be heard on WMAQ and recently ended an engagement at the Vio Loco Cafe on Wilson Ave.

STAGE SHOWS

(Continued from preceding page, column 2) is the setting for the next episode. Each girl's reflection, provided by a costumed person, is a forerunner of the five sets of twin entertain in a fine manner, primarily with number dances, although one set offer a special selection with a dance arranged in between. The truth of the matter is that there are so many twins that by the time the third person, who thinks he has been seeing double. At any rate another set offers another dance selection after which each performer introduces herself. The last set, both do a dance and comedy revue.

Eddie Cantor appears at opening of "Whoopie" When the United Artists film, "Whoopie," opened for its Chicago run at the United Artists theatre here, Eddie Cantor made two appearances, one in the afternoon and evening. His clever chatter charmed the audience, who spied no little effort in applauding him.

Eddie was enroute from Kansas City and then Los Angeles. His program consisted of sparkling monologues, interspersed with songs, which, incidently, brought smiles to the faces of Marty Fay and Art Stiller, for Eddie sang respectively, and respected respectively, and respected personally.

Ted Weems to Open Winter Season in Hollywood (Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9—Ted Weems and his Victor Recording Orchestra are scheduled to open the winter session at the Roosevelt Hotel here at 9 o'clock tonight.

He is a rising reclus who has been planned for this popular leader, and it is expected that his coming will be welcomed by those who seek relaxation and fun in good dance music.

Make New Arrangement of "Kiss Waltz"

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 9—Tom Satterfield, formerly Paul Whiteman's arranger and one of the best known music arrangers in the country, has completed a symphony orchestra arrangement which appears in arranger's brother special, "Dancing Swallows."
BERNIE COWHAM (Flushing, N. Y., Kith-Balice) presented another of his breezy, entertaining novelties which was, incidentally, the nearest thing for a side hearing the word "Bernie" in very large type. It appears that all that is necessary at this house is for Cowham to have his name flashed on the screen and the audience goes wild. Very seldom does Cowham use a title other than the name for his solo but this audience has learned that Mr. Cowham always has something new in the way of songs and novelties. This work Bernie opened with his usual signature song, "Voice of the R.K.O." and followed with a special version "Dancing With Tears in My Eyes," then orally introduced the balance of the program: "I'm Needin' You," "Don't Tell Her What's Happened to Me," a clever and original tongue-twister, to the tune, "Coming Through the Rye," and a final chorus of "Little White Lies," which was requested in at least a dozen letters which Bernie showed the audience. Cowham's applause was so tremendous that he was forced to take a number of bows on the stage.

HENRI KEATES (Oriental Chicago) gave his organ solo in the accustomed grand manner, with plenty of assistance from the audience (we might say his followers) in the form of 'clapping' and a return of "I'm Needin' You," to the tune of "Sherry's Blues." (Curtis). He played "I'm Needin' You," to the tune of "Sherry's Blues." (Curtis). This was followed with a number which was a medley of Cowham's signature song, "Voice of the R.K.O." and several others. It introduced "My Future Just Passed," "Moonlight on the Colorado," and "Swinging in a Hammond." Then a tongue-twister to the tune of "Sweethearts on Parade." Everyone got a zest out of this number and he is now billed as the "Eldorado Organist." (Curtis).

BILL MECKLER (Richmond Hill N. Y., R.K.O.) presented one of his original organ presentations this week which opened with a medley made up of the theme of that old favorite, "Memories," and working into side choruses of "I Remember You Singing in a Hammond," and "Reminiscing." These were played in a melodic and rhythmic style, and proved to be among the best numbers of the evening. (Curtis).

Following this with an oral introduction of the balance of the program, which incidentally were request numbers from the patrons, Mr. Meckler then played the "Kiss Waltz," one of the best sellers; a medley of songs of the Nile," last year's favorite; a clever worded tongue-twister (every word starting in "S") to the tune "That's My Weakness" and choruses of "Betty Co-Ed." Mr. Meckler's ability at the organ and his intimate manner of speaking to his audiences have gained him an enviable position in this town. The following is a review of Mr. Meckler's weekly broadcast over Station WBBM, Jersalem, N. Y., for September 2nd. Opening with his usual signature song, "Good as Gold," Mr. Harry Bunce, announced, introduced the program of the following numbers: "Swinging in a Hammond," "All Through the Night," "Confessin'," These were all played in a "jazzy" style and in a startling contrast Meeder followed with the famous march, "Thunder and Blazes," or the organ version of the Gielgud's." A popular medley of "Dixiana," "Just a Little While," and "I'll Be Just Thinking of You." (Curtis).

And "I'll Be Just Thinking of You" was followed with a group of Waltz Ballads, including "Dancing With Tears in My Eyes," "I'm Sorry I Made You Cry," by All the Stars Above You." The concluding group included "Abraham Makes The Heart Grow Fonder," "Take Along a Little Love" and "I'm Needin' You." (Curtis)

LEONARD SMITH (Avolos, Chicago) offered a novel solo last week of his own creation and entitled "Organ for Sale." The side with "Organ for Sale" was flashed on the screen and with a spot on the costume coming from the depths of the pit with my little name at the console I knew what to expect. When the console reached as high as it could go, Smith was seated at the organ, in the costume with special material flashed on the screen telling the audience that the management had decided to sell the organ as they were running a straight sound policy. Then he asked the audience to shut and maybe it would change the listeners' mind. The number used was "Why Don't You Come Back to Wakahli." Then with a clever parody on organ for sale he used the music "Overture for Sale," for the title with "Bye Bye Blues," "What's the Use" and "Swinging in a Hammond." He closed with the music of "When You're Smiling" and special material.
The Recognized National Classified Advertising Medium

Classified Advertising

Ten cents per word, payable in advance. Minimum charge, $1.00. Copy and checks should be addressed Classified Ad Dept. Exhibitors Herald-World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

Mail Order Bargains

WE UNDERSELL THEM ALL—BRAND-NEW MERCHANDISE—FACTORY TO YOU. Acoustical Felt, $2.00 a yd.; Theatrical Carpets, $1.10 per yd.; Dwyer Fireproof Draperies, 49c sq. yd.; W. E. Approved Sound Screens, 56c sq. ft.; Sound Mixers, $19.50; Sound-On-Film Heads, $196.50; Photocells, $14.95; G. E. Projector Lamps, 96c; Optical Screens, $29.50; Head Amplifiers, $29.50; 14 by 16 Synchronous Motors, $29.50; Turntables with Regeneration, $49.50; Samson-Pam 19 Amplifiers, $69.15; Audak Tape-Graphs—30 cents; Standard Audak, $189.50; Wright-DeCoste Horns, $176.44; Giant Exponential Units, $65.35; Constant Volts, $13.80; Jensen Speakers, $177.80; Exponential Horns, $48.60; Banners; Demonstrators, Rebuilt Booth Equipment; Projectors, Area, Reflectors, Lenses, etc. Write us your needs. Address: Service Advertising Co., 1600 Broadway, New York City, New York.

Theatres Wanted

Positions Wanted

WANTED—TO BUY OR LEASE, THEATRE IN Northwest or Western State. Population over 5,000. Have full credentials in first letter. Address Box 506, Exhibitors Herald-World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Illinois.

FOR SALE—150 square yards quarter-inch acoustic felt, 12 cents a yd., f.o.b. One Bell & Howell Induc- tor Compensator, 220 volts, 60 cycle, 40-60 amperes. Address John A. Greve, Rio Theatre, Oak Creek, Colorado.

Equipment for Sale

FOR SALE—Simplex machine, Peerless lamp and rectifier. Used only three months, excellent condition. Address R. B. Hunt, 624 Fourth Street, W. Pittston, Pennsylvania.

BARGAINS IN NEW AND USED EQUIPMENT

Help Wanted

WANTED—Experienced small town theatre manager with dynamic personality and ability to combat a competitive situation. Must be a go-getter. Proven record as to results necessary for consideration. Write or phone C. W. Relph, Community Theatres, Inc., 535 Wisconsin Avenue, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

THEATRES FOR SALE

Theatre for Sale or Rent

FOR SALE—ONLY PICTURE SHOW IN TOWN. 100 seats, 16mm projection. Perfect condition. Price, $2,500. Address: John Smith, Star Theatre, Main Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

FOR SALE—ONLY MODERN THEATRE WITH SOUND in radius of 40 miles, 460 seats. Chicago, 6,500. Eastern Nebraska. Address Box 507, Exhibitors Herald-World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

FOR SALE—theatre FANTASTIC GROWING TEXAS TOWN 1500, no competition, good sound, clearing $600 month. Requires $500 cash to handle.

Save stamps if you have not yet the amount. Address Box 506, Exhibitors Herald-World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

THEATRES WANTED

Positions Wanted

FOR SALE—THEATRE — Town population 6,000. Orchestra, 220 volts, 60 cycle, 40-60 amperes. Address John A. Greve, Rio Theatre, Oak Creek, Colorado.

MOVIEPHONE TALKING PICTURE EQUIPMENT FOR SALE

Two machines including two stage amplifying horns and one booth horn set up for Powers 6A and Simplex Machines. Sale on account included lease. Price, $450. Address C. O. Littlefield, Whitman, Mass.

ARIZONA—NEW MEXICO EXHIBITORS—

A YOUNG MAN, experienced sound projectionist desires change—best of reasons—exceptional references willing to work full or part time. Address E. F. Stahl, c/o the Kaufman theatre, Monticello, O.

JOB WANTED—

THIRD EPIC THEATRE, 500 seats, small theatre house. You take no chance if you buy from the Western Motion Picture Company, Danville, Illinois.

Arizona—

A YOUNG MAN, experienced sound projectionist desires change—best of reasons—exceptional references willing to work full or part time. Address E. F. Stahl, c/o the Kaufman theatre, Monticello, O.

FOR SALE—THEATRE — Town population 6,000. Orchestra, 220 volts, 60 cycle, 40-60 amperes. Address John A. Greve, Rio Theatre, Oak Creek, Colorado.

REQUESTS—

FOR SALE—

THEATRE—300 seats, 200 volts, 60 cycle, 30-40 amperes. Address Box 512, Exhibitors Herald-World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Illinois.

PROJECTIONIST, EXPERIENCED, WESTERN ELECTRIC AND RCA Non-union, will go anywhere. Address Box 511, Exhibitors Herald-World, 565 Fifth Ave., New York City, New York.

PROJECTIONIST—

ALONG EXPERIENCE.

ATTENTION, THEATRE OWNERS

ADDITIONAL CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

ON FOLLOWING PAGE
EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD
October 11, 1930

Equipment Wanted

USED DISC EQUIPMENT for Powers Projectors, must be reasonable. Address Alamo Theatre, Plainfield, Illinois.

WANT SEVERAL SIMPLEX MECHANISMS in good or poor condition or incomplete. Address Predley, 187 Golden Gate, San Francisco, California.

WANTED TO BUY—At best cash prices, Simplex Projector—Mechanism or complete machine. Address Joe Spratler, 12-14 East Ninth St., Chicago, Illinois.

WANTED—Peerless or Simplex projectors, also Strong reflector arc lamps. State price, condition and number of machines. Will pay cash, or one-third down and balance C.O.D. Address Box 337 Exhibitors Herald-World, 407 S. Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois.

HIGHEST PRICES paid for used opera chairs, projection machines, etc. Address Movie Supply Co., 844 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

Chairs for Sale

FOR SALE—1000 Upholstered Squab Seats, Panel Backs covered in imitation Spanish Leather, $2.00 each; 500 Upholstered Chairs with Squab Seats, covered with imitation Spanish Leather, Veneer backs, $1.80 each; 1500 Used 5-sply Veneer Chairs, $0.90 each. Illinois Theatre Equipment Co., 1150 South Michigan Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

OPERA CHAIRS FOR SALE—SIX HUNDRED LIGHT Veneered chairs at very reasonable prices. Address Windsor Bros., Johnson City, N. Y.

OPERA CHAIRS, seats and backs for all makes, five ply, at prices that save you money. J. H. in new and used chairs. Address Redington Company, Scranton, Penna.

BIG BARGAIN in used Opera Chairs, 600 upholstered, 800 v eneer. Address Movie Supply Co., 844 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

$50 3 and 5 ply chairs, extra bottoms, $1 each. Address E. Van Hyning, Iola, Kan.

Chairs Wanted

WANTED TO BUY—1000 FOLDING CHAIRS. Good condition. Address The Amphiitheatre, 1206 E. Superior St., Duluth, Minnesota.

Managers' Schools

WANTED THEATRE EMPLOYEES to learn modern theatre management and theatre advertising. The Institute's training leads to better positions. Write for particulars. Address Theatre Managers Institute, 325 Washington St. Elmira, N. Y.

Films for Sale

COMEDIES, ACTION, WESTERN and Sensational Subjects at lowest prices. Perfect condition film. List. Address Colonial Film & Supply Co., 630 Ninth Ave., New York, N. Y.

Projector Repairing

SKILLED MECHANICS, specialized tools, and a shop equipped for but one purpose can offer you nothing but the best in repair work. That is what I have, and I can offer you the best in the everlasting of your motion picture machinery equipment. One of the oldest repair men in the territory, and serving some of the largest houses, I offer you the very best in repair work. Address your job to Joseph Spratler, 12-14 E. Ninth St., Chicago, Illinois.

Side-Lines

Miscellaneous

THEATRE LOBBY FRAMES—Manufacturer to you. Low cost. Address Gem Frame Company, 2805 Brighton, Kansas City, Mo.

TRAILERS ON ALL FEATURES. Reasonable rentals. Address Worldscope Service, Box 4673, Kansas City, Mo.

Printing

THEATRE ADVERTISING—1,000 Inx Dodgers, $1.00 prepaid; 100 1x14 Window Cards, $2.16, postage extra. Cash only. Address King Shopprint, Warren, Illinois.
THE VOICE OF THE INDUSTRY

LETTERS FROM READERS

Credits His Operator

WE WISH TO EXPRESS OUR SINCERE appreciation and thanks for the bronze plaque awarded us for better sound reproduction.

The acoustics of our theatre were good when we installed sound equipment last December. However, we used acoustical felt to advantage and added aisle runners and drapes, all of which tended to better the sound. In July we purchased new upholstered seats through National Theatre Supply Company. We have the only theatre in this section, outside of the larger downtown with upholstered seats.

Operators can make or spoil a show. Our operator, deserves credit as he is very efficient, is in touch with his work and does everything possible to improve reproduction and projection. We are proud of our theatre and proud to display the award of merit in our lobby—G. H. K. Commodore Theatre, Sheldon, Ill.

Couldn't Run Without It

I REALLY COULDN'T RUN MY BUSINESS without your magazine. At first I was disappointed in your discontinuing "What the Picture Did For Me" page although I never sent in any reports to it. I am getting reconciled and really believe I am going to like the letters just as well. One of the greatest helps I received from the Herald-World was the idea that one exhibitor gave about giving birthcards to each school child. I have done that now for the last three years and find that it meets with the utmost approval. Each year the color and verse on card is changed. Sample enclosed.

About the best improvement you could possibly make was the addition of the "Film Buyer."—H. E. Ruh, Ozark Theatre, Berryville, Kan.

Reports from Bert Silver

HERE ARE SOME REPORTS ON PICTURES just recently played. Loving the Ladies (K. K. O), a good program picture, better than average, Loose Ankles (F. P.), a very good program picture. Both stars fine. Talking plain. Gave satisfaction. Son of the Saddle (U), with Ken Maynard, is a good rip-roaring talking Western. Good satisfaction to all that like this kind of entertainment, and there are a lot of them. Swing High (P), is a big program picture, extra-good but not a special, as they rate specials nowadays. Had we played it as a program at program prices, we would have done better than to try and sell it as a special. Can't kid them anymore in small towns. Those whom you might have kidded have moved to the city. Strictly Modern, Spring Is Here, Murder Will Out (F. N.), are good entertaining program pictures. The Vaudeville King (P), is certainly a great picture. Fine cast of characters. Great coloring, etc. We got very poor results (sound-on-film) and this house is noted in this part of the country for good results with talking pictures. Our business after first show was nothing for a special. Satisfaction 50 per cent. Over the heads of lots of people in small towns. Too many big pictures, they don't like them and won't come to see them, and they are all losers. Broadway Scandals (C), did not draw or satisfy. Good talent but nothing to the story. Been led up on too much of this stage stuff, murder, etc. The stories have got to be good to get anyone now to come in and see them. The best of them won't pay expenses. The poor ones better stay dark.

Here are some shorts. His Honor the Mayor (P), good funny comedy. Stronger Sex (P), good production, Dream With Husband (P), good comedy. Match Play, Mad House, Camera Shy, (E), all average comedies.—Bert Silver, Silver Family theatre, Greenville, Mich.

We Apologize

YOU MADE A COUPLE OF MISTAKES in printing my letter in last week's issue and made it sound rather foolish. I said towns under 15,000 are bothered a great deal by carnival and tent shows, and you made it read "over 15,000." And I wrote, "to keep open all nights," and you made it read, "all night." I have no desire to be a preventer of free medicine shows in this territory. They sure do hurt. If anyone has a solution or remedy for these ills, let us hear from them, pronto.

Here is what some of the pictures did for me and to me lately. Played The Virginian (P), and The Texan (P), both starring Gary Cooper, on Saturdays and they drew well and pleased very much. Mary Brian shows up well in the former, but Fay Wray did not do so well in "The Texan." Richard Arlen made his small part in "The Texan" stand out. Had a unusually large number of cussing customers come out cussing after seeing The Case of Sergeant Grisscha (R. K. O.). Every time the screen tries to get high-brow it puts many aches in the small town exhibitor's brows. Just a waste of good cast and good director. Drew very poor and pleased only one or two. Jack Mulhall in The Fall Guy (Radio), was very short—62 minutes—but pleased very well but did not draw. Ned Sparks in a comedy sax player part stole the picture. I think the title hurt. Girl of the Past (R. K. O.), was a nice little picture but wouldn't draw flies with sugar in the siles. Buddy Rogers in Safety in Numbers (Par), drew well and pleased. The three beauties, Carol Lombard, Josephine Dunn and Kathryn Crawford, were fine in their parts, Miss Crawford almost stealing the picture with her singing. and acting. Young Desire (U), with Mary Nolan, was surprisingly good drama. A sad but logical ending seemed to hurt, but there was some wonderful acting in it—L. L. Lively, Iris theatre, Kerens, Tex.

Conspicuous Place in Foyer

PLEASE ACCEPT MY THANKS FOR the Award of Merit, which I received a few days ago. It is certainly a beautiful thing, and I am very proud of it. It is now occupying a conspicuous place in my foyer. Many people have asked to see it and the meaning of it.

I consider it a great honor to have been awarded this emblem as it means a lot to me. I have spent a great deal of time and money in preparing my house for sound and am glad to state I have sound second to none I have ever heard. Thanking you again.—L. R. Creason, The Palace theatre, Enid, Okla.

A Very Favorable Light

HOW CAN I SUFFICIENTLY THANK you for your courtesy and kindness in sending me the Herald-World's award, the beautiful bronze plaque. I am and my friends are mighty proud and mighty happy in having it bestowed upon us.

My patrons always have boasted of the fine sound at the Rex and this award confirms their former opinion, and place us all in a very favorable light.

Again thanking you most heartily and with best wishes for your continued successes.—PHILIP RAND, Rex theatre, Salmon, Idaho.

Some Good and Some—

HAVING NO REPORT BLANKS LEFT I will report this way. Fighting Legion (U), with Ken Maynard, is a good Western. Madam X (M. G. M.), with Ruth Chatterton, is also good. Wild Company (Fox), a good program picture. Trailing Trouble (U), a good Western. Embracing Moments (U), a good comedy. It's a Great Life (M. G. M.), with the Duncan Sisters, is very good. Hide Out (U), Good. So This Is London (Fox), with Will Rogers, is good but no drawing card. One Mad Kiss (Fox), fair. Hold Everything (WB), with Winnie Lightburn and Joe E. Brown, is very good comedy. This team is hard to beat. Green Goddess (M. G. M.), with George Arliss, is a good picture. Undertow (U), a good program. Song O' My Heart (Fox), with John McCormack, is a good picture but it won't click at the box office. It seems as if it is not wild enough for the young folks.—P. G. Hild, New Strand theatre, Griswold, 1a.

"Halfway to Heaven"

HERE IS A REPORT ON THE PICTURE
Halfway to Heaven (Par), with Buddy Rogers and Jean Arthur. There are thrills characteristic of the circus tent in this picture. It is stamped from beginning to end with a vitality that shows the star at his best. The direction is very clever. What an acrobalance Buddy is? This photography good but print stream—box office showed better results than with any Paramount picture we have exhibited in this group.
The Illinois theatre has been leased to W. A. Collins of Flat River, Mo. The theatre is being remodeled for sound. DeForest equipment will be installed. It is to open about November 7. The management of the Illinois still retains the Kozy theatre at Brookport. Improvements will be set in motion there and sound will be installed.—A. J. Grams, Illinois theatre, Metropolis, 11.

Arouses Widespread Interest

WE ARE IN RECEIPT OF THE HERALD-WORLD Award of Merit for perfect sound reproduction and wish to express our sincere thanks.
The display of the plaque in our lobby aroused widespread interest and brought many congratulations from our patrons, especially in view of the fact that our theatre is one of the first in Alberta to receive this Award.
The Herald-World has been of inestimable value to us in the management of our business, both in the purchasing and exploitation of film productions.—O. M. Cole, Cole's theatre, Bellevue, Alta, Canada.

Form Governing Body

For Theatres in Italy;
Headquarters at Rome

(Naples, Italy, Oct. 9—S. E. Bottai, minister of corporations in Italy, announces a new ministerial law establishing the Theatre Corporation. This organization includes all cinema houses.
The corporation is a union of all groups and organizations connected with film production. Its central office will be in Rome, with branches in key cities. Controversies of all types will be settled by the corporation and it will establish uniform and working rules for all motion picture employers.
Announcement has been made by the Abruzzo Film Corporation that it has begun work on the picture “The Mountain Legend.”

Shave and a Haircut—
On Flagpole “Six Bits”

If San Francisco has a women’s society for prevention of cruelty to humans, it must have been up in arms when a woman barber climbed the flagpole above the Golden Gate theatre to give a man a “trim.” “But let him come up and stop it,” says “Smoky Bill” LeFay, flagpole sitter. Whether “Smoky Bill” paid “six bits” for his shave and haircut, we are not disposed to say, but anyway, it was a clever ad for the shows at the Golden Gate.
LeFay has held down his lofty perch for over a month now and is still “sitting” strong. He gives a public address every day, by means of a loudspeaker hookup in the lobby of the theatre and tells little news bits about himself and coming pictures.

“Smoky Bill” is out to set a new world's record in flagpole sitting and whenever the boy begins to lag he uncorks some special stunt, such as the tonsorial job by the woman barber.

 Paramount has opened this new $100,000 exchange in Portland, Ore., with Frank Clark as manager. It will serve 20 theatres in a territory extending as far east as Boise, Idaho, and south to Galveston. Four sales representatives cover the territory, while there will be 21 employees on the payroll at the Portland office. Included in the exchange building is a small theatre, with Western Electric sound, for showing pictures to distributors.

Canada Prime Minister
Makes Sound Reel to Aid Film Prosperity Week

(Toronto, Ont. 10.—The Famous Players chain, in promoting a National Prosperity Week, has obtained Hon. R. B. Bennett, prime minister of Canada, to appear before the camera for a special talking reel in which he delivers an appropriate message.
Two hundred theatres in the Famous Players Canadian Corporation, from Halifax to Vancouver, are uniting in the movement. The prosperity week will open Saturday.
Special film programs are being booked. newspapers are carrying stories and merchants are cooperating in the putting the idea across.

Camerini Wins Award
In Italy for Directing Best Picture of the Year

(Rome, Oct. 9.—Mario Camerini’s direction of the film “Kiff Tébby” has won for him the prize awarded by the Italian government to the director whose production is selected as the best of the year.

A new film organization, known as the Cine Club of Italy, has been founded at Rome by the Central Society of Cinematographical Culture and the National School of Cinematography. Minister Bottai, who is acting head of the cub, has selected Alessandro Lessona as president of the organization. The purpose and scope of the club was explained at its recent inaugural meeting.

Charles Jones Dies

(Charles Jones, founder of the Arc theatre here, died recently after an illness of three years. He is survived by his widow and one son.

Selling Silver Story Told in Film

(Washington.—The story of the manufacture of silver in the United States is being sung interestingly in a new motion picture completed by the Bureau of Mines, U. S. Department of Commerce, in cooperation with a large manufacturing concern. The title is “Silvers Hey-looms of Tomorrow.”)
Good Luck, Frank

After having been with United Artists for so long that his name is almost synonymous with that of the company, that is, to all his friends and acquaintances in and about Chicago (the number of whom we would not dare attempt to guess) J. Frank Young, sales manager, excellence, and overflowing with personality plus, is joining the sales force of the RKO exchange here, and from now on will add his boosting Radio Pictures. We might congratulate Bill Brumberg, who recently took over the reins of the company's product, called Farmstove, which is a quick setting, chemically prepared cement, which you pour into the hole in the floor where the seat bolt is supposed to go, put the bolt in, and a little while after that, say in about 10 minutes, the game is to try and pull it out.

It seems that Irving Mack ran up against a very determined exhibitor the other day, who insisted on having posted on his trailer, "The House from Quality." After some lengthy persuading, and a literal upheaval as regards English construction, it was at last given the final touch of "The House of Quality."* * *

Freddy Martin has joined the "benefits," we were told, for his two weeks, as Mrs. Martin has gone away for a two-weeks' vacation. And speaking of Freddy leads us to make a remark about the two insufferables (that should be inseparables)—however, wherever Freddy is, Frank Young is usually somewhere in the ring.

* * *

A good many Row-ites said hello last week to Jimmy Ambrose, who was passing through Chicago on his way to New York.

---

CHICAGO PERSONALITIES

By Jim Little

NEWSREEL cameras were busy last Wednesday morning, about 10 o'clock, taking pictures of the lowering of the Wabash avenue bridge for the first time. We see the bridges go up and down every day, and it really doesn't seem like an unusual circumstance when one more bridge is lowered. But when it is for the first time, that makes it news, and pretty fascinating news, at that.

A whole story told in the short space of part of a newsreel. Of course, the climax only is shown, but what a climax to weeks of planning and hard work.

Crowds that stood there watching it were spell-bound, and we'll be willing to wager that as the two ends came nearer and together, that nobody spoke. Of course, you couldn't hear a pin drop, but you could sense, as it were, that everybody was holding their breaths. The ends came nearer and together, seeming to balance, as if going through a little stage business before thrilling the audience, and then—click! The job was done, a perfect fit, and Chicago has one more bridge to add to the network crossing the river.

Building a bridge takes a good deal of time and labor, and the leaves must be counted just about so, but when you think of them being lowered, and meeting exactly, although they've never been together before, well, it just makes one wonder how it can be figured out so exactly. There is no trial and error here. It's built, and it fits. That's all there is to it. And what a lot it is.

* * *

Al Lichtman, vice president and general manager of distributors for United Artists, dropped into town the other day for a few hours, in between trains. Harry Goe, special representative and associate to Al was with him.

* * *

Ben Nathan, formerly owner of the Ideal theatre, has purchased the Halsied from the Taigs.

* * *

In last week's issue we mentioned A. S. Frank as having left the Paulina theatre, where he has been manager for the past six years for George G. A. Co., who owns the house, and gave no indication of his future plans. We are very happy to announce that the "former manager" of the Paulina theatre is now owner of the Capitol theatre in Whiting, Indiana, and that after some remodeling and improving, the house will be set to give its former patrons real entertainment.

* * *

Ben Judell made a special trip to St. Louis and it is said that his rooting was responsible for the Cards' taking two straight games from the Athletics.

* * *

E. T. Gomerson, central division manager of Universal, is now in New York on an important circuit deal for his company.

* * *

Charley Loewenberg is off again, this time taking in Appleton, Beloit and Rockford. And it's still the same old story, "All Quiet on the Western Front." We wouldn't be a bit surprised to find Charley walking around the streets some day mumbling "It can't be exploited any more, it can't be exploited any more." But that's just the reason he'll probably never do that. If all the exploitation stunts have been used, he'll just get the old bean busy and presto!—a better stunt to intrigue the public than any before.

* * *

Joe Merrick, central division manager for Tiffany, is busy going around his territory and getting things lined up. And, while we're on Tiffany, we might mention the fact that Henry Pendleton is now working for Tiffany out of the Chicago office, covering northeastern Illinois. Also, "Hank" Kopal, formerly with Universal in Milwaukee, is working on country sales for this company. Elmer "Mose" Grace, branch manager for Tiffany here, is wearing a big grin these days at the success of the new monkey comedies. They are going right over the top of public opinion, and Tiffany's lookings are getting more frequent every day.

* * *

When we dropped into Bill Brumberg's office the other morning, we found him pretty busy, but it's a funny kind of busy men. It seems that, as they are, they always have time to say hello. And being able to do that, even to a fellow in a man's cap that he can be proud to wear. But as we said, Bill was busy, planning a few things with George R. Giroux, formerly with MGM out on the Coast, but now back home again, working for Bill. We later found out that George, who is extremely modest (and probably a darn of a salesman) is a Legion of Honor man. And while we were talking, in came Harry Brown, formerly with Pathe in Chicago and then with the same company in Milwaukee. And he too will work under Bill.

Just as Harry came in, another Brown was announced (the town's just full of them) and this time it was Walter, and with him was Sam Gorelick and C. C. Wallace, who is now connected with the Western Electric. By this time the room was pretty nearly full, but there was room for just one more, and this time it was Robert, K. Brown, a newcomer connected with sales at the RKO exchange, coming here from the RKO exchange in Cincinnati.

Bill's all set to go right out after them, and from the roster that he has on his desk, it looks as though the exchange was going to be one busy place.

* * *

Jack St. Clair, who has been connected with the local Universal exchange for a number of years, has resigned, and after taking a well-deserved vacation, although a short one, he will announce his new plans.

George Levine, manager of the Universal exchange in Milwaukee, dropped into Chicago to see Carsten and was going through his way to New York.

* * *

Frank Ishmael's got a new trick, so be careful where you get into his office for in all probability he'll show you a string on which is a coin with a hole in it. You can't find any possible way to get it off, and then Frank covers it with a handkerchief, dabbles around for a minute or so and bingo—the coin is off, as you are often for string. It almost seems as though Thurston ought to know about Frank, in case he hasn't got an understudy.

* * *

Erwin R. Fursin, of the General Seating Company, is all "stuck up" about the company's product, called Farmstove, which is a quick setting, chemically prepared cement, which you pour into the hole in the floor where the seat bolt is supposed to go, put the bolt in, and a little while after that, say in about 10 minutes, the game is to try and pull it out.

* * *

It seems that Irving Mack ran up against a very determined exhibitor the other day, who insisted on having posted on his trailer, "The House from Quality." After some lengthy persuading, and a literal upheaval as regards English construction, it was at last given the final touch of "The House of Quality."
The Fall Buyers Number!
of Better Theatres will be issued October 25th, 1930

October 25th is—the Publication Date

October 15th is—the Closing Date

Published in conjunction with EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD

Quigley Publishing Co. 407 So. Dearborn St., Chicago
A FRESH ANGLE
on comedy entertainment in a brand new series of one-reel novelty comedies

MACK SENNETT
BREVITIES

Mack Sennett Brevities bring that "something new under the sun" which every real showman is always looking for. They are good comedy because Mack Sennett is making them. But they combine a new element of novelty with the comedy—and do it all in natural colors—and all talking, of course.

For instance, in the first release, while laughing through a hilariously funny
Sennett story, you'll see the 1930 model Sennett bathing girl swiming under water surrounded by the beauties of the famous marine gardens at Catalina Island, shown in all the splendor of their natural color by the Sennett submarine camera and the Sennett color process.

E. W. HAMMONS presents
"THE BLUFFER"
with
Andy Clyde  Lincoln Stedman
Patsy O'Leary  Gaylord Pendleton

EDUCATIONAL FILM EXCHANGES, Inc., E. W. HAMMONS, President
MAURICE CHEVALIER
"PLAYBOY OF PARIS"

PERSONALITY KING'S GAY
NEW LOVE COMEDY JOINS
PARAMOUNT HIT PARADE!

TO BE, OR NOT TO BE ---

Put on the Spot!

That is the tense gruelling question in

"COSTELLO CASE"

A thrilling, pulsating drama of underworld law and disorder!

with

TOM MOORE - LOLA LANE
Russell Hardy, Roscoe Karns, Wheeler Oakman

Directed by WALTER LANG

A JAMES CRUZE PRODUCTION

By arrangement with
Harry H. Thomas and Sam Zierler
THE SATURDAY EVENING POST

HAROLD LLOYD

"FEET FIRST"

HAPPY days are here again! Here comes Harold with a brand new bag of tricks that will make your sides ache with laughter! Fun no end, thrills galore, action every second. Harold Lloyd's All-Talking picture "Feet First." Your eyes will be glued to the screen and you'll hang on every word! More than a motion picture—an event the whole family looks forward to with keen anticipation. Get set now for the great gloom destroyer of 1930! Get set and go! Your Theatre Manager will gladly tell you when "Feet First" is coming to your town. Produced by Harold Lloyd Corporation. A Paramount Release.

If it's a Paramount Picture it's the best show in town!

13,000,000 READERS OF THE SATURDAY EVENING POST ARE ALL SET FOR THE LAUGH OF THEIR LIVES!
IN THE BAG!

HAROLD LLOYD

"FEET FIRST"

is the one picture that every theatre-goer in America is eager to see and every live showman is rushing to book. Ring your Paramount exchange now and arrange play dates!

PRODUCED BY THE HAROLD LLOYD CORPORATION . . . . . A PARAMOUNT RELEASE THEY'RE COMING
80,000,000 STRONG!

WORLD'S MIGHTIEST HOST OF BOX-OFFICE PATRONAGE
POISED FOR FRENZIED RUSH TO THEATRES OF NATION!
Leading Newspapers of Nation Will Carry Dramatic Story of the Amos 'N' Andy Show In Paid Advertising to Millions of Readers! Double-page and Single-page Smashes Will Appear in More Than 150 Newspapers the Day Before the Opening of "Check and Double Check," October 25th and 26th, Blanketing America in the Most Spectacular Merchandising Sweep of all Show Ages!
PRESS HURLED INTO ANDY AD CAMPAIGN

ANDY

PRESS OF NATION BECOMES ONE VAST BILLBOARD PROCLAIMING THE TRIUMPH OF AMOS 'N' ANDY!

The Premiere Exhibition of Amos 'N' Andy Should Be Made An Event of Public Significance in Your Community. Your Fans Will See Amos 'N' Andy at Their Best ... As Millions of Radio Listeners Know Them ... In Every Mood ... In Trouble and Out of Trouble...Bewildered...Happy...Lovable and Laugh-provoking Amos 'N' Andy! Their Advent on the Screen is Indeed the Show Event of a Lifetime.
TITAN SWEEPS AIR OCT. 24
MIRACLE STARS ON RKO HOUR

AMOS 'N' ANDY will appear on the RKO hour of Friday, October
24th, through the courtesy of the Pepsi-Dent Company, in highlights of their
RKO Radio Picture "Check and Double Check."
Undoubtedly the greatest single selling smash conceivable and a new high spot in the annals of broadcasting.
ON THE AIR
10:30 EASTERN
STANDARD TIME.

COMPLETE HOOK UP
NBC'S RED NETWORK!
WEAF, New York
WEZI
WJAX
WJAR
WIOD
WTAG
WMC
WCEN
WCMU
WFSI
WJBS
WRC
WSMB
WGY
WKY
WGR
KTHG
WCAE
WBAP
WFJC
WOAI
WWJ
KGO
WDC
KFJ
WBO KGW
KSD
KOMO
WOC
KHM WHO KFSD
WOW
KTAR
WDAF
KOA
WRVA
WBAP

EPIC SMASH FOR JUVENILE TRADE
Not Since the Heyday of Chaplin Has There Been Such a Juvenile Smash Hit Attraction As Amos 'n'
Andy. The Alert Sime Made This Most Emphatic in His Brilliant Analysis Last Week of "Check and Double Check."

Amos 'n' Andy, At One Stroke, Will Bring Back the Kids to the Motion Picture Theatres of America.
Make Child Appeal a Vital Feature of Your Campaign. Make Your Matinee Records Soar with a Grand and Glorious Revival of Juvenile Business!

THE TITAN CAMPAIGN MANUAL TELLS YOU HOW!
You wouldn't give them picture projection like this . . . .

... Then why give them sound projection like this?

Your public that demanded good projection now insists upon clear, natural sound reproduction. Unless they get both in your theatre, you are giving them only a part of the show.

The recording of talkies by Western Electric apparatus—used exclusively by producers who make 8 out of every 10 pictures—has reached a high point of excellence.

It is now more important than ever that you use equipment capable of reproducing everything that directors and stars put into these productions.

Western Electric theatre equipment—designed and built as part of a complete system for recording and reproducing sound—serviced by ERPI to maintain quality—brings out everything that's in the picture.

That's why—week after week—the crowds flock to the nearly 7000 Western Electric equipped houses all over the world.

Only Western Electric equipment can give the complete show that brings maximum business to your theatre.

Western Electric SOUND SYSTEM
Northern Electric in Canada
Distributed by Electrical Research Products Inc.
250 W. 57th Street, New York
THE ALL-AMERICAN FOOTBALL TEAM

SCHOONOVER of Arkansas
HARPSTER of Carnegie Tech
HAYCRAFT of Minnesota
SLEIGHT of Purdue

POMMERENING of Michigan
GIBSON of Minnesota
BANKER of Tulane
RUSS SAUNDERS of California

MONTGOMERY of Pittsburgh
SCULL of Pennsylvania
MOYNIHAN of Notre Dame

Every Member a Drawing Card!
All Team on the Screen for the First Time!

It's Love

Again Warner Bros. deliver just the right attraction when you need it most! At the height of the football season, a football comedy featuring the All-American Team! The biggest game of the year—played in a nice comfortable theatre—that’s showmanship!

Joe E. Brown
Joan Bennett

and

The All-American Football Team

Directed by William Wellman

Available to You
Day-and-Date with Broadway!
UP THE RIVER ROCKS THE ROXY

What Critics Say About Gay Life in Jail

Easily the best of the new celluloid arrivals on Broadway. Packed with hearty laughs, balanced with dramatic moments and developed on an excellent story. John Ford directed "Up the River," which should certainly pack them in.

—Julia Shawell, Evening Graphic

Good, mirthful entertainment. At times it is a scream.
—Quinn Martin, New York World

Proved to be violently funny to the thousands who filled the big theatre. Clever incidents and lines.
—Mordaunt Hall, New York Times

Lots of laughs at the Roxy. Interesting, entertaining photoplay from start to finish. At times the tale attains high satire. Plenty new people in the cast. And they're all excellent.
—Regina Crewe, New York American

"Up the River" is a treat. Maurine Watkins' story is a dandy. Tracy and Hymer are great talkie bets. They're simply swell in this.
—Irene Thirer, Daily News

From every angle, "Up the River" clicks. The dialogue does full justice to the story. The cast caught the spirit of the thing. The performances are fine. A treatment rich in comedy, pathos and irony. Tracy and Hymer a crackerjack team.
—Motion Picture News

RENEGADES

...and the cream of 1930 musicals
DeSYLVA, BROWN and HENDERSON'S
JUST IMAGINE

OPENED AT CARTHAY CIRCLE, LOS ANGELES, OCT. 10

"Just Imagine" is tremendous ... It fills us with open-mouthed admiration. —Lovella Parsons, Los Angeles Examiner

De Sylva, Brown and Henderson have turned out an entertainment that is a dazzler...Thrilled audience...Applause and laughter testimony to its exceptional interest.
—Edwin Schallert, Los Angeles Times

Will be one of most talked of films of the year. De Sylva, Brown and Henderson have conceived a masterpiece.
—Eleanor Barnes, Illustrated Daily News

Will surely be one of ten best pictures of the year...Will confound critics of motion pictures in general ... Story rivals any drama in suspense ... Is the first musical that could stand on its plot alone.
—Harrison Carroll, Los Angeles Herald

Will profoundly influence all future screen productions ... One long roar of events as funny as they are amazing... Its daring as an innovation never fails to arouse admiration...It is epochal. —Monroe Lathrop, Los Angeles Evening Express

It is magnificent...Interest kept at fever pitch...A film that will be held dear to hearts of movie audiences for months to come.
—Llewelyn Miller, Los Angeles Record COAST THE FOX TRAIL
BIG TRAIL OF HITS

From Movietone City to Your Box Office, the Greatest Caravan of Pictures in Fox History. Be a Smart Guy and Stake Your Claim in the Gold Rush of Big Money Productions

In 2nd WEEK at Chinese Theatre Los Angeles

Raoul Walsh's
THE BIG TRAIL
leads the procession

Stupendous productions of this kind, both awe-inspiring in proportions and satisfying in the way of entertainment, come along only once in many years. There is reality and appealing quality about everything that makes the picture something to be remembered.
—The Film Daily

A story of epic theme. A Western stepped into the glorified class by virtue of the sweep injected in the form of a production embellishment. The sweep of the spectacle and the lavishness with which the production was made give it its money-making slant.
—Motion Picture News

The Most Important Picture Ever Produced
with
JOHN WAYNE  MARGUERITE CHURCHILL  EL BRENDDEL
TULLY MARSHALL  TYRONE POWER  DAVID ROLLINS

Thrill upon Thrill

Story by HAL G. EVARTS
YOU CAN BEAT Any OPPOSITION On Earth With FIRST NATIONAL

Scarlet Pages
Top Speed
Ann Harding in Girl of the Golden West
Marilyn Miller in Sunny
Otis Skinner in Kismet

"Vitaphone" is the registered trade mark of the Vitaphone Corp. designating its products.
Hits! Hits! Hits! Have made First National King of the trade. First National pictures have swept everything before them. And the KINGS have still to be heard from. Play square with yourself and play First National. You can lick any opposition on earth.
Every production can have both color-tints and sound

EASTMAN Sonochrome Tinted Positive Films give charming atmospheric tints that express the mood of every scene, or the prevailing lighting of the picture. Besides, these films reproduce sound with exceptional fidelity. Through their use every production can have both color-tints and sound, for Sonochrome costs no more than ordinary black-and-white positive.

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY
ROCHESTER, NEW YORK

J. E. Brulatour, Inc., Distributors
New York  Chicago  Hollywood
HELEN TWELVETREES
starring in the mystery picture of the ages described on the pages following —
The Greatest Ever Produced—with

CARL LAEMMLE presents

HELEN TWELVETREES
Raymond Hackett
Lilyan Tashman
Neil Hamilton
Blanche Frederici

Produced by
CARL LAEMMLE, JR. novelty THRILLER unmatchable cast of stars!!

Directed by RUPERT JULIAN from the celebrated stage play by John Willard

First in Features — First in Shorts
First in First Runs Everywhere
Watch For These Two MILLION DOLLAR Pictures!

TOD BROWNING'S Greatest Picture

DRACULA

and

EDWIN CAREWE'S Sensational Production of

RESURRECTION

A LADY SURRENDERS
Held over 3rd week at STANLEY, Philadelphia... held over 2nd week at WOODS Theatre, Chicago... sensational business, CAPITOL, Atlanta compels holdover 2nd week ... a box office wonder at RIALTO, Washington ... great business at KEITH'S, Boston ... sets new high at RKO DOWNTOWN, Detroit ... topped the town at RKO ORPHEUM, Portland, Ore. ... a sensation at RKO ORPHEUM, Minneapolis ... getting $2000 more than previous week ... higher than house average at RKO ALBEE, Providence.

EAST IS WEST
audience at previews both EAST and WEST go wild with applause. Another box office marvel from UNIVERSAL.

ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT keeping up its record as the GREATEST MONEY-MAKER of all time.

KING OF JAZZ continues its record-breaking tour, going like a house afire everywhere.

BOUDOIR DIPLOMAT pronounced better than A LADY SURRENDERS by preview critics.

SEE AMERICA THIRST
Surefire laugh'rit to pack them in.

UNIVERSAL First in Features. First in Shorts
First in First Runs Everywhere!!
ADVERTISING STANDARDS

Ad Men Are "BENDING BACKWARD" to Avoid Off-Color Paper on Films, Declare Home Office Executives—Regulated by Hays Code and One Adopted by Outdoor Advertising Association—Feel Latter Should Have Final Word but Charge Industry is Made Goat.

COMPLETE INDEX TO CONTENTS

NEWS

Film trade supervises sanitarium of NVA at Saranac Lake—Provision is expected to be made to care for 500 indigent actors of vaudeville and pictures.

Philadelphia musicians returning October 24 under new contract—Settlement at St. Louis expected soon.

Labor situation will be aired on floor of MPTOA convention—Columbia sales increases $3,000,000 over first nine months of 1929.

Five new directors of Fox Films are elected—New convertible issue is announced for General Theatres Equipment, Inc.

FEATURES

New Product ........................................... 44
The Voice of the Industry (Letters from Readers) ........ 72
Securities Price Range ................................ 30
Hollywood, by Douglas Hodges .......................... 50
Broadway .............................................. 26
Sound Reproduction ................................... 55
Pictorial Section ....................................... 31
J. C. Jenkins—His Column ............................ 47

ADVERTISEMENTS

The Critics’ Diagnoses

The commercial significance of decent moral standards in motion picture entertainment remains a matter of doubt in the minds of some thoughtful and conscientious students of the situation. They see before them numerous examples of off-color entertainment which is profitable in a dollar and cents measure. They see also, very fine productions which are affirmatively moral which go out before a cold and disinterested public, resulting in substantial financial losses to the producer.

Experience in the amusement business supports the position that the decent subject often fails to make money and that the borderline picture often brings in a gratifying profit. Of course, few if any deny that in the long run wholesome entertainment is the best policy but the isolated cases of the success of the other kind of entertainment are an element which severely complicates the thought and action of many people in the entertainment business.

To these people we wish to commend for their consideration a symposium of dramatic critics’ opinions which were recently collected and published by The Chicagoan.

The question lightly asked by The Chicagoan was:

“Who killed the drama and why?”

Answers to this question were asked and received from all of the leading dramatic critics of Chicago. The information and opinions supplied offer grounds for a great deal of sober thought and reflection on the part of all people in the amusement business wherever their interest may lie.

Very briefly summarizing the opinions expressed we find the following:

Ashton Stevens (Chicago Herald and Examiner)—“Smut and Summer.”

Charles Collins (Chicago Tribune)—“The prevalence of ‘smut’ on the stage is . . . a symptom of an art temporarily decadent.”

Fritz Blocki (Chicago Evening American)—“... constant bedroom and cesspool psychology.”

Lloyd Lewis (Chicago Daily News)—“Producers, playwrights and public are for the time being exhausted by their ten-year orgy of Bela-Lasonian realism of scenery, sex realism of action.”

It is very interesting to note that out of eight dramatic critics interviewed four ascribed the present poor estate of the stage theatre to the prevalence of smut as the main cause or, at least, introduced this cause as one of the chief contributing factors.

These men are not and do not consider themselves custodians of the public’s morals. Their profession is to criticize the drama for the information and edification of their readers. Critics are interested in dramatic results and whether these results are attained through the maintenance of high morals standards in entertainment or otherwise is not their primary consideration. They possess, of course, a personal viewpoint as to what sort of standards are permissible in a theatre but in the ordinary course of newspaper reporting they are expected to keep these viewpoints in check.

In the picture business we are quite familiar with the fact that various influences have had a play in bringing about the present poor estate of the stage theatre.

But, it seems to us, when several leading critics on important newspapers emphasize the prevalence of smut as a chief cause there is presented an argument which should have the attentive ear of the motion picture exhibitor and the motion picture producer.

Readers of this page will find herein repeated an argument which has frequently been found mention in previous issues. In fact, the subject has for several years been a favorite argument with us. We go back over familiar ground for the simple reason that as yet nothing adequate has been done about the matter and we are heartened in the task because of the continuing conviction that something ought to be done.

We refer to the establishment in the principal cities across the country of medium-size theatres which will be committed to the policy of presenting out-of-the-ordinary motion pictures—subjects which never can expect to attract patronage of the volume which makes profitable engagements in the great theatres operating on a grind from early morning to late at night.

We do not urge that productions be especially made for these houses of the type to which we refer. The producer must proceed on the general policy of making every picture one that commands widespread attention. But we know that the producer is bound to miss this mark occasionally in either of two ways. Either the picture will turn out to be just a poor entertainment or else it may be a very fine entertainment—yet one of limited appeal. This limited appeal may be due to the subject being just too “fine.” It may be based on an adult theme which is not proper subject matter for general consumption. It may be a highly intelligent and sophisticated subject which will not suit the “movie” audiences.

These good pictures which are not “movie” audience attractions must be given an outlet—both so that financial loss may be avoided and also so that these very meritorious subjects may be supported and continued.

Also, they should be made available in an appropriate environment in answer to a large and growing public demand.
More Than 300 Wide Screens Installed in Theatres of U. S.

But General Adoption Is Not Expected for Many Months

Installations to Date Chiefly to Heighten Effects by Wide Angle Lens in Projecting 35 mm. Film

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—There is every reason to believe that the use of the wide screen will not become general for many months.

Between three and five hundred wide screens—another estimate is one thousand—have been installed in deluxe theatres of the country, but few of these houses have projection equipment for handling wide film.

These screens for the most part have been installed for the purpose of heightening effects through use of wide angle lens in projection of regular 35-millimeter film.

It is understood that all circuits have installed wide screen in their deluxe houses and that provision for wide film equipment is being made in these theatres as well as in the houses which are now planned.

Two types of wide projection are now in use, one using regular 35 millimeter and the other the wide stock—65 or 70 millimeters.

MGM announces perfection of a new type of wide screen picture which can be projected on the ordinary theatre equipment. The size of the projected picture may be regulated to fit the individual screen requirements. It is claimed that three-dimensional effect is distinctly achieved through a greater depth of focus.

As far back as 1914 D. W. Griffith first advocated use of wide screen. The first picture shown in this country on wide screen was United Artists' "One Exciting Night," at its roadshow release in 1922. Colored lights were used on an enlarged screen in place of tinting and to heighten the effect.

Introduction of a wide film picture took place at the Cameo theatre, New York, in November, 1926, in the form of a two-reeler, "Bound," starring Robert Greathouse, of which, according to the best authorities on the subject, is the first release of its kind.

At this time Griffith termed the process "the most revolutionary and progressive improvement in motion pictures in years, which will result in a complete change in motion-picture technique." Press comment noted at that time that with the process success had been achieved in producing a picture free from distortion, no matter from what point the film was viewed. The wide screen was about twice the normal width.

The best evidence that wide film will not be generally used for some time is the fact that United Artists has no plans for its three-dimensional picture, "Ingagi," for a general release.

Presentation of the wide screen product of M.G.M, Fox, Warner Brothers and United Artists is being watched closely by competing executives. M.G.M, Fox and Warners will be the first to bring the big screen to Broadway.

'Outward Bound' Ban Aroused Furore on British Censorship

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Banning of the Warner picture "Outward Bound" by the British censor board is causing controversy over film censorship in England. Edward Shortt, president of the board, took adverse action on the film following a fixed rule not to allow showing of pictures dealing with life after death.

Criticism directed against him is based on the fact that stage production of "Outward Bound" was permitted to enjoy a long run in a legitimate theatre here. This action follows closely the recent banning of the Fox picture "Lilian,"

Horses Run Wild in Battle Scene; Injure 30 Extras; One Dying

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—A stampede of horses on the Herbert Brennon "Beau Ideal" location at the RKO ranch, injured 30 extras and sent four to a hospital with one at the point of death. The scene was for a troop of horses to plunge against the players who supposedly defending a position in battle. The action was halted while dummies were substituted, but the horses got out of control.

Michigan Theatre Owners Change Association Name

DETROIT, Oct. 16.—Allied Theatres of Michigan is the new name of the Allied unit which carried the title of Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Michigan. This is in line with the announced plan to incorporate the word "Allied" in the titles of all organizations affiliated with Allied States Association.

Ohio Censors Bar "Ingagi"; Say Exhibitors Broke Pact

COLUMBUS, Oct. 16.—Charging that exhibitors have failed to comply with the order to run leaders in connection with showings of "Ingagi," to explain that the film was produced in a studio, Dr. J. L. Clifton, head of the Ohio censor board, has announced that the picture will be recalled. Although depiction of sex recalls is positively final and that the picture cannot be shown again in the state, he insisted that the advertising agreement promulgated when the film was released after its first recall has been broken. The reason for the ban is based on the board's decision that it is "not a genuine jungle production."

"Ingagi" was given a clean bill of health by the Ohio censors last May.

World Near End, Anyhow, So What Does It Matter

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 16.—Rev. W. W. Woodson, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Carrollton, Mo., has refused to comply with a health department order closing churches and all other places of public assembly under an infantile paralysis quarantine. The quarantine was put into effect after a little girl had died from the disease. Other ministers closed their churches but Rev. Woodson preaching a sermon that the world is near its end would not stop until escorted from his pulpit by sheriff's deputies.

Eastman Offers City Million for Dental Clinic

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 16.—George Eastman, of the Eastman Kodak Company, has offered this city a gift of $1,000,000 to be used in erection of a municipal dental hospital for the treatment of poor children.
Film Trade Supervises Sanitarium of NVA at Saranac Lake

Provision to Care for 500 Indigent Actors of Both Vaudeville and Pictures Is Expected—Sam Katz Is New President (Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The motion picture industry is assuming paternal supervision of the National Variety Artists’ Sanitarium at Saranac Lake, N. Y.

Decision to participate in maintenance of this institution was reached a week ago at a conference at the headquarters of Will H. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, and on Tuesday Hays, accompanied by Harry M. Warner, Sam Katz, Hiram S. Brown and Pat Casey, treasurer of the NVA Fund, visited the sanitarium.

Because of the depressed condition of vaudeville and its virtual absorption by motion picture interests, all activities of the NVA have passed to film control with Katz the new president.

Expect 500 to Be Cared For

The sanitarium at Saranac is a million dollar institution and with the present facilities can take care of 125 patients. Seventy-eight tubercular cases are now receiving treatment at this institution.

Under the management of motion picture interests it is expected that provision will be made for care of 500 indigent actors, kitchen facilities now being sufficient to handle that number of patients.

While the policy in the past has been to admit only NVA patients, artists both of vaudeville and studio will be admitted under the new regime.

Maintenance $200,000 a Year

It requires slightly more than $200,000 to maintain the institution annually. Just what policy will be adopted by the motion picture leaders in endowing the institution has not been determined, although some action is expected at another meeting to be held here shortly.

It was pointed out by one interested in the undertaking that if all artists in vaudeville and films would contribute at least $2 a year, another guarantee of the sanitarium’s would be assured. NVA leaders in the past, however, have found this plan unsuccessful.

Exchange Finished (Special to the Herald-World)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—Offices of the Universal Exchange have been moved into the new two-story structure at 129 Hyde street. Kenneth Hodkinson is branch manager. MGM is now erecting an exchange building near that of Universal. Fox and RKO are said to be considering similar building projects. First National has moved into the Warner building.

Chicago Musicians Win Tilt with Republicans On Canned Radio Music

Echoing the fight of the American Federation of Musicians against sound in the theatre, the Chicago Musicians has declared war on “canned” radio music—and won a victory, too.

James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago federation, launched an attack on the Republican party of Cook county this week because its candidates for office were allegedly using phonograph music devices in their campaigns instead of hiring musicians. The musicians threatened to throw their influence to the Democratic side in the political campaign and went so far as to start organizing a parade of 1,000 musicians to traverse the streets urging public support of Democratic candidates instead of Republican ones. Radio stations also received notice to the effect that members of the music organization would be withdrawn from their programs if they permitted Republican candidates to speak over the air.

Inside 24 hours, Petrillo got word from the county Republican chairman saying that no “canned” music would be used in the campaign and that all musicians will be used when music is needed. Now everybody is happy.

U.S. War Department

Paramount Profit for First 9 Months of 1930 Is 39% Above Same Period in 1929 (Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The Paramount Publix Corporation earned 92 cents a share more on a larger amount of outstanding stock in the first nine months of this year than was earned in the corresponding period of 1929, according to the report recently made. Consolidated net profits, including earnings of subsidiary companies, after all taxes and charges, are estimated at $13,541,000, which amounts to $4.59 per share on 2,948,397 shares, the average number outstanding during the period ending September 27, 1930.

This estimated profit is 39 per cent higher than the figure of $9,731,000, the amount reported for the corresponding 1929 period, and creates a new high record for the period in the history of the company. An official of the company is reported to have said the dividend for the year had already been earned with the normally high earnings of the period still ahead. The $4.59 per share earned this year compares with $3.67 last year on the 2,647,327 shares then outstanding.

Profits for the three months ending September 27, 1930, also included in the report, are estimated, after all charges, at $5,199,000, an amount to $1.60 per share on 3,180,636 shares outstanding during the quarter. This represents an increase of 11 per cent over the $4,601,000 in the same period of 1929. This figure is also 30 per cent above normal amounts for the company during the summer quarters.

Wall Street, it is understood, was somewhat surprised at the increase for the summer three months, as it was generally believed the hot weather during July and early August had cut severely into the profits of amusement companies.

Sound Trucks Deliver Campaign Addresses For N.Y. Politicians (Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Sound motion pictures are being used this year by candidates for office in delivering their messages to the people. Four specially equipped motor trucks, carrying R.C.A. Photograph portable sound reproducing apparatus, have been circulating through rural New York state in the interest of candidates on the Democratic ticket.

Two “performances” are given daily, one in the afternoon and one at night, the matinees being shown indoors with the apparatus being removed from the truck. Whenever the weather permits, however, the evening program is given outdoors, the loud speakers—which convey the sound being suspended above and at the rear of the truck. Electric power is secured by tapping the local supply. The outdoor screen measures six by six feet and the indoor 10 by 10 feet. The trucks are so equipped that a platform of sufficient size to accommodate one or two persons extends from the rear—one connected with the loud speaker makes amplification of the voice possible. Two members of the Moving Picture Institute of New York, accompany each truck, acting as operators at the showings and as chauffeurs while moving from one location to another.

Grand Jury Indicts 3 on Alleged Violation of Blue Laws in Laurel, Miss. (Special to the Herald-World)

LAUREL, MISS.—Oct. 16.—Three officers of the Strand Amusement Company here have been indicted on three charges each for alleged violation of the State’s Blue Laws.

The indictments were made by a grand jury. The theatres involved are the Strand and Arapahoe houses, which have remained open on Sundays for several weeks without charges being made.

Those indicted are Charles Green, Ben Schneider and W. S. Taylor.

Frost Made West Coast Manager L. A. Division (Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—Oscar Oldknow, vice-president of Fox West Coast theatres, appointed Robert Frost L. J. Franklin as manager of the Los Angeles division, effective immediately.

Mussolini to Control Theatrical Censorship (From Rome Correspondent)

ROME, Oct. 16.—Premier Mussolini has announced his intention of controlling theatrical censorship. He is to have the final word in all decisions. Censorship will be placed under his department of the interior.

Gibbs Heads Tiffany’s Oklahoma City Office (Special to the Herald-World)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 16.—C. A. Gibbs of Charlotte, N. C., has been named manager of the Tiffany Exchange here.

Gibbs succeeds Roy Avery, who has been transferred to St. Louis.

John J. Kline Dead (Special to the Herald-World)

BOONVILLE, MO, Oct. 16.—John J. Kline, former operator and manager of the Princess theatre in Tipton, Mo., died in St. Joseph hospital, Boonville, October 14. He was 42 years old.

24
Ad Men "Bending Backward" to Avoid Off-Color Paper on Films

Regulated by Hays Code and Outdoor Association Policy

Film Men Feel Outdoor Companies Should Have Final Word but Charge Industry Is Made Goat

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Advertising men in the home offices of the producing companies are "bending backward" in their efforts to keep all paper and other advertising material within the bounds of propriety. This was the general expression of executives here following the refusal recently of Foster & Kleiser, West Coast outdoor advertising company, to post 24 sheets in one of the West Coast theatres' campaigns.

Censorship of paper in most companies does not end with the advertising department. Presidents and general managers are constantly alert for the in the end they are the ones who handle the production in the public and to the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America.

Two Codes Regulate Paper

Two codes regulate the advertising men in their production of paper and other advertising accessories. One is that drafted by the Hays organization and ratified by the advertising men themselves, and the other is the one adopted by the outdoor advertising association.

The latter applies to all types of advertising, and in no way directs special attention to pictures. It reads:

"Advertising copy, either pictorial or otherwise, shall not be displayed which:

1. Is directly or indirectly critical of the laws of the United States, or induces a violation of those laws.

2. Is offensive to the moral standards of the community at the time the copy was printed.

3. Induces the purchase of proprietary preparations or medicines for certain conditions or diseases.

4. Is false, misleading or deceptive."

Advertising men in the film field feel that the outdoor advertising companies should have the final word on whether a specific piece of paper is to be displayed on a stand within their jurisdiction.

Must Protect Own Name

"The outdoor people," said a leading film advertising executive, "have their name on each stand, and it is up to them to protect that name, for the public holds them responsible for all off-color advertising. The outdoor people know better than we do conditions or diseases for the individual communities. If they feel that a piece of paper does not conform to their standards of their code, or that it would not meet the approval of the local citizens, no one can blame them for refusing to post it.

Film advertising men, however, feel that the motion picture industry has been made the goat in advertising censorship. They point to certain advertising of perfumes, automobiles, hoisery and books, among others, which has been published in leading magazines and daily papers. This advertising, they show, is far more off-color than the copy prepared by the picture companies.

Film advertisers who must prepare between 700 and 800 pieces of paper on the product of an individual company during a year feel that their record is above reproach. In only a minimum of cases have outdoor people refused to post it.

RKO Circuits to Show Feature Films of Pathé, Columbia and Universal

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Jules Levy, general manager of the RKO booking department, has announced that all key cities of the RKO circuit are to show, in addition to pictures made by Radio, those produced by Columbia, Universal and Pathé. This program will include 20 important feature productions.

Levy, who has just returned from Hollywood, says the forthcoming product for RKO houses will include pictures by 16 prominent directors. These represent the work of 21,000 actors, players, dancers, supernumeraries, mechanics, artisans and technicians.

Construction has been begun of the $1,000,000 RKO laboratory in Hollywood, planned by Joseph I. Schenitzer, vice president of the company. It is to have a capacity of 60,000,000 feet of film a year.

The new Amos 'n' Andy special, "Check and Double Check," will be released in more than 300 theatres October 24.

Oklahoma Legislature to Consider State Censorship, Admission Tax in 1931

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 16.—A stormy session is expected in the Oklahoma legislature in January, 1931, when bills for admission tax and state film censorship are to be acted upon.

The censorship bill provides for appointment of a state board of censors, while the other proposed law asks an admission tax which will be used to help support weak schools of the state.
THERE have been many labels for Hollywood, some genuine and others spurious.

One, however, which is particularly suitable is Lee Marcus' "Hollywood is the bottleneck of the film industry."

Out of Hollywood must come a quality product that will maintain the motion picture industry in a prosperous condition, says the executive vice-president of RKO Radio Pictures. Failing in that, the entire business—the producer, the distributor and the exhibitor—must suffer.

But, says Marcus, the studios have not failed. They are producing many fine pictures, pictures which are box office in every respect. The production of excellent subjects is no longer a problem. The real problem now, he says, is making better the poor pictures which are turned out.

Exhibitors everywhere will "second" that!

"Here, read this!"

One of the prominent film advertising executives handed me the book section of one of New York's morning dailies. He directed my attention to the advertising on new and current fiction. The copy for one ad in particular caught the eye of the reader through the use of the word prostitution.

"If we tried such advertising," said the executive, "we would be up to our neck in hot water. There would be a flood of letters from reformers throughout the country. The things that are banned in film advertising are permitted to go uncensored in other types of advertising. Let the reformers get busy for a while on other industries."

Some de luxe houses, in using the carving knife on overhead, have so cheapened their stagethows that one is reminded of the tank town days when the second raters were at the receiving end of what was left in Uncle Josh's garden after the luscious tomatoes had been picked for the family table.

A cheaply assembled stagethow in a deluxe theatre is as inappropriate as One Eyed Connolly's attendance at a debutante's coming out party.

While it may be true that a stagethow does not build attendance, especially if the picture is box office, it is just as true that a poor stagethow adds nothing to the prestige of the theatre.

Only four companies have merged this week, according to dizzy rumors. Your guess is as good as any.

JAY M. SHRECK.
Philadelphia Musicians Return; St. Louis Settlement Is Near Compromise to Give 150 Musicians Work in Philadelphia—
Tacoma Bombings Bring Protests from Associated Industries—
Fox Washington Chain Closing Two Grays Harbor Houses

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Exhibitors and musicians in St. Louis have entered into another seven-day armistice following a conference here with Joseph Weber, president of the American Federation of Musicians. The musicians demand 150 members in de luxe houses; exhibitors are holding out for 75.

Termination of two strikes of musicians, each of which has lasted more than a month, was in sight today. At Philadelphia, the musicians under a compromise contract will return to work October 24. At St. Louis, early settlement was awaited with the opening of peace negotiations in New York with executives of five large chains.

At Tacoma the recent bombing of the Community and Sunset theatres brought out statements by the Associated Industries of Tacoma and the Tacoma Theatre Owners Association which occupied half a page in the Daily Ledger.

Another echo of operators’ demands for two men in the projection booth is the closing of the two Grays Harbor theatres of Fox Washington theatres, effective October 24. This will leave only two houses in Aberdeen and none in Hoquiam.

At Sacramento, Cal., sympathizers of striking operators were bluffed for assaults upon Lowell Russell and Harold Freitas, projectionists. Russell was beaten and an attempt was made to stab him, he told the police.

Shattering of the glass in the booth of the Creighton theatre at Fort Wayne, Ind., while the evening show was in progress, was being investigated by police on the theory that it was perpetrated by sympathizers with the operators’ union in a move to force a new wage scale. Sometime ago patriots were run out of the theatre by stench bombs, and later the owner, threatened, obtained a court injunction to prevent molestation of the theatre.

Tacoma Industries
Deplorably Damaging

TACOMA, Oct. 16.—Congratulating the community theatre on its reopening following a recent bomb threat, the Associated Industries of Tacoma of which J. C. Osborne is manager, in a newspaper announcement stated in part:

“Violence in labor disputes is a bad thing, and defeats itself at any time, but when it takes a form of using dynamite, it then becomes a cause for all good citizens to take cognizance of. The Associated Industries distinctly insists no one of this crime.”

And the Tacoma Theatre Owners Association, in an open letter which with the Associated Industries statement took half a page in the Tacoma Public Ledger, explained: “At this time, we as owners and managers of neighborhood theatres wish to say that no destructive tactics will be used by us in retaliation against the destructive efforts against the Community and Sunset theatres.”

The statement added that a group of officials “representing an organized labor in the city of Tacoma, gave the mayor assurance that their members would not participate in any violent acts.”

150 Musicians Get Work in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16.—Decision of striking musicians to return to work October 24 follows a three days’ conference with the signing of a contract in which both sides made concessions. Approximately 150 men will be employed during the coming year by Warner Brothers and Fox in Philadelphia, whereas the musicians demanded that all 244 men be re-employed. The musicians have been on strike since September 11.

Early Settlement Seen at St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 16.—Early settlement of the dispute between the Musicians Mutual Benefit Association and the owners of motion picture theatres in St. Louis, which has resulted in the complete elimination of pit and stage orchestras, organists and stage shows in the Mound City since September 1, seemed close at hand when a delegation of the musicians departed for New York to open a series of peace negotiations with the national heads of Public, Warner Brothers, Loew’s, Fox and Radio-Keith-Orpheum.

Pending the outcome of these new conferences the threatened sympathetic strike of projectionists and stage hands was postponed.

The threatened strike would involve 350 projectionists and 300 stage workers.

Blast at Picketed Theatre

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 16.—A charge of dynamite was exploded near the rear wall of the Granada, local suburban house, one hour after the theatre closed. No damage was done to the building or its contents.

Stephen Parker, the manager, has made no direct accusations but reports that his theatre has been picketed for a year. He says he has paid union wages but has refused to use two operators.
Louisiana Allied Drops Attack On 60-Day First Run Protection

[By Special Correspondent to the Herald-World]

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 16.—The confusion which marked meetings between film exhibitors, distributors and the Film Board of Trade over the problems of zoning and protection, has been eliminated and it is only a matter of time now before all parties will agree to a plan which is likely to meet with the approval of the Hays office. David Palfreyman of the M P I D A offices spent a day here last weekend in conference with contending parties, and left for Dallas, expressing belief that everything will be settled by Saturday.

Palfreyman's task was greatly simplified by the action of the Louisiana Allied Association of Motion Picture Exhibitors which removed its opposition to 60 days' protection on first-run houses, and agreed to allow the third run house, in a zone 30 days' protection, proviso a clause, inserted that protection begins as soon as the protection is available for that run and includes the time it plays the theatre. A new clause, which will allow the theatre next time to play the picture first if its predecessor does not book within the 30 days, was added. Palfreyman expressed himself as satisfied with this plan, saying it was very fair. In fact, it was the original plan, with alterations, submitted by the Film Board of Trade.

United Theatres Objects

The only parties not satisfied at present are United Theatres, Inc., who operate eighteen second-run houses and demanded 45 days' protection on all their showings. Palfreyman said that if a fair plan is approved by the Hays office it will be adopted regardless of the dissatisfaction of any one group.

The plan which is said to meet with al-most universal approval accepts the zoning published in the last issue of Exhibitors Herald-World and provides for 60 days' maximum protection on all first-run houses, protection starting from the time of the showing. Then on the sixty-first day the picture is available for the first of the second-run houses due to get it. Second-run protection of thirty days begins at this time and if the picture has not been played by the thirty-first day, it is released for the next house in line, whose protection of fifteen days begins immediately at the end of the thirty-first day. Should there be a third house in the zone, it may have the picture at the sixteenth day. A clause to protect distributors provides that houses contributing to a chain, and not booking them within the protected time, must play them when the protection of the next house in line expires.

Allied Protects Committee at First

Though things ended up well and Palfreyman, when interviewed Friday, was optimistic, this didn't open up so well. The Louisiana Allied Association of Motion Picture Exhibitors began proceedings by demanding the withdrawal of the triumvirate which represented distributors and the Film Board of Trade. As the Allied group would give no reason for this ultimatum, Palfreyman rejected it, though members of the group afterwards told correspondents that it was their opinion that the three in question—Joe Brown of Pathe, Jim Bryant of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and N. E. Eberle of Educational, all exchange men—had proved unsatisfactory to them in their work on the protection plan. Brown, when asked shortly afterward what he thought of this ultimatum of the Allied group, said he didn't know a thing about it.

Palfreyman, who settled the Kansas tangle after three months' deliberation, didn't consider the New Orleans situation so difficult. He said that most dissension arose from lack of understanding and that things were generally straightened out by explanation.

He further pointed out that a certain first-run house, at present demanding only fifteen days' protection, would probably continue to do so, as it was a vaudeville house which could not afford to pay the highest rentals for films, as most of the house budget was tied up in the vaudeville acts, consequently distributors had to make up this difference in their rentals to second and third-run houses. As a result of this, Palfreyman said, he didn't see that second and third-run houses will be willing to pay a larger booking rental.

Indianapolis Manager Held for Questioning in $2200 Alamo Holdup

(Special to the Herald-World)

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 16.—Maurice Magers, manager of the Alamo theatre here, has been held for questioning in connection with the $2,200 robbery of the Alamo's safe.

The money stolen was week-end receipts from a chain of four small houses owned by Manny Marcus, formerly of Fort Wayne, Ind. Magers was found after the robbery tied and gagged in the fan room on the second floor of the Alamo. He told police he had been kidnapped by two men who forced him to open the safe.

"Flood" Forces Patrons to Leave

(Special to the Herald-World)

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 16.—Some person, with an odd idea of practical joking, entered the rest rooms of the Old Market Theatre here and turned on all the water faucets with the result that a miniature "flood" ensued, causing a number of patrons to leave. The manager, Mrs. Mary Hart, has asked the police to search for the culprit.

New Technicolor Lens Adds Detail To Film: Kalmus

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Dr. Herbert T. Kalmus, president of Technicolor, has announced the perfection of a new lens for Technicolor cameras, the result of 16 years of experimental work, which is said to widen the field of sharp focus and bring into background definitions not possible before.

The new lens is understood to be responsible for the improvement of color work in recent Technicolor pictures.

"Lenses designing is one of the most difficult problems known to man," said Dr. Kalmus. "In order to obtain proper lenses for Technicolor photography we have found it necessary to organize our own scientists who could concentrate for years, if necessary, on one minute problem."

The executive pointed out that the first Technicolor lens was designed by the experts of the research staff a dozen years ago. Since that time constant improvement has been sought.

"The result," he said, "is the new Technicolor lens which, as demonstrated by current pictures, marks a tremendous advance in Technicolor photography."

"War Nurse" to Supplant "The Big House" Oct. 23 At the Astor Theatre

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—After a Broadway run of four months, "The Big House," MGM production, is scheduled to be supplanted at the Astor theatre by "War Nurse" on October 23.

This production, a sequel to MGM directorial vehicle for Selwyn, and is the result of a six months stay in Hollywood. David was written by Dudley Nichols, produced by Becky Gardiner and Joe Farnham from the novel, which narrates the experiences of volunteer nurses in the war. As plans, it is understood, call for Selwyn to divide his time between the stage and screen, he will return to Hollywood in November to begin preparations for a new picture.
Better Theatres Fall Buyers Number

CONTAINING the most complete and reliable directories of the motion picture theatre equipment business ever published, this section of the next issue of the HERALD-WORLD will raise even higher those superior standards which its predecessors set in the motion picture trade paper field.

THE EQUIPMENT INDEX • THEATRE ARCHITECTS
WHO'S WHO • THEATRE SUPPLY DEALERS

These special departments alone will contain nearly 60 pages of data describing the products that the motion picture theatre uses, naming the firms who make and distribute them, their officers, and the specialists who are experts in the designing of the modern theatre building—all this information compiled and recomposed, checked and double-checked by the Better Theatres organization. Added to these directories will be selected for their timeliness, their practical helpfulness and stimulation, articles, pictures, drawings and plans emphasizing Better Theatres' proven character as a medium of instruction and source of ideas for all concerned in the motion picture theatre. The New Lighted and Modern Situation in Business and Construction... Estimating Your Acoustical Treatment Costs... Recent Creations in Theatre Design... Architectural Discussions... Technical Departments—these and a host of other features will be included in a section of more than 125 pages. With the October 25th issue of the HERALD-WORLD, the Fall Buyers Number of Better Theatres—mirror of the theatre and equipment world

EDITORIAL FEATURES

Labor Situation Will Be Aired On Floor of MPTOA Meeting

Adoption of New Standard Exhibition Contract Considered Likely at Philadelphia Gathering November 10-12—Patrick Hurley, Hays and Eastman Expected to Attend

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The labor situation which has developed through the introduction of talking pictures will be one of the primary subjects for discussion at the annual convention of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America, which will be held at the Benjamin Franklin hotel in Philadelphia November 10, 11 and 12.

Labor demands on theatres for the employment of musicians and additional projectionists will be two of the phases of this situation to be brought to the floor of the convention.

Definite action will be taken, it is thought, on the new standard exhibition contract and arbitration regulations which were drafted at the 3-5-3 conference held in Atlantic City early this summer. This meeting was attended by representatives of distributors, Allied States Association, the MPTOA and the affiliated theatres.

M. A. Lightman, president of the MPTOA, will discuss the contract from the standpoint of the exhibitor, and it is expected that Sidney R. Kent, who was chairman of the drafting committee, will present the views of the distributor.

Leaders are confident that the contract as drafted will be adopted.

Secretary of War Invited

Final plans for the convention are being discussed today in Philadelphia at the offices of Jay Emanuel, national treasurer and general chairman of the national committee division of the convention. Mike O'Toole of national headquarters here left yesterday for Washington D.C.

Leaders of American government and industry are expected to address the convention, among them being Patrick Hurley, secretary of war, who has been invited to attend the banquet on Armistice night.

Expect Hays and Eastman Will H. Hays and George Eastman are expected to attend the banquet or one of the sessions. Producers have promised that every effort will be made to have leading stars and directors present.

In addition to Emanuel, those in charge of convention arrangements are: Lew Fizoz, general chairman of the Pennsylvania committee.

Senator Frank J. Harris, chairman of the Western Pennsylvania committee.

Abe Einstein of the Warner-Stanley theatres, chairman of publicity.

David Barrist, vice chairman of publicity.

It is expected that General W. W. Atterbury of the Pennsylvania railroad will speak on "Service to the Community."

Hotel reservations should be sent immediately to the Benjamin Franklin hotel, or to Mike O'Toole, Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America, 1600 Broadway, New York City.

Takes Complete Charge of Building DETROIT—William Baynor, managing director of the Detroit Fox theatre, has been given complete charge of the Fox theatre building.

W. E. Branson Appointed Assistant to Pathe Sales Manager at Home Office

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—W. E. Branson, formerly branch manager in St. Louis for Pathe, has been appointed assistant to the sales manager at the home office, according to E. J. O'Leary, general sales manager.

Branson has been connected with the Pathe sales organization since his graduation from the University of Minnesota. In 1929 he was made branch manager of the Des Moines office and was instrumental in bringing that office to second place in the list of Pathe exchanges in the country. In January of this year, he received another promotion, to the position of branch manager in St. Louis, followed by this latest appointment as assistant to O'Leary's ability.

O'Leary's executive staff now includes the following: John F. McAlloon and Branson, assistant to the general sales manager; E. J. McEvoy, Eastern division sales manager; W. E. Callaway, sales manager for Southern division; H. S. Lorch, Midwestern division manager; Sales, and J. H. McIntyre, Western division.

A. C. Fuller Re-elected President of National Better Business Bureau

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—A. C. Fuller of Hartford, Conn., president of the Fuller Brush Company, was re-elected president of the National Better Business Bureau at the annual meeting here. C. W. Banta, vice president of the Bank of America, New York, was re-elected secretary and treasurer.

H. C. Osborn, president of the American Multigraph Company, Cleveland, was named vice president, succeeding William A. Hart. Hart, who is director of advertising for the E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Company, of Wilmington, Del., has taken a position on the board of directors.

Edward L. Greene, general manager, in his summary report, points out that the National Better Business Bureau is aiding industrial groups to "act in their own behalf to eliminate unfair practices through a system of self regulation."

Sales Magazine Runs Herald-World Review Of Picture Industry

An article on business aspects of the motion picture industry, the data for which compiled by EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD, appears in the annual fall reference number of Sales Management, published this month in New York.

Items discussed in the survey by the Herald-World include volume of business, products consumed, capital invested, number of persons employed, sound-equipped and silent theatres, trend of the industry, outstanding books of the year, sources of film information and leading trade associations.

The reference issue of Sales Management contains 376 pages. It gives a summary of the production, distribution and marketing conditions in all leading industries. It is published by Sales Management, Inc.
Five Are Elected to Fox Film Board; New General Theatres Issue

Name Murray W. Dodge, Charles B. Stuart, W. S. Ingold, J. L. Kuser and Dryden Kuser, All High in Financial Circles

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—A vital step in the financial reorganization of Fox Film Corporation is believed to have been taken with the election to the board of directors of five men ranking high in financial circles of New York.

The new directors are Murray W. Dodge, vice president of the Chase Securities Company; Charles B. Smart, vice president of Halsey, Stuart & Company; W. S. Ingold, of Fyndell & Company; J. L. Kuser and Dryden Kuser.

New General Theatres Issue

At the same time, the board approved a plan by which the present outstanding stock of General Theatres Corporation, paying no dividends, is to be retired, and one share of preferred stock paying $3 annually and two shares of common stock are to be issued for every three outstanding shares of General Theatres. General Theatres Corporation is the holding company for Fox Film, to which William Fox’s holdings of 300,001 shares of B stock, together with the entire 100,000 shares of Fox Theatres Corporation stock, were sold for about $16,000,000 last May.

The new issue of preferred will be convertible into common on a basis of four-fifths of a share for each preferred share, subject to redemption at $32.50 a share. The intention stated is to inaugurate dividends immediately at the rate of 75 cents quarterly. Outstanding preferred after reclassification will equal 949,318 shares of three dollar convertible preferred and 1,698,637 shares of common.

Financial Solution Seen

A strong break on the exchange of Fox Film to 29 last week reflected the market’s unsettlement over the urgent financial obligations of the company, including a note of $55,000,000 due in April, 1931. The election to the board of the banking representatives is understood to have paved the way for the solution of immediate financial problems.

On the Chicago exchange early Tuesday General Theatres Equipment shares dropped to 17½, but climbed back rapidly to a gain of 3½, points as the first reports of the new plans were heard. The definite announcement came after the market closed.

A. T. & T. Earnings Are $2.55 a Share During Third Quarter of Year

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The American Telephone and Telegraph Company has reported net earnings of $1,728,049 for the third quarter, equivalent to $2.55 a share. This figure is based on the 16,323,854 shares outstanding.

In the second quarter the company earned $2.77 on 14,987,506 shares. Earnings for the third quarter of 1929 were $3.10 a share. For the nine months ended September 30, 1930, the company shows a net of $8.13 a share, compared to $9.24 for the corresponding period of 1929.

Blast on Pathe Location Results in 11 Casualties

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—The Pathe company, shooting “The Painted Desert,” returned to Hollywood today with 11 casualties. The injuries were caused by an explosion Saturday. Nitroglycerine was set off in the last scene of the picture. It is likely that another director will be spared to replace Howard Higin, whose ankle was broken.

General Electric Earns $1.47 a Share for First 9 Months of This Year

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Report of the earnings of General Electric for the first nine months of 1930 shows a net profit of $42,318,708 on common stock, or $1.47 a share. The company earned $1.60 a share for the same period last year.

Orders received during the first nine months of this year, according to Gerard Swope, president, amounted to $297,653,832, as against $347,404,470 for the first three-quarters of 1929. The report reveals that the difference between the two nine-months periods in sales is not so great, with $397,868,541 for the first nine months of this year, compared to $381,812,888 for the corresponding period of 1929.

Swope explained that because of the transfer of the radio receiving set and tube business orders received, sales billed for net income this year do not include radio sets and tubes. Income received is included in “other income.”

R K O Buys U. S. Rights
On English Production

(Special to the Herald-World)

Captain Harold Auten, managing director in this country for British International, acted for the latter company in the negotiations with R K O. Joseph L. Schnitzer, president of the American company, pointed out in making the announcement that the foreign pictures may expect a cordial reception from American distributors when they possess real merit.

Fox May Buy House

(Special to the Herald-World)

SAN ANTONIO, TEX., Oct. 16.—According to local press reports, the William Fox theatre chain is now weighing offers for a house in the Alamo City. None of the San Antonio theatres are for sale at present, although there are a few good-sized open that would make a fine location for a theatre.

SECURITIES PRICE RANGE
Week Ending October 15

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Stock</th>
<th>Sales High</th>
<th>Sales Low</th>
<th>Sale Close</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>American English</td>
<td>800</td>
<td>7½</td>
<td>7½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brown-Shelma-Gould</td>
<td>6,300</td>
<td>7½</td>
<td>7½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Celotex</td>
<td>11,500</td>
<td>7½</td>
<td>7½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. et al.</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>7½</td>
<td>7½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. Bd.</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>7½</td>
<td>7½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Consolidated Film</td>
<td>10,200</td>
<td>17½</td>
<td>17½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. Bd.</td>
<td>250</td>
<td>17½</td>
<td>17½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eastern Film</td>
<td>4,100</td>
<td>15½</td>
<td>15½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. Bd.</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>15½</td>
<td>15½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Electric Storage Battery</td>
<td>500</td>
<td>25½</td>
<td>25½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fox Film “A”</td>
<td>369,700</td>
<td>15½</td>
<td>15½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gen. Theatre Equipment</td>
<td>129,000</td>
<td>15½</td>
<td>15½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Keith Alas Orphanage, pfd,</td>
<td>500</td>
<td>15½</td>
<td>15½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lowes, Inc.</td>
<td>3,000</td>
<td>15½</td>
<td>15½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. Bd.</td>
<td>750</td>
<td>15½</td>
<td>15½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Moth Mayor, pfd.</td>
<td>1,000</td>
<td>25½</td>
<td>25½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mohawk Carpet</td>
<td>2,800</td>
<td>25½</td>
<td>25½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paramount</td>
<td>165,400</td>
<td>15½</td>
<td>15½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pasche Exchange</td>
<td>2,500</td>
<td>25½</td>
<td>25½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. Bd.</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>25½</td>
<td>25½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Radio Corporation</td>
<td>497,300</td>
<td>25½</td>
<td>25½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. Bd. “A”</td>
<td>1,000</td>
<td>25½</td>
<td>25½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. Bd. “B”</td>
<td>1,000</td>
<td>25½</td>
<td>25½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. Bd. “C”</td>
<td>2,500</td>
<td>25½</td>
<td>25½</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

NEW YORK SECURITIES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Stock</th>
<th>Sales High</th>
<th>Sales Low</th>
<th>Sale Close</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Radio Keith Orphanage</td>
<td>11,100</td>
<td>11½</td>
<td>11½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Suburt Theatres</td>
<td>1,500</td>
<td>11½</td>
<td>11½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Universal Pie 1st pfd</td>
<td>50</td>
<td>11½</td>
<td>11½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Warner Brothers</td>
<td>750</td>
<td>11½</td>
<td>11½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. Bd.</td>
<td>350</td>
<td>11½</td>
<td>11½</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Stock</th>
<th>Sales High</th>
<th>Sales Low</th>
<th>Sale Close</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Gen. Theat., Inc.</td>
<td>4,510</td>
<td>3½</td>
<td>3½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Marks Brothers et al.</td>
<td>1,150</td>
<td>3½</td>
<td>3½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morgan Litho</td>
<td>3,000</td>
<td>3½</td>
<td>3½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>U. S. Gypsum</td>
<td>10,000</td>
<td>3½</td>
<td>3½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. Bd.</td>
<td>10,000</td>
<td>3½</td>
<td>3½</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

NEW YORK CURB

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Stock</th>
<th>Sales High</th>
<th>Sales Low</th>
<th>Sale Close</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Columbia Pictures</td>
<td>3,000</td>
<td>3½</td>
<td>3½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. Theat.</td>
<td>1,500</td>
<td>3½</td>
<td>3½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fox Theatre</td>
<td>1,000</td>
<td>3½</td>
<td>3½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Loew’s Theatre</td>
<td>1,000</td>
<td>3½</td>
<td>3½</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. war</td>
<td>2,000</td>
<td>3½</td>
<td>3½</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

E X H I B I T O R S  H E R A L D - W O R L D
October 18, 1930
Back after a great vacation in Europe. Buster Keaton and his wife (Natalie Talmadge) snapped by the M G M cameraman on their return. Buster’s last M G M film was “Doughboys.”

French aces visit studioland. Major Dieudonne Coste and Lieutenant Maurice Bellonte, who were guests of the young executive, Carl Laemmle, Jr., at the studios in Universal City.

Hal Wallis, co-production executive at the First National studios, with his wife, Louise Fazenda, snapped at the Grand Central station. The next day they sailed for Europe.

No. These are not doll houses, but the houses on the main street of Osage, Oklahoma, in model form, the main street of which is being constructed in California for the filming of Edna Ferber’s novel, “Cimarron.” Max Ree, art director for Radio Pictures, is shown with his handiwork. The street will be 1,000 feet long.

In idle moments, between times when the cameras are taking a rest, gracious Elsie Ferguson amuses herself at the piano, and we should imagine it would be delightful just to sit and watch beautiful fingers flutter across the keys. She recently completed “Scarlet Pages,” a picture for First National.
Far out in the wilderness, by a little cabin, where sunlight casts checkered shadows upon a carpet that is deep and soft, and where great pines grow high and polish the stars at night, and where sometimes danger lurks—this was the setting for that picture of the outdoors, which has recently been completed by First National, entitled, "The Girl of the Golden West," and starring Ann Harding and James Rennie.

We can imagine a lot more comfortable ways of staging an endurance contest, but charming Dorothy Jordan, lovely MGM star, seems to find it conducive to deep thought. She is seen in "Min and Bill."

Just one of the many "accoutrements" necessary to the filming of a picture. Allan Crosland uses an electrically amplified loud speaker while directing the mass scenes in Warner Brothers "Captain Thunder."

We'll tell you at the start that the steed upon which this bold and fearless "bandit" is seated has four legs. They say pictures don't lie, but in this case—well, the bandit is Dorothy Knapp, and Bob Carney and Si Wills are the victims of this "Holding Up Four of a Kind" in between scenes of the play. All three are featured in Pathé's Western burlesque, "Under a Cock-Eyed Moon," which Wallace Fox is directing.
Long, long ago, long, long ago. Those old "bikes" had some wheel base, didn't they? Irene Dunne, who plays in Radio Pictures "Cimarron," takes her first lessons in riding the 1889 "vintage."

A jolly moment in a picture that is full of thrills, and clanging bells, and smoke and water. But, as in all things, there are moments of fun. Tiffany has completed the sound version of "The Third Alarm," that old story that thrilled them through and through years ago, when the old Essanay studio in Chicago did the work. Here are James Hall, Paul Hurst and Hobart Bosworth, with some of their crew.

This looks like the calm before a storm, but perhaps it won't seem that way when sound enters in. Charlotte Greenwood, the "recipient" of the vase (actions would indicate that, we should judge) may be thinking that it is a shame to waste a perfectly good vase, but Wilfred Lucas seems quite intent upon his target. They both appear in the new Educational Tuxedo Comedy, with the beatific title, "Love Your Neighbor."

Little efforts like this are what build muscle. At least, that's what Kane Richmond, the star of Universal's series, "The Leather Pushers," thinks. A half hour a day of this helps to pack a mean wallop.
Erpi Keeps Parts Worth Half Million Available in 39 Branches

But with 95,000 Shoves Weekly on Western Electric Sound Systems, Interruptions Average Less Than One Per Theatre Annually

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Some particularly interesting facts and figures relative to the organization and performance of the service department of Erpi in the United States reveal among other things that parts valued at $500,000 are always available for emergencies in 39 branch offices throughout the country.

The technical staff is composed of 600 persons, with 160 handling the clerical end. The country is divided into 13 divisions, 46 districts and 280 territories.

Western Electric sound systems at present give 95,000 shows weekly, with standard of efficiency attained resulting in an average of less than one interruption per theatre annually. More detail in this connection shows that in service given from over 300 points, on January 1, 1929, the record was one interruption in 200 shows; on the same date in 1930, one interruption in 600 shows; and on October 1, 1930, one in 1,600 shows.

Total installations of the sound system have reached the figure of 4,765, of which 4,501 are theatre installations. Three thousand service calls are made per week, and 300 technical inspection calls in the same period.

It is estimated that the service department technical staff travels 100,000 miles weekly, averaging 360 miles per territory, and that approximately two emergency calls are answered monthly by airplane.

An average of 22 minutes is required to answer emergency calls for the entire greater New York area, and one and one-half hours for the whole country.

Installations Grow In Spain and Brazil

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—With Western Electric installations showing an increase of four, from 19 to 23, in Brazil, and one to 32 in Spain, the world total has reached the figure of 6,870, according to the latest report.

Of this number, 4,549 are in the United States and 2,251 in the foreign field.

September Is Big Month for Studios in Berlin; Over-Production Feared Now

12 Out of 13 Producing Plants Kept Busy—Americans Coming in—Emil Jannings to Make New Talker for U F A

(By Berlin Correspondent of the Herald-World)

BERLIN, Oct. 6 (By Mail).—There is great activity in the Berlin sound studios. Twelve of the thirteen studios were occupied in September, and of the 338 studio-working-days of the month only 61 were idle.

The four Tofa studios are now being equipped for sound production. The six Staiken studios are still closed.

There is no scarcity of German talkies now. Producers are beginning to fear that the market may get oversupplied and shorter runs may reduce the profits.

Mostly Domestic Pictures

Mostly domestic pictures are running. Americans are beginning to appear on the screen. "Hallelujah!" had a splendid reception and was entitled to it. A French picture with the original dialogue, "Les toits de Paris," a René Clair production, has been six weeks on one Berlin theatre and in another West End house patrons seeking admission began to riot and a police force had to restore order.

The cooler season has brought better attendance, but it is still below last year’s. The growing unemployment makes itself felt, especially in smaller houses.

Jannings with Ufa Again

Jannings has been signed for one more Ufa picture. His first talkie, "The Blue Angel," draws crowds in every European country. The second one, "The Darling of the Gods," will have its Berlin premier on October 13. Herr Jannings is now on tour with a theatrical company, appearing in two German plays in 15 Continental towns, including Bundesgebiet, Prague, Amsterdam, the Hague, Antwerp and Brussels.

3 Sound Newsreels

There are now three sound-newsreels running in Germany: Fox Movietone, the Ufa and the Emelka-News. The government allows all the topical reduced entertainment tax, if their educational value is certified by the Lamme Committee, but such a certificate has in no case been granted yet.

Warners Seek Stage To Produce "Illicit"

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Warners Brothers is reported to be seeking a theatre for the stage production of "Illicit," the play which is now being completed as a Vitaphone special.

The usual procedure of first producing a play on the stage and then on the screen was disregarded by Warners in this case.

Fox Hollywood Robbed In Portland; Loot Is $250

(Special to the Herald-World)

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 16.—The box office of the Fox Hollywood, local suburban house, was robbed of $250 by a well-dressed youth who held up the cashier shortly before closing time.

"CHIC" CHATS

WE understand that Mary Garden, opera singer, has expressed the belief that grand opera is doomed by the advance of sound films, particularly with the expected addition of three dimensional photography. That is in line with something with reference to the legitimate stage before. It seems very likely that rather than talking motion pictures spoiling the end of grand opera, it will serve to open the world to the public to the enjoyment of productions on the living operatic stage.

It seems no more likely that motion pictures will "kill" opera than that the radio will destroy all desire on the part of a certain class of the population to hear concert stars in person. An extremely reasonable idea has been voiced to the effect that the hardships inflicted upon musicians by the introduction of sound apparatus in the picture houses might not have been so severe if reasons for economy had not been so pressing within recent months. The musicians to the theatre, it is said, is entirely a possibility with the approach of a new wave of prosperity.

There need for fear that between the legitimate and the talking pictures, since a picture always will remain a picture, though the introduction of talking has made it clearer, more complete and easier in every way than it has ever been before.

William Brandt, after many long years connected with the industry as exhibitor and otherwise, recently purchased a group of theatres in and about New York for the showing of legitimate plays. Now, we hear he has booked Pathe features of the 1930-31 product for exhibition in his circuit of houses on Sunday. It’s a great box office idea, but the real answer is: Once a picture man, always a picture man!

The other day something happened at one of the Broadway picture houses which turned out to be amusing enough, but might well have developed into a serious situation. An individual, apparently unknown, informed police headquarters that a riot, with gun play as an added feature, was expected to happen at this particular theatre. Commissioner Mulrooney’s efficient “finest” immediately reported to the station, and about 25 patrolmen armed for riot duty, several ambulances and all the other paraphernalia necessary to the quelling of a disturbance. On their arrival, they discovered a just a false alarm, otherwise known as a practical joke. Hanging is rather a too decent method for the disposal of this particular brand of ornercy human animal!

Fox Theatres Corporation does believe in the box office value of vaudeville as an added attraction to the feature picture after all. Within the next two weeks, four Brooklyn houses on the circuit will install the stage acts. Without any connection whatever with Fox or any other chain, may it be said that a good vaudeville bill will help a feature picture, but that a poor presentation is apt to keep people away who might otherwise be excellent word of mouth advertising for both film and the house showing it. We believe that folks would rather see a good picture without vaudeville than a fair picture with fair vaudeville.

"CHIC" AARONSON

Eugene Emmick Injured

(Special to the Herald-World)

SAN FRANCISCO.—Eugene H. Emmick, president of the Golden State Theatre & Realty Corporation chain of houses in this city and in Northern California, received concussion of the brain and severe injuries in an automobile accident near San Jose.
Columbia Gains Three Millions Over Nine Months Sales in 1929

Executives Credit Showing to Excellent Productions and Stars for Coming Season in "Superior Group"—Many Circuits Signed Since October 1

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Columbia Pictures reports an increase in sales up to October 1, 1930, amounting to approximately $3,000,000 more than at the same date last year.

Executives attribute much of the present season’s success, registered in spite of supposed depressed business conditions, to the excellent lineup of productions and stars that Columbia has listed for the coming season in its Superior group.

Among the circuits recently signed by the producing company for its product, a list of which has been compiled for the Superior group since October 1, is:

Greenfield Theatres and Amusement Company, Ltd., San Francisco and Honolulu.

Coston Booking Circuit, Chicago.

Midwest Theatres, Chicago.

Schoenstadt & Sons, Chicago.

Steine & Wiedoff, Indiana.

Vonderschmidt, Indiana.

Griffith Amusement Co., Oklahoma.

Lucas, Atlanta.

Robb & Rowley, Texas.

Carte Theatre Chain, Texas.

Schine Chain Theatres, New York

Associated Theatres, Cleveland.

Leikowitz & Greenberger, Cleveland.

Winner & Vincent Theatres, Pennsylvania.

Century Circuit, New York.

Rosenblatt Theatres, New York.

Manhattan Playhouse Theatres, New York.

Springer Cocalis Circuit, New York.

Leo Brecher, New York.

Current and forthcoming productions which are believed to have contributed to Columbia’s prosperous report include: "Rain or Shine," "Arizona," "Criminal Code," "Subway Express," "Brothers," and the adaptation of such stories as "Tol’able David," "The Outlaw," and "Madonna of the Streets."

Warner Creates New Zone After Acquiring Schine-Harris Houses

CLEVELAND, Oct. 16.—Warner Brothers Theatres, following its acquisition of a group of Schine and Harris houses in Ohio, has created a new zone to handle these houses. Phil Gleichman, formerly district manager of the Pittsburgh zone, has been appointed manager of the new zone by Spyros Skouras.

The new zone will include, in addition to the Schine and Harris acquisitions, a number of theatres that were recently handled by the Pittsburgh office. The total number under Gleichman’s direction is 25 at the present time. It is expected that this string will be increased this month.

Personnel of the local zone office includes Arthur M. Brant, who was transferred from Atlantic City to handle publicity for Ohio; Sam Blowitz, chief booker; Joe Lissauer, assistant booker; R. H. Giles, sound technician; James E. Paunish, contact manager; Frank N. Phelps, George Lynch and George Riester, district managers.

Duncan A. Dobie, Jr.,

Elects Publisher of Two Film Magazines

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Duncan A. Dobie, Jr., has been elected publisher of "Motion Picture Magazine" and "Motion Picture Classic." This announcement is made by Motion Picture Publications, Inc.

Dobie has been associated with the publishing company in executive capacities for 16 years, his first position being in the advertising department.

Bandit Ties Up Four, Fires One Shot, Flees

SHREVEPORT, LA., Oct. 16.—After capturing three negro porters and A. J. Voight, building engineer, wiring their hands and feet together and placing adhesive tape over their mouths, a lone bandit, about 35, made an unsuccessful attempt to hold up the Strand theatre in the heart of the downtown section here today. The bandit fired one shot at Harry Ehrlich, vice president of the theatre, when Ehrlich refused to open the safe. The shot missed Ehrlich and embedded itself in the wall. The robber escaped by running down an alley. No money was obtained.
Tiffany Studios Running at Fast Pace Upon 1930-31 Product

Phil Goldstone Speeds Things Up—"The Third Alarm" and Cruze's "She Got What She Wanted" Already Done—Start on "Aloha"

[By Special Correspondent to the Herald-World]

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Under the leadership of Phil Goldstone, chief studio executive for Tiffany, the film plant is understood to be running a fast pace on the 1930-31 program. "The Third Alarm," first Tiffany super production, with James Hall, Hobart Bosworth, Anita Louise and Mary Doran; and James Cruze's first special for the company, "She Got What She Wanted," featuring Betty Compson and Lee Tracy, are already finished.

PRODUCTION work has begun on "Aloha," South Sea story written and directed by Al Rogell, with a cast including Ben Lyon, Raquel Torres, Robert Eden, Thelma Todd and others. A second feature under way is "The Single Sin," an original screen story by A. P. Younger. The cast is headed by June Collyer, and the story is written in the style of "Extravagance," written by James Mulhall and featuring Betty Compson and Lee Tracy in the support. Phil Rosen is directing.

The second special to be produced before the megaphone of James Cruze is expected to go into production shortly. James Whale, prominent English director of "Journey's End" and "Hell's Angels," is now conferring with George wre Dodge, executive vice president, and Phil Goldstone, on his second Tiffany production, as yet undecided.

Second Witwer Almost Done

The final stages of production on the second of the series of H. C. Witwer "Classics in Slung," are being completed under the direction of Frank Strayer, with Paul Hurst in the leading role. The series is being devoted to the Tiffany Talking Chimps, now at work on "The Little Divorcee," under Sig. Nisield's direction. The latest of the Westerns to enter production is "The Midnight Stage," the second of the Rex Lease vet series, directed by Richard Thorpe.

By reason of the pressure of production work at the Tiffany plant, Al Mannon and Lou Lewin, co-producers of the "Voice of Hollywood" series, are making this short subject at the Tec Art studios.

Over 1000 Pledges Given To Protest Sunday Shows

(KINGMAN, KANS., Oct. 16.—Delegates to the Southwestern Kansas conference of the Methodist Episcopal church went on record as opposed to Sunday shows during its session last week. More than 1,000 members, ministers and laymen, adopted a resolution protesting against Sunday opening of theatres and pledged their vote against such a move.

Rejects Repeal Petition

(GREENVILLE, MISS., Oct. 16.—The city council rejected a petition, signed by 300 persons, asking that the blue law ordinance be amended so as to make legal the operation of theatres between 1 and 7 p.m. on Sundays.

See III Omen in Measure

(SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—California theatre interests have taken the stand that the proposed Sunday closing of barber shops may be the beginning of a blue law reign in the state and are cooperating with the Anti-Blue Law Committee of California in fighting the measure.

The measure exempts charitable and recreational activities, including theatres. It will be voted on in November.

Mayor Refuses to Act

(READING, PA., Oct. 16.—The Ministerial Association has called a hall on its efforts to outlaw play films following the refusal of Mayor J. H. Stump, Socialist mayor, to sanction the movement.

A petition signed by 2,000 citizens was presented to the mayor, with the request that he order theatres to close on Sundays. The mayor took the stand, however, that as long as the performances were held as benefits for military organizations he was unable to act.

British Film Is Held Over for Extended Run At Dictate of Box Office

(new to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—"Atlantic," E. A. Dupont's latest talking production, has been held over for an extended run at the George M. Cohan theatre, where Harold Auten is supervising the showing of the product of British importers. The film is an important role in the story. So far Andre Segurola, who played in Universal's Spanish version of "The Cat Creeps," is the only other signed.

The German adaptation is to be written by Dr. Redlich, while the handling of the direction. Olga Tschecotova, European stage star, will enact the leading role, and Johannes Kiemann of Berlin is scheduled for the part of the story. Tala Birrell and J. Tiedtke are to appear prominently in the cast.

Much attention is being given the French production, to be directed by Marcel de Sano. Andree Deterling, young Parisian author, will do the French dialog and adaptation, and Ivan Petrovich will play the amorous "Baron Valmi." Arlette Marchal is to portray the feminine lead opposite him, and Tania Fedor of the Comedie Francaise has been given the only other role as yet assigned.

Makin' Whooppe at $100 a Stanza Now

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Eddie Cantor of 'Makin' Whooppe,' he is calling for help. He says he is badly in need of new stanzas for his comedy song hit "Makin' Whooppe." and consequently is paying $100 for new and suitable choruses to his ditty. During the New Amsterdam theatre's run of the Ziegfeld show here, Cantor used 28 verses at one time or another. For the screen version he used the original melody, with one of the old verses and three new choruses. According to the comedian, writing these rhymes is the only working he can do on promises. Suggestions for new verses are to be sent in by letter or in cash, and he promises checks by return mail.

U Starts Multilingual Production in 2 Weeks On "Boudoir Diplomat"

Await Arrival of Foreign Actors to Make Film in Three Languages

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Following the arrival within the next two weeks of a number of foreign stars, Universal will begin work on the multilingual production of "The Boudoir Diplomat," Spanish, German and French versions of the picture under the general supervision of Carl Laemmlc, Jr., production manager.

Arthur Gregor, Argentine director, will handle the Spanish version, with Baltasar Fernandez Cue doing the adaptation. Fausto Roca, Spanish legitimate actor, is on his way from Argentina, where he has just completed a stage engagement, to play the lead, and Amelia Senisterra, Latin American star, will arrive on the first flight of an important role in the film. So far Andres de Segurola, who played in Universal's Spanish version of "The Cat Creeps," is the only other signed.

The German adaptation is to be written by Dr. Redlich, while the handling of the direction. Olga Tschecotova, European stage star, will enact the leading role, and Johannes Kiemann of Berlin is scheduled for the part of the story. Tala Birrell and J. Tiedtke are to appear prominently in the cast.

Much attention is being given the French production, to be directed by Marcel de Sano. Andree Deterling, young Parisian author, will do the French dialog and adaptation, and Ivan Petrovich will play the amorous "Baron Valmi." Arlette Marchal is to portray the feminine lead opposite him, and Tania Fedor of the Comedie Francaise has been given the only other role as yet assigned.

Henry P. Brunet Back From European Visit

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Following a two months tour of Columbia Pictures' European offices, where he learned how the company uses the accounting and distributing system used by the company in America, Henry P. Brunet, manager of exchange operations, has returned.

The visit to London and Berlin was brought about in keeping with the producing company's policy of foreign expansion. Brunet has been associated with the work of these departments for several companies.
Blackguards by their record, demons under fire, four comrades made brothers by their hot fighting blood. Dashing, daring, devil-may-care, they hated discipline and loved action. Side by side in the French Foreign Legion, these four ruffians from four nations played the game like men. A thrilling story of loyalty tested by the treachery of a woman.
No questions asked! That's why the Foreign Legion is the goal of fighting men from every corner of the earth—men with pasts to hide, men betrayed by fortunes of war or tricked by wiles of women. A gang of lost souls, of souls drugged by defeat and desperation. In the Legion, they get plenty of the one thing they still enjoy—a fight! And how they fight!
Here's the realistic, unsweetened story of life of four reckless, rowdy spirits who never started a fight without making it a good one. Quick-tempered and undisciplined, their fingers itched for action. Hungry, weary, wounded, they laughed it off. They were drunk with the red wine of battle.

Never Warner Baxter in such a colorful role as this—fearless, swaggering, handsome Frenchman, his one weakness the fascinating woman he loved too well. And Myrna Loy as the adventuress and spy who betrays him gives a performance marking her the supreme siren of the screen. You'll never forget this love conflict with its smashing climax.
These are the recent pictures in which Warner Baxter has played—a notable gallery of screen characterizations by a great romantic favorite.

Behind That Curtain
Happy Days
In Old Arizona
Romance of Rio Grande
Such Men Are Dangerous
The Arizona Kid

Noah Beery

Bluff and burly, equally good in stark drama or rousing comedy, favorite now as well as in the days of silent villains.
BIG BOX-OFFICE NAMES

For this superlative action drama, based on the novel by Andre Armandy, a cast of names that count. Personalities that represent quality, and the finest screen acting of the day. Directed by a great director, Victor Fleming, whose "Common Clay" shattered box-office records.

MYRNA LOY
Right on the bright path to stardom, this exotic beauty excels herself in this picture. Her previous successes include "A Girl in Every Port", "The Black Watch" and "Last of the Duanes."

GREGORY GATE—Russian by birth, plays the role of a Russian refugee, aristocratic member of the rowdy quartet.

GEORGE COOPER—Trained character actor, enacted an American Newshack turned Legionnaire. A great comedy part.

C. HENRY GORDON—Gives a memorable performance in the vivid role of captain of the company in which the hero is fighting for.

SHE had the eyes of a charmer, the form of a princess, the soul of a hellcat. For her favors men paid the price of dishonor.
JUST IMAGINE

LIGHTNIN’

The PRINCESS and The PLUMBER

Screendom’s most popular male star, Charles Farrell, teamed with the captivating sensation of 1930, Maureen O’Sullivan. A gay story of young love—a new box office combination of names.

The BIG TRAIL

MOST IMPORTANT PICTURE EVER PRODUCED

with

John Wayne · Marguerite Churchill
El Brendel · Tully Marshall
Tyrone Power · David Rollins
MAY SPANDING HEADS
New Spanish Publicity Branch for Columbia
(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Following out its policy of foreign expansion, Columbia Pictures has developed a new branch of its foreign publicity department, to be occupied exclusively with serving the Spanish-speaking countries in Europe and South America.

Mary M. Spaulding, feature writer for several Spanish fan publications, has been selected to head the new branch. She has lately been connected with two Cuban magazines, one in Panama and another in Peru.

By selling Spanish products, high explosives on the United Artists' lot because he could not receive permission to see Douglas Fairbanks, Robert Taylor, and Warner O'Leary, was arrested and will be held pending mental examination.

Claude E. Penrod
(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—Threatening to place high explosives on the United Artists' lot because he could not receive permission to see Douglas Fairbanks, Robert Taylor, and Warner O'Leary, was arrested and will be held pending mental examination.

Claude E. Penrod

No Chance to Make Poor Films Under Present System If Nation's Demands Are Heeded, Declares RKO Bookers—Calls Straight Hokum Comedy Best Liked
(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—Under the present system of production there is practically no chance of making poor motion pictures if producers here will look over the “Hollywood Wall” and see what the nation demands in the way of entertainment. Al Stahl, in charge of the film booking department for RKO theatres in the United States, told the Herald-World while he was here for conferences on RKO's coming product.

“Those far-sighted executives who look over the 'wall' which surrounds Hollywood and really try to find what the public wants in the way of entertainment have success ahead of them,” he declared. “On the other hand, those who cover their ears to the roar of the crowd are doomed to failure.”

Says Straight Comedy Preferred.

Levy's constant contacts with the theatres in all parts of the nation lead him to believe that audiences want straight-hokum comedy, and not farce films or that they want no more musical shows, that they want realism in their drama, and that they want 25 per cent less dialog than they are getting.

“As far as dialog is concerned there is only one answer,” he stated. “That answer is that they want action, not words.”

Levy charges “bops” to poor dialog and situations which are not the heads of the public. “The motion picture theatre-going public is laughing poor talking product off the screen,” he said. “They love Wild Ows,” he declared. “Bad dialog and bad situations not understood by the audience are the principal reasons, although there are other minor ones.”

Calls Proper Blend Requisite

Asked what sum must be expended by producers to make a satisfactory box office picture, he replied that “there isn't any real minimum.”

“Without regard to cost,” he added, “there must be certain underlying quality in a product to put it across. This quality frequently cannot be explained. Money must be spent. Get the result. Producers must buy good stories, employ good actors and directors. The necessary elements, properly distributed, will put box office quality into a good motion picture. Yet, a million dollars will not build a good commercial picture if there isn't the blend and the distribution to bring out the basic quality.”

He cited “Half Shot at Sunrise,” a current RKO product with Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, as having this proper distribution of elements. The producers looked over the ‘Hollywood Wall’ and saw that the public wanted straight, unabridged comedy. They employed good directorial talent, good actors, bought a good story and hired good technicians. The result is that box office records are being smashed on all sides.”

Levy declared that wide exploitation would not sell admittedly poor product and that, on the other hand, good pictures frequently would draw the public even with inadequate exploitation. He pointed out further that box office records would save a poor story for a while—but that if producers gave too many poor stories to any star, no matter how great, that player would eventually go into eclipse. He cited several instances.

He declared that producers should tell both exhibitors and the public the truth about their product. “Extravagant claims break down public confidence,” he explained.

Close Contacts Held Needed

Of the present situation in the industry, Levy said:

“The greatest difficulty in our business is the 3,000-mile gap between the executive and the producing departments. Most producers have shown a keen eagerness to learn what that public wants for its motion pictures. There is no greater contact with the New York executives in touch with sales.

“A more earnest, sincere contact on the part of producers with the sales executives and with the exhibitors themselves is bound to add a better element of good will to the business.

“General business conditions are improving. There is every evidence that the public will continue to spend.

“After a survey of production schedules I believe that the 1931 product will be so good that the public will be glad to have the opportunity to spend their money at motion picture box offices.”

CLAUDE PENNOD

with his liberal experience in the field of motion picture distribution, is well known to exhibitors throughout the country but particularly in the Middle West. He is branch manager at Indianapolis for RKO Distributing Corporation.

Penrod started in the days of General Film Company, and he began with Robert Lieber, the late president of First National. Leaving General Film, he signed up with Universal at its inception, and then served Fox Films as Indianapolis manager for five years.

Said He Would Blow Up U. A. Lot

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—Threatening to place high explosives on the United Artists' lot because he could not receive permission to see Douglas Fairbanks, Robert Taylor, and Warner O'Leary, was arrested and will be held pending mental examination.

Know Your Exchange—Managers

The exchange manager is the direct contact between exhibitor and distributor, and therefore it is to their mutual advantage to know each other.

The Herald-World presents a series of brief sketches of exchange managers and their outstanding activities in the motion picture field.

Selling candy at the Shubert theatre in Indianapolis to help his way through high school gave L. E. Golhammer his first taste of the theatre business. That was sixteen years ago.

Now he's branch manager for Warner Brothers in Indianapolis, and from candy selling he was graduated to a job of selling the books for “The Birth of a Nation,” for two years, returning to Indianapolis to take his first film position, with the Friedman Film Company.

Then he went to work for Alperson at the First National office in Omaha.

PRODUCING entertainment behind the footlights as well as selling entertainment for the screen gives W. A. (Tony) Ryan, Fox manager at Oklahoma City, a double-edged experience in the theatre business. Ryan was born in St. Paul, on January 8, in 1890, and went to St. Thomas College. Then he stepped into vaudeville, playing from 1908 to 1916.

It was a hop to Oklahoma City in 1916 with a stock company of United Booking Office that brought him to the locale that has become his home. After the World War he returned to Oklahoma City and became branch manager for First National, a position he held for five years.

CLAUD E. PENROD

with his liberal experience in the field of motion picture distribution, is well known to exhibitors throughout the country but particularly in the Middle West. He is branch manager at Indianapolis for RKO Distributing Corporation.

Penrod started in the days of General Film Company, and he began with Robert Lieber, the late president of First National. Leaving General Film, he signed up with Universal at its inception, and then served Fox Films as Indianapolis manager for five years.
NEW PRODUCT

This department does not attempt to predict the public's reactions to pictures. It does, instead, present detailed and accurate information on product, together with the frank and honest opinion of the reporter.

FEET FIRST

LLOYD AND LAUGHS! Produced by Harold Lloyd. It is not merely thril-ling, as a performer, Lloyd is head and shoulders above any member of the company. The story is of the most rapid and exciting things ever given the talking screen. It is comedy that is for 8,000 feet is never out of character. There are thrills that serve the needs of suspense. Thrills also serve in a natural way as menace to the boy and girl who head off the troupe.

Lloyd neither attempts to make you laugh at the things he does nor laughs at them himself. He relies upon the brainwork of some of the most skilful humorists in the scenario to frame things that are funny and clean. The result is the audience at the preview in a big Coast theatre laughed uproariously. There were little things, such as the laughs aimed with the construction of the comedy. Each build up led to a sub-climax.

The big scene of the picture is the scaling of a building near the finish. It is re-mindful perhaps of "Safety Last" except that it runs into more footage, a reel and a half, and that it has dialog. It is not merely thrilling, it is exceedingly funny. Lloyd finds himself perched, innocently, on a scaffolding that is being elevated to the twentieth story of a building. The scaffolding is flimsy and Lloyd is in constant jeopardy.

He climbs from one story to the next, human fly fashion, and through consecutive dangers until he arrives at the top. His precarious position is little the less relieved, however, because he is at the edge of the building and has great difficulty keeping his balance.

The story starts with Harold in an office boy position with a shoe company in Honolulu. He has aspirations to be a shoe salesman and makes desperate attempts to attract the attention of his employer. Every effort only brings him into bad repute. His heart has already been snared by the handsome Barbara Kent.

By one way and another he inadvertently gets himself on a ship bound for the mainland. Other passengers are the president of his firm, his secretary, who is Harold's secret love, and the president's wife.

The voyage which consumes a third of the footage, and is built with gags, leads up to the point where Harold must deliver "the papers" on the mainland 36 hours before the ship is due to arrive. There is considerable interest in his efforts to deliver, although there isn't the kind of interest that might be termed suspense.

The direction is well done. The gags are sharp, fast and not one is a dud. There is no "clicking" laughs; it is a steady stream of them.

Lloyd's voice is in character with his well reputed pantomime. He has a high pitch that is quite the kind most people wish and expect of him.

The settings are fresh and with the exception of the building climbing scenes they are new to Lloyd pictures—Douglas Hodges, Hollywood.

HERO COMEDIANS

BERT WHEELER AND ROBERT WOOLSEY

Buck a full range of laughs into Radio Pictures' "Half Shot at Sunrise." With them is Leni Stengel.

HERO COMEDIANS

HALF SHOT AT SUNRISE

A LOAD OF FUN. —Produced and distributed by Radio Pictures. Directors: Paul Sloane, Author, James A. Creelman, Jr. Dialog by Anne Caldwell and Ruth Sweeney. Music and lyrics by Harry Tierney and Anne Caldwell. Photographer, Nick Musuraca. Recordtist, Leitch McDonell, Jr., Editor, Arthur A. Roberts, with Bert Wheeler, Robert Woolsey, John Rutherford, George Mac-

THERE is a boat load—make it the Leviathan—of tomfoolery and fun crammed in this new Radio picture starring the team of Wheeler and Woolsey. If these two comics in "Half Shot at Sunrise" don't make the audience howl, then the audience is at fault.

As stated, it is all tomfoolery, but about the most pleasant and refreshing tomfoolery one could imagine. It has the laughs that bring the tears to your eyes, and that should be sufficient comedy for anyone.

It is the type of picture in which Wheeler and Woolsey excel—a picture which offers little with story, but is overflowing with situations. Give them the situations and they will take advantage of them 100 per cent.

The picture moves rapidly, but the gags have been well timed and therefore none of the situations are lost in the roar of the audience, a condition which is not avoided often enough in the audible film.

Although there are a couple of good musical numbers in the picture, they should, are sold to the public as a musical comedy, for it makes no effort to be one. It should be exploited as one of the best farces to reach the screen thus far this season.

Particularly good in the cast is Edna May Oliver, who never failed in adding to one's pleasure at seeing a Richard Dix picture. As the wife of a trifling colonel of the army she is excellent. Dorothy Lee matches well with Wheeler, the two being sweethearts in this film. Leni Stengel as the vamp and George Macfadine as the colonel likewise are capable in their performances.

Paul Sloane has done a fine piece of directing. Though farceful in treatment, the situations, due to Sloane's guidance, are never overdone. Arthur Roberts' editing, too, is worthy of note.

"Half Shot at Sunrise" is the story of two buck privates who are A. W. O. L. in Paris.
October 18, 1930

EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD

Their efforts to evade the military police, their love affairs and their return to the trendy Flannel buildings the picture into a whiz of a comedy.—Joy M. Shreck, New York City.

JUST IMAGINE
EXTRAORDINARY PICTURE Produced and distributed by Fox Films. Directed by David Butler. Dialog, adaptation, and direction by Seymour Felix. Photography by Charles Lang. With Jackie Coogan, Junior Durkin, Mitzi Green, Clara Bow, Ruth Sturges, Mary the Ireeing, Dick Wicks, Jack Oakie, Jack L@cure, Billie Maylor, Billie Buitis, Charles Selton.

STUFF that hasn't graced the screen in many years is in Paramount's "Tom Sawyer." It's a show that is as unique as the story that it tells. The world has been waiting for a young Tom. It embodies the things that made Twain the master he was and the things that endear his works to the hearts of the world.

It's fine showmanship. It hasn't been the easiest thing to transfer to the screen, most likely, but it has been done with a fine hand and yet here and there it made itself felt. It's fortunate that Paramount could find Jackie Coogan a youngster to whom it could intrust the responsibility of the star role. He is the complete, the youthful and mischievous Tom. It is seriously doubtful that any other child might have been able to do the characterization that is part in the making of pantomime, screen experience and his trinary balance. He stays in character throughout the picture, and to the average of the story is a degree surprising to many who have been without their Jackie for the past four years. Time has not lessened his talents nor marred his fame.

The children who attended the preview in Glendale, Cal., whooped and shouted. They had obviously found something (for them) like it for many, many shows.

The laughs are as well planned for adults as for juveniles. The hallmark is that ever-present Twain philosophy in it for an older audience that makes the story beautifully whimsical and amusing.

The cast headed by the star and Mitzi Green is remarkably well chosen. In it are people seldom given credit on the screen but who find themselves in parts that do them justice and which they likewise do justice to.

There has, as might have been previously intimated, been little alteration in the comedy and story of the three youngsters who felt absurdity in themselves. The characters have their grave disappointments and seek a way to freedom by running away. They find a pirate's island and make it a haven.

A man has already been murdered. The two youngsters, Huckleberry Finn and Tom by devious methods bring the criminal to justice.

It is from start to finish one of the company's best pieces of product. Possibly I should say "best" but I dislike the expression.

HEADS UP

SCOTT'S immortal narrative poem is here presented on the screen with sound but no speech. Said to have been photographed in the highlands and lake country of Scotland, the actual setting of the original poem, the consistent effect is beautiful and add much to the creation of the necessary atmosphere.

The picture opens with a simple chorus appearing on a stage rendering the opening lines of the poem in song. The scene then fades into the scene representing the last of the poem.公司 gives an easy, relaxed, interesting story. The special music is most effective, giving the story a kind of life it otherwise would lack.

One for the Coast Guard is a plotless, fast-moving drama. It is lovely. It is an attempt to make the audience think. It was a failure because the audience can think. It was a failure because the audience does not want to think. The director has achieved reality and it is being shown once a week at the Palace Theatre. The play follows the life of a man who tries to be a soldier.

The story of Richard Dhu, the leader of Clan Alpine: Douglas the outlawed enemy of James FitzJames, the king; and Ellen, Lady of the Lake, is one familiar to every school child. The film will be distributed by the Great Western, which has Douglas and the king, and finally is brought to an end through the appeal of Ellen, forms the main plot. The heroine of the tale is Ellen for Malcolm Graeme, rival of Roderick Dhu for the hand of the girl, forms the romantic interest.

Directed has been handled with skill and an attention to detail as regards the original thought of the poem which is admirable. No attempt has been made to put the poetry into the music, but the poetry is one of the story which is told by the actors who say the parts. The music with the story is well done, but the music is only an aid to the story.

The story of Richard Dhu, the leader of Clan Alpine: Douglas the outlawed enemy of James FitzJames, the king; and Ellen, Lady of the Lake, is one familiar to every school child. The film will be distributed by the Great Western, which has Douglas and the king, and finally is brought to an end through the appeal of Ellen, forms the main plot. The heroine of the tale is Ellen for Malcolm Graeme, rival of Roderick Dhu for the hand of the girl, forms the romantic interest.

Directed has been handled with skill and an attention to detail as regards the original thought of the poem which is admirable. No attempt has been made to put the poetry into the music, but the poetry is one of the story which is told by the actors who say the parts. The music with the story is well done, but the music is only an aid to the story.

The story of Richard Dhu, the leader of Clan Alpine: Douglas the outlawed enemy of James FitzJames, the king; and Ellen, Lady of the Lake, is one familiar to every school child. The film will be distributed by the Great Western, which has Douglas and the king, and finally is brought to an end through the appeal of Ellen, forms the main plot. The heroine of the tale is Ellen for Malcolm Graeme, rival of Roderick Dhu for the hand of the girl, forms the romantic interest.

Directed has been handled with skill and an attention to detail as regards the original thought of the poem which is admirable. No attempt has been made to put the poetry into the music, but the poetry is one of the story which is told by the actors who say the parts. The music with the story is well done, but the music is only an aid to the story.

The story of Richard Dhu, the leader of Clan Alpine: Douglas the outlawed enemy of James FitzJames, the king; and Ellen, Lady of the Lake, is one familiar to every school child. The film will be distributed by the Great Western, which has Douglas and the king, and finally is brought to an end through the appeal of Ellen, forms the main plot. The heroine of the tale is Ellen for Malcolm Graeme, rival of Roderick Dhu for the hand of the girl, forms the romantic interest.

Directed has been handled with skill and an attention to detail as regards the original thought of the poem which is admirable. No attempt has been made to put the poetry into the music, but the poetry is one of the story which is told by the actors who say the parts. The music with the story is well done, but the music is only an aid to the story.
RENO

THREE factors in "Reno" make for box office—title, subject matter and the return of Ruth Roland to the screen. One might be the name of the author, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr. The picture itself, however, does not match the exploitation possibilities. This is due primarily to the story, which lacks originality and as a consequence has offered no opening for unusual twists in plot development. Two sequences in the picture give Miss Roland opportunity for the thrilling moments which were hers when she reigned as serial queen. One is initiated on a horse, she Speeds to her little son. The other is the automobile race with her husband who she fears will kidnap their daughter. Miss Roland has a very nice recording voice, both in her speech and in her singing. She needs, however, more full advantage can be taken of her talents. Three men in her support—Montagu Love, Kenneth Thompson and Sam Hardy—are given good accounts of themselves, especially Hardy, whose comic relief adds much to the picture as a whole.

"Reno" tells of the wife who is harassed by a self-centered, domineering husband, a husband who has never been defeated in the business world. He does not propose to be whipped by his wife, with their little son, rushes to Reno for a divorce. When it appears that the husband, through his treachery, has haled her divorce plans and has brought her back to him "crawling on her hands and knees," he is killed in an automobile accident and the wife is free to marry the man she has always loved. A play on the title and on the divorce question should be made in all exploitation.—Jay M. Sherek, New York City.

SHE GOT WHAT SHE WANTED

A SATIRE on marriage and the follies of women, "She Got What She Wanted" is actually directed, cast and well written. And it is produced in exactly the same manner as a legitimate play is produced, crowded with actors where action is almost excluded. There isn't a setup in sparkling conversation from the moment the play opens, and Cruse has used unusually few scenes for a film play.

One sees the home of Betty Compson and Gaston Glass, her husband. Again, there is the booking office of the two railroad stations, an interior shot of a train, a gambling-shooting scene, and an exterior shot of a train in the night. The play opens with Betty Compson disgruntled because her husband spends all his time reading, writing and listening to the radio. The husband is a boarder and an ex-boarder, Alan Dale and Lee Tracey, respectively. She thinks they are what she wants in the way of a husband.

In the end, her husband sells a hook. However, he is no longer her husband, as she has married Dale. She leaves him and later Glace persuades her to elope with him. At last she has what she really wants.

To George Rosener goes the credit of scripting, "She Got What She Wanted." In the cast go the credit of putting the lines over effectively.

"As such a wise-cracking musician, makes the most of his part, and has hard competition from the rest of the cast. Miss Compson is well-nigh perfect in her role of unholy wife. Halls scores, as usual, with their own character, Dale, as the gambler, swaggers superbly, and Kelsey is an excellent Irish cop.

The sound is good. The USDA Cruze direction is apparent in the smooth flow of the product.—Edward Churchill, Hollywood.

MIN AND BILL
FINE QUALITY.—Produced and distributed by M. C. Directed by George Hill. Story from Lorna Moon's "Dark Star." Dialogue and scenario by Marion Jackson and Frances Marion. Photographed by Harold W. Estron. Edited by Basil Wrangel. With Marie Dresser, Wallace Beery, Dorothy Jordan, Marie Rambeau, Donald Dillaway.

MARIE DRESSER is Min and Wallace Beery is Bill in a fine performance produced and distributed by M. C. Beery's part is much the lesser of the two, but he goes well about the business, putting in the comic scenes in which they appear together.

It is not all fun. There is a distinct note of pathos and tragedy in the show. The climax shows Dresser feeling the wound played by Marjorie Rambeau; it depicts her attempted escape and her arrest on a murder charge. Miss Dresser's acting in this sequence, while her foster daughter is starting on a honeymoon, is the purest pathos. The fadeout is immediate.

Marjorie Rambeau's acting is excellent. Her appearance on the screen galvanizes every scene he appears in. The lovely doomed woman, who leaves her baby with a friend and returns several years later to hear that the child is dead, Miss Dresser misrepresents the facts in order to keep the child in her own custody.

The child, played by Dorothy Jordan, later is seen as a girl, seen as a man, married to a young man played by Donald Dillaway.

It is good entertainment and well directed. It is not sensational enough to attempt to make it so. It does, however, boast of having two of the finest characterizations lately seen on the screen. Miss Dresser and Miss Rambeau, with the greater interest centered on the former. It is a picture intended as a screen characterization and in producing it Bill has proved it is possible to do a big characterization entertainingly.—Douglass Hodges, Hollywood.

TOO HOT TO HANDLE
LARRY DARMOUR PRODUCTIONS
R K O.—Sound

Length: 2,000 feet. Longest in two reels of slapstick comedy packed with laughs. Fine supporting cast assists the star who, as the story goes, is to tell two anecdotes from a " BATCH he Polite" book to his family who probably knows more about it than she does. The results are hilarious. In the first, the handle to the slapstick and hard falls for a big laugh every time. There is not a weak spot in the dialogue, gags, and the comedy as a whole.—Lee N. Writing for directing Fazenda in what is considered her finest two-reel subject.
DEAR HERALD-WORLD:

As soon as we arrived in Denver we went out to the Aladdin theatre to call on our very good friends, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Huffman, only to find that they were out of the city. Before leaving the city last night we went out to call on them again and were delighted to find them at Aladdin.

We would count a visit to Denver robbed of much of the joy should we not be privileged to meet these two delightful people. The exhibitors throughout the Denver territory book their pictures largely by what is playing at the Aladdin. When a production plays the Aladdin they consider it plenty good enough.

On October first Mr. Huffman will take over the Tabor Grand. For a great many years back when one thought of Denver one instinctively thought of the Tabor Grand. The two names seemed permanently linked together, and for a great many years the Tabor Grand was the beaux-arts in Denver's theatrical life. But in more recent years, and because of the building of a number of deluxe houses, this theatre has slipped into second place.

Mr. Huffman will redecorate and refurnish this theatre and bring it right up to the minute in beauty and comfort. Under his able management we confidently predict that the Tabor Grand will again take its place as the popular playhouse of the Rocky Mountain metropolis. Watch the prediction and see if we are not right. This closes our chapter on Denver.

We note that the Chicago police force made another raid on the racketeers. As usual the racketeers escaped, but the police succeeded in shooting another innocent bystander. What Chicago should do is to equip her police force with lollipops instead of guns. They would be less dangerous to peaceful citizens.

Just see what doggone luck we have. We drove over here to Gald because the Aladdin, a distance of 230 miles, to see our old friend E. E. Sprague of the Sherman theatre, only to find that E. E. is in the hotel Savoy at Denver recovering from an operation, and there we were for nearly a week within a couple of blocks of whom is playing the Aladdin. It proves to us that we should go over to Cherry county, Nebraska, along about the middle of October and shoot mallards for a week or so to see if we can't change our luck.

Them of you what haint never known Sprague haint never known nobody yet. When Kansas wants the state to go Democratic they send for Sprague, when they want it to go Republican they send him to Colorado. He has to judge all the beauty contests, and he is rated as the best judge of Politica-Chinas at the county fair, and when he ties a blue ribbon on a rooster you can hear him crow all over Sherman county. When he drives past a farm house the hens all get off the roof and go to laying turkey eggs. That's the kind of a guy Sprague is.

But speaking of beauty contests, Sprague is the bird who horn-swogled us out of first money in that Herald's Exhibitor Beauty Contest a few years back when we were coming down the home stretch leading the entire field, and just for that we won't sell him the HERALD-WORLD for less than three bucks for two years. We are going to get even with that guy some way.

Last night we attended the showing of Nancy Carroll's in "THE DEVIL'S HOLIDAY" at the Sherman. The picture was well acted and pleased, but there were two things about it that amused us. One was the title and the other was that it depicted a rich country boy falling for the wiles of a show-woman machinist while he was in the city to place a large contract for farm machinery. Wouldn't that give you a laugh?

Whenever we think of these country "jakes" and "yokels" we think of Lincoln, Grant, McKinley, Roosevelt, Garfield, Perry, Garwood, Huffman, Hoover and hundreds of others, all of whom grew up with the pulley, ragweed and cockleburrs out on the farm. We wonder who can point to any prominent man who got his early training on the street, and yet they continually depict country people as being mentally deficient because they don't attend wholesale parties and get drunk with the rest of the rabble. You can find thousands of young men in New York City who never get ripe, and yet the brain every time they have an early frost, the frost always get 'em.

Since the hijackers have gone to stealing brick houses in Canada and breweries in this country, Uncle Sam will need to guard the Panama canal or they will swipe that next.

We haven't a darn thing to write about, but we've got to do something. We don't know anyone here who will go and play golf with us and we are held here pending receipt of information which should have reached us at Denver. We wired for it from Scottsbluff, Nebraska, but that doggone George just can't get his mind off that baby girl of his, and we don't blame him much either. He's a whole lot like Bill Weaver in that respect. Babies first, always, with those two guys.

Question. Just what position will the boys be in who are using Western Electric equipment should the circuit court of appeals affirm the decision rendered by the federal court in the Rela patents case against Western Electric? Answer. "OUCH." Maybe.

We understand that the Chicago Auditorium, where they used to hold stock and machinery shows, and where grand opera was wont to make the rafters rattle, and politicians save the country every four years, is to be converted into an indoor peewee golf course. The next thing we know they will be sliding balls through paintings and smashing statuary in the Field Museum.

We note that Utah has adopted our theory. Out there they are going to form a new party, the platform of which is to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment and have the government manufacture and dispense pure whisky under strict regulations without profit and keep the revenue off of it.

Personally we don't care if we never see a gallon of whisky (a quart at a time is enough for anybody) and if the Government will dispense it without profit and without revenue under licensed permits so that people can buy it legally, the bootlegger will be through overlooking and Uncle Sam can keep his army of gendarmes at home to help the family do the chores in time to go to the theatre to see "ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT."

Hurrah for Utah. Mormons or go Mormons, we're for 'em.

We note that the M.P.T.O of Wisconsin elected our old friend, Fred S. Meyer, as president of that organization. Wisconsin never produced a square shooter than that same Fred get softer, and if the association don't already know that they will find it out before his term expires.

Never mind the Perfectos, Fred, we never smoke anything but the old pipe anyhow. We smell liver and onions downstairs.

J. C. JENKINS, The HERALD-WORLD man.

The HERALD-WORLD covers THE FIELD like an April SHOWER.
A Few Personalities and Stills

Edward Everett Horton
Jaqueline Logan
Tom Moore

James Cruze

Stepin Fetchit
Ruth Roland
Ivan Novello of Sono Art-World Wide Films

José Bohr and Myrna Loy in "Rogue of the Rio Grande."

Lola Lane in the Cruze production entitled "Costello Case."

Ruth Roland and Douglas Scott in Sono Art's "Reno."

A wicked left pops up in the Cruze production, "The Big Fight."

Lois Wilson, Edward Everett Horton in "Once A Gentleman."

From "Just for a Song," a Gainsborough production.
MGM Musical, "Southerner," Starts With Tibbett Starred

Pathe's Decision to Set Aside Mary Lewis Picture Brings $25,000 Suit—35 Pictures Underway on Coast, Decidedly Fewer Than Normal Number

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer today began shooting Lawrence Tibbett's new picture, "The Southerner," with Harry Pollard at the megaphone. Esther Ralph is the feminine lead. It is a musical, and the only one at present in production here.

Pathe's decision to set aside its plans for a Mary Lewis musical of proportions culminated this week in a suit brought by the opera star to recover damages. She states that her salary was to have been $25,000 and that of that amount she has received only ten per cent.

35 Pictures Underway

There are 35 pictures underway at present, which is decidedly under the normal number for this season of the year. Columbia shows the greatest activity with two big pictures, "Dirigible," and "To'Blie Dav'd," and four others being photographed.

Warner Brothers and First National, United Artists, Educational and Tiffany are practically dark although United Artists will resume activity in a day or two with shooting on "Reaching for the Moon," Chaplin of course is finishing "City Lights" but his work is being done at his own lot.

Clara Bow Film Starts

Paramount is starring Clara Bow in "No Limit." She starts work this week. Norman Foster, stage actor, will appear opposite her. Frank Tuttle directs.

Miss Bow's name recently figured in eight column banner lines on front pages for her alleged attempt to stop payment on checks cashed in a Nevada gambling house. It is reported that her current vehicle had been chosen at the time of the affair; but the studio denied that the thing was a hoax staged for publicity purposes.

Associate Producers

Universal has named Robert Harris and Erwin Gelsey associate producers. Harris a few days ago left Columbia where he was in a similar post. Before going to Columbia he was scenario department head at M.G.M.

Gelsey joined Universal three months ago as scenario department head. He was formerly with Paramount in the Eastern studios.

Stahl Doing Script

John M. Stahl, director of "A Lady Surrenders," has been transferred to the scenario department to prepare the script for his next directorial effort.

Belas Lugosi Signs

Belas Lugosi, Hungarian who is developing rapidly as a heavy, and now playing the lead in "Dracula" for Universal, has been signed to a five year contract with that organization by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Efforts are being made to find suitable material for him.

Robert Warwick, stage favorite, who arrived in Hollywood ten days ago, already is clicking. He has a featured role in "Once a Sinner" for Fox and also one in "The Queen's Husband" for R.K.O. He is lined up for a second Fox production.

Straus an Actor

Oscar Strans, the famed composer, will be an actor. He will visit the star's homes, theatres, cafes and studio sets while the camera grinds, his role being that of a German film fan seeing Hollywood. In the cast will be Greta Garbo, Norma Shearer, Ramon Novarro, John Gilbert, Raquel Torres and others. The picture is M.G.M.

Clift Adapts "Nurses"

Denison Clift, playwright and film director, has been signed by M.G.M. to adapt "Nurses," a story of San Francisco hospitals, to the screen for M.G.M. Alice Elinor is the author.

Roberts' Next

"The Beloved Enemy" will be the next production undertaken by Al Rogell for Tiffany release. Rogell will direct personally and selection of the cast will start soon. It will follow "Alaska."

Jeanie Macpherson to Write for Paramount

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—Jeanie Macpherson has returned to Paramount after an absence of four years. The studio has signed her for scenario and dialog. She left De Mille three months ago and was succeeded by Elsie Janis.

9,975 Employed in All Studios, Survey Shows

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—While production is below normal because production has passed its peak for the year, and because First National and Warner Brothers have practically suspended production, there are at present 9,975 persons employed in all studios. M.G.M., Fox, RKO and Paramount lead in number of employees. M.G.M. lists 2,100, Fox lists 2,000, Paramount, 1,635; and R.K.O. 1,000. Figures were compiled by the Community Chest.

Report Mary Pickford to Start Independent Producing

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—Although Mary Pickford refrains from confirming it there is a widespread report that she will soon leave United Artists to embark on an independent producing enterprise.

"I Have Abandoned All Plans to Buy into UA," Declares Hughes

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—Howard Hughes declared today that "I have abandoned all plans to buy into United Artists."

He telegraphed from the East that I was prepared to take over Art Cinema Finance Corporation at a reasonable figure but the price was too high. He has again signed Lewis Milestone, who will direct "Front Page."

Paramount Official Group Goes East to Place Astoria Plant on Feature Schedule

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—The Paramount officials who are to put that organization's Long Island studio on a regular production schedule are now Eastbound.

In the party are B. P. Schulberg, Walter Wanger, Ernst Lubitsch, Sam Jaffe, James Wilkowski, Franklin Hansen, Ernest Vajda, Max Martin, Herman Manickiewicz, Maurice Hamlin and Samson Raphaelson.

Lubitsch will act as supervising director of the Eastern studios.

RKO Hires Al Boasberg And Douglas MacLean As Associate Producers

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—Radio has signed Al Boasberg and Douglas MacLean to become associate producers. They begin work immediately.

J. I. Schnitzer, president of Radio Pictures, will remain here two months, it is learned. During his past two weeks stay he has taken a big hand in hiring executives and talent and reports indicate that he will continue to do so for some time.

Chesterfield to Begin "The Midnight Special"

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—With the arrival here shortly of George R. Batcheller, president of the Chesterfield Motion Picture Corporation, plans will be completed for the making of Chesterfield's all talking melodrama, "The Midnight Special," a railroad film.
Filmdom in the Rough

AT THE HERALD-WORLD TOURNAMENT

EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD

October 18, 1930

[Comic strip with various elements involving golf and film personalities, such as Douglas Fairbanks, Charlie Chaplin, and others, in a humorous and exaggerated style.]
MR. ERNIE ROVELSTAD.

DEAR ERNIE:

I have got into trouble again, Ernie, and in a way it is all your fault. When you told me in your last letter that I should hobnob with the picture stars socially so I could write things in the HERALD-WORLD you didn't know what you were letting me in for. You said I should go horseback riding because that's what the stars did. This is where the trouble comes in.

You know I don't know anything about horses. In New York once in a while I used to see a picture of a horse, but hardly ever a real one. Out here they're as thick as flies. Well, after I got your letter, I went to a friend and told him I was going to go horseback riding. First off, he said, I had to have a uniform. This may look funny to you, Ernie, because you don't know about horses either, but you can't ride one unless you have a certain kind of pants and boots. The horses don't have to get dolled up, but you do.

Well, I said to myself, anything for my job, so I figured I'd spend six or seven dollars for the outfit. Ha Ha. Do you know how much the boots alone cost? Twenty-six dollars. Pants was twenty dollars. But I didn't care, because I was hearing such nice things about riding I knew I'd like it.

Then I went to a place out here, which is a stable full of horses. Right away I saw Mary Astor, so I knew you was right about that's how to meet the picture stars.

So I went up to the keeper and I said, "To tell you the truth I have never been on a horse before. I would like a very used one, pretty old, and he should be a vegetarian." "What do you want a vegetarian horse for?" he said. "So he shouldn't bite me," I said, and he began to laugh. It came out that horses don't bite people's only kick, but I figured never can tell—a horse looks like to me if it's got worse teeth than a lion.

Then he said, "What do you want, a Western or an English saddle?" So I took a guess and said "English." This was a great mistake. I found out that a Western saddle has got a handle in front where you can hold on, but an English saddle has only a round piece of leather that looks as big as a half a dollar. The keeper gave me a brown horse.

I began to make a little speech to the horse about how what was the use of getting excited and running fast, and how my family always liked horses, even way back, and we never hurt a one, and how I thought that horses were very, very nice myself, and a lot of other things so that I could win its confidence.

And then the keeper gave the horse a little pat and it started to run. Ernie, you don't know what happened to me. I haven't got an inch of skin left on me. Someone told me I was holding on to the horse's neck and when I came near Mary Astor I tried to grab her reins so I shouldn't fall, and she didn't like it. I'm sorry, Ernie, if me and Mary Astor can't get along but I don't even remember doing any such thing.

All I remember is that I was almost unconscious when we came to a little stream about two feet deep. The horse began to cross and then, all of a sudden, she lay down right in the middle of the water. "Hey," I said, "get up." But it was no use. I was soaked through and through. So I had someone take off my boots which were filled with water and then I didn't have no hook to put them back on my feet. Well, I left the horse right there and I walked home in my stockings.

I feel hurt all over, Ernie, and people tell me I will be worse tomorrow. I think maybe you should pay me my money back which I spent trying to get acquainted with Mary Astor so I could write better pieces for the HERALD-WORLD. Because if it wasn't for you I wouldn't have tried to bust in on no animal act. Believe me I am plenty sore.

Hoping this finds you the same,

—NORMAN KRASNA.
United Artists Will Make Only Specials in Future: Schenck
(Special to the Herald-World)
HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—Joseph Schenck has returned from an eastern trip and states that in the future United Artists will make nothing but specials. He also spoke all rumors regarding mergers and change of control.

Pacific Coast

Paramount Production Chiefs Reach East to Launch Program
Work Starts Soon for “Ladies Man,” One of First Vehicles of Enlarged Program—Two Complete Casts to Make Claudette Colbert’s “Strictly Business”—Four Warner Shorts Completed
(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Definite operating plans for production of Paramount’s Eastern studios are expected within the next few days with the arrival here this week of Walter F. Wanger, partment; B. P. Schulberg, managing recently appointed supervising director production manager of the Hollywood studio.

Production of “Ladies Man,” one of the first vehicles to get underway at the Eastern studio on the new and enlarged program now being worked out by the executives, will begin early next month. Lothar Mendes, who will direct Paul Lukas in the feature, and Herman Mankiewicz, who will write the screen, also arrived in town this week.

Two Casts for “Strictly Business”
Two complete casts will be assembled for the filming of Claudette Colbert’s next starring vehicle, tentatively called “Strictly Business.” Jesse L. Lasky, first vice president in charge of all productions of the company, told both English and French versions of the picture will be shot simultaneously, as was the case with Maurice Chevalier’s “The Big Pond.” Miss Colbert will play the lead in both productions, since she is Parisian by birth and speaks French as well as English.

Dorothy Arzner has been selected to direct both versions, with the aid of a French director, as yet unnamed, on the Gallic edition. Lasky intimated in his announcement that it was not yet decided if all the dialogue in each English or French version of the Colbert films will be produced bi-lingually, though this decision will not in anyway effect Paramount’s foreign production.

Parker Doing Dialogue
Austin Parker, author of the original story from which the screen play for Miss Colbert is taken, is now at work on the dialogue for the picture. Frederic March will play opposite the French star when filming starts early in November. Rosalie Stuart, Broadway stage producer, has been in charge of the selection of Miss Colbert’s material.

A large group of Hollywood talent, headed by Clara Bow, David Manners, to East, will work with Miss Colbert in the studio to produce her next film. She is expected to start filming for the star’s new vehicle, “No Limit,” under the direction of Frank Tuttle. Charles Ruggles is also moving East, where he is scheduled for personal appearances in Boston. “No Limit” was written by Viola Brothers Shore, who also is coming East, and will assist in the selection of suitable locations for the filming of the New York outdoor scenes.

Four Warner Shorts Completed
At the Warner Brothers Vitaphone studio in New York, four of the studio’s shorts have been run off under the general supervision of Murray Roth.

“Home Made” is starring Dorothy Hall of the stage company of “The Greeks Had a Word for It,” now playing one of the Broadway houses. Albert Hackett, brother of Raymond and co-author of “Screenplay,” and his wife, called “Up Pops the Devil,” is in the cast with John Patrick, Jesse Busley and others. Arthur Hoyt, directed a script by Weare Holbrook.

“The Painter,” directed by Alf Goulding, has a cast headed by Frank Orth, and including Helen Nord, Karl Stahl, Frank Kingeley, Walter Baldwin and Arthur Uttry.

Four “Nagger” Finished
A fourth of the M. J. W. John Nord-wood “Nagger” series has been produced, under the title of “The Naggars Day of Reat.”

Another addition to the long list of Varieties is “Opening Night,” from the pen of A. D. Otvos, and directed by Roy Mack, star megaphone wielder of the Brooklyn plant. In the cast are Peggy Shannon, Leo Hoyt, Dorothy Sands and Thomas P. Jackson.

Murray Roth, continuing his policy of giving the前途 Broadway stage to the Vitaphone Varieties appearances, has closed with String Byington, legitimate actor well-known on the Big Street, and Edgar Bergen, ventriloquist.

Report on Warner-F. N. Production to Center at Burbank by December 30
(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—All production activities of Warner Brothers and First National will be centralized at the Burbank plant of the latter studio by December 30, it is reported. The story department of the Warner Sunset Boulevard studio already has moved and it is expected that the remainder of the plant will follow before the first of the year. It is reported that the Sunset building will be used when production taxes the Burbank location, as the old Vitaphone studio has been used.

Three Weddings Recorded; Dr. Lee Deforest Marries
(Special to the Herald-World)
HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—Three marriages were announced this week. It was learned that Dr. Lee Deforest, radio and talking picture inventor, married Eugenia Sisson in a Mexican city this summer. Jotia Gouda was wed in Yuma, Arizona, to Harold Grieve on September 11. Viola Howell, actress, was married to Jimmy Thompson, professional golfer, during the week.

Henry King, noted picture director, became the proud father of a baby boy last Friday.

Canadian House Has New Club for Kiddies
“Everyone Should Have a Playtime” is one of the first lessons of physiology, yet M. P. Wetherell, manager of the Capitol house in Kamloops, B. C., Can., finds that it still makes an interesting theme for a radio broadcast. With this slogan he has organized a Junior Joy Club to boost juvenile attention at matinees. News of the club is broadcast every day on the theater’s radio circuit. Members are admitted for 10 cents instead of the regular 15-cent price and those outstanding children who are presented with prizes from the stage. The Joy Club has been endorsed by parents, associations and school authorities.

Report All Warner-F. N. Production to Center at Burbank by December 30
(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—All production activities of Warner Brothers and First National will be centralized at the Burbank plant of the latter studio by December 30, it is reported. The story department of the Warner Sunset Boulevard studio already has moved and it is expected that the remainder of the plant will follow before the first of the year. It is reported that the Sunset building will be used when production taxes the Burbank location, as the old Vitaphone studio has been used.

Three Weddings Recorded; Dr. Lee Deforest Marries
(Special to the Herald-World)
HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—Three marriages were announced this week. It was learned that Dr. Lee Deforest, radio and talking picture inventor, married Eugenia Sisson in a Mexican city this summer. Jotia Gouda was wed in Yuma, Arizona, to Harold Grieve on September 11. Viola Howell, actress, was married to Jimmy Thompson, professional golfer, during the week.

Henry King, noted picture director, became the proud father of a baby boy last Friday.
Herald-World's Production Directory

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>STORY</th>
<th>DIRECTOR</th>
<th>CHIEF PLAYERS</th>
<th>BRAND NAME</th>
<th>STARTING DATE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Cimarron&quot;</td>
<td>Wesley Ruggles</td>
<td>Richard Dix</td>
<td>RKO Studios</td>
<td>September 18</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Beau Ideal&quot;</td>
<td>Herbert Brenon</td>
<td>Ralph Forbes</td>
<td>September 16</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Red, Line and Shaker&quot;</td>
<td>Edward Clune</td>
<td>Bert Wheeler</td>
<td>September 20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Trader Ginsberg&quot;</td>
<td>Mark Sandrich</td>
<td>Nat Carr</td>
<td>Headliner series</td>
<td>October 1</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Fox Studios

| "Lightnin' " | Henry King | Will Rogers | August 18 |
| "Shepper" | Leo McCarey | Edmund Lowe | September 12 |
| "Network" | Berthold Viertel | Neil Hamilton | October 2 |

Universal Studios

| "Dracula" | Tod Browning | Bela Lugosi | September 29 |
| "Resurrection" | Edwin Carewe | Helen Chandler | September 22 |
| "Cohens and Kelly's in Africa" | Vin Moore | John Boles | September 11 |
| "Oorang" | Harry Carson | Dorothy Janis | September 20 |
| "Sailor Beware" | Ralph Ceder | Sara Hardy | September 22 |
| "Sommerville Comedy No. 2" | Kurt Neumann | Kane Richmond | October 3 |
| "Lover's No. 6" | Al Kelley | Ynez Seabury | |

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios

| "Trader Horn" | W. S. Van Dyke | Harry Carey | September 29 |
| "Within the Law" | Sam Wood | Edwin Booth | September 22 |
| "The Great Meadow" | Charles Brabin | Eleanor Boardman | September 20 |
| "The Southernmost" | Harry Pollard | Lawrence Tibbett | September 22 |

Paramount Studios

| "The Right to Love" | Richard Wallace | Ruth Chatterton | September 20 |
| "Fighting Caravans" | Brower-Knopf | All-Star | September 20 |
| "The Right to Love" | Richard Wallace | Ruth Chatterton | September 20 |
| "Fighting Caravans" | Brower-Knopf | All-Star | September 20 |

Pathé Studios

| "She Takes a Holiday" | Paul Stein | Kenneth MacKenna | September 4 |

Herald-World's Production Directory

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>STORY</th>
<th>DIRECTOR</th>
<th>CHIEF PLAYERS</th>
<th>BRAND NAME</th>
<th>STARTING DATE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>&quot;The Painted Desert&quot;</td>
<td>Howard Higgin</td>
<td>Bill Boyd</td>
<td>September 6</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Footlight&quot;</td>
<td>Clyde Bruckman</td>
<td>Harold Lloyd</td>
<td>September 22</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Aloha&quot;</td>
<td>Al Rogell</td>
<td>Raquel Torres</td>
<td>September 24</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Talking Scenes</td>
<td>Robt. C. Bruce</td>
<td>Al Rogell</td>
<td>September 22</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gayety Comedy</td>
<td>William Watson</td>
<td>Johnny Hines</td>
<td>Christie</td>
<td>October 1</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Columbia Studios

| "Dirigible" | Frank Capra | Jack Holt | August 12 |
| "Reesland" | Lionel Barrymore | Edith Woodcock | September 12 |
| "Madonna of the Streets" | John Robertson | Evelyn Brent | September 12 |
| "The Blue Dragon" | John Bryanstone | Richard Cromwell | August 13 |
| "Criminal Code" | Howard Hawks | Walter Huston | September 22 |
| "Dawn Trail" | Christy Cabanne | Buck Jones | September 18 |

Hal Roach Studios

| "Another Nice Mess" | James Parrott | Laurel and Hardy | September 14 |

First National Studios

| "Sacred Flame" | Unnamed | "The Bad Man" | French Version |

Tec Art Studios

| "Voice of Hollywood" | Louis Lewyn | All Star | September 21 |
| "Mickey Mouse" | Disney Bros. | Disney Bros. | September 22 |
| "Varahold Adventure Series" | Elmer Clifton | Tom Terriss | September 22 |

Tiffany Studios

| "The World Champson" | Frank Strayer | Paul Hurst | Nita Martin |
“SHOOTING” A PICTURE

So far this paper has described a number of devices with which one can produce a motion picture without an explanation as to how they fit into the general problem of photographing and recording motion pictures. Now let us go into a sound stage with a typical motion picture feature in production and observe the actual “shooting.” Before doing so, however, we should first of all get ourselves with an understanding of some of the fundamental operations involved.

The average feature-length photoplay which we see in a theatre is usually around 7,000 feet in length when completed. To produce this footage, it is necessary to shoot 100,000 to 150,000 feet of picture negative. A current production which now has a length of 10,000 feet required the shooting of about 250,000 feet of picture negative alone in order to secure good “takes” of the very intricate scenes involved. The unused footage on the cutting-room floor compares with the superfluous manuscript of the writer except that the film costs more than waste-paper and much more than just one man’s time.

The 7,000 feet of the finished feature is made up of many short scenes which have been taken line to line and then spliced together. There are as many as 200 to 500 scenes in the average film. These scenes are very often not taken in the same order in which they are to be used in the final production. It is very common to shoot the end of the picture first, for example, or to shoot all the scenes that have to do with a particular character or setting at one time. This is done in the interest of economy.

The effort on the part of the many individuals collaborating in making the production is to get what we term the “perfect take,” and here is the procedure:

The director examines the script and tells the cameraman and the sound man where and what kind of action is going to take place. These two men in turn set up their equipment to photograph and to record the action in the best possible manner.

A complete rehearsal is held and all the adjustments checked. Finally, when the equipment is all been checked and satisfactory, the director is notified that all is ready for a take. The actors take their positions, the order “Camera” or “Turn em Over” is given, and with that the recording and photographing equipment is started. When it is running smoothly, which means but a few feet of film, the signal for the start of the take is given.

The actors then go through their lines and at the end of the take a synchronizing mark is placed on the film, together with an announcement as to the number of the take which is not only recorded but is also photographed on the picture negative. If everything has gone exactly as in rehearsal, this scene is done and “in the bag,” and another few minutes of picture has been added toward the total.

PRACTICAL DIFFICULTIES

In actual practice, however, there are any number of things which can happen to break up this chain of events.

Beginning at the beginning, we have as the first requisite the director explaining to the cameraman and the sound man what he is going to do. It may sound peculiar to think of shooting a photoplay recently released with motion picture production to say that the director does not always know what he wants even on the day when he is supposed to shoot, but such is often the case. Motion pictures being fundamentally a creative art, new ideas and better methods of telling the story present themselves very frequently. The director does not dare to ignore these new ideas and to follow along the lines of his original thought. In many cases the very spontaneity of the thought is the one quality which makes the difference between success and failure.

It has been said that a stage play is not written, but re-written, and the same expression holds true even more literally in the case of motion pictures. If it were not for the fact that a definite limit is set on the amount of money that may be spent on a photoplay and a time limit also set as a release date, a director might go on making and remaking his picture for months, as he would always keep finding newer ideas to improve it. A very striking example of a picture which was practically shot this way is now current in one of the leading picture companies. In this case there was no limit as to time or budget. The result is that the picture contains some of the most difficult scenes which were ever photographed and the excellence of these scenes is far above what has been done heretofore. Some particularly difficult scenes were re-shot as many as forty times before they were satisfactory, and each time some new idea was incorporated into the story.

This method of production, which is unique in motion picture history, is really the method which every director would use if he were given an unlimited amount of time and money, and it is the only way to keep motion pictures on a creative plane. The same infinite slowness and painstaking re-editing is noted in every creative art, in writing, in painting, and in all others. In many of these art, the re-editing process can be allowed to go on as long as it is desired, because the work is usually that of an individual and his is the only time lost. In the case of the motion picture, with tremendous expenses going on hourly, only a limited amount of changing can be allowed. The producing organization, however, strives to keep its facilities mobile so as to allow the director as much leeway as possible.

THE CONFERENCE

We see, then, that even the first requirement of this formula for making the perfect take is very difficult to obtain. Let us assume, however, that the director has his action quite definitely in mind and that he imparts the necessary information to the recording and photographic units. They immediately proceed to line up their equip-a compromise and select second choices. Neither director, camera nor sound man can get the scene exactly as he desires. Once this compromise is made, a complete rehearsal for both sound and photography is held. This is the usual time when new ideas pop into the director's mind. When he actually sees his action on the set, little changes come to him which he has previously been unable to visualize and very frequently they add a thought to the picture.

Very frequently, also, these changes are drastic enough to affect the entire lineup, so that was the next business, as it is called, it is necessary to go over all the preceding ground again. This has been known to happen many times in the making of a single take and one should always keep in mind that this takes time—and time in motion picture means money. The average motion picture production costs in the neighborhood of $3,000 an hour.

MAKING THE TAKE

After several rehearsals, the director has obtained action which he considers satisfactory, the cameraman and sound man have agreed on the best use of their equipment. Each of these has made sacrifices for the improvement of the picture as a whole. As this actual shooting begins. It is not to be supposed, however, that just because a rehearsal was satisfactory the take will be so. There are many difficulties entering into the take which were not apparent earlier. The principal one of these is the fact that it is very difficult to get the feeling into the lines when rehearsing. Not until the actor is actually playing the scene does he give his true interpretation of his lines. From this, the pictorial angle very often his action is exaggerated. From a sound standpoint he is included, and excised by his director and exactly as it was the case during the rehearsal. For one or more reasons, then, it is very generally necessary to make several takes before a satisfactory one is obtained.

Another source of trouble is foreign noises. A microphone having but one ear so to speak, and no power to discriminate, listens very much more attentively to off-stage and out-of-the-way things being done. Even the slightest foreign noises become very apparent in the record the microphone produces. Takes have been spoiled by a watchman's door creaking, by squeaky shoes walking around the stage during the take; by someone's cracking the pages in his notebook.

In the early days of sound, the noise of the camera motor and the hum of the arc lights were also serious problems. These, however, have now been solved except for occasional extreme cases.*

For the first year or so, another very important source of trouble was the director himself. In silent days he had been used to cueing his actors during a scene by calling out to them necessary directions to guide them in their action. In the ex-

---

---

WATCH THAT DUST CLOSELY, SAYS F. H. RICHARDCSON

Have you any unnecessary dust in your projection room? By unnecessary I mean, have you dust which you, the projectionist, might either have prevented from being there at all, or have removed if you could not prevent it from entering.

Have you tried to induce your manager to provide you with a good vacuum cleaner? If you have one, do you use it on the floor each day and on the ceiling and walls once or twice a week?

You cannot possibly have perfect sound results, you know, unless you have films in perfect condition, and the films wont long be in perfect condition. If dust is in the projection room atmosphere. Some of that dust will, as you very well know, settle on the film. When projection, handling and rewinding, its particles will produce scratches in the sound track—and in the picture, too. These scratches may be very fine. They may be more or less invisible to the eye, but they may set the volume of the eye. It may be a thin layer of dust from which the eye is sensitive. So, Mr. Projectionist, it is up to you to wage war against dust, and in this I don't mean viable! True, you can't be expected to keep all the dust out of the room, but the least you can do is to keep your room as free from it as is humanly possible.

---

*Of the following reports recently published by the Producers-Technicians Committee of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences: "Camera Slubbing Devices," by H. G. Knapp, J. F. Sambits, and Lester Connit, and "Methods of Slubbing Arcs," by L. E. Clark, Hollywood, May, 1930. (Twenty-five cents each.)

---

FIGURE 7

Massive sets such as this from the Universal period made the difficulties of coordinating the scores of elements which go to make up the scene. The microphone must convey to the recording machine every tone from the band in the center and the huge chorus.
2 Photophones to Be Used on Pathe Asiatic Expedition

Two RCA Photophone portable sound sets have been shipped from the United States to the Pathe studios at Joinville, near Paris, as the first step in preparations for an Asiatic expedition by Pathe which will embark January 1, 1931. The Photophone equipments were selected by Dr. Albert J. Devauch, technical sound director of the Pathe plant at Joinville, who made a special trip to the United States with Jacques Henri Rousselle, his electrical engineer.

Designated as "The Yellow Cruise," the tour through Asia will be headed by Georges Marie Haardt, French explorer, who will have with him a company of 50 men. Arrangements for the expedition have been in progress for more than a year.

Banditry prevails in several of the countries to be visited and it has been necessary to procure government protection. Caterpillar tractors, with trailers, will carry the equipment and members of the expedition.

To test his crew and equipment, Haardt proposes to make a short trip to Algeria for tests before the Asiatic expedition gets under way.

Portable Unit Will Demonstrate Sound in 40 Brazil Cities

An American distributor of sound equipment in Brazil, has secured a specially constructed portable sound unit with which he plans actual demonstrations of sound pictures in 40 cities to show exhibitors the box office value of talking pictures.

The 40 cities are all located in the states of Minas Geraes and Sao Paulo. The travelling sound sets will be kept on the road approximately six months.

Promoters of the project are enthusiastic concerning their "barnstorming" tour, says Harvey Sheahan, trustee commissioner, located at Rio de Janeiro, who states that this is the first attempt of its kind in Brazil to create interest in sound pictures, outside of the 10 or 12 key cities. The equipment is packed in special trunks and can be handled through trucks or on the railroad.

15 Photophones Installed in Metropolitan N. Y. in Month

Fifteen installations of RCA Photophone sound equipment were made in the metropolitan area of New York during September, a report by Bernard J. Scholtz, district manager, shows.

Included on the list are the following theatres: Idle Hour, Long Island City; Young Men's Hebrew Association, New York City; Broadway, Yonkers; Stuy, Newburgh; Boys' Club, New York City; Lee, Brooklyn; Ritz, Port Jervis; Shubert, Jamaica; Belmore, Belmore, L. I.; Cameo, Brewster, N. Y.; Roslyn, Roselle, N. J., and the summer home of William Randolph Hearst, Sand's Point, L. I.

Nettleford, English Firm, Making First Sound Film

The new Nettleford Studio at Walton-on-Thames, near London, England, has begun active operation with the production of "Castle," its first sound picture. The studios have been installed with RCA Photophone sound reproducing equipment. The main studio is 50 feet wide by 100 feet long.

W. A. Lott is in charge of the new organization.

Award of Merit

Rex Receives Unusual Honor Award of Merit

The Bronze "Plaque of Honor" has been presented to the

REX THEATRE

By Exhibitors Herald-World—(Worlds Largest Motion Picture Magazine) for its

PERFECT REPRODUCTION OF SOUND PICTURES

See the Beautiful Bronze Plaque,—A Tribute to our Perfect Sound System and Efficient House Staff,—Display in the Lobby of Theatre

A MARK OF HONOR HAS BEEN AWARDED THIS THEATRE FOR THE HIGH QUALITY OF ITS REPRODUCTION OF SOUND PICTURES

The Rex uses the World's Famous "Northern Electric Sound System

Here is a reproduction of the advertisement used by the Rex theatre at Kamloops, B. C., calling attention to the HERALD-WORLD plaque for better sound reproduction. The ad appeared in the Kamloops Sentinel. The actual wording of the plaque is reproduced in the inner box.

"See this beautiful bronze plaque—a tribute to our perfect sound system and efficient house staff—on display in the lobby of the theatre."

That's the catchline that was used to advantage by the Rex theatre at Kamloops, B. C., in attracting the Canadian public to the theatre which has been awarded the HERALD-WORLD Award of Merit for the excellence of its sound presentation. That hookup of advertising with theatre lobby is another of the many forms of direct value which the plaque brings to those theatres which have earned it.

"We want you to accept our sincere thanks for something that is going to be of very great value to us in several ways," writes W. Crompton, president of Rex Theatre Co., Ltd. "We mounted the plaque on some wallboard, making a very neat looking bit of furniture."

It is to be noted that in the newspaper advertisement the management has reproduced the lettering which appears on the plaque, explaining the purpose of the Award of Merit.
RCA Photophone Installs 220 Sets In U. S. and Canada in Two Months

RCA Photophone installed 220 sound reproducing sets in the United States and Canada during August and September, says a report by Sydney E. Abel, general sales manager. A total of 83 complete equipments was also shipped during the same period from the New York warehouses to foreign distributors.

This makes a total of slightly more than 300 contracts for Photophone sets during the two months. The installations made in the United States and Canada are listed below:

- Belmore
- Beloit
- Bismark
- Burlington, Vt.
- Cambridge, Mass.
- Cedar Rapids, Iowa.
- Chicago
- Cincinnati, Ohio.
- Cleveland, Ohio.
- Columbus, Ohio.
- Detroit
- East Liverpool, Ohio.
- Erie, Pa.
- Fort Wayne, Ind.
- Gary, Ind.
- Green Bay, Wis.
- Hamtramck, Mich.
- Harrisburg, Pa.
- Kalamazoo, Mich.
- Madison, Wis.
- Minneapolis, Minn.
- Muncie, Ind.
- Nashville, Tenn.
- New York
- North Tonawanda, N. Y.
- Ogdensburg, N. Y.
- Pittsburgh, Pa.
- Poughkeepsie, N. Y.
- Portsmouth, N. H.
- Rochester, N. Y.
- Saginaw, Mich.
- Springfield, Mass.
- St. Louis, Mo.
- Trenton, N. J.
- Toledo, Ohio.
- Troy, N. Y.
- Washington, D. C.
- Westfield, Mass.
- Winona, Minn.
- Worcester, Mass.
- Youngstown, Ohio.
- Zanesville, Ohio.

9 Foreign Versions Of “King of Jazz” Made by Universal

Universal has made nine different foreign language versions of “The King of Jazz.” The Spanish rendition opened at the Regal Theatre in September. London, Paris, and Berlin, among the major centres, have followed the Hungarian version, which is understood to have scored a success in Budapest. This picture has also been translated into French, German, Swedish, Italian, Portuguese, Czech-Slovakian and Japanese. In each of the versions, a master of ceremonies is introduced speaking in the language of the country in which the film is being shown.

The straight American version, after a trade showing in London, has been scheduled for a double run at the Alhambra and Regal theatres in the English capital.

Superheterodyne with Screen-grid Tubes Made by Radiola Division of RCA

The Radiola division of the R.C.A. Victor Company has announced that it will place on the market a new superheterodyne receiving set. This is the first time that screen-grid vacuum tubes have been incorporated with superheterodyne circuits; it is stated by W. V. Collamore, manager of the Radiola division.

These circuits are employed in the set, only four of them being variable. This is said to provide an unusual degree of selectivity and sensitivity.

The inclusion of home recording apparatus in a combination of superheterodyne-phonograph is another new model announced. A special switch on this set makes it possible to record excerpts from favorite broadcasting programs while the set is in operation. A simplified microphone is used for the home recording process.

“Men of the North” to Be Released in 5 Languages

“Men of the North,” M.G.M.’s new picture in the languages, will be released this month. The film was formerly known as “Mounty Le Fox.” It is directed by Hal Roach.

Other releases scheduled for September include Cecil B. DeMille’s musical comedy, “Madam Satan,” and “Love in the Rough.”

Novarro in Spanish Talker

“Sevilla de mis amores” has been announced as the working title for Ramon Novarro’s first talking picture in Spanish. Novarro is both starring and directing the film.
Curiosity Seekers, Old and Young, Come to See Baby Given Away on Stage

Giving away a real live baby from the stage may be an old stunt but it always brings a new laugh, and especially when the "real live baby" turns out to be a baby dog.

When the Fox Rialto theatre at Loveland, Colo., announced that it would give away a baby on a designated night, hundreds of curiosity-stricken citizens flocked to the ticket office. There were so many that they could not all be accommodated. Many stood outside and no one went away for they all wanted to see who got the baby. In the throng were indignant mothers who thought it a crime that an infant should be given away just like a piece of merchandise. And there were children who came to see what the baby looked like and lots of other people who came just to satisfy their curiosity.

"Now that's what I call a real exploitation stunt," said Ewart Boyd, the manager of the Rialto, to himself as he watched the crowds file in.

Newspapers Clamor for Copy

And the newspapers. They fell for the idea like a bear for honey, or a fly for tanglefoot. For days in advance they carried stories, most of which merely conjectured on whose baby it was and whose it was going to be, for Manager Boyd carefully guarded all information on the so-called "baby." It was all a secret. Secrets always intrigue the public and he knew it, for more than once he had successfully played upon curiosity in previous exploitation campaigns.

"Fat" Sanders Gives It Away

"Fat" Sanders, a member of the Rialto staff who is evidently somewhat of a character about Loveland, was the man elected to perform the giving-away ceremonies. He trundled up to the stage bearing the "infant" all wrapped up in his arms. It was bundled up in fancy ribbons and a blanket, with all the baby accessories, including a nursing bottle and teething ring.

Explaining the circumstances, he announced that the baby had come from a woman in Denver, whom he had promised that he would find the child a good home.

The lucky patron then stepped forward to receive the new addition to his family. This had, of course, been arranged in advance to make sure that some one would take the infant, so that the theatre wouldn't be left holding the bag. As Sanders handed over the bundle, he drew back the blanket and there it was not a baby at all, but a tiny thoroughbred Credynham puppy, "one of the best models on the market."

A good laugh was had by all.

Denver Has Football Feature

Another Colorado theatre, the Paramount at Denver, is also hitting the novel angle in its exploitation. On Friday night, which is program change night, special entertainment is given for high school students. One of the stunts used every Friday night is the projec-

Hamrick Music Box

Gives Telegrams on Olsen-Johnson Film

To exploit "Oh, Sailor Behave," in which Olsen and Johnson, comedians of the stage and screen are starred, Andrew Saso, manager of Hamrick's Music Box theatre, Portland, Ore., handed out fake telegrams through a sheet with Western Union.

The telegraph company agreed to set up one of its teletype machines in the lobby of the Music Box, which was operated by a girl. As patrons left the show, she handed them the telegrams plugging the coming of the Olsen and Johnson picture. The wires were signed with the names of the two comedians.

Following is a copy of the telegram:

"Dear Patron:

You know doubt have seen us on vaudeville stage and we now take great pleasure in calling your attention to our first talking picture, "Oh, Sailor Behave," opening Friday at John Hamrick's Music Box theatre. To assure you of a great picture, such stars as Irene Delroy, Charles King, Lowell Sherman, Noah Berry and Lotti Loder have been selected to assist us. Come and laugh with us next Friday."
RCA Photophone Gets Valuable Exploitation in Camden Radio Fete

Camden, N. J., was dedicated as "the radio center of the world" at an imposing celebration a short time ago. RCA Photophone, RCA Victor Company and Radio Corporation of America had a prominent part in the ceremonies and utilized all exploitation possibilities in a manner that merits description.

A feature of the day's program was a parade of 40 floats. The RCA Photophone entry was judged the winner on the basis of its artistic design. This float, which is shown elsewhere on this page, carried a large placard advertising the sound equipment company.

Employees of RCA Victor, nearly 20,000 in number, marched in the parade, which was led by the governor, United States Senator Baird, Secretary of Commerce Davis, David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, and E. E. Shumaker, president of RCA Victor.

The parade marched to the airport for dedication ceremonies and an air demonstration.

Photophone Demonstrated at Banquet

One of the highlights of the day's program was a banquet held at the Walt Whitman hotel. A short subject was shown on the screen by RCA Victor and RCA Photophone to honor Eldridge Johnson, inventor of the Victor talking machine. The film showed a character representing Eldridge Johnson as he labored over his first crude machine until he had brought it to a point of efficiency. One of the scenes portrayed the much-advertised fox terrier listening to "His Master's Voice." An artist had made a special sketch of this scene for the film.

The picture was screened on RCA Photophone portable sound reproducing equipment. Less than half a minute after this set was wheeled into the banquet room it was placed in operation.

Taken all in all, it was a big day for the exploitation of sound in Camden.

Pigeons Dwell in Theatre: Promotion Is Their Business

The Circle theatre in San Francisco shelters a flock of pigeons which attracts much attention. The birds make their homes in cornices of the building and pay their room rent by billing and cooing to the passersby who stop to see what it is all about.

Often the birds strut on the sidewalk out-side the Circle in large numbers. The management frequently provides food for them, as do passersby.

Bands, Motorboat And Tieups Promote "Top Speed" Picture

Six Austin automobiles, two bands and a motorboat, all carrying banners, advertised First National's "Top Speed" at the Warner Brothers theatre in Memphis.

Tieup with a taxicab company gave the theatre an additional bundle of promotion. Ninety cabs were stickered with this label: "This cab will take you at top speed to see 'Top Speed' with Joe E. Brown."

Through another tieup, 10,000 packages of Life Savers were inclosed in envelopes and distributed through the city. On the outside of the envelopes was the following copy: "Warner Brothers Theatre. Have a Life Saver with you when you're going at top speed, and see 'Top Speed' with Joe E. Brown. Starting Friday. Tops any comedy you've ever seen."

Symbolizing the sport which plays an important part in the action of the film, a large motorboat was placed in the lobby. Window Displays of sport wear were also obtained in some of the smartest shops in the city.

Paper Offers Prizes for "Makin' Whooppee" Parodies

When the Eddie Cantor picture, "Whooppee," was booked into the Indiana theatre, Marion, Ind., a local newspaper offered prizes for the best four-line stanza to the meter of the song "Makin' Whooppee."

Both cash prizes and theatre admissions were offered. The song is one sung by Cantor in the film and proved an excellent subject for a tieup.

Children of Five Charity Institutions Are Guests At Davey Lee Performance

Children from five charitable institutions were guests at the Indiana theatre, Indianapolis, during the week that Davey Lee made a personal appearance there. The five institutions represented were the Indianapolis Orphans' Home, the Lutheran Orphans' Home, a local day nursery, Protestant Orphans' Home, and the Whitcomb Riley Hospital for Children.

Transportation was provided by the street railway company without charge and traffic protection was provided by the police department. The Indiana Board of Photoplay Distributors was sponsor of the party.

H. E. Ruh Finds Birthday Idea Good Business Getter

For three years H. E. Ruh, manager of the Ozark theatre, Berryville, Kan., has employed a birthday idea, which he says he received from Exhibitors Herald-World. He gives every school child a card entitling the youngster to free admission on his birthday. The birthday of the child is written upon the card. An appropriate verse is printed upon it.
In Cleveland They
All Go to the State
And Dance in Foyer

Henry Shaw, manager of Loew’s State theatre, Cleveland, has converted his foyer into a dance floor for the patrons. So popular has the idea become that many who are not ardent picture enthusiasts have been converted to it.

The foyer, an unusually large one, is cleared for dancing every evening after the show is over. The regular admission is good for both the film and the dance. Shaw has placed a bit of strategy in the stunt, too. He has made it a rule that those who dance must first see the show. He reasons that in this way many anti-picture people will be converted to the State.

On the first night the dance feature was inaugurated, over 1,000 persons tripped the light fantastic on the foyer floor, Manager Shaw reports, and says that practically as many others remained to watch.

Music is provided by a seven-piece orchestra, with one of the stars on the stage bill acting as master of ceremonies.

Now ain’t that something? Maybe it’s an idea worth picking up for some of you other exhibitors who have the space and the accommodations to put it across.

Warner Tieup With Book
Firm on “Moby Dick” Gives Exhibitors Exploit Source

Here is a good opportunity for exhibitors to promote tieups.

A 75-cent edition of the Herman Melville novel, “Moby Dick,” has been placed on the market in connection with release of the whaling picture of the same name, produced by Warner Brothers and Vitaphone. Grosset and Dunlap are publishers of the book.

Book dealers throughout the country are planning exploitation of the novel to synchronize with the playing dates of the picture. The book carries special illustrations of scenes made in the film.

“Good News” Told at 250 Service Stations; Newspaper Has Contest

No business concern is so big or small that it cannot be prevailed upon to enter a motion picture tieup, believes Charles E. Couche, manager of the United Artists theatre, Portland, Ore. Couche has made a good record for himself in Portland in securing tieups. His latest adventure is a hookup with 250 service stations for “Good News,” Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture.

The General Petroleum Company offered space in the windows and at the front of 250 gasoline service stations. Posters carried this copy: “Good News! Violet Ray gasoline makes any car run better. See ‘Good News’ — the Comedy Whirlwind—United Artists Theatre.”

Since lithograph crayons were used in design of the poster sketch, a tieup was also arranged with the J. K. Gill Company, distributors of the crayons, in which the original poster was displayed with explanatory references on the materials used by the artists.

Given News of Prosperity

One of the newspapers ran a “Good News” contest for six days. Contestants were invited to enumerate all optimistic phases of business in the city. Building programs, new payrolls and other indications of prosperity were eligible contributions. As an incentive to bring more contestants, the newspaper each day ran a special interview with some prominent business man who gave “good news” on prosperity.

Couche used a similar tieup, although not quite so sweeping in its scope, for promotion of “Let Us Be Gay.” Twelve drug stores, strategically located in the city, cooperated in the advertising of perfumes, with the star of the picture, Norma Shearer, as the connecting link in the tieup. The actress was shown on stalls demonstrating the cosmetics.

Heralds Redeemed for Perfume

Heralds were distributed at the theatre to all women attending “Let Us Be Gay.” Each herald was redeemable at any one of the 12 drug stores for a miniature vial of perfume, which was advertised as “a gift from Norma Shearer.”

When Miss Shearer’s picture opened at the United Artists, the mayor issued a proclaimed
Fort Wayne Displays Flags, Has Holiday as New Theatre Opens

Opening of a new theatre can be made an epochal event in any community and that is precisely what it became when the new Paramount theatre in Fort Wayne, Ind., opened its doors for the first time this month.

Merchants in the downtown district co-operated thoroughly and made it a holiday, a prosperity day for the city. Department stores had large window displays tied up with the opening picture at the Paramount, drug stores had bargain specials and other business houses helped to advertise the event in their windows.

One of the department stores displayed in its most prominent show window a dress purported to be worn by Nancy Carroll in "Follow Thru," the film shown at the theatre's opening. A negligee presumably worn by Miss Carroll in her latest Paramount picture, "Laughter," was also exhibited in the same window.

In the window of another store, two girls were posed reading announcements of coming films at the theatre. Still another store had two girls seated in a show window on the same evening. Before then were telephones with extension connections. They picked numbers at random in the telephone directory and called the homes to inform citizens of the theatre's opening.

The chamber of commerce tied up by ordering that all merchants display their flags on opening day.

Stock Company Cast of "Let Us Be Gay" Attends Film Version in Cincinnati

M. C. Martin, manager of the Orpheum theatre, Cincinnati, had the entire cast of the National Players, a stock organization, as his guests for the showing of "Let Us Be Gay". The week before the film came to the Orpheum the stock company had presented it upon a Cincinnati stage. Manager Martin invited his patrons to make comparisons of the legitimate presentation and the film version. This was good for several news stories and personal appearance of the stage cast boosted attendance.

The Orpheum is a large second run house located in one of the near suburbs.

Sketch of Cantor, Stetson Hat Tieup Exploit "Whoopie"

Three weeks before the playing date of "Whoopie" at the California theatre, San Francisco, a huge head of Eddie Cantor was sketched on the fourth street wall of the house.

Special programs were given over broadcasting stations plugging the picture and dance orchestras featured numbers from it. Phonograph records were sold in the lobby featuring the same songs, with the theatre sharing the profits.

Tieup with a Stetson hat store gave just the type of window display desirable for the film. "Whoopie" is a musical comedy with a Western setting and 10-gallon hats are much in evidence throughout the film. Hence, nothing could have been more appropriate than the window display of hats provided by Stetson.

The usual complement of 43 billboards was increased to 75. Newspaper advertising was also increased.

3 Film Stars Given Roof Garden Party In Cincinnati Tieup

When a screen star comes to town, the exhibitor has to have his exploitation stage all set to "shoot the works." That is what the management of the Shubert theatre did in Cincinnati for the personal appearances of Jean Harlow and Olson and Johnson. A tieup was effected with the Hotel Gibson, which specializes in elaborate entertainment on its roof garden. "Hell's Angels" was roadshowing at the Shubert when Jean Harlow, star of the film arrived for a personal appearance in connection with dedication of the airport. She made appearances at the Shubert on the first three days of the picture's showing and on the opening night she went to the Hotel Gibson roof garden to act as hostess to a group of nationally known aviators who had participated in the airport dedication. This was designated "Hell's Angels" Night.

The following evening, Olson and Johnson, the comedy stars of "Oh, Sailor Behave," likewise appeared at the roof garden. This was advertised as "K.O. Night."

On both occasions the roof of the Hotel Gibson was packed to capacity.

Handley Goes Up Ladder

Leroy Handley, once an usher at the Majestic theatre in San Antonio, is now assistant to Raymond B. Willie, managing director of that theatre.
EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD

October 18, 1930

“WILD COMPANY” — Does Not Preach

But it portrays in a dramatic story the most humane document ever brought to the talking screen

H. B. Warner, you can ever forget his role in “Jenral and Son,” depicted in “Wild Company,” with Frank Albertson, Joyce Compton.

The problem posed a woe, bis home world. The prime “Wild Company,” into the story just as a child to the die, with the one who has seen their one or daughter go as the rule violates the honor of patriotic characteristics or situations.

GEORGE L. BAKER

Mayor George L. Baker of Portland, Ore., gives practically a personal guarantee of Fox’s “Wild Company” in this clever written up by the Fox Broadway house in Portland. Insertion of H. B. Warner’s picture in the margin adds to the attractiveness.

Columbia Patrons
Handed Programs
Of Coming Pictures

Jack Webber, manager of the Columbia theatre, Portland, Ore., distributed a neat little program to all patrons a week in advance of the showing of “With Byrd at the South Pole.”
The card was only to those coming into the theatre. It had the cast of characters for the Byrd film neatly printed upon it.
Prior to the feature picture at each showing, a slide was projected on the screen calling attention to the cards handed each patron.
The lights were turned on long enough for all to glance through the list of characters. On the right-hand side of the card appears names of coming attractions.
This plan is to be followed on all pictures and Manager Webber has found, upon checking up, that in many cases the cards are car-rried home and supplement the word-of-mouth advertising of a pleased customer.

Fan Magazine to Conduct
Contest on Sono Art Tieup

“Screen Romance,” a motion picture fan magazine, will run in its December issue a contest on the question: “Would you like to see Ruth Roland return to the screen in talkie versions of her late serials?”
The contest is conducted through a tieup with Sono Art-World Wide, producer of Miss Roland’s pictures.

Theatre Staff Parades

C. H. Moss, advertising and publicity manger of the Empire theatre, San Antonio, dispatched all the men on the theatre floor staff and a like number of girls, who had been employed for the occasion, to exploit “Sweethearts on Parade.” The group marched double file through the streets with banners pinned on them reading: “Sweethearts on Parade to the Empire Theatre.”

Fox Milwaukee Houses Adopt
New Policy of Exploiting Serial Picture

Proof that serials are staging a comeback is evident in the exploitation campaign conducted at the Fox Milwaukee the-nes in Milwaukee for “The Indians Are Coming.” Seven of the Fox houses are showing the picture.

The serial opened a few days ago at the Miller theatre, a popular downtown house, with Joe Levinson, manager, in charge of the promotion. A lobby display was arranged which included an excellent array of Indian paraphernalia. An Indian, attired in a chief’s regalia, stood guard over the exhibit. In addition a theatre party was given newsboys of one of the large newspapers, which brought stories and pictures in that paper.

Indians, dressed in their war costumes, made the rounds of the Milwaukee schools handing out literature and advertising to children during recess periods. The redskins all carried placards for the picture on their backs.

Six Fox de luxe neighborhood theatres are showing the serial in addition to the Lobby display at the Miller theatre, Milwaukee, for Universal’s serial “The Indians Are Coming.” The serials are making a comeback and there is no better proof of it than the above exhibit.

Hampton in Gulfport

R. V. Hampton of Alexandria, La., has succceeded Ray Peterson as manager of the Saenger-Publix Strand in Gulfport, Miss.
Peterson has transferred to the Lyric at Mobile, Ala., where he is manager.
Letters six feet high and four feet wide illuminated an area several blocks in diameter about the Ritz theatre at Tulsa for the showing of Fox's "Common Clay." The electrical sign was mounted on a tower 30 feet above the theatre. The display was said to be visible from a distance of nearly a mile.

Tunes for Your House Organ!
Play Them Whenever You Like

H. Shulgold, publicity director for the Roxian theatre, McKees Rocks, Pa., edits a house organ that is jam full of interesting sidelights on film stars and carries a lot of advertising. The publication is called "Filmdom." Each issue carries an editorial. Here is one of the latest from the pen, or should we say the typewriter? of Shulgold:

Consider the News Reel

Perhaps it is not right that the theatre patron be asked to stop and consider what vast resources, thought and labor go into the making of his entertainment. It is only natural that the theatre patron take his seat, relax and mentally challenge what happens to be transpiring on the screen to amuse him. True, we are all quick to applaud the endeavors of the producers when they please us, but we are more quick to condemn when they do not. But that is as it should be.

Nevertheless, the editor begs that you allow him to call to your attention, that wonder of wonders, the modern sound newsreel. The newsreel was once a loving thing. Looked upon by all as something to be slept through; considered by the theatre manager as a filler on his program and nothing more. But with the introduction of the sound news reel, it took on a new importance. It became a part, a necessary part of a theatre program. The companies who produce them developed, through the expenditure of vast sums, an organization equalled only by that of a metropolitan newspaper with an international wire service.

Consider the newsreel you will appreciate it even more.

Those Censors!

We men who own or operate theatres cannot but wonder sometimes whether these film censorship boards are “doing right by our Nell,” or, rather, our theatres.

You who attend motion picture shows and see the notice “Adults Only” in big black letters must sometimes wonder what these film censors are about.

For example, the censors in Chicago recently decreed that a certain picture should be shown to adults only in that city. At the same time the same film was also being shown in New Orleans where one theatre gave children’s matinees for it. Is there any consistency in that? We ask you.

Then there is the case down in Ohio. The censorship board ruled that “The Big House” could not be shown anywhere in the state because it dealt with crime and prison riots. The censors said it reflected upon their prison officials.

Many Ohioans living near the boundary lines went into other states to see the picture. After a while protests rose so strong against the censors that they were forced to remove the ban and everybody in Ohio is flocking to see “The Big House.”

All of which proves you can’t hold a good picture down.

We have lots of pictures on our winter schedule fully as good as “The Big House.” You will want to see them. Watch for our announcements of coming attractions.

Baughman at Oklahoma City

Dale C. Baughman has succeeded William Heiner as manager of the Liberty theatre, Oklahoma City. Baughman was formerly located in St. Louis. Heiner has been transferred to the latter city.

Sam Pedigo is the new manager of the Palace theatre, Oklahoma City.

They All Talk About “Old Man Riddle”

Film Title Contest

“Old Man Riddle” is the name of a film title contest being conducted by the RKO houses in Dayton, Ohio, a local newspaper. The daily has published a full page list of 999 motion picture titles. Each day an illustrated question is asked. The gag is to answer the query with one of the film titles.

The contest is to run 90 days. Although it is far from finished, replies have been received by the thousands from all corners of the city as well as from outlying districts within a radius of 100 miles.

Four grand prizes ranging from $250 down to $100 are to be given. The newspaper is taking care of a large share of this expense. In addition there will be 100 cash prizes of $10 and under.

The RKO circuit believes this is one of the most successful tieups, from a popularity viewpoint, that it has ever negotiated.

Booster Club Gets Publicity

A New Orleans newspaper recently carried an art layout of pictures showing members of the Saenger theatre’s Booster Club in their stage costumes. The youngsters, all under 14 years of age have received much favorable mention for the exhibitions they have put on under the direction of the theatre staff.
THE SHORT FEATURE

Newspictures

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL NO. 82—Boyd and Conner off on honeymoon in a gyrocopter—short subject.

HEARST METRONOME NEWS NO. 204—Hoover speaks to Dixie throng at Kings Mountain—Merton shows latest Paris model—Lamborrianesque film—F.T.U. Dixie's warplane race-Po river bridge.

KING GRAMMOS NO. 564—Old Trouches, reconditioned, sail in Legion celebration—embargo on wines in Great Britain goes into effect—short subject.

CITY NEWS No. 85—Prepare R-101 for flight ended by flames and death—Use diving tower to teach that escape from sub can be learned in Chicago—short subject.

Hoffberg-Cornfeld
Obtains 12 Comedies

Hoffberg, Cornfield Company, Inc., has purchased from Artclass Pictures Corporation for Spain and Portugal the series of 12 synchronized comedies, which includes four Ben Turpin comedies, four Snub Pollard comedies and four Houdyshel Pollard comedies.

Fox Books Columbia

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Fox New England Theatres has booked Columbia's Superi or Twenty features and a number of short subjects in its deluxe houses. The Columbia theatres are the Palace, Fleet; Palace, Waterbury; Capitol and Palace, Hartford; Palace, Bijou and Hyperion, New Haven; Palace, Majestic and Globe, Bridgeport.

Government Releases 2-Reeler

WASHINGTON.—The U. S. Department of Agriculture has released a new two-reel film, "How to Grow Hogs," dealing with economical methods of hog production.

Twelve Educational Comedies Go to Exhibitors in November

Educational has placed 12 comedies on its November release schedule, the first of which will be "Love a la Mode," a Mermaid comedy. One-half of the releases will be two-reel subjects and the other half one-reelers.

"Love a la Mode," directed by Stephen Roberts, will feature Bernard Granville, Jerry Drew and Kathryn McGuire. It will be released on November 2.

Among the other new comedies are new Terry-Toon comedies called "Jumping Beans" and "Don't Bite Your Dentures." The latter is the third in the series of Mack Sennett Com edies and will go to the exhibitors November 9. Its cast includes Andy Clyde, Daphne Pollard, Nick Stuart, and Patsy O'Leary.

C. M. Jones Joins U

C. M. Jones has been named assistant manager of the Universal exchange, Kansas City. For several years he was manager of the Educational branch there, later becoming manager for Tiffany. For the last six months he has been a salesman for Columbia.

Kiddies Get Ice Cream

Every child attending the first show on Wednesday afternoon at the Paramount in Des Moines, Ia., is served ice cream which a local concern donates.
"Name Acts" Barred from Boards

New Policy Is Instituted in RKO Theatres

Reliance Upon Notoriety, Other Than Actual Stage Talent, Will Have No Success

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 16.—A new booking policy has been announced by the heads of big time vaudeville in connection with RKO theatres, which bars acts which have gained notoriety in any other way than by legitimate work on the stage, and which are known by bookers as "name acts." People who have won public notice, for instance, in the divorce courts, or by any other reason than by their artistic talents upon the stage, will be in the future classed as "undesirable" and will not be booked for appearances over the big time vaudeville circuits.

In line with this policy, Leon Caouchois was recently denied a booking because the idea was considered by the management as an attempt to "cash in" on publicity which had been won by her former husband, Rudy Vallee.

Affect Motion Picture Stars

Many motion picture stars, who are to be classed as ineligible because of considered lack of talent, will also come under the ban. When the question was asked whether people like Lita Grey Chaplin, divorced wife of Charlie Chaplin; Irene Bordoni, former wife of E. Ray Coetz; or Lisa Basquet, widow of Sam Warner, would be affected by the "undesirable" clause, it was explained that they have recognized histrionic ability, and consequently would be allowed booking privileges.

Although a list has been prepared for the guidance of booking agents, the management would not reveal what names were contained therein. It was made plain, however, that so-called "publicity hounds," divorcees who have figured in sensational court actions, husb-and slayers, transcontinental or transoceanic flyers, tree-sisters and other of the daredevil type would be barred.

Physical Ailments Barred

One legged dancers, deaf mutes or others who gain public favor because of their physical defects are not even to be given a hearing by the agents.

It was also pointed out that pugilists, regardless of their physical prowess or scientific ability, are taboo. Such personages as James J. Corbett, Benny Leonard and Jack Dempsey, however, who have acting ability, and have proved that they have it, are not to be denied engagements. Along with Carnera, even if he should attain the top rung of the heavyweight ladder, is listed Max Schmeling, both of whom would not be considered eligible.

Here we have Harold "Dan" Daniels, who is "organizing" for his appreciative audience at the Essaness theatre, the New Center, an audience that can't seem to do anything but sing when Dan gets going. Besides spending a good deal of time figuring out ways and means to charm his "pupils," Dan is vice president of the Chicago Society of Theatre Organists and also on the staff of the Quality Slide company as a version writer. Incidentally, he uses all his own original versions in presenting community song solos.

Harry Zimmerman

Solo Organist
BELMONT THEATRE
Publix Balaban & Katz
CHICAGO

STAGE SHOWS

Philadelphia Tower
Three Days Ending October 11

It's an ill wind that blows nobody any good and the musicians' strike in Philadelphia has caused crowds to flock to the Tower and Carman theatres, practically the only two motion picture houses in Philadelphia with music and stage shows. The Tower is running a special outdoor advertising campaign stressing the fact that they are offering music and stage shows.

The stage show "Pan Pottery," was a rollicking song and dance revue, featuring Howard Linn's Metropolitans, who provided the melody, and William Seabury and his Proteges.

The stage decorations consisted of a fan shaped arrangement of geometric shapes of sparkling colors, with brilliantly colored hanging lights, providing an effective background for the costumes of the dancers.

First to appear were the Martini Sisters, three Southern beauties who seemed to add proof to the theory that Southern girls have the quintessence of charm. Not only were they beautiful and charming but they danced together gracefully and sang "Little White Lie," and several other selections very well.

Bobby London, black-hairied dancer with lots of pep, can tap dance with the best of them and introduced an original touch by standing on her hands and tap dancing against the side of the stage.

Miss Isamara Bayre is one of those prettiest and cream blacks who waltzes charmingly and whose toe dancing is above the average. She and William Seabury gave an interesting pantomime of a young man and the girl friend going to a night club in an automobile.

Then In a costume of black, silver and ostrich feathers she contributed a graceful toe dance that was one of her numbers in the Ziegfeld Folies. The two Ladelles' trunks caused many laughs and were given a good hand.

Ed and Morton Beek are a versatile pair whose impersonations brought down the house. In rapid succession they gave two humorous skits and an impersonation of John Barrymore singing a theme song to Greta Garbo. Then shifting from the comic to the dramatic they offered a very emotional interpretation of two Americans on a rubber plantation "somewhere east of Suez" that was very original and proved them real actors. In this last impersonation the song "East of Suez" was effectively introduced with orchestral music by Linn's Metropolitans.

William Seabury gave a characteristic dance that he had originated followed by the Martini Sisters in songs and tap dances and Bobby London with pin wheels, somersaults and splits.

There was a finale in which all the cast participated followed by such prolonged applause that all were forced to appear before the curtain. John De Palma's 0rigin prelude, "Gems from Roa Marie," was much appreciated.

Chicago Oriental
Week Ending October 17

The crowds that packed into this theatre would alone be significant that something of unusual interest was going on, and when one glanced at the sign above the marquee, the reason was quite plain. When four major league baseball players join in a quartet on the stage and begin to sing—well, that in itself is sufficient to create interest, and interest

(Continued on next page, column 1)
STAGE SHOWS

(Continued from preceding page, column 3)

EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD

October 18, 1930

NEW YORK, Oct. 16—Robert M. (Bob) Weitman and Stephen Barituo have just taken another step up the ladder of progress. Both men who started out with Paramount Public Theatres, have been assigned new responsibilities within the organization. Bob, becoming city supervisor of Public’s Metropolitan houses and Steve managing director of the Brooklyn Paramount. Both started their careers with Paramount following his graduation from Public Training School. His first assignment was as assistant manager of the Rialto In New York. On the other hand, Steve came from the Metropolis from the field where he was assigned with C. L. Jacks and Bob Sullivan to install “the spirit of service” in every Public house.

Weitman and Barituo Are Promoted
(Special to the Herald-World)

As an exhibit of the stage, a Will Harris production, began with a dance done by members of the New York Philharmonic who carried the stage attended in football costume and did a fast tap routine before a very thin curtain behind which the band car was located. Then the Allison Sisters appeared, archolek dancers who drew a good band. They were lovely and agile, and that combination always assures one that such an act would be good.

Next came an Indian dance, in which the entire ballad took part, and for an accompaniment to which Ruth Petry sang and Miss Ella, captain of the ballad did solo number. All was perfectly pleasing, and Miss Dell is to be congratulated for her splendid condition. Feather head gear bobbing around in rhythmical fashion made a pleasing background, and supplemented by Miss Petry’s singing, it made a delightful product.

Charlie Crafts, master of ceremonies, appeared at just the right time to sing, for somehow or other, the audience gets restless unless Charlie sings at least one or two numbers, with an equal number of recites. For his songs, Charlie chose “If I Could Be With You” and “Maybe It’s Love.” The latter drew round after round of applause, and two encores of the chorus of this number were needed to appease the pleased audience.

And then the big moment of the show, the baseball players. And they were none other than “Hank” Williams and his “Gang,” “Kip” Haines, “Cliff” Honeiney. Did they get a reception? The Chicago Cub fans outdid themselves, and then settled in their chairs comfortably for they took their supreme entertainment. After Charlie asked them a few questions, one after another, of the four gathered together in quartet formation and sang “From Now On” and did a pretty good job of it, too. Their singing together is a daily procedure after the games, and as their talent was found out, they had to stand all the applause.

Johnny Perkins appeared again to a big hand, which was indicative of his popularity, and joined the players, attired in a baseball suit. Somewhat previous to this he had done a singing number, using for songs the four together in the four gathered together in quartet formation and sang “The Life of Paradise” and the way he did them established him then, even though he was already deep in public favor.

Gathering the players about him, he told a little story in song, “When You’re Smiling,” which was done effectively and well. Ruth Petry appeared again, singing “I Want a Little Boy,” and she didn’t have any trouble at all in getting four little boys, the last one of whom was “Hank” who appropriately turned up right off the stage. This brought the house down, and had to be repeated three times. Then Tommy, the bat boy, was presented.

As a finale, the Travelers reappeared carrying hams on their hands and baseball clubs, waving them about and doing a ten routine. A stage show well worth seeing, and full of fun from beginning to end.

San Francisco Fox
Week Ending October 16

Walt Roosner, fresh from his triumph at the Roxy theatre, New York, returned an evening when he again leads his orchestra in a rendition of "L’Etoile de France," his symphonic arrangement of airs from the "RobesWithString," the "Swan," "Meditation of Thail," and "Marceline." This was his last local offering before leaving for New York and the one he was introduced to New York on his recent visit. As before, this was presented with a tableau of six French girl dancers and eight trombones, in addition to a realistic representation of Joan d’Arc at Orleans. Organists at two consoles assisted in the thunderous finale.

The stage show proper is Flanagan and Marco’s "American Beauty Idea," featuring Miss Universe, the world’s most beautiful woman and eight runners-up in the international beauty contest held at Cal- nelson Tex. These being Miss Mississippi, Miss Louisiana, Miss Louisville, Miss Ohio, Miss Long Island, Miss Brooklyn, Miss Pennsylvania and Miss Detroit. Miss Universe sings, but her laurels rest rather on her beauty.

Toots Novelle, offering rhythmic reels from head to heels, dances first on his hands and then on his feet and performs equally well on either and on stairs as well as on the floor.

The highlight of the show is the number, presented in a musical comedy and a dancing comedy, coupled with the audience left to guess how it is done. Girk reduced to the size of dolls dance against a black curtain and long skinny dolls then go through covers.

Edie Huntley and the Personality Boys offer a number entitled "Anything For A Laugh" but don’t seem to get the audience beyond the giggling point. Haff and Haff present some moderation of this that gets over well. The American Beauty is also in this, appearing with some remarkable head-dresses.

The act comes to a close with a real blast appearing in the background with Miss Universe standing upon it, looking out on the audience. The show is filled with beauty but the speciality numbers seem to fall a little short of their mark. The return of Walt Roosner as musical director seems to overshadow the show.

Oklahoma City Orpheum
Week Ending October 11

A really entertaining bill was presented and much enjoyed by pleased good audiences at the Orpheum, with R.K.O. vaudeville, the headliners featuring Sylvia Clark, vaudeville’s little buffoon, Fred Reynolds and Alice White in a surprise “Musical and How?” Bob Rips, Europe’s Phenomenal Boy Juggler, and Joe Daly and his R.K.O. Diversions, and on the screen was seen Fox Sound News and the feature picture "The Squeakers," a Columbia film.

Milwaukee Wisconsin
Week Ending October 9

Panchon & Marco’s “Country Club” idea opens with Frank Elmer, master of ceremonies. Introducing Ray Samuel, who plays the tunes of 16 Country Club Cuts, through their paces in a routine dance. All the girls are attired in polo outfits and present a striking appearance before a country club setting.

"Wasn’t It Beautiful" is offered by the jockeys under the direction of Jimmy grape, while Frank Elmer sings the song through in good style.

The Franz Bros., acrobatic artists, show a number of strong arm stunts in fine fashion. The boys are good and draw heavy applause.

Leonard Cott and Frankie Shwaber render the vocal selections in connection with the next number, fashion of various periods in history are displayed, both as to external garb as well as under garments with “Can’t Go Wrong With Any Feist Song”

WHAT’S THE USE

DOWN THE RIVER OF GOLDEN DREAMS
AROUND THE CORNER

I’LL BE BLUE JUST THINKING OF YOU

UKULELE MOON

IT HAPPENED IN MONTEREY

SWEETHEART OF MY STUDENT DAYS

IF I HAD A GIRL LIKE YOU

THE SONG WITHOUT A NAME

A BIG BOUQUET FOR YOU

THE WALTZ YOU SAVED FOR ME

WHY HAVE YOU FORGOTTEN WAIKIKI

(Continued on next page, column 2)
HELLO EVERYBODY—Danny Winkler, general manager of De Sylva, Brown and Henderson, Inc., has recently appointed Eddie Carley to succeed Irving Crocker as Boston branch manager for the firm. Carley has been prominently engaged in the music business over an extended period of years and is well and favorably known in Boston and throughout the New England states. Carley sings and broadcasts frequently and has become familiar to the radio fans of “Way Down East.” There are now perhaps more important radio hours utilizing Hungarian and Gypsy music than any other type. Aside from the recent “Old Gypsy” hour of national selection is heard more often where ever Hungarian music is played than the famous “A Ven Cigany.” This has become so popular that it is often considered a Gypsy folk song, although in reality is an original recording by the celebrated Hungarian composer, Erno Kender. Now for the first time it has been translated into English and cast as musicals and radio and television programs have had an impact on the Gypsy and Gipsy music, creating a demand for its availability. The show has been featured on the network and has reached a national audience.

A Correction

By some error, an item in last week’s issue of Exhibitors Herald World attributed the writing, in toto, of these songs, which are being handled by the music, to the Fox in Chicago, to Jimmie Green. Not that Jimmie cannot handle them, but that all the songs are subject to copyright.

The tender and moving story tells of the old Jews who tried to recapture the telephones of their youth only to be thrown out by the same people he had once thrilled. . . . Miss Carol Raven, who is responsible for the musical adaptation, has completely captured the vivid spirit of the Hungarian words and the throbbing melody. Ernest Deutsch, whose Gypsy orchestras are featured on the leading Radio hours, considers “The Old Gypsy” his favorite and says it plays regularly at all his broadcasts.

Similarly it is rendered by the A & P Gypsies and the Paramountese, and has attracted the attention of the Winnipeg Free Press. It is said that over the last year, a shift has been added to Brooklyn to replace Gypsy Joe and his orchestra at the Fox theatre. . . . Jack, who has always been as popular with the audience as he has been with the boys in his band, is planning to put on some novel orchestral overtures. . . .

Seasight, the ceremonious, with an initial selection as professional manager, has returned from Europe after a four month's survey of the popular music situation and has become the General Professional Manager of Mills Music, Inc. Arthur has a very keen following in the profession, in fact it is one of the biggest radio stars, vaude, artists, orchestra and band leaders. E. B. (Buddy) Morris, vice president, and Alphers Holdin, president, has just returned from an extended business tour through the middle west. Their trip was one of the highlights of the biggest radio stars, vaude, artists, orchestra and band leaders. . . .

The Paramount has been a great advance with the bookings. . . .

On the Paramount stage is a new feature, the orgies of Noise and Music. The show is presented by the Paramount orchestra which augmented the Hollywood-produced The Woman of the Year with large and enthusiastic and appreciated the appearance of the young, Erwin, Paramount's youngest comedian and his banjo. Nera Shiller, the little "half pint o' blue" was another who laughed at trouble. She sang most entertainingly "Roll-Roll-Balling Alone" and "If I Had a Boy Like You." The Three Dynamons, who went in for funny stunts and acrobatic tricks, captured their share of the honors.

Before the Mike

BY BOBBY MELLIN

Del Lamps, long noted as one of Chicago's master musicians, has jumped the gun with a vengeance. Although he has been heard over Chicago stations during the past few years, it was not until last winter that NBC studios reported him as one of the coming bands of the country, and had him on a "try me" piece lasting a sustaining feature. Now he is heard twice a week on the "Good Time Hour" and as a sustaining feature of Chicago on Friday nights as Del Lamp's "Everyday Mickey" and as the "Friendly Five Footnotes" on Thursday afternoons.

As a conductor, Phil Kendell is considered one of the leaders in the evolution of dance music toward a milder form. Although he has never been guilty of playing "over the heads" of his public, neither has he been guilty of playing below his own standards in an attempt to win public favor. He believes that the American public is satisfied with more noise and clamor in its popular music, and in the fact that the short space of five or six years, has risen to a place among the most famous dance bands of the country, seems to justify fully his faith in the fundamental soundness of American musical tastes.

Visitors at the New Chicago headquarters of the NBC never fail to remark on the beauty of the place, the absolute absence of the congestion of the larger studios and the amount of work involved in starting a radio program, but there is another feature that is perhaps the most impressive, the one that never escapes their eye—that is the beauty of the priceless collection of athletes and musicians that frequent the visitors on their entrance. These girls, selected for their appearance as well as才能, are a real "touch to the town."}

Paul Whiteman, known as the king of jazz, opened a two weeks engagement at the Casa Grande—Mark Prates of station WBBM says he is contemplating having his orchestra come over for a "tour of the states," which may be "stringing" me along, just for yesterday Mark Prates of station WBBM says he is contemplating having his orchestra come over for a "tour of the states," which may be "stringing" me along, just for yesterday Mark Prates of station WBBM says he is contemplating having his orchestra come over for a "tour of the states," which may be "stringing" me along, just for yesterday Mark Prates of station WBBM says he is contemplating having his orchestra come over for a "tour of the states," which may be "stringing" me along, just for yesterday Mark Prates of station WBBM says he is contemplating having his orchestra come over for a "tour of the states," which may be "stringing" me along, just for yesterday Mark Prates of station WBBM says he is contemplating having his orchestra come over for a "tour of the states," which may be "stringing" me along, just for yesterday Mark Prates of station WBBM says he is contemplating having his orchestra come over for a "tour of the states," which may be "stringing" me along, just for yesterday Mark Prates of station WBBM says he is contemplating having his orchestra come over for a "tour of the states," which may be "stringing" me along, just for yesterday Mark Prates of station WBBM says he is contemplating having his orchestra come over for a "tour of the states," which may be "stringing" me along, just for yesterday Mark Prates of station WBBM says he is contemplating having his orchestra come over for a "tour of the states," which may be "stringing" me along, just for yesterday Mark Prates of station WBBM says he is contemplating having his orchestra come over for a "tour of the states," which may be "stringing" me along, just for yesterday Mark Prates of station WBBM says he is contemplating having his orchestra come over for a "tour of the states," which may be "stringing" me along, just for yesterday Mark Prates of station WBBM says he is contemplating having his orchestra come over for a "tour of the states," which may be "stringing" me along, just for yesterday Mark Prates of station WBBM says he is contemplating having his orchestra come over for a "tour of the states," which may be "stringing" me along, just for yesterday Mark Prates of station WBBM says he is contemplating having his orchestra come over for a "tour of the states," which may be "stringing" me along, just for yesterday Mark Prates of station WBBM says he is contemplating having his orchestra come over for a "tour of the states," which may be "stringing" me along, just for yesterday Mark Prates of station WBBM says he is contemplating having his orchestra come over for a "tour of the states," which may be "stringing" me along, just for yesterday Mark Prates of station WBBM says he is contemplating having his orchestra come over for a "tour of the states," which may be "stringing" me along, just for yesterday Mark Prates of station WBBM says he is contemplat...
STAGE SHOWS

LOU BONDER (New York Fox Park Plaza) presented an unconventional production in his "Let's Be Usual" organ solo last week. Everything about this pleasant novelty was entertaining, unusual and rare in humor.

A special chorus slide to the tune, "He's So Usual" introduced this novelty and Bonder, in a showmanly manner, followed with an oral explanation to the effect that his audience was to be unusual by singing loudly a chorus of "Moonlight on the Colorado." The reaction of the audience certainly didn't sound like it was unusual for them to sing loudly. The next song was a whistling chorus of "My Future Just Passed," and was followed by a chorus of "Confessin'," to which the audience tried to fill in missing words. Bonder closed this pleasing solo with two clever choruses of tongue-twisters. The audience's pleasure was proved by the very good reception accorded his efforts. Lou, through his efforts to please the audience, his clever novelty and some fine playing, has made his name a by-word in this neighborhood and the popularity is attested by the enthusiastic manner the patrons accept him.

HENRI KEATES (Harding, Chicago) presenting for the approval of the audience "A Story Book of Melody," scored highly with this audience. The most impressive feature of the solo was the continuity from beginning to end. Each chapter of the book brought forth, first "School Days"; two, "When You and I Were Seventeen"; three, "Home Fires Burning," this while the boys were fighting in France; tour, "Wedding Bells Are Breaking Up That Old Gang of Mine;" five, "Blue Heaven;" and also Victor Herbert's "Sweet Mystery of Life." Bear in mind all these numbers were old and the audience did not once seem bored but on the contrary sang every word on every slide flashed on the screen, and Keates was forced to en-core with "When You're Smiling."

CHARLES WILLIAMS (New York Low's State) presented an exceptionally entertaining organ solo this week, the theme of which was a burlesque radio broadcast, as singing as the announcer. The title of this presentation is "Let's Take the Air," and it opened with an announcement over the radio mike stating that the effect that "Low's State Whoopee Club" would sing a number of songs for the benefit of this club. The number "I'm Fine" was followed by "Just a Little Lover," "Love's Melody" and an encore chorus of "Around the Corner" in special version form.

During the announcing, Charles Williams, the announcer spoke the praises of "Deke" Williams, the organist, as the audience howled their delight and pleasure. "Deke" followed this entertaining encore with a collection of that performance song, "When the Organ Played at Twilight," Durand, Kern, Williams and the entire house quieted down until one could hear a pin drop and at the finish burst forth with a tremendous ovation, which was highly deserved.

HERB KERN (New York Fox Audubon) offered a pleasing program entitled "Organ Solos." Opening with a slide, explaining the solo, Kern then played "Sweetheart of My Student Days," one chorus as a plant solo and the second for the audience to sing. Two choruses of "I'll Be Blue" were next sung first by the girls and then by the boys. A whistling chorus of "Around the Corner" followed and a clever chorus of "If I Had a Girl Like You" (with special lyrics) closed the solo. Kern was very well received.

Santly Bros. Song Pleases

The song that seems to be going over like a million, the hit music, "Dream to and dance to at the same time is Santly Bros." When the Organ Played at Twilight," which is finding favor on many radio programs, and which, according to Jimmy Cairns, Chicago manager for the company, is due to sail right up to the top.

WEEK ENDING OCTOBER 11

No. 1

"Little White Lies" — (Donaldson, Douglas & Gamble).

No. 2

"Springtime in the Rockies" — (Villa Morel).

No. 3

"Betty Co-Ed" — (Carl Fischer).

"If I Could Be With You (One Hour Tonight)" — (Remick).

"Kiss Waltz" — (M. Witmark).

No. 5

"I Still Get a Thrill Thinking of You" — (Davis, Cotts & Engel).

"Home and Tell Your Mother" — (Robbins).

No. 6

"When the Organ Played at Twilight" — (Santly Bros).

"The Other Day" — (M. Witmark).

WEEK ENDING OCTOBER 11

No. 1

"Little White Lies" — (Donaldson, Douglas & Gamble).

No. 2

"Springtime in the Rockies" — (Villa Morel).

No. 3

"Betty Co-Ed" — (Carl Fischer).

"If I Could Be With You (One Hour Tonight)" — (Remick).

"Kiss Waltz" — (M. Witmark).

No. 5

"I Still Get a Thrill Thinking of You" — (Davis, Cotts & Engel).

"Home and Tell Your Mother" — (Robbins).

No. 6

"Somewhere in Old Wyoming" — (M. Morris).

"When the Organ Played at Twilight" — (Santly Bros).

"I'll Be Blue Just Thinking of You" — (Feist).

"I'm Yours" — (Famous).

No. 7

"Down the River of Golden Dreams" — (Feist).

"Don't Tell Her What Happened to Me" — (Di Sylva, Brown & Henderson).

"Dancing With Tears in My Eyes" — (M. Witmark).

"Just a Little Closer" — (Robbins).

"What's the Use" — (Feist).

No. 8

"Boy and Sowl" — (Hormas).

"So Beats My Heart for You" — (Di Sylva, Brown & Henderson).

"Confessin' That I Love You" — (Brown & Henderson).

"I Don't Mind Walking in the Rain" — (Forister).

"Vagabond in a Hammock" — (Berlin).

"Always in All Ways" — (Famous).

"My Baby Just Cares for Me" — (Donaldson, Douglas & Gamble).

Special Show Gives 10 Vaudeville Acts as Well as Feature

(Special to the Herald World)

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 16.— R.K.O.'s Riverside theatre is featuring a special Friday evening show of each week with 19 acts of vaudeville in addition to the feature photoplay. The Friday night show starts at eight o'clock and is the only performance during the evening. Regular admission prices are charged.

The additional entertainment is furnished by tryouts for Radio-Kelth-Orpheum routes and agents from the various Chicago booking offices attired to pass on the acts. The bill, an innovation in Milwaukeee theatres, is meeting with good success according to Harry Billings, manager of the theatre.

Horace Heidt's Band

Home for Visit

(Special to the Herald World)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.— A change in schedule has brought her members of Horace Heidt's Cal- lifornians back to San Francisco, Calif., after a triumphant tour to Montana, Paris and the Eastern States. After a short stay here the organization will go to Los Angeles for an engagement of a week and then return for a similar engagement here. The orchestra will go to Portland and Seattle for brief engagements before returning East.
EXHIBITORS — FACTORY TO YOU. Acoustical Felt, 29½ sq. yd; Theatre Plush Carpet, $1.15 per yd; Dureyne Fireproof Drapes, 4½ sq. yd; W. E. Approved Sound Screens, 396 sq. ft; Sound Mixers, $19.50; Sound-On-Film Heads, $198.50; Photosetts, $14.95; G. E. Exciter Lamps, 986; Optical Systems, $29.50; Head Amplifiers, $29.00; 6 b. p. Synchronous Motors, $29.50; Turntables with Rencyrchronizer, $49.50; Samson Pam 19 Amplifiers, $69.15; Audak Tuned Pickups, $33.95; Standard Audak, $17.95; Wright-DeCoaster Horns, $17.64; Giant Exponential Units, $46.35; Constant Faders, $13.90; Jensen Speakers, $17.80; Exponential Horns, $66.30; Audak Demonstration Rebuilt Booth Equipment, Projectors, Acrs, Rectifiers, Lamps, etc. Write us your needs.
Address: Service-On-Sound Corporation, 1600 Broadway, New York City, New York.

THEATRES FOR SALE—ONLY MODERN THEATRE WITH SOUND in radius of 40 miles; 560 seats; Sunday town, 6,500; Southeasteren Nebraska. Address Box 507, Exhibitors Herald-World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

PROJECTIONIST 5 YEARS—EXPERIENCED ON WESTERN ELECTRICAL AND other sound equipments. State salary. Go anywhere. References. Address Wayne Smith, 4363 Lockwood St., Las Angeles, California.

WANT JOB AS MANAGER OF THEATRE Anywhere. 20 years experience, as Manager of Movie Theatre, Vaudeville, Booking Film and Cameraman. Address Box 514, Exhibitors Herald-World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Illinois.

HELP WANTED

WANTED—Experienced small town theatre manager with dynamic personality and ability to conduct a competitive situation. Must be a go-getter. Proven record as to results necessary for consideration. Write to C. W. Nekel, Community Theatre, Inc., 503 Wisconsin Avenue, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

LIVE DISTRICT REPRESANTATIVE WANTED—One familiar with theatre trade preferred, though unnecessary. Unlimited financial possibilities. Address Homesful Co., Box 524, Birmingham, Alabama.

EQUIPMENT FOR SALE

MOVIEPHONE TALKING PICTURE EQUIPMENT FOR SALE. Two machines including two stage amplifying horns and one booth horn set up for Powers 6A and Simplex Machines. Sale on account, expired lease. Price complete, $450. Address C. O. Littlefield, Whitman, Mass.

ADDITIONAL CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING ON FOLLOWING PAGE
EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD

BARBAGINS IN NEW AND USED EQUIPMENT.
Disc talking equipment, double channel amplification.
Special synchronous motor drives, cheap for quick sale. Lenses, reels, film cabinets, screens, at big discount. Used Powers and Simplex projectors.
3 unit ticket registers, Butterfield popcorn machines, Proportional Movietone apparatus cheap. Write your needs. Can save you money. Address Box 311, Exhibitors Herald-World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, III.

FOR SALE—RCA Sound System for theatre up to 1,200 seats. Two Powers EB machines changed for RCA sound head. Two Strong Arc lamps. Supreme Cooling system. Chairs, etc. Address Masonic Theatre, Elizabethan, Kentucky.

FOR SALE—Very attractive (Strand) electric sign, 15 ft. by 2 ft., complete with flasher, travelling border. Address Strand Theatre, Platteville, Wisconsin.

FOR SALE—Complete Voisophone (Disc) talking equipment used one year, also two new giant raco horns. Address Calumet Theatre, Calumet, Michigan.

FOR SALE—New Roth Multiple Arc Generators,
Double 20, $275.00. Double 25, $310.00. Double 30, $410.50. Double 75, $615.00. Send for literature.
Western Motion Picture Company, Danville, Illinois.

FOR SALE—Re-built Simplex Motor Driven Machines with type “S” Lamp Houses with late type flat belt friction drive speed controls, $300.00 each.
Re-built Powers 6 B Motor Driven Machine, $225.00 each. Re-built Powers 6 A, $115.00 each. Deluxe Movograph machine, $225.00 each. Big stock of rebuilt exhaust and oscillating fans for DC and AC current. Generators, all makes, ticket selling machines, film cabinets, etc. All at bargain prices for immediate shipment. Write for bargain list. Illinois Theatre Equipment Co., 1150 South Michigan Ave.,
Chicago, Illinois.

FOR SALE—2 Powers 6 A Machines, Mazda equipped, $100 each; 225 Veneer Seats, $100; New Phototone, 100 records, $175; sell separately or take all with wiring, decorative lamps, etc., $400. Everything in good shape. Address D. B. Dyer, Grover, Colorado.

PACENT DISC MACHINES COMPLETE OR PARTS—Will sell cheap. Address Community The-THEATRE EQUIPMENT, new and used. Opera chairs, projectors, screens, generators, receivers, reflecting arc lamps, etc. Write for bargain list and catalog. Address Movie Supply Co., 844 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

FOR SALE—Reflector Arc Lamps and accessories, also guaranteed rebuilt Powers 6 A and 6 B and Simplex Heads. Best prices. Write Joseph Spratler, 12-14 E. Ninth Street, Chicago, Illinois.

FOR SALE—AT A BARGAIN—Two Silver-Marnshall 690 Amplifiers, One Peerless and one Silver-Marshall Speaker. One Wright DeCoster 107 Speaker.
One Wright DeCoster 7 Directional Horn. Two Audak Professional Pickups. Two Era Pickups.
Two Moviphone Turntables with drives. Two 1055-inche Magnavox Speakers. 1000 feet of 5/16-inch West-
Felt, 300 veneered seats. Write or wire L. E.
Palmer, Postville, Ia.

Equipment Wanted

USED DISC EQUIPMENT for Powers Projectors, must be reasonable. Address Alamo Theatre, Plainfield, Illinois.

WANT SEVERAL SIMPLEX MECHANISMS in good or poor condition or incomplete. Address Fredley, 187 Golden Gate, San Francisco, California.

WANTED TO BUY—At best cash prices, Simplex Projectors—Mechanism or complete machines. Address Joe Spratler, 12-14 East Ninth St., Chicago, Illinois.

WANTED—Peerless or Simplex projectors, also Strong reflector arc lamps. State price, condition and number of machines. Will pay cash, or one-third down and balance C.O.D. Address Box 337
Exhibitors Herald-World, 407 S. Dearborn Street,
Chicago, Illinois.

HIGHEST PRICES paid for used opera chairs, projection machines, etc. Address Movie Supply Co.,
844 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

WANTED TO BUY—Used Cutaway machine. Cole-men Theatre, Miami, Oklahoma.

WANTED—Simplex projectors and motor generator set. Address Essosus Theatre, Rushville, Nebraska.

WANTED—2 late model Simplex machines in good condition. Give best proposition for cash. Address Auditorium Theatre, Carthage, Indiana.

Chairs for Sale

FOR SALE—100 Upholstered Squab Seats, Panel
Backs covered in imitation Spanish Leather, $2.00 each; 500 Upholstered Chairs with Squab Seats, covered with imitation Spanish Leather, Veneer backs, $1.80 each; 5100 Used 5 pley Chairs, 500 each.
Illinois Theatre Equipment Co., 1150 South

1500 High Grade Heywood-Wakefield Spring Constructed Chairs covered in imitation Spanish Leather; 500 Andrews Spring Constructed Panel Back Chairs in imitation Spanish Leather; reasonable prices. Illinos Theatre Equipment Co., 1150 South Michigan
Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

OPERA CHAIRS, seats and backs for all makes, five pley, at prices that save you money. Jobs in new and used chairs. Address Redington Company, Scranton, Pennsylvania.

. BIG BARGAIN in used Opera Chairs, 600 upholstered, 800 veneer. Address Movie Supply Co.,
844 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

200 3 and 5 ply chairs, extra bottoms, $1 each.
Address E. Van Huyning, Iola, Kan.

Chairs Wanted

WANTED TO BUY—1,000 FOLDING CHAIRS.
Good condition. Address The Amphitheatre, 1206 E.
Superior St., Dubuque, Minnesota.

WANTED AT ONCE—300 theatre chairs, spring cushion, 18 in. or 20 in. Price must be cheap. Address
F. G. Schad, 3456 Michigan Avenue, Indiana Harbor, Indiana.

Managers' Schools

WANTED THEATRE EMPLOYEES to learn modern theatre management and theatre advertising. The Institute's training leads to better positions. Write for particulars. Address Theatre Managers Institute, 225 Washington St. Elmona, N. Y.

Projector Repairing

BEST SHOP for repairing projection machinery.
Prompt service, reasonable prices. Address Movie

SKILLED MECHANICS, specialized tools, and a shop equipped for but one purpose can offer you nothing but the best in repair work. That is what I have, and I can offer you the best in the overhauling of your motion picture machinery equipment. One of the oldest repair men in the territory, and serving some of the largest houses. Relief equipment furnished free. For results bring your work to Joseph Spratler, 12-14 E. Ninth St., Chicago, Illinois.

Miscellaneous

THEATRE LOBBY FRAMES—Manufacturer to you. Low cost. Address Gem Frame Company, 2005
Brighton, Kansas City, Mo.

Printing

THEATRE ADVERTISING—1,000 3x8 Dodgers,
$1.00 prepaid; 100 11x14 Window Cards, $2.10, postage extra. Cash only. Address King Stationer, Warren, Illinois.

Your Classified Ad Will Do the Work
Exhibitors Herald-World has helped hundreds of Theatre owners in solving many a problem. The classified advertising department has placed organs throughout the country, has helped in obtaining equipment, in selling equipment, and in solving many another problem that seemed difficult. The rates are but 10c per word payable with order, 10% discount if run for 3 insertions. See this week's classified pages. Maybe you are in need of something that is being advertised this week. The cost is small, the results are great.
THE VOICE OF THE INDUSTRY

LETTERS FROM READERS

300 Attend Theatre's Free Dancing Course

Conrad Holmes, manager of the Paramount theatre, Portland, Ore., offered a series of free dancing lessons to children during August through a tieup with a dancing school.

So enthusiastically was the offering received that between 300 and 400 classrooms had to be included in the lessons, which were given every Thursday morning. All who received dancing lessons were required to buy show admissions. The lessons were given in the lobby.

Bucking Weather Man

HERE ARE SOME REPORT ON PICTURES recently played. The Rogue Song (MGM), splendid picture that would undoubtedly have made money for me if the weather man had been reasonable. Every time I date a special he dates a young flood, and he sure ruined the roads each time this year. Just another lickering on this one. Oh, well, the sheriff says it won't be long now. Way Out West (MGM), silly but amusing and the crowd sure enjoyed it. Did the best business on this program this year, and it was just like good old silent days to be able to gloat over a decent profit on a program picture. This should be a good bet for small towns.

The Big House (MGM), not a pleasant picture but superb acting by all the principals combined with a strong story make it a picture which you can boost to the skies. Well named as it should draw big houses each night, as it did here. Would class it as one of the year's best pictures. The trailer on this feature is a business getter and don't pass it up.

Also two shorts—Oh Darling (E), good comedy, Sugar Plum Papa (E), good comedy but dialog rather husky. May have been due to the old records we received.—B. R. Johnson, Orpheum theatre, Kerrobert, Sask., Canada.

Wants BIG Pictures

ATTENDANCE DURING LAST FEW weeks depended entirely on merit of plays. People only came when pictures were worth while. We would like to beef up our Sunday programme each week, for that is when our best houses would please. The Border Legion (Par) and Metro's It's a Great Life, with the Duncan enough to be understood. Can't understand it as their recording is usually good. Last of the Lone Wolf (Col), very nice picture.—Harold Smith, Dreamland theatre, Carson, La.

Books from Hospital—"Oh, My Operation?" Huh!

(Special to the Herald-World)

DALLAS, Oct. 16—Appendicitis is nothing in F. E. Hendon's young life—not when there is a film booking contract at stake.

Hendon, a Warner Brothers' salesman with headquarters here, arrived at Huntsville, Tex., a few days ago to find himself extremely ill with appendicitis. He went to a Huntsville hospital, underwent the operation and had barely recovered from the latter, so 'tis said when Mr. Parish, local exhibitor, telephoned to wish him a speedy recovery, Hendon mustered his salesmanship reserve and, before the telephone conversation ended, he had sold Parish the entire Warner product for the season. Then, before it was possible even to dictate a letter or card, Hendon was out of the hospital and back on the road.

Wottaman!

_He Must Have Met an Old Friend_

When the film manager left his office to preview his competitor's picture, he put on the door this notice: "WILL WE BACK AT 1 P.M."

He had been gone for some time, when one of his acquaintances came in to see him on business. He read the notice, pulled out his watch, sniffed contemptuously, took out his pencil, wrote something on the card, and went away. Several men came, read the sign, wrote on it and walked off. When the prompt manager came back some two hours late, he read the following endorsements on his notice:

"You're a liar by the watch"—Schmidt, 1:15 p. m.
"You lie again"—Perry, 1:25 p. m.
"An old liar"—B. D. S., 1:30 p. m.
"The next"—Brown, 1:45 p. m.
"That'll do, Ananias"—Harris, 1:48 p. m.

Westerns Bring 'Em Out

WOULD LIKE TO REPORT ON A FEW pictures that I recently played. Chasing Rainbows (MGM), very good picture. No No Nanette (FN) is a mighty fine comedy with some very pretty scenes. I pulled Children of Pleasure (MGM) after the first day and substituted Guilty (Col), which was very good. The Border Legion (Par) is a type of picture the small towns want. This picture and Buck Jones' Lone Rider did more business for me than any picture I have played for the last six months. Buck Jones was welcomed heartily, and the crowds that came out to see him seemed like those of the good old silent days. Montana Moon (MGM) is a very good picture. A good show for Sunday. Many comments. Marianne (MGM) is a little old but a good picture. Strictly Unconventional (MGM) is terrible. Caught Short (MGM) is very, very good, but what's the matter with Metro's recording? I've had several lately that I had to run my fader as high as it would go to make the talking loud

够被理解。理解不理解它的录音通常是好的。最后的狼男（Col），非常漂亮。—哈罗德·史密斯，德里昂德特里亚门，考森，拉。
Sisters, pulled strong. Marianne (Mct) with Marion Davies pulled first night, flopped the second. Poor sound and bad print disgusted people. Navy Blues (MG M) and The Love Doctor (Par), with Haines and Dix, respectively, were soured on by the third play. All three plays were ballyhooed as winners, but the only one blessed with good sound and good plots was the last. One of these plays, the last, was director's delight. The second was pleasant, but the first was a bore.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 16.—Motion pictures are beginning to effectively attract visitors to Curtis-Tianna-Stan berg airport near East St. Louis, Ill. Every Sunday afternoon pictures of the spectacular airport will be exhibited on a screen at the airport the following Sunday.

Stage Or Kitchen Comedy? I NOTE FROM READING SOME OF the trade papers that there is going around quite a discussion as to "what is wrong with the trade," and how it can be made better. One of the outstanding points is just one example of what is hurting the talkie game. Paramount in advertising its play "Honey" completely misstates the nature of the play. The play really is a musical comedy, its attributes being a slight form of dramatic comedy, with a chorus girl dancer. Their literature was interpreted by me to mean that this is a musical dancing stage comedy, while as a matter of fact it is a domestic kitchen drama comedy with a few inconsequential songs dragged in. There is no dancing at all. If this is a musical comedy then "The Gold Diggers of Broadway" is a murder. I booked this play three months ago for one of our county fair dates, believing it to be a real musical comedy. Imagine my tremendous disappointment, and that of our patrons, at the mere sound of the term, domestic drama, though exceedingly good for its type.

This misrepresentation hurts; my people took my word and I took Paramount's word for it. I have lost. What's the sense of such misrepresentation anyway? This is just one item of many to show what is wrong with the industry, but a fundamental one. It is this type of honest statement from producers. The day of sharp, flashy ballyhoo methods of "catch 'em and cheat 'em" has a long time now been thrown into the discard. Some producers are still living in the dark ages.—PHILIP RAND, Rex theatre, Salmon, Idaho.

Just Think What Eva Must Have Said to Them! (Special to the Herald-World)

EVANSTON, IND., Oct. 16.—Thieves who plundered the Victory theatre here Kenneth T. Denny, owner, have picked up almost everything easily removable, but they failed to capture Eva Stahl. Several canary birds were stolen from the lobby, along with other valuables. When theatre employees came they found Eva, who is an unofficial hostess on the mezzanine, shrieking loudly and strutting on the floor with blank expression of a victory over the would-be abductor.

Build Plan to Show Films at Airport To Get Sunday Crowds (Special to the Herald-World)

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 16.—Motion pictures are beginning to effectively attract visitors to Curtis-Stan berg-airport near East St. Louis, Ill. Every Sunday afternoon pictures of the spectacular airport will be exhibited on a screen at the airport the following Sunday.

Color Process Invented By Englishman Said to Give Excellent Results (Special to the Herald-World)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The color film color process has been invented by R. S. Allridge, the patent rights of which have been acquired by the Raycol British corporation, according to the clerk of the American Embassy in London.

The principle is stereoscopic, two lens-armed, one cell color, utilizing two other greens, the other the green. It is stated that the picture, as shown, combines well-nigh perfect registry of color, and the cost of this process is no greater than that of ordinary black and white.

The projector is reported to be extremely inexpensive, and that a picture can be taken, developed and reproduced on the screen in a single day. The process is further explained as extending the sound pictures and the probable arrival of wide film.

Fort Wayne Rules on Size of Electric Signs (Special to the Herald-World)

FORT WAYNE, IND., Oct. 16.—The city council here has ruled that theatre electric signs can extend out from a building no farther than within the lines of the center line of the marquee. Where there is no marquee, and the electric sign is hung out alone, it can extend 10 feet beyond the center line but not more than seven feet from the front of the theatre.

This decision was made after a city building inspector had refused permission to the Paramount theatre to erect a large electric sign on the grounds that it was in violation of the city building code.

233 Theatres in China; 90% of Films American (Special from Department of Commerce)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The number of motion picture theatres in China has more than doubled during the past four years, in spite of the political unrest, a late survey shows.

There are now 233 motion picture houses in the country, seating a total of 137,000, whereas there were only 106 in 1927. Statistics reveal 450 feature films were shown in China in 1929, as compared with 197 American. Shanghai has 12 theatres equipped for sound.

St. Louis Fox Signs W B (Special to the Herald-World)

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 16.—The Fox theatre here has contracted for all of Warner Brothers' current product and will be the local first run house for many of the big Warner productions, it is understood.

Plan to Build Theatre on "Main Road" (Special to the Herald-World)

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 16.—The town of Somerset, Ky., on the main route from Neillsville, Kans., to the big city, will build an auditorium on the present site of the first class hotel, of about 100 rooms, which will depend on tourist business almost exclusively. Work on the theatre is now going further, and will provide entertainment, having arranged to erect a six story office building, next to the theatre building. The plans for the building have been completed.

Telling the Public WE RECEIVED THE REWARD of Merit Plaque this morning, and you may know that we are very much so, and thank you for your kindy efforts, in the effort for better shows. We are now planning on the best ways to put our good fortune before our public.

We have a trailer on the way to be used in explaining the new honors.

Again thanking you for this beautiful mark of recognition.—C. D. HOON, Star theatre, Sioux Rapids, Iowa.
EXHIBITORS E H A R D - W O R L D
October 18, 1930

Wabash Knights

When it comes to writing about some one you admire a great deal, it’s rather difficult to find exactly the right words. It seems as though there should be special words for such an occasion, but the part of the whole business is that there isn’t and consequently you just have to plod along with those that you have. And the few again, in such a case, you feel like writing for hours and hours (as Olsen and Johnson would say) but there is always a distant limit and this time it’s the length of a column, so perhaps we’d better get started.

Dan Roche was born in Dubuque, Iowa, on October 3 in—well, we’ll say the nineteenth century. Not that Dan would mind, but it’s a chance that every time it’s said, his first position in life was prone on his back, looking up at the nearest face in the world—his father’s.

You can’t take Dan too literally at times, and in the case of schools there is some room for doubt, we fear. In the institutions at which he has found a delectable list that needs the enhancement of a dictionary. Acrobatic, Pyrotechnic, Polytechnic, Chiropractic and Cais- satory are some of those that come to mind.

When he first entered the industry, Dan cast his lot with Famous Players, and from there he went to P. D. C. and is at the present time president of a company extraneous to Pathe. Some of his “exploits” would undoubtedly make excellent scenarios, and perhaps a modest individual (as people you admire usually are) they probably will never be shot.

A few more “facts,” as found on the question and answer department, are appended, but we’d like to make a few of our own. His pet peeve is Daylight Savings; favorite hobbies and sports are both marked “sleep”; favorite president is Hoover, and favorite motion picture star is any Pathe player. And that completes the data.

And now for the remarks. It is one of our greatest pleasures to drop into the small office at the Pathe exchange in Chicago, and find Dan seated at his “machine.” Always busy, but always has a minute to say “hello.” And a smile goes with every hello that would dis- sipate the gloomiest “fog” and you have the feeling after you have left him, that you have accomplished something worthwhile by having had that brief conversation. He has a rare combination of attributes that impresses you the minute you meet him. Dignity and humor. And what else, after all, is there to be said.

But before we finish (we can see the end of this column looming up, and we know it’s im- possible to get away without making some reference to football, we’d like to set you in on a little secret, or perhaps you’ll find it out for your- self. Dan says the only sport he is interested in is basketball, and he, and let me say, doesn’t like it. Some day, when you’re in very good spirits, just go and call on him, and make an “illiterate” remark about football. There won’t be any question when you know."

Here’s the end of the column. We’re happy that we know you, Dan, and we know many others who say “ditto.”

CHICAGO PERSONALITIES

By JIM LITTLE

E VERYBODY at the RKO offices is wearing an indelible smile that just stays that way, and won’t change, ever since the inception of the new policy of running feature pictures only at the State and Lake, and putting a “clicking” group of vaudeville acts into the Palace. And the reason for it was this:

LAST Sunday evening there was a standout, a sight abrupt and fully a half block long, all set, it seemed, to wait until sunrise if need be. “Half Shot at Sunrise” is doing a whale of a business, an, correspondingly, the attend- ance at the Palace has increased. Olsen and Johnson started the ball rolling two weeks ago, and last week Ruth Etting succeeded in packing them in, and this week Irene Bordoni is sparkling before the footlights. Many people were disappointed, it seems, at the change of policy at the State-Lake, but judging from the “disturbance” created on Sunday evening, it looks as though they had either drown their sorrows or are in touch of theatre goers had come into prominence.

* * *

On Monday of last week, there was considerable bustle, and an exhaustingly, bustling activity, it seemed, and upon inquiry we found that a meeting of part of the personnel of the Western Sales Division of Universal was to be held at the hotel in the second floor of the Congress Hotel. It was under the direc- tion of J. W. Taylor, vice-president for sales manager for the company, and E. T. G Hãger, man- ager of the Central Division. This was the first district meeting since the appointment of “Pick” Gomersall to his present post.

Attending the meeting were O. Kuschner, Indianapolis; George Levine, Milwaukee; J. B. Fiddle, St. Louis; Charles Gregory, Kansas City; H. J. Chapman, Des Moines; Henry Herbel, Chicago; J. E. Garrison, Minneapals; M. Storey, Omaha, and J. Langan, Sioux Falls.

Fred S. Meyer, manager of the Alhambra theatre in Milwaukee, president of the M.P.T.O of Wisconsin and now in charge of western exploitation for Universal from here to the Coast, was in Chicago the other day. Fred and Charley (we hardly need the last name, but it’s Loewenberg) were found in deep conference—looks like big things pretty soon in the exploitation line. We tried to find out what was going on, but all Charley would tell us was that he was trying to buy a second run on a new hat that Fred was sporting.

* * *

Lester Martin was in town last week, we were told, and called on Aaron Saperstein. Les, if you don’t already know, is secretary of the M.P.T.O. of Iowa. His theatre is lo- cated in Nevada—isn’t that strange. (But it happens to be Nevada, Iowa.)

The Lincoln theatre, at the corner of Bel- mont and Lincoln avenues, has recently re- opened. We understand that it is only about half—a-theatre now, but a pretty cozy little half at that. When the street was widened (Ashland Avenue at it was unnecessary to ex- tensively upon the house a good deal, and con- sequently, the seating capacity is not as large as formerly.

* * *

Morris Salkin has taken over the Adams theatre, formerly owned by M. O. Wells, in which he is now installing DeForest sound equipment. Upon completing the installation, the first picture that will be Radio Pic was “Lawful Larceny,” after which will come “Shooting Straight.”

Sam Gorelick, who may have been a star basketball player in his “youth,” is still in good form, and manages to put up a pretty good game. We don’t just remember the score the other day, but we rather think that he was vanquished. The modest victory could not the Row was concerned. So it seems that he’s going to do a bit of navigating about the city territory now and then, in addition to managing the United Artists office, and get a few signatures on some contracts.

* * *

And while speaking of United Artists, we might mention that Ernie Pickler, who was working with Eddie Gorelick and then went to the company’s office in Milwaukee, is now back at his old job here in the city for United Artists.

* * *

Henry Herbel is shooting around in town in his new LaSalle, wearing one of those broad, broad smiles that means that everything is in pretty good shape, and one of the things that contributes to the happiness of the whole town is the fact that “A Lady Surrenders” is pulling in the surrendered assets of an interested public, at the Woods theatre.

* * *

Walter Hyland, it seems, is trying to trade the Universal Bowling Team for a set of 11x14’s, but there isn’t a customer to be had on Film Row.

We hear that Frank Ruble is now getting pens all lined up so they can fall right on the dotted line when he goes around with his con- tracts for the picture, “Her Unborn Child.”

* * *

We got a rather disturbing report the other day that Sid Schuster got into some kind of an automobile accident, and landed in St. Mary’s hospital in Milwaukee, and we have just gotten the report that he has passed away. It seems that he was driving and his car went off the road, and the result was that his back was broken. We hope that these statements are false, and that he may recover from his accident.

* * *

One day last week was a strange day, as far as the weather was concerned. For some un- known reason, almost every one we met in the morning was complaining about not being able to work—let’s see, it was Monday, so that may account for it. Anyway, we thought sure that Fredy Martin would be able to tell us a story, but we were doomed to disappointment. We had to tell him one and he only smiled wryly. It must have been the weather.

The Arno theatre in South Bend, Indiana, has been leased for 10 years to the Columbia Theatre corporation of Hammond, Indiana. The lease was negotiated through Albert Gold- man, Chicago.
The Fall Buyers Number! of Better Theatres will be issued October 25th, 1930

The importance and unusual value of the FALL BUYER'S NUMBER warrants the careful consideration of all exhibitors, manufacturers and distributors of theatre products.

Published in conjunction with EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD

Quigley Publishing Co. 407 So. Dearborn St., Chicago
"WAR NURSE" follows "BIG HOUSE" at Astor, N. Y! M-G-M's Sensational Drama discussed by entire industry opens next week on Broadway at $2!

When an exhibitor pays more than he contracted for—

That's News!

"Thanks, Mr. Samuelson, and we think you'll want to repeat this generous act again at the end of 1930-31."

Such things only happen to M-G-M
THE GREATEST ROAD SHOW ATTRACTION PRODUCED IN LAST 15 YEARS

D.W. GRIFFITH'S

"LINCOLN"

presented by JOSEPH M. SCHENCK,
Adapted for the screen by STEPHEN VINCENT BENET
Production and story advisor JOHN W. CONSIDINE JR.

UNITED ARTISTS PICTURE

8th WEEK $2 TOP CENTRAL THEATRE N.Y.

2nd WEEK $150 TOP ALDINE THEATRE PHILA., PA.

2nd WEEK $150 TOP AUDITORIUM BALTIMORE, MD.

1st WEEK $150 TOP MAJESTIC THEATRE BOSTON, MASS.

5th WEEK $250 TOP PUNCH & JUDY THEATRE CHICAGO, ILL.
FOR ALL AGES AND FOR THE AGES!

Raoul Walsh's
MOST IMPORTANT PICTURE EVER PRODUCED

THE BIG TRAIL

with JOHN WAYNE
MARGUERITE CHURCHILL
EL BRENDEL
Tully Marshall • Tyrone Power
David Rollins

For adults. Biggest spectacle ever produced. The grand old Western wilderness brought back. True and unbelievably realistic re-creation of most exciting times in story of America. Tender romance.

For all, all the time. The screen's greatest picture. Its vigor will survive. Its freshness endure.

"This story of the empire builders is magnificently told. One that every schoolboy and girl should see. It gives us moderns something to think about. The picture for all its majestic sweep has humanness and picturesque beauty and is photographically one of the most delightful things ever shown on the screen."

— Eleanor Barnes, Los Angeles Illustrated News

... Now packing 'em in at Chinese Theatre, Los Angeles.
EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD'S FILM BUYER SECTION

Quigley Publishing Company: Martin J. Quigley, President; Edwin S. Clifford, Secretary; George Clifford, Asst. Treasurer

All editorial content of the Quigley publications are copyrighted 1910 by the Quigley Publishing Company, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill. All editorial and business correspondence should be addressed to the Chicago office. PUBLICATIONS: EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD, in conjunction with which This First Buyer and Exhibitor are published every fourth week. Address for circulation: The Chicagoan, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago.

Martin J. Quigley, Publisher and Editor Edwin S. Clifford, General Manager Ernest A. Revelstoke, Managing Editor George Clifford, Business Manager

---

Alphabetical Listing of Pictures

COLLEGE LOVERS (CD-AT)
First National

COMMON CLAY (D-AT)
British International

CONCEALED (D-AT)
United Artists

CONSPIRACY (D-AT)
First National

COUGAR (D-AT)
Warner Brothers

COVERED WAGON TRAILS (W)
Syndicate Pictures

CROWS, THE (MC)
RKO

CRYSTAL HERITAGE (W)
Universal

CUNNING CIRCLE, THE (PT, M)
International

CZAR OF BOROWAY (D-AT)
Universal

---

DAMES AGOY (D-AT)
Universal

DANGEROUS SWEETHEARTS (CD-AT)
Warner Brothers

DANGEROUS MAN (C-AT, S)
Paramount

DANGEROUS MAYHEM (D-AT)
Paramount

DAWN PATROL, THE (F-AT)
National

DEVIL MAY CARE (D-AT)
Paramount

DEVIL'S HOLD (D-AT)
Paramount

DEVIL'S PIT, THE (M)
Universal

DEVIL WITH WOMEN (D-AT)
Warner Brothers

DIABOLO (D-AT)
Warner Brothers

DIVORCE, THE (D-AT)
Universal

DOUBLE CROSS ROADS (D-AT)
MGM

DOUGLAS (D-AT)
Universal

DREAM MELODY (D)
First National

DREAM OF PASSION (D)
United Artists

DUDE WRANGLER, THE (CW-AT)
Santo Art

DUMMIES (D-AT)
Warner Brothers

DYNAMITE (D-AT)
Universal

EASY GOING (D-AT)
MGM

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS (D-AT)
Universal

EL FESTIVAL CALLING (R)
British International

EVIDENCE (R)
Universal

EYES OF THE UNDERWORLD (D)
Universal

---

FAME (D-PT)
Warner Brothers

FALL GUY, THE (C-AT)
Radio Pictures

FATHER'S DAY (D-AT)
First National

FATHER'S DAY (D-AT)
Fox

FIGHTING FOR THE FATHERLAND (R)
Santo Art

FIGHTING KIDS (W, C)
Half Pictures

FIGHTING LEGION, THE (WCD-AT)
Universal

FIGHTING TENANTS (D-AT)
Universal

FIREBRANDS (F. W-AT)
British International

FLIGHT (D-AT)
MGM

FLIGHTING WIDOW, THE (D-AT)
First National

FLADRAAGA (C-AT, S)
British International

FLAMING HEARTS (D-AT)
Paramount

FOLLOW THE LEADER (D-AT)
Universal

FOOTLIGHTS AND FOOLS (D-AT)
United Artists

FOREVER YOUNG (D-AT)
Paramount

FOUR FEATHERS (D-AT)
RKO

FREE AND EASY (D-AT)
RKO

FURIES (D-AT)
First National

---

GAY NINETIES (D-AT)
Warner Brothers

GENERAL CRACK (D-AT)
First National

---

GIRL FROM WOOLWORTHS (D-AT)
First National

GIRL IN THE SHOW, THE (C-AT)
Paramount

GIRL OF THE GODFORD BOX, THE (MC)
RKO

GIRL SAID NO, THE (D-AT)
Fox

GIFT OF THE HANNA BOX, THE (M)
Paramount

GLORIFYING THE AMERICAN GIRL (MC)
Paramount

GOOD WINDS (D-AT)
Warner Brothers

GOOD NEWS (MC)
MGM

GREAT DIVIDE (M-AT)
First National

GREAT POWER, THE (D-AT)
Syndicate Pictures

GREEN GODDESS, THE (M-AT)
Warner Brothers

GUN PLAY (W)
Universal

---

HALF BROTHER (D-AT)
Paramount

HALLELUJAH (D-AT)
First National

HALFWAY TO HELL (D-AT)
Paramount

HARDEST HIT (D-AT)
RKO

HAT NOTE, THE (M-AT)
MGM

---

HALF SHOT AT SUNRISE (C-AT, S)
RKO

HALF WAY TO HEAVEN (D-AT)
Paramount

HALF WAY TO HEAVEN (D-AT)
Paramount

HARD TO GET (D-AT)
First National

HARETHORNE (D-AT)
First National

HARRY THE HAM (M-AT)
Santo Art

HATTER, THE (D-AT)
Universal

HAT'S OFF (D-AT)
Universal

HAYFARM PARADE, THE (D-AT)
First National

HEAVY ARTILLERY (D-AT)
First National

HEDDIE, THIS IS LOVE (D-AT)
Universal

HEE HEE WIND (W)
Universal

HOLD EYES OPENED (M)
Warner Brothers

HOLLYWOOD REVUE (M)
MGM

---

HONEY MONEY (D-AT)
Paramount

HOT CURVES (D-AT)
Paramount

HOT FOR PARIS (D-AT)
Warner Brothers

HOUSE OF HOLDINGS (WCD-AT)
MGM

HOURS OF SECRET (D)
Universal

HOW HE LIED TO HIS HUSBAND (D-AT)
British International

HUNGARIAN Rhapsody (D-AT)
Paramount

HUNTED MEN (W)
Intermediate Pictures

HUNTING TIGERS IN INDIA (TRAP-PT, M)
Talkart Picture Epics

---

I

---

IDLE RICH (D-AT)
MGM

IMMORTAL VASARAGON (D-AT, S)
MGM

IMMORTAL VASARAGON (D-AT)
MGM

IN OLD CALIFORNIA (D-AT)
Paramount

IN OLD SARDINIA (D-AT)
Paramount

INSIDE THE LINES (D-AT)
First National

INVADERS, THE (W)
Syndicate Pictures

IT'S EVERY MAN FOR HIMSELF (D-AT)
Warner Brothers

IT'S A GREAT LIFE (D-AT)
MGM

---

J

---

JIMMY HIGGINS (D)
Paramount

JOURNEYS END (D-AT)
Paramount

JUNO AND THE PAYBACK (D-AT)
British International

---

K

---

KIRK (D-AT)
Universal

KISS, THE (D-AT)
MGM
Ankino
Silent Sound

EXHIBITORS
HONEYMOON
With clever Sound

Atwood
Silent Sound

October

AFGHANISTAN

With

SEEDS OF FREEDOM

——.

AFRICA

With

FIREBRAND

HABIB

With

AGENT OF THE BOMB (D-AT, M)...

MUNICIPAL TALENT

With

AUGUSTUS

With

THE ALDERMEN

With

The Feature

Key to Symbols

The following appear immediately after the title to indicate the nature of the presentation:

C—Comedy

AT—All-talking

D—Drama

AT-AL—All-talking

CD—Comedy

M—Music

F—Farce

M-Musical

Mel—Melodrama

Mystery

Mystery

O—Opera

O-Opera

S-Singing

S—Singing

W—Western

EXAMPLE: CAT, all-talking comedy, FMY-

AT, all-talking farce mystery, CD-AT, S, comedy drama, all-talking singing.

(NS) indicates silence.

(DP) signifies picture was discussed in the department, New Products (formerly T. O. Services) in the issue indicated by the date.

NOTE: An asterisk in the title indicates that there is a silent version or that the picture was produced only in silent version.

For a complete listing of sound pictures and an index to what pictures have sound versions indicated by the sound symbols appearing after the title, see the Children of Chance, D-AT.

CHILDREN OF CHANCE (D-AT).

With

Lois McDonald, Pauline Lord, Pauline Watson, Helen

Maynard, R. John Calef, and Robert Eatman.

HATE SHIP, THE (D-AT).

With

Blanche Sweet, Charles Laughton, and John Barrymore.

HOW HE LIED TO HIS HUSBAND (CD-AT).

With

Gilles,Dan Barker and Margaret Norell.

LODGE END (CD-AT).

With

Edmund Lowe, Howard Schnitzler, and George Macrae.

LOVE HABIT, THE (CD-AT).

With

Mae Busch, George Macrae, and George Macrae.

MAN FROM CHICAGO, THE (D-AT).

With

Steve Pendelton, Mary Nolan, and Charles Macauley.

MIDDLE WATCH (D-AT).

With

Audrey Moore, Charles McNaughton, and Kenneth Harlan.

MURDER (D-AT).

With

William Collier, Jr., and Lois Moran.

NIGHT BIRDS (CD-AT).

With

Laurence Trimble, Mary Nolan, and George Macrae.

SLEEPING PARTNERS (CD-AT).

With

Robert Armstrong, J. Percy Coates, and Fred E. Jackson.

Running Time

The fixed speed for sound film is 90 feet per minute.

This makes the running time of 1,000 feet 11 1/2 minutes.

Knowing the length of a picture and the running time per 1,000 feet, the running time of the picture can be easily computed.

For a complete listing of sound pictures and an index to what pictures have running time variation in the speed at which silent film is run through the projector makes it difficult to compute the running time of any picture with any degree of accuracy.

Projectors are now designed for a film speed of 70 feet per minute—the same as the fixed speed for sound film—but the rate at which silent film is actually run varies from 62 to 70 or 110 feet per minute, and is consequently as high as 125 feet per minute.

Running Time

The fixed speed for sound film is 90 feet per minute.

This makes the running time of 1,000 feet 11 1/2 minutes.

Knowing the length of a picture and the running time per 1,000 feet, the running time of the picture can be easily computed.

For a complete listing of sound pictures and an index to what pictures have running time variation in the speed at which silent film is run through the projector makes it difficult to compute the running time of any picture with any degree of accuracy.

Projectors are now designed for a film speed of 70 feet per minute—the same as the fixed speed for sound film—but the rate at which silent film is actually run varies from 62 to 70 or 110 feet per minute, and is consequently as high as 125 feet per minute.
First National
(Sound pictures are on disc only)
Silent Sound

BACK PAY (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

B-side

BAD HABIT (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

On October 3, 1928, With Walter Huston, Dorothy De Funiak, Richard Tucker, William Farnum, Chester Conklin, Edward Lynch. Harry Button, Fortille Alden. Theme: A drama of the town. The humorous way he goes about it forms the nucleus of the story. The humbly way he goes about it forms the nucleus of the story. The...-

BROKE THE REGIMENT (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

On December 19, 1928, Sound on disc. With Virginia Weigel, Walter Pidgeon, Freda Jackson, Gloria La Lane, Myrna Loy. Also a story of how a man gets to the run around.

COLLEGE LOVERS (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

On December 20, 1928, With Dorothy Kellogg, Loie Young, Carrie Moor, Howard Hobart, Alice Terry. Theme: A comedy of how a college players for one girl and the loss of a major college game.

DOWNTOWN THELMA (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

On August 15, 1929, With Richard Barthelmess, Dorothy Dell, Fredric March, David Landers, Eduardo Ciannelli. Theme: A story of the lives of two college football players for one girl and the love of a major college game.

FLIGHTING WIDOW (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

On May 11, 1930, Sound on disc. With Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Marjorie Richter, William Alger, Luis Alberni, Claude Gillingwater, Emily Fitzpatrick, Anthony Merritt, William Austin. Theme: The attic比较简单 issues caused when the ground is a woman. The attic比较简单 issues caused when the ground is a woman.

FOOTLIGHTS AND FOOLS (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

On January 4, 1930, With Colleen Moore, Freddie Barthelume. Theme: The story of an Irish girl posing as a Spanish girl who is a crazy and later wird a rich male.

FOR TALLER (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

On November 10, 1929, Sound on disc. With Douglas Fairbanks, Junior, Mary Livingstone, Jean Hersholt, Phyllis Coates, Bert Hone, Sylia Sidney, Robert Winkler, Edna Murphy. Theme: A series of football games between two teams and the drama of the game.

FURIES (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

GIRL FROM WOOLWORTH'S (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

GIRL IN BIG SKY (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

On July 30, 1929, With Alice Lake, Joe Primrose, Harry Gibbs, Gordon, Walter Pidgeon, Furnell Pratt, Helene Costello, Henry Vidal. Theme: The story of a woman and a man who work in the same store.

GREAT DIVIDE (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

HANDY TO GET (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

On November 24, 1929, With Jimmie Fidleron, Leona Pasek, Jack Oakle, Ethel Ralston, Ruth Shush, Anna Lee, Ben Plyme. Theme: A girl meets two boys, one rich, the other poor, on a skis trip in the mountains.

HER PRIVATE LIFE (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

On August 26, 1929, With Wanda Hawley, John Agar, Dayna Dallin, Regis Toomey, Philip Faith. Theme: A story of a woman who is a private detective.

HOUSE OF HORROR (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

LIVES OF THE DANGEROUS (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

LITTLE JOHNNY (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

LOOSELIES (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

MOTHER IN LAW, THE (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

MURDER WILL OUT (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

On December 21, 1929, With John Agar, Max Bennett, Myron McLaglen, Brian Donlevy. Theme: A story of a woman who is a murderer.

NAUGHTY MARY (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

On December 21, 1929, With Alice Lake, Paul Powell, Frank Lacon, Ethel Allen, Sam DeLeon. Theme: A story of a woman who is a Horrible story writer.

NAUGHTY LADY (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

ONE NIGHT AT THE BOXES (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

On December 21, 1929, With Willie Dyn, Douglas Fairbanks, Junior, Monta Bell, John Agar, Brian Donlevy. Theme: A story of a woman who is a Horrible story writer.

PARIS (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

On November 26, 1929, With Irene Benedict, John Buchman, Louise Xavier, Jason Isbaert, and Robert Harron. Theme: A woman who is a horror story writer.

PAYING OFF (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

QUEEN OF MAIN STREET (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

On July 29, 1930, With Lenore Young, Jack Marquette, Corinne Griffith, John Landers, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Fred Page, Frank Currie. Theme: Lenore Young, in a dual role, enters a town, is a horror story writer, but not noticed, and thereby haunts the tale.

SAINTS (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

SHOW GIRL IN HOLLYWOOD (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

On December 24, 1929, Sound on disc. With Alice White, Jason Isbaert, Ford Sterling, Tom McGuire, Marjorie Main, Leon Ciro. Theme: A story of a woman who is a horror story writer.

SHOW MAN (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

SILENT FLAME (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

On July 20, 1930, Sound on disc. With Irene Sheehan, Claudette Colbert, John Landers, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Fred Page, Private Thompson, and Henry Wilcoxon. Theme: Lenore Young, in a dual role, enters a town, is a horror story writer, but not noticed, and thereby haunts the tale.

SPRING IS HERE (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

On April 13, 1930. Sound on disc. With Lawrence Haven, Dan Dury, Oscar Dehan, Beulah King, Mickey Jones, and Jules Brand. Theme: A story of a woman who is a horror story writer.

SQUALL (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

STRIPED MAN (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

On December 24, 1929, Sound on disc. With Richard Barthelmess, Compassion Bennett, Dorothy Mathews, and Will Rogers. Theme: A story of a woman who is a horror story writer.

SWIFT HANDS (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

On July 20, 1930. Sound on disc. With Bertine Cayler, Alexander Grey, Sophy Harris, George Pert, Fred Page, Sherly Camp, Elinor McLean. Theme: Lenore Young, in a dual role, enters a town, is a horror story writer, but not noticed, and thereby haunts the tale.

THREE WANDERERS (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

THREE TWISTERS (O-D)...
[Details not clear]

On July 20, 1930, Sound on disc. With Alice White, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Sophy Harris, Amber Hardcastle, and St.Germaine. Theme: A story of a woman who is a horror story writer.
THERE IS a popular song that has been sung by many people throughout the years. It is a song about a man who has been married for many years and who has grown tired of his wife. He decides to take a trip to the mountains to escape his wife and her life of routine. However, during his trip, he realizes that he misses his wife and decides to return to her. The song ends with the man writing a letter to his wife, expressing his love and appreciation for her. This song is a reminder that even the most mundane situations can have their own unique beauty and charm if we take the time to appreciate them.
EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD

10, 1930

TROOPERS THREE (D-AT)...

UNDER MONTANA SKIES (D-AT)

THE WINTER WORLD (M-AT)

HELSYS ANGELS (D-AT)...

OUR HEARTS' MELODY (D-AT)

LAST COMPANY, THE (D-AT)

WHEN YOU GIVE YOUR HEART AWAY (D-AT)...

BAD ONE, THE (D-AT)...

BELL WITCHES

CONSIGNEE (D-AT)...

DUBARRY, WOMAN OF PARSON (D-AT)...

BLUE ANGEL, THE (D-AT)

LONDON

LIEUTENANT'S WIFE (D-AT)...

RISING SUN (D-AT)...

COHENS AND KELLYS IN

COURTIN' WILLY CAT (W-CD)

DAMES ANY (D-AT)...

DEVIL'S PIT, THE (M-AT)

EMBRASSING MOMENTS (C-AT)

HEROES, THE (D-AT)...

KING OF JAZZ (M-AT)

LADY SURRENDERS, A (D-AT)

LITTLE ACCIDENT (C-AT)

MISSISSIPPI GAMBLER (D-AT)

MOUNTAIN JUSTICE (W-AT)

OUTSIDE THE LAW (D-AT)

PHANTOM OF THE OPERA (M-FT)
1

FILM BUYER SECTION

12
Gibson Gowland, Bernard Siegel. Caesare Gravine.
Edith Yorke.
THEME: Mystery concerning a beautiful singer at
I/Opera in Paris.
6094
5242
6094
•ROARING RANCH (W-AT)

DIVORCE AMONG FRIENDS (D-AT)

White.

THEME:

DOORWAY TO HELL

foils villain's attempt to rob him of after they set fire to his ranch build-

Hero

rich oil lands,

(R)

5412
6592
6450
(W-AT)
(R) November 10, 1929. With Ken Maynard. Kathryn Crawford, J. P. McGowan. Gino Corrado, Tarzan the

Frank Beale. Frank Yaconnelli.
American wins the heart horse,

THEME: Young

ish girl by saving her father from because of a crooked land dealer.

•SHANGHAI LADY

(CD-AT)..._

losing of a his 5847

_

Spanranch

6043

5926

(NP) December 7, 1929.
(R) November 17. 1929.
With Mary Nolan, James Murray, Wheeler Oakman,
Anders Randolph, Yola D'Avril. Mona Rico, Jimmie
Leong. Irma Lowe, Lydia Yeamans Titus.
THEME: Two people, a man and a girl who have strayed from the straight and narrow find love in

THEME: A Broadway

musical comedy team buys an town, and after many for $25,000.

•SKINNER STEPS OUT (AT)

6645
6652
6521
(R) December 4, 1929.
With Glenn Tryon, Merna
Kennedy, E. J. Ratcllffe. Burr Mcintosh. Lloyd Whlt lock. Kathryn Kerrigan, Edna Marian.
THEME: Skinner finally wins the position which girl whose choice
_

THE

(D-AT)

6041

July 13. 1930. With Pauline Starke, Ben Lyon,
Cooley, Robert Ellis, Barbara Kent, Carmelita Geraghty.
THEME: Sister gives up the man she loves so that the younger sister may wed him.
(R)

(D-AT)

May

_

With Leni
4541

.._

Re-issue.
Jack Hoxie, Marceline
Charlie Brinley.
THEME:
cowboy befriends a wild horse, and

A

•YOUNG DESIRE (D-AT)

6110
6529
(R) June 15. 1930.
With Mary Nolan. William Janney, Mae Busch, Ralph Harrold, Claire McDowell, George Irving.

THEME: Dancing girl in carnival show gives up marriage with college youth rather than ruin his career, and dies in spectacular leap from balloon, man

Sound

Silent

6743

BARBER JOHN'S BOY (CD-AT)
(NP)

October 4, 1930.
Phillips Holmes.
Lucille
Powers. George Marion, Grant Mitchell. Dwiaht Frye, Barbara Weeks, Russell Simpson, Paul Nicholson, Otis
Harlan.
Robert
Emmett O'Connor, Charles
SeUon, James Neil. Johnny Larkin.

(MC)
(NP)

THEME: The exploits of nd feminin COURAGE (D-AT)
_
a

John a

St.

Polis.

Robert

5656 a dancing contest.

Tin. mi,:

11

8044
1.

(NP) December 14, 1929.
Joan Bennett, Anthony Bush-

1020.

Arllas, riral drama

of

the lire

of time prime minister of England and author.

the one-

6136 his

An over-flirtatious girl

of herself by coquetry.

Merry

Old

WHO DANCE

(Mel-AT)
_
6876
(R) April 19.
With Monte Blue, Lila Lee, Betty
Compson. William Boyd, DeWitt Jennings, William
..

Janney. Wilfred Lucas.

THEME:

Underworld melodrama based on the story

by George Klbbe Turner.

THREE FACES EAST

(D-AT)
6120
With Constance Bennett and

(R) July 26. 1930.
Eric von Stroheim.

THEME: The European spy background of the World war.

9247

•TIGER ROSE (D-AT)
(R) December
Blue.

21, system

:.

1929.

With Lupe against

_

....

the 5509

.

Velez,

Monte

•UNDER A TEXAS MOON

(F-AT, S)
.
7498
(R) April 1. 1930.
(NP) April 6. 1930.
With
Frank Fay, Raquel Torres, Myrna Loy, Noah Beery, THEME: Musical farce all in Technicolor, based on the story by Stewart Edward White.

VIENNESE NIGHTS
(NP) May 24, 1930.

(O)

9007

With Alexander Gray. Vivienne
Jean Hersholt, Bert Roach, Louise Fazenda,
Walter Pidgeon, June Purcell, Alice Day, Milton Segal.

Douglas.
•

W DEO PEN
I

THEME:

(CD-AT)
_
_
Comedy farce presenting complications mannered bridegroom.

...634

in the life of a mild

The problem that confronts a man devoted secretary and not realizing he is in private

SAILOR BEHAVE! (C-AT)

Escapades

ENGLISH

Windsor Pictures

5850

With Olsen & Johnson, Irene
Lowell Sherman, Lotti Loder,

HER UNBORN CHILD (D-AT)
(R)

of two

American sailors

7926 debt.

(NP) September 27. 1930.
With Leslie Howard.
Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Helen Chandler. Beryl MerLyonel cer,
Alec V,.
Francis.
Alison
Skipworth,
Watts, Montagu Love, Dudley Digges.
THEME: The story of a group of persons on a boat hound for no one knows where. Because of the unusual circumstances one of the men investigates and discovers all are dead and bound for "the other world."

MM

26, 1929.
With Adele Romson, Paul
Pauline Drake, Doris Rankin. Frances Underwood.

(D-AT)

September 27, 1930.
(NP) August 30, 1930.
With George Arliss, Leon Janney, Doris Lloyd, Betty Goodwin.
THEME: A grand old sinner gets Into difficulties

(D-AT)

8000

_

December

Clare,

In

(R) and

(CD-AT)
5772
With Claudia Dell and Perry

1930.

9.

England over-reaches

•THOSE

Fazenda,

OUTWARD BOUND

Grant Withers, Sue Carol,

•DISRAELI (D-AT)
r

THEME:

7220

_...
7752
9478
Costello. George O'Brien, Noah Beery,
Guinn Williams, Paul McAllister,
Randolf, Nigel de Brulier, Armand Kaliz.
Myrna Loy. William Mong, Malcolm White.
THEME: The Flood and the Ark, paralleled with the story of modern life heading into the World War.
OFFICE WIFE, THE (D-AT) 5220
_
(R) August 23, 1930.
With Dorothy Mackaill and

OLD
6639

....

_

powerful domestic drama with the climax during a flood.

suicide leap from a train

(R) August
Aska m.

Naples.

Robin Hood who breaks

Edna Murphy, Kate Prl™.
THEME: Romance revolving around

With Oeorp< nell, D

a

SWEET KITTY BELLAIRS

(R) December 15, 1929. With Fannie Brice. Guinn
Williams, Andre de Segurola, Ann Brody, Richard Tucker, Billy Sealy. Edna Murphy, Arthur Hoyt.
THEME: "Big Boy" is just a demonstrator but Fannie's big sister steals her from him anyway.
When Fannie gets her big chance to sing in a show.
"Big Boy" realizes his mistake as Fanny sings "My

THEME:

hearl

(CD-AT)

WHh

Fred Kohler.

THEME: A

Boley, Walter Long, Tom O'Brien Nigel, de
Brulier, Nobel Johnson, William Walling, Virginia
Sale, Jack Curtis, John Ince.
THEME: It is the story of a man who, revengeful because of the loss of a leg in a whaling expedition, sets to capture Moby Dick, the great white whale responsible for his loss.

"MY MAN (CD-AT)

||692 including

(NP) October 4. 1930.
with Grant Withers, Regis
Toomey. Mary Astor, James Cagnev, J. Farrell MacDonald. Joan Blondell, Lillian Worth, Walter Long, Girl, to save her father's position as colpresident, flirts with eleven girdiron stars, and brings them to a jerkwater college town, with sensational results.

_
23.

stars,

colonel's daughter becomes a gambler, goes to the dogs after estrangement from his wife and finally stages a comeback and is reinstated In the army.

an amnesia victim, and the

(D-AT)

_.._

With 77

1929.

STEEL HIGHWAY, THE (D-AT)

lege

DICK

28,

Rudolph Cameron.
THEME: The story of a man. discharged from the army, who becomes an Indian scout, kills his enemy by accident, masquerades as a parson, marries a

.

(R) August 16. 1930.
Delroy, Charles King,
Vivien Oakland.

children are taken from her.

1930.

of December

Ben Turpin. Grant Withers.
(0)
7|85
(R) March 15. 1930.
With John Boles. Vivienne
Marie Wells.
Sam Hardy. Marlon 'Byron,

THEME:

OH.

1030.

woman whose story

11.

Knapp,

love.

With Belle Bennett, Marian THEME: A drama of mother love and the struggle of

The HOLIDAY

October

Tin,

comical situations developing.
MAYBE IT'S LOVE (CD-AT) _
(R) September 20, 1930.
With Joan Bennett. Joe
E. Brown, James Hall, and All-Amerlcan Football

THEME:

a lovable jockey.

of

Fay Wray. Charles Judels,
Alvarado, Robert Elliott. Bert

Campcau,

DANCING SWEETIES

THEME:

1930.

22,

SONG OF THE WEST

6242

_

February

Barrymore. Monte Blue, Ted Lewis, Richard
Winnie Lightner, Nick Lucas. Jack Mulhall, Rin-Tin-

(R) August 2. 1930.
(NP) August 30. 1930. With
Lilyan Tashman. Florence Eldridge. James Gleason, Beryl Meroer, Frank Fay, Marion Byron. Vivian

to

I

31.

(R)

Lewis Stone.

Beery.

THEME: A Jolson in the role
CAPTAIN THUNDER (CD-AT)

May

_

(NP)

1930.

Eilers.

John

Anders

September 20. 1930.
With Al Jolson. Claudia Dell, Louise Closser Hale.
Lloyd Hughes. Eddie Phillips. J*w Harvey. Franklin
John Harron, Tom Wilson, Carl White, Colin

(NP)

(C-AT)

6413

SONG OF SONGS (MC)

7570

„

(R) May 31. 1930.
(NP) April 6. 1930. With Al
Jolson, Louise Dresser, Lois Moran. Lowell Sherman, Hobart Bosworth, Tully Marshall, Mitchell Lewis.
THEME. Tale of a minstrel troupe and Its end man, from the story by Irving Berlin. Songs also by Berlin.
•MAN FROM BLANKLEY'S, THE (F-AT) 6167
(R) December 15, 1929.
With Fannie Brice, Guinn
Williams, Andre de Seeurola, Ann Brody, Richard THEME: Drawing room farce based on the play by Louise

6275

_

Will,
Victor Varconl,
Natalie Moorhcad, Don

(CD-AT)

15,

Costello.

(Mel-AT)
5536
1930.
With Grant Withers.
James
Cagney,
Joan
Blondell,
Lucille La Verne. Noel Madison,
Otto Hoffman
Warren Hymer, Purnell B. Pratt. Ray Gallagher,
Hank Mann.
THEME: A story set against the background of an amusement park and picturing the lives of coneessionnaires and centering about the machinations of an undercover beer racket.
•SO LONG LETTY (D-AT)
5865
(R) November 16, 1929.
(NP) January 11 and February 8, 1930. With Charlotte Greenwood, Bert Roach, Grant Withers. Claude Gillingwater, Patsy Ruth Miller. Helen Foster. Marlon Byron.
(R)

With Dolores

story of a sensitive boy and his stubborn refusal to accept his father, a prison barber, on the latter's pardon from the big house after 18 years.

1930.

_

Sally

Evalyn

Man" to him.
•NOAH'S ARK (D-PT. ME)

THEME: The n.

7371 his band.

_
Technicolor.
(R) October 11. 1930.
With Winnie
THEME: Two girls decide to go in for professional gold digging.

•MAMMY

February

SINNERS

May

Patsy Ruth Miller, Armand Kaliz, Johnny

iber

(R)

(R)
September 20. 1930. (NP) August
1930.
With John Barrymore, Joan Bennett, Lloyd Hughes.

she loves.

AVIATOR. THE (CD-AT)

BOY

(D-AT, M)..._
Ted Lewis and 1929.

21,

6150

With Dolores

1930.

4,

With Winnie Lightner,
thur.

Ann Pennington and her dances.
LIFE OF THE PARTY, THE (C-AT)

MOBY

Warner Brothers

BIG

EVERYBODY HAPPY?

Team

breaks up a gang of horse rustlers.

freeing the

(R) January

F. Anstey.

1930.

25,

•SECOND CHOICE (D-AT)
•SHE COULDN'T SAY NO (MC)

Also

MATRIMONIAL BED. THE 7549

(R) June 1. 1930.
(NP) June 14. 1930.
Riefenstahl. B. Spring. Ernst Peterson.
(R)

H.

—

(NP) December

5268

April 26.
With Grant Withers, Loretta Young,
B.
Warner. Claire McDowell, Sidney Bracy.
Crau furd Kent.
THEME: Mystery-drama based on the novel, "The Agony Column," by Earl Derr Biggers.

(R)

by Henderson and Brown.

Hallam

•WHITE OUTLAW (WC-ME)

plains she innocently was the cause.
•SAP, TH E (CD-AT)..._
7310
(R) November 9, 1929. With Edward Everett Horton,
Patsy Ruth Miller, Franklin Pangbom, Edna Murphy,
Alan Hale. Russell Simpson. Louise Carver, Jerry Mandy.

•SECOND FLOOR MYSTERY. THE (My-AT)

_
...7513
29, 1930. May 3,
1930. With Winnie Lightner and Joe E. Brown, Sally
O'Neil,
Dorothy Revier, Georger Carpentier, Bert
R oach, Edmund Breese.
THEME: All-Technicolor production from the musical comedy of the same name, with additional musio rooned by storms in a lonely cabin in the Northwest.

•IS

•TRAILING TROUBLE (W-AT)
5336
5354
5198
(R) March 23, 1930.
Hoot Gibson. Margaret Quinby.
Pete Morrison. Olive Young, William McCall.
THEME: Adventures of cowboy in city, where he saves Chinese girl from gang of ruffians and returns to ranch, where plot against him Is exposed.
TRIGGER TRICKS (W-AT)..._
_... 5123
5461
(R) June 1. 1930.
With Hoot Gibson, Sally Eilers
•UNDERTOW (D-AT)
_
6233
5132
5025
(R)
February 23, 1930.
(NP) March 8, 1930.
THEME: The wife of a lighthouse keeper thinks she wants to run away when her husband becomes blind, but she realizes at. the end that she was wrong.

WHITE HELL OF P1TZ PALU

he's crippled and urges her to go about with the other she comes to love him instead.
The cripple's death casts suspicion upon them, but the mother ex-

6653

•HOLD EVERYTHING (MC)
(R) May 1. 1930.
(NP) March

7203

_

(R) August IS. 1930.
(NP) August 30. 1930. With
Lupe Yelez, Paul Cavanagh. William Boyd, Alphonz
THEME: The story of two men and a girl ma-

Santschi.

THEME: When the struggling inventor finds that his brother-in-law has embezzled from the bank of which he is a clerk, and that the cashier has done ditto, the inventor frames a fake holdup, gets his share, succeeds in speculations, and buys out the bank.

African background.

—

two men for love of the same not made until the storm reveals

(D-AT)

•WHAT MEN WANT

7447

THEME A

of
Is

•••-

Tom

Junior Coughlin,

rence.

H

to her.

STORM,

_

1030.

(R) March 8, 1930.
(NP) February 22, 1930. With George Arliss. Alice Joyce.
B. Warner, Ralph
Forbes, David Tearle, Betty Boyd, Reginald Sheffield.
Nigel de Brulier, Ivan Simpson.
suave and graceful Indian rajah plots a charming end for three English travelers in a plane crash death for one, tortures for the second, and life in his castle with him for the third a woman.
From William Archer's stage play.

Doris Hill,

With Hoot Gibson and Helen 1930.

With John Barrymoe.

(MC)

modern marriage with a novel

of

(D-AT)

SACRED FLAME, THE (D-PT, ME)
6015
(R) November 30. 1929. With Pauline Frederick.
THEME: She loves one of two brothers, and when

:

5303

Conflict

14, del^ All technicolor.

THEME: A light story with an •GREEN GODDESS. THE (Mel-AT)

Joe Girard, Francis Ford, Harry Todd.
20.

.......9809

With Walter Woolf, Vivienne
Segal.
Noah Beery, Alice Gentle. Lupino Lane,
Marion Byron, Lee Moran, Nigel de Brulier, Otto
Matieson, Dick Henderson, Nina Quartero, Sojin,
.Tulanne Johnston. Nick de Ruix, Edward MartinJune

(R)

END

(R) November 8. 1930.
(NP) September 27. 1930.
With Charles Bickford, Evelyn Knapp', J. Farrell
MacDonald. SaZu Pitts. Walter MoGrail, David Tor-

_...5200

1930.

GOLDEN DAWN

6872

SPURS

THEME:

ERMINE (CD-AT)

IN 10,

(D-AT)
_
5993
With Belle Bennett, John Halli-triangle twist.

RIVER'S

With Robert Armstrong, Barbara
Kent, Beryl Mercer, James Gleason, Clayde Gillingwater, Julia Swayne Gordon, Arthur Hoyt, Mary Foy.
THEME: Comedy-drama adapted from the stage play,
"Weak Sisters." by Lynn Starling.
"EVIDENCE (D-PT)
__
7152
(NP) October 26, 1929.
With Pauline Frederick,
Lowell Sherman, Conway Tearle.

he makes his wife believe he has.

^SONS OF THE SADDLE (W-AT)
(R) August 3. 1930. With Ken Maynard,
(R) July
Wright.

May

(R)

(R) January 25, 1930.

New England
It

THEME: Drama

(D-AT)
With Lewis Ayres, Charles
Leon Janney, James
Mathews,

Cagney.

•DUMBBELLS

LOVE

(R) June 14. 1930.
day. Junior Durkin.

lawyer believes the evidence against his wife instead of believing her.

(C-AT)....5653
6278
6155
(R) December 8. 1929. With James Gleason, Lucille Webster Gleason, Mary Philbin, James Breedon, Harry hotel In a little tribulations, sell himself In for underworld career ending in a killing.

•RECAPTURED

THEME: A

which reforms them.

spite of odds,

(Mel-AT) (Temporary Title)
With Grant Withers, Evalyn
(R) September 6, 1930.
Knapp. James Cagney, Joan Blondell.
THEME: Weak-willed lad. Influenced by liquor, let* 1930.

4,

Dorothy

•GENERAL CRACK (D-AT)

SHANNONS OF BROADWAY

it

October

Judels,

ings.

•SENOR AMERICANO

PENNY ARCADE

_

With James Hall, Irene
(R) October 25, 1930.
Delroy,
Lew Cody, Natalie Moorhead, Edward Martindel, Margaret Seddon.
THEME: Drama 15 minutes before the final edition, while New York is asleep, with the newspaper the clearing house for the triumphs and tragedies of the world.

(K) April 27. 1930. With Hoot Gibson, Sally Eilers.
Wheeler Oakman. Bobby Nelson. Frank Clark. Leo

October 18, 1930

7568

THEME: A boy and a girl

In love, forgetting everything else.

Miscellaneous
Silent

WHITE CARGO

Sound

(D-AT)

Produced by W. P. Film Company, Ltd., London.
(NP) May 24, 1930. With Alexander Gray, Vivienne
(R) February 21. 1930.
(NP) July 12, 1930. With Leslie Faber. John Hamilton, Maurice Evans, Sebastian Smith, Humberston Wright, Henri De Vrica.
George Turner, Tom Hermore. Gypsy Rhouma.
THEME: The struggle of white men to become acclimatized »n the horrible oven which is West Africa.
A forerunner of the South Sea stories.


Lyman H. Howe's Hodge Podge

Ideal Comedies

BUYING A GUM (1917). Directed by Frank Rees. Produced by the brothers Joe Lane (Vocal and Leopold) (345 ft. Released July 13, 1917)

FIRE PROOF (1914). Leopold Lane stars an opposition for the love of his life, to his beloved, to his name, to his family, to his business by starting fires. 1020 ft. Released Sept. 20, 1914.

Morbid Talking Comedies

CRAZY NUTS (1926). Paul Langford. Interested in his mother, his companion, his family. When the doctor says he is too old for his companion, he dies in the hospital. Released Sept. 20, 1926. 3300 ft. Released Sept. 20, 1926.

Terry-Toons

CADDAR (1921). One reel. Released Feb. 23, 1921.

PRETZELS (1921). One reel. Released March 9, 1921.

INDIAN PUDDING (1925). One reel. Released April 4, 1925.

HAWAIIAN PINEAPPLE (1925). One reel. Released April 4, 1925.

SWISS CHEESE. One reel. Released June 1, 1925.

Taxedo Talking Comedies

DRUMMING IT IN (1982). Raymond Mckee and Pullin fall in love, fall in love, fall in love, fall in love. Released Sept. 17, 1982.

FILM BUYER SECTION

October 18, 1930

Vanity Comedies

STUMP (1716). Felder Freid, Robert Young. Released for personal to the box office. Released October 18, 1930.

BUNNY'S BEDROOM (1540). Daisy Hally, Walter Keeler. Released for personal to the box office. Released October 18, 1930.

Our Gang Hal Roach Comedies

Saturdays' Lesson (1279). The Goof kids ride a train with the mailmen. Released July 6, 1930.

Lavender Lace (1277). Helene Costello, with Babes in Arms. Released August 6, 1930.

Railroad (1276). The Goo kids ride in a train with a little boy. Released June 6, 1930.

Shake a Little Light (1275). The Goof kids ride in a train with their brothers. Released July 6, 1930.

Boxing Coves (1274). The Goof kids ride a train with a knapsack. Released September 2, 1930.

Cat Dish (1272). Directed by Vincent Crockett. Released September 14, 1930.

Sharon and Groan, Inc. (1271). Directed by Al◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇・・・・・
October 18, 1930  EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD  15

FOOL JOLLY (1575). Charlie Rinker, Anna Blyth. The picture faith that will keep her fidelity. Release February 20, 1930. Two reels.

FILM BUYER SECTION

October 18, 1930

ISSUE NO. 30. Wino Win in Egypt—Loew's Old Bent Song
ISSUE NO. 31. Hindi and Wild—Sea Tree—Big Trainer ISSUE NO. 32. Racing to an Old Bedrock—Two and Two ISSUE NO. 33. The Officer—The Prince
ISSUE NO. 34. Another—The Day of the Wall

ISSUE NO. 35. "Slip Th更换 As Among the Golds"—Lexus and China
ISSUE NO. 36. India Flight—October Bough
ISSUE NO. 37. Mickey and the Shadow
ISSUE NO. 38. True Dry Fly Wet Sport—Bolts—Arctic Sea
ISSUE NO. 39. The Pacific—South Western—Egyptian

Radio Pictures

Breakdown Cards

[Alberta Young-Ali Cook]

(All-Talking—Two Reels)

I. The Last Bait—2,000
II. The Hidden Roll—2,000
III. The Little Stove—4,000
IV. The Man Who Can't Go—6,000

Football With Knute Rockne

(Released October 15, 1930)

Collegians

(All Star)

(Talking—Two Reels)

USE YOUR FEET. — Released Aug. 13, 1929.
SPALSH MATES. — Released Sept. 16, 1929.
GRADUATION DAZE. — Released Sept. 16, 1929.

Special

(Talking)

SWEETHEARTS. — Roonev Family, two reels. Released Sept. 30, 1929.

Unlivesal Comedies

(All-Talking—Two Reels)

BABY TALKS. — Sunny Jim. Released Sept. 11, 1929.
NOBODY WANTED. — Sunny Jim. Released Nov. 6, 1929.
STOP THAT NOISE. — Sunny Jim and Silent. Released 2 reels. Released July 18, 1929.

Sporting Youth

(All Star)

(Talking—Two Reels)

LADY OF LIONS. — Released Nov. 15, 1929.
HAT AND THE GAME. — Released Dec. 9, 1929.

Serious

THE LIGHTNING EXPRESS. — Featuring Louise Lombard.

Western Featurette

Vitaphone

1.—Stars of Varieties

A

Release Numbers

2700 ABBOTT, AL in "Small Town Rambles"; songs and jokes

2629 ADAIR, JANET, in "Here Comes the Briarmaid," 1 reel.

902 AMEN, WILL AND GLADYS, in "On the Rambler"—song and dance.
223 QUESTION OF TODAY, THE, a comedy drama with Benny and Betty Grable, star, featured. George Cooper is the cost.

R

249 RAILROAD FOLLIES, musical comedy with Gene Murphy and Ethel Zeiler, Director, Ray Fox.

244 RAILROAD LADIES, a novel comedy shot directed by Roy Bloy with Herbert Anthony featured.

240 RAIN марта, a dramatic playlet of a man who wins both wife and fortune on a quick change trick. The Robert plane in three popular camps.

234-38 REN OR RUST, with Franklin Pangborn and Delia Johnson, a dramatic playlet of a man who wins both wife and fortune on a quick change trick. The Robert plane in three popular camps.

238 REJECTION, a clever dramatic playlet starring Mary Margaret McBride and Rosemary DeCamp.

219 REVIVAL DAY, with John Shumway, bordertown character of the stage, who plays a part of a prisoner in the State Prison.

214 TENEMENT TANGLE, A, with Ryan & Lee Comedy.

210 TEN MINUTES, starring Robert Haines, famous character of the stage, who plays a part of a prisoner in the State Prison.

115 TIE’S RIGHTWAY, with Emily Green, a comedy featuring Harry and Joe Tolve and Richard Conlin.

112 TWISTED LOVE and DUTY, with Lester Young and Edith Piaf, in a comedy featuring Harry and Joe Tolve and Richard Conlin.

102 THREE MEN AND A BABY, in a comic playlet featuring Harry and Joe Tolve and Richard Conlin.

100 THREE MEN ON A TUG, a real comedy featuring Harry and Joe Tolve and Richard Conlin.

96 UNDER DOG, THE, a real comedy featuring Harry and Joe Tolve and Richard Conlin.

93 UNDER THE SEA, the submarine quartet with Gus and Guss in sailor costumes and the horse.

90 VARIETY, THE, a comedy featuring Harry and Joe Tolve and Richard Conlin.

87 VERSAILLES, THE, with John T. Murray, Glen Oak, and Mary Ramsey, Comedy.

84 VIOLET, the Queen, in a novel comedy of three popular camps.

80 WALTERS WIFE, a novel comedy of three popular camps.

76 WALTZ OF THE WANDERERS, with Cary Grant, Fred MacMurray, and Susan Hayward, a novel comedy of three popular camps.

71 WAXWORKS, with Robert Young, and Betty Hutton, a novel comedy of three popular camps.

68 WEBSTER STUDENTS, Ryan and Lee in a comedy of three popular camps.

64 WEDDING OF JACK AND JILL, THE, a theatrical comedy with Jack Russell, and Lee in a comedy of three popular camps.

60 WHAT A LIFE, with Victor Young, and George Raft, a novel comedy of three popular camps.

56 WHIRLWIND, THE, with Mary Livingstone, and Orson Welles in a novel comedy of three popular camps.

52 WHO’S WHO IN THE HEBREW ORCHESTRA, a novel comedy of three popular camps.

48 WHO’S WHO IN THE HEBREW ORCHESTRA, a novel comedy of three popular camps.

44 WILD CAT, 2135,—with Billy, a novel comedy of three popular camps.

40 WHITE LIES, a drama of a Russian peasant girl in an American factory where she works.

36 WHO PAYS, John J. Murray and Vivien Oakland in a comedy of three popular camps.

32 WIND CLEANSERS, the, Nobby Edwards and Edith Piaf in a comedy of three popular camps.

28 WINDMOON, THE, a musical comedy with Harry and Joe Tolve in a comedy of three popular camps.

24 WIND UP, THE, a musical comedy with Harry and Joe Tolve in a comedy of three popular camps.

20 WIND UP, THE, a musical comedy with Harry and Joe Tolve in a comedy of three popular camps.

16 WIND UP, THE, a musical comedy with Harry and Joe Tolve in a comedy of three popular camps.

12 WIND UP, THE, a musical comedy with Harry and Joe Tolve in a comedy of three popular camps.

8 WIND UP, THE, a musical comedy with Harry and Joe Tolve in a comedy of three popular camps.

4 WIND UP, THE, a musical comedy with Harry and Joe Tolve in a comedy of three popular camps.

0 WIND UP, THE, a musical comedy with Harry and Joe Tolve in a comedy of three popular camps.
SONG HITS IN

Key Numbers to the Publishers

[NOTE—The following music publishers are listed alphabetically. The songs are listed according to the motion picture production in which they are featured and these films are listed alphabetically by title in the adjoining columns. The publisher's name preceding the title of each song is the key number indicating the publisher of the song.]

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Picture</th>
<th>Producer</th>
<th>Songs</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>AFRICA SPEAKS</td>
<td>Columbia</td>
<td>(9) African Serenade</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT</td>
<td>Universal</td>
<td>(18) All Quiet on the Western Front</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ANIMAL CRACKERS</td>
<td>Paramount</td>
<td>(7) Why Am I So Romantic</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BIG BOY</td>
<td>Warner Bros.</td>
<td>(7) Little Sunshine</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BIG PARTY</td>
<td>Fox</td>
<td>(12) Better Than Blue Over You</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BIG POND</td>
<td>Paramount</td>
<td>(7) You Brought a New Kind of Love to Me</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BLAZE O' GLORY</td>
<td>Loew</td>
<td>(5) Ye Ta Adore</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BORDER ROMANCE</td>
<td>First National</td>
<td>(9) Brokenhearted Lover</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BRIDE OF THE REGIMENT</td>
<td>Fox</td>
<td>(15) I've Taught A Lesson In This Three Days</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BRIGHT LIGHTS</td>
<td>Columbia</td>
<td>(10) Sitting' on a Rainbow</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CALL OF THE FLESH</td>
<td>Universal</td>
<td>(13) For You</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CAPTAIN OF THE GUARDS</td>
<td>Warner Bros.</td>
<td>(13) Troop Me On Parade</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CHEER UP AND SMILE</td>
<td>Fox</td>
<td>(12) Where Can You Be</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CRAYZ WHAY</td>
<td>Fox</td>
<td>(12) Let's Do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CZAR OF BROADWAY</td>
<td>Universal</td>
<td>(17) That Homestead Shady of Mine</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>DANCING SWEETIES</td>
<td>Paramount</td>
<td>(14) Dangerous Ran McGrew</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>DANGEROUS NAME OF McGRUE</td>
<td>M G M</td>
<td>(14) Song</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>DEVIL MAY CARE</td>
<td>Warner Bros.</td>
<td>(19) Kiss Waltz</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>DIVORCE, THE</td>
<td>United Artists</td>
<td>(8) Love Aloof</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>DOUBLE CROSS-ROADS</td>
<td>M G M</td>
<td>(10) My Mother Was a Lady</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>EYES OF THE WORLD</td>
<td>Paramount</td>
<td>(7) A Parch of a Pair</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FLORODORA GIRL</td>
<td>M G M</td>
<td>(14) Free and Easy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FOLLOW THEU</td>
<td>Fox</td>
<td>(5) The Right Kind of Man</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FREE AND EASY</td>
<td>Fox</td>
<td>(12) My Lovely Heart</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FROZEN JUSTICE</td>
<td>M G M</td>
<td>(14) Sing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GIRL FROM WOOLWORTH'S</td>
<td>United Artists</td>
<td>(8) Love Aloof</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GLORIFYING THE AMERICAN GIRL</td>
<td>Warner Bros.</td>
<td>(9) Affluence Smiles No More</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GOLDEN DAWN</td>
<td>Fox</td>
<td>(12) A Slave to Love</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GOOD INTENTIONS</td>
<td>Pathe</td>
<td>(1) Baby Love</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GRAND PARADE</td>
<td>M G M</td>
<td>(14) Free and Easy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GREAT GABBO</td>
<td>Fox</td>
<td>(12) A Slave to Love</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HELLO, SISTER</td>
<td>Universal</td>
<td>(18) Can It Be</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HI DE HO</td>
<td>Warner Bros.</td>
<td>(5) When the Little Red Rose</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HOLD EVERYTHING</td>
<td>Universal</td>
<td>(18) Can It Be</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Picture

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Producer</th>
<th>Songs</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>MONEY</td>
<td>(2) Sing You Sinners</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HOT FOR PARIS</td>
<td>(3) In a Little White Shirt</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ISLE OF ESCAPE</td>
<td>(7) If You Want To Get Pansy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>IT'S A GREAT LIFE</td>
<td>(7) I'm Doin' to Be Good To You</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>JAZZ CINEREILLA</td>
<td>(3) True Love</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>KING OF JAZZ</td>
<td>(3) You Gotta Be Good To Me</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LADIES IN LOVE</td>
<td>(3) How I Love You</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LET'S GO NATIVE</td>
<td>(2) Sailing At Sea</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LOVE AMONG THE MILLIONAIRES</td>
<td>(2) Love Among the Millionaires</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT</td>
<td>(7) I'm Sure To Be Singing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LOVE COMES ALONG</td>
<td>(10) I'm Learning A Lat From You</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LOVE FINDS A WAY</td>
<td>(11) Someone</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LOVE IN THE ROUGH</td>
<td>(10) I'm Sure To Be Singing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LOVE PARADE</td>
<td>(7) Dream Lover</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MAMMY</td>
<td>(2) You Know I'm Right</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MAN TROUBLE</td>
<td>(2) Across the Breakfast Table</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MARIANNE</td>
<td>(5) Marianne</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MASK AND THE DEVIL</td>
<td>(14) A Little Waltz</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MARRIAGEAL BED</td>
<td>(14) I'm In Heaven</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MAYBE IT'S LOVE</td>
<td>(15) Stay With You</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MELODY MAN</td>
<td>Columbia</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MERRY-GO-ROUND</td>
<td>Universal</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MONTE CARLO</td>
<td>Paramount</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MOUNTED STRANGER</td>
<td>Universal</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MY MAN</td>
<td>Warner Bros.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NEAR THE RAINBOW'S END</td>
<td>Warners</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
CURRENT FILMS

the Songs in This Directory

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Picture</th>
<th>Producer</th>
<th>Songs</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>SONG OF THE CABALLERO</td>
<td>Universal (18)</td>
<td>Mi Caballero</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SONG OF THE FLAME</td>
<td>First National (3)</td>
<td>1. Little Drink</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>2. Want Love Calls</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>3. Pure Love</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>4. Liberty</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>5. Picture Fanny</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>6. Harvest Song</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SONG OF THE ISLANDS</td>
<td>Tiffany (10)</td>
<td>Song of the Islands</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SONG OF THE WEST</td>
<td>Warner Bros. (19)</td>
<td>Come Back to Me</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>29. The One Girl</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>29. West Wind</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SONG OF THE SADDLE</td>
<td>Universal (18)</td>
<td>Trail Herb Song</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>18. Down the Home Trail</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SO THIS IS PARIS GREEN</td>
<td>Paramount (3)</td>
<td>La La Mama</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SOUTHERN ROSE</td>
<td>Fox (5)</td>
<td>South Sea Rose</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SPORTING YOUTH</td>
<td>Universal (19)</td>
<td>Dancing Butterfly</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Instrumental</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>STORM, THE</td>
<td>Universal (18)</td>
<td>Pierrot and Pierrotto</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>1. Penny and Pennyto</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SUNNY SIDE UP</td>
<td>Fox (3)</td>
<td>Sunnyside Up</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>3. Ain't We All</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>5. If I Had a Talking Picture of You</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>5. Turn on the Heat</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SUNNY SKIES</td>
<td>Tiffany (3)</td>
<td>Wanna Find a Boy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>3. Meet the Lover</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SWEETHEARTS ON PARADE</td>
<td>Colombia (3)</td>
<td>Sweethearts on Parade</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SWING HIGH</td>
<td>Paths (16)</td>
<td>1. Must Be Love</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>16. Do You Think I Could Grow on You</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>16. There's Happiness Over the Hill</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>17. Show the Hoodoo Away</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>17. With My Guitar and You</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TANKED LEGS</td>
<td>RKO (9)</td>
<td>You're Responsible</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>5. With Me/With You</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>THEIR OWN DESIRE</td>
<td>MGM (12)</td>
<td>Blue Is the Night</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>THEY LEARNED ABOUT WOMEN</td>
<td>MGM (1)</td>
<td>A Man of My Own</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>1. There Will Never Be Another Mary</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>2. Harriet Madison</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>3. Mr. Baby Love</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>4. Her's That Kind of Pal</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>5. Aloha Baby</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TIGER ROSE</td>
<td>Warner Bros. (19)</td>
<td>Day You Fall in Love</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TOP SPEED</td>
<td>First National (5)</td>
<td>Looking for the Lullabout in the Dark</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>5. As Long As I Have You</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>5. Knock Knock</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TRESPASSER, THE</td>
<td>United Artists (2)</td>
<td>Love, Your Spell Is Everywhere</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>VAGABOND KING</td>
<td>Paramount (7)</td>
<td>Only a Rose</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>7. Song of the Vagabonds</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>7. Sunday Day</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>7. King Waltz</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>7. Love Me Tonight</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>7. Little Kiss Each Morning</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>VAGABOND LOVER</td>
<td>RKO (9)</td>
<td>I Love You, Believe Me I Love You</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>9. Then I'll Be Reminded To You</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>11. Nobody's Sweetheart</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>VIENNESE NIGHTS</td>
<td>Warner Bros. (19)</td>
<td>Bring a Love Song</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>19. You Will Remember Vienna</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>19. Here We Are</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>19. Regimental March</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>19. I'm Lonely</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>19. Ja Ja Ja (Yes You Yes)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WER WIRD DENN WEINNEN</td>
<td>British Inter. (18)</td>
<td>No Use Crying</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>National (made in Germany)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WAY OUT WEST</td>
<td>MGM (14)</td>
<td>Sigh's a Song to the Stars</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WHAT A WIDOW</td>
<td>United Artists (26)</td>
<td>Love Is Like a Song</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>26. Your One Chance</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>26. What Is She</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WHAT MEN WANT</td>
<td>Universal (19)</td>
<td>My Baby and Me</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>19. What a Perfect Night for Love</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WHITE HELL OF PITZ PALU</td>
<td>Fox (18)</td>
<td>Looking You</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WHOOPIE</td>
<td>Zeitlin-Goldsky (4)</td>
<td>My Baby Just Cares For Me</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>4. She's a Girl Friend of a Sorry</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>4. I'll Still Believe in You</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WHY LEAVE HOME</td>
<td>Fox (12)</td>
<td>What You've Done to Me</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WILD COMPANY</td>
<td>Fox (12)</td>
<td>That's What I Like About You</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WOMEN EVERYWHERE</td>
<td>Fox (12)</td>
<td> Beware of Love</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>12. One Day</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>YOUNG DESIRE</td>
<td>Universal (19)</td>
<td>Hello Margot</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>YOUNG MAN OF MANHATTAN</td>
<td>Paramount (2)</td>
<td>I've Got it</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>21. I'll Be Along With a Bob-O-Link</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
A GREAT STAGE SUCCESS
THAT RAN A YEAR ON BROADWAY
NOW A SMASHING PICTURE

BROTHERS

By HERBERT ASHTON, Jr.

with BERT LYTELL
DOROTHY SEBASTIAN  WILLIAM MORRIS

- Sensational Broadway stage hit, roadshowed Coast to Coast, "BROTHERS" is destined for even greater success as an outstanding screen drama.

Directed by WALTER LANG

ANOTHER COLUMBIA TRIUMPH!
YEAR IN AND YEAR OUT!

THE BIG $2 BROADWAY HITS are

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER
To All Theatre Owners Everywhere!

YOUR PROBLEMS
community, state and national
... are the problems of all. In unified effort great things can be accomplished ... So pack up your old bag ... hop a rattler ... and be in Philly for the National Conclave with its accompanying

EQUIPMENT EXHIBITION
Lend your shoulder to the other fellow and thousands of shoulders will be loaned to you.

... And bring the wife! She'll like "The City of Brotherly Love" ... its shops ... its homes ... its historic past ... and its artistic present. Plenty of entertainment will be provided for her amusement.

Write for Reservations!
CONVENTION HEADQUARTERS 219 N. Broad Street, Phila., Pa.
LET'S leave the wisecracks and comedy to the actors and TALK BUSINESS!
IT'S A FACT...

TODAY THE BIG STARS ARE ALL PARAMOUNT

HAROLD LLOYD
MORAN AND MACK
MAURICE CHEVALIER
GEORGE BANCROFT
CLARA BOW
RUTH CHATTERTON
THE MARX BROTHERS
NANCY CARROLL
WILLIAM POWELL
GARY COOPER
CHARLES ROGERS
RICHARD ARLEN
JACK OAKIE
ED WYNN

HAROLD LLOYD Corp. Prod.
Paramount releases.
DISREGARD* for the time being . . .

PARAMOUNT'S 18 years of acknowledged leadership of this business. Based on earning the largest profits for exhibitors each season.

PARAMOUNT'S quantity production policy that assures theatres continuous supply, and PARAMOUNT'S high quality standard that makes them hits.

PARAMOUNT'S mighty resources that bring the cream of the world's talent, material and showmanship under this company's trade mark.

PARAMOUNT'S policy of absolutely fair dealing with theatre men that makes it a pleasure and a protection to do business with this company.

PARAMOUNT'S 14 years of national advertising and our present giant campaign in print and over the air. Sending the public by the millions to theatres playing PARAMOUNT.

* Of course no thinking showman will disregard these facts in buying product. They're as fundamental and important as the pictures themselves.
PARAMOUNT PRODUCT AT

THE MARX BROS.
in "Animal Crackers"
6 riotous weeks of S. R. O. at the Bialto, N. Y. Greatest comedy smash of 1920 so far!

CHARLES ROGERS
NANCY CARROLL
in
"Follow Thru"
Schwab and Mandel golf comedy Technicolor hit piling up high grosses due to stars and subject.

"ANYBODY'S WOMAN"
Sensational Ruth Chatterton-Clive Brook dramatic shock is absolute mop-up at box offices from coast to coast.

TWO BLACK CROWS
MORAN AND MACK
in
"Anybody's War"
Still the greatest blackface comedy team in showdom—and proving it with b.o. dollars.
BASE YOUR JUDGEMENT on the money performances of current

THE BOX OFFICE NOW!

"MONTE CARLO"
Ernst Lubitsch's brilliant romance with Jack Buchanan and Jeanette MacDonald played 6 capacity weeks at Rivoli, N. Y., to best crowds and reviews in town.

"THE SPOILERS"
Edwin Carewe's mighty production of famous Rex Beach novel proving just the red-blooded fare they want. With Gary Cooper, Kay Johnson, Betty Compson, others.

"MANSLAUGHTER"

"LET'S GO NATIVE"
Laugh-swept crowds and big grosses greet this Jack Oakie—Jeanette MacDonald comedy mirthquake in all parts of the country. One of the real smashes of the year!
LOOK AHEAD to the GREATEST ARRAY OF THIS BUSINESS HAS

HAROLD LLOYD
in his greatest, "Feet First." Produced by Harold Lloyd Corp. A Paramount release.

MAURICE CHEVALIER
in sparkling "Playboy of Paris." With Frances Dee, Eugene Pallette, Stuart Erwin, others.

"MOROCCO"
Another "Beau Geste." With Gary Cooper, the sensational new Marlene Dietrich and Adolphe Menjou.

FIGHTING CARAVANS
Like a "Covered Wagon" all talk. Gary Cooper, Lily Damita, Ernest Torrence, Tully Marshall, Zane Grey.

CLARA BOW
with Ralph Forbes, Charlie Ruggles and Skeets Gallagher in "Her Wedding Night." Clara's Best!

GEORGE BANCROFT
As a bucko seafaring lover and fighter in "Derelict." Bancroft's surest clean-up!

"TOM SAWYER"
Jackie Coogan's debut as talking star in famous Mark Twain novel. Mitzi Green, Junior Durkin.

RUTH CHATTERTON
First lady of the screen in a startling drama, "The Right to Love." Bigger than "Anybody's Woman."

NANCY CARROLL
in "Laughter." With Fredric March and Frank Morgan. A drama bigger than "The Devil's Holiday."

"HEADS UP"
Charles Rogers, Helen Kane and Victor Moore in the roaring comedy that ran a year on Broadway.

WILLIAM POWELL
in a strong drama, "New Morals." Utterly different from anything this star has done before.

JACK OAKIE
America's joy friend as the garrulous gob amid girls and gayety in "Sea Legs." Great comedy cast.

CHARLES ROGERS
rising to new heights of popularity in "Along Came Youth." With Frances Dee, Stuart Erwin.

"THE ROYAL FAMILY"
Ina Claire, Mary Brian, Fredric March, Henrietta Crosman and big cast. Title to be changed.

"THE VIRTUOUS SIN"
A dramatic thunderbolt! Walter Huston, Kay Francis and Kenneth McKenna. Another "Anybody's Woman!"
COMING HITS EVER KNOWN!

“FAST AND LOOSE”
Carol Lombard, Frank Morgan, Miriam Hopkins, others. From famous play.

ED WYNN
Like Four Marx Bros. rolled into one in “Manhattan Mary.” Ginger Rogers, Stanley Smith. Wynn’s big stage riot!

“DISHONORED”
After “Morocco” they’ll yell for Marlene Dietrich in big drama. Here it is. The screen’s discovery of the year!

GEORGE BANCROFT
as a ruthless scandal sheet editor in “Unfit to Print.” The type of dynamic Bancroft hit they love.

“ONLY SAPS WORK”
Leon Errol, Richard Arlen, Mary Brian, Stuart Erwin. Merry comedy in the “Animal Crackers” manner.

RICHARD ARLEN
in a series of all-outdoors action dramas like “The Santa Fe Trail.” Hits in any class of house.

“HALF SINNER”
Gary Cooper and Nancy Carroll re-united for first time since famous “Shopworn Angel.”

“HUCKLEBERRY FINN”
Mark Twain’s greatest story will bring the kids back to your box office with a bang. Adults too.

“SKIPPY”
Percy Crosby’s beloved cartoon character to the life! Millions are eager to see this one.

... AS WELL AS THE BEST QUALITY SHORT SUBJECTS PROGRAM ON THE MARKET

PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS

PARAMOUNT 1-REEL ACTS

PARAMOUNT 2-REEL COMEDIES

PARAMOUNT SCREEN SONGS

PARAMOUNT TALKARTOONS

PARAMOUNT PICTORIAL

With Real Stars such as:

CLARA BOW
EDDIE CANTOR
RUDY VALLEE
GEORGE JESSEL
CHARLIE RUGGLES
CHESTER CONKLIN
LILLIAN ROTH GINGER ROGERS
others!

ONLY a partial list of the mighty money monarchs on the way from PARAMOUNT. The Greater New Show World totals 70.
FOR the strictly business reason that PARAMOUNT in 1930-31 will yield you the greatest average profit you have ever enjoyed...

YOUR NAME BELONGS ON A PARAMOUNT CONTRACT

Now, more than ever before, THE GREATEST NAME IN SHOW BUSINESS!
There Is No Substitute For Circulation—

—as proof of the service a publication is rendering a field

—as proof of just where a publication stands in the estimation of a field

EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD Has The Largest Circulation In The Motion Picture Trade. (Proof by the Audit Bureau of Circulations*)

*The HERALD-WORLD is the only motion picture trade publication whose circulation statements are audited by the Audit Bureau of Circulations.
OME TO GODS OF RADIO

AMOS 'N' ANDY

IN

"CHECK AND DOUBLE CHECK"

SMASH ALL KNOWN BOX-OFFICE

RECORDS IN MIGHTIEST DAY AND

DATE EXHIBITION SWEEP OF HISTORY

Watch Exhibitors Herald-World for Sensational Details of Whoopla

Grosses!
ANN HARDING
In five artistic super productions "HOLIDAY" "REBOUND" "I TAKE THIS WOMAN" "THE GREATER LOVE" and "ROMANCE HARBOR".

BILL BOYD
In four powerful melodramas "BEYOND VICTORY" "THE LAST FRONTIER" "NORTH OF THE YUKON" and "RAWHIDE".

CONSTANCE BENNETT
In four superlative dramatic presentations — "SIN TAKES A HOLIDAY" "IN DEEP" "LAZY LADY" and "ADAM AND EVE".

HELEN TWELVETREES
In three splendid attractions "HER MAN" "THE PRICE OF A PARTY" and "SWING HIGH". Also appearing in "BEYOND VICTORY".

STARS OF TREMENDOUS POPULARITY IN PRODUCTIONS THAT HARMONIZE WITH THE MODERN IDEAS OF MODERN AUDIENCES
A long line of real hits

"Holiday" is making prosperity history . . . "Her Man" has just registered a spectacular debut.

Next in line is —

CONSTANCE BENNETT

in

Sin Takes a Holiday

with Kenneth McKenna and Basil Rathbone

Produced by E. B. DERR • Directed by PAUL STEIN

PATHÉ
coming

'VIENNESE NIGHTS'
The Greatest Love Story Ever Told
Any way you look at her—she's the funniest girl on the screen . . .

WARNER BROS. Present

"The LIFE of the PARTY"

with WINNIE LIGHTNER

She's a wild baby who makes old men act childish! A Gold-Digger of Broadway in Havana, working playful millionaires!

Opening soon for an extended New York run at the Winter Garden. AVAILABLE TO YOU DAY AND DATE WITH BROADWAY!
Marilyn Miller
THE NEW SWEETHEART OF THE SCREEN
SUNNY
BIGGER, BETTER, BRIGHTER THAN "SALLY"
with JOE DONAHUE
LAWRENCE GRAY, O. P.
HEGGIE, INEZ COURTNEY, CLYDE COOK

By far, the most human story since "OVER THE HILL."

MOTHERS CRY
From Helen Grace Carlyle's sensational novel with DOROTHY PETERSON
Famous Broadway Actress
HELEN CHANDLER
DAVID MANNERS
SIDNEY BLACKMER
EVELYN KNAPP

Ann Harding
THE GIRL THE WHOLE WORLD IS TALKING ABOUT IN THE GIRL OF THE GOLDEN WEST

Belasco's immortal drama with
JAMES RENNIE • HARRY BANNISTER
NOW MAKING HUNDREDS OF SHOWMEN HAPPY!
Here's The Answer To Box-Office Success!

You don't have to turn this page if you are looking for BACKBONE PRODUCT.
Right here are the five strongest attractions you can buy!

And now comes the successor to "Dawn Patrol!"

RICHARD BARTHIELMESS
AS A DASHING, DARING BANDIT OF THE PLAINS IN

ADIOS

with MARY ASTOR
MARIAN NIXON
FRED KOHLER
JAMES RENNIE
A Frank Lloyd Production

Just A Sample Of The Kind of Pictures That Have Given FIRST NATIONAL The Edge On The Industry ▲
The FILM BUYER

"fills a long-felt Want"

Pittsburgh

The Film Buyer is probably the most useful piece of mail we get, and every issue is carefully filed and much thumbed. The service The Film Buyer renders is invaluable. It is especially helpful with the thumb nail theme on all productions, enabling us to plan out surrounding bill of shorts. All in all, we'd be pretty much lost without it. . . . W. D. David, The Triangle theatre.

Your Film Buyer reminds me to write complimenting you on the real service you are rendering the exhibitor through this publication. The detailed information which The Film Buyer contains is a wonderful help in booking pictures. It certainly fills a long felt want. . . . M. Chester Martin, Orpheum theatre.

Cincinnati

IN my years of experience in the show game I'm always finding something new and the latest thing which is of value to me is The Film Buyer you put out. The Exhibitors Herald-World always has been a help but The Film Buyer lets us have the dope we need. . . . Pat Brennen, Music Box.

New Orleans

I receive The Film Buyer regularly and consider it a very valuable medium for any exhibitor in the booking of pictures. More power to you. . . . Harry Silver, Palace theatre.

Hamilton, O.

I THINK there is more information in The Film Buyer than in all the year books. You get it close to release and most all the information that an exhibitor needs to help him buy his pictures. . . . particularly advantageous in helping advertise your short product as it is most complete, giving title, stars. . . . very important in order to properly advertise your programs. . . . Thomas H. Burke, The Liberty theatre.

Cumberland, Md.

As an exhibitor owning and running several theatres I wish to say how much I appreciate your Film Buyer. I have found it of great assistance when booking film for my houses. I like the way it is arranged as it enables me to look up features, comedies, short subjects or any particular class of film I may need to balance my program. . . . Aaron Goldberg, Aaron Goldberg Theatres.

San Francisco

The FILM BUYER

is issued every fourth week as a second section of

EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD

The Service Paper of the Industry
CREDIT COMMITTEES
U. S. Supreme Court Weighs Appeal From New York Federal Court's Ruling That Credit Committee System Does Not Constitute Conspiracy in Restraint of Trade—Monopolistic Control of Film Industry Is Charged by Government.

COMPLETE INDEX TO CONTENTS

NEWS
Courtland Smith of Trans Lux is expected to feature Grantland Rice Sportlight in RKO shorts program; RKO 50 Per Cent Interest in Van Beuren Corporation Reported.
New path is sought to settle St. Louis musicians' strike as union rejects exhibitors' offer to place players in four de luxe houses.
Four million deal by Columbia gives product an outlet in Warner theatre; $3,000,000 contract covers entire feature output, $1,000,000 on seven short series.
Harold Lloyd an Optician Salesman? Sherwood answers propaganda charges—Supreme Court refuses to act on three music copyright cases.

FEATURES
New Product .............................................. 41
The Voice of the Industry (Letters from Readers) ........... 63
Securities Price Range ................................. 30
Hollywood, by Douglas Hodges .......................... 46
Broadway .................................................. 24
Sound Reproduction .................................... 49
Pictorial Section ......................................... 31
J. C. Jenkins—His Column ................................ 45

ADVERTISEMENTS

DEPARTMENTS
The Short Feature ........................................ 57
Music and Talent ....................................... 58
Box Office Promotion ................................. 51
Classified Advertising ................................. 64
Chicago Personalities, by Jim Little ................... 66
Advertising Copy

We note in a recent theatre advertisement in a Chicago newspaper the following line set in bold display type at the head of the copy:

ADULTS ONLY—CENSOR'S ORDERS

We note also that the advertisement in question refers to an attraction being presented in a theatre operated by one of the leading circuits.

The incident causes us to refer to the text of the Advertising Code subscribed to last June by representatives of the leading film companies and theatre circuits. Section XII of the Code reads as follows:

"Court actions relating to censoring of pictures, or other censorship disputes, are not to be capitalized in advertising."

When the Code of Advertising Ethics was adopted last June it was hailed as a distinct step forward in the conduct of the affairs of the industry. On our own part we felt that there was a considerable amount of pussy-footing in at least one section of the Code but on the whole we too felt that the advertising men had arrived at a most commendable and constructive development.

Results generally since the adoption of the Code have been such as to bring credit on the advertising sector of the business. All of the advertising material put out directly by the New York offices of the film companies and theatre circuits have reflected the spirit of the Code. In many instances that have come to our attention advertising men have gone to great lengths to make sure that no questionable material remained in their copy.

The principal violations of the Advertising Code, if not all of the violations, have been traceable to the activities of advertising men in the field who apparently have not yet entirely made up their minds as to whether the Code means business or whether it is just a political gesture.

There are others among this group in the field who seem to have made up their mind that the Code means nothing or, at least, it is not going to be permitted to mean anything as far as their work is concerned. There, for instance, the case of the advertising department of the western theatre circuit which took a perfectly proper still picture (of the hero and heroine embraced in the final fade-out) and by means of running this turned on its side instead of upright, as it was photographed, succeeded in manufacturing and using for their own purposes a picture that was distinctly objectionable and distinctly outside the limitations of the Code.

The advertising men in the field ought to know equally as well as not better than the New York advertising men the hazards to the industry created through the use of objectionable and improper advertising material. They ought to know that many of the industry's severest enemies are persons who do not patronize motion pictures but who form their opinions of the character of pictures from the advertising matter publicly displayed.

Any person in this business who follows a course which is calculated to entrench the evils of censorship ought to be declared a public enemy and driven from the business.

And that, precisely, is the effect of exploiting censorship restrictions in advertising copy.

In the absence of an advertising code of ethics such an act might be put down to thoughtlessness and ignorance. In face of the existence of the Code it looks like a deliberate and flagrant effort to humiliate the industry for a cheap and momentary advantage.

These Stage Shows—

A RECENT inspection of the program of the Roxy Theatre, New York, left us with the impression that the presentation policy in that house is actually dead, although the management as yet has not arranged for formal obsequies.

In this great theatre, probably the world's greatest, it is more than a little sad to see rattling about within its vast dimensions these puny little presentation acts which are about as distinct and different from one week to another as so many peas in a pod. The long-suffering public does not seem to be able to do much about it. They register their vote in so far as possible by staying away when the motion picture attraction is not an outstanding one and by coming in vast numbers when the picture is one they want to see. The theatre can nearly double its receipts from one week to the next depending upon the motion picture shown—yet the fuss and bother and expense over the stage show goes on.

And these stage shows... If they were aimed to show sharp contrast between themselves, in their puny and meaningless way, and the vast and impressive screen attractions, then there might be a reason for their existence. But we have never read any rule in the showman's manual which states that by taxing the patience and indulgence of an audience you can effectively prepare it for your main attraction. We are inclined to think the reverse is true. We believe that a certain portion of the strength of the screen attraction is merely dissipated in offsetting the ill effects of the stage show.

"How's Business?"

A VERY pleasing answer to the question, "How's business?", is to be had in the recent statement from Paramount in which this corporation announces a 39 per cent increase in profits in the first nine months of this year as compared with the like period of last year.

This prosperous showing is added proof that the picture business does not stand linked with the fortunes of general business.
Increase in Use of Wide Film Awaits Decision on Standard

50 Millimeter Width Favored By Both SMPE and Academy

Cameras Ready to Start on Several Productions as Soon As Definite Agreement Is Reached

[Abridgments of two important papers read at the SMPE meetings appear on pages 26 and 27. One is the report of the progress committee, and the other is the paper by C. J. North and N. D. Golden, chief and assistant chief of the motion picture division of the department of commerce. The latter was read by Golden.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Increased activity at the studios in the production of wide film pictures is expected to follow immediately after a final decision has been reached on a standard width.

This was indicated by speakers and others attending the semi-annual meeting of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers at the Pennsylvania hotel this week.

Production on several pictures has been delayed, it was said, but cameras are in readiness to start turning the moment definite agreement is achieved.

Both the SMPE and the Academy of Motion Picture Arts & Sciences seem to favor the 50 millimeter width as the most practicable, and in conversation with several interested persons confidence was expressed that this would be the width adopted.

It is the opinion of those who have studied the problem that an intermediate width between 70 and 35 mm. must be reached, and for practical purposes they believe that the 50 mm. film would best serve the entire industry.

Easy Conversion of Projectors

The proportion of such a picture would be 1.8 to 1 instead of 2 to 1, the latter proportion being considered impracticable for many houses.

Those favoring the 50 mm. film contend that the present projectors could be easily converted, and could use both the 50 and the present 35 mm. width.

At present two widths are being used by producers, United Artists, Warner Brothers, First National and Universal utilizing 65 mm. film and Fox and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer 70 mm.

"Everybody in Hollywood is for wide film," Ralph G. Fear of Fearless Camera Company told the engineers. "We are selling no cameras for 35 mm. film. The Coast producers, however, are awaiting your decision on width. There is no difficulty in handling wide film production. The trouble so far has been in projection. Until a standard width has been agreed to I am delaying production on four pictures which I will make for independent theatres."

Two Current Broadway Showings

During the SMPE meeting this week the first of the wide screen attractions was playing Broadway at the Capitol theatre, with the second to play at the Roxy next week. The Capitol picture was MGM's "Billy the Kid," while the Roxy attraction next week will be Fox's "The Big Trail," which was viewed by the engineers on an ordinary size screen Monday night.

"The Big Trail" will be projected from 70 mm. film, while "Billy the Kid" is using a shorter focal length lens on 35 mm. reduced from 70.

In trying to reach a decision on a standard width, the engineers and producers seek a film of such dimensions that will require a minimum of expenditure in converting to the larger screen. They believe 50 mm. will do this.

Major Edward J. Bowes, of the Capitol, welcoming the engineers said: "It is a pity that producers do not appreciate what you engineers have done. It is up to you to force them to appreciate your work. There is some appreciation, but not as much as there should be."

In responding, President J. I. Crabtree said that the producers will have to rely more and more upon the engineers.

The SMPE Secretary J. H. Kurlander told the meeting, now have an international membership of 756, and in the treasury, Past Treasurer R. C. Hubbard said, there is a balance of more than $32,000, an increase of $30,000 in the last five years during Hubbard's tenue of office.
BROADWAY

THERE is a strained situation between the Canadian government and the American motion picture industry.

Just how serious subsequent developments will become is difficult at this time to forecast, but in a recent conversation with a Dominion government official I was led to believe that before long the American interests may have to contend with a quota law such as they have in other foreign countries.

It is not a question of quality in American product. The present situation was created, I am told, through American methods in theatre operation, with men from the States superseding Canadians in executive positions.

Plans are afoot now in Canada, it is said, to deport certain American theatre men under the immigration law.

The American motion picture has become a national issue in Canada, and only through recognition of this situation can adverse legislation be avoided.

Another legislative prospect in Canada is a national censorship board to replace the present individual province bodies. Such a national board would operate through all of Canada with the possible exception of Quebec, which would continue to maintain its own judges of what should be and should not to be shown to its citizens via the screen. This new law would place the fate of a picture in one board instead of nine as at present.

EVENTS OF CURRENT INTEREST AT THE MOTION PICTURE CLUB: The Saturday evening supper dances and the bridge, ping pong, handball, pool and billiards tournaments.

One of the most businesslike of the organizations which it has been my privilege to come in contact with is the Society of Motion Picture Engineers. Under the guidance of President J. I. Crabtree, this organization takes rank as one of the leaders in motion picture development, especially today when the scientific problem plays such an important part in screen development.

Just how many patrons does radio draw to the box office of the motion picture theatre? Producers and distributors who are spending thousands of dollars annually on radio entertainment would like a definite answer to that question. What exhibitor can provide it?

JAY M. SHRECK.

A Courtship and a Fight

And what a fight it is! The bottom picture will convey some idea. And the courtship—between a two-fisted sailor and a dance hall "moll," which brings something new into both of their lives, portrayed by Phillips Holmes and Helen Twelvetrees, respectively. The picture is entitled "Her Man," and is a Pathe production, directed by Tay Garnett. Others in the cast include Majorie Rambeau, Ricardo Cortez and James Gleason.

Her first birthday

Anything goes
Supreme Court Weighs Appeal From OK on Credit Committee

Building Conditions Good, Says Writer In Better Theatres

Monopolistic Control of Film Trade Charged by Government

Brief Says Extra-legal Tribunal to Enforce Contracts Is "Particularly Obnoxious" Restraint

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Briefs in support of the Government's appeal from the decision of the New York Federal Court in the Credit Committee case against First National Pictures, and others, were filed today with the United States Supreme court by the Department of Justice, asking reversal of the decision, which held that the adoption and use of Credit Committee rules did not constitute a conspiracy in unlawful restraint of interstate commerce.

The brief charges the New York court with two errors, in that it failed to find that the defendants engaged in an unlawful conspiracy to coerce and require exhibitors in acquiring motion picture theatres by purchase or transfer to assume and perform the uncompleted contracts for exhibition made by the former owner or operator, and in not holding that the respondents engaged in an unlawful conspiracy to deprive exhibitors so acquiring theatres of their right to have a court of competent jurisdiction determine whether such purchase or transfer was fraudulent and for the purpose of avoiding contractual obligations.

Cites Other Decisions

"We submit that this case is governed by the numerous decisions of this court condemning as an illegal restraint of trade any agreement not to deal, or even any concerted action by members of a trade having such a purpose and effect," it was declared in the brief. "This court has also said that such an agreement is equally invalid where the restraint may be removed by complying with the conditions fixed by those imposing the restraint. And it is no justification of an illegal combination in restraint of trade that the primary object of the parties to the agreement is to protect themselves against trade conditions which they consider inimical."

Charges Monopolistic Control

Further, it is asserted in the brief, the supreme court "has never sanctioned an agreement among the members of an industry to act in unison in making an agency of the group an extra-legal tribunal to compel fulfillment of contractual obligations. Such a restraint on competition seems particularly obnoxious to the anti-trust laws, where the enforcing group, as in this case, has monopolistic control of the industry. The alleged justification would seem to become even more untenable when, as in this case, the pressure of the group is applied to those who in most cases are not under any legal liability to the members of the industry."

Hold Funeral for Josiah Zuro, Killed When Auto Crashes

(Hollywood, Oct. 23.—Following his death Saturday when his car plunged from the Los Angeles-San Diego highway at Torrey Pines, funeral services for Josiah Zuro, director-general of musical productions for Pathé, were held here Tuesday. Zuro has many notable successes to his credit. His last triumph was the musical score for the United Artists' picture "What a Widow," starring Gloria Swanson. His last work was adapting a score to Pathé's "Her Man" for foreign release.

Zuro was not only noted as an adapter of musical scores to the screen, but also as a composer. His home was in New York and his body will be escorted there.

J. F. O'Connell Dies

(Halifax, N. S., Oct. 23.—J. F. O'Connell, who suffered a heart attack while overseeing arrangements for opening of the new Capitol, large Famous Players Canadian house here, died a few days ago. Thomas Daley of the Toronto, Ont., headquarter came here to replace O'Connell.

Supreme Court Wants Nothing to Do With Music Copyrights; Bars Three Texas Cases

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 23.—The Supreme Court has refused to decide whether playing of copyrighted music rolls in motion picture theatres without consent of the copyright owners constitutes a violation of the copyright laws.

Three cases from Texas, in which music firms sued theatre operators on such charges, were refused a hearing.
Europe Called Awakened to Own Market

Conditions Painted That U. S. Producers Must Face Abroad

Competition Growing Rapidly Stiffer, but America Can Meet It, Golden Tells SM&E

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Not only will Europe cease, like the United States, to care for silent pictures, but it will rapidly enlarge its facilities for producing its own pictures in the languages of its peoples, the fall SM&E convention, which opened here October 20, was told by N. D. Golden, assistant of the motion picture division of the U. S. Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

Europe will produce a total of about 300 synchronized and dialog pictures for the 1930 production season, and, within the next two years, American producers will have about 175 audible pictures in foreign languages, principally German, French and Spanish.

Golden stated it was his belief that no American dialog pictures could be successful in Continental countries if the dialogue were English, with explanatory subtitles in the foreign tongue. Dubbing, too, he called impermissible except for news or documentaries.

In picturing conditions in other countries that the American producer must face in selling his product abroad, Golden said:

Europe Wired Houses 4,950

"Outside of Europe there are, excluding the United States, just under 10,000 theaters. Of these, again, quoting in approximate figures, about 4,000 each are to be found in Latin America and the Far East, 1,100 in Canada, 750 in Africa, and 50-odd in the Near East. The number of wired theatres for this entire area based on figures which we believe reliable, but for which we cannot assume responsibility, now runs to about 1,800."

"Turning now to Europe, which, after all, remains our principal revenue market, there are over 100,000 theatres, 27,000 exhibition outlets. From less than 600 sound-equipped theatres in the early autumn of 1929, wiring has gone ahead by leaps and bounds with the exception of Russia, now presents a total of around 4,950 theatres. Here again, the wired houses comprise all the biggest and best."

Two New Factors

"In the old silent film days, it will be recalled, the question of competition was largely academic. Indeed the chief obstacle to American films lay in those countries which cut down the showings of American films by artistic restrictions. Foreign films were there to be seen, but not of the kinds which American producers took for granted. There is now a market, a taste for the American product, and a direct competition, which is here to stay."

What Can't Be Done Now

"The first is out so far as dialog films are concerned, but still may be employed on musicals where the language of the film is not that of the audience."

"Secondly, there is a widespread feeling that European producers are adapting themselves with such speed to the talkies that the American producer should watch the situation closely. The fact that he is talking per-

Crabtree and Cabinet Relected by SM&E

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—A vote of confidence in the administration of J. T. Crabtree was given by delegates attending the eighth annual meeting of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers at the Pennsylvania hotel. At the opening session Crabtree and his executive committee were re-elected. Following were the results of the elections tabulated by Dr. R. P. Schwarte, James Frank, Jr., and John D. Elms:

President: J. T. Crabtree, Eastman Kodak Company; vice president, W. C. Kunzman, General Electric Vapor Lamp Company; secretary, J. H. Kurlander, Westinghouse Lamp Company; treasurer, H. H. Cowling, Eastman Teaching Film, Inc.

October 25, 1930
Tells SMFE of Growth in Film Science

New Developments in Technics Reported By Progress Group

Plan Is Announced to Permit Wide Image on 35-mm. Stock as Projector Solution

(Thus follows is an abridgment of the progress report to the Society of Motion Picture Engineers, delivered at the convention in New York. The committee was composed of M. Abravat, J. A. Ball, J. Boolky, W. Clark, E. K. Gebh, J. B. Enfall, R. D. Franklin, H. G. Silver, A. C. Hardy, R. C. Hubbard, G. F. Rackett, S. K. Wolf and G. E. Mathecs, chairman.)

PLANS for ultimate adoption of wide film have continued throughout the summer, as several producers were known to be engaged actively in further experimentation. According to reports from production centers, negatives for several foreign countries have been made on wide film as well as on the usual 35-mm. width. Agreement has been reached among leading producers that the CERTAIN sound tracks can be cut on wide film and that of the usual kind. In certain cases, such pictures as "Old Iron-Sides," "Trail of Ninety-Eight," "The Hollywood Story," and "Hell's Angels." In one process, a movable screen was utilized which traveled downward at the entrance. This picture has been utilized quite successfully as a substitute for the usual horns during presentation of shorts, such as song cartoons.

Controlling the ratio of direct sound to reverberation, Maxfield states that the true illusion of nearness or distance of the speaker can be secured. The average distance of 20 feet is a figure of the total 120 sensation units within which sounds may be reproduced plausibly by the human ear.

A beam microphone which makes focused on microphone has been perfected by a Hollywood sound director. The 25-foot operator, equipped only for disc recordings and will undoubtedly require at least three years to effect a complete changeover to sound-on-film.

A committee made up of representatives from the Board of Fire Underwriters, the New York Bureau of Fire Prevention, and the Motion Picture Producers Association, have drawn up a code on studio and laboratory practice, the exchange and the theatre. According to Mr. Leutner, theaters have been returned to a few theaters in this country and South America are now being equipped with acoustical treatment of a type that has made two theaters available for over a year ago with the installation of sound equipment. An inventory of several leading theaters on the Pacific coast reveals, however, that certain homes appear to have a patronage who wish orchestras and shows, whereas other theaters who group together the first class selection of pictures. It appears to depend, therefore, largely on the type of theater enjoys. About one-third of the motion picture theaters of the world had been equipped by September, 1930, for sound reproduction of either the dialogue or the sound of the dialogue in synchrony with the sound played on the screen. In proportion to the total number of theaters, Canada leads the list of countries with 70 per cent sound installation, the United States is second with 55 per cent, Great Britain third with 47 per cent. Motion Picture theaters are rapidly converting their old equipment over for use with sound pictures.

A new 72-inch dynamic cone speaker and directional baffle have been announced which is claimed to deliver clear, mellow, low frequency 50 cycle sounds and high frequency 2,000 cycle sounds. "FE" and "FH" can be distinguished clearly. Another type described by Bostwick, utilizes a moving coil piston type design with 2,000 cycle cut-off. By using this speaker as an adjunct to the ordinary type, it is claimed that uniform reproduction from 50 to 11,000 cycles may be obtained.

Use Wide Angle Lenses

Bull has published data on methods of measuring sound pressure efficiency. Good horn type speakers used in theatre installations are said to have an efficiency of 35 per cent, ordinary commercial speakers only one to six per cent.

Methods of using wide-angle lenses to project a much enlarged picture on the screen have been employed in several of the leading projection centers. Certain scenes of such pictures as "Old Iron-Sides," "Trail of Ninety-Eight," "The Hollywood Story," and "Hell's Angels." In one process, a movable screen was utilized which traveled downward at the entrance. This picture has been utilized quite successfully as a substitute for the usual horns during presentation of shorts, such as song cartoons.

Eying has shown that an auditorium to have a single optimum reverberation time should not yield more than 32 per cent echoes, but have the proper amount of damping, but the absorbing material should be fairly uniformly distributed, resonating bodies eliminated, and a condition for diffusing sound should be assured. MacNair has suggested that the rate of decay of loudness sensation for a bass drum, is a better measure of damping material in auditoriums than decay rate of sound energy.

Developments in Television

Several colleges are planning to institute a cultural course on photoplay appreciation during 1930-31.

Arrangements have been made to release the negatives of outstanding historical pictures made several years ago, for re-editing for educational purposes.

Television images transmitted by radio were shown as a part of one regular program of the KGB station, at Schenectady, N. Y., on May 22. A loud speaker system was used to transmit the voices of the actors and the "television camera" at the General Electric plant, about one mile distant. A 48 hole scanning disk transmitted twenty times per second, about 2000 lines per minute. Volume of three million feet of film per week. A school for color cameramen is being conducted.

The estimates there are over 200,000 home projection picture watches for home entertainment during 1930 appeared to be centering in the development of sound motion picture devices. Home television has been made commercially available on 16 mm. film, despite the fact that being analyzed for the narrow space available and the delicate equipment required for recording the sound.

Screens Over 24 Ft. Called Impossible in Most Cases

NEW YORK, Oct. 22—A survey announced in the report of the program committee at the SMFE convention discloses that outdoor projection of the theaters in this country lack space for screens of more than 24 feet in width. The survey was made to ascertain what should be the installation of wide film for wide-image pictures.

The committee report also presented a suggestion that projection rooms in major theaters will be equipped with dummy projectors only for handling the film sound record, pointing out the showing of "Hell's Angels" at the Chinese theater in Hollywood. Volumes with less distortion, elimination of troubles from heating of the film, and a lowering of projector vibration are some of the advantages cited. Three dummy projectors connected in parallel were used in the Chinese projection rooms and sound tracks could be played at the same time. Six reels of Magnascope film were included in each installation, which was projected on a 24x37-foot screen and nine extra loudspeakers were added to the regular installation, which consisted of three horns. A special amplifier system was installed to accommodate the 12 horns, which were made to operate simultaneously with volume equal to five times the normal volume of the regular sound installation, the reports stated.
Registered at the SMPTE Convention

Ed. W. Kellogg, R C A Victor Company, Camden, N. J.
W. E. Rayton, Bausch & Lomb Optical Co., Rochester, N. Y.
K. R. O. Walker, Walker Screen Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.
P. H. Evans, Warner Brothers, Brooklyn.
Gleen H. Humphrey, New York State Association of Projectionists, Utica.
F. T. Freeman, Fish-Searhan Corp., New York.
M. Stanislowsky, Fox Film Corp., New York.
Donald McNicol, Projection Engineering, New York.
Samuel Kravitz, Kaplan Projection Society, Brooklyn.
Alvin Seller, National Theatre Supply Co., New York.
H. N. James, Burton Holmes Lectures, Inc., New York.
L. G. Phelps, Phelps Films, Inc., New Haven, Conn.
D. R. White, Du Pont-Pathe Film Co., Par 55.
Oliver H. Schunk, Du Pont-Pathe Film Co.
M. F. Weinrich, Columbia University.
Marie Reiker, United Research Corp., Long Island City, N. Y.
F. F. McNab, Bell & Howell Co., Chicago.
R. B. Dickson, Pyrene Manufacturing Co., Newark.
T. E. Shea, Bell Telephone Laboratories, New York.
J. L. Leventhal, New York.
Joe Horstinent, Warner Brothers, New York.
K. Brady, Eastman Kodak Co., Rochester, N. Y.
W. J. German, J. E. Brulatour, Inc., New York.
R. V. Terry, Bell Telephone Laboratories.
H. E. Vory, QRS De Vry Corp., Chicago.
Julius Keller, Jr., The Ampro Corp., Chicago.
M. Swash, Fox Film Corp., New York.
Lorenzo del Ricio, Paramount Publix Corp., Astoria, L. I.
H. S. Price, Bell Telephone Laboratories, New York.
D. P. Linsley, The Repliuta Corp., Stamford, Conn.
O. M. Glunt, Bell Telephone Laboratories.
H. P. Braun, RCA Photophone, Inc.
J. J. Kuhn, Bell Telephone Laboratories.
John F. Strickler, Jim Handy Picture Service, Chicago.
Hartwell W. Webb.
William Herriott, Bell Telephone Laboratories.
O. H. Neu, Neumaude Products Corp, Buffalo.
Jacob Lieberman, New York.
Valley Forge, General Electric Co., Nela Pk, Cleveland.
A. M. Beatty, International Projectionists.
H. C. Carlton, Eastman Kodak Co., Rochester.
A. Denis, Eastman Kodak Co., Rochester.
H. S. Morton, Punch & Judy, Detroit.
M. C. Schick, Sunny Schick Pictures, Fort Wayne, Ind.
A. C. Dominos, National Carbon Co., Inc., Cleveland.
W. G. Kunzman, National Carbon Co.
E. O. Sperren, Bell Telephone Laboratories.
Frank Reske, General Electric Co., Schenectady, N. Y.
J. C. Kroesen, Harris B. Spittle, Rochester, N. Y.
Victor A. Wemlen, Cleveland.
A. S. Isaacs, Motion Picture Machines Co., Pittsburgh.
Louis Isaacs, Motion Picture Producing Co., Pittsburgh.
C. W. Lewis, Signal Corps., War Department.
W. C. Hubbard, General Electric Vapor Lamp Co., Hoboken, N. J.
J. G. Jones, K. K. Co., Rochester, N. Y.
James Frank, Jr., R C A Photophone, Inc.
James Cameron, Manhattan Beach, New York.
Chas. F. Eichhorn, Motion Picture Machine Operations, New York.
Osco F. E. Neumaude Products Corp, New York.
Arthur J. Holman, Brookline, Mass.
I. L. Nixon, Bausch & Lomb Optical Co., Rochester, N. Y.
A. H. Wolffe, Western Electric Corporation, New York, N. J.
J. M. Blaney, Colorcraft Corp., White Plains, N. Y.
A. H. Anderson, Duplex Motion Pictures, Inc., Laurelton, N. Y.
Al sha C. Louison & Bausch & Lomb Optical Co., Rochester, N. Y.
V. A. Schoenberg, Chicago.
M. J. Hayes, Eastman Kodak Co., Rochester.
E. W. Hilliard, Duplex Motion Picture Industries, Inc., Long Island City.
Wm F. Little, Electrical Testing Laboratories, New York.
E. C. Badgley, Canadian Government Motion Picture Bureau, Ottawa.
V. A. Schlenker, Vitaphone Corp., Brooklyn.
George Lewis, Paramount Publix Corp.
Carl L. Glesener, Rochester, N. Y.
I. B. Sore, Utah Radio Products, Rochester.
Donald McMaster, Eastman Kodak Co.
Stanley Summer, University Theatre, Cambridge, Mass.
C. E. Curle, Publix Tivoli Theatre, Chattanooga.
Willy Schmidt, Agfa Anasco Corp., Binghamton, N. Y.
Chas. W. Parshley, University Theatre, Cambridge, Mass.
Chas. W. Bausor, Coloritone Pictures, Inc., Hudson Heights, N. J.
Otto Nelson, National Cash Register Co., Dayton.
M. E. King, Bell Telephone Laboratories, Inc.
C. A. Clarke, Bell Telephone Laboratories.
C. A. Lindsay, Office of Motion Pictures, Department of Agriculture, Washington.
L. J. Buttolph, General Electric Vapor Lamp Co., Hoboken, N. J.
L. C. Boykoff, Ontario Government, Toronto.
L. E. Hammond, Warner Brothers Theatres.
Merritt Crawford, New York.
H. L. Goldberg, Paramount Publix, New York.
Nick Treadwell, Consolidated Film, Inc., New York.
Elmer Pearson, Kid dyn Co., New York.
Ernest Stern, New York.
J. D. Elms, Pelms-Revo Corp., Staten Island, N. Y.
Donald McKean, J. E. McKean Manufacturing Co., Chicago.
Peter Mole, Mole Richardson, Inc., Hollywood.
W. Bruce Oakle, Fox Film Corp., New York.
R. J. Cloud, Chicago.
Raymond Evans, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington.
Mrs. Walter H. Carson, Agfa Corp, Binghamton, N. Y.
Geo. Dobson, Electrical Research Products.
Walter H. Carson, Agfa Anasco Corp, Binghamton, N. Y.
Glenn P. Matthews, Eastman Kodak Co.
E. C. John, Johannesburg, South Africa.
R. O. Hardin, Publix Tennessee theatre, Knoxville.
N. C. Green, Eastman Kodak Co., Rochester.
Merrill Waide, Opticolor Corp., Long Island City.
H. P. Gage, Corning Glass Works, Corning.
N. Y.
Charles Wynd, Eastman Kodak Co.
Russell M. Ots, Multicolor, Ltd, Los Angeles.
D. Thos, McNamara, Paramount Publix Theatre, Newton, Mass.
F. P. Whitier, Fox Film Corp., New York.
M. Mayer, New York.
Geo. G. Popovich, Astoria, L. I.
W. M. Matson, Publix Tennessee theatre, Knoxville.
Chas. Elms, Films Revo Corp., Staten Island, N. Y.
Maurice Rothenburg, National Theatre Supply Company, Brooklyn, Mass.
M. W. Palmer, Paramount Publix Corp.
Wm. S. Hail, Ilx Optical Co., Rochester.
M. C. Baisel, R C A Photophone, Inc.
H. T. Crowling, Eastman Kodak Co.
Joseph Shaw, Paramount Publix Corp.
M. Metzger, Associated Screen News, Montreal, Canada.
C. Bornmann, Agfa Anasco Corp, Camera, Newark, N. J.
J. H. Kurlander, Westinghouse Lamp Co., Bloomfield, N. J.
L. C. Porter, General Electric Co, Cleveland.
Don Bennett, Warner Brothers Industrial Film, New York.
Chas. McDonald, Ufatims, Inc., New York.
Albert Teitel, Proteo Films, New York.
Fred M. Bredt, Nt, New York.
N. D. Golden, Motion Picture Bureau, Department of Commerce, Washington.
C. J. North, Motion Picture Bureau, New York.
E. Greene, Burton Holmes Lectures, Chicago.
A. C. Kamin, Paramount Publix, Chattanooga.
“Moby Dick” Begins
Fourth Broadway Showing
(Special to the Herald-World)
NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The performance this week of “Moby Dick,” Warner special starring John Barrymore at Loew’s Strace theatre, marks the fourth Broadway showing of the picture since it opened at the Hollywood. The Strand and the Beacon played the feature during successive weeks.

Exhibitors Ask for Reduced Protection
At Pittsburgh Meet
(Special to the Herald-World)
PITTSBURGH, Oct. 23.—Demands for a reduction of the present 28-day protection to 14 days were made by the tenth annual convention of the MPTO of Western Pennsylvania here Monday and Tuesday.
Convention attendance was 50 per cent better than last year.
David Schenznick was elected president to succeed J. A. Somerby, his term expired. All other officers were re-elected as follows: William Wheat, vice-president; Joseph Gellman, treasurer; Fred Herrington, secretary. William Lippie was added to the board of directors.
Insurance was one of the chief subjects of discussion. It appears likely that the organization will act as an agent for underwriting companies, with commissions going into its treasury. Twelve Sunday benefit shows were arranged in various cities, the proceeds of which will go to the MPTO.

A. F. L. to Support
Musicians in Fight
On “Canned” Music
(Special to the Herald-World)
BOSTON, Oct. 23.—The American Federation of Labor, at its convention here, adopted a resolution indorsing the appeal of the American Federation of Musicians for support of the popular movement against the mechanization of cultural arts.
The convention also went on record as favoring enactment of legislation which would include professional singers and artists, including musicians, under the alien labor classification.
Another important action was the unanimous indorsement of the Dill-Davis bill. This proposed law would, it is said, make patents unenforceable while they are being used by trusts to violate the anti-monopoly laws. The bill is aimed particularly at companies which make phonographs that have been termed the “Radio Trust.”

Universal’s Colorful
Brochure on 1930-31
Product Catches Eye
Clothed in a beautiful scarlet cover, the Universal brochure on 1930-31 product is one riot of color from beginning to end. Containing 44 pages devoted to pictures already released and to productions to be completed for the present schedule, this “booklet” covers its distinct aesthetic appeal as well as a fund of information.

Smith to Feature Sportlight in RKO Short Program; Report
RKO Understood to Have Added 50 Per Cent Interest in Van Beuren Company to Half Control in Trans Lux—Ruling on Wide Film Standard Awaited
(Special to the Herald-World)
NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—It is understood that Courtland Smith, who, as executive head of the Trans Lux Corporation, is shortly to begin production activity on an RKO shorts program, will use the Granland Rice Sportlight as a feature of the proposed newsreel and novelty offering.
The Sportlight is produced by the Van Beuren Company, in which it is understood RKO has just acquired a 50 per cent interest, and is distributed by Pathé, which also handles the other Van Beuren short subjects, including “The Vagabond Adventure” series, “Asop Sound Fables,” “Topics of the Day,” and “Song Sketches.”

Await Ruling on Wide Film
It is further reported that RKO controls a 50 per cent interest in Smith’s Trans Lux Company, and that the former Fox executive is waiting a final decision on a wide film standard before announcing definite operation on his short subject development.
At the headquarter here of the Sportlight unit, however, it is said Pathe will continue to distribute the Granland Rice subject, at least for the duration of the present contract.
Amedee J. Van Beuren, head of the organization which bears his name, in commenting on the situation as reported, said that the contract between Pathe and the Van Beuren Company in the matter of distribution will not be affected to any degree by the deal just consummated with RKO. He also disclaimed knowledge of the use of the Sportlight subject by Courtland Smith.

Exchange Merger Plan Reported
This entire development follows closely a reported deal between Pathe and RKO providing for a consolidation of the exchanges of the two producing companies for the purpose of joint distribution.
B. R. Kahane, for RKO, has termed as “substantially correct” the details of the RKO-Van Beuren partnership as reported.
A price of $800,000 was paid, involving the purchase of 50,000 shares or half of the class A stock of the Van Beuren Corporation. The deal, which was negotiated by Hiram S. Brown and Amedee J. Van Beuren, will result in the splitting of the stock into class A and class B, the latter non-voting, and the control remaining with Van Beuren.
It is understood, however, that there is little possibility of Van Beuren becoming the eastern short production unit of RKO, the purpose having been made primarily as an investment.

Bay State Allied to Meet Regularly and Discuss Problems
(Special to the Herald-World)
BOSTON, Oct. 23.—Exhibitors belonging to the Allied Theatres of Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Vermont, will start a series of get-together luncheon meetings to discuss theatre problems. The first of these was held Tuesday, October 21, when Charles Muggles, who is now playing in person in Boston, was a guest.
At the annual convention of the organization, last week, George A. Giles was elected president of the board of directors. Thomas B. Lothian, representing the A. L. Fruehner Enterprises, was named vice-president, and Stanley Summer of the University theatre at Cambridge, treasurer.

Other members of the board are as follows: M. J. Mullin and G. Ralph Branton, Paramount-Publix Theatres; E. A. Cuddy and A. G. Munro, Shubert Boston Theatres; Victor J. Morris, Loew’s Boston Theatres; R. A. Somerby, G. E. Lothrop Theatres Company; Herschel Stuart and Thomas J. Meehan, Fox New England Theatres Inc.; Patrick F. Lydon, Imperial theatre, South Boston; J. J. Heffron, Warner Brothers Pictures; J. J. Ford, Maine and New Hampshire Theatres Company; W. B. Littlefield, Egleston theatre, Roxbury.

Big 4 Negotiates
Filmophone Deal
For British Outlet
(Special to the Herald-World)
NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Increase in grosses from 20 to 25 per cent have been predicted for Big 4 product by E. A. Simp- son, vice-president of the company, following his recent return from a trip to the British Isles.
Added territory has been acquired, comprising outlets in England, Ireland, Scot- land and Wales, by virtue of a recent contract. Through a deal completed with Frank Green, managing director of Filmophone, arrangements have been made for the distribution of Big 4’s entire output for the coming season. The product includes two series of six action Westerns, a series of six or eight melodramas, two or four specials and a series of 12 two reel comedies produced by Craig Hutchinson.
Commenting on his visit, Mr. Simpson said he found that the demand for action Westerns, of a type that can be utilized as second fea- tures, is greater than it has ever been before.
Four Million Deal by Columbia Gives Outlet in Warner Houses

The Entire Output of Twenty Talking Features to Be Exhibited Throughout Chain in $3,000,000 Contract—Seven Series of Shorts in $1,000,000 Booking

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—A deal involving approximately $3,000,000 in bookings on feature pictures, and another $1,000,000 on shorts subjects has just been completed between Columbia Pictures and Warner Brothers.

Through the terms of the agreement, Warner Brothers has contracted for the entire 1930-31 Columbia product of 20 talking features, to be exhibited in all the theatres of the circuit from Coast to Coast. This arrangement follows closely the similar deal recently completed with the RKO chain.

Columbia Assured of Outlet

By the contract, Columbia is assured of an outlet for its product in every key city and important community in the United States, and provides that in addition to the theatres now owned or controlled by the Warner circuit, representation will be given Columbia in any additional theatres, control of which shall be acquired, where Columbia service is available.

The 100 per cent representation for its product in the houses of the competing circuit affords Columbia an outlet parallelizing that of other major theatre owning and producing units. Each one of the 20 vehicles will be either a roadshow or deluxe "special.

Seven Series of Shorts

Included among the features, which have been adapted from Broadway stage plays and best selling novels and magazine stories, are: "Dirigible," under the direction of Frank Capra; "Brothers," featuring Bert Lytell; "The Criminal Code," play by Martin Flavin; "To Tell A Fool," from Joseph B. Heresheimer's story; "Fifty Fathoms Deep," undersea story; and "Charley's Aunt," famous English stage play.

"The Silly Symphonies" are said to have played return engagements in houses where feature pictures never have been booked for second showing.

Westinghouse Earnings Are $1.12 a Share in 3rd Quarter; $4.25 for 9 Mo.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Net earnings of $2,955,244 for the third quarter have been announced by Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. This amounts to $1.12 for each share of preferred and common stock.

Net income for the third quarter was $6,413,330.

During the second quarter of this year, the company showed a net profit of $1,810,744, or $1.43 a share. Total net earnings for the first nine months of 1930, $1,1,532,244, or $4.25 a share. This compares with $19,544,211, or $7.59 a share, earned in the same period of 1929.

Kansas City Film Critic Joins U for 6 Months

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—John C. Moffitt, photoplay critic of the Kansas City Star, has been loaned to Carl Laemmle of Universal, and has joined the scenario staff in Universal City for a six months period.

Hanford Looks for Ample Earnings to Cover Dividends

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—James C. Hanford, chairman of the board of the Radio Corporation of America, looks for an upturn in the company's business during the fall and winter season, according to a statement given out before his departure for Europe.

"Although no definite prediction can be made at this time," he added, "earnings of Radio Corporation for the year should, in my judgment, amply cover the preferred dividend as well as being sufficient to assure the safety of the dividend on the B stock."

"Ingagi" Writ Dropped; $150,000 Payment Is Involved in Settlement

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—An injunction issued by United States District Court against distribution and exhibition of "Ingagi" has been dissolved as a result of settlement of the action brought by Byron F. Mackenzie against Columbia Pictures.

Payment of $150,000 to the plaintiff was involved in the settlement. Mackenzie had claimed that scenes of wild animals in Africa which had been taken by his mother were used in "Ingagi" without permission.

W B Pays Dividend of 96½ Cents on Preferred

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—A dividend of 96½ cents has been declared by Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., on its preferred stock for the third quarter.

The annual dividend rate on preferred shares is now $3.85, compared with the company's former rate of $2.20. This change became effective September 3, when, in accordance of the firm's charter, the 103,107 shares of preferred stock outstanding lost its convertibility into common.

SEcurities PRICE RANGE

Week Ending October 22, 1930

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Sales</th>
<th>High</th>
<th>Low</th>
<th>Close</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Ameritron Seating</td>
<td>380</td>
<td>11</td>
<td>13</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brunswick-Balke-Collender</td>
<td>3,000</td>
<td>193</td>
<td>193</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Celebrite</td>
<td>14</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do, 100</td>
<td>1,250</td>
<td>93</td>
<td>93</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do, 500</td>
<td>425</td>
<td>425</td>
<td>425</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Consolidated Film</td>
<td>10,400</td>
<td>14</td>
<td>14</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do, 500</td>
<td>5,900</td>
<td>135</td>
<td>135</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do, Eastman Kodak</td>
<td>19,550</td>
<td>197</td>
<td>197</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Electric Storage Battery</td>
<td>2,600</td>
<td>51</td>
<td>51</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fox Film &quot;A&quot;</td>
<td>250</td>
<td>38</td>
<td>38</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fox Film &quot;V&quot;</td>
<td>750</td>
<td>25</td>
<td>25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gen. Theatre Employment</td>
<td>74,500</td>
<td>25</td>
<td>25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>General Electric</td>
<td>150,000</td>
<td>528</td>
<td>528</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Loom R. Inc.</td>
<td>150,000</td>
<td>528</td>
<td>528</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do, 100</td>
<td>560</td>
<td>106</td>
<td>106</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do, 500</td>
<td>970</td>
<td>970</td>
<td>970</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, pfd.</td>
<td>1,600</td>
<td>25</td>
<td>25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mohawk Carpet</td>
<td>1,350</td>
<td>150</td>
<td>150</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paramount</td>
<td>1,300</td>
<td>50</td>
<td>50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pathes Exchange</td>
<td>5,000</td>
<td>26</td>
<td>26</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do, &quot;A&quot;</td>
<td>1,550</td>
<td>30</td>
<td>30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Radio Corporation</td>
<td>345,740</td>
<td>25</td>
<td>25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do, pfd. &quot;A&quot;</td>
<td>390</td>
<td>51</td>
<td>51</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

NEW YORK CURB

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Sales</th>
<th>High</th>
<th>Low</th>
<th>Close</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Columbia Pictures</td>
<td>300</td>
<td>25</td>
<td>25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do, 1000</td>
<td>6,661</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fox Theatre</td>
<td>10,000</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>National Screen</td>
<td>1,260</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Science Safety</td>
<td>3,000</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Technicolor, Inc.</td>
<td>4,500</td>
<td>14</td>
<td>14</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Trans-Lux</td>
<td>2,500</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>7</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Kenneth MacKenna plays the wealthy young man about town in Pathe’s “Sin Takes a Holiday.” Constance Bennett is the star.

You don’t blame Richard Dix, star of “Cimarron,” for “sitting pretty” here when you know that the gentleman beside him is Herman Zohbel, treasurer of RKO Radio Pictures. Anybody would be foolish not to “sit pretty” beside a treasurer, and no one has yet ever accused Dix of being foolish.

Leslie Howard, who appears in Warner Brothers’ “Outward Bound,” with whom Warner has signed contracts for future pictures.

Harry Langdon and Slim Summerville, two of the “aristocracy of the road,” hitch a ride on a rum running truck which helps to put the “thirst” in Universal’s “See America Thirst.” Bessie Love supplies the feminine interest in this comedy which William James Craft was responsible for directing.

Just a little moment in-between scenes, when “death and danger” are also taking a brief respite. Here we have Dorothy Sebastian, leading lady of Tiffany’s “The Utah Kid,” which has been completed, with Richard Thorpe, director of the film, and Rex Lease, the star of this western thriller.
Dainty little Ming Toy, almost lost in this big fan-like chair. Lupe Velez plays that character in Universal's "East is West," directed by Monta Bell. Lewis Ayers and E. G. Robinson are in the cast.

Here are the two principal "characters" in the 300 premiers which RKO Radio Pictures planned for the Amos 'n Andy picture, "Check and Double Check," on the day of October 24. Perhaps we should say the two principal characters and their indispensable "accoutrements," which looks—but then, as the old adage goes, looks are most deceiving, but the blow-out patch on the right front tire must have been put there for a reason and blow-out patches—well—.

The Charlotte First National film exchange wins a national trophy. Employees photographed outside the office in Charlotte, N. C., showing F. P. Bryan, manager, holding the silver loving cup which was won by the exchange for maintaining the highest average in the examinations of measures for fire prevention in film buildings. Next to Bryan stands Sherwood Brockwell, state fire marshal of Raleigh, N. C. Fourth from the left is Hendrix Palmer, Charlotte fire chief.

What a predicament for Hallowe'en! The old witch has placed lovely Leila Hyams in the stocks, and she can't get away from the goblins. She appears in MGM's "Way for a Sailor," with John Gilbert.
Once upon a time there was a little… All the little tots are paying strict attention to the story Sally Starr is telling them, for when it is over the Sandman will come, and they'll have to have something to think about. This is from the orphanage sequence in the Pathe picture "Night Work," an incident of human interest that will no doubt strike home. We'll bet it's an interesting story, and to listen to such a charming story teller—well, we could, too.

Theodore Kosloff, former screen star, who has been Marilyn Miller's dancing instructor for the past 20 years, teaching the beautiful dancer some new steps for First National's "Sunny."

Kay Johnson, beautiful MGM featured player, as "Madam Satan" in the picture by the same title recently completed at the MGM studios by Cecil B. DeMille, his most recent effort since "Dynamite."

A very interested group is listening to William S. Hart tell some of his stories. Bill came down from his mountain home to pay a visit to the set on which "Father's Son," a First National production is being filmed, under the direction of William Beaudine, who is listening very intently at the left of the picture. The others are (you know already) Irene Rich and Lewis Stone, who look as we think we would in the presence of Bill Hart. Interested.
Lloyd Optician Salesman? Sherwood Answers Propaganda Charges

If Accusers of American Films Were Logical, Authors of Diatribes Against War Are in Pay of Soviet, Critic Suggests

BECOMING more serious, Sherwood offers this explanation for the propaganda charges from across the waters: "It so happens that the humble film fans in all sections of the gentrified country have decided preference for American-made pictures... so that it is extremely difficult for native producers to receive any support, even in their own countries. That is why they harp so persistently on propaganda. They hope thereby to stimulate a wave of nationalist pride which will result in a boycott of American celluloid."

What One Accuser Said

Sherwood calls attention to one Englishman's denunciation of "Glorying the American Girl," Sherwood writes: "Some of the charges that are made are, of course, no more laughable—just as were the excursions into the celluloid of films a few years ago. I have read an ardent protest, uttered by an Englishman, against a picture called 'Glorying the American Girl' which was exhibited in British theaters. He says: 'It is interesting to note that this was originally called 'Glorying the American Girl.' As a rule, a film that may affect the subject-matter, this film is obviously American propaganda pure and simple."

"If I don't believe that the author of this amazing revelation had actually seen the offering in question. If he had, he would know that there is no place, both of propaganda and entertainment value."

And as to War Pictures

"There has been a determined attempt, in this country, to manipulate public sentiment against 'All Quiet on the Western Front,' and to have it banned. Needless to say, this attempt has not been particularly successful. The objection to this magnificent production is that it is propaganda against war; not only that, it is malicious, pernicious, American propaganda against war. In other words, a subtle plot by the Soviet government to persuade all other nations of the world to disarm and thus leave the field open for the Communist army. The sole basis for this childish charge is that the screen version of 'All Quiet on the Western Front' was directed by Lewis Milestone, a former Russian immigrant. Presumably, the authors of 'What Price Glory,' 'Journey's End' and all other popular war films of distinction of war were also Russian immigrants, still in the pay of the Soviet oligarchs."

Demand for Films in Special Day Tieups Keeps Bookers Busy

"All Quiet on the Western Front" seems to be the saucer cow for one of the largest day and date bookings that any picture has ever had, as it is considered a "natural" for this particular time of year, when Armistice Day events are in the air. It is understood that the Universal laboratories are turning out a number of extra prints to take care of the demand.

During the first runs of the picture, it is reported that the Student Federation of America made the request that they might show "All Quiet" on Armistice Day in 1923 as the feature of the World Congress which is to be held in Los Angeles that year.

In connection with 'All Quiet' or independent of the showing of the feature, a large number of theatres are said to be booking one of the series of Slim Summerville comedies of comedy-behind-the-film. The making of the features and comedies for seasonal use has been a common practice among producers, in that films have been made for Thanksgiving, Fourth of July, Christmas and the like. That was, however, when exact schedules were adhered to, and the picture was set for release on a certain date, it was very probable that it would be released on that date. Thus, the theory that pictures thus were made was practically restricted to that date, and that the picture happened to be late, the call for it, after the special day had passed was practically nil.

For the past three years, Universal has been making the 'Colens and Kelleys,' completing production on the films so that they might be released generally on March 17, St. Patrick's Day. This has resulted, in several instances, of heavy day and date bookings.

Celebrities Attend Paramount Pep Club Gathering at Astor

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The annual inauguration banquet and ball of the Paramount Pep Club Hotel Astor on October 17, was attended by more than 2500 members and guests.

Mary Brian, who is also the toastmaster of the Pep Club, and Frederic March were guests of honor. Arrangements for the affair were in charge of B. A. Beute, and A. M. Botsford acted as toastmaster.

W. E. Scully Replaces Sam Berger, Jr., for M G M Eastern District

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—W. E. Scully has been appointed Eastern district manager for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer with headquarters at the New York exchange.

Scully takes the place of Sam Berger, Jr., who is now home office representative of the M G M International department, and who will return to New York after making a visit to Australia to confer with company officials there.

Cook on W B Contract

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Donald Cook, New York stage actor, has been placed under a long-term contract by Warner Brothers. He will be featured in Warner productions next season, states J. L. Warner, vice-president.

Tries to Prevent Closing of Theatre

HOQUIAM, WASH., Oct. 18.—Faced with a decrease in entertainment facilities, the Hoquiam Chamber of Commerce is making a strong effort to prevent closing of the Seventh Street theatre on October 25, as a result of a boycott by the Fox West Coast management and the Projectionists' Union.

The projectionists claim that two men must be maintained in the projection booth, while Cecil Quinn, manager of Fox's 8th Street district, maintains that only one operator is necessary to satisfy and safe projection of sound pictures.

The Fox organization operates more than fifty theatres in the State of Washington, using only one projectionist in each booth.

Amos 'n Andy Tell of Hollywood Over Air as RKO Film Is Released

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Amos 'n Andy, RKO's "Check and Double Check," were to be radio guest artists of the producing company for a half hour tomorrow night, the occasion being the simultaneous release on October 24 of the picture in 300 theatres throughout the country.

The special air program was to be divided into two parts. With Amos 'n Andy appearing on the same character with their regular program during the first 15 minutes and then doing something they have never done before—appearing before the microphone in the last half of the program as Messrs. Freeman F. Gosden and Charles J. Correll, telling of the adventures of Amos 'n Andy in Hollywood.

The program was to be given over the NBC network from Chicago, with Duke Ellington and his Cotton Club orchestra playing music which it played in the film.

Officers of Universal Club Elected; Stern Is Again Chosen President

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—At the annual election of the board of directors of the organization of the 300 home office employees, Herman Stern was re-elected president. Fred J. McConnell was chosen vice-president; Oscar Binder, treasurer; and Harriet Ratner, secretary.

The officers will be installed at the dinner dance to be given by the club at the Hotel Astor on November 1.

Jack Young Added to Sono Art Detroit Staff

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—The Sono Art World-Wide organization in Detroit has added Jack Young, former manager of the Columbia branch, to the Sono Art Detroit staff.

Budd Rogers, director of sales, has announced the appointment of M. C. Howard to the sales staff at Cleveland, O.

Ontario Bars 5 Films

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—Five feature pictures have been condemned by the Ontario Board of Censors, an official announcement says. Revisions have been made in 63 other current releases.
New Path Sought to Settle St. Louis Musicians Strike

Local Union Rejects Plan to Return Players to Four Deluxe Houses—Five Held Incommunicado at Sacramento After Discovery Of Explosives—Kansas City House Is Bombed

While new paths to a settlement of the dispute between the St. Louis union musicians and exhibitors were being sought this week following rejection of another proposed agreement from the cities of California and at Kansas City of violence which they and the police vented by a police raid when six men were placed under arrest and a quantity of explosives, caps and fuses was confiscated. Five of them were held incommunicado. Police declare they have information to prove that the California and New Roseville theatres also were marked for attack.

Jail for Stench Bomber

(Special to the Herald-World)

SAN JOSE, CAL., Oct. 23—Jack Sutton, who police said was a moving picture operator of San Francisco, has been sentenced to six months in the county jail, following conviction on the charge of having thrown a stench bomb in the Hester theatre. He was also fined $500. A notice of appeal has been filed.

Find Bomb in Poyer

(Special to the Herald-World)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23—A bomb, consisting of ten sticks of dynamite packed in a section of four-inch pipe, and powerful enough to have wrecked the building, was discovered in the foyer of the Alhambra theatre by a janitor. The Alhambra is operated by Nasser Brothers, who also operate the Royal theatre, bombed several months ago.

Dynamite Bomb Exploded

(Special to the Herald-World)

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 23—Explosion of a dynamite bomb in the foyer of the Baltis theatre, yesterday, resulted in two minor injuries. The bomb was placed in the Grandon in South Kansas City. It was discovered by a policeman and the Missouri theatre would have lost their jobs. If the peace agreement had been accepted the Fox interests had planned to retain the Fanchon & Marco stage policy at the Fox.

Six Jailed at Sacramento

(Special to the Herald-World)

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 23.—Dynamiting of the Mission theatre, said by police to have been attempted after a labor dispute, was prevented by a police raid when six men were placed under arrest and a quantity of explosives, caps and fuses was confiscated. Five of them were held incommunicado. Police declare they have information to prove that the California and New Roseville theatres also were marked for attack.

Five Requests for Allied Organizing Reported Sent in WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—It has been reported that five other territories have filed requests for Allied States organizers to set up Allied units, and that conditions in these territories are receiving the same attention. It is stated that in one of the states a meeting has been called and it is expected that a new unit will be formed at that time. Florence Elliott, assistant manager for RKO in Detroit, has been chosen business manager of the new Allied Theatre Owners of Missouri and Southern Illinois, with headquarters in St. Louis.

St. Louis B. O.'s Gain In Musicians' Absence

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 23.—The musicians' strike, which has removed all manual music from theatres here, has apparently had little affect upon box office receipts.

Rather than decrease, theatre business has shown a tendency to increase.

The musicians are credited with much of this improvement.

Both first run and neighborhood houses have enjoyed attendance since September 1.

There is also evident improvement in general employment conditions.

CHIC” AARONSON.

---

“CHIC” CHATS

THERE seems to be at least one man in the film business who is convinced that the silent picture has not gone the way of all flesh, even in this country. Leo Brecher, who operates two of the town's small size picture houses, the Little Carnegie Playhouse, where members of the audience can play vaudeville on a stage while the patrons dance to the music as they do in the picture shows, believes the old silent film is far from passe.

To prove that he practices what he preaches, Brecher went to all the trouble of locating a European print of the film, "White Hell of Pitz Palu," so that he could offer his customers the Swiss mountain feature without the accompanying voice of Graham McNamee, whose running comment was part of the picture when it played on Broadway recently.

On the subject he has said: "The number of requests we receive at both the Carnegie and the Plaza for the revival of out-dated and neglected pictures convinces me that many people are still interested in this form of entertainment. Unfortunately, most of these pictures cannot be obtained. The prints have long since been discarded." There are undoubtedly numbers of people who are interested, but all are pleased to welcome a silent film, it seems to us that they do not care to have the running comment to the picture, which is as distracting as a whispering noise in a room.

Personally, we rather doubtfully have seen an old silent film which was more than a little popular some years ago. Despite the fact that after we had recovered from the novelty of subtiles and pantomime, we enjoyed the picture, yet there very decidedly seemed to be something lacking. Occasionally a theme is better portrayed in the silent medium, but in general, we feel that more realism, greater effectiveness and a certain finish is attained through the use of talking pictures.

Remarkable and invaluable effects have also been obtained on the screen in scientific work through the presentation of motion pictures, showing how single cells may be operated upon under the microscope and illustrating the manner in which life is carried on within the minute organism, which would take up but a small portion of the point of a pin.

The micro-manipulator and the micro-motion picture camera were developed by Professor Robert Chambers, chairman of the biology department of New York University. Other pictures showing the breathing of plants and the circulation of the blood in the human body, have been made by Ulra Films.

Dr. Fry of the same university department commented on the new developments by remarking that if it were not possible to watch the movements of the individual cell, "we most definitely should be able to count upon a greater knowledge of life processes after seeing the film. A very interesting, but not minutely exact experiment as this permits." This entire process merely indicates the vast possibilities of the utilization and improvement of the use of education for the child on the one hand, and scientific research for the master on the other.

CHIC” AARONSON.
Motion Picture Department Asked For University of Washington

Melvin G. Winstock, Pioneer Seattle Exhibitor, Says "Only Through Wisdom of Readers Has Screen to a Degree Measured Up to Obligations"

[By Special Correspondent to the Herald-World]

SEATTLE, Oct. 23.—A plan to establish a department for the study of motion picture art at the University of Washington is being fostered by Melvin G. Winstock, a pioneer operator of picture houses at various key cities in the Pacific Northwest, and now editor of the Motion Picture Record here.

In outlining his plan, Winstock says: "The motion picture is more than a trade, or you will have nothing. It is an art that has a deeper and more vital influence upon the intelligence of the world than all other arts combined. In its wide, limitless realm all the other arts are combined. If turned loose to work its will there is absolutely nothing which cannot be put over through the power of the screen."

Says It Has "Run Riot"

"In spite of this tremendous force and this limitless influence it has received no specific cultural direction. It has been permitted to run riot, spasmodic attempts at abortive censorship have all failed and only through the intervention and understanding of screen readers has the screen to a degree measured up to its responsibilities and obligation to the general public."

"It is suggested that Governor Roland B. Hartley begin a movement toward the consummation of an end so much needed and so much desired."

Bill for Licensing Electricians Will Engage Opposition

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—A bill, known as the Stover Bill, due to come up before the New York state legislature next January, which provides for the licensing of all electricians in the state, is receiving decided opposition, it is understood, from producing companies, including Fox Movietone, as well as cameramen and projectionists through their unions.

According to the provisions of the proposed piece of legislation, an examination fee of $50 is required, the tests being under the supervision of a board to be created for that purpose in the event of the bill becoming law.

The measure will have a definite effect upon studio production personnel, since all men employed in the handling of sound recording apparatus, cameras with electrical attachments, and the like, will be under the necessity of first passing the examination before being licensed. In the event that an applicant fails the test, he is required to take a re-examination before six months, which will probably result in throwing a number of men out of employment.

Another Goes Putt-Putt

(Special to the Herald-World)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23.—The Portola theatre on Market street, which made history in the early days of motion pictures, has been transformed into a miniature golf course.

Brandt Asks Court to Act At Once in $600,000 Claim On Blumenthal in Fox Sale

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—William Brandt of Great Neck, L. I., has brought suit in Brooklyn Supreme Court to recover $600,000 claimed as a commission on a motion picture sale. Alfred C. Blumenthal of Larchmont, the defendant, is charged with withholding half of the commission of $1,200,000, obtained in closing the $12,000,000 sale of 115 houses in Long Island to Metropolitans and Movietone.

The action came before Justice Druhan when Brandt asked immediate trial on the ground that Warnam was the principal witness in the case is "of advanced age and in senile condition." Counsel for Blumenthal asserts there are no facts and plays eighteen holes of golf each day. Defendant denies existence of a contract and says Brandt is not entitled to a commission if one did exist, since he is not licensed. The case would not be tried for three years on the regular calendar.

Erpi Sound Installed In Malta; W. E. Is Now Serving 54 Countries

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—With the completion of an installation in Malta, bringing the number of foreign countries in which Western Electric is represented up to 54, the latest report shows a complete total of 6,986 such installations for the world.

Of the number, 2,303 are in foreign and 4,683 are domestic. In this country, executives point out the signing of 75 new contracts within a recent period as indicative of the steady pace being maintained in the demand for equipment.

Installations in a number of chain theatres, as well as individual houses throughout the country, are included in the report.

Richard Talmadge Ill From Blood Poisoning

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23.—Richard Talmadge is seriously ill with blood poisoning. His case, physicians say, is similar in some respects to that of the late Fred Thomson.

M. A. Lightman Houses Book Universal Product

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—M. A. Lightman, president of the MPTOA and circuit operator controlling 30 theatres in Arkansas and Tennessee, has booked Universal features and shorts of the new season's product.

Know Your Exchange Managers

The exchange manager is the direct contact between exhibitor and distributor, and therefore it is to their mutual advantage to know each other. The Herald-World presents a series of brief sketches of exchange managers and their outstanding activities in the motion picture field.

SAMUEL ROSEN, RKO manager at Philadelphia, first ventured into the film business in 1908 as stage manager and operator at Lubin's theatre there. Two years later he joined the Philadelphia Film Exchange, then operated by Lesly, Korson and Oletsky and handling pictures with three or four subjects on each reel. Rosen was booker and examiner. When the company joined Universal, he was made a salesman, and later short product manager. Leaving Universal he joined the staff of FBO (now RKO) at Philadelphia.

FOR real service with one company in the field of distribution of motion pictures, your attention is called at this moment to the instance of I. J. Schmerz, branch manager for Fox Film Corporation at Cleveland, Ohio. While official figures are not at hand, there must be some kind of record in the fact that Schmerz has been connected with the Fox organization for more than two decades—for twenty-four years, to be exact.

Most of that period of service was in New York City, but not all of it. For three and a half years prior to his appointment to the management of the Cleveland office, Schmerz was in charge of the Albany office of the company. It was in November of last year that he was transferred to the position at Cleveland.

But M. F. Keller, manager for Warner Brothers at Portland, Ore., has something to say about this matter of record service with one distributing company. Keller is very much a "Warner man" for he has been associated with the parent company since its inception as a national distributing organization.

Keller knows any number of exhibitors by their first names and to them he is Mel Keller. He started in as salesman at Salt Lake City, covering Idaho, Montana, Wyoming and Nevada.

M. F. Keller
IS MARS INHABITED?—Scientists are still guessing, but DeSylva, Brown and Henderson say “Yes.” Here’s Looloo, queen of the Martians, giving the glad hand to John Garrick, who has just arrived from earth in a rocket plane.

GREETINGS!—Maureen O’Sullivan in her stream-line sport model airplane stepping on the 1980 gas for a heavy date in the clouds. She’d better watch out for traffic lights and parking restrictions.

ARE WE SAFE?—That’s the question John Garrick, El Brendel and Frank Albertson ask one another as they set foot on a strange planet. Their troubles are just starting.

FUN AND FROLIC—The girls on Mars take their wardrobes and their responsibilities lightly, but their coiffures are something to write home about.

Laughs and Thrills of the Dazzling Future
SWEDISH BARITONE.—El Brendel, who made 'em laugh in "The Cock Eyed World" and repeated in "Hot For Paris" and "Movietone Follies of 1930," is the comedy chief of DeSylva, Brown and Henderson's "JUST IMAGINE." His name is "Single O," but his fun is "Double X."

BEYOND BELIEF.—New York by night as it will probably be in another half century—one of the startling pictorial moments in the DeSylva, Brown and Henderson musical extravaganza.

WABA-DUB-DUB-GOOM.—Or words to that effect in the language of a pretty girl from Mars who is crystal gazing but isn't gazing into the crystal.

HERE'S MYSTERY.—El Brendel meets a stranger, and the stranger claims to be his son and heir. Such things could only happen in 1980—and in "JUST IMAGINE."

LET'S GO!—Everything in readiness for a dash into unknown heavens—one of the big spectacular thrills of the Fox movietone romance, "JUST IMAGINE." A story of the future when daring adventurers are rocketeers. Magnificently directed by DAVID BUTLER.
IN CAPSULE FORM. — El Brendel samples a seven-course meal, done up in a package no larger than an early June pea.

PIANO BUILT FOR TWO.—Both thinking of their boy friends, Maureen O'Sullivan and Marjorie White sing a song of love with 1930 trimmings.

RING AROUND THE BATHTUB.—How did El Brendel and Frank Albertson get themselves in such a predicament? And who are the somewhat astonished spectators? It looks like an embarrassing moment for the boys.

LOVE WILL FIND A WAY. — Even though the law says they may not marry, romance is stronger than courts of justice, which explains why Maureen O'Sullivan and John Garrick are not downcast.

YOU’LL BE ASTONISHED.—The creators of “JUST IMAGINE” just imagine that the flappers on Mars look thus and carry on thusly, and they have no trouble convincing you they are right. These debutantes are the eye-brow beauties of the planet, and when they dance, the stars wink.
CLOSE HARMONY.—Frank Albertson and John Garrick polish off one of the DeSylva, Brown and Henderson melodies in "JUST IMAGINE," most tuneful, novel and captivating romance of the decade. Directed by David Butler, who also directed "Sunny Side Up."

WHAT A SKYLINE!—New York as it will be in another fifty years, with spires reaching into the clouds and traffic moving in half a dozen levels.

NOT SO BAD.—Decorations of the grand stairway leading to the throne of Queen Looloo appeal to El Brendel, who never waits for a second invitation.

MYSTIC RITES.—Before a strange image with glowing eyes and waving arms, the dancing girls of Mars perform. No one knows the idol's name, so maybe it's Long Hairpins.

PLEASANT BUT PRECARIOUS.—Or, every ladder has its lassie. Frank Albertson and Marjorie White at the top of their form in a lively bit from "JUST IMAGINE."
NEW PRODUCT

This department does not attempt to predict the public's reactions to pictures. It does, instead, present detailed and accurate information on product, together with the frank and honest opinion of the reporter.

BILLY THE KID

In "Billy the Kid," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer makes its first practical use of its Real-life wide screen, a screen 48 feet wide and proportionately high. Great scenic effects have been obtained, and these in turn offer an expansive background for the action of the story.

Real-life film can be used on the ordinary projector with but slight alteration, and the size of the picture to be projected can be regulated to conform to the individual requirements of the theatre.

The wide screen is particularly suitable for an outdoor picture of the type of "Billy the Kid," a story requiring mob action, but few if any close-ups. Close-ups would be out of place in a picture of such large proportions.

King Vidor has displayed real skill in adapting himself to this new pictorial medium. His direction throughout is of the usual high quality expected of him.

He had the benefit of an exceptionally capable cast, the work of John Mack Brown, Kay Johnson and Wallace Beaery being especially notable. Beaery as the deputy sheriff in a territory ruled by banditry is the most human character in the picture.

Thirty-five mm film is used in projecting "Billy the Kid," and in throwing the picture on a screen of such proportions there is at times a lack of definition. It is noticeable also that night scenes are extremely dark. No doubt, however, these two faults will be overcome with further experimentation.

The applause of the audiences at the Capitol that night, November 2, is the best evidence that the public looks with favor upon the wide screen.

"Billy the Kid" is the story of a young man who sets out to annihilate a gang of desperadoes following the shooting of his employer.

It is a story check-full of action and sustained interest throughout.—Jay M. Shreck, New York City.

MIDNIGHT
AN AESOP FABLE
Pathos—Sound
Cats take the center of the stage, or the back fence, in this animated fable. A quartet of felines warbles and howls with a bright moon

HERO OF THE WEEK

BERT LYTELL, who plays the role of tulip in Columbia's picture of the title "Brothers," which is characterized by a fine dramatic scene in a courtroom.

BROTHERS

"BROTHERS" is a typical Bert Lytell kind of picture with fast tempo, and sharply defined motives, together with human interest throughout and a good climax built consistently from the beginning. Its premise is familiar. The title roles are played by Lytell. One of the twin brothers has been adopted by wealthy parents, the other has been obliged to take care of himself from the time of his release from the orphanage.

The acting of practically the entire cast warrants the approval of almost any kind of audience. Francis MacDonald plays the secondary menace in a thoroughly convincing manner. His footage is brief, however, due to the fact that he is shot out of the picture by the "bad" Lytell.

Dorothy Sebastian is a lovely type for the debutante who falls in love with the "good" Lytell.

Walter Lang permitted the bad one to linger a little too much on the inebriate scenes to suit the tastes of many who saw the picture the night I did.

There is a fine dramatic scene in the courtroom when the hero is on trial for murder and the guilty man is defense attorney. It is staged well.

All in all, it is a good program picture that fits well into Columbia's offerings for the year.—Douglas Hodge, Hollywood.

COSTELLO CASE

Several good punch scenes in the "Costello Case" make the picture worthwhile entertainment of the gangland variety. There are a number of unusual twists which raise it above the average attraction of this type.

Tom Moore and Wheeler Oakman are particularly fine in their portrayals. Roscoe Karns as the newspaper reporter gives the picture its comedy relief, but it is doubtful whether the newspaper critics will treat him kindly. However, the public will like him, and that after all is the important thing.

It is a coincidence that the "Costello Case" is almost a parallel of the "Legs" Diamond case which has had the New York police force guessing the last week or so. There is an opportunity there for some real money making exploitation.

Three scenes are outstanding for their audience appeal. They are the introduction when Costello is found murdered and his safe robbed of $50,800; the putting on the spot of Patrolman Mahoney, who the gangsters fear knows too much; and the apprehension and killing of the murderer.

Following the murder, Mile-Away-Harry, debonair gang leader, is called to police headquarters where he insists that he knows nothing about the matter. In the meantime, the police have picked up a young couple at a railway station and they likewise protest their innocence. Patrolman Mahoney, however, sees a certain similarity and offers to take the young couple to his boarding house. By eavesdropping at the keyhole of their apartment, he is able to build a case against Mile-Harry, whose gang determines to kill Mahoney, but is frustrated in its plans through the timely arrival of the police reporter. The patrolman uses the weight of the gang leader and sets the trap which ends in death for the gangster.—Jay M. Shreck, New York City.

Admirably directed, capably acted and with sparkling dialog, M-G-M’s “The Passion Flower” is a gripping and entertaining picture. The original story by Kathleen Norris is strong, logical and packed with good situations. William DeMille has transferred it to the screen successfully, but follows the plot with reasonable integrity.

The bouquet must go to Zasu Pitts, whose manner and face are the house in “Quadrangle!” and time and time again. Those who adapted the story for the screen wrote her some very clever lines and she delivers them with such skill that even our critics must agree.

Hal Rosson’s photography is uniformly good throughout the picture, and, on occasion, is beautiful.

The story opens with Kay Francis married to a multi-millionaire, Lewis Stone, and with Kay Johnson about to marry Charles Bickford, a chauffeur. Her marriage and a struggle with poverty follow. Miss Francis falls in love with Bickford and the ensuing action concerns the background of Kay, Bickford and him. The fourth member of the quadrangle, Stone, handles with artistry a small part.

Bickford has a hard role to portray as the pawn of two women and living a very mediocre life. The part does not call for the virility in which Bickford previously has excelled. Miss Francis and Miss Johnson handle highly required parts deftly, and do not overact. Their capabilities and those of DeMille are apparent.

Of course, the child actor, cast as one of the children of the Bickford-Johnson union, handles his lines well and naturally. Inasmuch as the plot has a psychological basis, it is one of physical action, it seems to move rather slowly, but interest is well sustained.

DeMille’s shades and indicates emotions rather than flaunts them in the faces of his audience.—Edward Churchill, Hollywood.

CREDIT Edmund Lowe with an excellent portrayal of a dual role. In “Scotland Yard” Lowe steals the picture as one expects him to do. However, he shares some of the honors with Jean Bennett, who displays more than ever the histrionic abilities of the Bennett family. She is a decidedly capable young actress.

“Scotland Yard” is not an unusual picture, yet it is one of the most entertaining, more perhaps because of Lowe’s presence in the cast than for any other reason.

The picture presents a story of mistaken identity, a situation created by the remolding of the face of a crook who is injured while fighting at the races.

On his return to London he learns that he looks like a famous bank official who was killed in the war, and he sets out to impersonate the dead man.

He plans to steal a large sum from the bank, but at the last minute, because of his love for the dead man’s daughter, he prevents the robbery by an accomplice.

A Scotland Yard operative recognizes him as the forger of the bank and places him under arrest.

Exhibitors will find the picture good entertainment for their theatres.—Joy M. Shreck, New York City.

However, the story as it has been written for the screen, is not exactly into grooves, causing the situations to be completely anticipated by the audience before they occur. This has the effect of making the story seem a bit retold, and driven from the open range, Hollister and his man Friday, played excellently by Eugene Pallette, seek to bring the guilty man of the old estate of Spanish Acres, owned by Juan Costadino, but encounter an obstacle in the person of Coulard. The latter plans to remold the Acres after having loosed the elderly Spaniard a great deal of money. An Indian curse, which Costadino has placed upon his property, is in reality the work of Coulard.

As expected, Hollister reveals the undercover dealings of the cattle man, and proves his own innocence. The last scene of the film shows Juan Costadino has murdered one of their number and accused Hollister of the crime. Instrumental in clearing him of the accusation are two youngsters, Old Timer and Emily, who witnessed the Indian shooting of Coulard. These two, Mitzi Green and Junior Durkin, deserve special mention for the ability they showed in their performances. The former, in particular, did her work with a naturalness and case unusual in the child actress, both providing most of the comedy relief in the film.

In this regard, Eugene Pallette as “Doc” Brady does his part well. When he attempts to converse in his conception of Spanish with Costadino’s daughter, Maria, at the same time, Maria, as played by Barbara Stanwyck in English, believing the girl unfamiliar with the language. The audience is aware that the English-speaking in the Paramount crowd seemed to enjoy the situation hugely.

Maria, played very capably by Rosita Morena, and Hollister fall in love, thereby providing the picture with a plot carried through to its inevitable conclusion, after the objectionable characters are shot down with neatness and dispatch.

Fine direction, in putting life, action and humor into an old fashioned type of story, has made this picture one of the most enjoyable of the season. Youngsters should get a real thrill from the performance of the two juvenile stars.—Charles S. Aaronson, New York City.

CHICAGO ARCHIE MAYO has made a clever picture of “Illicit.” He had exceptionally good dialog to work with and he concentrated on the beauty of Barbara Stanwyck and the histrionic abilities of Miss Stanwyck, James Rennie and Ricardo Cortez.

The picture marks the return of pantomime to a great extent. The dialog moves the plot along, but Miss Stanwyck and the others in the cast are permitted more latitude in the matter of thoughts, facial and emotional expressions. There is an unusual number of closeups.

One is led to believe that the characters played by Miss Stanwyck and Rennie are living together without the formalities of wedlock. They later are married and cease to live together because Miss Stanwyck finds in her individuality and freedom. Cortezkoves about Miss Stanwyck, constantly hoping but getting nowhere so far as her affections are concerned. Miss Stanwyck and Rennie are reunited but the reunion is obvious and with little suspense.

The action, original story and treatment are quite sophisticated. The beautiful Miss Stanwyck has plenty of appeal to men audiences and Mayo and Kurrle
EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD

HERO OF THE WEEK

DOROTHY CULIVER, who reveals playing ability in Tiffany's "Under Montana Skies," in which Kenneth Harlan is starred.

A BLEND of music, comedy and hard riding go to make "Under Montana Skies" an exciting and entertaining. The comedy fits in perfectly with the action. The music is good and does not slow down the action to any extent. Harlan Zech's photography is uniformly good and gets better than good in his shots of stage holdups and other bits of action. The plot is Western with a few twists to lighten it. It's the matter of comedy. The story involves Harlan's attempts to stage a performance to benefit a hand-book and Christopher J. Frank's threatened marriage of the opera house. Harlan and Christian exchange blows realistically in a good fight. Don't Gulliver reveals ability to sing in one number. While she, Harlan and Frank handle the heavy part of the picture, a great deal of business has been called in to provide the laughs. Nita Martan, Harry Todd, Ethel Wales and others are all funny in their roles.

One of the high lights in the comedy range occurs when two men are intoxicated, attempt to shoot a car off the head of another drunk. Summerville takes his turn first and then flies when he discovers the other is going to take a shot at the car while it reposes on his head. His flight is precipitated by the discovery that his horse has eaten all the food he has brought. This is another involves the antics of Nita Martan and Harry Todd. Todd, a teetotaller, samples a bottle and the results are amusingly funny for a high slap-stick.—Edward Churchill, Hollywood.

LOOSE ENDS

BRITISH INTERNATIONAL'S latest picture on Broadway is a finely acted drama, tense throughout, and unrelied by comedy or humorous situation. It is strictly a modern stage play directly transported to the talking screen. A cast, said to be from the London stage success by Dion Tighthouse of several years back, gives a noteworthy performance, particularly in the case of Owen Nares, in the role of a disheartened man who had spent 15 years in Australia on legal robbery for the murder of a man who had wronged his sister. Returning to London, he falls in love with, and eventually marries, a young actress, who had accidentally run him down in her car. The theme of the story centers about his reactions to the new situation, in manner in which his wife and new friends live, and his inability to understand them, or they him. It is only after the truth about his past is unearthed and he leaves his wife that the talking comes her desire for night clubs and the like, and acknowledges her feeling for him by bringing him back to their home. Though this may not be the type of film that American audiences have been used to, its undoubted merit as a fine piece of dramatic work cannot be denied. Edna Best, as the young and highly sophisticated actress wife, seems in certain sequences to render her lines in a rather unfeeling manner, but on the whole is capable. Perhaps as excellent a characterization as the film affords is given by Adrienne Allen, who plays the clever friend of Miss Best and takes every opportunity to deride the puritanical attitude of Nares, though she is the only one of the group surrounding him who really understands him. Her acting, in the instance when she realizes he does not return her love for him, is matched only by the performance of Nares in the closing scenes after he leaves his wife.

Direction is extremely able throughout, apparently with the realization that to inject comedy into the film as a dramatic relief would probably have served only to weaken the performance. Settles are confined exclusively to interiors, most of the action taking place in the dressing room of the actress' home in London. In several sequences, background music is heard in the manner of the musical accompaniment to the old silent pictures. Not only does this seem out of place, except where specifically called for, in talking pictures generally, but particularly unfortunate is a highly dramatic piece such as this. A notable cast and excellent direction makes this a worthwhile production.—Charles S. Aronson, New York City.

SEE AMERICA THRIFT

HERE is the lighter and funnier side of big time bootlegging wherein Harry Langdon and Slim Summerville team for many merry nonsensical laughs. Satire from the first reel on, "See America Thrift" is Universal's most comical contribution to the year's lineup of laugh getting pictures. Everything in it is a gag, and nine out of ten are screamers. It is a happy thought for team Langdon and Summerville. The two boys work hard as a couple of tramps, accidentally caught in the whirl of running and gun fires, only to encounter a full fledged detective novel. They make a mistake, but they keep the secret and are offered a half million to "bump" the leader of a rival liquor concern. Locked in a building overlooking a city skyscraper, they hit upon a smart plan and proposition the doomed gangster into paying a cool million for their life. The fact that the system works both ways encourages the buddies to stage a battle with one going on a white spot and the other on the red dot.

Bessie Love comes in as the feminine interest for a few scenes and does an appealing song number. Mathew Betz is unusually fine as the leader of one of the gangs. The film has been lavishly produced by Universal, a comedy, and is an active, well acted, well paced story, though more than a little melodramatic.

Withers has the lead as the show barker who is quite convinced that there is no one just like himself and takes every opportunity to express his conceit. He does this sort of role with an ease and simplicity and injects a good deal of attractive humor into his action and dialogue. Evelyn Knapp, in her screen debut, does a good part of the heavy work. Withers, who saves his brother from arrest by the cost of sacrificing her brother, whom she had seen in the act. Perhaps the best work in the film, however, is done by Lucille La Verne as the widowed mother who runs the arcade, and James Cagney, as her son Harry, a weak boy who murders his employer after becoming involved in the beer racket. Despite the fact that on more than one occasion Lucille La Verne borders closely on the melodramatic, it is perhaps due to the nature of her lines, she nevertheless gives an admirable performance as an old woman hardened to life through the concession operator, yet with a deeply maternal feeling toward her son Harry in particular. Cagney has by no means an easy role in his portrayal of a highly civilized and the nature cannot go straight. It is the type of part which can be spoiled by the slightest shade of over acting, but Cagney brings his characterization in each sequence just far enough. Especially this is the case when the boy, strained to the limit in an attempt to save his mother, finally breaks down and confesses to his mother. That a plant the gun used in the crime, so that Withers is certain to be convicted by circumstantial evidence, but the girl comes to the rescue at the final moment. The concluding sequence seems to have a slightly false note.
EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD

October 25, 1930

BIGIN MONEY.

Borne through a series of exciting events that take him from the office board to that of a big Wall Street merchant, Eddie Quillan stars in “Big Money," a very entertaining feature comedy made by Pathe. Its tempo is fast and itslang episodes are excellently done.

Quillan's opening scene traces his part in a game of dice. It costs him his job. The underworld elements appear when Eddie is attached to the gang. He becomes a gambling partner of Robert Armstrong and practically a member.

By skilfully directing Eddie shows him rapidly betting and winning at pool, cards, horse racing, football games, baseball, and even his favorite gambling device. His fortune piles up and he lives the life of Reilly.

His sweetheart, who bechees him to quit the racket or quit her, is enacted well by Miriam Seegar.

Near the end of the story Quillan becomes involved in a murder, and then he is innocently sitting in a game of cards.

Robert Armstrong is the other half of the comedy team and his fortermeate, James Green, is also in the lang position of a number of scenes.

The story is not new but many of the situations are fresh, and the entire show is presented in a convincing manner.—Edward Churchill, Hollywood.

LAUGHTER.

Deightfully sophisticated comedy that carries a surprise for the Nancy Carroll and Frederic March fans, in that it reveals, besides many laughs, an enjoyable combination of drama cleverly interwoven with smart comedy. Its gay title and first three reels oppose the thought that it might contain anything but a lot of laughter. Nancy Carroll is actually funny. With March taking full advantage of Donald Ogden Stewart's well-written dialog she has made her back-breaking task as the star of the picture. Her performance, however, is excellent.

Action predominates over dialog and spoken lines are rendered only where they are necessary and add to the film. There are songs or music except occasional piano thumping by March, who plays a struggling music composer. Her singing is laid aside for one memorable number in which she plays Frank Morgan. Her bath on the set is refreshingly humorous. Some of the best photography adds greatly in telling the story.—Tom Hacker, Hollywood.

PLAYBOY OF PARIS.

While "Playboy of Paris" cannot be said to be Chevalier's best picture, it nevertheless is full of entertainment value. The star's personality and humor are two things that no audience can resist. Not even occasional difficulty in understanding his French accent detracts from the thorough enjoyment one finds in viewing Chevalier's show.

One can easily understand the universal popularity of this Paramount player. Chevalier's supporting cast, especially in such players as P. O. Heggie, Stuart Erwin and Eugene Pallette, all three coming from a high order, makes "Playboy of Paris" an out and out farce that moves along at a rapid pace. Ludwig Berg-dieger's direction is responsible to a great degree for this.

It is the type of film that offers an audience downright fun, and is therefore a natural at the box office.

This farce is the story of a French waiter who inherits a million francs. The cafe owner, learning in a dream that the legacy, played by Chevalier, will be 20 years of contract, with the proviso that whichever one breaks the pact will have to pay the other 400,000 francs. The waiter, seeing through the trick, determines to beat the cafe owner at his own game so remains in his employ, making it as embarrassing as possible for the restaurant man. It is this situation which affords the audience a riot of fun.—Joy M. Shrech, New York City.

THOSE THREE FRENCH GIRLS.

RATHER more entertaining dialog and a more active story might have been expected from the writing of P. G. Wodehouse and the direction of Harry Beaumont. There is a good deal in this film, which features Fifi D'Orsay and Reginald Denny, that is too near to slipstick to be clever comedy. Cliff Edwards does his bit with the ukulele and physical and vocal contortions, but to me became just a trifle tiresome by the time the picture reached its closing sequence.

The film opens with a scene in which the three French girls, Yola D'Avril and Sandra Ruston, throw flower pots down upon the head of a landlord who wishes to evict them for nonpayment of rent. Denny, as the bearer of tidings, arrives in time to do his share, with the result that all four land in jail. They are shortly joined there by Cliff Edwards and Edward Brophy, two boys from Brooklyn, who proceed to make noisy and rather amusing whoopee. Edwards' type of work is purely vaudeville and in this film he runs true to form.

Denny is supposed to be an Englishman, but it requires rather a great stretch of the imagination to interpret his rendering of the dialog as British English. The whole group jumps into a Christie-like Columbia release. The uncle's mansion in Paris, where they take possession in no uncertain way. The uncle buys the girls by adoring shop, which is appeal by his way of freeing the nephew from feminine entanglements. He falls for Fifi, but acquires a case of cold feet and is glad when Denny takes over his responsibility. Good George Smirch is the real excitement and is amusing in his portrayal of the slow-thinking Englishman, and French audiences, are definitely pleasing to look at and vivacious, particularly when they discuss things in rapid-fire French. Fifi D'Orsay would go a little more effectively, however, if she did not try to be serious, as she does on several occasions.

Taken as a whole, despite the weakness of the story and the nick-kick on the part of Edwards in particular, which has the effect of causing the film to drop below a level Carroll, and even Denny's thrice a week is mildly good material for entertaining. The audience at the Capitol greeted the offering with plenty of laughs.—Charles S. Aerson, New York City.

SWEETHEARTS ON PARADE.

Alice White turns sailor's sweetheart in this amusing light comedy, her first outside of the First National group. She is again the flapper, managing to flarp her charms into the hearts of two army officers who become a sort of millionaire. Marshall Neilan directed the story which was especially written for Alice's initial performance under the Christie banner.

Nothing stagey is attempted in telling the story. It is minus lavish settings, beautiful gowns and song numbers and moves along nicely due principally to the very good work of its four main characters. Lloyd Hughes, as a tough Marine, gives a commendable performance. Kenneth Harlan and Marie Prevost, or Kelly Thomsen, is good.

The story revolves about Alice and her two loves, with注入 endeavor until he leaves for Navy maneuvers and is gone a month. In that time Alice has become acquainted with a sailor who stages a yacht party and announces his intention to wed the young lady. She is told that he is already married, but he proves it is the entire party and a large slice of the Navy joining in.

The picture is clean and wholesome entertainment with no flag or hit of dialog that offends as against the unnecessary smut that is not uncommon in this type of feature. It is a fine exception that he allowed too much dialog that spoiled several of the comedy scenes. Photography is fair.—Tom Hacker, Hollywood.
J. C. Jenkins—His Colyum

DENVER, COLORADO.

DEAR HERALD-WORLD:

We have just learned who that elderly lady was who played the part of the adopted mother to Constance Bennett in "COMMON CLAY," and from this time on we are going to scan every poster in front of every theatre we see in order to not miss a picture she is playing in. Just impress the name of Beryl Mercer on your mind and whenever she appears in a picture go and see it if you have to mortgage every shoot on the place. When she appeared on the witness stand in "COMMON CLAY" and said "I'm a God fearing woman and I want to tell you the God's truth, Mr. Lawyer," she put so much earnestness into her testimony that we felt like we wanted to go and put our arm around her neck and kiss her as we used to do with our mother, and considering the age of both of us, we can't see as it would have done any harm could we have done it. It is pictures like "COMMON CLAY" that will build confidence in the future of the industry.

There is no woman on the stage or screen who could have taken the part of Irene Rich in "ON YOUR BACK" and done as well as she did. We have seen every picture she has made since "JES CALL ME HIM," and we hope to live to see every picture she ever makes.

We called on our old friend, Henry Frickell of the M G M office. You couldn't hammer Henry away from M G M with a ball bat, and he has been with that concern so long that he thinks that Leo the M G M lion is the father of every tomcat west of the Mississippi river. Henry used to sell us M G M service out of Omaha, and we always found him to be a big hearted boy, for he always left us some of the office furniture and a few more trinkets he couldn't carry off.

Henry got his early training under Sam McIntyre in Omaha. He came up to our town once and sold us the entire M G M group, and a few days after we went down to Omaha and took a three-legged chair with us and took it into Sam's office, and when Sam asked us what that was for we told him that that was some furniture Henry overlooked. When Henry left Omaha he was rated to be the largest second-hand furniture dealer in the city.

This high altitude and this mountain air has certainly worked a wonderful change in Henry, for every theatre man we have called on out here speaks in the highest terms of him, and today, when we called on him, he offered to return our offers and get a better man than Henry but we don't know where they would go to find him.

Whoever laid out this town of Denver must have been full of Rocky Mountain dew. They don't know what right angles are out here. Every street runs into Broadway on a tangent and when you are driving down Broadway you don't know whether a truck driver will smash into you from the rear or the off side. It's the way the streets are laid out and not the altitude that affects people's heads out here. We thought that Indianapolis and Hollywood would gather all the persimmons for crazy streets, but they've got nothing on this town.

The Rocky Mountain News carries a story to the effect that the Nye senatorial committee is going to inquire into why the oil stocks sold by the Rev. A. J. Finch, superintendent of the Colorado Anti-Saloon League, were so porous that they wouldn't hold water.

After this committee has determined just what business George W. Norris, the garage man or prune vendor at Broken Bow, Nebraska, had filing for the U. S. Senate, if they will tackle this oil stock investigation it will begin to look like Uncle Sam had some interest in us.

While this committee seems overly anxious to "investigate" something, we might cite to them an individual with whom we are well acquainted, who could call their attention to some oil stocks that had holes in them so big that a bull could walk through and never ruffle a hair. We are certainly in favor of investigation.

It seems that twenty-five hijackers captured a brewery down in Elizabeth, N. J., and the prohibition enforcement officers drove them out without a casualty and without a shot being fired. That's what we call the proper way to carry on a war. The officers succeeded in getting couple or three hijackers in the matter while the hijackers retreated in good order and vacated the field of action.

The officers pulled the bungs out of the beer vats and let 200,000 gallons of perfectly good bellywash, with an estimated value of $194,000, run down into the sewer. Wasting money this way is just what is causing these hard times. Doggone it, we can't see why the Government don't stop it. They do some funny things down in New Jersey; that's where that henchouse music is coming from over the radio.

Arthur Brisbane says that the wets are claiming that the Eighteenth Amendment is on the downgrade and will soon be a thing of the past, but he opines that they will grow grey-headed, die and be forgotten and the Eighteenth Amendment will still be in force. He says also that annulling this provision by allowing the states to regulate the matter would be like annulling the women's suffrage amendment by permitting only threedecked women to vote. When Arthur shoots at a subject both barrels are generally loaded.

45 CONGRESSMEN LOSE SEATS. Another headline in the News. We are sorry to learn that, for the army of unemployed is growing altogether too fast as it is. Harvest hands and section men are complaining that their field is being overcrowded, but we could lose two or three congressmen from Nebraska and it would not hurt much.

If we had $250,000 we wouldn't put it into a senatorial campaign, not by a durn sight. We'd build a big log cabin up on some lake in northern Minnesota where we could entertain our friends during the fishing season. That's our idea of the proper way to spend dough.

We haven't had time to give this town the once over yet, but what we have seen of it so far reminds us somewhat of our home town of Neligh, except that we miss Otto Hartman, the Bingville cop, and the K. N. D. filling station which is located right on the highway (you can't miss it) and the Moon theatre and Doc Reynolds' drug store. Doc's drug store is where you can buy anything from bologna sausage to pink pills, and if you buy the sausage be sure to buy the pills, for you will need 'em. Doc's pills are very invigorating, we feel some to our bird dog once and he caught fourteen jack-rabbits before breakfast.

Denver is said to be "THE GATEWAY TO THE WEST" but you have to go northwest or southwest to get "west" out of here. After you see Denver once you won't care if you never go any farther west, this is far enough in spite of what Los Angeles says about it. If we add Los Angeles and Hollywood we'd trade 'em even up for Denver, provided they'd agree to take Alme Semple McPherson, Doug Hodges and Norman Krauss off our hands. Wouldn't we skin 'em though? Well, that's all for now.

J. C. JENKINS.

THE HERALD-WORLD man.

THE HERALD-WORLD covers the field like an APRIL SHOWER.
HOLLYWOOD

Forty Features Go into Work
After Letdown on West Coast

Fox Launches "The Man Who Came Back" with Charles Farrell and Janet Gaynor—Ruggles Begins Fourth Month on RKO's "Cimarron"—Stroheim Starts "Blind Husbands" at Universal

By DOUGLAS HODGES

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23.—Production schedules came back into their own this week after a letdown for several weeks. Warner Brothers and First National are resting, but 40 features are being shot at other studios. A Farrell-Gaynor picture launched at Fox by Raoul Walsh is "The Man Who Came Back.

Radio Pictures reports a new one on the roster: it is "The Queen's Husband" in which Joel McCrea, the director, and Mary Astor have the star roles.

Fourth Month on "Cimarron"

Wesley Ruggles rounded out his third month and has begun his fourth of filming "Cimarron" this week. More than 30 prominent players are cast in the film, which has another month to go before finishing. "Blow Me an Ideal" is still in work. Bert Wheeler and Robert Wooley are in the midst of their current comedy, "Hook, Line and Sinker."

The recent signing of Al Boasberg and Douglas McLean as associate producers brings the studio's roster of associate producers up to six working under William LeBaron. The Rex Beach story, "Recolli," has been bought for Mel Brown's direction and will be filmed as "White Shoulders."

Stroheim Starts Talker

Erich Von Stroheim began filming on the talker version of "Blind Husbands" at Universal this week. "Dracula" is in its third week with a six week schedule. Tod Browning is directing "Aloha" is Completed Production on "Aloha," Al Rogell Productions, was finished this week at Metropolitian studios.

Flood with Liberty

James Flood has signed with Liberty to direct "Mother's Millions." May Robson has her original stage role. Harry Langdon will move to Liberty soon for the lead in "The Ape" with Raulda Hoffman directing.

Owlsley Featured Juvenile

Monroe Owlsley will have the featured juvenile role in Universal's, "Half Gods" as soon as he completes a similar assignment in "Roseland" for Columbia.

16th Writer on Story

"The Connecticut Yankee" is still in treatment. A new assignment to the production department is that of 16th writer to try his hand at the story.

Joan Crawford Original

Joan Crawford's next for M.G.M. will be an original written by the story staff of the studio entitled, "Dance, Fools, Dance." Production is due to start soon with Harry Beaumont directing.

Seiter French Version

Seyffertz in "Dishonored"

Gustav von Seyffertz has signed for Joseph von Sternberg's "Dishonored" at Paramount.

Three Doing Story

It looks as if the fifth comedy of the Nick and Tony series at RKO will have three authors. Louis Brock, producer, George Marshall, director, and Johnnie Grey, writer, are doing the story together.

LeBaron Warns Against Film Cycles Becoming Ruts; Urges Contrasts

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23.—Commenting on the RKO policy of producing a wide variety of pictures, William Le Baron, vice-president, says:

"If the history of the film-making industry teaches anything, it is that the so-called cycles too often become ruts, and no progress ever has been made within the limitations of a rut. A mere glance at the list of features to be released this season by RKO reveals entertainment of every popular type. It is, for instance, a far cry from a "Cimarron" to a "Beau Ideal," and there is just as much contrast between Lowell Sherman's "The Pay-Off" and "Hook, Line and Sinker," starring Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey."

How Studio Quotas for Community Chest Stand

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23—Individual Community Chest Quotas for 17 Hollywood Studios totaling $175,000 are as follows:

- M.G.M., $30,000; Fox, $20,000; United Artists, $25,000; Paramount-Publix, $25,000; RKO, $15,000; First National, $12,500; Universal, $7,500; Pathé, $4,000; Warners, $1,500; Christie, $1,500; Educational, $2,000; Columbia, $2,000; Chanin, $2,000; Republic, $2,000; Tiffany, $1,000; Teckert, $1,000. The number of employees to be solicited is 9,975.

So Wolheim Wants to Sleep for Three Weeks

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23—Directing pictures is the toughest job yet, particularly for a star player. So says Louis Wolheim, despite his success in the field of directing. He has directed "In Sheep's Clothing" for RKO in which he stars as well.

The difficulty, Wolheim says, lies in keeping directing and acting separate. He says he catches himself starting to act in front of the cameras instead of in back of them, and that he sleeps with a megaphone in one hand and his makeup box in the other. So he's taking a vacation and insists he's going to sleep for three weeks. Then, of course, it is expected he'll be back directing and starring again.

Marquis Gets Direction Of RKO French Version

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23—Chief supervision and direction of the French version of "The Queen's Husband," Radio Pictures' production, has been assigned to Marquis de la Falaise de la Coudraye, husband of Gloria Swanson. William LeBaron, vice-president of the company, made the selection.

Recording for the film will be done by means of the newly perfected concentrator microphone, developed by RKO radio engineers, which is said to give a finer quality of sound than has yet been attained.

"Women Who Take" First RKO Stage Play at Mason

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23—"Women Who Take" is the title of the first RKO stage play to open at the Mason here on October 27 under the supervision of Metropolitan Productions, Ltd., subsidiary of Radio Pictures.

The story, an original by Jane Murfin, features a cast composed of Irene Rich, Olive Tell, Morgan Wallace, William Walcott, Louise McIntosh, Winter Hall and Lee Sumway. The aim of the organization is to discover worthwhile playwrights and present them in 150 or more legitimate theatres throughout the country.

Maynard Will Make Six Westerns for Tiffany

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23—Ken Maynard will star in a series of six Western pictures for Tiffany. Jeanette Loff, formerly with Universal, has signed for the feminine lead with Lilian Thorne and Nita Martan in the supporting cast.

Solicit Dunlap negotiated the contract with Tiffany and will direct the series. The first, which is now in preparation, is titled "The Midnight Stage."
Eastern Sequences Are Shot For Paramount’s “No Limit”

Ed Wynn’s First Talking Screen Comedy Will Be Released as “Follow the Leader” — Claudette Colbert Returns — Herman Ruby to Write Vitaphone Varieties

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Eastern production of Paramount’s “No Limit” has already begun with the arrival of Clara Bow, Stuart Erwin and Dixie Lee in New York last week. A number of sequences, with Manhattan as the locale, are to be shot in and around the Times Square district and the elevated, after which the company will return to the Coast to complete the filming of the picture.

Ed Wynn’s initial talking screen comedy, filmed at the Eastern studio as “Manchester Mary,” is to be released under the new and appropriate title of “Follow the Leader.” The title change was made advisable by reason of the fact that “Manchester Mary” was an unsuccessful musical comedy and its remodeled adaptation has been developed into fast farce. Norman Taurog directed the film, in which Lou Holtz and Ginger Rogers support Wynn.

Claudette Colbert Returns

Following her globe encircling trip, which started from here nearly six months ago, Claudette Colbert, with her husband, Norman Foster, returned to New York last week. Both Miss Colbert and her husband are Paramount featured players, and are expected to get to work shortly.

The French star will appear in “Strictly Business,” scheduled to go into production in Astoria without loss of time. Charles Ruggles, able comedian, will be with Miss Colbert in “Strictly Business,” marking his first screen assignment, which completed the portrayal of the title role in “Charley’s Aunt.” This is the third picture in which Ruggles and Miss Colbert have been featured, the two preceding being “The Lady Lies” and “Young Man of Manhattan.” The comedian is now appearing in person on the stages of New England houses. He will report at the Astoria film plant within two weeks to begin rehearsals.

Ruggles and Frederic March will have substitutes in the French version of this feature, but Miss Colbert will take the title role in both American and British versions. Peggy Thompson is now at work on the French adaptation.

Warners Sign Herman Ruby

Murray Roth, director of production at Warner Brothers Eastern studio in Brooklyn, where Vitaphone Varieties are made, has signed another writer in the person of Herman Ruby, a song writer of note, who most recently has been engaged in writing for the films on the Coast.

Roth is preparing another of the Robert Ripley, “Believe It or Not” series, six having been finished already.

Four more short subjects have been completed at the plant within the last week. A comedy drama “The Lady Killer,” directed by Arthur Hurley from a story by Burnet Heysham, is the first of these. Eric Dressler and Shirley Palmer are featured.

Hollywood Comedy Made

“Last But Not Least” is a comedy from the pen of Weare Holbrook, which was directed by Alf Goulding, with Billy Wayne, John Patrick and Thelma White in the cast. Miss White is a sister of Marguerite White, the Fox star.

Stanley Raush wrote “The Last Straw,” directed by Roy Mack, in which Romney Brent, Hazel Mason, Frank Kingsley, Willie May and Roy Lee May are featured.

Charles Hackett, tenor of the Chicago opera, has completed the death scene from “Romeo and Juliet,” made its Vitaphone Varieties number under the direction of Roth. Rose Low sings opposite as Juliet and Salom Alberti conducted the orchestra.

2 Manuscripts Taken

By W B in Plan to Use Stories by Reporters

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Jacob Wilk, head of Warners’ story department, has announced acceptance of two manuscripts following the call for scenario material from newspapermen.

Tom Bashaw, police reporter on the Chicago Daily News, has sent the first manuscript accepted, which deals with a modern subject. George P. Nieberg, feature writer for the Philadelphia Public Ledger, is author of “All Wet,” another story which has been officially accepted. Announcement of more acceptances is to be made shortly, Wilk says.

Warners, in its hunt for new motion picture material, solicited newspapermen with the belief that they deal in drama and facts more interesting than fiction.

J. L. Warner Reviews

Films for Sayler Book

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—“Revolt in the Arts,” edited by Oliver M. Sayler and published this week by Brentano, contains an article on talking pictures by J. L. Warner, president of Warner Brothers.

The book includes studies of chauvinistic standards in the theatre, cinema, music, dance, literature, painting, sculpture and architecture.

Lewis Stone Marries

(Hollywood, Oct. 23.—Lewis Stone, actor, and Hazel Elizabeth Wolf have announced their marriage. The wedding took place at Yuma, Ariz.

Chester Morris Is Dad

(Hollywood, Oct. 23.—Mr. and Mrs. Chester Morris celebrated the birth of a four pound, four ounce, baby girl this week.

Patron, Not Censor, Keeps Drama Clean: Wallace; Cites History of Theatre

Paramount Director Declares the Heeding Fan Alone Makes Prosperity Possible

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23.—Let the theatre-goer decide what he wants. Confidence in his taste and judgment will accomplish more than censorship in keeping the drama clean.

These are the opinions of Richard Wallace, Paramount director, now filming "The Right to Love." "While despondency may occasionally overtake those who have a sincere desire to see the theatre progress and prosper, history proves that the drama always has survived the crises, emerging rugged and clean, and that it has ignored the public which has savaged it," Wallace declared.

Heeding Fan’s Demands

"Film producers often are criticized because they hearken too much to the clamor of the one who behaves so thoughtlessly as to declare he wants rather than inducing him to take what is provided for him. This is called a mercenary policy, but in the last resort it is the only means by which the theatre can prosper."

"Is there any reason, therefore, to despair of the future of the theatre? I do not believe it depends upon us to ask for what is clean and artistic."

"I believe that the history of the theatre proves that he can. There always have been periods in which it has appeared that the drama was being degraded in response to the clamor of a baser type of audience. Then it is that the cry of good taste is the loudest."

Patrons Best Censors

"But it never has been censorship which has rescued the stage from these depressions. It has been invariably the failure of the theatre-goer to support, for any prolonged period, the inferior type of production.

"That is why I believe in giving ear to the theatre-goer, but only to that extent, whether screen production of any of the works of the noted English author and playwright.

Hollywood Filmante to Show Foreign Talkers

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23.—Hollywood’s silent picture house has installed Western Electric sound equipment.

Completing its first year as a center of foreign film importations, the Filmante opened this week under a policy of showing subjects in whatever language, silent or sound. Resident Manager Ted Cunningham, remains in charge.

Loses 3 Curls; May Lose Film Contract, Too

(Hollywood, Oct. 23.—Nancy Crowley, nine-year-old screen star, will have to hunt for three new golden curls if she is going to do any film work in the next few weeks.

While the girl sat in a darkened theatre, a vandal clipped off three of her curls. How much hair with her at the time? The juvenile actor may lose her present screen contract, it is said.

October 25, 1930 EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD 47
LeBaron Will Stay, Says Schnitzer to Executives; Will Renew His Contract (Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23—Joseph I. Schnitzer, president of RKO Radio Pictures, in an address before all studio executives here this week, put an end to rumors that William LeBaron was to be removed. He said in part: "The organization has implicit faith in Mr. LeBaron and his judgment as a producer. He holds a long term contract with this company which will run to its conclusion. When the present contract is completed, I, personally, will do everything in my power to see that it is renewed on an equally happy basis."

Set for U's "Dracula" Is Wiped Out by Fire (Special to the Herald-World)

UNIVERSAL CITY, CAL., Oct. 23—Fire of unknown origin destroyed a set which was to have been used in the Spanish version of Universal's "Dracula." The set represented a roadside inn in the mountains of Transylvania, where the open-

McCary to Direct One Super for United Artists (Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23—Permitted by a stipulation in his contract with the Fox organization to direct one super-picture production for United Artists, Leo McCary will report to Joseph Schenck immediately following "Shepper Newfounder." He will direct a story now being prepared by DeSylva, Brown and Henderson, who also are being loaned to Schenck.

Contract Dancing Girls Go (Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23—The last of the contract dancing girls have been closed out at RKO. The troupe once numbered 35 chorines.

STARE GAZER

PLAYTIME

Norman Krasna in his column got me so steamed up about Agua Caliente, the playground of American tourists and the more vociferous of the Westerners, that I must look the place over. If you recall, Norman in his column was quite outspoken in his criticism of the over-the-border institution.

Agua Caliente lies two miles beyond Tia Juana, which is a dumpy, dusty, gray little town—dry and scrorching under the beating sun. Saloons line the streets and there is no doubt about liquor dispensing being its major industry.

Agua Caliente is a veritable garden, lying between brown, brush-cluttered hills. It covers many acres. It isn't a town. It is an institution, complete in itself, offering golf, flying, horseback riding, swimming, perfect hotel accommodations, gift shops, excellent food—and liquor.

This column is too short to describe the place. It's Spanish, with low, long buildings, cool, green grass, parrots, macaws and other birds of many colors, shady nooks, ponds in which water lilies and gold fish abound.

I lived in a bungalow during my short visit.

Caliente, stripped of its gambling casino, its bars and its hard faces would stand out in my memory as one of the most serenely beautiful spots I've ever visited. But the clash of the money changing in the casino drown out the sound of a mandolin in the quaint, tiled patio beyond, and the guffaws of the mandolin rise above the splash of water in a fountain.

A young chan, obviously under 21 and pretty tight, cashed one check and then another. His mother, who apparently handled his bank account, was called long distance, and she approved a third. That went to the dealer, and he called for more.

Mother approved no more and he was disconsolate.

A woman, who had won $5,000 a few nights before, ordered drinks with utter abandon as she went from chuck-a-luck to roulette and from crafts to black-jack. She seldom tossed down less than fifty dollars. She may have been having a good time.

She lost $500 in less than five minutes. There were others, some who were on the downroads, others, like the youth, just rising. It wasn't hard to tell them apart—and it wasn't hard to identify the tourist.

The tables opened at 8 a.m. the morning and closed when the last man left—with his pockets inside out.

If the stories of the dealers who sat so stoically behind the tables were written, a novelist would be busy behind a typewriter for the rest of his life.

Half way to Caliente is sleepy San Juan Capistrano. There is a restaurant there where the best clam chowder on the coast is served. "They come in here going South," he says, "and they come out going North.

"Maybe you noticed those billboards along the road, advertising money to loan on automobiles."

That advertising is for the people going North. They go South with money in their pockets and go North with a pain in the neck.

"I'd like to know how much of my clam chowder is bought with money borrowed on automobiles."

"I do know that 90 per cent of those who go North complain of losing"—CHURCHILL.
PORTLAND, ORE.

From Aberdeen we again turned the nose of the "Princess" southward and in due time we parked in Portland's swank Im, the Multnomah, as guests of Projectionists Local 159.

Brother J. T. Moore, president of the Portland local, greeted us, and did the honors very well indeed. Having had a very strenuous week I retired for a rest before the lecture, but that untried secretary of mine went out to see the town. Bick was training too hard, even for her, so she and brother Moore stopped in at that modern and beautiful theatre, Tibbetts' Oriental. After enjoying a picture which she said was excellent as to sound, screen illumination and size, she was introduced to the manager, C. F. McFadden.

If what the projectionists say is correct, Mr. McFadden is an exceptionally good manager. He has not made more than two changes in all of his staff since the Oriental opened, and that sounds like cooperation, which is something very many theatres need, and need badly.

Mr. McFadden informed my daughter that he has four outstanding things in his thetre which is to be talked about. Any mother may take her child into that very modern room, containing everything from cribs to shoot-the-chutes, and leave him there un-der the supervision of a competent nurse for the duration of the show. Third on Mr. McFadden's list are his projectionists, and last, but by no means least, his projection room. By no stretch of the imagination could this room be called a "booth." It is 37 feet long by 14 feet wide, with an 18-foot ceiling. Western Electric sound equipment, consisting of one No. 41, one 42 and two 43 amplifiers, is used.

There are two Mogiograph projectors with universal bases. There are two effect projectors, one stereopticon, as well as two flood projectors built by the projection staff, and believe me those boys have made some job of the building. Freddye reflector lamps are used on all except the motion picture projectors, which have the Aschraft H-Low lamps. At the back of the room, which by the way is painted a soft gray and is clean as a Dutch housewife's kitchen, is Freddye enclosed rewind, also a film splicer and foot-age measure. There is a cabinet which holds twenty reels and forty disc records. Two Robbins and Meyers 75-ampere generators are arranged to operate singly or together. Three curtains, as well as sound tract mask, are controlled from the central station of the projection room. Auditorium and stage lights are also handled by remote control from con- trol stations. To handle all of this is Dave I. T. Moore, chief projectionist, I. W. Stuer-hoff, Earl Jayne and William Burt. These

Vancouver House Being Built on "Installment Plan" (Special to the Herald-World)

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 22.—A Theatre is literally being erected on the installment plan here. The structure, which is being built for E. Grecsmiel on Marine Drive, is so planned that a 35-foot addition can be made at the rear when required. The present plans call for an expenditure of $35,000.

Fred Guest, theatre manager at Hamlton, Ont., is erecting a $55,000 house here which will seat 1,250.

men seem to know a good job when they see it, and to do their work well. The screening was well attended. The officers of the union expressed them-

EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD

SOUND REPRODUCTION

F. H. RICHARDSON ON PROJECTION

DOWN ALONG THE WEST COAST

(Continuing Mr. Richardson's report of his trip, which he undertook during the summer in the interests of better projection.)

of the bark is rather smooth and some lies in great corrugations, being evidently at least ten or twelve inches thick.

At one point we left the highway, traveled four miles over a not-so-good road in search of a tree said to be eighteen feet in diam-

F. Lastly we found a small sign reading "The Big Tree," with an arrow pointing out into the big timber. Descending the "Princess," in the dusk of the evening we followed a path through those gigantic trees. In fact we followed several paths but never found the "Big Tree," though we passed under and around and between hundreds of other trees ranging from two to ten feet in diameter. We should say on that walk we saw at least five hundred trees in excess of six feet in diameter and a large number in excess of eight feet.

SACRAMENTO, CAL.

Finally we passed out of the mountains and into the comparatively flat country surrounding the capital city of California. In a country where prohibition is so strictly enforced, we found it hard to understand what all of the headache berries that are grown in this territory could possibly be used for.

At Sacramento we found ourselves very comfortably at the Senator hotel, immediately opposite the beautiful California Capitol building and grounds. Before long, Secretary R. S. Bennett, business manager, also from Local 162, and some of the Sacramento men whose names I have mislaid, were shown in. The meeting was held in a Fox theatre, the name of which I cannot recall. In this theatre I visited the projection room and there found something which has puzzled me considerably. The Simplex projectors are equipped with Ashcraft lamps using 120 amperes, or at least that is my recollection. Anyhow I never in all my experience saw as complete a case of condenser destruction as was in that theatre. Condensers, so the men informed me, would not last more than one hour, and in any event not more than one part of one day. They do not merely crack. They just naturally break all to pieces—almost to the point of pulverization. The men advising me that they had tried using a long or focal length condenser and pulling the lamp back without results. I would like to ask our readers if they have ever encountered such a thing as this, and if so just to what cause it was traced.

The meeting was attended by all the members of the local and many of the managers. The officers of the local afterwards expressed themselves as thoroughly well satisfied with the affair.

Mr. Noriega and Mr. Billingsley expressed their regrets for their inability to be present in San Francisco during my visit, it being necessary for them to attend a state conference in some city about fifty miles from Sacramento.

PRACTICAL ASPECTS OF FILM RECORDING

By A. W. DeSart*

A PRACTICAL consideration of recording is not complete without dwelling on the film itself.

Before the microphones begin to function, it is a matter of outstanding importance that the right sort of stock be selected for recording.

Positive stock is used for recording purposes. This type of film is characterized by a fine emulsion that is sensitive mostly to blue, slightly to green, and very little to yellow.

The celluloid base of this form of raw stock should be, for recording, optically plane and extremely clear. Dirt, scratches or coloring in the celluloid will cause various noises when such stock is used in the photo-electric cell. If the celluloid is not optically plane, there will occur refractions which also give rise to noise.

Likewise, the emulsion must be in a very even layer. Variations in the minute depth of the emulsion bring kindred variations in sound quality. The grains, which comprise the emulsion, must be very fine; the finer the grain, the sharper are the lines which record sound.

Studio laboratories are ordinarily concerned only with the length of development and keeping the developing fluid at its full strength. The reducing agent furnished by the manufacturer of the film is ordinarily used. The process of development is the reduction of silver halide to grains of silver which the manufacturer of the film keeps his emulsion formula secret he is in the best position to know the formula which will best complete the reduction.

In the variable density method of recording on film the exposure is made by a light valve, the light passing through a slit 1/4 in. wide and 100 mills long. Except in news reel cameras the sound track is originally recorded on a separate strip of celluloid. Other sound tracks require special treatment, it is also developed by itself and then put alongside the picture. The development of the sound track is, of course, very important. Whereas the photography of the picture is to be developed only for permanent preservation to secure an artistic level to brightness, the sound track development must be extremely exact. The relationship between exposure and development is particularly important in the variable density method.

The test strip check on development is familiar to all photographers. Strips of film with varying exposures are left in the developing fluid for different lengths of time. A comparison of the two or three will thus serve as a check during the developing process. The gamma control used for sound track is simply a refinement of the test strip check. The contrast is measured by an optical instrument instead of the eye.

When the contrast is too high the little detail lines of high frequency sound are lost. The bass is heavy and the higher sounds distorted. When the contrast is too low there is little detail in the bass and while the higher tones are of fair quality they also lose in volume.

The method of sound recording has, of course, advantages and disadvantages. Disc recording for instance uses comparatively direct and mechanical methods for translating sound to the record. The chemical steps in film development are complex but, when the film is once in synchronism, it is not easily thrown off.

One useful method of sound track on film is that it can be handled almost as easily in the cutting room as the picture itself. It is possible to select the best parts from several different sound tracks and cut them together without dubbing.

Figure 1 is a rough sketch of different sound tracks, all covering the same scene. Track 7 shows how the best parts of the different tracks assembled to secure the best quality. Of course, this does not apply to musical sound track because a note might be split in half, but in straight dialogue the film can be assembled at will. It is even possible to take parts of syllables of a word and cut them together.

The dummy gun of a battlefield on the stage need only spurt a small charge of black powder. The actual roar of a coast defense gun recorded previously and filed in the library can be cut in at the right place.

Another useful characteristic of sound on film from the laboratory standpoint is that the sound track is an invisible agent in the printing process. The level among scenes shot at different locations and times will vary but if the volume control of level is often an important asset.

A double monitoring system provides additional control over sound recording on film. As the light passes through the film in the recorder it falls on a photoelectric cell which again converts it into electric impulses. These are amplified to a horn in the monitor room. This gives the mixer an overall check on his recording equipment: microphone, amplifiers, and spacing and tuning of the light valve. As the mixer has a direct monitoring system also, he can compare the overall quality with the sound taken from the bridging amplifiers before it strikes the valve.

For the proper maintenance or our film recorders it was found necessary for the sound department to receive the sound track with picture direct from the laboratory; that is, the sound department representative sees the picture and hears the sound track before directors, cutters, etc. Some one in our sound department sees and hears all takes of every scene and each sound track on one projection machine that is carefully maintained to give good quality. This gives a practical test every day of the emulsion of each recording machine. It has been found that some one machine may make ten or twenty good takes and then possibly a poor one. Of course, it is necessary to have the picture with sound track in order to see that the sound has the proper overtones. It is much easier to judge sound except with the picture to judge whether it is the right volume and quality. For instance, sometimes volume goes extremely high or extremely low. By watching the picture this can be caught if it was unintentional. The film inspectors daily find things that should be reported to the recording department and this practice has been a great help in reducing the number of recording failures which now occur very seldom.

Another thing that is extremely important to the sound department, and also to the em- porium of the studio, is the testing of each one's ears. It has been found that some individuals cannot hear very many high frequencies, also they are slightly deaf. Some of them have very sensitive hear—hearing as high a frequency as 20,000 cycles per second. The person with the type of ear which hears such high frequencies can detect and will be very much annoyed by rasps or distortion. The person who cannot hear the high frequencies so well usually likes a recording that has lots of high frequencies whether good or not, claiming it is more pleasing, because he cannot hear distortion in this range. Therefore, it should be the duty of every sound department to test the ears of every individual who is called on to judge sound including every studio executive, and know how to be a capable of judging sound track that is pleasing and satisfactory to the public in the theaters. This information should be on file so that individual criticisms of sound can be interpreted intelligently.

This program amounts to calibrating the ears of every individual concerned so that he can use them as an instrument, knowing his limitations, to further the art of sound recording.

Copyright, 1930, by Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. Printed in U. S. A.

PRACTICAL ASPECTS OF FILM RECORDING, by A. W. DeSart. Paper based upon lecture-delivered at School in Fundamentals of Sound Reproduction at the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, Hollywood, 1929. (B.Dc)

Four More Theatres Get Berliner Acoustic Sets

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The Mount Eden theatre in the Bronx has contracted for installation of the Berliner Acoustic System for Lawrence Bolognino's Consolidated Amusement Company.

Other recent Berliner installations include the Cosmo theatre here; Byrd theatre, Chicago; and Jack Buchanan's Leicester Square theatre, London.

Klein Sells Spanish Talker

Rights in Brazil, Porto Rico

Exhibition rights to "Alma de Gaucho," a new all-Spanish dialog feature, have been sold for the territories of Brazil and Porto Rico, it has been announced by the Edward L. Klein Corporation of New York, which is in charge of distribution throughout the world.

Negotiations are now pending for the sale of rights of this other Spanish speaking territories for the film, which features Mona Rico and Manuel Granado.

Warner Secures Gibb's Best Seller

NEW YORK—Warner Brothers have secured the screen rights to "Chances," the current best seller from the pen of A. Hamilton Gibbs.

*Technical Director of Sound, Paramount-Famous-Lucky West Coast Studios. Nineteenth paper of Technical Digest.
BOX OFFICE PROMOTION

House Organ Hundred Issues Young Today And It's Still Going Strong!

House organs have won a place in the regular exploitation program of many theatres because they are inexpensive and because they place complete information before the patron perhaps better than many display ads do. The question of the house organ's effectiveness naturally depends largely upon the way it is handled. A few clever quips, stories on local events, and little human interest items do much to make the theatre bulletin readable.

Investigation has showed that where a live, readable house organ is issued by a theatre, there are many families who peruse it in its entirety. In spite of our so-called "educated" age, there are still homes which have few books and no newspapers. True enough, the exhibitor doesn't want to appeal only to these people, but he doesn't need to. Once established, a house organ will find readers in a good percentage of the homes.

Sends House Organ from England

The Box Office Promotion department received this week a copy of an English house organ. It has been in circulation for slightly over eight years. Each year it has grown in popularity. This is the statement of Tom H. Scott, editor of the little bulletin and manager of the Queen's Hall theatre, Hexham, Northumberland county, England. It is called the "Tyndale Tatler." The October issue is especially noteworthy in that it is the one hundredth edition.

It is not large, only four inches wide and five and one-half inches high, but it contains interesting comment on city events and coming pictures at the theatre, as well as a good amount of advertising.

In his centenary edition of the monthly bulletin, Scott has written a summary of the house organ's history. Maybe it will give others a few pointers, both on the publication itself and on Scott's other promotional activities.

Quoting in part:

His Centenary Edition

"With this issue of the 'Tatler' we have entered the score board 100. It was in August, 1922, that the 'Tatler' first made its appearance and since that date I have had an abundance of evidence to show that it is highly appreciated by a large number of our patrons. During the years it has been in circulation, I have received hundreds of letters from readers and I am pleased to say that, in almost every instance, our little house organ is liked and looked forward to every month.

"I may say that at the present time 3,500 are distributed every month, and of this number, over 800 are now on our mailing list, and should you know of any friends who are interested in our entertainments, who would like to receive our house organ each month, I shall be pleased to either post or deliver one on hearing from you.

"It was on March 14, 1921, that the Queen's Picture House was formally opened to the public of Hexham and surrounding territory. We took the old Town Hall and converted it into a theatre. It was a big step in those days, but with its comfortable seating, good projection and ventilation it supplied the need thoroughly.

"Eleven months after that date, we opened our ballroom. The floor was peculiarly equipped. It became famous as the 'floor with a thousand springs.' Now our ballroom is looked upon as the rendezvous for practically the whole of the social functions of the town.

Next Comes the Cafe

"At a later date, we opened the Queen's Hall Cafe. It has done a steady and increasing business ever since it was opened. Each year we have had a large number of parties, and each and every one has been a walking and talking advertisement for our cafe.

"I am more than delighted that the 'Tatler' has reached its hundredth issue. When I commenced this publication, several of my friends felt inclined to throw water on the project and said that I would soon find that I would be stuck for something to interest patrons after a few months had passed by. "Although the 'Tatler' involves a considerable amount of work on my staff and myself, it is a great delight to know how it is appreciated. My heartfelt thanks and appreciation go forth to all who have helped toward the steady advancement of our places of entertainment..."

This "Rain or Shine" Stunt Required Only a Slicker

All the material it took to exploit "Rain or Shine" in Regina, Sask., was one slicker, half white and half black. Manager O. Borland of the Metropolitan theatre sent a man through the streets wearing the slicker.

On the black side of the raincoat appeared the word "Rain," while on the white half was printed the other half of the title, "Shine." The name of the theatre was sketched about the lower edge of the man's coat. He wore one black boot and one white one.

The Rialto theatre, Williamsport, Pa., advertised First National's "Dawn Patrol" in a big way with the huge poster above. Notice its size in comparison with the 24-sheet at the lower right. It was put together in twenty sections.
Santa Fe Railway, Ex-Service Men Tie Up to Exploit Films for Palace

Albert Knopp, director of publicity at the Palace theatre Fredericksburg, Texas, writes to the Box Office Promotion department to tell of tieups he made on two pictures. One of these was "The Santa Fe Trail," for which he effected a hook-up with the Santa Fe railroad; the other was "All Quiet on the Western Front," which ex-service men cooperated to exploit.

Knopp's letter tells the story better than we can re-tell it:

"Your ideas are always interesting. I am sending you some of mine. We recently made a tieup with Santa Fe railroad, whereby that company provided us with books, maps, folders, time tables and other information and advertising on the scenic beauty of the Southwest.

"We distributed this data together with our regular announcement circulars on The Santa Fe Trail. The same material was also distributed at the theatre. All theatre circulars on the picture carried this line at the bottom, 'On your next trip ride the Santa Fe railroad.'

"I am also sending you a copy of the circular I used for 'All Quiet on the Western Front.' Three weeks in advance, I obtained photographs of all ex-service men in Fredericksburg and displayed them in a large framed layout in the lobby. This attracted more attention than anything I ever saw. People stopped to look at the pictures who had never stopped at the theatre before.

"One of the photographs in the exhibit was of the first Texas army officer killed in France, who happened to be from this town. I prepared a little caption under his picture which read, 'First Lieutenant Louis Jordan whose honor the local post of the American Legion was named and the first Texas officer killed on THE WESTERN FRONT! The above statement is correct.'

100 Cowboys Revive Old Days in Houston For "Santa Fe Trail"

When "The Santa Fe Trail" opened at the Kirby theatre in Houston, everybody thought the whole western country and all its cowboys had come to town.

Where they came from no one knew, but on the opening day of the showing, 100 cowpunchers rode into town on their mustangs and pistols and parked outside the Kirby theatre. Lester Everett, assistant manager, arranged the stunt.

The cowboys, in their western togs, assembled at Sam Houston park near the theatre. From the park they rode their ponies through the business district and to the Kirby where police had roped off an area in front of the theatre.

The horses were corralled here and the cowpunchers strode into the house as guests of the management to see the picture. Just the sensationalism alone was enough to put this stunt across, for even in Houston it was a little out of the ordinary to see 100 cowboys together at one time.

Warners Capitalize On Captive Whale in N. Y. for "Moby Dick"

Warners Brothers is capitalizing on the presence in New York City of a captive whale known as "Colossus" to exploit the John Barrymore picture "Moby Dick."

A lecturer gives an address every half hour at Ninety-sixth street and Riverside Drive, where the captive whale is kept. Warner has negotiated for the hanging of a 30 by 40 foot colored enlargement of John Barrymore, hanging in hand, above the head of the lecturer. On this banner are foot-high letters stating that "Moby Dick" is an authentic drama of the whale hunt.

The lecturer is cooperating by mentioning the Barrymore picture to his audiences, giving it an excellent plug. A truck parades up and down Broadway and other principal streets with 24-sheet advertising on the "Colossus" exhibit and a 4-sheet on the picture.

Stills of the whale's capture are displayed in the inner lobby at both the Strand and Beacon theatres and a 16 mm. film of the episode is projected on the screen.

Readers' Knowledge Is Tested in News Tieup on "Half Shot at Sunrise"

John Scharnberg, manager of the RKO Capitol theatre, Milwaukee, made this tieup with the Wisconsin State Journal to exploit "Half Shot at Sunrise".

Ten questions were to be answered in a contest sponsored by the newspaper. Each referred to some department of the State Journal. For example, one question asked the reader's opinion as to the best column writer. The winning columnist played this up in his column, while the contest as a whole came in for much ink in other sections of the paper.

Winners were given "Half Shot at Sunrise" lamps of special design and also duets to the Capitol.

Thompson in Newspaper Work Now at Adams, Wis.

Ken Thompson, writer of that excellent article in the October 11th issue on the small town theatre, is now in newspaper work at Adams, Wis., he tells us, not at the Hancock theatre, as we had understood. He is in the motion picture business for years, and it will pay you to reread his article which appeared in the Box Office Promotion department.

Houses in New York State Vie for Quebec Attendance

Theatres in New York state adjacent to the international boundary are making a strong bid for juvenile patronage from the province of Quebec, where children are barred from all motion picture theatres by the government.

The Ideal theatre in Fort Edward, and the Grand at Malone, both in New York, are buying advertising space in newspapers on the Quebec side. The Ideal has been drawing particular attention to its 10-cent admission fee for children.

Auto Turns Airplane in Twist of Smart Ballyhoo

No one but an exploitation man could make an airplane out of an automobile. That is exactly what the promotion staff of the R and R theatre circuit in Dallas did for showings of "Dawn Patrol."

An Austin car was used for the stunt and decorated and harnessed to represent a plane. On the machine were banners giving all necessary data on the picture and playing dates.
Pick Out the Ad You Consider the Best

Advertising An RKO Comedy

STATE-LAKE

BERT Wheeler and Robert Woolsey in "Half Shot at Sunrise" is the first of a series of tremendous talking screen productions scheduled to run in this theatre. In the future the entertainments will consist SOLELY of the extended run showing of the most important talking picture produced.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST LAUGH TEAM--LOOSE AGAIN!

In the Love and Longing Bath of Guy F. Perez...and to make Harry...or Mike... or any MADONNA four from Armonk...you'll turn at these bandleader veterans of laughter and broadside...on French Leave...with French Dames...running Paris Avenue...white and they bounce belly laughs off the Edith Tower...while the big guns beam a bombshell of HUMOR.

DO yourself a laugh-proof trench...

The boys who doubled you with laughter in "The Blues," and cracked your funny bone in "The Cuckoo" are here again in the screen's maddest madcap picture.

SEW YOUR BUTTONS ON TIGHT...NO!--ALLOW THEM...THESE LAUGHS LAND RIGHT WHERE THEY BELONG.

STATE-LAKE

This theatre becomes the releasing point for all of the biggest productions from the studios of Hollywood. Its entertainment will consist SOLELY of the extended run showing of attractions that reach the greatest heights of talking picture production.

THE very magnificently dedicated and able RKO staff has, with all of its necessary backing, set the pace for such a programme.

To the fans of the Silver Screen this theatre is a tremendously welcome addition.

STATE-LAKE

STILLMAN THEATRE

Has Big Bull Market
On "Caught Short"

George Gilliam, manager of Loew's Stillman house, Cleveland, gave his patrons an explanation of a la stock exchange in a campaign for "Caught Short.

A Western Union ticker was placed in the lobby and a uniformed messenger boy handed patrons tape from the machine, which carried appropriate copy. A placard held the announcement: ""Caught Short."

One hundred fifty cards with the message, "A sure tip. Go bullish on laughter, preferred, and see Marie Dressler and Polly Moran in "Caught Short."'-were placed on blackboards in stock brokers' offices.

Two girls distributed 5,000 imitation greenbacks. These were crumpled and dropped on sidewalks and into offices, giving the appearance of actual money.

Curiosity Seekers
Pack Theatre When Grid Team Attends

The management of the Orpheum theatre, Oakland, Cal., made a 10-strike when it invited Clarence "Niles" Price Stillman, university of California football squad to see the special Knute Rockne football film. The picture gives technical points on the game and similar information which is naturally especially interesting to a gridiron coach and his squad.

When the acceptance had been received, the next step was to promote some ballyhoo. Newspapers were given information on the event and ate it up hungrily, running prominently played stories in their sports sections.

Posters also announced that the University of California squad would be present and when the designated time arrived, there was more than a capacity house of curious people, many of whom came more to see the team than the film.

Fresno Merchants Assist
Warner Theatre in Making "Office Wife" a Success

Warner Brothers theatre, Fresno, Cal., had tieups with restaurants, candy shops, furniture stores and printing plants for its showing of "Office Wife."

Cooperative advertising was one of the features of the campaign. The ads of each firm emphasized the satisfaction wives should receive from trading at their stores with allusions to the picture.

A streamer spread across the top of such ad pages asked: "What Is an Office Wife?"

Pathe Produces Special
News Film on R-101 Wreck

Pathe News has issued a special on the wreck of the British air liner, R-101, which includes closeups of the smoking engine room, motor gondolas and the ensign who escaped death in the crash.

The short picture has sound accompanied by verbal description. The prints arrived in New York aboard the Leviathan. Five hours after their arrival they were showing in the theatres on Broadway. Prints were also dispatched throughout the country at the same time.
Indiana Theatre Ballroom
Has Oldtime Barn Dance
In Impressive Fall Setting

Tom Devine, manager of the Indiana theatre's roof ballroom at Indianapolis, made a big hit with patrons recently when he promoted an old fashioned barn dance. A typical fall setting was prepared, with cornstalks, pumpkins and so on. Harvest games were played in between times.

A "hay scramble" for girls was one of the features. An oldtime riders' contest was another part of the program.

The ballroom is continuing its dancing courses, with Monday night classes for beginners and Thursday night classes for the advanced steppers. Jack Broderic is the director.

Flares Burn on Theatre
Roof in "All Quiet" Exploit

Red flares, burning on the roof of the Grand theatre, told London, Ont., in "glowing terms" that "All Quiet on the Western Front" was showing there. High above, the brilliant flares floated a captive balloon bearing references to the picture.

At night, the illumination could be seen for many miles, it is said. J. R. Minihinkle is manager of the Grand.

"BUILDING THEATRE PATRONAGE"

(Only $5.20 mailed to your door)

CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO.
516 Fifth Avenue New York City

"The Bad One" was a good one for a tieup. Manager Warren A. Sree of the Colonial theatre, Allentown, Pa., decided. When this United Artists picture starring Edmund Lowe and Dolores Del Rio came to his house he engineered a hookup with Western Union with the above result.

Wee Doggies and Mighty Mastiffs, 50 of Them, Bark for Rin Tin Tin

He hadn't quite figured that it would turn out to be a dog show. No, sir, Clair W. Trout, manager of the Refowich theatre, Schuylkill Haven, Pa., didn't think it would go that far. But it did.

Here is how it happened. Trout set out to exploit the serial picture, "The Lone Defender," in which the famous dog, Rin Tin Tin, is starred. He invited all the children in town who had dogs to bring them to the theatre, promising a free admission to each child with a canine.

Dogdom on Parade

Dogs and more dogs came. He organized a parade. There were over 50 dogs—led, pulled, carried in arms or pushed in wheeled vehicles by their proud masters and mistresses. There were tiny doggies and great mastiffs, mongrels and thoroughbreds. Most of them were decked out in ribbons and smart collars.

Dogdom of the city was on parade. It was a show—nothing less. At the end of the parade Trout awarded a prize to the dog which resembled Rin Tin Tin. Another award was given for the largest animal in the procession; another for the smallest; another for the most beautiful, and still another for the funniest costumed dog.

High School Band Leads

The local high school band led the parade. When the line returned to the theatre, there were more parents than children who came in to see the show. Each parent meant a paid admission. The theatre was crowded for the performance, relates Trout in his letter.

Such a dog festival would hardly be complete without an appropriate number of dog-fights, and there undoubtedly were some. (We don't know how many because Trout didn't tell us.)

Anyway, everybody went home happy and the newspaper was happy, too, for it got a nice long story.

Winnipeg Capitol Makes
Putt-Putt Tieup on Golf Film

Walter F. Davis, manager of the Capitol theatre, Winnipeg, tied up with a local miniature golf course for his showing of the golf picture, "Follow That." Special hazards were erected on the links bearing the name of the film. Wherever the word "Follow" appeared, there were improvised holes in the letter "o", through which players had to shoot the ball. The stunt cost Davis nothing.
Do You Know That:

More than $100,000 are being spent on remodeling:

The Greater Des Moines is being re-tiled, re-decorated, re-furnished, and re-built for perfect sound?

A $50,000 cooling system makes it an oasis in the desert?

Outstanding pictures will be yours to see?

Sloping seats are gone forever?

There will be an enlarged screen, a new canopy, and two new projection machines?

"MANSLAUGHTER" is the opening presentation Fri., Aug. 8th?

Facts on the reconstruction of the Paramount Des Moines theatre at Des Moines are nicely summed up and interestingly worded in this ad which the publicity department recently used.

Show Tickets Given
Players Who Shoot Par on Putt-Pouts

There is evidently the utmost good fellowship between operators of theatres and of minor league football courses in Cleveland. Everyone wants to help everyone else, and the one lends a helping hand to the other.

When a player makes his round in par on one of the small links in the city he is rewarded with passes to Low's State theatre.

Samford Farkus, manager, placed a sign to that effect on one of the courses and has found that it has done him no harm at all. Another stunt Farkus tried was to tie up with a local electric company which placed a screen and talking picture set in the lobby to give the public a glimpse of how recording and photographing are done in film production. In addition, several reels of titles were made up reading: "The Sims of the Children," Low's State theatre. These were distributed to patrons.

Donates Sports Trophy
Clarence Markell, manager of the Capitol theatre, Cornwall, Ont., donated an award called the Capitol Theatre Trophy for the ladies' championship of the Intercollegiate Track and Field Sports tournament at Cornwall. The cup was won by Lissag College of Ottawa.

where, had a streamer across the top reading: "These Specials on Sale Monday, Rain or Shine. And You'll Enjoy 'Rain or Shine' at the Brown Theatre All This Week."

In Slickers for "Rain or Shine"

Getting off to a good start is important in a horse race. Making a fast take-off is essential in an airplane derby. And opening with a vigorous first thrust is just as necessary in a good exploitation campaign.

Harry J. Martin, manager of the Brown theatre at Louisville, exploded a stunt on the first day of his "Rain or Shine" showing that assured success throughout the week that it was on the Brown theatre's screen.

For the first showing of the film, Manager Martin had a "slicker matinee." Through advertisements, youngsters were informed they would be admitted free at the Saturday morning showing if they carried a slicker or raincoat. All kiddies under 12 years were included. When time came for the theatre to open, there were more than 1,000 children waiting to be admitted. It so happened that it was a nice, balmy and bright day. But that didn't matter. Slickers were the order and everybody had them.

When all had assembled at the front of the theatre, a parade was organized and the juveniles marched through the streets with a motor calliope leading the way. With each of the kiddies wearing slickers the parade made a sight worth seeing for the townpeople. Some of the slickers were yellow, some green, some black, some red and so on. Many of them apparently belonged to older brothers and sisters and were twice too large for their weathers, but that only made the parade funnier.

But Manager Martin went further than simply staging a slicker matinee. He negotiated a tip with a newspaper which carried a section of cooperative advertising. Each ad in the section plugged the picture and each of the merchants featured a group of special bargains on the opening day of the picture. Customers who bought a certain amount of goods were given tickets to the theatre.

The cooperative ad section, illustrated else-
THE SHORT FEATURE

Louis Simon to Star in Stark's New Simple Simon Comedies

Louis Simon, stage and screen comedian who last appeared for Pathe, will be the star of a series of two-reel talking comedies to be produced by Simple Simon Comedies, Inc., organized by Mack Stark, formerly head of the music sales department of Paramount-Publix.

With headquarters in New York and production at the Audio Cinema Studios in the Bronx, the company is ready to produce 18 comedies this season. Ben Bloomfield has been engaged as production manager.

Kiddies Bring Broken Toys: Firemen Fix 'Em Up for Charity

A. P. Drohan, manager of the Capitol theatre, Chatham, Ont., has launched a drive for greater juvenile attendance. One of his stunts is the presentation of kiddie matinees every Saturday morning and afternoon.

At one of these matinees all the admission credentials required was broken toys. Each child who had one was admitted. The broken toys were taken up and turned over to the fire department. The firemen, in turn, are repairing them and preparing them for distribution at Christmas to poor families in the city.

School children are attending the matinees in large numbers as a result of this enterprise. And Drohan is getting credit for a civic stunt that is really worthwhile.

He has booked the talking serial, "Tarzan the Tiger," for the special Saturday showings. When he started the children's matinees, he distributed 2,500 blotters at the schools. The cost of these was $9.30.

'Indians Are Coming' To Winnipeg House On First Run Basis

The Province theatre, Winnipeg, Canada, has been added to the list of first run houses which have booked Universal's serial "The Indians Are Coming." This is understood to be not only the first time this theatre has booked a serial, but also the first serial ever to play the city on a first run basis.

Ottawa Journal Publishes Eight-Page Ad Section for Canada Prosperity Week

A feature of the Canadian Prosperity Week promoted by the Famous Players Canadian Corporation this month was an eight-page ad section published in the Ottawa (Ont.) Journal.

Twenty-nine business houses of the capital city cooperated in the advertising. The section also contained optimistic messages from the federal government, civic leaders and Board of Trade members.

Joe Franklin of B. F. Keith's theatre and Ray Tulman, connected with the Regent and Imperial houses, sponsored the prosperity drive in Ottawa.

National Screen Makes Silent and Sound-on-Film Trailers for Armistice Day

Announcement has been made by National Screen Service of New York of the completion of two presentations for Armistice Day. One is silent and the other sound-on-film.

Historic events of the period from 1914 to 1918 are summarized in a memorial way in the trailers. Editorial treatment reviews the struggle for world peace. Appropriate pictorial settings appear in the background as silhouettes. Both trailers are short subjects.
Patrons Want Something Different

MUSIC AND TALENT

Are Fed Up On Seeing Merely Film Programs

Louisville Theatregoers Quoted in Editorial Columns as Ready for Stage Presentations (Special to the Herald-World)

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 23.—Over a year has passed, during which time there has been little or no vaudeville, burlesque, stock, musical comedy or stage presentations of any kind here, and theatre patrons of this city have been quoted many times in the editorial columns of the local newspapers as desiring something different, by which is meant, undoubtedly, that they would like to have the straight fare of just pictures interspersed with a personal touch through the medium of stage shows.

However, as a possible indication of the stage show's return, the National theatre, which has been dark for two years, or since the Keith interests, which had it under lease, closed it with the idea of enlarging business at the Rialto, and also the Majestic and Mary Anderson theatres, also operated by Keith, is to be opened on November 1, according to Abe Bass, Bass is the owner of the property, who is said to have recently reached an agreement with the Keith interests, whereby the lease is reported to have been surrendered to him.

He also stated that the policy of the house will be announced shortly, but as an indication of what might be expected, said that he plans mixed programs, which will include pictures and stage attractions. It was also reported at his office that contracts had been placed for the necessary equipment, redecorating and renovating and that the National Amusement company would operate the house.

Change in Policy in Toledo RKO Houses

TOLEDO, Oct. 23.—A decided change in policy has been inaugurated at the RKO houses here. The Rivoli, recently opened, started with vaudeville together with an average picture, while the really big pictures were shown at the RKO Palace, which opened at the same time. Under the new management, the outstanding pictures will be shown at the Rivoli in connection with vaudeville, while the pictures of lesser merit will be shown at the Palace.

Much experience lies behind the boyish smile of Earle Estes, as is attested to by his masterly renditions upon the organ. He is at present "organizing" at the Pabst B & K Gateway theatre in Chicago, where his programs are a never failing allure for his patrons. Incidental to rambling over the console, Estes occasionally varies his presentations by playing the saxophone, or accordion, or singing "via" the mike, and from the way his "publique" sing in response to his playing is ample evidence of his popularity.

Earle Estes

Rocco Vocco Is Given Important Executive Post

By ED DAWSON

Rocco Vocco is one young man who did not have to follow Horace Greeley's advice of going west. Vocco was already west about 20 years ago and decided right there and then that he was going to succeed in his home town.

Rocco Vocco today is one of the most admired and respected music executives in the song publishing business. If one were to ask Vocco how he won his success in the music business he would answer in a simple way, "I owe my little success to the great confidence of Leo Feist."

It was the late Leo Feist who recognized the capabilities of Rocco Vocco, about 20 years ago, who was at that time known as Master Rocco, the boy tenor. After singing in theatres throughout Chicago and later appearing with Creator's band and many other nationally known musical organizations, Rocco decided to devote the rest of his life to music, but from the business standpoint more than the artistic. It was at that time that he was put on the staff of the Chicago Leo Feist office, which later won him the position of Professional Manager and General Professional Manager, which position he held for 10 years.

Leaves Chicago Position

When the theme song "Bug" struck the motion picture industry, Leo Feist, Inc., one of the pioneers in the popular song field, decided that affiliation with a leading motion picture producing company would be advantageous and with the forming of the Radio Music Company about a year ago, Rocco Vocco was brought on from Chicago for a most important position.

At a recent meeting of the board of directors, the Radio Music Company, a subsidiary of the Radio Corporation of America, and the holding company for National Broadcasting Co., Leo Feist, Inc., Carl Fischer, Inc., and Davis, Coats and Engel, Inc., appointed Rocco Vocco General Exploitation Manager as well as assistant to the President and General Professional Manager. In this new executive capacity Vocco will not only arrange the exploitation of the various compositions of the different concerns but will also actually supervise the selection of new songs and their proper handling.

There is hardly a man or a woman, and that also takes in the young as well as the old, in the theatrical world who does not know and love Rocco Vocco. He is one executive who has made friends and kept them.

UNIFORMS FOR HOUSE ATTACHES

COSTUMES FOR STAGE PRESENTATIONS

BROOKS 1437 B'way N. Y. City
EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD

STAGE SHOWS

Detroit Fox

Week Ending October 23

Frit Dersey, one of "Those Three French Girls," headlines the stage show at the Fox this week, and if presenters are to be believed, by popular demand, for a second week. The F. & M. "Country Club" idea is the background for the second anniversary show from start to finish. It is no wonder that the customers have been checking into it off an hour ago.

Frit makes her second personal appearance on the Fox stage at this time. The first time she was far from being a success, but this time, she has the male and female element calling for more of her clever little French songs, during one of which she proceed to rip the wardrobe off Sam Jack Kaufman, master of ceremonies.

The balance of the show is of unusually high merit, from Ray Sansella, a hooper of no mean ability, on down to the 28 seductive zumba stunts. Leonard Clark, a prima donna, has a voice which is unusually nise to hear, and her numbers have been well-chosen. Frank Elsner, a baritone, gets his share of the program over in a good style. McGrath and Deeds, a two-man comedy offering, and Masters and Gracey, a man and woman offering a humorously funny golf skit.

Koffman, as usual, has his audience with him from his first appearance, and his direction of the Jazz-somale Kings leaves nothing to be desired. The program is not overlong, so anybody who brings with him, so that the ads which specify "a vocal chorus of 8,000 do not lie.

"Sootland," the screen offering, is shown on the huge 27 by 46-foot screen with telling effect, though the figures are rather hard to follow when one sits close to the screen.

Chicago Oriental

Week Ending October 23

"Don't Weaken," the title of the new presentation at this theatre, served as a vehicle for Charlie Craft, the "angel" master of ceremonies. In which his show Steve, towards, to say nothing of the requests that he gets each week. Of course, Charlie is on the stage most of the time during the stage show, but when he appears, ready to swing, everybody gets all set for a treat and Charlie never disappoints them.

The opening act was the Lambert ballet in a fast tap, during which Mrs. "Tex" McLeod did a special tap that had been followed by the Three Jacobs, who indulged in a bit of modernistic tap routine that pleased as a million and called for even more. These three boys are certainly nimble on their feet, and when you think of all the practice it must have taken to become thus perfect, well it's just too much to think about, that's all.

Then "Babe" Kane showed up on the stage, and sang a song that nobody had ever heard of and the audience liked. Staying right on into the production numbers, which was filled with color while the ballet appeared to do the Rumba dance. And what a dance! It seemed for a minute that the Oriental had been transformed or that somehow or other a mistake had been made and the audience had gotten into a house—house instead, but it was well done, despite the fact that a good many people were heard to remark about it later, after the performance.

"Tex" McLeod came out with his rope, and pulling a similar stunt to Will Rogers' act, he discovered upon the lloop of threads of Chicago and sundry other things. The act was a hit, but the finale, in which he and Mrs. McLeod did a little dance while the jingle was circling all around them made up for it.

Charlie then sang his songs, which were "I'm Young" and "If I Could Be With You," which drew plenty of applause, and he encored with "Maybe It's Love," which is sure to be getting quite a hold on everybody. In fact, Charlie used it for the song he sang in the finale, during which the act appears with a little-colored ball that does a charming little dance, while the Three Jacks strut their stuff almost on the footlights, and with the last tap, the curtain falls.

New York Paramount

Week Ending October 23

This week's stage-show featured two well-known comedians, C. Frank Carroll, Paramount's "Sweetie," and Rudy Vaile, the Flapper's Delight. (Vaille, incidentally, is also featured at the Brooklyn Paramount in his show, but is used here to introduce Miss Carroll). Naturally, two of the country's most liked performers are making them in at every performance. The show, "Putt-Putt," is really more incidentally this week the necessary, presumably the entire audience having come for the specific purpose of seeing Miss Carroll, but a show was necessary, so Boris Petroff conceived the idea of having a miniature golf background to the stage show. This opened with Frankie Jenkins (the new master of ceremonies), the man who appears able to do anything, but who isn't given a chance, introducing each of the players, who offer a dance specialty. At the finish of their solo dances, they, altogether, do a novel and entertaining dance routine in which a whole golf club plays a large part.

Grace Johnson, in a pleasing medium blues voice, sings two numbers, "If I Could Be With You" and "Sling You Sinners," and presumably is followed by Fevis, an agile and dexterous Jupiter of balls and sticks. Jenkins, who has a very pleasing speaking voice, sings about the origin of golf and then introduces the Scotch Lasses, who please with a well-executed tap routine. Hanbury and Perival, man and girl, follow with an act of singing by Miss Perival and one of the funniest rope acts by Hunter, who is an Italian dialect comedian, that this reviewer has ever seen. He had the audience roaring with laughter all during his act. Andy thereby, to a tremendous reception from the audience and after doing their songs which have lately been associated with Nancy Carroll in her pictures, introduces Miss Carroll, who is first seen on the screen in a dressing room scene. Vaile talks to her from the stage and she answers from the screen. This repartee is culminated by Miss Carroll's entrance through the screen onto the stage by her saying that she had just run all the way from California to New York to keep her appointment. The tremendous ovation accorded her was ample proof of her popularity. Her performance consisted of her singing "Sweter Than Sweet," leading the Dale Gould Girls in a well-done dance routine, a strut-tap dance with the Lathrop Brothers, leading the band and a most realistic impersonation of Rudy Singler's "Little Kiss Each Morning." Miss Carroll was the whole show and took all honors.

Milwaukee Wisconsin

Week Ending October 16

"A Sentimental Symphony" arranged by Billy Pierce and played by the Joyboys under the direction of Jimmy Innes serves as a prelude to Fanchon & Marco's "Calee" Idea. Selectors in the symphony include "I Love You Truly," "You Are My Song of Love," and "I Love You." The mixed chorus of twenty-three in West Point uniforms have certainly got their steps before a stone wall setting. Two male members of the contingent step at a snappy pace of tap dancing to the tune of "Should I Reveal." The Milwaukee Sislers set an fast and furious pace with some engaging dance steps as well as several tumbling stunts. They are followed by Rogan & Trigger, comedy trickers, who tumble about with vim and vigor.

Mabel & Marcia sing "It Happened in Old Montery" in a pretty manner, while the Mile Sisters perform some different steps attired in green dresses and carrying red plumes. The next number of the chorus finds them dressed in white costumes, the male members in bellhop uniforms and the girls in white and yellow dresses. Following this episode, an announcement young man plays "State and Stripes Forever" on the ukulele in a creditable manner.

Born & Lawrence again garner many laughs with their singing of "A Man" and "Old Miner's Stream" with feeling and motions. For the finale the chorus in Blue Devil uniforms does a routine dance after which the back curtain is raised disclosing a trench sitting behind which they carry white shot guns which knock back stage.

New Orleans Saenger

Week Ending October 17

Benny Ross has come and conquered patrons of the Saenger, and promises to make ever a greater hit than any of his predecessors. Benny is not a tall fellow—fat and dumpy as it were and pleasant to look at (stealng the thunder of a well-known advertised cigarette). Ross is a singer, vocalist, as the gentle

Chorus Sets

Ready

"LAUGHING AT LIFE"

"ONLY A MIDNIGHT ADVENTURE"

Our Catalogue leaders

and

The sensational KISS WALTZ

from

Warner Bros. "Dancing Sweeties"

Also

"TOMORROW IS ANOTHER DAY"

Al Jolson's big song from "Big Boy"

"NOBODY CARES IF I'M BLUE"

from

Warner Bros. "Bright Lights"

2 Sure Ones to Get 'em Singin'

(Continued on next page, column 2)
Before the Mike

By DOBBY MELLIN

Six months' silence broken! Again Paul Whitean fans may hear the "King of Jazz" and his world-famous band on the air. After refusing consistently for six months to broadcast over even the more prominent radio stations in the country, Whitean has relented and since his grand opening of the fall season has been heard steadily. Orchestras in Boston, Chicago, New York, and Los Angeles have all been playing nightly over WBBM. The King's Jesters, four versatile instrumentalists who, among other things, provide featured instrumental numbers, are being heard in Chicago for the first time.

Ted Hediger, young NBC announcer whose work on Flohrstein Frolics and other Chicago broadcasts is rapidly winning country-wide recognition among radio listeners, was late to rehearsal for the first time in his short career during Whitean's first week in new-studios recently. But his excuse was well-liked. He explained that he had been in the building on time, but in looking for his car, missing the bus, his notes had been left in the maze of corridors and rooms of the vast new NBC quarters on top of the Merchandise Mart.

Three years ago, Charlie Haup, the "Quaker Early Bird," was working in San Francisco with a toast-paste account over the radio. He left this to appear in a theater there, and his place was taken for the period by Jean Paul King, then in radio work on the west coast. It was at this time that he walked into the Chicago NBC studios for his first broadcast, whom he was later to announce his program and King.

Chauncey Parsons, known popularly as "The Magic Tenor," has many distinctions, but one of the peculiarities which his listeners are most interested in is the fact that he was the probable actual headliner on the stage before he deserted his role on the stage for one before the microphone. So great was his confidence in the future of radio that he gave up his business and became a feature entertainer for the NBC. Today the wisdom of his decision is attested to by thousands of fan letters each week.

The secret of Harry Bussinger's unusual sense of rhythm, demonstrated in his role of star tap-drummer and xylophone performer for Hale Hershall, was revealed to us when it was discovered that he never went into the studios without a way of transporting his tricks. Yuletide was the best theory of the opinion that Buddy's jugs move faster than his hands even in xylophone interpretations of the most demanding of modern dance numbers.

A well-known conductor of an important farm program, a violinist of no small reputation ... a very capable arranger of music ... a viola and a piano action ... a leader of orchestras of all types ... a conductor of Chicago Orchestras ... a director of the popular York Assembly Orchestra ... a favorite tenor saxophoneist ... a pleasing manner combined with a skilled ease of business, and you have Harry Kagen, NBC Chicago conductor.

Ben Bernie and his internationally famous orchestra, favorites of radio and stage audiences everywhere throughout Europe and America, have been engaged as the feature of the last six concerts of the Lucien Long, Inc., productions over WBBM. Although not yet reassembled, the young and reproductions formerly presented during this period. Bernie will not set to work until the early rehearsals are ready, and Maurice should really bring some business to this north side event. It is improbable, however, that the popular act of Sherry of Sherry's contract at the above club, he will be replaced by Danny Russo and his Orioles. Danny played with "Maurice.

Lindy Coons in New Post

(Special to the Herald-World)

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 31—The Alamo Dinner Club, formerly a country club recently renamed with Lindy Coons as a promotion, is now in the realm of master of ceremonies and director of the nightly entertainment and floor show.

STAGE SHOWS

(Continued from preceding page, column 2)

San Francisco Fox

Week Ending October 23

This week's stage show at the Fox is Fanchon and Marco's offering "The New Yorker Idea," but Walt Rouster goes all out for his rent and the Fox Concert Orchestra directed by him offers a Techakoy medley, including selections from the Fourth and Fifth Symphonies of a lesser composer. The usual tableau is omitted, but in its place is a futuristic background by the Warren Chetwitts.

The "New Yorker Idea" swings into action when Jackson, of the team of Jackson and Callahan, steps out before the curtain map of Greater New York and credits Leroy Prince for the striking features of the scene and music act. Jackson, "the little girl," are introduced and advised in an original song that they really are not from Broadway, but from all parts of the U. S. A. The "new" stage show is a very attractive offering and features Muriel Striker, who fits in perfectly with the beauty of the scene, waving their fans in unison, the beauty of the scene being heightened by Herman Sweetart and Maurice Callahan.

Jackson and Callahan offer "Bluebeauty," a neat made up of highlights from "Vaudeville" and New York Wintergarden Shows. A wide variety of gags is offered in a short space of time. The Fanchon and Marco Girls present "Contemporary Rhythm," a novelty dance offering, and are followed by Wisty Roberts, who does a dance while skipping rope. The dancing stops would be considered real pedal twisters without the rope work and the combination of the effects of the entire act.

The girls come right back with another novelty dance number, with a leader representing an engine on the stage and surrounded by dancers represented as railroad cars. The show is machine-like, however, and is not of lasting enjoyment. The dance is continued with very good effects, and the girls bring in the audience to a close of the dance as the measure fades away. The act ends.

Jackson announces his contest for the ideal American Girl and Callahan, in feminine attire, comes up from the audience to apply for the honors. A lot of wisecracks and hubub is put over in a manner that pleases.

The girls step out from futuristic cafe fronts and offer ultra modern dances and finally a rear curtain goes up and New York at night is revealed in all its liveliness, jazz, and automobiles. The audience is stirred, and even to the automobile headlight in the streets.

This is a lively stage show with something to sur- prise the entertainers and the audience, and the beauty of real beauty to which Muriel Strapler adds grace and charm.

Omaha Paramount

Week Ending October 8

With Ann Harding in "The Girl of the Golden West" providing the popular picture here this week, Wesley Hallard at the concert and entertainment setting give the production a good start. Featuring the Indian setting is May Button, in Indian maiden costume, appearing in a setting of canvas and water in the curtain background lighting effect, with a lighted campfire, over which hangs a kettle on a tripod, before her, a tepee at her back.

While the organ presentation of "By the Waters of Minnetonka" in previous years prove to be a popular correctly called "An Indian Legend," is getting into swing, the Indian reservation, built on the orchestras pit, slowly rises, in the middle of the show. Indian maiden proves to be a violinist who takes a solo instrument, the organ falling back into oblivion, continuing the Minnetonka strains in variation and leading into the "Love Call."

The color light on the face of the violinist and the other colored lights upon her and the consoles are altogether pleasing. Gradually the reservation fades, with high lights of the native woman upon the screen. The audience has caught the dramatic setup and is waiting with bated breath, as the ladies have been thrown into perfect harmony, proving that they lend themselves perfectly to dramatic appeal. The first of a series of organ presentations of the season at the Paramount is given.

Organ interludes between news of the day read by the female to finish the presentation, and the Surgeon, a soundfilm, the organ happily supplements its chimes to the accompaniment in that portion where Seniori Armsda sings, in the staccato.

Detroit Fisher

Week Ending October 23

"Daffies Follies," the new Public at the Fisher this week, has a good line of entertainment, which is offered under the direction of Sammy Diebler, one of Detroit's favorite masters of ceremony. Dick Henderson is the favorite English entertainer. Probably the most amusing song is the capital of "Wall's," a song which is not different from Broadway, but which has a lot of Broadway and the "Wall's."

Suggested song seems to be a form of Spanish dance and the Grinn Girls, under the direction of Margaret Lowe, have a lot of waltz dances, and the girls have a lot of grace for the tango dances, and the girls have a lot of grace for the tango numbers. A variety of offerings might seem a little more in this department, but it seems to be an attempt to go all the way with the dances. All the takes are fine, and the Fisher Symphony, and an organ and the Detroit Symphony, under Eugene Siegel, round out the list of dancing attractions. Little Tashman and Frank Pay amble across the screen in "The Matrimonial Bed," so-called French farce.

Pittsburgh Enright

Week Ending October 16

Dick Powell, m. c., calls his stage show "Full Follies," and the offerings is a very entertaining one, featured by very lively effects. The Enright Orchestra, eight girls, are augmented by eight static statuesque beauties who form a background while the Rochester girls are in the air with the various ensembles. Noteworthy is the Russian number in which the girls expertly perform the difficult Russian steps. An unhallowed Russian dancer is interjected here and his dancing is above the ordinary.

Maurice Ward, local color man, opens for the evening and late Dorothy Buskey, another local color, makes a hit with imitations of Eddie Cantor and Maurice Chevalier.

Dick gets a big hand when he sings the comic song "Baby, and later leads the band through a novelty called "Uncle Tom's Cabin," in which he reads a brief and humorous synopsis of the famous play while the band plays a series of variations. A lot of music at intervals to illustrate various portions of the story. This is well received.

The bit of the show is the team, Chamberlin and Byrnes, who do a knock 'em down and drag 'em out

(Continued on next page, column 1)
San Antonio Texas
Week Ending October 16

“School Days,” the name of the Public produced stage show unit on the boards at the Texas theatre this week, “Vio” Ireland and his Monarchs of Melody are again seen upon the stage and put some novel ideas into this timely review.

Featured in the acts on this week’s bill of fare is as follows: George Kelly, the Prince of Pan, did several scene numbers that went over well; Helen McFarland, petite miou, showed the natives that she can dance and play the xylophone at the same time; Bob Bigelow, a very clever and talented musician; Lester Rendaire was above the average as an entertainer in his new and extrav- doorance acts which pleased the patrons who in turn responded with a round of applause, and last but not in the city, the Texas Co-Eds, a dozen claus stoppers going through some new dance steps which brought the presentation to a close with all of the acts on the stage setting for the finale.

Ernest Hauser and the Texas Grand Symphony Orchestra, a score selected from the musical comedy, “Rio Rita,” which was warmly received by those who really appreciate classical music.

Kansas City Mainstreet
Week Ending October 10

The K.K.O. bill at the Kansas City radio station has a large list of Kansas fans of Kansas City a treat in the personal appearance of the Roxy Gang, one of the radio groups to gain fame. The four members who appear on the bill are Jeane Gmuert, Adelaide D-lecs, Harry Cline Wright, and John Griffin. The quartetile presents “Songs of Yesterday and Today,” some of which are solo numbers, and some ensemble. Victor Herbert’s “Italian Street Song” is one of the most enjoyable: “Mighty Like a Rose” proves equally as popular. The offering is one of classical numbers and favorites old songs. The act is lavishly staged and very creditably performed, and proves popular with all.

Walter Walters and Company offers a ventrilo- cullian act. A white woman manipulates life-sized dolls and get their full share of the laughs on the program. The act, though an old and familiar one, was put on with unusual reality to render it interesting. This is one act that is laughable in the audience enjoyed as much as their parents did.

Will Higgle’s act is a dancing performance. Higgle dances in a way to bring down much app- lAUSE upon his head. He has one novel number in Russian costume, which he calls an Americanized Russian dance. The assiduing “Revy of Beantown” were five young women who stopped short in a lively manner. They did a rifle drill and an ankle-and-wrist bell number and several others. A dashing and bespangled blonde led the last dance.

Milo, who appeared on the program with such time which he specialized in the same name, came out to be a hobo with a gift at whistling. It was quite a novel number. He could whistle a whole country-side, cows, chickens, birds, hordes, locomotives, as well as a lot of things that are found in the city, namely string quartets and three blowing out. It was a good act.

Detroit Michigan
Week Ending October 18

Working with only a small band and no announce- ments as the result of there being no matter of news in the Detroit section, the “Wynegans” put open in a quaint and pleasing manner. The California Crooners, three sweet-singing chaps of next appear- nce, walking the floor and continue to make their presence known throughout.

Slim Timlin and Company, working blackface, caused in settling a lot of laughs with a series of ancient and proven jokes, rounding out their performance with Slim in the role of a colored

HELLO, EVERYBODY.—Dropped into Harm’s the other day and found Will Rockwell all smiles, in fact even more content than is his wont. Natu- rally I asked why and Will said that the firm never had a show any better than, the present one. I told Will to elucidate and Will elucidated—with the following: Harms, Inc., announce publication of the following: “Those Three French Girls,” which have already demonstrated to preview audiences the real indications of sure-fire hits.

The standard number of the score is “Three Little Words,” by Harry Ruby and Bert Kalman. From the bill there is a feature number, “Nobody Knows But the Lord,” “Old Man Blues” and “Ring Dem Bells.” The last named numbers are by Duke Ellington and Irving Milh. Aside from the merit possessed by the songs themselves it is expected that public interest in Amos ‘n’ Andy will be sold,销售额 will. Will went on and on (I have never seen such enthusiasm), but if I chronicled everything he said about the firm’s songs, I’d fill this column, so I ended up when he wasn’t looking. . Pat J. Flaherty, organiser, vice- president and general manager of the Red Star Music Company, Inc., subsidiary of the Fox Film corpora- tion, who resigned on October 1st, will shortly announce the formation of a new music publishing vent-

The Flaherty firm, it is reported, has secured unlimi- ted financial backing and expects to begin operations with its own executive and managing firm about December 1st. A difference of opinion with Fox executives on the need for a full-scale musical score such as “Swonderly Up.” “Just Imagine” and the forthcoming George and Ira Gershwin film production to De Syrva. Brown’s music publishers, Inc., T. E. Harms, Inc., is be- lieved to have been the reason in back of Mr. Flaherty’s leaving the Fox Film executive, and Bob Miller, band and orchestra manager, have just returned from a flying lecture trip west in the interests of M. Wissner & Sons. Their itinerary included the four large cities between here and Chicago and the elapsed time for the three girls was only three days. . . Bike-Loan, music publishers, have a catalog of fine numbers from the best, I believe, is “Goes E.B. I’m Lonelyman Tonight.” . . . Mickey Guy is the author of both music and lyrics. The fact that after a show closed, the only still lively item on is sometimely demoted by the recent insertion of “So Beats My Heart for You” by the Shebarts in their “Street Singer,” now on the road.

HAVE YOU MET?

Miss Riva Kaye, who is the young lady in charge of the Orange Service Bureau in Dallas, is a recent graduate of the University of Texas, and was born on August 2nd (she loves candy), the per- manency in the world couldn’t get the year from her, and isn’t that just like a woman? Anyway, Riva was born in Baltimore, Md., and received part of her educa- tion in that city and the rest (which is plenty) in New York. Her first try at a job was as a sales person at a Boys’ and Girls’ club, she was assigned as a taste to Lester Shain, who at that time was Special Project Manager for Potel’s. She must have been good, because she worked for him and has been with the firm for the next five years of her life or until the three Sancy brothers decided to put their lot together and open a music publishing firm of their own. Miss Kaye was made the firm’s representative in the early years, as a private secretary to Harry Link. She has been held down that post very well and has recently been promoted to her present position.

EARLE ESTES

Public B & K Gateway Theatre, Chicago

Organ

Microphone

Novelties

Voice

Accordion

The Organist With Not Only "ITT" But "THEM!"
BEST SELLERS

WEEK ENDING OCTOBER 18

No. 1. "Betty Co-ed" (Carl Fischer).
No. 2. "Little White Lies" (Donaldson).
No. 3. "Kiss Waltz" (M. Witmark).
No. 4. "When It's Springtime in the Rockies" (Villa Morel).
No. 5. "Inky of My Dreams" (Robbins).
No. 6. "I Will Tell You My Mother" (Donaldson, Douglas & Gumble).
No. 7. "I'll Be Just Thinking of You" (Fetish).
No. 8. "Tell Me of Your Days" (Fetish).

ORGAN SOLOS

ADOLPH GOEBEL, (Atlanta, Ga., Paramount) presented an eight minute organ presentation which was well received. This presentation was a beauty of setting, character, and mood, and even organ playing, has never been before equalled in this city. Mr. Goebel called this "Girls of My Dreams." Opening to a setting of a large window, behind which stars and moon shine, Winton Dobbs, the Paramount Crooner, nicely sang "I'll See You in My Dreams," with Mr. Goebel ably accompanying him at the organ. Following this was a chorus of "In My Window of Dreams" (with slides on the screen curtain) and another singing chorus of "Charmeraine" (sung by Dobbs), as Bing- girl, dressed as Charmeraine presumably listened to the singing. The songs, "Dance, "Marie, "Luscious" and "Rico Rita" followed, with a girl representing each character making her appearance behind the screen. Each of the numbers were sung by Dobbs and each song was introduced by numbers, i. e., "Among My Souvenirs," "Wonderful One." "It Happened in Monte Carlo," etc. This presentation was perfectly timed, each number and "picture" fading into each other like pages in a book. Mr. Goebel's efforts to entertain his audiences was generously applauded at each performance.

STUART BARRIE (Brooklyn, Paramount), who is billed as "THE PRINCE OF THE ORGAN," used his opening program at this theatre three popular numbers, which he offered and played in every conceivable manner. His presentation opened with a carefully worded speech of thanks, an introduction of the solo, and an explanation of his "singing" contest. His first number, "All in All Ways," the audience joining in the singing as if Barrie had always been at this organ. The next number was "Springtime in the Rockies" (first as a singing chorus, then instrumentally in a number of different manners). Barrie closed his solo with a singing chorus of "Inky of My Dreams" and "Tell You My Mother." Attractive K-Eye Slides enhanced the program and Barrie's very fine organ playing gained him a most gratifying reception.

AL GLENN (Milwaukee Wisconsin), formerly of Fond du Lac, offers an introductory song number, singling into a microphone which is connected back stage, and a large screen in front of the organ. He then offers a number of college songs the words to which are flashed on the screen. They include Notre Dame, Iowa, Marquette and Georgia Tech. The words to "Betty Co-ed" are also flashed on the screen and all again join in the singing. The contest was for the audience selection he offers "On Wisconsin." Al has a pleasant personality as well as a good voice and his offerings are well received.

JESSE CRAWFORD (New York Paramount) offered, as his opening number, three popular numbers, then three popular numbers, then these three are played in Mr. Crawford's most pleasing manner and are necessary for the choruses of "My Baby Just Cares For Me," which he played in a rhythmic style, then follow this with a beautiful rendition of "When the Organ Plays at Twilight" and a closing chorus of "On the Road to Mandalay," which was also well played and further enhanced by the use of large pictorial slides.

MAX MARLIN (Brooklyn, N. Y., Metropolitan) presented "A Personal Presentation" (an original and entertaining novelty) for the audiences this house to sing this week. Mr. Marlin had the able assistance of Mr. Jack Neal (a well-known radio singer), who pleasingly sang two numbers, "Go Home and Tell Your Mother," and "Tell Me How," and his "Little Closer." The balance of Marlin's program was these "sizable" numbers: "When I Have a Crowed Like You" (a song by Harry Revel), "What's the Use," "Go Home and Tell Your Mother," "Just a Little Closer" and "Just Like You." These numbers were given in a large audience, who proved their appreciation by a generous applause.

WEEK ENDING OCTOBER 18

No. 1. "Little White Lies" (Donaldson, Douglas & Gumble).
No. 2. "Springtime in the Rockies" (Villa Morel).
No. 3. "Betty Co-Ed" (Carl Fischer).
No. 4. "If I Could Tell You (One Hour Tonight)" (Remick).
No. 5. "Inky of My Dreams" (Robbins).
No. 6. "Somehow in Old Wyoming" (Morris).
No. 7. "I Don't Tell Her What Happened to Me" (De Sylva, Brown & Henderson).
No. 8. "So Beats My Heart for You" (De Sylva, Brown & Henderson).

Try Out Vaudeville Acts
On Theatre Patrons
(Special to the Herald-World)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 23.—Three and four unit acts of vaudeville are being featured at Warner Brothers Earle theatre here, in conjunction with the regular Vitaphone specials shown. This is an innovation and in the nature of an experiment, according to Walter Mays, in charge of booking for Warner Brothers pictures. Should the public favorably react to the vaudeville act supplement to Warner features, a new policy may be inaugurated.

Nick Lucas, known far and wide as the crooning troubadour, and remembered for his singing of "Tip Toe Through the Tulips" in "Gold Diggers of 1930," was engaged for the Earle a week beginning October 18.

Payne Back as Featured Organist at Palace
(Special to the Herald-World)

MONTREAL, Oct. 22.—Maurice Payne is once more the featured organist at the Palace theatre. Montreal, his presentation being the only portion of the bill not on the screen. He was missing during the recent musicians' strike but is now back at the console.
THE VOICE OF THE INDUSTRY

LETTERS FROM READERS

Pictures in the Schools
I HAVE OPERATED MACHINES-booked pictures and managed theatres off and on since 1906. Was one of the first subscribers to "The Moving Picture World" and up to a few years ago had the oldest files of the older trade papers, I believe they were.
Several years ago I left the moving picture field and entered school work, teaching electricity in the trade school. Three years ago, when pictures entered the public schools, I was put in charge of the visual education department. We have picture machines of 35 mm.
in nearly all the school houses, of which we have $8 in our system. We book a regular schedule of pictures for the entire 40 weeks of the school year. These are educational and of course we are always looking for the best there is on the market. There are also times when we want shorts for entertainment purposes, Parent-Teachers Association meetings and local convention meetings. We have been booking the semi-educational features that the different companies produce from time to time and special performances that the Motion Picture Council want produced in the city.
The two reel comedies like "Gang" and "Dizzy Cartoons" are used frequently.
In order to keep up with the times, it is necessary for me to go to the different movie houses and read their trade papers, but do not want to missuse their library and so want to have the trade papers in my own possession and files.

The movie managers and the schools in this city get along agreeably well and they have been kind to us when we get tied up for material at times. We are even getting cooperation from the exhibitors in California and
Mr. Reach of the same state.
The different companies distributing are perfectly willing we use their material and are anxious we book their subjects after they have been run by the theatres in the different zones in the city.—ORVAL E. SELLERS, Public Schools of Akron, Akron, Ohio.

In a Conspicuous Place
RECEIVED OUR AWARD OF MERIT and wish to thank you very much for it. We are very proud of it and have given it a conspicuous place in our entrance into the theatre.—MARY PURCELL, Muse-U theatre, Cortez, Col.

Plaque in Electric Sign
OUR SINCERE APPRECIATION TO the Herald-World for the beautiful plaque awarded us.
We enclosed it in a specially made electric sign and gave it the best spot in our lobby.
Our patrons and ourselves are proud of the fact and again we wish to thank the Herald-
World for the interest they are taking in helping the exhibitors.—A. C. KAY, Manager, Royal and Pastime theatres, Garrett, Ind.

"Three-Scene Talkies"
I WONDER IF ANY OF THE PROducers of some of these three-scene talkies ever read exhibitors' reports?
Picture readers care what we are going to the movies any more, because "there ain't no such ting." The only movement in the average talker is through the projector. Where, oh where do they get the dialog writers from?

I've heard more interesting talk in a public conveyance than in any average program talkie.

In the silent days everybody in Europe thought the Americans were a great people;
now they have heard what they have to say.
The bubble's burst. Every fan today wants its national product. This country is wed to the movies they are making. We are being responsible. My patrons have seen all the three-room talkies of America—bedroom, bathroom and room for improvement—they want to see. On a more cheery note I'll mention three films that make it possible for me to subscribe to your very excellent paper—"Whoopee," "Dawn Patrol," and "Abraham Lincoln." When some of your small independents run these in the year 1925 they may have corner this republic and say, "Yes, sir, what is left of it is certainly very good, silent stuff."

Hey, hey, he's asking for something. Can you tell me how a fellow on this side gets one of your Herald-World plaque? I'm going now, give my kindest regards to J. C. Jenkins
—JACK FRIEDENBERG, Rialto theatre, York, England.

Size Doesn't Decide
WE WISH TO THANK YOU FOR the beautiful bronze plaque awarded us. I assure you that it is with great pride that we display this in our lobby. We had never dreamed that a place so small as ours could be the happy possessors of this wonderful plaque; and I assure you that in the future as in the past, we will always try to present programs in keeping with the beautiful bronze plaque.—MRS. A. H. KRUMVIEE, Lyric theatre, Fremont, Iowa.

Proud of Plaque
WE WISH TO EXPRESS OUR SINCERE appreciation and thanks for the Award of Merit received today. We are placing the plaque in a conspicuous place in our lobby, and are certainly proud of it.

We thoroughly enjoy the Herald-World.
We get quite a kick out of J. C.'s Colym, it being the first pure we turn to. Sure wish we would have the good fortune to meet him some day. The next page that takes our at-ention is the editor's page, and then the letters from the exhibitors.
Again we say "thank you."—H. H. Silkensaw, Lyric theatre, Artesian, S. D.

Booster for Business
PLEASE ACCEPT OUR THANKS FOR the beautiful bronze plaque sent us as a Masonic donor for the high quality of sound production in our theatre.
We have given the plaque a prominent place in our lobby. We receive many compliments from our patrons and believe it is a good booster for business.
Thanks for same.—S. W. FILSON, Opera House, Scott City, Kan.

3,180 Theatres in Italy,
Federal Survey Shows,
But Only 674 Are Active
(Special from Foreign Correspondent)
Rome, Oct. 21.—The Rome Agency, by a federal survey, has revealed that there are 3,180 motion picture theatres in Italy, only 674 of which offer regular daily exhibitions. The remaining 2,506 offer only occasional entertainment.
Ulberto Cocchi has completed production of the musical short subject, "Fourteenth Sonaten of Beethoven" and will begin the feature picture "Eroics."
Nicola Neroni and Piero Coce have finished a film entitled "Enchantment Land."

To Spend $1,000,000 in Making Theatre Changes
(Special to the Herald-World)
CINCINNATI, Oct. 16.—J. L. McCurdy general manager of the RKO houses in Cincinnati, Dayton and Columbus, has announced that about $1,000,000 has been appropriated for changes which are to be made in the company's houses. The most important change will be made in the Lyric in Cincinnati.
Also, approximately $50,000 will be spent in Dayton in changing the fronts of the Colonial, State, Strand and Keith's. In addition to the changes in the fronts, there will be a number of changes backstage.

Gets Eight-Year Term
On Embezzling Charges
(Special to the Herald-World)
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23—William J.
Casey, local theatre man, has been sentenced to eight years' imprisonment after he was found guilty of instigating an embezzlement scheme which resulted in a $14,000 loss to a bank in Daly City, Cal.
Casey is said to have induced two bank employees to honor large overdrafts.

English Actor Marries Harriet Bennett HOLLYWOOD.—John Garrick, English film actor, recently married Harriet Bennett, San Francisco actress.
Mail Order Bargains

WE UNDERSELL THEM ALL—BRAND NEW MERCHANDISE—FACTORY TO YOU DIRECT.
Felt, $295 sq. yd.; Theatre Plush, Carpet, $1.15 per yd.; Duveyton Fireproof Drapes, 49c sq. yd.; W. E. Approved Sound Screens, 39c sq. ft.; Sound Mixers, $19.90; Sound-On-Film Heads, $196.50; Photo-cells, $14.95; G. E. Exciter Lamps, 98c; Optical Systems, $29.50; Head Amplifiers, $29.40; 1/2 b. p. Synchronous Motors, $29.50; Turntables with Resynchronizer, $46.50; Samson-Pam 19 Amplifiers, $69.15; Audak Tuned Pickups, $3.95; Standard Audak, $17.95; Wright-DeMouels 117, $64; Giant Exciter Units, $46.35; Constant Faders, $13.90; Jensen Speakers, $17.80; Exponential Horns, $48.90. Bargains, Denver-Measure Telescope, Complete Stage Equipment, Projectors, Match Arrt, Rectifiers, Lens, etc. Write us your needs. Address Service-On-Sound Corporation, 1600 Broadway, New York City, New York.

TWO PERFECTION LOW INTENSITY LAMPS $275.00. General Electric low intensity generator $175.00. Two Simplex rebuilt double bearing machines like new with Perfection low intensity lamps $850.00. With new Strong Junior low intensity $997.50. One Powers 6L, rebuilt with new Vitadise turntable, Samson amplifier, two speakers everything complete with sound $1375.00, with Powers maclamphouse and regulator $450.00. Sound on head plates complete for Powers or Simplex $500.00. Vitadise turntable complete with pickup and fader $75.00. Samson Pam No. 39 amplifiers $75.00. Large 4’ H. P. Fidelity synchronous motors $50.00. Audak professional pickups $37.50. Exciter lamps $1.25. Match amplifiers $37.50. Half size lenses $25.00. New matched quarter size lenses a pair $19.50. Sure fit parts for Simplex and Powers discount 10%. National Carbons discount 10%. Rectifier tubes 15 amperes for strong or any 30 amper rectifier $13.50. Da-Lite Screen coating large bucket $3.50. Low intensity mirrors 7 in. $6.00, 8 in. $14.00. Projection and special lenses for any machine discount. Derry sound machine 16mm with films and records $150.00. Write or wire us your needs. Oldest independent theatre supply house in America. You take no chance when you buy from the Western Motion Picture Company, Danville, Illinois.

Theatres for Sale or Rent

FOR SALE—ONLY MODERN THEATRE WITH SOUND in radius of 40 miles; 660 seats; Sunday town, 6,500; Southeastern Nebraska. Address Box 507, Exhibitors-Herald-World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

OWNER OF BUILDING WILL LEASE THEA- TRE to responsible party; with all equipment. Two years old. Everything new. 1931 DeForest Sound-on-Film. 650 seats. Address Rita Theatre, 2323 West Eleventh Ave., Gary Indiana.

THEATRE FOR SALE—Wonderful opportunity—real money-maker. Mr. Showman, if you want a real location, better hurry and investigate this. Address Ideal Theatre, Fremont, Michigan.

TO RESPONSIBLE PARTY—TWO YEAR OLD PICTURE HOUSE. South Side of Chicago—300 seats—well equipped with sound—reasonable rent. Address Box 516, Exhibitors-Herald-World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Illinois.

FOR SALE—Big bargain, 250 seat theatre, splendid sound, seven day town, no opposition. Other business requires attention. Cash or time. Address Polo Thea- tre, Polo, Illinois.

Positions Wanted

HOUSE MANAGER NOW EMPLOYED—DE- SIRES CHANGE, preferably with chain. Present position for 15 months. College graduate, age 23, married, thoroughly experienced in advertising and exploitation. Can take complete charge or open house. Address Box 509, Exhibitors-Herald-World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, III.

ARIZONA—NEW MEXICO EXHIBITORS—A YOUNG MAN, experienced sound projectionist desires change—best of references—exceptional references willing to work full or part time. Address E. F. Stahl, c/o the Kaufman theatre, Montpelier, O.

YOUNG MAN WISES POSITION AS MOTION PICTURE OPERATOR. Will go anywhere as long as it is work. Address Box 515, Exhibitors-Herald-World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Illinois.

PROJECTIONIST 3 YEARS—EXPERIENCED ON WESTERN ELECTRIC and other sound equipments. State salary. Go anywhere. References. Address Wayne Smith, 4563 Lockwood St., Los Angeles, California.

WANT JOB AS MANAGER OF THEATRE. Anywhere, 20 years' experience, as Manager of Movie Theatre, Vaudville, Booking Film and Cameraman. Address Box 511, Exhibitors-Herald-World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Illinois.

Help Wanted

WANTED—Experienced small town theatre manager with dynamic personality and ability to combat a competitive situation. Must be a go-getter. Proven record as to results necessary for consideration. Write or phone C. W. Nebel, Community Theatres, Inc., 530 Wisconsin Avenue, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

LIVE DISTRICT REPRESENTATIVE WANTED—One familiar with theatre trade preferred, though unnecessary. Unlimited financial possibilities. Address Hamlm Co., Box 524, Birmingham, Alabama.

Equipment for Sale

MOVIEPHONE TALKING PICTURE EQUIP- MENT FOR SALE. Two machines including two stage amplifying horns and one booth horn set up for Powers 6A and Simplex Machines. Sale on account expired lease. Price complete, $450. Address C. O. Littlefield, Whitman, Mass.

ADDITIONAL CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING ON FOLLOWING PAGE
FOR SALE—RCA Sound System for theatre up to 1,500 seats. Two Powers 6B machines changed for R.C.A sound head. Two Strong Arc lamps. Supreme Cooling system. Chairs, etc. Address Masonic Theatre, Elizabethown, Kentucky.

FOR SALE—Very attractive (Strand) electric sign, 15 ft. by 2 ft., complete with flashing, travelling border. Address Strand Theatre, Planteville, Wisconsin.

FOR SALE—Complete Voisophone (Disc) talking equipment used one year, also two new giant Rason horns. Address Calumet Theatre, Calumet, Michigan.

BIG BARGAINS—Re-built Simplex Motor Driven Machines with type "S" Lamp Houses with late type flat belt friction drive speed controls, $300.00 each. Re-built Powers 6 B Motor Driven Machine, $235.00 each. Re-built Powers 6 A, $115.00 each. Deluxe Motograph machine, $225.00 each. Big stock of rebuilt and oscillating fans for DC and AC current. Generators, all makes, ticket selling machines, film containers, etc. All at bargain prices for immediate shipment. Write for bargain list. Illinois Theatre Equipment Co., 1150 South Michigan Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

Duplicating Machines

SPEEDY DUPLICATOR PRINTS. Heralds, Window Cards, Programs instantly. Replaces all rubber stamps, complete $12.50. Sent on trial. Address Pekas Duplicator Co., Lesterville, South Dakota.

Equipment Wanted

WANTED TO BUY—At best cash prices, Simplex Projectors—Mechanism or complete machines. Address Joe Spratler, 12-14 East Ninth St., Chicago, Illinois.

WANTED—Peerless or Simplex projectors, also Strong reflector arc lamps. Stane price, condition and number of machines. Will pay cash, or one-third down and balance C.O.D. Address Box 337 Exhibitors Herald-World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Illinois.

HIGHEST PRICES paid for used opera chairs, projection machines, etc. Address Movie Supply Co., 844 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

WANTED TO BUY—Used Cutaway machine. Coleman Theatre, Miami, Oklahoma.

WANTED—Simplex projectors and motor generator set. Address Eanes Theatre, Rushville, Nebraska.

Chairs for Sale

FOR SALE—1,000 Upholstered Squad Chairs, Panel backs covered in imitation Spanish Leather, $2.00 each; 500 Upholstered Chairs with Squad Seats, covered in imitation Spanish Leather, Veneer backs, $1.80, each; 1,500 Used 5-ply Veneer Chairs, $0.90 each. Illinois Theatre Equipment Co., 1150 South Michigan Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

FOR SALE—ONE MOVIEPHONE OUTFIT consisting of one fader box, one 690 S. M. amplifier, one Wright-DeCoste 107 with Wright-DeCoste Directional Horn No. 9, two Audak Professional Pickups, two Elo Pickups, two turntables with drives, one 10½-inch cone Magnavox speaker and one booth speaker. First offer of $400.00 takes it. Address L. E. Palmer, Pottsville, Pa.

FOR SALE—Opera Chairs, seats and backs for all makes, five ply, at prices that save you money. Jobs in new and used chairs. Address Redington Company, Scranton, Penna.

BIG BARGAIN in used Opera Chairs, 600 upholstered, 800 veneer. Address Movie Supply Co., 844 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

500 3 and 5 ply chairs, extra bottoms, $1 each. Address E. Van Huyning, Iola, Kan.

Chairs Wanted

WANTED TO BUY—1,000 FOLDING CHAIRS. Good condition. Address The Amphitheatre, 1206 E. Superior St., Duluth, Minnesota.

WANTED—Four hundred slightly used spring cushion, leather bottom veneer back chairs. Address Princess Theatre, Eureka, Kansas.

Managers' Schools

WANTED THEATRE EMPLOYEES to learn modern theatre management and theatre advertising. The Institute's training leads to better positions. Write for particulars. Address Theatre Managers Institute, 325 Washington St. Elmira, N. Y.

Projector Repairing

SKILLED MECHANICS, specialized tools, a shop equipped for but one purpose can offer you nothing but the best in repair work. That is what I have, and I can offer you the best in the overhauling of your motion picture machinery equipment. One of the oldest repair men in the territory, and serving some of the largest houses. Relief equipment furnished free. For results bring your work to Joseph Spratler, 12-14 E. Ninth St., Chicago, Illinois.

Printing

THEATRE ADVERTISING—1,000 3x8 Dodgers, $1.00 prepaid; 100 11x14 Window Cards, $2.10, postage extra. Cash only. Address King Shoprint, Warren, Illinois.

Your Classified Ad Will Do the Work

Exhibitors Herald-World has helped hundreds of Theatre owners in solving many a problem. The classified advertising department has placed operators all over the country, has helped in obtaining equipment, in selling equipment, and in solving many another problem that seemed difficult. The rates are but 10c per word payable with order, 10% discount if run for 3 insertions. See this week's classified pages. Maybe you are in need of something that is being advertised this week. The cost is small, the results are great.
Three notables, representing three phases of the industry, (the theatre, the actor and the distributor) join hands in Chicago. Beginning at the left we have Jack Hess, Western Director of Publicity and Exploitation for R.K.O houses; Ivan Lebedeff, Radio Pictures star, who, incidentally, has just returned from a month's vacation in Europe, and Bill Brumberg, manager of the R.K.O exchange in Chicago.

CHICAGO PERSONALITIES

By JIM LITTLE

Using Chicago as a background or locale for pictures is becoming quite a common practice, from all appearances, and "on location" is getting to be a rather familiar term here. The youngest, big city in the world, used for an atmosphere of real city life, and incidentally, a type of city that has no double. Perhaps it's the rare combination in a cosmopolitan center like this of the combination of leisure and rush, that makes it ideal for this purpose, and sometimes we wonder why more of them are not filmed here.

Which all leads up to the fact that as George Hill, director for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, left Chicago for home ports, taking with him the company which has been working with him here for the past fortnight or so, in comes Sidney Lanfield, director for Fox, with his company, planning to spend five or six days in this big boisterous city, filming sequences of the serial which recently closed in the Daily News, "Three Girls Lost." The Chicago scenes are to be used as a background throughout the picture, we understand.

As for the work of George Hill, it seems that as yet the film for which the Chicago scenes were being made has received no title.

Ken Leach, who we could swear we met just the other day, writes to say that he is now located in Seattle, where he has opened an office for the General Talking Pictures Corporation, which handles the De Forest sound equipment. The territories of Oregon, Washington, Montana and Northern Idaho will be taken care of, in regard to sales and service from this office, which has installed a staff of engineers to make this new project the last word in service.

We might add (in a very soft whisper) that if Ken has got anything to do with the state of affairs, that there doesn't seem to be anything for them to do but prosper, so (without any whispers) the very best wishes for luck from all your Chicago friends, Ken.

The Theatre Development Corporation, located at 910 South Michigan avenue, of which A. G. Spencer is president and A. Freeman, vice president, has recently been formed to take care of what is felt to be a need in the industry. This company is organized to supervise and handle the general management of theatres and is also engaged in the financing of theatre projects, as well as the leasing, buying and selling of theatres. In addition to this, the company engages in the contracting for interior and exterior decorations, offering architectural service, and is, generally speaking, fully equipped to do anything in the developing line.

Murray Bradshaw, manager of the Tivoli theatre in Downers Grove, 111., and who recently suffered a nervous breakdown, is, we are happy to announce, once more back at his desk.

Those few who were privileged to see the sound version of "The Birth of a Nation" are all enthusiastic about it. During the past week, a print came through Chicago on the way to New York, and stopped off here long enough to be shown, and then it was on its way again. From the reports, David Wark Griffith has enhanced the picture in every way by the insertion of sound.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is ready to move at last. We say that because we have been endeavoring to ascertain as to the exact date for some time, and, by the time you receive this book, the MGM exchange will be located at its new home, which has been appointed to the king's taste. In fact, you would hardly know the old Paramount headquarters, except that the building front is practically the same. The only change is "Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer" in large green letters over the entrance.

Ted Levy, sales representative for the Filmack company, left last Thursday for New York on a combined business and pleasure trip. He told us he was planning to drive, and we don't believe he could have picked out a more beautiful time of year to undertake such a trip. Just imagine driving through the multi-colored Adirondacks with crisp, clean air whistling all around.

L. C. McHenry, well known state-right operator of Atlanta, Georgia, has just closed a deal with Al Drezell of Road Show Pictures, to handle "The Primrose Path" in Alabama, North and South Carolina, Mississippi and Florida. McHenry's initial run in his territory opens at the Ideal theatre, Winston Salem, N. C., where the picture, which features Helen Foster, has been booked for an indefinite run.

Back on the old stamping grounds again is J. Feldman, who is once more signing his name up as a member of the Universal sales force, handling country assignments. It will be remembered that he was connected with the Chicago branch of Universal a few years ago, and that during that time he has been engaged in St. Louis.

"East Is West" is doing what is sometimes known as "a whale of a business" at the Woods theatre, we understand, such a business, in fact, that the picture is already scheduled to play the week of October 25. Incidentally, it is the last picture to play the Woods theatre as an R.K.O house.
THE SHORTEST—AND SUREST—DISTANCE BETWEEN TWO POINTS

The Seller

Classified Advertising Section of Exhibitors Herald-World

The Buyer

The Proof: In a single issue the HERALD-WORLD carries EIGHT TIMES as many Classified Ads as the COMBINED WEEKLY TOTAL in the three other national motion picture trade publications, including SIX ISSUES of each of the daily papers.

That's why EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD is the RECOGNIZED NATIONAL CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING MEDIUM
PAUL TERRY-TOONS

By FRANK MOSER and PAUL TERRY

ON THE BILL OF MOVIE FARE
TERRY-TOONS ARE DISHES RARE
"DUTCH TREAT" AND "IRISH STEW"
"JUMPING BEANS" AND "FRIED CHICKEN" TOO

SIMPLY SHOW THEM ON YOUR BILL
IF YOU WANT TO FILL YOUR TILL

Produced By Audio-Cinema, Inc.

Recorded By Western Electric System

EDUCATIONAL FILM EXCHANGES, Inc., E. W. HAMMONS, President
Member, Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., Will H. Hays, President
The Way To The Box Office Is Flooded With Light

Profits are directly traceable to light and the successful showman uses stage and auditorium lighting to reap the bigger profits from a satisfied public. Most of them use the Major System of Lighting Control, because it is the most practical and flexible.

Send for details and booklet
Foul Air Defames The Finest Theatre

Nothing so quickly gives people the wrong impression, when entering a beautiful theatre, as to be greeted by foul, ill-smelling stale air.

This evil condition is entirely corrected in any theatre by Healthful Kooler-Aire, the complete cooling and air conditioning system. It changes the air entirely every four minutes, or oftener, as required. The fresh, incoming air is cooled and washed free of soot and dust. Then it is circulated—slowly, steadily, quietly to every part of the house.

In winter, Kooler-Aire keeps in motion and redistributes hot air above radiators and other areas where excessive heat collects, thus saving considerable fuel and increasing patrons' comfort.

Costs less to buy and operate. Our liberal financing plan puts Kooler-Aire profitably within the reach of every theatre. Take advantage of it this season. Put in the proved system that has made good for Paramount-Publix, Warner Brothers, Fox, R-K-O and other circuits and independents from coast to coast. May we send this book? Write today.

KOOLER-AIRE ENGINEERING CORP.

1915 PARAMOUNT BUILDING

NEW YORK, N. Y.

B. F. SHEARER CO., West Coast Representatives

SEATTLE  PORTLAND  LOS ANGELES

HEALTHFUL Kooler-Aire

NATURE'S REFRIGERATION
A MESSAGE TO THEATRE MANAGERS FROM THE UNITED STATES GYPSUM COMPANY

Competent Counsel on Your Problems in Theatre Acoustics

THAT poor acoustical conditions can greatly affect box office receipts has been completely demonstrated since the advent of talking pictures. In fact, the problem has been so acute that many makeshift and unscientific methods of acoustical correction have presented themselves to theatre managers. The results have often been disappointing.

The acoustical correction of an auditorium or theatre is a problem requiring a scientific understanding of acoustics and sound control. As no two problems are identical, each case requires a separate diagnosis and prescription. The subject is important to you and deserves the most competent and trustworthy counsel you can secure.

In order that you may have impartial counsel and advice on any problem in sound control, the United States Gypsum Company maintains a complete acoustical service. There is available to you without charge or obligation the services of highly-trained experts who will make an analysis of the sound conditions in your theatre and tell you how they may be satisfactorily corrected.

In most cases it is found that the simple application of Acoustone, the USG acoustical tile, will secure the desired results. Some conditions call for a more extensive treatment with the USG System of Sound Insulation. Whichever method is prescribed and accepted, we will furnish the materials, supervise their installation and assume responsibility for results.

Light in weight, fireproof, easily applied, requiring no redecoration, possessing a beautiful texture which resembles Travertine stone and applicable in a great variety of attractive designs and colors, Acoustone is especially well suited for theatres.

It will cost you nothing to have one of our engineers give you his advice for improving the hearing conditions in your theatre. There will be no obligation. Address the United States Gypsum Company, Dept. 59N, 300 West Adams Street, Chicago, Illinois.
Jumbled figures or orderly figures—quick, accurate balance every night, or two or three nights a week wasted checking over ticket numbers—which do you have? GENERAL TICKET REGISTERS make your figures orderly.

With GENERAL TICKET REGISTERS your cashier gives all her time and attention to making change; selling tickets is reduced to pressing one key. There is nothing to distract her; she can handle Saturday night as easily as Monday afternoon. A GENERAL TICKET REGISTER will pay for itself in one season by preventing error losses—to say nothing of the additional protection it will afford.

J. C. ENSLEN, General Sales Manager

GENERAL REGISTER CORPORATION
Paramount Building
New York, N. Y.

Chicago Office—AUTOMATIC SIMPLEX REGISTER CORPORATION
1018 South Wabash Avenue
SERVICE IN ALL KEY CITIES
Gentlemen:

Acousti-Celotex City (Roe. Th. provides THE GOLDEN GATE THEATRE in San Francisco, California.
Here Acousti-Celotex applied to walls and ceilings prevents distorting echoes. The true tones travel clear and distinct to the limits of the auditorium.

Ask the business managers... they know it pays

IN numerous theatres wired for sound Acousti-Celotex has corrected conditions that destroyed the pleasure of audiences. Now enthusiastic patrons return in ever-increasing crowds... definitely place these progressive houses on a highly profitable basis.

Acousti-Celotex, properly installed, positively assures splendid hearing conditions for sound pictures — and promptly pays for itself at the box-office.

The Golden Gate Theatre, of San Francisco is one of the long list of theatres that have proved it pays to protect the pleasure of every patron — with Acousti-Celotex.

This definite assurance of success: Study of your theatre — Each theatre requires individual treatment. The Acoustical Engineers of The Celotex Company will calculate the exact footage of Acousti-Celotex required and the proper places for its application in order to insure the results you are after. The accuracy of their recommendations has been checked and proved in thousands of actual installations.

Quick, easy installation — Acousti-Celotex can be fastened directly over your present walls or ceilings. It comes in single, finished tiles quickly and easily applied in new or old buildings.

Decorative adaptability — Acousti-Celotex harmonizes with almost any architectural or decorative scheme... so that the beauty of your theatre is increased by the acoustical treatment.

Permanent and "fool-proof" — Acousti-Celotex can be painted and repainted, even using lead and oil paints, without impairing its effectiveness. The treatment is permanent.

Tested in many fields — Architects and builders have used Acousti-Celotex for years in all types of buildings... have proved beyond question that it provides "better hearing."

THE CELOTEX COMPANY
919 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois
In Canada:
Alexander Murray & Company, Ltd., Montreal
Sales distributors throughout the World

Acousti-Celotex is sold and installed by approved Acousti-Celotex contractors.

THE CELOTEX COMPANY
919 North Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen: Please send me further information on the value of Acousti-Celotex in the presentation of sound pictures.

Name
Address
City State

Acoustical engineers of the Celotex Company for analysis and recommendation... without charge or further obligation.

For less noise — better hearing

Submit your problems to the Acoustical Engineers of The Celotex Company for analysis and recommendation... without charge or further obligation.
Ask these 15 questions before you buy

I Will I get regular service by thoroughly trained engineers to maintain high quality and prevent costly break-downs?

2 Has the company enough installations to support an efficient nation-wide service organization for the 10 year life of the contract?

3 Has the equipment a proved performance record of less than one interruption per thousand shows in several thousand theatres?

4 Will a real stock of spare parts be available nearby and a service engineer on call for immediate emergency service during all theatre hours?

5 Will the patrons of my theatre be satisfied that the quality of reproduction is the best and equal to that in deluxe theatres?

6 Will I get engineering supervision of my installation equal to that in deluxe theatres?

7 Has equipment been designed to reproduce the high quality recording of the best pictures?

8 Has the company the resources to carry on a large program of research and development to assure constant improvement in recording and reproducing and provide mechanical and electrical devices for future developments in the amusement field?
9 Will my contract protect me by immediate free replacements in case of fire?

10 Has the company the stability to adequately protect me on all patents?

11 Has the company a uniform policy and contract for every exhibitor?

12 Will I have acoustical engineering assistance to correct structural and other acoustical defects?

13 Will I get advertising accessories to cash in on a manufacturer's name popularized by national advertising?

14 Will I be able to arrange easy terms so I can pay out of box-office receipts stimulated by quality performance?

15 Will my equipment be an investment paying dividends over a period of 10 years—or will I—like 2,000 other exhibitors—soon have to replace it to meet the competition of better quality?

Western Electric Sound System

Northern Electric in Canada
Distributed by Electrical Research Products Inc.
250 W. 57th Street, New York
EDITORIAL AND ADVERTISING OFFICES
Better Theatres Section
Exhibitors Herald-World

CHICAGO
407 So. Dearborn St. Telephone Harrison 5036 Cable Address: Quigsuber
Edwin S. Clifford, General Manager
Ernest A. Rovelstad, Managing Editor
George Denot, Associate Editor
Charles B. O'Neill, Advertising Manager
George Clifford, Business Manager

NEW YORK
565 Fifth Ave. Telephone Wick-erham 2366-2367
Raymond Gallo
East Coast Representative

HOLLYWOOD
1605 North Cahuenga St. Telephone Gladstone 2118-2119
Douglas Hodges
West Coast Representative

LONDON
The Bioscope, Faraday House, 8-10
Charling Cross Rd., W. C. 2

THE SUCCESSFUL THEATRE TODAY IS THE ONE THAT PAYS STRICT ATTENTION TO ITS PHYSICAL FEATURES. CINEMA AUDIENCES DEMAND MORE THAN PICTURES. THEY MUST BE GIVEN EVERY DEGREE OF COMFORT, CONVENIENCE AND ATMOSPHERE.

TO THE ENTERPRISING EXHIBITOR THE BETTER THEATRES SECTION OF EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD PRESENTS NUMEROUS IDEAS AND SUGGESTIONS FOR INCREASING PROFITS THROUGH BETTER PUBLIC SERVICE AND MANAGEMENT.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES OF EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD
United States and its possessions, Canada and all countries of the Americas—$3.00 per year
Great Britain and its colonies—£1 per year
Other foreign countries—$5.00 per year

Single copies, 35 cents
Advertising rate cards and Audit Bureau of Circulation statements furnished upon request.

Better Theatres Section, devoted to the design, construction, equipment of theatres, appears every fourth issue

IN THIS SECTION
Vol. 101, No. 4

GENERAL FEATURES
The Modern Use of Light in the Theatre: By C. M. Cutler...21
The Lowering of Theatre Building Costs: By Morris M. Wilcoz...23
The Modern Motif in Fantastic Mood: By Tom Hacker...24
Recent Creations in Theatre Design: Pictorial...Insert
The Unconventional Punch and Judy: By Nick John Matoukas...35
Copyrighted Radio Music in the Theatre: By Leo T. Parker...41
The Final Link in London’s Chain of Astoria Cinemas: By W. H. Mooring...42
A Group of Designs for Organ Screens: Sketches...45

DEPARTMENTS
Sound in the Theatre (51)
How to Buy Acoustical Correction: By R. L. Lindahl...51
New in the World of Sound: Equipment News and Comment...55
Action and Types of Photoelectric Cells...56
Causes of Ground Noises and Their Remedy...57
Better Projection (117)
Projection at the Pantages, and Other Articles: By F. H. Richard-son...117 Planning the Theatre (127)

SPECIAL DEPARTMENTS
The Equipment Index...60
Who’s Who...104
Theatre Supply Dealers...121
Theatre Architects...124

MISCELLANEOUS
Notes on Writers and Subjects in This Issue...19
Editorially...26
Notes on Theatre Equipment Affairs: Equipment News and Com-ment...102
The Market for American Motion Picture Equipment in the Far East...129
Theatre Projects...131
New Inventions...132
Cross Index to Better Theatres...133
Index to Advertisers...136

[The Better Theatres Section of Exhibitors Herald-Wold assumes no responsibility for the return of unsolicited manuscripts. No manuscripts are returned unless authors request.]
MORE independent exhibitors have installed DeForest PHONOFLM than any other sound-on-film equipment on the market.

The Hollywood Junior
Two Year Plan
37.50
Weekly
With two years to pay will put a Hollywood DeForest Phonofilm into any theatre with a seating capacity of 1,000 or less.

The Hollywood Standard
Two Year Plan
47.50
Weekly
With two years to pay will put a Hollywood Standard Phonofilm into any theatre seating over 1,000.

The public today is sound conscious. Talkies have lost their novelty. The public today demands Perfect Sound.

The DeForest Phonofilm brings to you and to your patrons the best that has been developed in the many years of scientific research in the new field.

The apparatus is so sturdily and perfectly constructed that it eliminates the need of regular weekly servicing, and with it the elimination of the excessive charges therefor.

Neither does the DeForest Phonofilm installation involve any carrying charges, installation charges or interest charges.

DeForest Phonofilm gives you the strongest patent protection that any manufacturer can give you. This matter is of the greatest importance to your present holdings.

DeForest Phonofilm gives you the best sound available. Ask any exhibitor who is now using the Phonofilm equipment.
When it comes to theatre carpets

You can’t expect to know how the depth of pile in your carpet affects the acoustics of your theatre. You can’t expect to know just how the spoken or reproduced voice is clarified or muffled by the carpeting you choose for your floors.

You can’t expect to know how to key your carpet to the architectural design and the decorative scheme of your theatre. This calls for special knowledge of periodism, color, design...highly involved subjects which take years of study to master.

You can’t expect to know which floor covering will give you the longest wear. You’d have to know what raw materials went into the fabrics and how they were dyed and loomed. How can you spare the time to delve into all these things?

You can’t expect to know what prices to pay. You don’t want to pay more than you have to. You want the best fabrics for your purpose, at the lowest possible price. And you expect them to be sturdy and fresh looking for a long time.

But you can know your Bigelow-Sanford dealer (name on request). Take all of your problems to him. He’ll solve them. He’ll help you find the right rugs and carpets for your theatre...at the right prices.

Bigelow-Sanford Rugs and Carpets

Made by Bigelow-Sanford Carpet Co. Inc., Weavers since 1825. Mills at Thompsonville, Conn.; Amsterdam, N.Y.; Clinton, Mass. Main Sales Office: 385 Madison Ave., New York. Sales Offices: Boston • Philadelphia • Pittsburgh • Atlanta • Dallas • St. Louis • Chicago • Detroit • Minneapolis • Denver • Los Angeles • San Francisco • Seattle
What did he say?

If it is necessary for your patrons to strain their ears to hear and understand the "Sound Pictures" you are showing — you're losing profitable business. The public, today, is giving its patronage to the theatre with correct acoustics and better sound reproduction.

The use of Insulite Acoustile is a simple and economical method of correcting acoustics and controlling excess sound energy, thus eliminating distorting reverberations, echoes and "dead spots", and assuring true sound reproduction.

Insulite Acoustile has a more uniform sound absorbent coefficient over the entire frequency range than any other material. This uniform efficiency means that in the theatre equipped with Insulite Acoustile, the true tones of voices or instruments will travel clear and distinct to the farthest seats.

Insulite Acoustile will also improve the appearance of your theatre. Its natural cream color and pleasing texture can be beautifully decorated to blend with any color scheme. The tile-like units are made in various sizes and can be arranged in patterns to harmonize with any type of architecture.

Remember — it is not necessary to remodel your building. Insulite Acoustile can be easily and quickly applied to the existing surface.

USE THIS ENGINEERING SERVICE

If you have an acoustical problem in your theatre, let the Insulite Engineers assist you. This staff of acoustical experts will gladly analyze your trouble and you may be sure that their recommendations will be the simplest and most economical method for securing better sound reproduction in your theatre. There's no charge for this service and you are under no obligation.

JUST MAIL THIS COUPON

THE INSULITE CO.
(Backus-Brooks Industry)
1200 Builders Exchange, Dept. 50J
Minneapolis, Minnesota
OFFICES IN ALL PRINCIPAL CITIES

Please send me additional information on the value of Insulite Acoustile for the treatment of Theatres showing sound pictures, also a sample.

Name: ..........................................
Address: .......................................
City: ........................................ State: ............................

INSULITE ACOUSTILE
HARVEST time is at hand for exhibitors! There's nothing like crisp, cool evenings to bring out the crowds!

As your attendance gets bigger each week, so does the vital need for ventilation increase in importance. Settle the question once and for all, by using Arctic Nu-Air, the powerful, low cost cooling and ventilating system.

It has made good in more than 4,000 theatres, including Paramount-Publix, Warner Bros., R-K-O and other leading circuits.

This equipment keeps the air sweet and fresh. It ejects all foul air, excessive humidity and bad, unpleasant odors that give any theatre a black eye.

Quiet, low cost operation. Remote Hydraulic Control. Unlimited speed range. No expert attention required. "Silent as the Sphinx." No noise, roar or rattle.

Write for the Arctic Nu-Air book on theatre cooling and ventilation.

ARCTIC NU-AIR CORPORATION
2105 KENNEDY ST. N. E. MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

B. F. SHEARER CO., Pacific Coast Distributors
SEATTLE PORTLAND LOS ANGELES

-ARCTIC NU-AIR-
"Silent as the Sphinx"
The American Public Has Spent
More Money This Year for Amusement Than Ever Before

If it's a contest in your locality as to how this amusement fund is being divided—there is only one ultimate answer—

"He who serves best profits most"
To serve best you need the TRANSVERTER

It is essential to good Projection. It improves projection as it reduces expense in current, in repairs, in the Projection-ist's work.

Why not get the facts. Write us. Let us show you just what the TRANSVERTER and its kindred equipment will do to make your Theatre more popular in your community.

THE HERTNER ELECTRIC COMPANY

12700 Elmwood Ave.
Cleveland, Ohio, U. S. A.
Giving Dimmers Their Proper Place In the Picture

Dimmer plates—hidden as they are behind the switchboard—too often fail to receive the proper amount of attention when lighting equipment is selected. The board which throws lights into full brilliance for a burst of color must also be able to wipe them quickly, smoothly into “black out.” This is the test of the dimmer plates behind the switchboard.

Cutler-Hammer “Simplicity” Dimmers were providing flickerless light control in leading show houses over a quarter of a century ago. Their superior construction, their freedom from burnouts and other dimmer faults have made C-H Dimmers the choice of theater owners ever since. Constant improvement in C-H dimmer design has kept pace with modern electrical requirements. Today the mark of Cutler-Hammer on the dimmer plates behind the switchboard assures careful showmen that their lighting control is correct as well as modern.

Long experience in theatrical lighting problems, improved dimmer plate design and construction—these are the advantages which Cutler-Hammer offers you when you specify C-H Dimmers. They can be had on any board you install . . . and be enlarged with the growth of your requirements.

Your architect or electrician can tell you more about C-H “Simplicity” Dimmers. Ask for the C-H Booklet “Illumination Control for Modern Theaters.” It shows many typical C-H Dimmer installations in leading theaters throughout the country.

CUTLER-HAMMER, Inc.
Pioneer Manufacturers of Electric Control Apparatus
1254 St. Paul Avenue
MILWAUKEE WISCONSIN

Perfect Illumination Control for the Modern Theater
(A-307)
DROP a HALF DOLLAR ON A CARPET ... and you'll see why carpet solves your acoustical problem.

Drop a half dollar on a bare floor and it rings like a bell. Drop it on a carpet and it hardly makes a sound. Carpet sops up sound as a sponge sops up water. This is why you need carpet in your theatre.

But any kind of carpet won't improve the acoustics of your theatre because no two theatres are exactly alike. Some have balconies. Others do not. Some have narrow aisles. Others, wide aisles.

The many factors that must be taken into consideration when picking out carpet are listed in the simple form at the right. All you have to do is fill in the answers and we'll recommend the kind of carpet that will make your theatre acoustically correct. Send for the form by mailing coupon below.

We are particularly well equipped to give you this service because we make a range of carpets wide enough to satisfy the most modest house as well as the most luxurious and because of our experience with such theatres as the Publix, Warner Bros. and Fox chains. W. & J. Sloane, 577 Fifth Avenue, New York, sole selling agents.

ALEXANDER SMITH CARPET

ALBERT N. SMITH 577 Fifth Ave., New York City

Theatres Division, W. & J. Sloane, 577 Fifth Avenue, N. Y.
Without cost or obligation please send me your Acoustical Data Form.

Name ____________________________
Address __________________________
City _____________________________ State ________
AND PATRONS WANTED MONEY BACK

FAR away an explosion occurs. Power lines are severed. Current fails in your theatre. What can you do?

Current failure may seldom happen, but once is too often. Your power company works night and day to give you the best possible service. But it can't foresee accidents any more than you can. You must protect yourself.

You can guard against the results that might follow sudden current failure... loss of goodwill, danger to patrons, refunds. The dependable safeguard that so many theatre owners rely on is an Exide Emergency Lighting Battery.

When power fails for any reason Exide Batteries instantly and automatically take over the emergency load. No need to touch a switch. Projector keeps on. The show continues.

Exide Emergency Lighting is not expensive to purchase and costs little to operate. Write for our Emergency Lighting Bulletin. It will interest you. Or send for one of our technical men to come and discuss it with you. Absolutely no obligation.

Exide Batteries instantly and automatically take over the emergency load. No need to touch a switch. Projector keeps on. The show continues.

Exide Emergency Lighting is not expensive to purchase and costs little to operate. Write for our Emergency Lighting Bulletin. It will interest you. Or send for one of our technical men to come and discuss it with you. Absolutely no obligation.

Exide Batteries of Canada, Limited, Toronto
Mr. William J. King
President, Bilmarjac Corporation
1697 Broadway
New York, New York

Dear Mr. King:

As an agency engaged in activities designed to protect the public from accidents while in attendance at theatres operated by a number of large-national circuits, we recently requested our Chief Engineer to make a survey of the Bilmarjac Seat Indicator System installed by your organization in the balcony of the Roxy Theatre in New York City.

While not prepared to testify regarding the merits of the installation from the standpoint of increased efficiency made possible in seating patrons, as our observations were not made during the peak hours, it is obviously clear that the system has proved effective in the prevention of accidents among patrons as three safety features are provided:

1. The distribution of light upon the stairways at the entrance to each aisle is sufficient to enable a patron to find his seat easily without stumbling or without striking against the seat.

2. As the system makes it possible for ushers to seat patrons in a more orderly fashion and more rapidly because of knowledge as to the exact location of vacated seats, it can readily be seen that much confusion will be avoided and the possibility of accident minimized.

3. As the existence of inoperative seats may readily be detected and thus corrected without the necessity of frequent inspection of all seats in the theatre, the possibility of injury arising from this source is greatly decreased. In addition, it is practically impossible under the present plan for a patron upon entering an aisle to strike a seat left down, as the seat automatically returns to a vertical position after being vacated. In the event that this does not take place, the light indicator quickly shows it, thus enabling the management to correct the trouble promptly.

In order to determine the effectiveness of the seat indicator from an accident prevention standpoint, an analysis of the frequency of accidents in the balcony recorded in the hospital files for the period of a year prior to the installation has been made by us, compared with the record of a corresponding period thereafter. This shows whereas 111 accidents were recorded during the first period, only fifty-one occurred during the latter, thus representing a reduction in accident frequency of 54%.

We sincerely hope that you will meet with great success in interesting the management of theatres in your product, as we are satisfied that it provides very desirable accident prevention features.

Very truly yours,

R. Ebenstein
President
GOLDE MANUMATIC
(MANUAL AUTOMATIC)
THE PERFECT CHANGEOVER
SWIFT
1/50 Second.

POSITIVE
Mechanical linkage.

QUIET
Can't be heard ten feet away.

SIMPLE
Only five moving parts.

The Most Radical Improvement in Changeovers Ever Offered

Golde's done it again! This time it's a changeover shutter that can be installed on both machines by the projectionist in twenty minutes. It fits any model Simplex. With one flip of a little lever one shutter is opened and the other closed. The same movement controls the tension gate and the fire shutter. No need to reach over hot gates to trip shutter. Pulling the lever as it is pressed opens the shutter for framing without dropping the one on the running machine. Lever automatically assumes "ready position" when let go. No clang like a dropped dishpan when the Manumatic Changeover works.

COMPLETE FOR 2 MACHINES, $45.00

Watch for details next month

OTHER GOLDE PROJECTION PERFECTORS

The Unilens Method Pioneered by Golde Not Yet Equaled
Projects sound or silent film, getting pictures of equal size from both. The lenses now in your machines can be used in Unilens Mounts—no need to buy costly new optical glass. Unilens Aperture Plates are used with Unilens Mounts. Merely touching two little levers makes the change from sound track film to silent and back. Pictures from both are centered on the screen—the audience can't tell them apart. The Unilens Method is now the standard of single lens projection. The Unilens Mount and the Unilens Aperture Plate fit any Simplex, and are sold separately. Unilens Mount, $25.00. Unilens Aperture Plate, $15.00.

The National Automatic Deluxe Rewind

The most silent of all rewinders, absolutely cannot be heard inside or outside the projection room. Starts when the door closes stops when end of film is reached. Cannot run with door open. Easy to load and unload; gravity places the reels on their spindles. Absolutely safe: one-piece cast iron body and aluminum cover. Nickel steel spindles run in special cast bearings. Soundless motor controlled by everlasting mercury switch. Automobile type brake, asbestos lined. Beautiful black crystallized lacquer finish. Wired, ready to install, $140.00.

GOLDE Framing Light Shield
A light shield, framing light and observation window in one unit. Allows view of the condenser light as the cooling plate. Makes framing easy, eliminates framing after the film is in motion. Covers the full aperture with white light while threading; essential to setting sound film. Gives light enough to read reel parts in the machine; no chance to start the wrong reel. Makes an ideal unit when used in combination with the manumatic changeover. Complete with lamps and wiring, $31.00.

GOLDE Carbon Jaw Lap

A handy little convenience that saves its cost the first time it is used. Prevents carbon breakage, double the life of carbon jaws. It prevents scorching and burning away by putting a smooth true surface on the jaws. The carbon then feeds smoothly and has full electrical contact. Use it and you will always have intense light without interruptions from breakage. Fits 9 mm. and 13 mm carbon jaws. Costs only $2.00.

WRITE FOR DETAILED INFORMATION

GOLDE Mfg. Co., 2015 LeMoyne
Street-Chicago, Illinois
NOTES ON WRITERS AND SUBJECTS IN THIS ISSUE:

More and more one notices a growing interest in artificial lighting as a decorative medium. For some time it hasn't been difficult to predict this development, and indeed it has been predicted, as well as urged, many times by various designers writing in Better Theatres. In this reference, the usual type of decorative illumination with which we have been familiar in motion picture theatres (characterized chiefly by colored light cast from coves upon some elaborate background), is not meant so much as a type of illumination which, instead of being independent of the design and only rather artificially superimposed upon it, does actually form an integral part of the design. In the common type, the problems are essentially those elementary ones of interior decoration. In the other, however, there is a vast field for experiment in what becomes, for the designer who knows his light, a really new art form. It was to stimulate this interest further, and also to report what may be done and what is being sought in this field, that an artist-technician in illumination was sought to discuss the subject in these pages, and the editors of Light found one for us among their General Electric colleagues. Thus did "The Modern Use of Light in the Theatre" come to be written. It represents experience and experiments of the laboratories of the National Mazda Lamp Works at Nela Park, Cleveland, where C. M. Cutler is attached to the engineering staff. And Mr. Cutler had the full assistance of his colleagues in his preparation of the article.

It was fall that business leaders pointed to as the time when the business recession would begin to move upward, and Morris M. Wilcox offers a timely review of the economic situation ("The Lowering of Theatre Building Costs") emphasizing, with reference to the theatre field, the conditions regarding new construction, in order, as he has told us, that some facts which would seem to have been lost sight of, may be brought forward. Mr. Wilcox is a contributor to many current financial and industrial publications and is also a special writer for the Chicago Journal of Commerce, daily financial newspaper. He resides in Evanston.

Regarding the striking new Fox theatre described in this issue, the Wilshire in Beverly Hills, Cal., one recalls the remarks, not heard so much now, to the effect that the new modern elements of design were too severe and cold for adaptation to such a haven of unreality as the motion picture theatre ought to be. For further comment, we refer our readers to the description and pictures themselves ("The Modern Motif in Fantastic Mood"). Tom Hacker is a member of the editorial staff of the Herald-World, attached to the Hollywood office.

Again is offered, in recognition of this special issue, a portfolio of views selected to indicate, so far as possible, the trend during the last six months in theatre design. "Recent Creations in Theatre Design," it may be pointed out, is a regular feature of the Buyers Numbers of Better Theatres.

In contrast to the Wilshire, we have with us this time the Punch and Judy theatre in Chicago. This is modernism in the mood commonly referred to when this style of design is mentioned. For those who like the severer note, the Punch and Judy is fascinating. Done by sincere artists, it is probably one of the most honest creations in the motif that we have in this country, and those especially interested in such matters, will undoubtedly be reminded of several of the finest examples of the manner erected in Germany. This house also presents unusually interesting phases both as a theatre and as a solution to many structural problems in remodeling. Nick John Matsoukas, who discusses it in "The Unconventional Punch and Judy," is a Chicago writer who, through his association with the Punch and Judy management in another venture, was in close touch with the designers during the period of its creation.

Leo T. Parker, whose "Copyrighted Radio Music in Theatres" is one of his series on the Theatre and the Law, is an attorney-at-law in Cincinnati.

W. H. Moore ("The Final Link in London's Chain of Astoria Theatres") is the editor of The Bioscope, leading British film trade paper.

There are too many features in this issue to be commented on here more than may be deemed especially desirable, but we should like to point out that "How to Buy Acoustical Correction" is a direct response to many inquiries received by Better Theatres from exhibitors apparently a bit puzzled by it all. We hope this article is at least a helpful answer. It should be, for R. L. Lindahl is an acoustical engineer who has had a great amount of experience, both experimental and practical, in the acoustical correction of motion picture theatres.
IT PAYS TO MAKE IT A COMPLETE JOB

Equipping a theatre completely from one source is of greater value than its decided convenience. The Exhibitor who buys National Equipment from start to finish finds a wider range of theatre supplies, of drapery fab-ricks and carpet patterns, from which to make his selection. He is afforded the counsel and advice of specialists in every phase of theatre equipping. He profits by the all-inclusive guarantee of satisfaction that is an integral part of every National Purchase. He is protected by an unequalled maintenance service — always within his reach. Every dollar that he invests buys a full dollar’s worth of merchandise . . . From every standpoint, it pays to make it a complete job—a National job.

This stamp of approval means quality . . . in materials, in workmanship, in practicability.
Look for it in the advertisements of theatre equipment manufacturers.
Any product with which it is linked has passed National’s rigid tests of excellence and is available at any National Branch.

NATIONAL THEATRE
SUPPLY COMPANY
Branches in all Principal Cities
THE MODERN USE OF LIGHT IN THE THEATRE

By C. M. CUTLER

Illumination technique authoritatively discussed for the architect and the exhibitor

This theatre habit that the American people have acquired is not a new one. Like many another pleasant habit, it was handed down from the ancient Greeks and dates back at least two full millennia.

To be sure, the ancients went to the theatre much as our generation goes to a ball game—in a brave mood and fair weather. Fair weather, because the theatre was out-of-doors and a drizzle or scorching sun could end the performance.

A brave mood, because the stone seats were a decided strain on the emotions, and the action—with neither scenery nor light to contribute to its realism—a strain on the imagination.

And, if the theatregoer of 25 centuries ago could not while away a rainy afternoon with a matinee, or cheer his drooping spirits with a comedy, neither could he go to a show of an evening. There weren't any, because there were no means of illuminating a theatre after dark. So the Greek theatre, while undoubtedly popular, was not as insidiously habit-forming as ours.

About 1600 A. D., the theatre came in out of the rain, and in the 330 years since that time it has acquired cushioned seats, excellent ventilation and everything that goes to make for physical comfort. Yet even today there are those who squirm toward the close of a three-hour performance, who restlessly pace the foyers during intermissions and otherwise indicate that they are acutely in favor of rushing the play right through.

Progressive showmen have noted this tendency and recognize that a relaxed audience requires something more than physical comfort when they are not occupied with the entertainment of the evening. And when they are so occupied, something to increase the mood of the play will not come amiss. Showmen are bent on supplying that "something," and they confidently indulge in the slang prophecy that "it won't be long now."

Already the theatre auditorium is a beautiful place. Unique architecture, lavish decorations and draperies have all contributed to make the theatregoer's surroundings please him. But the impression is less pleasing as the surroundings become familiar. A theatre interior, no matter how lovely, ceases to "intrigue" when one has counted the statues and gargoyle and is familiar with every fold of the draperies.

The cry is not only for something new and beautiful, but for something that can grow old and still be beautiful. Something that will fit each particular theatre auditorium and yet be adaptable to all kinds, shapes and sizes of them.

Something easily controlled and changed, that can still contribute that subtlety known as atmosphere, so much more vital in theatres than in any other surroundings.

The theatre decorations must harmonize with the mood of the moment, no matter what that mood may be. The only mode of decoration flexible enough to suit the sad, the glad, and all moods in between, is light.

The principle was first noticed in the first century A. D., when Valerius Maximus states that the sun shining through the yellow, red and blue awnings, which were stretched over the large theatres for protection, dyed spectators and players alike with the colors of the transmitted sunlight. As they fluttered in the breeze, these awnings sent shifting patterns of color throughout the theatre, and demonstrated to the assembled Romans the decorative qualities of what we are pleased to call mobile color lighting.

Take the single case of the recently devised Colorama, which with simple equipment gives startling results. Installed in a few coves, Colorama becomes the decorative motif of the room, like a piece of statuary or some other dominant objet d’art. Installed in all the coves, it may become the principal decoration of the house. In the case of the latter type of installation, for general decoration, little other embellishment or color is needed, since an auditorium that can, with a mere twist of the wrist, be filled with glowing patterns of color and light, with combinations of color and design to fit each mood, is enough adorned.

Here is the only type of elaborate decoration that can grow old gracefully. Because it need never grow old. Its shifting patterns may be changed at will by merely altering the shapes of the baffles with which coves are lined.

A ledge or cove, surmounted by an inwardly curving wall or ceiling surface, forms the basis for a Colorama installation. Concealed in the coves are lamps of several colors, on two sides of a zig-zag baffle screen—or inside and outside of baffles of cylindrical, rectangular, horseshoe and other shapes, according to the series of designs desired. Furthermore, stenciled masks of figures and designs can be placed over the top of the baffle and thereby projected out on the wall or ceiling surface.

A combination of different shapes can be used in the same unit, as shown in Figure 1, thus multiplying the already large number of possible combinations. And if the combinations of designs are innumerable, so are those of color.

When various colored lamps are lighted in front of the baffle screen, color shadows are produced on the wall and ceiling above in drawn-out magnified form. The background appears luminous in color as lamps back of the baffle are lighted. It is the combination of the colored forms and the colored background which is attractive. Since all lamps of each color inside the flutes are connected to one circuit, provided with dimming control, the colors can be shaded and controlled at will. Similarly, those of each color outside the flutes are connected to a dimming control, so that any color, either inside or outside can be easily and effectively shaded and changed.

Light sources should be small, since the effectiveness of Colorama depends upon the projection of fairly sharp shadows. Either bare lamps then are used, of natural-colored glass, or standard lamps with natural-colored glass hoods in dust-proof light-tight holders.

Wattages suggested for different colors of lamps are, blue, 300 watts; red, 200 watts; green, 150 watts; and clear, 75 watts. Color hoods have proved more satisfactory and less costly in the end than colored lamps.

Many theatres of the future will no doubt have coves built to accommodate some such lighting installation as Colorama. Other theatres, however, will have coves that are decorative features of the house because of their lighting. Both the size and the shape of the cove are important features to consider in planning the lighting of the house. In lighting a domed cove, for example, two methods can be used. If the cove is large, the light must be projected some little distance, which will make the use of reflectors imperative if smooth lighting is to be obtained.

Reflectors may be concealed at the bottom of the cove, behind a cornice or protruding lip and so located as to be (Continued on page 123)
THE LOWERING OF THEATRE BUILDING COSTS

By MORRIS M. WILCOX

Reviewing the economic factors encouraging increased construction activity

"Wholesale prices for building materials are lower on the general idea than at any time since the fall of 1917... Prices for building materials, in sympathy with the general trend of commodity prices, declined further during September... Increased labor efficiency, such as usually comes in times of slack employment, is operating to reduce construction costs... while money which may be made available for needed building projects when demand asserts itself, continues to accumulate."—F. W. Dodge Corporation, September Building Reports.

"There is a general business recession and unemployment, although these factors must operate in the face of a national economic record which shows the United States consistently increasing in national wealth, in the income of the people as a whole and other factors that contribute to long-term prosperity."
THE MODERN MOTIF IN FANTASTIC MOOD

Describing the Wilshire in Beverly Hills, Cal., a new Fox theatre that challenges the theory that the modernist can't play make-believe

By TOM HACKER

The new Fox Wilshire in Beverly Hills, Cal., just opened, represents the ultimate in dazzling and daring treatment. Basing his design on modernistic principles, S. Charles Lee, the architect, employed a unique and highly imaginative motif, which is incorporated in both interior and exterior of the large edifice. The Wilshire seats 2,500 persons, making it the third largest motion picture theatre in Los Angeles.

The Fox Wilshire was constructed around basic acoustical and projection plans. Beginning at the extreme rear of the stage, the auditorium is fashioned in the shape of a mammoth horn to attain perfect sound reception.

The color scheme is silver and black and coral, with an elegant organ screen forming the proscenium arch. The organ console carries the same design and is flanked on either side by glass panels overlaid with bright silvery metal.

Three views of the Wilshire, showing the tower-like exterior (with its revolving sign), the organ screen spanning the proscenium, and a small general lounge off the foyer.
Various colored lights are installed in the rear of the two panels. The electric lighting fixtures are multi-colored and the light is reflected in the silver, changing the entire color effect of the auditorium as the light dissolves from one shade into another.

The extreme modern design of the house extends also to its individual furnishings and seats, all of which were especially created. The mammoth curtain is a distinct innovation. Opening in an iris, it develops from three to four phases of color and design as it unfolds. Coral shades, beginning in the carpets, are carried into the color scheme of the seats, blending gradually upward into the many shades of silver and black in the mural and ceiling decorations.

IN line with the advanced theory of construction, the Fox Wilshire has an oval foyer, with curving stairs on either side leading to the balcony. Toilet facilities are located on a half-level of these stairs, as opposed to the usual basement location. This position affords these rooms an abundance of light and air. A cosmetic room adds to the facilities of the women’s department.

The treatment of the main foyer, like that of the balance of the house, is black, coral and silver, having black walls and a silver ceiling supported on silver columns. Of the dark shade, three tones are featured, including dull, medium and bright. Light cast on these tones gives an effect of red, silver and black.

As extra insurance against casualty, the building was constructed of monolithic concrete, which is said to be both fire-proof and earthquake-proof. Fire (Continued on page 101)
Miniature Golf

NOW that one may view its phenomenal development in retrospect, one is constrained to remark, "Well, it was inevitable—miniature golf just had to come." Observe the extraordinary popularity of its parent!

Despite the large financial requirements of golf—the kind Bobby Jones plays so well—the game has compelled surrender to its fascination everywhere, among people in ordinary circumstances as well as among millionaires, in the small town as effectively as in the metropolis. It seems but natural now that eventually there has evolved a form of golf that can give something of the thrill of the original sport without involving the latter's inconveniences and cost.

If at prices of from 25 to 50 cents, the vast army of golf enthusiasts (and those who would be if they could) can play a game based on their favorite pastime, with no more trouble than it takes to walk or ride a few blocks, this new game must retain, and most probably increase, the enormous popularity it has already won during its brief existence. Shrewd minds in other divisions of the amusement field apparently think so.

A number of leaders in one such division (no less than the motion picture industry) have indicated this belief by more than words.

Miniature golf courses are being associated with motion picture theatres in many instances, and the number of these is increasing. This association is taking several forms. Adaptation of a miniature golf course in connection with the theatre for exploitation purposes is one of them. Another is the installation of the tiny links in theatre buildings which the erection of new theatres has made poor business establishments. In many instances, of course, miniature golf courses are operated frankly by motion picture exhibitors as allied amusement ventures for the purpose of adding to their incomes.

But the game has been adapted to the requirements of indoor sports. Store space and other parts of commercial buildings, particularly in the larger cities, are already being remodeled for the installation of miniature golf equipment. In cities like New York and Chicago, a number of Indoor courses are now in operation, and it is only logical to expect that miniature golf will thrive indoors this winter as it did the past summer outdoors.

The low prices at which miniature golf is available to a vast public, and the easy accessibility of the courses, makes it worthy of the attention of all in the amusement industry whose success depends on these very same factors. Factors, it scarcely need be pointed out, which contribute so importantly to the prosperity of the motion picture theatre.

A Sound Theatre Orchestra

A TYPE of orchestra organized with the special conditions of the sound film theatre is suggested by an English writer, A. W. Owen, in a recent issue of the London Kinema. He notes first of all that "within the last six months, with one exception, every cinema which has been opened in Greater London has engaged an orchestra and installed a unit organ."

"The size of the orchestra," he writes, "is, of course, a difficult problem, but I heard an audition given in the Scala theatre a few days ago by a band of nine pieces, got together and rehearsed for two solid weeks, by a very able and proficient musical director. Stage and spot lighting was used with excellent effect. The grouping of both instruments and instrumentalists was carefully studied and was ideal for such a combination." He gives the combination as follows:

Leader (violinist, doubling alto saxophone), repetiteur violinist (doubling tenor saxophone), cellist (doubling banjo and alto saxophone), clarinet (doubling alto saxophone), trumpet (doubling post horn and stunt trombone), drummer (with tympani, bass and side drums, bells, etc.), and a pianist.

The difficulties offered by such a combination are obviously those of the right performers.

The difficulties are lessened, however, by what must be a fact—an effective combination could be worked out in a number of ways. Indeed, it has on occasion been accomplished in this country, though never pursued far enough, perhaps.

Conditions change, as we know full well in the motion picture industry. It should not surprise any one if the time comes when many theatres minor to those of super-de luxe class will find it desirable to augment the sound picture program with organ and orchestral music. This suggestion, of a "little symphony" orchestra organized carefully in instrumentation for the precise conditions of the motion picture theatre showing sound films, is doubtless one worth remembering.
In this section is attempted a pictorial representation of the trend in theatre design during the last six months. Although construction was affected by curtailment in business and industry generally, the period produced some notable theatres, among them an increased number erected for popular patronage that yet were strictly modern in design. Several of these reveal an original evaluation of the modernistic elements from a distinctly theatrical point of view. In other types novelty of detail was introduced, while others continued to assert the popularity of the period and atmospheric manners. Due to the limitations of space, many interesting examples cannot be included, but those theatres represented indicate the trend in the English-speaking countries
Above
PANTAGES
Hollywood
By E. Marcus Pratika

Right
LITTLE PICTURE HOUSE
New York, N. Y.
By Pruitt & Brown

LOUNGES Above
GRANADA
Montreal
By D. J. Crichton

Left PANTAGES
Hollywood
By E. Marcus Pritlea

FOYERS
Right
PLAYHOUSE
Newark, N. J.
By Michael & Beatrice Mindlin

FOYERS
Auditoriums

Upper View
FOX
Visalia, Cal.
By Balch & Stanbery

Lower View PLAYHOUSE
Newark, N. J.
By Michael & Beatrice Mindlin
Above
PARAMOUNT
Lynn, Mass.
by Rapp & Rapp

Left
TEXAS
San Angelo, Tex.
by W. Scott Dunne

AUDITORIUMS
The unconventional PUNCH & JUDY

THE "little theatre" movement has courageously invaded the Loop and the result, architecturally, is a most interesting transformation of one of Chicago's oldest "legitimate" theatres into a motion picture house not only modern but vigorously modernistic, and as such, it is probably one of the most successful examples of this manner that we have in America.

The Punch and Judy is an extension of the ventures of Louis Machat, who followed his establishment of "little cinemas" in Eastern cities with that of another in Chicago's Towertown about a year ago.

In its theatrical aspects, the Punch & Judy does not represent the "little cinema" idea in its strictest sense. The theatre opened September 18, with D. W. Griffith's "Abraham Lincoln" and will follow a policy of presenting American-made pictures of the type regarded as appealing to the so-called "discriminating" portion of the citizenry. The price on opening night was $11 a seat. The Griffith production was thereafter shown three times a day at an evening top price of $2, until the fourth week of the run, when the main floor price was reduced to $1 for evening performances, and to 75 cents for matinees.

Certain characteristics of the "little cinema" or "art theatre" movement have been retained, such as the display of art works and the serving of coffee in the foyer. But, besides regarding the American film as worthy of serious exhibition, the Punch and Judy does not have the inhibition toward the audible film manifested quite generally in the "little cinema" movement. The policy, indeed, provides for the showing of "the cream of the domestic talking pictures."

Altogether, the Punch and Judy may be described as a commercial motion picture theatre catering to those who prefer the more profound efforts in production, and who would find a special pleasure in viewing them in the type of environment the Punch & Judy provides. Louis Machat calls it the forerunner of a new type. And he hopes there will be more, regardless of whether or not he runs them himself.

The character of this house, subtitled "the cinema unique," is really very well indicated in its very design. As an architectural piece, it represents the combined efforts of three men. Eugene Fuhrer was the architect. Nicholas Ramesoff, former stage designer for the Chauve-Souris, is responsible for the design. Edgar Miller adorned the foyers with several plaques, one of which a modeling of the familiar figure of "Punch," is reproduced in conjunction with this article.

They had many artistic and architectural problems to solve. The Punch and Judy has been made out of the Central on Van Buren Street between Wabash and Michigan Avenues, an antiquated playhouse lodged in an office building and reached from the street by a flight of stairs. The old Central failed in almost every way to perform the function of a modern theatre. The product of another architectural period, it still retained the disadvantages of those days. There were, for example, two pairs of pillars in the auditorium, obstructive to the view and unbeautiful. They supported the upper floors, however, and were needed, but though kept, they were turned into two massive elliptical columns by joining the rear two to those just forward. Painted in sharp blues and contrasting with the honey-brown color of the plastered walls and the cherry-red chairs and carpets, they enter dynamically, in hue and line, into the auditorium design as a whole.

The ceiling of the old theatre also was not adaptable in its original state to the scheme the designers had in mind. A dome was introduced, with an elliptically shaped outline, hiding the sockets of the indirect lighting that illuminates the stage. The outlines of the dome carry out the architectural lines of the rest of the auditorium, which carries the eye in a bold unbroken sweep from rear to stage. Eugene Fuhrer said:

It took much adept remodeling to transform the old-fashioned Central "legit" into a "cinema unique." The result, however, is a new Chicago film theatre that is one of America's purest expressions of the modernistic manner. Indeed, all that was conventional, both in architecture and operation, has been entirely swept away.

By NICK JOHN MATSOUKAS
"Mr. Ramisoff and I, in order to increase the feeling of close contact with the stage and the audience, carried out the architectural treatment of the dome and the side walls into the stage, creating the impression that no separation exists between the audience and the dramatic action on the silver screen."

At the stage is a silver cloth curtain with diamond-shaped decorative red pieces. Outside of Edgar Miller's two plaques of Punch and Judy adorning the entrance lobby, this curtain is the only interior expression of the theatre's name—a conscious effort not to make the name of the theatre self-revealing.

Hardly a trace of the old Central is evident in the Punch and Judy. The auditorium underwent a radical structural transformation, affecting both size and appearance. The once flat seating arrangement became more curved, producing an effect of greater compactness. In size, the auditorium became smaller. From a seating capacity of 990, it was reduced to one of 354. The rear auditorium wall was moved inward 15 feet, to the position of the first two columns that supported the balcony, which were moved forward, as previously noted. The two balconies of the Central were reduced to one 68-seat loge.

A special point of interest is the seating arrangement of the loge. The seats are sparsely arranged in three rows, with a 42-inch separation between each row. Here patrons may smoke and drink a cup of coffee while viewing the film. Individual smoking stands and aluminum trays to place one's cup and saucer on are provided. A feeling of exclusiveness and privacy is thus encouraged in the loge.

The removal of the old proscenium outward 15 feet was followed by the erection of a supporting wall for the audible screen 15 feet from the rear wall of the stage. The dressing rooms and the space provided by the erection of the screen wall will be used for the production of shorts, or experimental movies, by members of the Punch and Judy staff.

More foyer space was gained through the removal of the central exit door about five feet towards the street. Thus the foyer became more rectangular. The wall spaces hiding the elevator shafts of the old building, square in form, were retained to an advantage, for they serve to divide the foyer-lounge into separate sections, which gives the patron quite an effect of privacy.

Another part of the old theatre that underwent radical changes is the stairway. The former stairway was straight, while the new one has two landings in a zig-zag formation, with only three steps at the street level landing, and five at that of the foyer. The foyer-lounge of the Punch and Judy is simply treated in a modernistic motif. The decorative pattern is really supplied by various structural elements of the building itself as we noted in the case of the elevator shafts.

Illumination throughout the theatre is from coves or semi-concealed fixtures, the latter for the most part being built into the walls or at the corners of pillars. Everywhere the illumination system is a part of the general design of the house, with the secondary fixtures contributing color rather than effectively giving light.

The auditorium is illuminated almost entirely through reflection. Where the ceiling sweeps down toward the stage, a cove is set in, opening toward the curtain and invisible to the audience. Into the area, formed by the break in the ceiling surface, which at its top is a unique modification of a proscenium arch, the light is cast, falling upon the silvery curtain and being effectively reflected back into the auditorium proper. The honey-brown walls of the auditorium readily absorb the light and the entire chamber is illuminated in one soft tone. There are hence no deep shadows, and the curves being broad and the room being high, the auditorium has a spaciousness not supported by its actual dimensions.

A new ventilating system was installed, employing the downward method, with intake ducts at the ceiling and outlet mushrooms under the chairs. The entire auditorium may be given a change of air in one minute.

The presentation of artistic innovations in cinematography has interested Louis Machat for years. "During my years in the film business," he told me, "I have built up in my mind a structure which incorporates all the dignity and exclusiveness appropriate to the presen-
The auditorium, looking toward the rear and right side, a striking view that gives the eye full benefit of the sweep and bold symmetry of this unusual room. The columns, rising like pylons (or like the stacks of a great ship) are really double pillars tied together after the rear wall of the auditorium was moved inward, forcing the reallocation of one pair of supports.
Forward section of the auditorium, showing the novel proscenium arch curving outward toward the ceiling, not only creating a definite break in the ceiling line but affording the location of the principal source of illumination for the entire auditorium. The glare indicated in the photograph is from a light cove set into the ceiling, from which the light is cast upon a brilliant curtain and is reflected into the room.
A vertical panorama from the rear of the auditorium and toward the right forward corner, emphasizing the plain surfaces and strong lines that mark the entire design. This picture convincingly shows how this small chamber (seating but 350) is deceivingly spacious in both breadth and height. The little strips on the forward wall are ventilation grilles—and frankly so. All seats are placed 36 inches apart.
This view is toward the staircase that leads directly from the lobby at the street level and is from a point practically at the extreme left of the foyer. This combination of promenade and lounge is almost entirely without any decoration beyond its own lines. One fairly large room, it is cut up by elevator shafts serving the offices in the building, but these structural necessities seem only to divide it into intimate little "parlors" of considerable privacy. The coffee service is shown at the left.
COPYRIGHTED RADIO MUSIC IN THEATRES

By LEO T. PARKER

Is such music legal? and the Law: Breach of contract, municipal liability

CONSIDERABLE discussion has arisen from time to time regarding whether a theatre owner is liable as an infringer where, without obtaining a license, he "tunes in" copyrighted music in his theatre. This important point of the law was decided in the recent case of Buck v. Debaum (40 F. 2d [24] 734).

In this case the owner of a copyrighted piece of music named "Indian Love Call" filed suit against a proprietor for damages alleging infringement of the copyright on the grounds that the latter had, without obtaining a license or permit, tuned in and obtained over a radio a reproduction of the music to the enjoyment of his patrons. The proprietor "tuned in" to the broadcasting station to "listen in" on its program generally, and did not specifically intend to "pick up" the "Indian Love Call" in particular. The copyrighted musical composition was at that time being lawfully performed and broadcasted by the broadcasting station. In holding the proprietor not liable for infringement, the court said:

"There can be no question but that, under the decision of the Supreme Court in Herbert v. Stanley Cuppoy (242 U. S. 591), the defendant (proprietor) in this case did what he did 'publicly' and 'for profit,' and, if his conduct moreover amounted to a 'performance' within the meaning of the cited copyright act, then he should be enjoined from further violation of complainant's property right to exclusively enjoy the fruits of this copyrighted musical composition, and should also be mulcted in damages in accordance with the Copyright Law for this infringement. . . . It seems to me to be clear that, when plaintiff licensed the broadcasting station to disseminate the 'Indian Love Call,' he impliedly sanctioned and consented to any 'pick up' out of the air that was possible in radio reception. . . . One who manually or by human agency merely actuates electrical instrumentalities, whereby inaudible elements that are omnipresent in the air are made audible to persons who are within hearing, does not 'perform' within the meaning of the Copyright Law. The performance in such case takes place in the studio of the broadcasting station, and the operator of the receiving set in effect does nothing more than one would do who opened a window and permitted the strains of music of a passing band to come within the enclosure in which he was located.'

BREACH OF CONTRACT

GENERALLY speaking, the rule undoubtedly is, that after notice of repudiation or breach of a contract, the other party cannot complete the contract and sue for the full contract price, or for any increased damages resulting from the refusal to continue to perform. It is usually held that one party to an executory contract has the power to repudiate it; that the remedy of the other party is an action for damages caused by the breach of the contract; and that one party who has certain obligations resting upon him under his contract has no right to proceed to execute it after he has been notified that the other party will not stand by the contract.

For instance, in Fine Art Pictures Corporation v. Karzin (29 S. W. 2d [24] 170), it was shown that certain theatre owners in a city entered into a contract for an option to purchase a film exchange.

The contract provided that out of the money received from the business, the theatre owners were to give to the seller of the business 65 per cent of the sum realized from film rentals for the first ten weeks, and 70 per cent thereafter, and 80 per cent of the sum realized from the sale of advertising matter, such sums to be applied against the full purchase price in the event that the theatre owners should elect to exercise their option to purchase. It was further provided that the theatre owners were to pay all expenses in connection with the operation of the business.

The theatre owners took over the business and operated it until finding that they were unable to operate it profitably when they voluntarily quit and called upon the seller to take charge of the business and assets. The seller did take back the business and thereafter for the remainder of the year carried it on and paid all operating expenses. The expenses amounted to $8,452 less the commissions due the theatre owners netting a total loss of $6,599. The sellers of the film exchange business sued the theatre owners to recover this amount. In holding the latter liable, the court said:

"The damages recoverable for the breach of a contract are such as may fairly and reasonably be considered either as arising naturally, that is, according to the usual course of things, from such breach itself, or such as may reasonably be supposed to have been in the contemplation of both parties at the time they made the contract as the probable result of a breach thereof."

MUNICIPAL THEATRES

COUNTER to the opinion of the majority of people, municipal corporations are not limited to providing necessities for their citizens. In fact, when state laws give proper authority, a municipality may expend money to improve the comfort, health, pleasure, or education of its citizens. Therefore, a municipality is not limited to policing the city, to paving the streets, to provide light, water, sewers, docks, and markets.

The power of cities and towns to maintain institutions which educate and instruct as well as please and amuse their inhabitants, such as schools, libraries, botanical and zoological gardens, and the like, is unquestioned. Also, the reasonable use of money for memorial halls, monuments, entrances, gates or archways, celebrations, the publication of town histories, parks, roads leading to points of fine natural scenery, decorations upon public buildings, etc., has received such general sanction that there can be no doubt that municipal corporations may be constitutionally authorized to expend money raised by taxation for such purposes.

It is important to know that the trend of the courts in recent years has been to permit municipalities a wider range in promoting the public welfare or enjoyment. Thus, the appropriation of money for public concerts and the erection of an auditorium has been held valid. In other words, at present, anything calculated to promote the education, or the recreation, or the pleasure of the public is within the legitimate domain of a municipality and it has been held that authority to erect and conduct an opera house or a theatre building may be conferred upon a municipal corporation.

The latest higher court case on this subject is Meyer v. City of Cleveland (171 N. E. 606). In this case the authority of a city to construct a stadium (Continued on page 128)
The fourth theatre of the group to be built within a year, the Finsbury Park Astoria completes a circuit of deluxe houses designed to equal in grandeur any theatre in the United Kingdom.

By W. H. MOORING

The Astoria, Finsbury Park, which opened on September 29, may well claim to be the last word in construction, comfort and entertainment. Its completion marks the crowning point of a most ambitious scheme, in which it was the definite intention of the board of directors of the Astoria chain to open in Greater London four of the largest and most up-to-date super-cinemas in the United Kingdom, if not in Europe, within twelve months. The already-opened sister theatres of the Finsbury Park Astoria are those at Brixton, Old Kent Road and Streatham.

The theatre, which occupies an extraordinarily fine island site at the corner of Seven Sisters Road and Isledon Road, overlooks one of the busiest traffic centers in London. Bus routes from every part of North London pass its door, and it is exactly opposite the Finsbury Park underground station, and only 20 minutes from the London West End. Full advantage has been taken of the island site to permit of properly supervised car parks on either side of the building.

The vast interior has been designed on Spanish lines, and throughout the whole theatre this beautiful atmosphere has been created and maintained.

Past the pay-boxes, which are fitted with the most up-to-date and efficient change and ticket giving machines, the... patrons enter the spacious vestibule which has been designed in the form of an octagonal courtyard. The whole is commanded by a central fountain of dull green and gold mosaic, standing on eight pillars. Above, a balcony with decorative iron railings overlooks the fountain, and high above is the domed ceiling with its brilliant scarlet and blue mosaic. An unusual effect has been obtained by the inclusion of little kiosks for the sale of iced drinks, chocolates and cigarettes in the walls of the courtyard.

Up the stairs, the circle patron will approach the balcony seats by way of the promenade leading to the tea lounge, vast in its area and daring in its decorative scheme. Moorish architecture is suggested by the windows, whilst the ceiling is of solid gold. The balcony approach gives a foretaste of the wonders of the auditorium. The ceiling is deep blue "sky" whilst the fringe of quaint tiles breaking the wall above one's head emphasizes the courtyard impression. Through artistic wall apertures one can glimpse to the right the sun-bathed hills rolling away in the distance, whilst ahead one overlooks the little town of which one now feels almost a part—a Spanish town, with warmth and splendor and romance. Then through the modern swing doors to the circle.

Stalls patrons descend half-dozen broad shallow steps in the vast waiting hall—and thence to the stalls, where all the wonders of this lovely Spanish landscape theatre await them.

The auditorium is novel in its conception. The roof span is claimed to be the greatest in the world. Above stretches the Mediterranean blue sky, where stars twinkle or the sun shines, according to the will of the chief electrician. When the fire curtain (which is part of the landscape effect) is lowered, the illusion is complete. Two great old stone towers flank the proscenium arch right and left, joined above by a realistic upper story of a quaint turretted building complete with windows (with green shutters) and practical doors which lead on to the artistic iron railed balcony. To right and left of the proscenium arch there straggle away, in uneven line, the brilliant roofs of quaint old-fashioned houses.

Fascinating little stone stairs, leading to "behind the scenes," appear here and there. Miniature courtyards and fountains, trailing flowering plants.

The two views of the auditorium (that on the opposite page and that above) show either wall at a point near the proscenium arch, indicating, if the eye moves along the balcony line from one to the other, the vast sweep of the auditorium. The design is atmospheric in Spanish motifs, expressing in relief a Spanish town, with suggestions of landscape and with friezes punctuating the panorama and breaking up its great mass.
and sun-kissed trees all help to complete the illusion. At the back of the circle one glimpses another little house with brilliantly illuminated windows—the operating box, the apertures of which have been cleverly blended into this unusual decorative scheme. The promenade at the back of the circle resembles a stone balustraded terrace.

The luxurious organ has been made by John Compton and has two consoles—one in the orchestra pit and the other (which is mobile) on the stage. The organ chamber is above the proscenium arch, and is hidden by one of the quaint shuttered windowed houses which form part of the decorative scheme.

The orchestra pit, which is of ample proportions, being both deep and wide, will accommodate a large orchestra. The stage, which is probably unique in its dimensions, is as wide as that at Drury Lane theatre, and has been fitted with the most up-to-date counter-weight system for the rapid removal of scenery, and the most modern lighting equipment. Some of the most beautifully equipped dressing rooms, band rooms and staff rooms ever incorporated in any theatre have been installed, whilst a large scenery dock equipped with the most modern devices is also a feature.

A further unique feature of the theatre

(Continued on page 59)
A vital point in the decorative scheme of the motion picture theatre, not only because of its location but also because usually the entire design converges toward it, the organ screen and its attendant elements offer a vast field for the ingenuity of the designer. This modern study incorporates an unconventional head of Comedy as a central point for bold radiations of light.

This focal point of the auditorium, where once were boxes and now is hidden the great organ's mechanisms, is treated here in a group of sketches by C. W. & George L. Rapp of Chicago and New York, theatre architects.
A modern pattern that has as its central motif a lighted fountain symbolizing a Fountain of Music. Incorporating importantly the dynamic quality of changing colored lights, this design suggests the emotional reinforcement of the organ music through mobile color.

Organ screens
A fantastic arrangement of delicate lace-like plaster detail is called for in this design. The plaster would be perforated, forming a most effective type of organ screen. The cathedral-like pattern is to be associated with a general auditorium design of pronounced vertical lines.

Organ screens
An example of the rococo in ornamentation as applied to an organ screen grille so composed as to work well with an elaborate scheme of lighting effects. The suggested colors are green, magenta, orange.
An oriental adaptation for a large screen executed in perforated plaster, with lighting effects forming an integral decorative element. The niches have been introduced especially with this lighting in mind.

Organ screens
The Unbeatable BEATEN!

The Speaker of the Year

Those who are acquainted with the 1930 Wright-DeCoster Reproducers well know what it means when we say that the new 1931 models—the 207 and 217 Jr.—are even superior to models 107 and 117 Jr. They are the last word in efficiency and true, undistorted sound reproduction.

Wright-DeCoster Reproducers Exceed Their Own Performance

In many instances, Wright-DeCoster Reproducers, have been selected after comparative tests with several other speakers. Their superior tonal quality and clarity—their faithful reproduction cannot be equalled.

Attractive Cabinets for Lobby Installations

Both the 207 and 217 Jr. chassis can be furnished in beautiful decorative cabinets for lobby use. Good reproduction in your lobby will keep the “stand-up crowd” from losing patience. Give them record music or radio broadcasts, clear, sharp, soft and pleasing.

Write for complete information and address of nearest sales office

Wright-DeCoster, Inc.
2225 University Avenue St. Paul, Minnesota
SOUND IN THE THEATRE

HOW TO BUY ACOUSTICAL CORRECTION

By R. L. LINDAHL

How much acoustical correction do you need? What will it cost?
Here at last is practical help for those who are puzzled

The problem of acoustical correction has confronted almost every exhibitor who has installed talking motion picture equipment. Few indeed are the fortunate theatre owners who have found their silent houses perfectly satisfactory for sound pictures. The others have had to confront this problem, which is but one of the added complexities of the “talkies,” a problem upon the satisfactory solution of which depends the success of the entire sound installation.

The owner who has installed sound equipment and finds his house acoustically unsatisfactory, is then put in the position of having to purchase a commodity about which he knows very little. Naturally he hesitates to expend a large sum of money for something he cannot be sure will solve his problem. It is the purpose of this article to throw some light upon this problem, and to answer, in as practicably a way as possible, many of the questions which arise in the mind of a theatre owner about to purchase acoustical correction.

It is assumed that the prospective purchaser is somewhat familiar with the reasons why acoustical correction is needed, and how it is possible to determine exactly how much acoustical material be installed, by either having read the articles which have appeared in earlier issues of Better Theatres, or by explanation from the sound equipment manufacturers. It may be well, however, to review briefly the function of an acoustical material.

The reason that over 90 per cent of all motion picture theatres possess poor hearing conditions is because they are finished in hard non-sound absorbing materials, which causes the sound in the theatre to last so long that it interferes with the sound that follows. The correction consists of installing materials that absorb a great deal of sound, thus muffling sound quickly enough so it has not an interfering effect on what follows. The science of acoustical engineering has developed sufficiently so that it is possible to determine just how much absorbent materials should be installed.

The thing which is being bought, then, is sound absorption, and it is well to know how it is measured. The basis of measurement is the sound absorbing unit, or the amount of absorption offered by one square foot of surface that absorbs 100 per cent of the sound that strikes it. Materials are compared by the percentage of the sound they absorb. Thus a material that has a coefficient of .50 or 50 per cent, absorbs one-half the incident sound, and two square feet are needed to furnish one sound absorbing unit. It requires five square feet of a material with an absorption coefficient of .20 to furnish one sound absorbing unit. Therefore, one should remember that the same amount of absorption can be furnished by a small amount of an efficient material, or a larger quantity of a less efficient material.

A natural question is, “How much sound absorption must I buy?” The chart in Figure 1, was drawn to fit the average theatre of from 300 to 1,200 seating capacity and shows how many units of absorption should be added to obtain good hearing conditions. It will be noticed that the larger the volume of the house, the more absorption is needed. To find the number of units needed, obtain the volume in cubic feet by multiplying the floor area by the average height of the theatre.

For example, let us take a theatre rectangular in shape, 40 feet wide, 100 feet long, and an average of 17 feet in height. The floor area is 4,000 square feet, and multiplied by 17 feet, the total area is 68,000 cubic feet. Find 68,000 along the horizontal scale, follow up vertical to the curve, then horizontal to the left to the vertical scale, and read...
1,200 units. In an average house of this size, then, 1,200 sound absorbing units should be added to obtain good acoustics.

The next question is, "How can I get 1,200 sound absorbing units?" It can be obtained by placing in the theatre a sufficient amount of either commercial absorbing materials (carpets, upholstered seats, drapes, stage hangings, or a combination of these). As a general rule, the absorption is obtained by buying commercial acoustical materials, although the factors governing the decision will be discussed later.

There are several distinct types of acoustical treatment which can be purchased. All are similar in that they are porous and allow the sound waves to be dissipated by friction through the minute air channels. One type is composed of the rigid fibre wall boards, composed of cane fibre, wood, licence root, etc., which come in sheets usually half an inch thick, four feet wide, and from six to 12 feet in length, although these may be cut into small tile. Such materials are usually porous and have an absorption coefficient of from .15 to .30. This may vary, slightly, depending upon whether the material is nailed or cemented to plaster, or is put on wood strips, which allows the material to vibrate and absorb more sound, especially at the lower pitches. It is usually necessary to conceal the joints of the boards, as by batten strips. The best insulating value of such boards may also achieve some fuel saving. The surface may be directly exposed without finishing or covering.

Another type of treatment consists of the felts and flexible blanket types of insulation. These may be composed of jute, hair, flax, wood fibre, or other materials, varying in thickness from a quarter of an inch to four inches. The material comes in long rolls and can usually be cemented or nailed to existing walls or ceilings, or it can be nailed to wood strips. The surface is generally rough and not very decorative, so that for best appearances the material is often covered with a stretched membrane of a porous cloth. The absorption coefficient varies with thickness and type, from about .15 for quarter-inch material, to .80 for four-inch thickness. An average is about .15 to .20 for quarter-inch, .20 to .35 for half-inch, .45 to .60 for inch thickness, etc.

A third type of treatment consists of various acoustical plasters, which are porous in character. They are applied over an ordinary plaster scratched coat and have a rough, porous surface. The coefficient for this type ranges from .10 to .30.

A recent development consists of tile formed of moulded rock wool, from six inches to 24 inches in size, which is applied over existing plaster surfaces by cementing. The coefficient is given as .56 in three-quarters of an inch thickness. Another treatment of tile type is in the form of perforated metal pans, inches square, fastened by steel furring tees, and filled with some type of absorbent pad, such as felt, wood fibre, rock wool, etc. The coefficient ranges from .60 to .70, depending upon the filler.

A third tile treatment consists of several thicknesses of fire board laminated together and drilled with a large number of holes to permit access to the inner absorbent fibres by the sound waves. The coefficient ranges from .30 for three-eighths of an inch in thickness, to .70 for one and a quarter inches in thickness. There are also several treatments of excelsior-like composition in tile form, in thicknesses of from one to two inches, with coefficients from .35 to .65.

It is also possible to obtain absorption while refurbishing the theatre. Carpeting the aisles will provide absorption of about .15 units per square foot, or .20 units if padded. By installing different types of upholstered seats one can obtain from 1.5 to 3.0 units per seat. Hangings and draperies, over entrances, upon the stage, etc., will supply from .15 to .40 units per square foot, depending upon thickness and material.

It is seen that it is possible to obtain the 1,200 units of absorption in our example, in a variety of ways. Before deciding, however, every consideration should be weighed. Is the theatre leased or owned? If it is leased, we must write off the cost over the term of the lease and will probably buy cheaper treatment for a short lease. What competition must be met? Is the theatre the only one in town, or do the patrons compare acoustical conditions with some very excellent competitive house? Is appearance a major factor, or is the patronage such that they are not critical? Must some special type of interior architecture be conform'd to, or can any type of material be installed without fear of incongruity? Are the seats worn, so that it will be necessary to reseat soon, or could additional business be secured by more comfortable seats? Must the theatre be redecorated soon, so that the scaffolding could be used for installing acoustical treatment on the ceiling at the same time?

The cost, of course, is a deciding factor in most cases. Some of the materials mentioned above may be bought directly by the theatre owner and installed by him or by local labor, and some of the materials are sold and installed only by the manufacturer or his authorized agent. The rigid wall boards and the felts, generally costing from five cents to fifteen cents a square foot, may be bought by the owner, with an application cost of from five to 20 cents a square foot, depending upon the price of labor and the difficulty of the installation. For surface coverage, this is the cheapest per square foot, but possibly not so cheap per unit of absorption. In houses in small towns, however, where the appearance is not a major factor and the value of the house itself does not justify an expensive or very permanent treatment, very satisfactory results are often obtained.

The acoustical plasters are usually sold and installed by the manufacturers and cost from 15 cents to 30 cents a square foot. For some types of archi-

!Diagram

Figures Show Absorption Coefficients

- 20%
- 30%
- 40%
- 50%
- 60%
- 70%

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SQUARE FEET</th>
<th>1000</th>
<th>1800</th>
<th>2000</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>18</td>
<td>20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>20</td>
<td>36</td>
<td>40</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>30</td>
<td>54</td>
<td>60</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>40</td>
<td>72</td>
<td>80</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5</td>
<td>50</td>
<td>90</td>
<td>100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6</td>
<td>60</td>
<td>108</td>
<td>120</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7</td>
<td>70</td>
<td>126</td>
<td>140</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8</td>
<td>80</td>
<td>144</td>
<td>160</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9</td>
<td>90</td>
<td>162</td>
<td>180</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10</td>
<td>100</td>
<td>180</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The various acoustical tiles, such as rock wool, metal pans with absorbent pads, perforated fibre board, etc., are usually not sold directly, but are sold only on an installed contract basis with a satisfactory result guaranteed, which is advantageous if an owner wishes to relieve himself of any risk. The prices run from 45 cents to 80 cents a square foot, depending upon the material, the difficulty of application, whether the job correct a theatre, with possibly a few drapes and some carpeting. A finer seat, with a spring edge velour seat and perforated fibre back, having an absorption coefficient of about 25, costing from about $8 to $10, will usually correct the average small house. Such resetting, of course, is beneficial in ways other than acoustical, and if it will probably be necessary to reset in the near future, the acoustical feature should be weighed.

The question of maintenance, decoration and cleaning should be considered. If an acoustical treatment is bought to last ten years, it will probably have to be cleaned and decorated, while if the lease on a house will be up in one or two years, this will not be important. Some materials cannot be cleaned readily, nor painted without destroying the acoustical efficiency, while others may be painted with special paints. Only a few materials may be painted with any paint without loss of efficiency. The felt cannot be readily cleaned or painted, although a new membrane can be installed over the material. This may be expensive. The fibre boards may sometimes be painted with special paints with little or no loss of acoustical efficiency, although a careless painter with lead and oil paint may entirely destroy their value.

The acoustical plasters may often be lightly spray-painted with a special paint. The especially installed tiles of rock wool or fibre can sometimes be lightly sanded to clean them, or the perforated materials can be painted, though if the perforations are small, some may close over. It is well to be certain about maintenance and cleaning if the material must stand up for any length of time.

Many owners are shocked by the seemingly high cost of acoustical correction, looking only at the original sum, and not regarding it in the light of an investment. Acoustical correction is a necessary item in order to realize fully from the other sums spent in installing sound, and it should be figured as any other capital expenditure.

Let us assume in our 68,000-cubic-foot house above, which needed 1,200 units for a correction, that we had bought 1,800 square feet of a material having a coefficient of .70, and that the price installed by the manufacturer was 70 cents a square foot, or $1,260. Each square foot of material covered a square foot of plaster having a coefficient of .03, so the effective absorption per square foot was .70 minus .03, or .67. Now 1,800 times .67 equals 1,206 units. The installation must be written off in ten years, let us assume, so allowing 6 per cent interest on the investment, and 4 per cent for maintenance and cleaning, the cost for ten years will be $1,250 plus ten times six per cent of that sum, or a total of $2,520. That means the correction will cost $225 per year, or about 70 cents a day. If we have 750 seats in the house, the cost will amount to less than one-twentieth of a cent per seat per day. On the basis of an admission charge of 25 cents, the correction will be paid for by three admissions a day.
If each day three people attend who would not attend if there were no correction, the cost will be met. And the increased patronage due to good sound would certainly be considerably greater than this number.

In buying acoustical materials, learn what coefficient has been given to the material by actual laboratory tests, as words like "high absorption" mean little. Some of the recognized leading laboratories are those of Professor F. R. Watson, University of Illinois; Professor V. O. Knudsen, University of California at Los Angeles; Dr. Paul E. Sabine, Riverbank Laboratories, Geneva, Ill.; and the Bureau of Standards. The commonly accepted standard of comparison is the sound absorption coefficient at 512 cycles, middle C, since this pitch is at the center of the range of speech and music, and because the average absorption coefficient over the entire audible range is usually closer to the coefficient at this pitch than at any other. Some manufacturers whose material is high in efficiency at one pitch advertise this coefficient instead of the 512-cycle coefficient.

It is impossible to make any general statements about acoustical correction which will apply in every case, since each theatre is an individual problem. The figures above are for general instances and may vary widely for different cases. It is suggested that each owner either attempt to analyze his own theatre carefully, or obtain an analysis from a reputable manufacturer of acoustical materials or from the sound equipment manufacturer, who furnish such service without charge or obligation. Knowing his individual needs and governed by a careful consideration of the factors mentioned above, he should be able to correct his house acoustically in the best and most economical way.

The theatre owner should be cautioned against hastily buying what may at first seem to be the cheapest treatment, since it may prove to be entirely unsuitable. An economical purchase is not always a cheap purchase in first cost. The experience of many theatre owners who bought "fly-by-night" sound equipment and then had to discard it at a loss for replacement by the product of reputable manufacturers, may well set an example for the purchase of acoustical materials.

NEW in the World of Sound

Contributed by G. J. Reid

The new Audak Polyphase Phonopickup, designed to effect tune control, is said to be capable of controlling the tone naturally at its source by means of a system for phasing the fluctuating currents. To add to the lower register or bass notes, the contacts are shifted to "bass," and the desired

THE LIVING VOICE

It's Greta Garbo herself—it's Al Jolson and nobody else. That's what your listeners want and that's what they get through Syncrofilm. That is the secret of the striking rise in box-office take which follows an installation of Syncrofilm Sound Equipment. In giving away the secret we start you on the road to bigger income from steadier attendance.

If you want to go to the end of that route, write.

Weber Machine Corporation
59 Rutter St., Rochester, N. Y.

The Living Voice

Motion Picture Patents My Specialty

PATENTS

William N. Moore
Patent Attorney
Loan and Trust Building
Washington, D. C.

The first important step is to learn whether you can obtain a patent. Please send sketch of your invention with $10, and I will examine the pertinent U. S. patents and inform you whether you are entitled to a patent, the cost and manner of procedure. Personal attention. Established 35 years.

Copyright your play $5.00
Trade-Mark your goods or titles $30.00

FORECLOSURE SALE!

3 Complete Units of SOUND-ON-DISK
Reproducers Ready for Installations Guaranteed to Work and in Good Order Unusual Chance for Theatres to Secure a Well Advertised Sound Equipment Regularly sold at $1200 each set.
Must be Sold at Any Reasonable Offer
Cash or Terms

BLAIR TOOL & MACHINE CORP.
College Point
New York
frequencies are "phased in." Three settings on the Polyphase pickup permit the emphasis of the low, middle and upper ranges and the change from one setting to another may be made in a few seconds.

This equipment is said to be ideal for home recording. New records are available for this purpose measuring six inches in diameter and made of cellulose material. A chromium plated needle with a blunt head is employed for recording and for playing back. The blanks are pre-grooved, there being 90 such grooves, and the needle impresses the electrical sound waves in the grooves.

In making a record, the original connections of loud-speaker and pickup are interchanged, this being accomplished by a switching arrangement, and the speech or music to be recorded is picked up by the loud-speaker, which acts as a microphone. It is then amplified through the audio channel of the radio receiver, passed through the Polyphase pickup system and impressed on the record.

To play back the record, the switching arrangement is reversed so that the loud-speaker is again connected to the output of the radio receiver and the pickup is connected in its original position in the circuit.

Action and Types of Photoelectric Cells

In the reproduction of sound pictures, it is necessary to have a device for converting light waves into sound waves. In other words, there must be a device for converting modulated light which passes through the film, into modulated electric currents which can be amplified and translated finally into sound energy in the loud speaker.

Up until a short time ago, two devices for the carrying out of this process were the selenium cell and the photoelectric cell. The latter may be described as a vacuum cell or a gas cell, depending on whether the vessel containing the sensitive material is evacuated or contains an inactive gas at low pressures. The vacuum cell produces too small a current for practical use.

No matter which of the above devices is used for converting light waves to sound, the apparatus should be strong, but proportional to the amount of light; it should be the same for equal amounts of light, whatever the frequency of the fluctuations or interruptions; all cells should be uniform and easily replaceable, and they should have long life, and in addition, they should be simply constructed.

In the last few years several different types of cells have been placed on the market. The oldest is the selenium cell, action of which consists in the decrease of the electrical resistance of a small element when light falls upon it. This cell has its shortcoming, however, for it does not lend itself to easy linear amplifications. Its resistance in the dark is of finite amount.

The gas-filled photoelectric cell of the potassium type has no dark current and produces up to 50 microamperes per lumen of incident light. This is sufficient to give reliable results when connected especially to the first amplifier valve. The light transmitted by the optical system of most outfits is only about one-fifteenth of a lumen.

Lately cells have been developed with their sensitive layer including an extremely thin film or caesium on a silver or silver oxide base. These, if properly treated, give a considerably larger output of unmodulated light than the older type of gas-filled cell.

More recently a cell has been perfected which has two electrodes which, when immersed in a liquid electrolyte, act as a primary battery, producing a feeble current when light is thrown upon one of the electrodes. Only tiny currents may be drawn without marring the sensitive surface, although a potential is generated between the electrodes.

Scientists know it is an established fact that the change in resistance of selenium is not directly proportional to the amount of light falling on it. On the contrary, it varies as the square root of the intensity. Hence, four times the normal amount of light, thrown on the cell, will drop the resistance one-half. It has been shown in the new types of electrolytic cells that the first small quantities of light produce a much greater increase in the voltage across the terminals than do further equal amounts.

Consequently, there is the result that modulations of light and shade, more especially in the shadow portions of the film, are not accurately projected. The heavier modulations do not reproduce as strongly as they should in the light portions, while in the shady areas they are exaggerated. Here is where the gas-filled photoelectric cell is advantageous. It produces strictly in proportion to the quantity of light falling upon it—unless it is operated too near to its glow potential.

Uniform response over the entire range of audible frequencies is a cardinal principle for every light sensitive device for sound pictures.

To obtain a complete sense of the output of a cell, the surest method is to note the response at a given frequency. Then the response may be tested at higher frequencies to get the difference. Selenium has been shown to have a response which decreases exponentially with increasing frequency. No amount of effort has been able to curb this fault. The electrolytic cell, instead of decreasing, shows an increase of half as much again when increased from a frequency of 100 to 800. But it falls off a tenth at 7,000 frequencies.

Photoelectric cells are peculiar in that they respond not only upon the construction of the cathode, but also on the voltage for their response. The response diminishes at high frequencies when the accelerating voltage is great. The decreasing response with the increasing frequency is also much more noticeable on the new caesium cathodes than on the older potassium ones.

For years photoelectric cells have had trouble with lead losses. Inability to reproduce the higher frequencies is always due to the long leads between the cell and grid of the first valve. These leads practically have only a certain electrical capacity. At high frequencies, the minute current coming out of the cell does not have time to charge this potential up to what it ordinarily has on low frequencies.
NEVER BEFORE — NEVER AGAIN!

THIS GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY

$110.00 BRAND NEW SPEAKERS FOR $15.00

THE FAMOUS
RCA PHOTOPHONE
DYNAMIC SPEAKER

$15.00 each

An Opportunity of a Lifetime!
Limited Supply! Orders Filled
In Order of their Receipt.

SHORT SPECIFICATIONS

- 12 in. dynamic
- 110 v.-dc. Field
- 100 mil. drain at 1000 cycles
- Voice coil 8 ohms
- 4 point Spring Suspension
- Cast Steel Angle Frame

FIELD EXCITERS FOR USE ON 110 v.-ac
$6.50 extra

TERMS: 25% With Order. Balance C. O. D. or S. D. B/L.
Specify Freight or Express

RAYMOND ROSEN & CO., INC.
(THEATRE SOUND DEPT.)

119 North 7th Street

RAYMOND ROSEN & CO., INC.
(THEATRE SOUND DEPT.)

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

VITADISC SOUND-ON-FILM

Again—

VITADISC Steps Forth . . . . and places quality within the reach of the medium sized house.

Vitadisc Sound-on-Film has passed its watchful experimental stage,—it has been refined and simplified to an exacting degree of precision. Operation is positive and unerring. Easily installed and adjusted, requires little attention. Excellent sound qualities over complete range of voice and instrument. Increasing demands for this equipment are anticipated and early inquiries and orders from exhibitors will be appreciated.

Write or wire for prices on Vitadisc Sound-on-Film and accessories

VITADISC COMPANY - 130 South Clinton Street
ROCHESTER, NEW YORK
Better Theatres Section
October 25, 1939

Less Oil and No Dirt

DIRT is matter which is in the working place and that which is in the case of sound picture equipment is a projection booth, where it can cause plenty of trouble.

Sweeping the floor when the sound apparatus is uncovered will allow small particles of dust to settle in the sound unit and on its optical system. This may be one cause of low volume, because the full width and intensity of the exciting light beam is then partially nullified by recording markings on the sound track and enters the photoelectric cell. If a disc record is on the turntable, dust will fall on it and cause noise when it is played.

The film itself must be kept clean. It must be inspected carefully for any scratches or marks other than actual recording markings on the sound track. Any mark on the sound track whether it be a scratch, poorly made splice, dust particle or even a globule of oil will vary the light entering the photoelectric cell and therefore result in noise or a reduction in volume or both. Many of the foreign substances that accumulate in the projection room will fall onto the sound unit deposited there as the film passes through on its way to the lower magazine. Keep oil off the film so that dust will not be offered a resting place.

Commercial devices which automatically clean the film after it leaves the upper magazine can be purchased and should be quite helpful.

J. S. WARD
Service Manager, Eru

If dirt remains stationary in the slit proper, the decrease of light allowed to pass results in a loss of volume. Therefore care must be taken to clean the slit thoroughly each day with a pipe cleaner and a stiff toothbrush. It is well to bend the pipe cleaner in a hair-pin shape before using to avoid scratching the sound aperture plate.

The dust that rests on the optical system and is in the direct path of the light, will, if it vibrates, cause flutter in the reproduced sound.

A wax from the film gets on the film guide roller, it throws the film over to one side so that the sprocket holes appear in the path of the exciting light beam. This causes a low frequency hum in the horns which may get very loud. By preventing the initial deposit of wax in the roller we minimize the accumulation of more wax.

Like the paint manufacturer who says "save the surface and you save all," I say "Clean the Surface and Save Your Troubles."

Over-lubrication causes many troubles. The projectionist should have the oil chart supplied by the manufacturer in full view. This chart shows exactly where to oil, when to oil and what oil to use. Oil causes rubber to deteriorate and it should therefore be kept away from rubber covered wires and from the rubber supporting pads used with amplifiers.

"If a little is good, more is better," does not apply to sound equipment lubrication. Excessive lubrication will have some results—noise. J. S. Ward, Service Manager, Electric Research Products, Inc.

Causes of Ground Noise and Their Remedy

GROUND noises causes more or less trouble in a large percentage of motion picture sound sets, although most of them are disturbances which could be corrected with little effort. The greatest source of these troubles, perhaps, is nearby motors or mains. Often the ground noises come from machinery entirely separate from the sound set itself. In cases where the machine itself is at fault, it is imperative that the motor, generator, commutating rectifier, or whatever is causing the "static," be kept entirely clean. The means should be undercut to the right depth, brushes properly bedded down and positioned, to prevent sparking where it is unnecessary. Sometimes these precautions fail, then it is time to examine the armature windings.

After the sparking has been cut to a minimum, it will sometimes still exist. In this case, it has been found effective to use a pair of large condensers, connecting one pole of each of these to one of the brushes and the other to the earth. On machines with more than two brushes, they are usually wired in pairs. Consequently connecting with condensers offers a great problem. One point should be watched in procuring the condensers: They should be absolutely the best obtainable. Except for low voltages, use 1,000 volts working pressure.

Best results are obtainable by fusing the condenser connections. By this method there is no chance of the motor or generator being injured should the condenser insulation break down.

Further protection against interference from mains may be had by covering the conduit and its wires with a sheet of metal efficiently earthed. This must be placed between the interfering circuit and the sound conduit. This system is called "screening."

It is difficult to stave off ground noises in the best regulated machines if there is vibration that can emanate from any part of the metal. Guarding against vibration is essential in the soundhead and the first-stage amplifier, and it is just as important in the photoelectric cell, where parasitic impulses spring up as from vibration in the light beam.

Vibration in the first-stage amplifier and the photoelectric cell may be averted by mounting both on well adjusted springs or upon an exceedingly soft rubber base. This rule holds just as well for amplifiers mounted on the wall of the operating box, for buildings are always susceptible to tremulations from street traffic, motor generators and so on.

Sound projection has recently seen the introduction of a new anti-microphonic valve device, in which the valve itself is enclosed in a large evacuated bulb. This prevents the conduction of mechanical and sound vibrations to the valve.

As for the optical and mechanical causes of ground noise, it should be pointed out that a low-frequency hum (96 cycles) affects the photoelectric cell and the photo-cell circuit and the sound conduit. This system is called "screening."

It is difficult to stave off ground noises in the best regulated machines if there is vibration that can emanate from any part of the metal. Guarding against vibration is essential in the soundhead and the first-stage amplifier, and it is just as important in the photoelectric cell, where parasitic impulses spring up as from vibration in the light beam.

Vibration in the first-stage amplifier and the photoelectric cell may be averted by mounting both on well adjusted springs or upon an exceedingly soft rubber base. This rule holds just as well for amplifiers mounted on the wall of the operating box, for buildings are always susceptible to tremulations from street traffic, motor generators and so on.

Sound projection has recently seen the introduction of a new anti-microphonic valve device, in which the valve itself is enclosed in a large evacuated bulb. This prevents the conduction of mechanical and sound vibrations to the valve.

As for the optical and mechanical causes of ground noise, it should be pointed out that a low-frequency hum (96 cycles) affects the photoelectric cell and the photo-cell circuit and the sound conduit. This system is called "screening."

It is difficult to stave off ground noises in the best regulated machines if there is vibration that can emanate from any part of the metal. Guarding against vibration is essential in the soundhead and the first-stage amplifier, and it is just as important in the photoelectric cell, where parasitic impulses spring up as from vibration in the light beam.

Vibration in the first-stage amplifier and the photoelectric cell may be averted by mounting both on well adjusted springs or upon an exceedingly soft rubber base. This rule holds just as well for amplifiers mounted on the wall of the operating box, for buildings are always susceptible to tremulations from street traffic, motor generators and so on.

Sound projection has recently seen the introduction of a new anti-microphonic valve device, in which the valve itself is enclosed in a large evacuated bulb. This prevents the conduction of mechanical and sound vibrations to the valve.

As for the optical and mechanical causes of ground noise, it should be pointed out that a low-frequency hum (96 cycles) affects the photoelectric cell and the photo-cell circuit and the sound conduit. This system is called "screening."

It is difficult to stave off ground noises in the best regulated machines if there is vibration that can emanate from any part of the metal. Guarding against vibration is essential in the soundhead and the first-stage amplifier, and it is just as important in the photoelectric cell, where parasitic impulses spring up as from vibration in the light beam.

Vibration in the first-stage amplifier and the photoelectric cell may be averted by mounting both on well adjusted springs or upon an exceedingly soft rubber base. This rule holds just as well for amplifiers mounted on the wall of the operating box, for buildings are always susceptible to tremulations from street traffic, motor generators and so on.

Sound projection has recently seen the introduction of a new anti-microphonic valve device, in which the valve itself is enclosed in a large evacuated bulb. This prevents the conduction of mechanical and sound vibrations to the valve.
cure is the use of a scratch filter in the circuit. There are, however, more efficient methods, since the scratch filter of necessity cuts out the higher frequencies so important in pleasant reproduction of music.

Usual the scratching is due to a badly worn disc and the only thing to do is get a new one. Then again, it may be caused by too heavy pickup or improper needles. Every needle should be checked before use and should never be used more than for the playing of one record.

The Final Link in London’s Chain of Astoria Cinemas

(Continued from page 44)

tre is the two complete ventilating and heating systems which have been installed; it is claimed that this is the first time that this has ever been done in any cinema theatre. One will serve the corridors, tea lounge and waiting rooms, whilst the other will serve the auditorium, it being considered that in a theatre of this size it is essential to have separate heating control for the theatre proper.

Charmingly appointed refreshment lounge and tea rooms have also been provided, for which electric kitcheners will be utilized. The projection room and its attendant rooms are probably without equal in the United Kingdom, both for size and up-to-date equipment. Among other apparatus installed are one Super-Simplex Model M, three Simplex machines with Western Electric sound mechanisms, two Bremkert Super-Spots, and a Brenograph effects projector. The Simplex machines are fitted with Hall & Connolly high-intensity arcs.

As with its sister house at Brixton, the Finsbury Park Astoria boasts a complete self-contained flat upon the roof, where will live the staff manager of the theatre. He will be in direct telephone communication with every part of the house night and day.

The Astoria was designed by E. A. Stone.

news

... a report of something new is news. That may not be the newspaper editor’s definition, but in its general application, this definition is obviously true. Newspaper editors don’t regard advertisements as news. But that is what they are. They tell you about something new—or they tell you something new about something old. Though their subjects are products, they are none the less reports, since they do impart knowledge. And after all, isn’t a large part of the business man’s interest in news concerned with products? We can recommend no better source of news about product than the advertisements in this issue.
THE EQUIPMENT INDEX

A COMPLETE CATALOG OF ARTICLES OF THEATRE EQUIPMENT AND THEIR MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS, ARRANGED ALPHABETICALLY BY PRODUCT

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Manufacturers and dealers listed in black type have supplied this department with special information concerning their product which may be obtained upon request.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| ACCESSORIES for music and sound reproducing devices are included. Pick-ups, magnets, players, microphones, recording equipment (including magnetic tape), radio tubes, loudspeaker units, amplifiers, intercoms, equalizers, lighting equipment, theatre heating and air conditioning, and theatre management systems are included.

Bookkeeping Systems

PROPER acoustics is today a subject of outstanding importance in motion picture theatres. The introduction of sound films has necessitated the establishment of a more exact standard of acoustics than was necessary when motion picture theatres simply had the acoustical problem involved in orchestral and incidental music, because speech demands a more exact acoustical condition than music. In addition, the use of sound films made possible a range of volume never before possible, and made it necessary as well to reproduce carefully every shade and inflection of the human voice. New types of speakers, special sound screens, etc., are added to the problem.

An auditorium that is faulty in acoustical properties is incapable of being used with any degree of satisfaction for sound films. Due also to the limitations of the recording and reproducing apparatus it is essential that the acoustical properties of the theatre in which sound films are reproduced shall aid in the quality of the reproduction rather than introduce added distortion and confusion. The problem of acoustics in auditoriums has been reduced to a science, and proper acoustics may be built into new theatres or provided in existing theatres through a proper study of the theatre design and the use of interior finishes which have the qualities that control sound. Extensive research within the past few years has produced types of interior finish which combine the desirable acoustical characteristics with excellent decorative possibilities. These materials have an architectural flexibility of standard at least approximating that of interior finishes.

The problem of acoustics in theatres has resulted in special consideration of them by certain manufacturers who have established special departments, headed by experts, to cooperate with theatre owners and architects in the practical treatment of theatre buildings.

Berliner Acoustic Corporation, 1508 Paramount Building, New York City.
THE ELOTEX COMPANY, 919 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, III.
Carlisle Company, 37 Antwerp Street, Boston, Mass.
Guyton & Comber Company, 4411 Fillmore Street, Chicago, III.
The Housing Company, 40 Central Street, Boston, Mass.
THE INSULITE COMPANY, 1212 Builders Exchange, Minneapolis, Minn.
Hallsite Corporation, 49 W. 45th Street, New York City.
Johns-Manville Corporation, 222 Madison Avenue, New York City.
RING STUDIOS, Inc., 309 S. Harwood, Dallas, Tex.
Michigan Insulating Company, Ninth and Euclid Avenues, Cleveland, Ohio.
Mainswood Products Corporation, 203 N. Wahash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Thomas Molding Brick Company, 165 W. Wacker Drive, Chicago.
NATIONAL RUG MILLS, INC., 2424 S. Fifth Street, Milwaukee, Wis.
Therm-O-Proof Insulation Company, 203 N. Wahash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Union Fibre Sales, Inc., Winona, Minn.
UNITED STATES CEMENT COMPANY, 200 W. Adams Street, Chicago.
Universal Gypsum & Lime Company, 111 W. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

WESTERN FELT WORKS, 4203-4303 Ogden Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Weyerhaeuser Forest Products, Merchant National Bank Building, St. Paul, Minn.

Act Announcers

The prevalence of combination bills in both motion picture and vaudeville theatres gives added significance to the act announcer. Naturally, in new houses these should be installed during construction so that they will harmonize with the interior design. In remodeling, suitable designs may be obtained for the decorative scheme decided upon. Act announcers are either automatically or hand controlled, with the automatic ones controlled remotely or from the stage. The general principle of the act announcer may be successfully used in window display promotion for the announcing of current and forthcoming bills. Such mechanism must be automatically operated.

BELLSON MANUFACTURING COMPANY, 550 Sibley Street, Chicago, Ill.
Davis Bulletin Company, Inc., Lock Street, Buffalo, N. Y.
Adapters, Mazda

THE Mazda lamp adapter is a device for converting a projector using the carbon arc to the use of Mazda projection lamps. It can be installed in any carbon arc housing by fastening it to the lower carbon jaw. It will operate for both pictures and stereopticon slides. The device consists of a bracket, an adjustable arm and reflector located behind the lamp. Prices range from $10 up.

BEST DEVICES COMPANY, Film Building, Cleveland, O.
Monarch Theatre Supply Company, 154 E. Calhoun Avenue, Memphis, Tenn.

Addressing and Duplicating Machines

In machines of this type for the automatic addressing of house organs, programs, special promotional letters and other literature, as well as sales letters, there are two methods employed in making stencils. One is known as the typewritable address card system which may be prepared on a typewriter, and the other is the embossing of names and addresses on metal plates. Exhibitors will find that addressing machines may be purchased on time, and will be given demonstrations without cost or obligation. Addressing machines may be purchased as low as $20.

The Addressograph Company, 901 W. Van Buren Street, Chicago, Ill.
Elliott Addressing Machine Company, 117 Leonard Street, New York City.
Rapid Addressing Machine Company, 225 W. 34th Street, New York City.
Speedoza,lex Addressing Machine Company, 3023 Willow Street, Chicago, Ill.

Admission Signs Refer to SIGNS, DIRECTIONAL

Advertising Novelties

The thing to be accomplished through the use of advertising novelties, of one type or another, is the chief consideration in their selection. Among the popular novelties today, which have been used by theatres for stimulating matinee business, building up juvenile performances or bolstering business on week nights are balloons, thermometers on which are imprinted pictures of stars, buttons, badges, pennants, confessions, toys, etc. A popular children's matinee stunt can be obtained by giving away a variety of novelty toys. These can be had in boxes containing 100 toys ranging in value from 5 to 15c at a cost of $3.00.

American Badge Company, 141 W. Austin Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
BRAZEL NOVELTY MANUFACTURING COMPANY, 4496 Apple Street, Cincinnati, O.
Chicago Flag & Decorating Company, 1135 W. Washington Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
ECOLOGY NOVELTY & PRINTING COMPANY, 306 West 35th Street, New York City.
THE LEADER PRESS, Oklahoma City, Okla.
Miller Rubber Company, Akron, O.
Mills Novelty Company, 4116 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Pioneers Sales Company, Willard, O.
Torero Rubber Company, Ashland, O.
THE VERNON COMPANY, 729 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Advertising Projectors Refer to PROJECTORS, ADVERTISING

Advertising, Theatre Refer to THEATRE PROMOTION

Exhibitors Herald-World

AIR CONDITIONING AND COOLING EQUIPMENT

Air entering the theatre where air conditioning equipment is used is cleansed and humidified by a process of passing the air through fine sprays of water which removes from it dust and other dirt as well as obnoxious odors and gases. Systems of this type are generally referred to as "air washers." There is also a system known as the "cataract type," in which the water descends from a distributing tank over a series of baffle plates.

The air is drawn in from the outside and then passed over heating coils so that it will not cause freezing of the water in the air washer. These coils are called tempering coils. The air then passes through a mist of water caused by a number of spray nozzles that create a dense fog, removing dust, odors, gases, etc. The air absorbs moisture from the spray and is cooled thereby. It then passes through a series of sheet iron bases that remove all suspended and entrained moisture. The air next passes through the bank of heating coils that raise its temperature to the desired degree. From here it is distributed though a proper system of ducts to various parts of the theatre.

Barry Blower Company, 724 Greenbush, Milwaukee, Wis.
Brunswick-Kroeschell Company, New Brunswick, N. J.
Carrier Engineering Corporation, 750 Franklin Avenue, Newark, N. J.
Cooling & Air Conditioning Corporation, 21 Union Square, New York City.
KOOLER-AIRE ENGINEERING COMPANY, 1904 Paramount Building, New York City.
National Carbonic Company, 100 E. Wisconsin, Milwaukee, Wis.
B. F. Reynolds & Company, 118 W. Ohio Street, Chicago, Ill.
U. S. Ozone Company, 460 N. Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.
Wittenmeyer Machinery Company, 850 N. Spaulding Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
York Ice Machinery Company, York, Pa.

AIR DOME TENTS

These are tents suitable for housing of audiences for amusements and gatherings of various types, used in the motion picture houses mostly during the summer as open air shows, the top of the tent being removed.

D. M. Kerr Manufacturing Company, 1934 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Martin, N. Y., Tent & Duck Company, 204 Canal Street, New York City.
North American Tent & Awning Company, 1425-64 Milwaukee Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Tucker Duck & Rubber Company, 515 Harrison Avenue, Port Smith, Ala.

ASILE LIGHTS

Aisle lights should be installed on every sixth chair in standard in zigzag fashion along aisle. Lights are placed at sufficient height from floor to properly illuminate same without disturbing reflection to screen or audience. 10-watt lamps are generally used. Practically all theatres today are installing aisle lights as a protest and convenience to patrons. In recent months a number of instances have been noted where aisle lights have been cast as part of the chair standard itself, the practice being carried out in the more elaborate theatres when the chairs are built to certain decorative specifications.

W. B. KING

Theatrical Engineer Consultant

Is your theatre in the red? We can furnish plans how to put it on the right side of the ledger.

King Studios INC.

Designers, Decorators and Furnishers of Theatres Complete

309 S. Harwood Dallas, Tex.

South's Largest Concern Specializing in Acoustical Correction and Acoustical Materials.

SPECIALS FOR "Raint or Shine" "Blinkers" "Bowl" "Little Accident" "Wanted Rasta" "Swing High" "Indians Are Coming" "Rin-Tin-Tin in "Lost Defender" "Hell's Angels" "The Gorilla"

Fill your seats with original box-office EXPLOITATION NOVELTIES Made for Every Picture Produced

Now Serving

PATHE - R.K.O. - UNIVERSAL - M-G-M
Tiffany - SONO-ART - LOEW'S
UNITED ARTISTS - FIRST NATIONAL AND MANY OTHERS

Economy Novelty & Printing Co., 340 W. 29th Street, New York, N. Y.
Tel. Metnola 3641

Make WHOOPPEE "THE BRAZIL WAY" Our illustrated column full of fun-making novelties that will set top in long parties, games, conventions, feasts and any gatherings of any kind of any size. When you want superb 1911 fun for all parties, Brand Novelty Mfg. Co., 1141 Army Bldg., Chi. W. O.

RICHARDSON'S MOTION PICTURE HANDBOOKS

Vol. 1 and 2 $3.00 Vol. 3 12 cu. in. only $1.50 (Limited price for 3 volumes) Building Theatre Patterns $1.25 (By Barry & Sargent)

We are handling them for the Convenience of the Trade

Herald-World Bookshop, 407 S. Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.
Aisle lights sell for about $4.00 each, the price decreasing for quantities.

Belson Manufacturing Company, 350 Sibley Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Brent Light Projection Company, 3745 St. Aubin Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Brookline & Chapman, Inc., 3912 Carnegie Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.
Kausalite Manufacturing Company, 8129 N. Ashland Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Klieg Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
Major Equipment Company, 4603 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
National Theatre Supply Company, 92-96 Gold Street, New York, N. Y.

Aisle Rope

A heavy rope covered with velour usually, in green or red is used in theatre lobbies, the rope being connected to stationary or portable brass posts for guiding and handling crowds.

Newman Manufacturing Company, Norwood Station, Cincinnati, O.
Albert Pick-Bartch Company, 1200 W. 55th Street, Chicago, Ill., and 34 Cooper Square, New York City.
Zero Valve & Brass Corporation, 634 Fourth Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Amplifiers

Amplifiers are electrical devices for increasing the loudness of sound. Technically, they are instruments which increase the electrical energy produced in the pickups. They are used in all motion picture sound systems, public address systems, with non-synchronous devices, etc.

American Transformer Company, 178 Emmet Street, Newark, New Jersey.
Electro-Phone Corporation, 2450 University Avenue, St. Paul, Minn.
Gate Radio & Supply Company, Quincy, Ill.
The Oro-Tone Company, 1000-1010 George Street, Chicago, Ill.
Radio Industries of Canada, Ltd., 120 Fort Street, Windsor, Ont.
Radio Receiver Company, 106 Seventh Avenue, New York City.
Silver Marshall, Inc., 6401 W. 56th Street, Chicago, Ill.
The Webster Company, 859 Blackburn Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Van-Arne Radio Company, Tenth and Walnut Streets, St. Louis, Mo.
WEBBER MACHINE CORPORATION, 59 Rutten Street, Rochester, N. Y.
WEBSTER Electric Company, Racine, Wis.

Anchors for Chairs

These are expansion shell bolts used for anchoring theatre seats to the floor. They are made in several types.

Type No. 1 is used with a carriage bolt and is inserted in the hole and set with a small setting tool before placing the chair in its final position. This tool is furnished without extra charge. The No. 2 type is used with a square head machine bolt which has been specially heat treated to prevent any possibilities of stripping. The bolt is wound up tightly with a socket wrench. This type No. 2 is attached to the leg of the chair before placing the chair in position. The method of application is to insert the bolt through the hole in the leg of the chair and turn the expansion shell far enough up on the bolt so that it comes in contact with the under surface of the chair leg. This small amount of friction prevents the shell from turning around. The shells will withstand the constant vibration of raising and lowering the chair seats, as well as the motion and hard usage they must necessarily stand when the seat is occupied. The shells are furnished to the user complete, consisting of the expansion shells together with a washer and whatever style or length of bolt the customer may specify. Different makes of chairs take different lengths of bolts, and stock is carried to cover this variation. Bolts range from 1½ inches to 3 inches in length.

Ackerman-Johnson Company, 632 Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Ill.,
American Expansion Bolt Company, 108-28 N. Jefferson Avenue, Chicago, Ill.,
The National Theatre Supply Company, 92-96 Gold Street, New York, N. Y.,
The Palme Company, 2459 Carroll Avenue, Chicago, Ill.,
U. S. Expansion Bolt Company, 129 Franklin Street, New York City.

Arc Regulators

As the name implies the arc regulator regulates the voltage at the arc through automatic means so that the carbon is consumed and the gap between the carbons increases. The result of this automatic action is a steady light on the screen pronounced superior to that which it is possible to produce by hand. The arc control, as it is frequently called, feeds the carbons in an even manner. This equipment sells for about $125.

CHICAGO CINEMA EQUIPMENT COMPANY, 1705-1714 N. Springfield Avenue, Chicago, Ill.,
The J. E. McAlary Manufacturing Company, 654 W. Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

Arc Lamps, Reflecting

Refer to LAMPS, REFLECTING ARC

Arc Lamps, High Intensity

Refer to LAMPS, REFLECTING ARC

Architectural Service

In planning a motion picture theatre, the services of a competent theatre architect are recommended. Such service may be comprehensive or limited according to the nature and size of the project. For example, an architect may be called upon to furnish complete plans and specifications for a theatre and the work of building a house let to a local contractor. In such cases, where the architect’s supervision is not arranged for, the cost of complete plans and specifications is 3 per cent of the cost of the project. On this basis the cost of plans and specifications for a $50,000 theatre, for example, would be $1,500.

The regular architect’s commission as established by the American Institute of Architects, in which the architect renders full supervision throughout the construction period is 6 per cent. The architect’s fee for plans and specifications usually results in a saving in various materials and labor which more than compensates for the cost of the plans, it has been found. His plans provide a safeguard against a building which might prove unsatisfactory from many angles if designed by someone who is not familiar with the special requirements of theatres. It should be remembered that a theatre is a highly specialized type of building. Even the architect who may be successful in designing factories, warehouses and industrial buildings of other types is not equipped to understand the special problems in theatre building which may be expected of the architect who has given this particular type of building an almost exclusive attention.

The hazard of trusting the design of a theatre to a local contractor, therefore is readily apparent. He can usually be relied upon to furnish the constroctional work but the plans for the theatre require expert understanding if the completed job is to be successful and profitable.

Brush Building Corp., 82 Vanderbilt Avenue, New York, N. Y.,
The Hirsch Corporation, 209 South Third Street, Columbus, Ohio.

Artificial Flowers and Plants

Many places in the theatre may profitably be made beautiful through the use of artificial plants and flowers. The lobby, foyer, auditorium walls and again special places for such use. Many theatres are capitalizing the seasonal rejuvenation it is possible to achieve in the house through the use of plants and flowers. Much progress has been made recently in the manufacture of beautiful art flowers, plants and trees of all kinds. Not only do art plants and flowers provide a natural beauty in the theatre but they may advantageously be used in brightening dark corners and barren spaces.

Sound equipment in theatres has turned the orchestra pit of most houses into a dead spot. This can be overcome by the installation of a lawn and garden effect.
Shrubs, Trees and Flowers

Artificial and Natural Preserved

for

Theatre Interiors
Lobbies and Foyers
also for

Miniature Golf Courses

Write for Catalogue No. 6

FRANK NETSCHERT
Inc.
61 Barclay Street, New York, N. Y.

Specialists in Decorations
for

Atmospheric Theatres

The Holtzer-Cabot Electric Company, 125 Amory, Roxbury, Mass.
Sobot-O-Phone Company, Providence, R. I.

Blocks, Pulleys, Stage Rigging
Refer to HARDWARE, STAGE

Blowers, Organ
Refer to ORGAN BLOWERS

Bolts, Panic

A HORIZONTAL lock placed on the inside of exit doors which automatically releases on slightest pressure.

William P. Bolles, 377 Bishop Street, Milwaukee, Wis.
Vonnegut Hardware Company, Indianapolis, Ind.

Bookkeeping Systems, Theatre
Refer to ACCOUNTING SYSTEMS

Booth Equipment, Projection
Refer to PROJECTION BOOTH EQUIPMENT

Booths, Ticket
Refer to TICKET BOOTH

Brass Grilles
Refer to GRILLES

Brass Rails

USED in theatres in front of ticket office, for dividing lobby, boxes and for orchestra pit, and for many other uses. Plush covering is frequently used over these rails. Brass rails can be furnished in electro-plated finishes such as satuary bronze, verde antique, oxidized brass, oxidized copper, nickel plated, brushed brass, etc. Prices of brass rails range from 56c to $2.50 per foot.
Chicago Architectural Bronze Company, 4740 N. Clark Street, Chicago, Ill.
Daniel Ornamental Iron Works, 4453 W. Division Street, Chicago, III.
Illinois Bronze & Iron Works, Inc., 915-23 S. Kildare Avenue, Chicago 11
Newman Manufacturing Company, Norwood Station, Cincinnati, O.
Edward G. Reinhardt Manufacturing Company, 110 E. Bond St., Cincinnati, O.
P. F. Smith Wire & Iron Works, 2346 Cleveland Avenue, Chicago 11.
ZERO VALVE & BRASS CORPORATION, 634 Fourth Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y.

Brokers, Theatre

With the growth of the motion picture theatre, and the involved legal procedure in sale, purchase or rental, it is oftentimes found advisable to consult those who have studied this phase of the business. Theatre brokerage has become a real factor in the business.

W. J. Miller, 221 Security Block, Des Moines, Ia.

Bronze and Iron Work, Ornamental

The theatre today cannot be shoddy in appearance. Everything visible to the eye of the patron must be colorful and artistic—the organ grilles, all metal work on doors, railings, wickets, metal accoutrements in men's smoking rooms and women's rest rooms, etc. This bronze and iron work may be artistic in its plainness, or in the elaborateness of its design and mould, or again in the severity of the modernistic tone. Grilles can be made in any design or size, and one can also obtain bronze ticket booths and lobby frames.

Chicago Architectural Bronze Company, 4740 N. Clark Street, Chicago, Ill.
Crow Iron Works Company, 1229 Tyler, N. E., Minneapolis, Minn.
Daniel Ornamental Iron Works, 4453 W. Division Street, Chicago, Ill.
The Flour City Ornamental Iron Company, 2527 Twenty-seventh Avenue, S., Minneapolis, Minn.
Newman Manufacturing Company, Norwood Station, Cincinnati, O.
P. F. Smith Wire & Iron Works, 2346 Cleveland Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Stewart Iron Work Company, Inc., 504 Stewart Block, Cincinnati, O.
ZERO VALVE & BRASS CORPORATION, 634 Fourth Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Brushes, Screen

Refer to SCREEN BRUSHES

Building Service, Complete

Unification of the four outstanding factors in the consideration of a theatre building—financing—designing—erecting and equipping is a comparatively new undertaking in the theatre construction field but one which has proven itself entirely successful. Under this plan centralized responsibility for the completed theatre is placed with one organization which turns over to the builder the finished job.

While the method under which this is achieved may vary in some details the general scheme involves an arrangement with one theatre projection of a size and cost determined after due deliberation. The theatre building concern, at the conclusion of proper investigation of conditions surrounding and in any way having a bearing upon the proposition will, if the project has necessary merit and indicates a successful career, undertake to carry the biggest portion of the financing burden and guarantee to the exhibitor or builder the completion and opening of his theatre within the time limit agreed upon.

Plans are then prepared for a modern structure of architectural style and of such proportions as given its construction and equipment in all departments.

Sharing with the exhibitor to a certain extent possible hazards involved in the undertaking proposed organizations of this type maintain experts effecting the various lines of endeavor involved for purposes of their own as well as the exhibitors protection. Obviously, careful attention, resulting in mutual advantages and safeguards is given every proposition.

It has been declared that theatres constructed under this method are outstanding in that they are architecturally uniform and pleasing in their appearance and material savings in construction are effected through a smooth working arrangement during the building period.

Brush Building Corporation, 52 Vanderbilt Avenue, New York City.
Dei. and Bauer, Third and Weil Streets, Milwaukee, Wis.
The Hirsch Corporation, 200 S. Third Street, Columbus, O.
United Services, 127 N. Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.

Bulletin Boards, Changeable

Changeable bulletin boards, which come under this heading involve the use of a grooved board on which are placed white enamelled brass letters, while enamelled die cast aluminum letters or white or red celluloid letters of various sizes may be desired to work out an attractive announcement. The background of the board is usually covered with a dark broadcloth surrounded by a frame in mahogany or extruded cast bronze. The letters are hung in the horizontal grooves of the board and the announcement accomplished through placing of the letters in their most advantageous manner. These changeable bulletin boards are made in various sizes ranging from 10 inches by 6 inches to large boards.

Many theatres have adopted signs of this type for use in the lobby in announcing coming and present attractions. In fact the ease with which announcements may be set up or changed gives these bulletin boards a wide range of use in the motion picture house. Also used on bulletin boards, but particularly adapted also for marquee signs, and to a great extent attraction, are letters of raised opal glass mounts in oxidized finished metal frames and illuminated from the inside by electric lamps.

The Artcraft Sign Company, Lima, O.
Joseph S. Arvid Corporation, 2400 Broadway, New York City.
Commercial Product Corporation, 1708 Standard Avenue, Glendale, Cal.
Stanley Frame Company, 717 Seventh Avenue, New York City.
Tabloid & Ticket Company, 1021 W. Adams St., Chicago, Ill.

Cabinets, Film

Refer to FILM CABINETS

Cable, Motion Picture

Motion picture cable and other asbestos insulated wires occupy an important place in theatres, being extensively used in the projection room for the projectors, for spot and flood lights, switchboards, motor and grid resistance leads and the like. The two important features of motion picture cable are flexibility and immunity to flame and heat. Owing to the intense heat and possible danger from fire in projection booths the conductor must have the finest kind of insulation. Because of the necessity for constant changes of position for floods and arcs the cable must be very flexible and tough enough to endure wear. Prices range from 5 cents to 25 cents per foot.

Belson Manufacturing Company, 848 Sidney Street, Chicago, Ill.
INTERNATIONAL PROJECTOR CORPORATION, 90 Cold Street, New York City.
KLEIGL BROTHERS, 321 W. 58th Street, New York City.
Rockebee Products Corporation, New Haven, Conn.
Twentieth Century, 2919 Nicollet Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.

Cameras

A number of cameras such as may be used by theatre owners in making pictures of events of local interest are available. A majority of these use the 16 mm. motion film, and may be obtained using standard motion picture film which can be used in the regular theatre projectors.

Bats Camera Company, 179 W. Madison Street, Chicago, Ill.
BELL & HOWELL COMPANY, 1801 Lorcham Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
The EASTMAN RODAK COMPANY, Rochester, N. Y.
Q. R. S. De Vry Corporation, 333 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Canopies, Theatre

Use of artistic canopies by motion picture theatres is growing in popularity among houses of all sizes. A canopy serves a number of practical purposes. They offer theatres an excellent advertising medium while giving to the house an attractive and inviting entrance. During inclement weather they offer protection to waiting patrons.

Canopies are usually constructed of sheet metal and may be obtained in a variety of designs. They are furnished with glass roof or with steel ceiling and metal roof. Numerous interesting standard designs have been developed by marquise manufacturers especially for theatre use. These are easily installed and are shipped to theatres in convenient sections. Suggestions for attractive designs are available. Inquiries should be accompanied by appropriate measurements of the front of the building where the canopy is to be used.

Not only are practically all of the new theatres being erected installing arcades or being exclusively used in the remodeling of the old houses, because of the effective manner in which they give to the theatres a new and pleasing appearance at small cost. Prices of canopies range from $300 up.

Biermann & Niedermeyer Company, 220 Fifth Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

General Electric Works, Milwaukee, Wis.

Covington Metal Products Corporation, 17 W. 8th Street, Covington, Ky.

Daniel Ornamental Iron Works, 4435 W. Division Street, Chicago, Ill.

Edward Manufacturing Company, 52d, Calvert and Butler Streets, Cincinnati, O.

Milan Street Company, 85th Avenue and Burnham Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

Newson Manufacturing Company, Norwood Station, Cincinnati, O.

L. Scherzer & Sons Company, Ivanhoe Avenue and Montgomery Road, Cincinnati, O.

The W. G. Porter Company, 2415 Superior Avenue, Cleveland, O.

Carbons

MOTION picture projection carbons might possibly be considered one of the most staple products in the operation of the moving picture theatre.

There is no factor, indeed, which can claim any more attention in the successful operation of the theatre than the light which is used for projection, and quite a little depends on both the quantity and quality of projector carbons kept on hand in the projection booth.

Modern projection demands the best in quality in projection carbons today, and this demand is being met by the carbon manufacturers through their scientific and research departments with products that have kept pace with modern progress.

Arco Electric Company, 112 W. 42nd Street, New York City

Carbon Sales Company, 8 Beach Street, New York City.

M. G. Folder Sales Company, 1560 Broadway, New York City

KLEIN & BROTHERS, 321 W. 14th Street, New York City.

National Carbon Company, Inc., Madison Avenue and W. 117th Street, Cleveland, O.

Hugo Reisinger, 11 Broadway, New York City

Carpets

BECAUSE of the hard wear to which theatre carpets are subjected it has been an impossibility to consider the selection of cheap carpets. The heavier and deeper the nap the more life may be expected of a carpet. Generally, floor coverings and carpets should be of a nature that rest on the floor and give the impression of stability and foundness without making one walk in safety. A carpet that is fussy, light in color and over-decorated has a tendency to give the impression that it is not resting—but rather floating. Obviously this is an unfavorable impression. Carpet padding used under the carpet keeps the floor a softer and more comfortable feeling to the foot but reduces friction and adds many years to the life of the carpet by keeping it away from direct contact with the hard floor.

Carpets also should be selected with a view to the acoustics of the theatre.

BIEGLOW-SANFORD CARPET COMPANY, INC., 333 Madison Avenue, New York City

Columbus-Nairn, Inc., 193 Bellevue drive, Kearny, N. J.

Furniture Buyers Service, 605 Broadway, New York City.

Hardwick & Magee Company, Lehigh Avenue and Seventh Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

McHale Carpets, Inc., 287 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

National Theatre Supply Company, 52-56 Gold Street, New York, N. Y.

National Construction Company, 1560 W. 22nd Street, Chicago, Ill., and 44 Cooper Square, New York City.

A. L. SLOANE, 577 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

ALEXANDER SMITH & SONS CARPET COMPANY, 3231 Michigan Avenue, Chi., and 4247 Pershing Road, Los Angeles, Cal.

Carpet Cushioning

IN theatres, where continuous coming and going of patrons subjects the carpets in aisles, stairs and foyers to unusual wear a cushioning under the carpet has been found to add many years to their life. In addition to this practical advantage carpet cushioning gives a delightful sensation of richness and luxury which is important in creating a desirable atmosphere in the theatre.

Carpet cushioning is a product made of finely combed, tufted vegetable fibre interlaced through a burlap backing or of animal hair felted under pressure. It is made in thicknesses varying from ¼ to ⅛ of an inch. Carpet cushioning also has a bearing upon acoustics.

THE CELOTEX COMPANY, 919 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Clinton Carpet Company, 135 N. Wells Street, Chicago, Ill.

NATIONAL EUG MULLS, INC., 2194 South Fifth Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

Aberdine Brown & Company, Inc., 1200 W. 35th Street, Chicago, Ill., and 34 Cooper Square, New York City.

K. W. Button Carpet Lining Corp., 5259 Sedgwick Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

WESTERN FELT WORKS, 1145 Ogden Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Cement, Film

Refer to FILM CEMENT

Chairs, Theatre

TO equip a theatre properly, the first requirement is a thorough understanding of the use to which the building is to be put. It has been determined that, a seating diagram or layout should be made to insure the maximum seating capacity consistent with comfort, safety, facility of entrance and exit, compliance with local or state building requirements, proper sight lines, elevations and other mechanical adaptations and adjustments.

The arrangement and width of aisles and passageways should be such that transient patrons may move about with a minimum of disturbance to those who are seated. For this reason, the number of seats in each row between aisles should be kept as low as is possible and consistent with the desired seating capacity. It is well to have not more than ten or twelve seats in a row between each aisle, although this number may, if necessary, be increased slightly. Many theatres, however, have established a maximum of fourteen seats.

The distance between rows varies between 30 and 32 inches. Experience has demonstrated that this distance is necessary to accommodate all sizes of patrons, and to facilitate entering and leaving the center seats of a row while others are seated.

In planning the seats for a theatre, it is a safe policy to plan for the accommodation of persons who are above the average in size, since seating that is too large does not produce discomfort.

In the larger theatres, therefore, the majority of the seats are 20 inches wide, with an occasional 19-inch chair to fill in. An exception to this ruling is the seating for logs, which frequently is as much as 24 inches wide.

Every patron is entitled to a direct and open vision of the stage. Sloping and terracing of floor and the curvatures of the balcony are, of course, intended to facilitate this, but unless the seats are specially made to meet the requirements of each and every part of the house, these will avail little. For so greatly do theatres vary in plan and design that the seating construction problem must be solved individually in each instance.

The relative length of chair legs, both front and back, must be so adjusted as to conform even to the shape of the floor and still keep the chair in its normal position. Then the occupant is assured of a natural, easy and comfortable position in sitting. He is neither tilted too far forward nor too far back. His feet and those of the chair should rest naturally in exactly the same line or plane.

Where there are sloping sides toward the center, a two-fold problem presents itself. Not only must the inclination toward the front be right, but there must be a mechanical adjustment in the fastening of the seats to standards, so that the seat will be parallel with the natural floor line and the sitter will not be tilted at an angle.

The necessary converging of seats from the outer circumference toward the stage, both on the main floor and in the balconies is another problem. There must be no loss of chair space and the result of decreased capacity, but the symmetry and a general pleasing and orderly appearance must be preserved.

The placing of chairs in rows and the arrangement of the aisles, to make ingress and egress as easy, speedy and safe as possible sets up the problem in a new way with the building and fire ordinance of each community, is another important point requiring careful thought and planning.

Frequently, a very simple rearrangement makes possible an appreciable increase in house capacity, and if not in actual increased numerical capacity, actual increased box office receipts by transforming otherwise less desirable and less valuable seats to a higher grade of valuation and desirability.

Almost equally as important as proper arrangement of the chairs themselves is the quality, comfort and service they will give. The element of comfort is an especially outstanding consideration as the ability to provide rest and ease for the audience during the performance augurs for more solid enjoyment of the show. Roominess, correct smooth, well upholstered backs, correctly placed arm rests, a perfectly level placing with the floor, serviceable hat holders, smoothly operating and noiseless seat-hinges—these are but a few of the things that go to make up a comfortable theatre chair.

Strength, stability, durability must be embodied in all chairs. A broken seat, while apparently not of great importance in itself, is nevertheless an annoyance that reflects unfavorably on the theatre as a whole.

Talking pictures have injected another element into the problem of seating for higher efficiency, i.e., acoustics. The acoustical properties of the theatre chair are now very important, and for sound-equipped houses upholstered seats have become a necessity due to their sound-absorbing quality. Veneer backs and seats are likely to induce sound reverberation of obnoxious character and may easily mar an otherwise perfect acoustical condition. Therefore, in the selection of seating facilities, the subject of acoustics must now be given most serious consideration.

Veneer chairs range in price from $3.75 to $6.00. Upholstered chairs are from $8.00 up.

GENERAL SEATING COMPANY, 3109 Montrose Avenue, Chicago, Ill. BASSON & STERN, 731 E. 32nd Street, Brooklyn, N. Y. Dowser Manufacturing Company, 225 Broadway, New York City.

Chair Covers

In addition to giving a pleasing and inviting appearance to the auditorium, chair covers serve the practical purpose of coolness and sanitation. An interior otherwise drab may be transformed into a cool, clean, cheerful looking place through their use.

Theatre chair covers have been used extensively in dramatic and larger motion picture houses but it is only recently that they have been adopted on a greater scale by the smaller houses. No doubt one of the causes has been the belief that they were an expensive proposition. This, however, is not the case. Recently chair covers have been developed which are reversible, effecting an important saving in laundering costs. There are several things that should be borne in mind in connection with the use of chair covers. It should be remembered that auditorium and balcony chairs as a rule require two distinct and different styles of covers. The auditorium chair should be equipped with a cover which covers the entire chair back while the balcony chair need only have a quarter back. This is because of the slope on which balcony chairs are placed. Working from blue prints provides the most satisfactory way of assuring a perfect fit of the cover for each chair.

Chair pads for verner seats are also obtainable, and there are also special chair materials which are intended to be used as aids to acoustics.

Allied Clark Furniture Company, 216 Webster Street, Cleveland, Ohio.

Goldie Linen Company, Ltd., 14 W. Lake Street, Chicago, Ill.

S. M. Hector & Company, 2400 Superior Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.

Made-Rite Fabrics Company, 1426 Ayermore Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Windowcraft Valance & Drapery Company, 228 Superior Avenue, N. W., Cleveland, Ohio.

Chair Fastening Cement

Cement of this kind is for firmly attaching into the floor the metal piece to which the theatre chair is bolted. Into a hole made in the floor, the metal piece itself, or bolt for attachment, is inserted and it is covered with the melted cement. In about ten minutes this cement hardens and holds the metal piece or bolt firmly in place.

When used in reseating, the old metal piece or bolt is removed, a new one inserted and the cement poured around it. Such cement can be procured for around $7.50 per 125-pound bag.

GENERAL SEATING COMPANY, 3109 Montrose Avenue, Chicago, Ill. Illinois Furniture Exchange, 1150 S. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Chairs, Folding

The folding chair, solidly constructed, plays an important role in the theatre today. With presentation and the stage-band, and the need for compactness behind the scenes, the folding chair serves manifold purposes. The durability of this type of chair as made today adds to its value as a stage requisite. Many very small theatres likewise find the folding chair suitable owing to the frequent necessity of clearing the auditorium floor for other forms of entertainment. The folding chair combines neatness, durability and practicability.

Tucker Duck & Rubber Company, Fort Smith, Ark.

Change Makers

Speed and accuracy are obtained at the box office through the use of coin changing machines which in addition to their time saving facilities offer a valuable protection against annoying mistakes in making change to patrons. With the coin changing machines a light touch at the keyboard is all that is necessary to deliver the correct number of coins to the patron who easily scoops them up from a cup at the side of the change maker.

Coins may be delivered either from the right or left side and these automatic cashiers as developed for theatres have been improved in recent months until now they are available in sizes which occupy only about 81 square inches of space on the floor.

In the handling of crowds the coin changer plays a particularly important part in reducing to a minimum delay at the ticket window, and some are equipped with safety locks to prevent short changing when a channel is empty. Fumbling of coins and the dropping of them which is characteristic of the old fashioned method is eliminated.

Change makers sell for $125 and up.

Brandt Automatic Cashier Company, Watertown, Wis.

General Register Corporation, Paramount Building, New York City.

Heifer Manufacturing Company, 1125 Center Street, Chicago, Ill.

Perry Change-Maker Company, 3790 E. 12th Street, Kansas City, Mo.

Mid-West Ticket & Supply Company, 910 S. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Universal Stamping & Manufacturing Company, 2830 N. Western Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Chairs-Overs

A DEVICE for changing from one projection machine to another or from projector to stereopticon which is accomplished by pressing a button. The list price ranges from $30 to $65, while one is $50 per unit, complete.

Ace Engineering Corporation, 810 Capitol Avenue, Houston, Tex.

BASSON & STERN, 731 E. 32nd Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Dowser Manufacturing Company, 225 Broadway, New York City.

Esquire Electric Manufacturing Company, 2800 W. Clark Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Goldie Manufacturing Company, 2412 Le Moyne Street, Chicago, Ill.

GUERCIO & BARTHEL, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

H and A Company, 1507 Cass Street, Detroit, Mich.

Chimes, Ticket

Refer to ORGAN CHIMES

Choppers, Ticket

Refer to TICKET CHOPPERS

Cleaners, Film

Refer to FILM CLEANING MACHINES

Cleaners, Vacuum

Refer to VACUUM CLEANING EQUIPMENT

Clocks, Advertising

Refer to PUBLICITY CLOCKS

Color Films

There have been motion pictures in color for a number of years, but in 1929 was made the first feature picture entirely in color. This proved an added touch of realism to the sound picture, and at once color was incorporated in the production plans of most producers.

Most professional for productions on standard film employ the process known as technicolor, a patented method consisting fundamentally in filtering out the blues, greens and reds in recording and superimposing them properly in printing. There are other processes less extensively used, including a two-color addition method.

A new process for amateur and semi-professional work was brought out in 1929 by the Eastman Kodak laboratories. Motion pictures in full natural colors in the 16-mm. size may be made by the use of Kodacolor film and by the addition of a Kodacolor filter to the lens hood of the camera. Provided the light is adequate, the process is no more difficult than making "black and white" pictures, and projection is accomplished simply by adding a Kodacolor filter to the projector. Minute lenses embossed right on the film cause the colors to register separately and thus do the trick. Since duplicates can not be made from Kodacolor film, the process is still impractical for the mass production of color pictures.

Colorcraft Corporation, 122 E. 42nd Street, New York, N. Y.
Du Pont-Pitie Film Manufacturing Corporation, 35 W. 45th Street, New York, N. Y.
EASTMAN SUDAN CORPORATION, Rochester, N. Y.
Harrocolor Films, Inc., 1440 N. McCadden Place, Hollywood, Calif.
Multicolor Film, Inc., 201 N. Occidental Boulevard, Los Angeles, Calif.
Photoelectric Corporation, 1650 Broadway, New York City.
TECHNICOLOR, INC., 15 Broad Street, New York City.

Color Hoods
ARTISTIC color effects on electric signs are possible by the use of color hoods which are available in six colors: ruby, blue, green, amber, opal and canary. The color hoods are made of fadeless glass and are made to fit any standard size lamp where they are held in place by spring fasteners, and are readily taken off and replaced for cleaning.

In connection with sign flashers color hoods are an important feature in achieving light and color to make an attention compelling display. Prices of color hoods range from $2.25 to $50 cents.

Curtis Lighting Company, 1119 W. Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Ill.
E. E. Sutherland Company, 1015 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
KLEGL BROTHERS, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
REYNOLDS ELECTRIC COMPANY, 2651 W. Congress Street, Chicago, Ill.
Rosco Laboratories, 977 Hudson Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Color Wheels
WHEELS to accommodate colored gelatine sheets for producing various lighting effects with spot, flood or projector lights are color wheels. They are equipped for either hand or automatic control. Prices range from $2.50 to $60.

BELSON MANUFACTURING COMPANY, 808 Sibley Street, Chicago, III.
E. E. Sutherland Company, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
HERZO GOPHAN COMPANY, 520 W. 47th Street, New York, N. Y.
KLEGL BROTHERS, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
Rosco Laboratories, 977 Hudson Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Coloring, Lamp
Refer to LAMP COLORING.

Composition Flooring
MANY parts of a theatre especially call for a floor covering other than woven materials, and often composition flooring may adequately take the place of expensive tiles, terrazzo, etc. Indeed, in some of the most elegant theatres, the new types of composition flooring, which is now made in raised sections and patterns suggestive of tile and other kinds of mineral flooring, have been effectively adopted.

Composition flooring is made by a number of companies specializing in this product, and all have their own processes. It may be said, however, that the basic materials are cork or rubber, and natural gums. For the coloring is added color pigments according to the design. The resulting mass is attached to burlap backing. Composition flooring comes in varying thicknesses, depending on the use to which it is to be put, and it may be especially designed.

Bendix Photo Company, Inc., Kearny N. J.
Cork Import Corporation, 343-45 W. 46th Street, New York City.
Flexible State Products Company, 1232 N. McKinley Avenue, Chicago Heights, II.
Imperial Floor Company, 56 Halstead, Rochester, N. Y.
Franklin R. Miller, Inc., Warwick, N. Y.
New York Lighting & Packing Company, 91-93 Chambers Street, New York City.
Stedman Products Company, South Braintree, Mass.
The Thie-Tex Company, Chicago Heights, Ill.
Zentherm Company, Inc., Kearny, N. J.

Condensers
CONDENSERS are single glass lenses, unmounted. They are made in various diameters from 2½ inches to 8 inches in diameter; the 4½ inches diameter and the 8 inches diameter being used mostly in motion picture work. The condenser is located in the front end of the lamphouse to gather the rays of light from the light source, and bend them, or condense them into a spot of light on the aperture. They are made in different shapes, some being Plano Convex, some Meniscus or MOon shape, and others Bi-Convex.

Condenser breakage and trouble has been greatly reduced through the perfection and development of heat resisting glass which is tempered and processed to withstand extreme changes of temperature. This, it is declared, has been accomplished without any sacrifice of light on the screen and without impairment of photographic values.

Focal lengths for motion picture work are usually 6½"-7½" and 9½ inches; 5 inches, 6 inches and 8 inches diameter condensers are usually used for spot-light projection.

Within the last two years there has been a development of what is known as the Parabolic condenser, which has made possible the gathering of more light, and a sharper apertured spot of the picture machine. These parabolic condensers have been developed for regular arc projection, high intensity arc projection, and monza projection. They are a little more expensive than the regular type of condenser, but the results obtained are worth the price. Prices from $1.50 to $12.

BAUSCH & LOMB OPTICAL COMPANY, Rochester, N. Y.
Brent Light Projection Company, 7348 Saint Aubin Avenue, Detroit, Mich.
KLEGL BROTHERS, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.
The Potter Company, 1509 Sheridan Road, North Chicago, Ill.
Shufeldt Lamp & Schimmel, 113 W. 23rd Street, New York City.

Cooling, Ventilating Systems
CAPABLE of delivering 35,000 cubic feet of fresh air per minute into every part of the theatre, cooling and ventilating systems are being adopted.
COLOR HOODS
add life to Attraction Boards

S SIGNS and Marqueses

Made of natural colored glass in all colors. Permanent—never wear or fade out. Made for all lamps including the new S-11.

Write for Bulletin No. 30.

Reynold's Electric Company
2651 W. Congress St. Chicago, Ill.

“Everything in Theatre Color Lighting Equipment” by theatres of all sizes. Systems of this type are reasonably priced, ranging in cost from $100 upward.

They may be installed in various parts of the theatre, a common place being below the stage. Under this arrangement distribution of the air is upward, the air passing to the rear of the auditorium and dropping naturally to every seat. In theatres having an organ installed at one side of the proscenium the opposite side of the proscenium affords a good place for a cooling unit. A pent house on the roof at the rear of the auditorium, or on an elevated platform eight or nine feet above the stage floor level, are other manners in which the system may be installed to assure excellent results. In fact, regardless of the nature of the theatre, cooling and ventilating systems of this type may be readily adapted to it. Manufacturers of this equipment maintain cooling and ventilating experts and offer a service of recommending the most efficient arrangement for the complete cooling and ventilating of a theatre. These systems may be installed without interruption to the regular performances.

American Blower Company, 6004 Russell Street, Detroit, Mich.
ARCTIC NU-AIR CORPORATION, Northwest Terminal, Minneapolis, Minn.
Autowest Fan & Blower Company, 1605 N. Koehler Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Baylor Manufacturing Company, 722 Greenough, Milwaukee, Wis.
Bizzard Fan Sales Company, 1524 Davenport Street, Omaha, Neb.
Brunswick-Koonschell Company, New Brunswick, N. J.
Buckeye Blower Company, Columbus, O.
Carrier Engineering Corporation, 750 Frelinghuysen Avenue, Newark, N. J.
General Refrigeration Company, 120 Shirland Avenue, Rockford, Ill.
Hg Electric Ventilating Company, 2550 North Crawford Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
John H. Kitchen & Company, 1011 Pioneer Trust Building, Kansas City, Mo.
KOOLER-AIRE ENGINEERING COMPANY, 1904 Paramount Building, New York City.
National Air Filter Company, 5230 Ravenna Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
National Carbonic Machinery Co., Wisconsin Rapids, Wisconsin.
NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY, 95-98 Gold Street, New York N.
B. F. Reynolds & Company, 118 W. Ohio Street, Chicago, Ill.
SUPREME THEATRE CORPORA-
1915 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo.
TYPHOON FAN COMPANY, 315 W. 39th Street, New York City.
Whiteheimer Machinery Company, 830 N. Shadwell Avenue, Chicago, III.
York Ice Machinery Company, York, Pa.

Controls, Curtain
Refer to CURTAIN CONTROL MACHINES

Costumes and Costume Fabrics

COSTUMES and costume fabrics for the stage must meet many demands, and for that reason this is a specialized field. These fabrics must be of unusual texture for gliding through behind the footlights or in the spot. The costumes may represent a nation, a period or a class, and such costume must be the work of a skilled costumer whose knowledge of peoples and periods is unlimited. The fine costume fabrics are both domestic and of foreign make. Costumes are made to order, sold outright, or provided on a rental basis.

Eastman Brothers’ Studio, Inc., 36 W. 46th Street, New York City.
Dallaire, Inc., 142 W. 44th Street, New York City.
S. M. Revier & Company, 2600 Superior Avenue, East Cleveland, O.
Lester, Ltd., 18 W. Lake Street, Chicago, Ill.

Covers, Program
Refer to PROGRAM COVERS

Covers, Chairs
Refer to CHAIR COVERS

Curtain Control Machines

FEW things leave a finer impression on the theatre audience than the smooth and silent opening and closing of the curtain. This is accomplished by curtain control machines which operate automatically. The curtain can be controlled from the booth or from back stage by the simple process of pressing a button.

Curtain control equipment consists of track equipped with cable and snaps to which the curtain is fastened. In opening and closing the curtain may be stopped at any desired point across the stage and may also be reversed at will. The motor for operating the curtain is usually placed on the stage or it may be placed in the grids or mounted on a platform. This permits the machine, track and curtains to be fixed in addition to open from the center.

Theatres of all sizes are now employing automatic curtain control equipment and mechanism of this type has been developed to a high grade of efficiency, contributing immeasurably to audience enjoyment of the program. The price of curtain control machines is around $225 with the track selling at $3 per foot.

A type of curtain control machine specially designed for small theatres with tracks up to 40 feet in length, has been put on the market at a price considerably lower than that of the larger machines.

AUTOMATIC DEVICES COMPANY, Samuels Building, Allentown, Pa.
BRUCKNER-MITCHELL, INC., 522 W. 22nd Street, New York City.
J. H. CHANNON CORPORATION, 225 Erie Street, Chicago, III.
PETER CLARK, INC., 544 W. 30th Street, New York City.
The Econo-Molding Company, Akron, O.
Perkins Curtain Carrier Company, Waterloo, Ia.
Richards-Wilcox Manufacturing Company, Aurora, Ill.
S. Scheck & Company, 56th and Broadway, Cleveland, Ohio.
TIFFIN SCENIC STUDIOS, Tiffin, O.
TWO CITY SCENE COMPANY, 2819 Nicollet Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.
VALLEN, ELECTRICAL COMPANY, INC., 225 Bluff Street, Akron, O.
Volland Studios Manufacturing Company, 221 West Grand Avenue, Watts, Calif.

Curtain Tracks

THE type of curtain track installed is important for several reasons. It cannot be a makeshift affair, for if it is it may ruin an otherwise good program. Naturally, it must be noiseless and must function smoothly and with little or no effort. A moving curtain attracts attention, therefore that motion must not be accompanied by vibration.

Acme Stage Equipment Company, 191 Lafayette Street, New York City.
AUTOMATIC DEVICES COMPANY, Allentown, Pa.
BRUCKNER-MITCHELL, INC., 522 W. 22nd Street, New York City.
J. H. CHANNON CORPORATION, 225 Erie Street, Chicago, III.
J. H. Clancy, Syracuse, N. Y.
PETER CLARK, INC., 544 W. 30th Street, New York City.
Twin City Scenic Company, 2819 Nicollet Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.
U. S. Stage Scenic Company, Film Exchange Building, Omaha, Neb.
Perkins Curtain Carrier Company, Waterloo, Ia.
VALLEN ELECTRICAL COMPANY, INC., 225 Bluff Street, Akron, O.
Volland Studios Manufacturing Company, 227 Glass Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

Curtains, Fireproof

LAWS in most states now require an asbestos curtain on the stage. In some cases a combination of steel and asbestos curtains is required by the law.

Wm. Beek & Sons Company, Highland and Dorchester Avenues, Cincinnati, Ohio.
BRUCKNER-MITCHELL, INC., 522 W. 22nd Street, New York City.
J. H. CHANNON CORPORATION, 225 Erie Street, Chicago, III.
J. H. Clancy, Syracuse, N. Y.
PETER CLARK, INC., 544 W. 30th Street, New York City.
Jenningsville Corporation, 222 Madison Avenue, New York City.
Lee Lash Studios, 236 Washington Street, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.
TIFFIN SCENIC STUDIOS, Tiffin, O.
TWO CITY SCENE COMPANY, 2819 Nicollet Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.
Vollund Scene Studios, Inc., 3737 Cass Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

Cutout Machines

THIS is a device for making various kinds of exploitation cutouts and lobby and marquee displays. The design for the desired cutout display is traced on ordinary wall board and with this device, the cutout is easily made by guiding the machine over the pattern. A small motor is used and the current from the electric light socket furnishes the power. The machine is convertible into a saw by substituting a saw blade for the chisel to handle harder and thicker materials.

International Register Company, 21 S. Throop Street, Chicago, III.
Date Strips

DATE strips, being an inexpensive but nevertheless important theatre advertising commodity, frequently frustrate the efforts of good advertising through over-use until they become dirty and unattractive. A few dollars buys enough date strips for a whole year for the average house. Except for special uses date strips are available from stock in standard sizes. Prices range from 1c to 5c each.

EXHIBITORS PRINTING SERVICE, 711 S. Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.
Flemming Company, 730 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Hennegan Company, 311 Genesse Street, Cincinnati, O.
NATIONAL PRINTING COMPANY, 729 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill. 125-129 W. 44th Street, New York City, and 1922 S. Vermont Avenue, Los Angeles.

Decorating Products and Service

THE theatre today has opened a new field for the producer and designer of decorative materials. No other building is as complete in this sense as is the theatre, for in the decorative scheme the theatre has found a factor which encourages patronage. The blending colors, the unique wall designs, the finely cut or moulded grille pieces, modern lighting fixture designs, gorgeous drapes, etc., all lend themselves to the theatre.

Architectural Decorative Company, 1600 S. Jefferson Street, Chicago, Ill.
The Craftex Company, 37-39 Antwerp Street, Brighton Station, Boston, Mass.
Decorators Supply Company, 2547 Archer Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Hockaday, Inc., 1532 Carroll Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
The Vogt Company, 1145 N. 12th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
H. B. Wiggin’s Sons Company, Bloomfield, N. J.

Decorative Pottery

Refer to POTTERY, DECORATIVE

Dimmers

THE beautiful lighting effects achieved in motion picture theatres is accomplished through dimmers which are capable of complete illumination control making possible soft changes and color blending of lights to create a restful and pleasing atmosphere. Dimmers are used by small theatres as well as the large motion picture palaces. They are usually placed at the side of the stage. In instances of smaller installations the dimmer may be operated by the projectionist from the booth.

The magical effect of lighting control and blending as achieved with dimmers is one of the outstanding features of the modern theatre today. On the stage and throughout the theatre dimmers give producers and managers one of their most effective means of creating marvels which unquestionably are important factors at the box office.

Frank Adam Electric Company, St. Louis, Mo.
Chicago Electric Equipment Company, 417 S. Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.
Cutler-Hammer, Inc., 12th Street and St. Paul Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis.
General Electric Company, 1 River Road, Schenectady, N. Y.
Hull Electric Company, 2129 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Kiewit Brothers, 321 W. 16th Street, New York City.

Fulfill Your Promise of Good Entertainment

Vallen Noiseless, All-Steel Safety Track helps to fulfill your promise of good entertainment. Any curtain operated from a Vallen track will glide smoothly and noiselessly and is a practical way of adding distinction to any entertainment.

The all-steel construction is absolutely safe and can be readily installed by inexperienced workmen. Easily operated manually or with unusual simplicity by an electric motor driven, push button operated Vallen Curtain Control Unit. Vallen will gladly give facts why many exclusive features increase economy and practicability.

VALLON ELECTRICAL CO., Inc.

Manufacturer of Vallen Automatic Screen Modifiers, Vallen Noiseless All-Steel Safety Track, Vallen Noiseless Curved Track, Vallen High-Speed Curtain Control, Vallen Junior Control, Vallen Flying Control, Vallen Synchromatic for “Talkies.”

AKRON, OHIO, U. S. A.

Vallen Dares to Guarantee

Major Equipment Company, 4602 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Milwaukee Electric Switchboard Company, 156 Clinton Street, Milwaukee, Wis.
Mutual Electric & Machine Company, 7428 Joseph Campus Street, Detroit, Mich.
Reynolds Electric Company, 2650 W. Congress Street, Chicago, Ill.
Twos Company, 2815 Noglobin Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.
Ward Leonard Electric Company, 37 South Street, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.
Wm. Ward Electric Manufacturing Company, 4444 Clayton Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

Disinfectants, Perfumed

THE necessity of eliminating disagreeable odors in a theatre has led to the development of disinfectants which not only serve to eradicate the odors but leave in the room a delightful perfume fragrance. Disinfectants of this kind are usually sprinkled about the house or they may be used in ornamental cones, placed on the auditorium walls. Particularly during the hot weather months are perfumed disinfectants used extensively to sweeten the air in the theatre and make it agreeable and comfortable. Disinfectants sell for $3.00 a quart and up.

A deodorant which acts as a solvent for the scale forming in urinals and toilets, is also obtainable. It is designed to remove a principal cause of bad odor. Another deodorizing preparation on the market is especially adapted to use in mopping or scrubbling toilet rooms or other places which may be a source of obnoxious smells.

Arthur Beck Chemical Manufacturing Company, 4743 Bernard Street, Chicago, Ill.
E. E. Fulton Company, 5128 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Hewes-Gotham Company, 520 W. 47th Street, New York, N. Y.
The Huntington Laboratories, Inc., Huntington, Ind.
Rochester Germicide Company, Inc., Rochester, N. Y.
W. N. Franklin Specialty Corporation, 415 E. Western Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Doors, Fireproof

Refer to FIREPROOF DOORS

Draperies

Refer to STAGE SCENERY AND DRAPERIES

Driers, Hand

Refer to HAND DRIERS

Drinking Cups, Paper

THE paper drinking cup, in its handy container, is an adjunct to the sanitary equipment of a theatre. Paper cups range in price from $1.25 for cases of 10,000, to $5.50 for cases of 2,500, depending upon the product purchased. In some instances containers are included in the cost of the cups. Where it is necessary to buy a container, the price will range from $4.50 up.

Lubek Company, 120 Broadway, New York City.
Tulip Coin Corporation, 220 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

The Vortex Manufacturing Company, 421-423 N. Western Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Ideal Cup Corporation, 317 N. Wells Street, Chicago, Ill.

Drinking Fountains

Fifteen drinking fountains about evenly divided between the wall and pedestal type are installed in Balaban &
Katz's Uptown theatre, Chicago. While the Uptown is one of the country's largest houses, the drinking water facilities provided easily emphasize the importance of this feature in any theatre.

Drinking fountains should be placed as conveniently as possible for the patron entering and leaving the theatre. In small houses at either end of foyer is a place frequently used. Whether the wall or pedestal type fountain is used depends upon space available, the wall type being used where space conditions are more limited. The wall type is designed with special decorative and illuminating features.

In the finer theatres drinking fountains form an integral part of the decorative scheme of the theatre, being designed in harmony with the balance of the surroundings and in conformity with the architectural treatment of the house.

Bathelder-Wilson Company, 2682 Arician, Los Angeles, Calif.
Central Brass Mfg. Company, 2584 E. 15th Street, Cleveland, O.
Century Brass Works, 942 N. Illinois Street, Belleville, Ill.
The Crane Company, 824 S. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
General Electric Company, 1 River Road, Schenectady, N. Y.
Murdock Manufacturing Company, Decatur, Ill.
Rundle-Spence Manufacturing Company, 22 Second Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

Electric Measuring Instruments

The development and improvement in theatre lighting and projection have thrown onto the shoulders of the electrician, as well as the projectionist, many responsibilities. At their command are factors which make or break the show. With enormous switchboards to control, emergency lighting plants, motors, generators, arcs, dimmers, transverters, magnetic appliances and many other involved and sensitive electrical instruments, it devolves on the theatre to provide adequate equipment for their correct operation. In the list of necessary measuring instruments are ammeters, voltimeters, vacuum tube testers and the like. All these and others tend toward improving lighting.

Effect Machines

Effect machines are an integral part of motion picture exhibition, especially when a policy of stage shows has been adopted. The effects in lighting which may be obtained are almost phenomenal, are always a source of curiosity and pleasure on the part of the public. There is a wide range of prices on these machines, depending upon the effects desired. There is also a new product which not only produces the usual effect but a wide variety of others.

Belson Manufacturing Company, 500 Sibley Street, Chicago, Ill.
Breckart Light Projection Company, 7348 St. Ansel Avenue, Detroit, Mich.
Chicago Cinema Equipment, 1736-1734 N. Springfield Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Display Stage Lighting Company, 334 W. 44th Street, New York City.
Kleej Brothers, 311 W. 50th Street, New York City.
Laughlin McCormick Studio, 141 W. 14th Street, New York City.
Milwaukee Electric Switchboard Company, 156 Clinton Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

Electric Fans

This term is used to designate fans ranging in size from 5 to 16 inches, which are usually portable and are made in both oscillating and non-oscillating types. They are operated by connection to the light socket. Prices range from $5 to $33. Ceiling fans are also often desirable in theatres not well equipped for good ventilation.

General Electric Company, 1 River Road, Schenec-tdy, N. Y.
Heyer Products Company, Inc., 197 Grove Street, Bloomfield, N. J.
Waverly Electric Instrument Company, Waverly Park, Newark, N. J.

Electric Flowers

BASKETS or vases of electric flowers offer many possibilities in a decorative way for theatres. Artificial roses, tulips or similar flowers are fitted with small properly colored bulbs and the complete bouquet is wired ready to attach to the light socket. Many a nook or corner now barren and unattractive or unsightly can be transformed into a beauty spot by means of an electric bouquet.

Oscar Lastner, 319 W. Randolph Street, Chicago, Ill.

Electric Lighting and Power Plants

Refer to LIGHTING AND POWER PLANTS

Electric Motors

Refer to MOTORS, ELECTRIC

Electric Pickups

ELECTRIC pickups take the sound vibrations from records, transmit them to the amplifiers. The stylus (or needle) runs in a groove on the record and is caused to vibrate in the groove made at the recording. On the phonograph this needle vibrates a diaphragm located in the neck of the horn, and these vibrations are amplified to audibility by the construction of the horn. Electric pickups are used to convert the mechanical energy picked up from the record by the stylus, which also is the armature of the reproducing unit. A fluctuating audio-frequency voltage is generated in the coil surrounding this armature, which is amplified either through the audio-amplifier (of the radio set) or through the amplifier of a public address or sound picture system.

The Audak Company, 345 Fifth Avenue, New York City.
Best Manufacturing Company, 1200 Grove Street, Easton, N. J.
L. R. Gordon Company, 1800 Monroe Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
The On-Tone Company, 1016 George Street, Chicago, Ill.
Phant Electric Company, Inc., 91 Seventh Avenue, New York City.
Proctor Machine Products Company, 70 Washington Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Strand-M-Carson Telephone Company, 1060 Clinton Street, Rochester, N. Y.
Toman & Company, 2621 W. 21st Street, Chicago, Ill.

Unified Air Cleaner Company, 9795 Cottage Grove Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Upco Products Corporation, 270 Lafayette Street, New York City.
Webster Electric Company, Clark and DeKover Avenue, Racine, Wis.
Emergency Lighting Plants

Refer to LIGHTING AND POWER PLANTS

Engineering Service

THE advent of sound pictures, with all the attendant problems and requirements, has necessitated a special kind of engineering service. Men engaged in such work are usually known as consulting engineers and are qualified to act in an advisory capacity on electrical and acoustical problems, as well as to supervise sound installations and operation.

HUMPHREY DAVY & ASSOCIATES, 4214 Market Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
The Hirsch Corporation, 269 S. Third Street, Columbus, O.

Equipment Supplies

THE importance of equipment to the theatre cannot be stressed too much. It makes for comfort, proper presentation of entertainment, safety, etc. Equipment must be given first consideration, for a theatre which does not install the finest and most effective product, and become at the outset attractive and efficient, is endangering its future success. Independent equipment dealers will be found in all key centers.

Continental Theatre Accessories, Inc., 325 W. 44th Street, New York, City.
E. E. Fulton Company, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
GUBRI OSS BARTHEL, 1048 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY, 92-96 Gold Street, New York, N. Y.
MOVIE SUPPLY COMPANY, 541 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

(For a more complete list of territorial dealers of theatre equipment, refer to page 153.)

Exit Light Signs

EXIT light signs are required by law in all theatres, the Chicago theatre building ordinance specifying them as follows: "The word 'EXIT' shall appear in letters at least six inches high over the opening of every means of egress from a theatre and a red light shall be kept burning over such a sign."

Many improvements have been made in the manufacture of exit lights in an endeavor to make them less offensive in appearance without detracting from their practical mission. In addition to various styles, exit lights may be obtained built into ornamental fixtures, the whole being placed over the exit door.

BELSON MANUFACTURING COMPANY, 900 Sibley Street, Chicago, Ill.
Brookhart Light Precinct Company, 7348 Saint Aubin Avenue, Detroit, Mich.
Fleming Corporation, Buffalo, N. Y.
E. E. Fulton Company, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
HUB ELECTRIC COMPANY, 2219 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
KIEBEL BROTHERS, 321 W. 59th Street, New York City.
La-Mi-Nu Signs, Inc., 2766 Wentworth Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Major Equipment Company, 6603 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Raymond & Evans Company, 710 W. Washington Street, Chicago, Ill.
Tudor Theatre Company, 4541 Ravenswood Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Viking Products Corporation, 422 W. 42d Street, New York City.
Wheelbarrow Reflector Company, 275 Congress Street, Boston, Mass.
Willey Sign Company, 1500 Church Street, Detroit, Mich.

Dress up your programs with Color!

Variety is the backbone of every successful program. "Talkies" alone will not maintain audience interest—they need the spice of novelty that can be easily added by unusual, colorful effects. Such effects never fail to grip the attention of the audience. Inject variety into your program—be assured of filled seats and a waiting line out front.

The new model CHICAGO CINEMA Combination Effect Machine will project colored borders, blends, titles, still or animated effects, and organ slides, on the screen or covering the entire prosenium opening.

After months of experiment we’ve succeeded in producing a machine specially adapted to the needs of those theatres where only “talkie” programs are now being presented. Realizing the demands of these houses, we’ve made this new model unbelievably compact, yet so thoroughly flexible as to accommodate numerous effect devices, besides being designed for 4” x 5” slides. A host of other important improvements are included, and the basic CHICAGO CINEMA features of design have been retained.

If your booth is already equipped with an effect machine or double dissolve, you’ll be interested to know that it can be remodeled to produce the same effects now possible with the new model. Write for full information.

CHICAGO CINEMA EQUIPMENT CO.

Manufacturers of booth, stage, and orchestra equipment
1736 N. Springfield Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Fans, Electric

Refer to ELECTRIC FANS

Fans, Ventilating

FANS may be divided into two classes, the portable and the stationary. The latter is the type commonly used in theatres. It is made in a variety of styles and sizes and is used for drawing into the auditorium fresh air or drawing out the foul air. These fans are mounted in a wall opening and in theatres can advantageously be placed in the front or rear of the auditorium and in the lobby. The motors operating these fans are usually supported by a bracket extension of the fan. The motor is generally enclosed to prevent trouble from dust or dirt.

The sizes of these fans range from 10 to 72 inches in diameter.

Ceiling fans are of a larger type and operate at slower speed. Fans of this type usually have four wooden blades and are hung from the ceiling by an insulated hanger. The blower type of fan may be located over exits, under stage, at sides of projection booth and on roofs, either at front or rear.

While the importance of adequate ventilation in the auditorium is generally recognized it has been found that many theatres have failed in providing ventilation in lobbies. Air in the lobby, particularly when crowds are waiting admission soon becomes stagnant and foul, with the result that patrons are unduly
You should have a copy of Building Theatre Patronage for handy reference

This is not a book to be read over once. It is a treatise embracing theatre management in all details. It is needed on every managers desk to be consulted whenever inspiration is needed. The wise manager will consult it many times daily.

Have this inexpensive assistant at your command—price $5.10 at

Herald-World Bookshop
407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

Order accompanied by certified check, money order or draft receives immediate attention. Will also mail C.O.D., if desired.

The Odds Are Against You If You Have No Ventilating Equipment to Combat Avoidable Winter Illnesses

All-Year-Round Comfort—
All-Year-Round Profit from Continuous Satisfied Patronage

FAN HEATING FOR EVEN TEMPERATURE
Our Engineers Are At Your Service

TYphoon Fan Co.
345 West 39th Street
New York City

IN AN EARLY ISSUE
A special presentation of European theatres.
Exhibitors Herald-World

October 25, 1930

Film Cleaning Machines

A BLOCK containing pads which are saturated with a film cleaning liquid through which the film is run, dirt and grit being removed from it in the process. Prices range from $7.50 up. Consolidated Film Industries, 729 Seventh Avenue, New York City.

Film Developing and Printing

W ITH motion picture presentations and local news reels offering novelty on many theatre bills, a great responsibility rests upon those developing and printing the films. Rapid service is required, yet the negatives and positives must be handled with meticulous care to avoid cloudiness, rain and other faults. Positives may be obtained in black and white and in several tints, including amber, red, etc.

BEL AND HOWELL COMPANY, 1801 Larchmont Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Craft Film Laboratories, Inc., 729 Seventh Avenue, New York City.
Empire Laboratories, Inc., 723 Seventh Avenue, New York City.
Appledition Films, Inc., 1029 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Film Inspection Machines

PERFECT projection is impossible unless the film itself is in perfect mechanical condition. Today the public demands good screen and sound results and the projectionist can accomplish this only when proper inspection has been given to the film. The film inspection machines manufactured today are adding efficiency to this work.

Film Inspection Machine Company, 600 Ninth Avenue, New York City.

Film, Raw

RAW film is motion picture film that has never been exposed. Camera spools carry 400 and 1,000 feet of negative film, and positive film can be got in 1,000-foot lengths. The positive film is that which is used to make a copy print from the original film or negative.

Du Pont-Pathe Film Mfg. Corporation, 35 W. 40th Street, New York City.
EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY, Rochester, N. Y.

Film Reels

Refer to REELS

Film Rewinders

THIS device is used for rewinding films after they are run through the projectors, and are made in two general patterns, the bench and fire-proof enclosed type. The bench or open rewinder is made in one piece types with the dummy and geared end complete in one unit, and others are made so that they can be clamped to a bench or shelf, while some are permanently fastened by means of bolts. Some are made with plain bearings and some have their spindles mounted on ball bearings. They range in price from $6.00 to $15.00.

BEL AND HOWELL COMPANY, 1827 Larchmont Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
CHICAGO CINEMA EQUIPMENT COMPANY, 1724 N. Springfield Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
DUPLEX MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRIES, 74 Sherman Avenue, Long Island City, N. Y.
DREWICKY FILM MACHINE CORPORATION, New York City.
Erker & Bartlett, 45 W. 45th Street, New York City.

Film Splicing Machines

EQUIPMENT of this type is used mostly in film exchanges, studios and laboratories for the purpose which the name states. Smaller models are made for theatres. Prices range from $6.00 up.

BEL AND HOWELL COMPANY, 1801 Larchmont Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
DUPLEX MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRIES, 74 Sherman Avenue, Long Island City, N. Y.
DREWICKY FILM MACHINE CORPORATION, New York City.
Foster & Bartlett, 45 W. 45th Street, New York City.
Neumade Products Corporation, 246 W. 47th Street, New York City.

ORNLESS FLAMEPROOF "2-in-1" FILM CEMENT is guaranteed to satisfactorily mend ANY motion picture film made of celluloid

From the standpoints of Economy—Safety—Efficiency and welding the splice better service is assured.

FLAMEPROOF "2-in-1" FILM CEMENT does not choose favorites; it works equally well on all films: Nitrate or Acetate—Films or Safety—Black and White—Color

SOUND OR SILENT

16 mm.—35 mm.—65 mm.—or what have you?

The Only Film Cement Approved by Official Fire Prevention Agencies—For Safety's Sake!

This is your guide to SATISFACTORY SERVICE SAFELY

IT JUST WONT BURN

HEWES GOTHAM CO. 520 West 47th St. New York City

Film Processing Machines

A DEVICE for protecting the projector from emulsion of green film. It is placed between rewinds, the film passing through the waxing machine and waxing the sprocket holes while being rewound. Prices range from $15.00 up.

BEL AND HOWELL COMPANY, 1801 Larchmont Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
DUPLEX MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRIES, 74 Sherman Avenue, Long Island City, N. Y.
DREWICKY FILM MACHINE CORPORATION, Film Center Building, New York City.
Erker Brothers Optical Company, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Neumade Products Corporation, 246 W. 47th Street, New York City.

Fire Doors

Refer to FIREPROOF DOORS

Fire Extinguishers

THERE are for theatres four types of fire extinguishers: the one quart size hand extinguisher, containing carbon tetra-chloride; the 2%-gallon soda and acid extinguisher; the 2%-gallon foam type, and the portable carbon Dioxide hand type. Good ones of these types are manufactured by many companies. The instructions from fire inspectors should be carefully followed in distributing these through the theatre building. Prices range around $12.00.

American-LaFrance and Foamite Corporation, Elmira, N. Y.
Fire Prevention for Projectors

IMPORTANT equipment has been developed which it is said definitely prevents a film fire in the projection machine. This equipment is a safety control device, that is easily installed and which is operated on the regular line voltage. The main control unit and dowser are mounted on the cone of the lamphouse and act as the main light cut off, taking the place of the regular dowser. The dowser is operated from five distinct points of contact, covering every avenue through which a fire could start in the projector while it is in operation or at a standstill with the film in it. All contact points are very sensitive, and the dowser is instantaneous in its action, yet does not depend upon springs to actuate it.

An arm with a loop and idler are so mounted as to engage with the upper film loop as each arm and idler is so mounted to engage the lower loop, an auxiliary idler is mounted so that it rides the film between the take-up sprocket and lower magazine valve rollers. These three points of contact with the film offer protection against fire from the following causes: film break at any point in the projector; loss of lower loop; loss of upper loop; mutilated perforations, i.e.: perforations in such condition that film will not ride properly through projector; failure of film to pass properly through projector from any cause; failure of film to take-up properly; bad reel in lower magazine; take-up belt breaking.

Now there are other avenues by which a film fire can start, and the inventors of the device have apparently overlooked nothing in the way of safety.

The entire projector is protected by a governor which is driven by one of the gears of the projector head, and this causes the dowser to actuate in case the following occurs: drive belts breaking; projector head binding up; motor trouble of any kind; loose drive pulleys; line fuses blowing out; projector running below normal speed.

A very important feature of this control is the change-over, that is incorporated in it where two or more projectors are used, and it is very simple in its operation as it keeps one dowser in a locked position while the other one is in operating position.

The failure of current supply to motor results in instant actuation of the dowser.

Fireproof Curtains

Refer to CURTAINS, FIREPROOF

Fireproof Doors

In practically all states, cities and towns building codes require the use of fireproof doors in certain quarters of the theatre, such as the projection booth, stairwells, exits, dressing rooms, boiler rooms, etc. This demand on the part of the framers of the building codes has been beneficial to the theatre owner in many respects. In the first place it has effected a big saving in insurance. Secondly, and more important, it has safe-guarded life and eliminated legal battles and accident and death claims. Before building every theatre owner should consult building code specialists and the fire underwriters.

Covington Metal Products, 17 W. Eighth Street, Covington, Ky.
Missouri Fire Door & Cornice Company, 3144 Easton Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
The Moeschi-Edwards Corrugating Company, Inc., 411 E. Fifth Street, Cincinnati, O.
St. Louis Fire Door Company, 1142 S. Sixth Street, St. Louis, Mo.
Variety Fire Door Company, 2928 Carroll Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Fireproof Shutters

AGAIN entering into lower insurance rates are fireproof shutters for the projection booth. Such equipment in the modern theatre has placed the patrons beyond the danger line, so to speak. These safety shutters are so constructed that they drop when film breaks. Certain designs work automatically, while others operate through a release effected by the projectionist. The list price of the shutters ranges from $300 up, depending on size.

Belson Manufacturing Company, 800 Sibley Street, Chicago, Ill.
Blum Manufacturing Company, 840 University Avenue, St. Paul, Minn.
The Moeschi-Edwards Corrugating Company, Inc., 411 E. Fifth Street, Cincinnati, O.
Bonino Company, 157 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, Cal.

Fireproof Units

There are various forms of these available and generally each type is made in several capacities and sizes to accommodate their installation in small or large booths. The component parts of each unit are generally detachable so that the unit can be made complete for film storage, waste disposal, film rewinding and inspection, as well as the storage of both supplies and tools. They are generally furnished with casters, so that they can be moved about for cleaning or relocating purposes. They are made entirely of metal and are therefore fireproof. These units are far cheaper in the long run than the general make-shift of the past, in covering wooden benches or shelves with tin or sheet metal, since they always represent a recognized value by being complete within themselves, and not built in as part of the partitions or the booth construction. The prices range from $50.00 to $350.00.

E. E. Fulton Company, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Fireproofing Materials

Into every factor of theatre construction, there should enter fire resisting material. Through such construction, the exhibitor is safeguarding his investment and his clientele. Fireproofing compounds have been prepared for coating scenery, drapes and curtains and other inflammable materials. Today through the use of specially prepared wood, compounds, asbestos, cement, steel and other fire resisting material the owner may feel assured of the safety of his building.

Canvas Proofing & Stripping Company, 832-3536 Potomac Avenue, W. E. Fulton Company, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, III.
Hewel-Gotham Company, 520 W. 47th Street, New York, N. Y.
W. Taylor Company, 252 Madison Avenue, New York City.
Macoupin Engineering Company, 79 Union Trust Building, Cleveland, O.
Universal Gyposum Company, 111 W. Washington Street, Chicago, III.

Fixtures, Lighting

Refer to LIGHTING FIXTURES

Fixtures, Plumbing

Refer to PLUMBING FIXTURES

Flashers, Signs

The sparkling life and motion characteristic of so many theatre signs is produced by the use of sign flashers. Sign flashers are made in several types, among them being the motor driven, the mercury contact, thermal and socket flasher type.

The possibilities for attention getting effects through the use of sign flashers is demonstrated daily in thousands of signs equipped with them. Signs employing flashers are generally used in connection with colored lamps or color boxes, the combined flasher and color lending itself to an almost endless interpretation of interesting figures and shapes.

In addition to the interest compelling action which the sign flasher injects in a sign it is stated that its use effects a saving in current cost over the continuous burning sign. Prices range from $40.00 up.

Eagle Signal Sales Corporation, Moline, Ill.
October 25, 1930

REYNOLDS ELECTRIC COMPANY, 2650 W. Congres Street, Chicago, III.
Time-O-Stat Controls Company, Elkhart, Ind.

Flood Lights

FLOOD lighting is accomplished with a lamp equipped with reflector of parabolic form capable of projecting a light to cover a wide area at a distance. For night lighting of theatre buildings lamps usually range from 300 to 1,500 watts. These may be located on the marquee or at some other vantage point opposite or nearly opposite the building. The intensity of the light is governed to a great extent by the type of reflector employed. In general there are three types: the extensive, the distributive and the concentrating. The former gives a wide smooth distribution of light for close-up work; the distributing reflectors provide a more concentrated beam for work at average distance and the concentrating reflector throws a long, narrow beam of light for illumination at long distances.

Claims advanced for the advantages of flood-lighting, aside from the obvious advertising value of this form of illumination, include a clean revelation of the architectural beauty of a building unmarred by signs or lamp outlines.

An idea of floodlighting costs may be obtained from the following example:

Time of operation, 5 hours per evening.
Area to be floodlighted 50 ft. long, 50 ft. wide.
Extent of floodlighted area, 2,500 square feet.

Projectors used, 500 watt.
Area lighted by each projector, 250 sq. ft.
Number of projectors used, 10.
Kilowatt hour consumption per period.

\[
\frac{1000}{100\times25} = 25
\]

Cost per kw. hour: $25.

Cost of lighting front for 5 hours: $2.50.

Floodlighting is also used in theatre auditoriums for such purposes as illuminating the orchestra pit while the balance of the house is dark.

The list price of flood lights ranges from $30 to $75.

FRANK ADAM ELECTRIC COMPANY, 3650 Winder Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
BELSON MANUFACTURING COMPANY, 800 Sibley Street, Chicago, III.
CHICAGO CINEMA EQUIPMENT COMPANY, 1736-1740 N. Springfield Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Curtis Lighting, Inc., 1119 W. Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Ill.
General Electric Company, 1 River Road, Schenectady, N.Y.
HUR ELECTRIC COMPANY, 2219 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
KLEGL BROTHERS, 321 W. 56th Street, New York City.
Major Equipment Company, 4603 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Milwaukee Electric Switchboard Company, 156 Clinton Street, Milwaukee, Wis.
Twin City Scene Company, 2819 Nicollet Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.
U. S. Scene Studios, Inc., Film Exchange Building, Omaha, Neb.
Waddinghouse Lamp Company, 150 Broadway, New York City.
Wm. Wordock Electric Manufacturing Company, 4444 Clayton Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

Floor Coverings

Refer to CARPETS and MATS and RUNNERS

Fountains, Drinking

Refer to DRINKING FOUNTAINS

Fountains, Ornamental

Refer to ORNAMENTAL FOUNTAINS

Frames—Poster, Lobby

POSTER and lobby display frames are manufactured in standard sizes. There are one sheets to hang and one sheet with easel back—three sheets to hang and three sheets with easel back—combination frames to hang and with easel to accommodate a one-sheet and eight 11x14 photographs. Another combination often used is one to take a 22x28 photograph, eight 11x14 photographs and date strip.

Photograph frames are also offered in standard sizes for five or six photographs, 11x14 in size.

Most of the modern theatres are having their lobby display frames and cases built to order to fit the recesses and spaces provided for by the architect. Manufacturers of frames and cases gladly furnish complete drawings and specifications for the theatre owner's approval. Standard sizes range in price from $7.00 up.

Roth Brothers and Company
Division of Century Electric Company
1400 W. Adams St. » » » Chicago, Illinois

' ' THEY KEEP A - RUNNING' '

EXCEPTIONAL COMMUTATION

As a result of exceptional commutation Roth Actodectors are especially suitable for use with sound equipment. This feature, combined with the ability of Roth Actodectors to maintain projection arcs of uniform intensity and unvarying brilliance—even during change-over—is responsible for their wide use by the large circuits. . . . Furnished in 2- and 4-bearing types—various sizes from 20 to 600 ampere capacity—standard voltages of 75, 85 and 100 volts.

Roth Brothers and Company
Division of Century Electric Company
1400 W. Adams St. » » » Chicago, Illinois

Flower Baskets, Electric
Refer to ELECTRIC FLOWERS

Flowers, Artificial Refer to ARTIFICIAL FLOWERS

Footlights

ANY types of footlights are made for the average theatre. They are designed in the portable type, disappearing type, and the regular kind of permanent installation. Footlights can be bought already wired for various combinations of color circuits, in single or double rows.

FRANK ADAM ELECTRIC COMPANY, 3650 Winder Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
BELSON MANUFACTURING COMPANY, 800 Sibley Street, Chicago, III.
Buchere Distributing Company, 7016 Euclid Avenue, Cleveland, O.
CHICAGO CINEMA EQUIPMENT COMPANY, 1736-1740 N. Springfield Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Chicago Switchboard Manufacturing Company, 126 S. Clinton Street, Chicago, Ill.
KLEGL BROTHERS, 321 W. 56th Street, New York City.
Milwaukee Electric Switchboard Company, 156 Clinton Street, Milwaukee, Wis.
Major Equipment Company, 4603 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Wheeler Reflector Company, 275 Congress Street, Boston, Mass.
Wm. Wordock Electric Manufacturing Company, 4444 Clayton Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

Fronts, Metal Theatre

EN?ire fronts for theatres made of sheet metal and wrought in a pleasing design are available for the small house desiring to change its exterior appearance. These metal fronts are made in various sizes and designs and shipped in sections ready to be erected. It is advisable, in ordering material of this type to have the building properly meas-
MAGNASCOPE FRAME

Eliminate excessive weight, head and off stage space—accomplished by removing objectionable mechanical equipment from the frame and placing it in the grid and side of stage where it belongs.

Do this and you have a simple, free operating magnascope frame, entirely fool-proof. Yes, it will fly in one complete unit. Either hand or electric operation.

Smaller frame both in height and width, less in weight, positive in operation is the new Channon magnascope frame. The price is within reason.

Send specifications giving size of both small and large pictures wanted and you will receive detailed information and price.

CHANNON CORPORATION
223-233 West Erie Street
CHICAGO

NEWEST and BEST
MINIATURE GOLF BIG PROFITS EVERY MONTH
Wire or write us now for full information on the CLOSE-TO-NATURE MINIATURE GOLF COURSE DE LUXE
Famous “Tru-Pla” Greens with wide Fairways. For Indoors or Outdoors, 100% Portable. Installed or removed in a few hours. Spans 50 x 80 feet or approximate area. The most modern for the least money. We offer an elegant 18-hole course. Also 9-hole and 27-hole. Get our course quick and make big money.

CLOSE-TO-NATURE CO.
Colfax

Electrical fuses are intentional weakened spots introduced into an electrical circuit and designed to fuse or “blow” due to excess current caused by overload or a short circuit in the line. Thus the circuit is opened before the excess current can damage any other part of the wiring or apparatus forming the circuit. They are purely a protective device and require replacement when the non-renewable type is used, or the renewal link replaced when the renewable type is used.

Fuses are preferable type of protective device because of their lower cost, their enclosed parts, and the absence of moving parts. It is good business to keep extra fuses or renewals on hand at all times. A sufficient supply will prevent a dark house. The theatre owner should not experiment on the use of fuses, but should take the advice of a skilled electrician so that an overload will not result.

Fuses may be more safely pulled than otherwise if a fuse puller is used. This device may prevent burns, injury to the equipment and other mishaps, and it costs but little.

Gazing Balls, Lobby

A DECORATIVE feature which has fascinated humanity through centuries because of the supposed occult powers of the Oriental to see reflected in it the future of life is the gazing ball. This decorative piece, always an attraction, lends tone to the colorful lobby.

Architectural Decorating Company, 1600 S. Jefferson Street, Chicago, Ill.

Gelatine Sheets

THE gelatine sheet, for the colorful and atmospheric lighting of stages, organs, sections of the screen and other features which take the spot, is as vital as the spot and flood. The best gelatine sheets are both durable and flexible, and are only slightly affected by atmospheric changes in the theatre. Cooling systems do not cause such sheets to fall limped from the frames. The list price of gelatine ranges from 20c and up for 100 sheets. Any desired color may be obtained, either in the individual sheet or through combinations.

Central Import Company, 1565 S. Central Park Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Robert Laboratories, 567 Hudson Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Golf (Miniature) Courses and Equipment

MINIATURE golf is a game based on regular golf but designed to be played in much smaller areas. The method of playing it is generally confined to that characteristic of putting the ball a short distance and then, if necessary, to eventually hole it, as on the “green” in the regular game). Miniature golf further differs from the regular game by usually having added to it a variety of devices (like tunnels, mounds, etc.) designed to increase the amount of skill required. The nature of these special devices is peculiar to miniature golf depends upon the particular design of layout installed.

Miniature golf is of interest to the motion picture theatre operator because of its possibilities in patronage promotion and exploitation, and as a source of added income. Soon after the appearance of the game in the spring of 1950, exhibitors began to install such courses, either in close proximity to the theatre to be run more or less in conjunction therewith, or at a remote location to be operated as a separate amusement enterprise. A number of theatres belonging to large producer-owned chains adopted the game at that time.

While the game lends itself obviously to outdoor enjoyment, it is easily adapted to good-sized quarters indoors so that it can be played even in northern climates during the winter, and such indoor establishments are common. Among locations of special efficacy in connection with theatres are the roofs of buildings housing theatres. These may be enclosed at small cost to permit play in northern climates throughout the winter.

As in the regular game, there are both nine-hole and 18-hole miniature golf Courses. A good 18-hole layout can be installed in an area of about 6,000 square feet. It may be regarded as a usual thing that an indoor course would have only nine holes. A sporting course of this size may be installed in an area of around 4,000 square feet.

Each lot includes all the equipment necessary for setting up the course for public operation. In some instances, where gravel or cinders could be used for parts of the sections leading to the greens, the material might be procurable locally. The greens are made of felt, cotton seed hulls, rubber or sand (the latter being probably obtainable locally).

Prices range from around $2,000 to $10,000, with some layouts costing as high as $25,000.

* Adler-Jones Company, 652 S. Wells Street, Chicago, Ill.
* American Golf Equipment Company, 4354 Broadway, Chicago, Ill.
* American Landscape Corporation, 6500 Ridge Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
* Botanical Decorating Company, 310-327 W. Van Buren St., Chicago, Ill.
* Burlington Blanket Company, Burlington, Wis.
* W. L. Cagle Lumber Company, 3255 Irving Park Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
* Chicago Carpet Company, 2391 S. Paulina Street, Chicago, Ill.
* Chicago Midget Golf Courses, 449 E. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
* CLOSED-TO-NATURE COMPANY, Colfax, Ia.
* Diamond & Diamond, 3272 Milwaukee Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
* Franklin Carpet Pudding Mills, 14 E. Jackson Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
* Golf-in-Dor, 116 W. Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.
* Golf Engineering Service of America, 31 Bedford Street, Boston, Mass.
* Golf Equipment Company, Ottawa, Ill.
* D. F. Clemen Company, 4525 N. Ashland Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
* Madii Golf Company, 5448 Augusta Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
* Midget Golf Courses, Inc., 230 S. Wells Street, Chicago, Ill.
* Miniature Golf Courses of America, Inc., 41 E. 42nd Street, New York City.
* Tom Thumb Division, National Pipe Products, outskirts, Pa.
* NATIONAL RUG MILLS, INC., 2494 S. Fifth Street, Milwaukee, Wis.
* FRANK NIESCHERT, INC., 61 Barclay Street, New York City.
* Plaster of Par, Architects & Engineering Company, 516 N. Ashland Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
* Palm Bearer Golf Course, 706 N. Western Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
* S. Ehrlich Company, Elgin, Ill.
* Mr. Edward G. Roberts, 156 Lyman Avenue, Oak Park, Ill.
* Schach & Medal Flower Company, 134-140 N. Damen Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
* Standard Equipment, 544 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
* A. J. Stephens Company, 1427 Chestnut Street, Kansas City, Mo.
* "Super-Course," 420 Level Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
* Mr. Owen Tucker, 6112 Stony Island Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
* Velvet Greens, Inc., Continental Bank Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.
* John H. Vettel Company, 793 S. LaSalle Street, Chicago, Ill.
* E. L. Vining Company, 1146 W. Madison Street, Chicago, Ill.
* WESTERN FELT WORKS, 4029-31 Ogden Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
* Western Golf, 4268 W. 22nd Street, Chicago, Ill.
* WHITNEY CO. & COMPANY, 1922 Baltimore Avenue, Kansas City, Mo.
* Wisconsin Miniature Golf Course Company, 211 Wisconsin Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis.

Generators, Motor

This electrical device is designed to produce direct current for the arc lamp on the projection machine, spotlights, and double dissolving stereopticon. It consists of an alternating current motor, directly connected on a shaft to a direct current generator. Motor generators are made for every current requirement to deliver amperages from 20 amperes to 800 amperes.

There are 20 and 30 amperes outlets for reflecting arc lamps; 40, 60 and 80 amperes outlets for the ordinary arcs, and 80, 100, 150 amperes and larger generator outlets for use with high intensity lamps.

Motor generators are made in two types, the series generators and the multiple arc generators.

The series arc is for use with two picture machine arcs. It is so designed that for the period of time needed to warm up the second picture machine arc, preparatory to changing from one picture machine to the other, it will carry both arc lamps at the same amperage without danger of losing the light on the arc lamp on the running picture machine. Multiple arc generator correctly designed and built to generate direct current for many arcs. They are used in the motion picture booths where there are two arcs on the picture machines, one or more spotlights and a double dissolving stereopticon and effect machine. The motor generator will carry the entire battery of arc lamps and various amperages. The variance in amperages is controlled by the necessary rheostats. Prices range from $350 up.

To the American Transformer Company, 116 Emett Street, Newark, N. J.

Gummed Labels

Specially prepared gummed labels to expedite the preparation of parcel post and express packages are now on the market. These time savers are sold at a very nominal cost. Their use minimizes the possibility of torn or missing labels and the resultant lost package.

To Tablet & Ticket Company, 1021 W. Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

HAND Blowers

Hand blowers are small electric instruments used to blow dust or dirt out of places too small to wipe clean, places that might endanger one's hands or equipment too delicate to handle. They are especially handy in cleaning amplifiers, dimmers, motors, organs, chandeliers, etc.

To Clements Mfg. Company, 690 Fulton Street, Chicago, Ill.

Hand Driers

What is known as the sanitary hand drier for the lavatories of theatres is an electrically operated blower type of drier, through which a current of warm air evaporates the water on the hands. Driers of this type are built of cast iron with a heavy white porcelain finish with the metal parts of nickel plate. These driers stand about 46 inches high with full 360-degree swivel nozzle and are operated by a foot lever or automatic cut-off push button which turns the switch on and off.

To Aftry Corporation, 4801 S. Chicago, Ill.

To Milwaukee Engineering & Manufacturing Company, 260 S. Water Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

To Southwark Products Company, Merchandise Mart, Chicago, III.

Hardware, Stage

With the growing popularity in theatres of presentation acts a need is apparent for equipment to meet the varied physical requirements in the way...
Better Theatres Section

October 25, 1930

Heavy Judgment Awarded!

Mrs. C. H. B. of St. Louis, Mo., was given $3,000 judgment in a St. Louis court last week in her damage suit against the theatre for injuries sustained to her spine when she slipped and fell in an aisle of the theatre on February 16, 1929. Judgment for the full amount sued for was awarded.

Our Theatre Public Liability policy will protect you against similar suits or damages. Our rates are attractive. Mail the coupon for rates and full information.

J. Juillard & Co.

937 Insurance Exchange Bldg.,
Chicago, Illinois

Name
Street
City
State
Construction of Building
Seating Capacity
Number of Exits

of stage hardware to accomplish this purpose. The subject of stage hardware takes in many items, large and small, which are equipment essentials in the stage that is to be prepared to house a variety of acts or talent.

Under the heading of stage hardware are included such items as blocks and pulleys of all types, counterweights and arbors, belay pins, cleats, curtain tracks, keystones and corners, pin rails, pin wire, manila and wire, rope locks, sand bags, smoke pocket stage screws, trim clamps, winches, carriers for extra-large sets of theatre heating systems, and counterweight rigging are also important items of the equipment in the modern stage.

Acme Stage Equipment Company, 191 Lafayette Street, New York City.
J. H. CHANNON CORPORATION, 223 W. Erie Street, Chicago, Ill.
J. R. Clancy, 1016 W. Beelden Avenue, Syracuse, N. Y.
Great Western Stage Equipment Company, 817 Holmes Street, Kansas City, Mo.
Lee Lash Studios, 1818 Amsterdam Avenue, New York City.
Tiffin Scenic Studios, Tiffin, O.
Twin City Scenic Company, 2813 Neodule Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.
Tolland Scenic Studios, 1744 Cass Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

Heaters, Organ
Refer to ORGAN HEATERS

Heaters, Ticket Booth
Refer to TICKET BOOTH HEATERS

Heating Systems

There are a number of types and arrangements of theatre heating systems, each designed to fit the individual building. One of the systems is known as the fuel-to-air method whereby the transmission of the heating effect from the fuel is obtained without the intermediate processes of transmission through piping and radiators. The volumes of outdoor air entering the system are heated very uniformly, producing comfortable heating and invigorating ventilation in all seasons of the year. The heating units most generally used to warm the incoming air are commonly known as unit heat generators. More specifically, the operation of the warming and ventilating is as follows:

The air is drawn in through a fresh air shaft into the fan room, passing through air washers and being thoroughly washed and properly humidified. From there by means of large blowers, it is forced through the generator chambers and properly and scientifically distributed to the portions of the building to be heated and ventilated.

The system may be so arranged, that while the blower unit is in combination with the heater, it can be run independently and unrestricted by the heater, for summer cooling.

The generators are so constructed that any kind of fuel oil or gas, can be used. The fires are controlled automatically by means of temperature control equipment, responding to thermostats placed in the theatre in various locations. Utmost flexibility is obtainable on account of the installation of these units of separate heat generators.

Equipping of this type is being used in every class of theatre from the 300-seat village playhouse to the 5,000-seat palatial home of the cinema art. On account of the exceptional flexibility, convenience, economy of operation, and perfect results obtained from the use of any kind of fuel, an owner obtains an unexcelled system as well as a properly designed ventilating plant for both winter and summer use. It is said that the installation cost is low and the operation is economical in such a system.

American Foundry & Furnace Company, 915 E. Washington Street, Bloomington, Ill.
Illinois Engineering Company, Radine Avenue and 31st Street, Chicago, Ill.
V. H. Meier Foundry & Furnace Company, Bloomington, Ill.
L. J. Mueller Furnace Company, 197 Reed Street, Milwaukee, Wis.
New York Boiler Company, 3155 Shields Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
R. F. Reynolds Company, 118 W. Ohio Street, Chicago, Ill.
Supreme Heater & Ventilating Company, 1115 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo.

Heating Systems, Oil

Heating by means of oil is growing rapidly in popularity among theatres. Some of the country’s largest playhouses are oil heating systems of various makes and types. They are also to be found in smaller theatres. Among the advantages claimed for oil heating is the matter of cleanliness and subsequent savings in draperies and redecorating costs. The operation being automatic the oil burner requires virtually no attention, effecting a saving in janitor service. Another advantage pointed out is the fact that oil burners give heat only when needed.

Most oil burners are operated in connection with a thermostat so that when the temperature falls even one degree below this desired point the thermostat establishes connection which starts the burner again. When the temperature goes above the desired degree the heat is automatically shut off.

Caldwell Burner Corporation, 225 W. 34th Street, New York City.
Hardinge Brothers, Inc., 4147 Ravenswood Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Rayfield Manufacturing Company, 2559 W. 31st Street, Chicago, Ill.
E. F. Reynolds Company, 118 W. Ohio Street, Chicago, Ill.

Supreme Heater & Ventilating Corporation, 1938 Peachtree Street, N. W., Atlanta, Ga.

High Intensity Lamps
Refer to LAMPS, HIGH INTENSITY

Holders, Ticket
Refer to TICKET HOLDERS

Hoods, Color
Refer to COLOR HOODS

Horn Lifts and Horn Towers

A HORN lift is an automatically controlled electric driven elevator used to raise and lower sound horns to their proper places behind the seats. They operate on the hydraulic, cable and drum and screw lift principle, and when the stage is needed for acts, the lift lowers the horn down under the stage. The portion of the stage flooring directly above the lift is attached to the lift becoming a part of it and any stage set located over the lift goes up with it and is ready for use the instant the lift returns to the low level.

Horn towers are structural steel towers on which the horns are fastened. These towers are generally on rubber-tired, ball bearing casters so that they may be moved about lightly to properly locate the horns behind the seats. When the horns are not in use the towers can be pushed out of the way.

Cates Radio & Supply Company, Quincy, Ill.
E. Safford Brothers, 501 W. Bevernacini, O.
Wallen Electrical Company, Inc., 225 Bluff Street, Akron, O.

Incandescent Lamps
Refer to LAMPS, INCANDESCENT

Projection

Insurance

No business man today would risk his investment in operating his business without ample insurance. Insurance is obtainable for theatre buildings and equipment to the same extent that it may be procured for other types of establishments, and safety codes and modern methods of construction, installation and maintenance have such a reduction in insurance rates covering exhibitors’ risks that ample protection is within reach of any theatre enterprise.

Besides the usual forms of insurance covering fire, accidents to employees and patrons, etc., there is rain insurance, which offers exhibitors protection against poor patronage due to storms arising suddenly before show time.
This type of insurance is now used universally to protect the operators of outdoor amusements and sports events, and the financial success of more and more indoor enterprises of this nature are thus being protected also. When the picture has been bought, perhaps at a high price, and considerable money has been spent in advertising it, a sudden storm can mean a great loss to the exhibitor. Rain insurance protects the exhibitor against this ever-present possibility.

George J. Diener, 175 W. Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Ill.

JULES JUILLARD & COMPANY, 175 W. Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Ill.

Inter-Communicating Telephones
SYSTEMATIZING of business has relieved the individual of much routine and has increased thereby his efficiency. In the systematizing of business the inter-communicating telephone is playing an important part. In the theatre it contributes to a smooth functioning organization. No theatre of consequence today operates without such a telephone system.

A. L. P. Employees' Life Insurance Association, 407 E. 2nd Street, Cincinnati, Ohio

Select-O-Phones Corporation, Inc., R. I.

Strumberg-Carlson Telephone Company, Rochester, N. Y.

Interior Decorations
INTERIOR decoration of the motion-picture theatre has developed specialists in this important phase of construction. These companies have made a thorough study of the type of decorative scheme best suited for audience appeal. The originality of theatre decoration has played no small part in the success of this form of entertainment for it takes the public into a new world.

Robert P. Careen Scene Studio, 1407 N. Clark Street, Chicago, Ill.

Continental Studio, 100 E. Ohio Street, Chicago, Ill.

Eustrom Brothers Studios, Inc., 56 W. 46th Street, New York City.

The Herch Corporation, 209 S. Third Street, Columbus, O.

Interstate Decorating Company, 1458 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Mandel Brothers, Inc., State and Madison Streets, Chicago, Ill.

Manhattan Studios, 1414 State Street and Park Avenue, New York City.

Metzler Studios, 397 W. 47th Street, New York City.

Michael Angelo Studios, 212 E. Superior Street, Chicago, Ill.

Novelty Scene Studios, 240 W. 41st Street, New York City.

F. Weiss & Sons, 508 W. 42nd Street, New York City.

Iron and Bronze Work, Ornamental
Refer to BRONZE AND IRON WORK, ORNAMENTAL

Lamps, Decorative
THE various lamp manufacturers offer a large number of decorative lamps. There are two types of flame shaped lamps used on fixtures with imitation candles and on standing candelabra. They are made in standard base and in candelabra or miniature base, and may be had in frosted or sprayed colors-blue and red-flame tint-amber or canary. Also considered as decorative lamps are the standard globular and pear shaped lamps, which are sprayed in colors as mentioned above.

Art Lamp Manufacturing Company, 1425 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Henkel & Betz, 411 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Art Pick-Bart Company, Inc., 1208 W. 21st Street, Chicago, Ill., and 34 Cooper Square, New York City.

Rialto Import Corporation, 125 W. 44th Street, New York City.

Lamps, High Intensity
IT is very encouraging, indeed, to note the many recent improvements in the high intensity lamp for moving picture projection.

With playhouses of ever increasing seating capacity and consequent increase of projection range or "throw," the high intensity lamp has rapidly become a necessity with very few alternatives for light source in the larger houses.

The high intensity lamp, just a few years ago, while considered a necessity in the larger houses, was also looked upon as a rather troublesome piece of apparatus to be gotten along with because there was nothing else that could serve its purpose. But today the high intensity lamp has been perfected in such measure that it is no longer troublesome or intricate from an operating standpoint, and gives satisfactory results.

Because of the rigidity of these ladders they are time savers.

Dayton Safety Ladder Company, 121 W. Third Street, Cincinnati, Ohio

Not on the Program
Falls are uniblled features in your workmen’s routine—and daily dangers, if the Dayton Safety Ladder doesn’t safeguard your workmen and protect your profits. Daytons simplify ladder-jobs around your theatre. They’re wide-legged, for steady standing on all surfaces—straight-backed for close-up work—strong, light, and steel-braced. Roomy, protected platform has auxiliary step giving added height when needed. Made in sizes 3 to 16 feet. Moderately priced.

Type “B” Dayton Ladder is a smaller, popular-priced, all-purpose safety ladder in seven sizes.

Write Dept. BT-10 for complete information

The Dayton Safety Ladder Company
121-322 W. Third St.
Cincinnati, Ohio

Dayton Safety Ladder
(Patented)

Stock carried on Pacific Coast by E. B. Bushard Co., Los Angeles and San Francisco, and by 160 other distributors from coast to coast. Made and distributed in Canada by Percy Herron, Ltd., Toronto.
Lamps, Incandescent, Projection

This term may be confusing as there are lamps for motion picture projection as well as lamps for spotlight, searchlight, floodlight, and stereopticon projection. Some are quite different, and each should be used in the service it is designed for.

There are two lamps made especially for theatre projection with professional apparatus. The 900 watt, 30 amper, 30 volt lamp and the 600 watt, 20 ampere, 30 volt lamp. They cannot be used on the ordinary lighting circuit without a regulator or transformer to change the current to the correct amperage and voltage.

For portable projectors such as are generally classed as "amateur" there are several types of projection lamps in very wide use. There are the 50, 100 and 200 watt lamps for use on 115 volt circuits and the 200 and 250 watt, 50 volt lamps which are operated with a regulator.

All of these lamps are designed to project the most possible light on the screen. The 900 watt lamp produces enough light to work efficiently on throws up to 100 feet. The 600 watt lamp is used for throws shorter than 80 feet. The other lamps are for short throw work, generally with 16-mm. film.

Other lamps designed for spotlight service can be had in wattages of from 100 watts to 10,000 watts for use on 115 volt lines. The 100 and 200 watt sizes are all standard and are carried in stock. There is a standard lamp of 1,000 watts for use on 115 volt lines for motion picture projection. It is not, however, as efficient as the 30 volt type for motion picture work and is generally used for non-theatrical service.

Edison Lamp Works, General Electric Company, Harrison, N. J.
National Lamp Works, Nela Park, Cleveland, O.
Westinghouse Lamp Company, 116 Broadway, New York City.

Lamps, Mazda

The use of the Mazda lamp has broadened in recent years, and today these lamps are used in projectors in the theatres and on stages of the studios. It has been said, and perhaps rightly, that light sells the show. Especially is this true in the cities where scores of theatres are vying with each other for patronage. In the display signs, in the strip signs, in the marquee, in the lobby and in the theatre proper, the Mazda lamp has made the White Way, whether in the metropolitan centers or in the small towns, whiter. It is being used in the studio as well as theatre. Durable colored lamps may now be purchased with coloring on the inside, permitting the lamps to be washed.

Edison Lamp Works, General Electric Company, Harrison, N. J.
General Electric Company, 1 River Road, Schenec tady, N. Y.
National Lamp Works, Nela Park, Cleveland, O.
Westinghouse Lamp Company, 116 Broadway, New York City.

Lamps, Reflector Arc

A carbon arc lamp for motion picture projection using a reflector for projecting the light through the aperture of the picture machine. The complete lamp contains as a part of the unit an automatic arc control adjusted to operate at a variance of a fraction of a volt at the arc. The advantage of the reflecting arc lamp is that it will operate from 20 to 25 per cent of the electrical current necessary to operate the old style arc lamp. The carbons used are much smaller in size making an additional saving. The reflector arc is now accepted as a necessity by progressive exhibitors, because, in addition to saving electric current, it produces a flat even field of bright crisp white light which is very desirable in motion picture projection. Prices range from around $125 to $550.

Brenkert Light Projection Company, 7348 St. Aubin & Grand Boulevard, Detroit, Mich.
C. L. Gardner Company, 955 W. Goodale Boulevard, Columbus, O.
HALL & CONNOLLY, INC., 24 Van Dam Street, New York City.
J. H. Hallberg, 25 W. 57th Street, New York City.
KLEIGL BROTHERS, 321 W. 57th Street, New York City.
The J. E. McAuley Manufacturing Company, 55 W. Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.
Morello Company, Inc., 600 W. 57th Street, New York City.
W. G. Freeboy, 1870 Belle Avenue, San Francisco.
STRONG ELECTRIC CORPORATION, 2501 La Grange Street, Toledo, O.

Lamps, Reflectors Arc

A carbon arc lamp for motion picture projection using a reflector for projecting the light through the aperture of the picture machine. The complete lamp contains as a part of the unit an automatic arc control adjusted to operate at a variance of a fraction of a volt at the arc. The advantage of the reflecting arc lamp is that it will operate from 20 to 25 per cent of the electrical current necessary to operate the old style arc lamp. The carbons used are much smaller in size making an additional saving. The reflector arc is now accepted as a necessity by progressive exhibitors, because, in addition to saving electric current, it produces a flat even field of bright crisp white light which is very desirable in motion picture projection. Prices range from around $125 to $550.

Brenkert Light Projection Company, 7348 St. Aubin & Grand Boulevard, Detroit, Mich.
C. L. Gardner Company, 955 W. Goodale Boulevard, Columbus, O.
HALL & CONNOLLY, INC., 24 Van Dam Street, New York City.
J. H. Hallberg, 25 W. 57th Street, New York City.
KLEIGL BROTHERS, 321 W. 57th Street, New York City.
The J. E. McAuley Manufacturing Company, 55 W. Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.
Morello Company, Inc., 600 W. 57th Street, New York City.
W. G. Freeboy, 1870 Belle Avenue, San Francisco.
STRONG ELECTRIC CORPORATION, 2501 La Grange Street, Toledo, O.

Lenses

For motion picture theatre service there are projection lenses and condensing lenses. The latter are also used in projection but are placed in the lamp-house and condense the rays to a spot on the aperture. Projection lenses are objective lenses placed in the projector head.

The prime requirement of a projection lens is to give a bright, well defined picture on the screen without any distortion or color rays. These lenses are made in four sizes: Eighth, quarter, half and three-quarters (diameters, respectively, of 1 11/16, 1 5/16, 2 25/32 and 3 1/4 inches).

The one-eighth and one-quarter sizes are furnished in equivalent foci of two inches E. F., to eight inches E. F. The half-size is furnished in equivalent foci of four and a half inches F. F. to ten inches E. F., and the three-quarters in equivalent foci of from six inches E. F. to ten inches E. F. There is also procurable a bifocal projection lens with a range of from one half to three quarters of an inch in focal length, designed to eliminate the change of lenses in shifting operation from sound to silent films, and vice versa. All the sizes named are standard. Focal lengths are determined by the length size of the picture desired. Prices range from $10 to $150.

BAUSCH & LOMB OPTICAL COMPANY, Rochester, N. Y.
ILEX OPTICAL MFG. COMPANY, 726 Portland Avenue, Rochester, N. Y.
Jones & Hewitt Company, 54 Gordon Street, Boston, Mass.
Lifts and Elevators for Orchestra, Organ, Stage and Horns

WITH the advance in showmanship many new types of equipment have become factors in motion picture presentation and its supplementary entertainment. Not the least of these new factors are the lifts and elevators which play such an important part in the success of programs today. The modern theatre has this equipment.

Arno Stage Equipment Company, 151 Lafayette Street, New York City.
BRUCKNER-MITCHELL, INC., 332-340 W. 22nd Street, New York City.
PETER CLARK, INC., 544 W. 30th Street, New York City.
GALLAGHER ORCHESTRA EQUIPMENT COMPANY, 612 Elm Street, Chicago, III.

Lighting Control Equipment

THE modern theatre, with a well balanced and effective lighting system, has made many demands on the manufacturers of lighting control equipment. Elaborate color effects must be possible and to change the lighting and gradually merge the light from one color to another without attracting the audiences a very flexible control system is required. Even the small control systems permit the operator to produce hundreds of color shades. Generally each color group has its own master control which is cross-interlocked with the ground master wheel device. Efficient control systems are available for every size house, no matter how small or how large.

FRANK ADAM ELECTRIC COMPANY, 3450 Winder Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
Chicago Switchboard Manufacturing Company, 426 E. Clinton Street, Chicago, Ill.
HUB ELECTRIC COMPANY, 2220 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Major Equipment Company, 4002 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Ward Leonard Electric Company, 37 South Street, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

Lighting Fixtures and Decorative Lighting

WHILE lighting fixtures constitute one of the outstanding features of the theatre today their style and application are obviously best determined by the individual treatment of the theatre and its requirements. It is significant, however, that a number of leading manufacturers have established special departments to give time and attention to the subject of theatre lighting and fixtures. Prices range from $7.50 up.

E. C. Adam Company, 502 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo.
Art Lamp Manufacturing Company, 1436 W. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Art Metal Manufacturing Company, 1921 E. 61st Street, Cleveland, O.
Cloud Neon Lights, Inc., 50 E. 42nd Street, New York City.
I. P. Pekka, Inc., 220 11th Avenue, New York City.
The Edwards P. Guth Company, 2512 Washington Street, St. Louis, Mo.
Hankel & Brit, 411 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
HUB ELECTRIC COMPANY, 2219 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
KLUEHL BROTHERS, 321 W. 59th Street, New York City.
Mandel Brothers, Inc., State and Madison Streets, Chicago, Ill.
Metal Craftsmen Company, 27 E. 22nd Street, New York City.

CINEPHOR Lenses

Made by

AMERICA'S LEADING OPTICAL INSTITUTION

STARTING in Bausch & Lomb's own optical glass plant, the largest in America, every operation in the manufacture of Cinephor Lenses is controlled by experts working to the most exacting standards of precision.

As a result Cinephor Projection Lenses give remarkable flatness of field, maximum contrast between black and white, brilliant illumination and critical definition. Write for complete literature.

BAUSCH & LOMB OPTICAL CO.
679 St. Paul Street
Rochester, N. Y.
The arc types are made in sizes of 3 amperes up to 150 amperes. They come complete with stand and attachment cord and connector. Within the last year, the high intensity spot has appeared. It is an adaptation of the high intensity lamp to spot and flood-lighting.

The incandescent spotlights are in sizes of from 220 volt to 2000 volt. The sizes usually used are 250, 400, 500 and 1000 volt.

The small head spots of 250 watts are used for cove lighting or spotting the head of a singer or organism. The incandescent spotlights come either with floor standard or pipe hangers for border lighting batons.

In stage work spotlights are frequently banked one above the other on a stand and used for floodlighting from the wings. Prices range from $12 to $500.

FRANK ADAM ELECTRIC COMPANY, 2650 Windsor Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

BELSON MANUFACTURING COMPANY, 800 Sibley Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

BEST DEVICES COMPANY, Film Building, Cleveland, O.

Brenkert Light Projector Company, 734 St. Aubin Avenue, Detroit, Mich.

CHICAGO CINEMA EQUIPMENT COMPANY, 1726-1741 N. Southfield Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Chicago Switchboard Manufacturing Company, 626 S. Clinton Street, Chicago, Ill.

HALL & CONNOLLY, INC., 24 Van Dam Street, New York City.

HUB ELECTRIC COMPANY, 2225 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

KLIEG BROTHERS, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.

Major Equipment Company, 4949 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Milwaukee Electric Switchboard Company, 150 Clinton Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

W. C. Preddy, 157 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, Calif.

Reed & Illuminating Company, 1417 W. Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Ill.

Twin City Neon Company, 3219 Nicollet Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.

Westinghouse Lamp Company, 159 Broadway, New York City.

WM. Wundark Electric Manufacturing Company, 4444 Clayton Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

Liquid Soap

Refer to SANITARY SPECIALTIES

Lithographers

This is the show business. The one sheet, three-sheet and 24-sheet are business pullers. They lend a splash to outdoor and lobby board advertising. In having special lithographic work done on special attractions theatre men generally prefer the block letter type because of the greater speed in production. In outstanding instances exhibitors have billed a show with 48 sheets. The cost of special lithographic work depends upon volume.

Block posters adapted from suitable designs are well-marking and used extensively. One-sheets, three-sheets and six-sheets, used liberally both in and outside of the lobby, and 24-sheets on billboards, provide the box office with a constant drawing power.

E. R. Dandley & Son Company, 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Ill.

Morgan Lithographic Company, E. 17th and Payne Avenue, Cleveland, O.

The U. S. Printing & Lithograph Company, 497 First National Bank Building, Cincinnati, O.

Lobby Gazing Balls

Refer to GAZING BALLS

Lobby Decorations

Refer to INTERIOR DECORATION

Lighting, Flood

Refer to FLOOD LIGHTING

Lighting, Stage, Equipment

Refer to STAGE LIGHTING EQUIPMENT

Lighting and Power Plants

Emergency lighting plants are equipment designed to furnish power for supplying illumination and operating the show in the event of a failure of the local power supply. It is said that the financial loss suffered by admissions returned by a theatre through only one power failure a year would more than compensate for the cost of equipment of this type. In addition to financial loss, a power failure during a performance frequently results in loss of life and property through the resultant panic.

Emergency lighting plants are made in several types such as the gasoline engine type, water turbine type, motor generator and battery type. In the case of the motor generator type several sources of power are provided to meet every contingency, which, together, form an interlocking type of protection.

The first source of power for the emergency lights of the theatre is the regular power supply, either from central station lines or from private generating plant. In the case of the private electric plant, if it is automatically operated, it can be so installed with an automatic transfer switch that the instant the regular supply of current fails, the private electric plant is automatically started. The electric plant then supplies the electrical needs of the theatre to the extent of its capacity. This it continues to do for as long as the regular supply is shut off. When this service is again resumed, the plant automatically stops.

The second source for the emergency, exit or hazard line circuits, is a special heavy duty glass jar storage battery, which is automatically kept charged by a motor generator set or rectifier. The capacity of the plant depends upon the total necessary load and the length of time protection is desired. The normal alternating current is fed through the transfer switch direct to the lighting lines and in the event of power failure, the batteries to the lighting lines. The batteries then supply the necessary power until the normal service is resumed, or until the batteries are discharged.

In some states the emergency, exit and hazard light circuits must be of a lower voltage than that of the normal power supply lines. In such cases, a transformer is used to step-down the supply line voltage to that of the emergency circuit voltage.

The third source of supply for the emergency circuits is the motor generator set itself. In case the A.C. transformer circuit, which normally feeds the 32-volt lights, should fail the motor generator set is operated from the main power supply line and connected to the emergency exit light circuits through the battery circuit. The battery will carry the lights only as long as necessary to start the motor generator set. After the motor generator is started the battery floats on the line.

The heavy-duty storage battery is kept continuously charged by means of a motor generator set, which is operated from the regular power lines, on an individual circuit separate from the emergency circuits.

Benson Hydro & Electric Co., Inc., 1400 Broadway, New York City

F. H. Koch, Minneapolis, and Company, Beloit, Wis.

Kohler Company, Kohler, Wis.

ROTH BROTHERS, 1274 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

Universal Motor Company, Oakham, Wis.

Weir-Kiley Corporation, Station H, Cincinnati, O.

Lights, Aisle

Refer to AISLE LIGHTS

Lights, Exit

Refer to EXIT LIGHT SIGNS

Lights, Spot

ARE made in arc and incandescent types for use on stage—in the booth—in cove lighting, and for head spotting. Most spotlights on the market can be used for spot lighting and for full flood.
Lobby Display

An attractive lobby is a boon to business. To conform to the beauty in lobby decoration, colorful and attractive lobby displays have been created. Automatic poster displays in polished bronze are constructed for convenient display of standard stills and photographs, featuring current and coming attractions. Art glass today is advantageously used, making a striking and effective display.

Many artistic endeavors have been directed toward the lobby with the result that today few shoddy lobbies greet the patron.

Adwin Corporation, 727 Seventh Avenue, New York City.
Davis Bulletin Company, Lock Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Lobby Display Frames

Lobby advertising is an obviously effective business stimulant and in this connection the use of lobby display frames virtually ranks first in importance. With the effective display frames now available it is possible not only to obtain a maximum advertising value from their use but also to add materially to the appearance of the lobby. The front of the theatre may now be "dressed up" in excellent fashion with these frames.

In the case of new theatres it is common practice to design lobby frames in conformity with the architectural style of the house.

Artistic lobby display frames are now available which contain mirrors in the center with space for lithographs on either side. Or, display frames in the form of corner cases may be advantageously used. Literature on corner cases is visible from both the lobby and street sides. Lobby display frames of brass with finishes such as satory bronze, verde antique, brushed brass, oxidized brass, gun metal, dull copper, have the advantage of requiring no polishing.

Overcrowding of the lobby with display frames produces a detrimental effect and for this reason it is necessary that good judgment and care be exercised not only in the selection of the frames but in their placing as well. Working from blue prints or an accurate diagram enables manufacturers to suggest effective and harmonious arrangements for equipping the lobby with a display frame scheme.

The Arvay Sign Company, Inc., 421 Film Exchange Building, Cleveland, Ohio.
Bilt-Rite Manufacturing Company, 447 N. Wood Street, Chicago, Ill.
Lohman-Spangler Corporation, 1600 Broadway, New York City.
Edward G. Reichard Manufacturing Company, 110 E. Second Street, Columbus, Ohio.
Reuben Studios, 112 Prospect Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.

Lobby Furniture

Refer to Furniture, Theatre

Locks, Panic Bolts
Refer to Bolts, Panic

Luminous Paints

LUMINOUS paints are being used more and more in theatrical production work. The sets and costumes may be so covered with this material that their coloring is different under different tones of light, or certain sections may be invisible altogether until acted upon by certain classes of light vibrations. A method which came into use during 1929 employs the ultra violet ray, acting upon certain fluorescent materials. These materials are substances, the atomic structure of which is such that instead of absorbing short wave lengths, they receive them and throw them back as longer waves, the colors of the waves (the colors beheld by the observer) depending on the wave lengths.

A. Strahl, 101 W. 41st Street, New York City.

Luminous Signs
Refer to Signs, Directional

Machines, Pop Corn
Refer to Pop Corn Machines

Machines, Tickets

A MOTOR driven device for dispensing tickets which are automatically registered as to the number of each denomination sold. These machines are made in two unit, three unit, four unit and five unit sizes. A two unit will dispense two tickets of different denominations such as children and adults. Each unit is controlled by a series of five buttons, making it possible to sell from one to five tickets. Prices range from $275 to $450.

Arvay Ticket Company, 348 N. Ashland Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Automatic Simplex Register Corporation, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Automatic Ticket Register, Paramount Building, New York, N. Y.
General Register Corporation, Paramount Building, New York City.
O. B. McClellan Company, 139 Lyndale Avenue, North, Minneapolis, Minn.
Mid-West Ticket & Supply Company, 910 S. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
National Electric Ticket Register Company, 1006 Kienlen Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
Simplex Ticket Company, 315 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Simplex Register, Paramount Building, New York, N. Y.
U. S. Ticket Company, Port Smith, Ark.
World Ticket & Supply Company, 1690 Broadway, New York City.

Marble, Natural

Marble, both in exterior and interior construction, lends a stately appearance to the theatre. It is a substantial and everlasting material, and has been found appropriate for grand stairways, colonnades and such other features of the interior coming within the range of vision of the patron as he enters the theatre.

Appalachian Marble Company, Knoxville, Tenn.
Carthage Marble Company, Carthage, Mo.
Chicago Pinkstone Company, 2465 W. George Street, Chicago, Ill.
The Georgia Marble Company, Tate, Ga.
Vermont Marble Company, 101 Park Avenue, New York City.

Marques
Refer to Canopies, Theatre
SUPER-LITE LENSES

WISELY CHOSEN BY AMERICA'S BEST THEATRES

NEW BIFOCAL SUPER-LITE LENS F:2.0
A variable focus lens with a wide range of focus for both silent and sound film.

SERIES III. SUPER-LITE LENS F:2.0
Standard full Half_Size lens furnished in short focus as low as 4° E. F. and up to 10° E. F.

SERIES IV. SUPER-LITE LENS F:2.0
Full 3" diameter lens to meet the demand for more light for longer throws. 6° E. F. to 10° E. F.

Quality Guaranteed

PROJECTION OPTICS CO., INC.
330 Lyell Ave.
ROCHESTER, N. Y.
U. S. A.

Mats, Runners
As a protection to carpets and as a means of keeping the theatre clean during bad weather mats and runners are used in theatre lobbies and aisles. Leather mats are most common in lobbies, having a mesh for dirt and slush to drop through. The irregular features of the leather mat surface prevent slipping.

Runners for aisles and foyer are usually made of a hard material and are laid over carpets as a protection.

Mazda Lamps
Refer to LAMPS, MAZDA

Mazda Regulators

This is an electrical device for changing 110 volt or 220 volt current to 30 volt, 50 amperes current for use with 900 watt incandescent projection lamps.
THE GARVER ELECTRIC CO., Union City, Ind.
J. R. Hallberg, 33 W. 57th Street, New York City

Miniature Golf Courses
Refer to GOLF (MINIATURE), COURSES AND EQUIPMENT

Motion Picture Cable
Refer to CABLE, MOTION PICTURE

Motor Generators
Refer to GENERATORS, MOTOR

Motors, Electric
It is not a question of "whether the wheels go around" in the theatre of today but, rather, how they go around.

Electric motor development has kept pace with the rapid strides made in other fields of the technical side of exhibition. With sound equipment the motor plays an increasingly important part in theatre operation.

Baldor Electric Company, 401-45 Duncan Street, St. Louis, Mo.

General Electric Company, 1 River Road, Schenec- tady, N. Y.

Continental Electric Company, 325 Ferry Street, Newark, N. J.

The Ideal Electric & Manufacturing Company, Mansfield, O.

Hobart Brothers Company, 113 W. Water Street, Troy, N. Y.

Master Electric Company, Dayton, O.

Robinson & Meyers Company, Springfield, O.

The Wigginton Company, 446 N. Church Street, Kalamazoo, Mich.

Motors, Phonograph
Refer to PHONOGRAPH MOTORS

Motors, Projector

MOTORS for projection machines are usually 110 volts, 25 to 60 cycles and of 1/10, 1/8 or 1/6 horse power. They may be obtained with variable speed adjustments giving a range of speed of from 150 r.p.m. to 4,000 r.p.m.

Booth Electric Company, 2254 W. Ohio Street, Chicago, Ill.

Fidelity Electric Company, 331 N. Arch Street, Lancaster, Pa.

Music and Sound Reproducing Devices

MUSIC and sound reproducing devices are of two types, synchronous and non-synchronous. The latter use phonograph records, which are cued to the picture. The majority of these machines, which have from two to four discs for the records, are operated from the pit or other location in view of the screen. The synchronous type, however, is operated from the projection booth, employing disc records or film recordings made in conjunction with the picture. Non-synchronous instruments range in price from $275 up. The price range of synchronous equipment is quite wide, but may be said to be roughly from several hundred dollars to $10,000.

Non-synchronous equipment, however, has importance among motion picture theatre apparatus primarily as an augmentation of the synchronous sound equipment. The non-synchronous device is commonly installed along with the synchronous apparatus, in the same manner that public address systems are added to the regular sound layout. Incidental music not provided for in the regular screen program, and entertainment for the standees in the foyer, may be supplied by the non-synchronous equipment.

Among the developments in motion picture sound is the increase in the employment of the sound-on-disc method of reproduction. Experiment has eradicated many of the disadvantages of this method and increased its advantages, and as a result one producer, long committed exclusively to the use of the sound-on-disc method of recording, has taken measures for the adoption of the film method also. Installation of both sound-on-disc and sound-on-film reproducing equipment is thus recommended by authorities for theatres which in the early days of sound might have been advised to economize by installing disc equipment only.

Amplion Radio Corporation, 152 W. 31st Street, New York City.

Audio Products Corporation, 138 West Avenue, Long Island City, N. Y.

Beethoven, Incorporated, 1514 Davenport Street, Omaha, Neb.

E. S. Bart Scientific Laboratory, 900-04 E. California Street, Pasadena, Calif.

Clay Engineering Company, 5500 Eastern Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

Dufrene, Inc., 3589 E. Jefferson Street, Detroit, Mich.

Electric Phonograph Corporation, 2496 University Avenue, St. Paul, Minn.

Electrical Research Products, INC., 229 W. 57th Street, New York City.

FOTO-YOUD COMPANY, 817-819 Granby Street, Norfolk, Va.

Film Sound Corporation, 1525 E. 18th Street, Cleveland, Ohio.

The Film Speaker Company, 1305 N. Hudson Street, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Gates Radio & Supply Company, Quincy, Ill.

General Talking Pictures Corporation, 218 W. 42nd Street, New York City.

Great Central Electric Manufacturing Company, Ografaia, Neb.

The Link Company, Inc., Breckinridge, N. Y.

Reproducers Corporation, 450-452 E. 133rd Street, New York City.

The D. E. Knotts Company, 2115 Madison Avenue, Norwood, O.

MELLAPHONE CORPORATION, Keith-Albee Theatre Building, Rochester, N. Y.

The Menilophone Company, 1199 Delaware Avenue, Detroit, Mich.

Mills Novelty Company, 4130 Palmer Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

National Motion-Ad Company, 2448-50 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

The Natural Voice Amplifying System, 1418 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Other Manufacturing Company, 2209 Payne Avenue, Cleveland, O.

The Orchestophone Company, 47 W. 18th Street, New York City.

The Orchestophone Company, 1124 W. Austin Avenue, Chicago, III.

The Orchestophone Company, 1010 George Street, Chicago, Ill.

ProJECTION OPTICS CORPORATION, 259 W. 39th Street, New York City.
End Your Back Stage Worries by Installing the Nationwide Endorsed Stage Equipment

AUTOMATIC SCREEN ADJUSTER
STAGE RIGGING AND HARDWARE
COUNTERWEIGHT SYSTEMS
ASBESTOS CURTAINS
STEEL CURTAINS
SOUNDPROOF CURTAINS
HAND AND ELECTRIC CURTAIN HOIST
DRAW CURTAIN TRACKS
ELECTRIC DRAW CURTAIN CONTROL ORCHESTRA PIT LIFTS
ORGAN CONSOLE LIFTS
STAGE LIFTS
MOVEABLE STAGE BAND CARS
TALKIE HORN TOWERS
CONTOUR CURTAIN
MECHANICAL STAGE EFFECTS
REVOLVING STAGES

Information on any of these products will be gladly furnished upon request

“Stage Equipment with a Reputation”

PETER CLARK, INC.
Stage Equipment Specialists for Over 25 Years
544 West 30th St. New York City

new products

... in the motion picture theatre field are naturally everlastingly interesting to motion picture theatre people. Much time and money is therefore spent in efforts to announce them, to describe them, so that motion picture people may keep abreast of the times.

Unbiased descriptions in the editorial columns of a publication form one example of the effort made to give this highly desirable information. But supplementing such reports are the advertisements. To give information concisely and accurately, is the precise purpose of advertisements, and the wise buyer looks to them, too, for the information he needs about new product.

AT LAST

we have perfected a talking needle different than any needle that has ever been played before.

The cost of a carton of 100 packages, packed 50 needles to each package, is $6.00.

Samples will be mailed upon request.

Wall-Kane Needle Mfg. Co., Inc.
3922—14th Avenue, Brooklyn, N.Y.
Of the closed type perhaps a popular kind is made in an elaborate design with lamps concealed above in the music sheet compartment. Among the newest is the semi-closed type which has a solid rack of the open end design, with a 10-watt lamp concealed above the rack under a triangular shaped shade, or hood; this stand has also a flat table for the convenience of musicians. The new resonant type of the closed design, having two 10-watt lamps concealed in the enclosure in which the music rack is placed; the resonator is below the music rack; this stand increases the volume and resonance of the orchestra and eliminates all pit light from about 90 per cent of the house. It gives the musicians better light with 1.288 wattage. Prices range from $15 to $75.

Manufacturers of music stands are also prepared to supply conductor stands to harmonize with the type of music stand used. Prices range from $15 to $55.

Carlson Cabinet Company, 616 W. Elm Street, Chicago, Ill.
J. H. Channon Corporation, 223 W. Erie Street, Chicago, Ill.
Chicago Cinema Equipment Company, 1746-1754 N. Springfield Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Gallagher Orchestral Equipment Company, 616 W. Elm Street, Chicago, Ill.
Kliegl Brothers, 521 W. 39th Street, New York City.
The Liberty Music Stand Company, 1900 E. 111th Street, Cleveland, O.

Needles, Phonograph Needles are short slender pieces of hardened steel, pointed on one end, which ride in the grooves of a record. Because of the sound irregularities in this groove the needle is set in vibration and it in turn operates a diaphragm.

Biulliantone Speaker Company of America, 717 Seventh Avenue, New York City.
General Phonograph Company, 95 W. 43rd Street, New York City.
Wall-Rank Needle Manufacturing Company, Inc., 3522 114th Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Novelties, Advertising Refer to ADVERTISING NOVELTIES Oil Burners Refer to HEATING SYSTEMS, OIL

Organ Lifts Refer to LIFTS AND ELEVATORS for ORCHESTRA, ORGAN AND STAGE

IT is hardly necessary here to call attention to the ever growing importance of organ music in theatres. Next to the film and projection machines, the organ today is a recognized necessity and a proven box office attraction. Virtually every piece of the organ's place and use in theatres has been discussed in numerous articles in BETTER THEATRES.

Space here will not permit, nor is it desirable, that a lengthy discussion of organ and organ music be given. It is in order to call attention, however, to several facts in connection with organs that are of vital importance in the recent development. One of these is the location of the organ grilles. While these have been conspicuous in the past, usually on either side of the stage opening a number of theatres are now placing the organ grille in the ceiling, directly in front of the center of the prosenium. At the Roxy theatre in New York, the organ grilles are located beneath the stage.

Mounting the organ console on an elevator so that the organist may be brought into full view of the audience during a solo is another comparatively recent feature that is winning great vogue. Double consoles are now used in a number of theatres in this manner.

In the purchase of an organ the theatre owner should realize that the instrument is built for theatre work.

In the main, aside from detail considerations, the important thing to bear in mind in the purchase of a theatre organ is whether or not the instrument is designed and built to meet theatre requirements. Demands upon an organ to be used in a theatre and in a church are obviously at variance.

The result is that organs for theatres are built along exacting lines, especially for the work they are intended to perform.

Maxey-Barton Organ Company, 414 Maller Building, Chicago, Ill.
Beman Organ Company, 16 Eldridge Street, Binghamton, N. Y.
Bennett Organ Company, Rock Island, Ill.
Estey Organ Company, Estey Street, Brattleboro, Vt.
Brooks Organ Company, 630 Campbell Avenue, West Haven, Conn.
Hillsong, Lane Company, Alliance, Ohio.
Gold Kline & Sons, Inc., 4915 N. Union Boulevard, St. Louis, Mo.
W. W. Kimball Company, 205 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
The Link Organ Company, Binghamton, N. Y.
Marr & Colton Company, Wauwat, N. Y.
M. P. Moller Company, Hagerstown, Md.
Robert Morton Organ Company, Van Nuys, Calif.
National Theatre Supply Company, 92-96 Gold Street, New York, N. Y.
Nelson-Wiggin Piano Company, 1731 Belmont Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Pape Organ Company, 519 N. Jackson Street, Lima, O.
Henry Fischer's Sons, Inc., 918 Mason Avenue, Louisville, Ky.
J. P. Seeburg Company, 1151 Dayton Street, Chicago, Ill.
The Rudolph Wurlitzer Company, 121 E. Fourth Street, Cincinnati, O.

Organs, Automatic

A GREAT many automatic organs are used by smaller theatres throughout the country. These instruments may be played either manually or by roll. The instrument is usually placed in the center of the orchestra pit. The pipes are mounted directly behind the upright console and the whole occupies only a slightly larger space than an ordinary upright piano. Other pipes are contained with the console, such as flutes, quintadens, etc., and a number of orchestral combinations and effects are possible with an automatic organ. It is possible also, when using rolls, to operate the instrument from any point of vantage in the house such as the projection booth, manager's office, etc., by simply pressing a button on the remote control board. Music rolls for automatic instruments have been developed that will play simultaneously for more than one button. The roll may be reversed or jumped to any point of its length to obtain appropriate music for the particular action on the screen. In-Exhibitors especially musical.

A multi-stage, uniform chamber. Temperatures are the pitch, outside consequent of the instruments. These machines are made so as to give the proper wind supply for the size organ for which it is desired. Kinzie Engineering Company, Lansdowne, Pa.

Erie Electric Organ Blower Company, Ossining, N. Y.

Organ Blowers

The theatre organ, in the range of musical instruments which it reproduces, is orchestral in performance. Perhaps no musical instrument is as responsive to the human touch. Chimes, marimbas, harps, vibra-harps, celestes, xylophones, bells, glockenspiels—the range of instruments is limited only by the prices of the instrument installed. And each instrument must be as finely constructed as the instruments used by the orchestra.

J. C. Despain, Inc., 1770 Beretna Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Organ Heaters

Reaction upon organ music and the instrument itself of cold weather and dampness has led to the development of organ chamber heaters which keep the temperature in the chamber at a uniform degree, preventing loss of pitch, and deterioration of the organ. Electric heaters with thermostat control are used for this purpose. Organ chambers are usually tuned at a temperature of from 65 to 70 degrees. If the temperature is allowed to drop 10 degrees below the tuning temperature the metal pipes become flat by a quarter or half tone. A 10 degree rise above the tuning temperature will cause the same pipes to become sharp and further rise puts many of them out of pitch. The effect of dampness is to cause a swelling and consequent deterioration of wooden chests, pipes and other parts in the chambers.

Since organ chambers are not standard in size the amount of heating equipment must be determined for each chamber. The larger the chamber or the greater the area exposed outside walls, the larger must be the wattage of the heater installed. Heaters should be mounted near the bottom of exposed or outside wall so that rising warm air from heater will counteract the descending columns of chilled air. Thermostats should be located at the point the best circulation takes place and out of reach of direct heat from heaters.

Organ loft heaters may be so constructed as to deflect the heat back to the floor of the organ chamber, allowing the hot air to mushroom out before rising through the organ mechanism. This is accomplished by a hooped top.

In large theatres operating afternoon and evening heaters are usually left in operation 24 hours. In smaller houses they may be disconnected when the show is over and started again by simply throwing a switch when needed. Prices range from $48 to $110 per set.

Kausalite Manufacturing Company, 8129 Rhode Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

ThePrometheus Electric Corporation, 806 W. 18th Street, New York City.

Time-O-Stat Controls Company, Elkhart, Ind.

Organ Lifts

Refer to LIFTS AND ELEVATORS FOR ORCHESTRA, ORGAN AND STAGE

Organ Music

The varied and exacting requirements of appropriate music for the theatre organ have prompted publishers to give special consideration to this field with the result that music has been compiled and arranged that is especially suited for the theatre organ. Such collections may be obtained in book form containing classic pieces, modern, sacred, opera numbers, marches, etc.

D. Appleton & Company, 24 W. 22nd Street, New York City.

Organ Rolls

Refer to MUSIC ROLLS

Artists of the above type range in price from $2,600 to $2,500.

The Link Company, Inc., Binghamton, N. Y.

Marquette Piano Company, 2435 Wallace Street, Chicago, Ill.

Nelson-Wiggin Piano Company, 1721 Belmont Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Orchestras Piano Company, 715 N. Kedzie Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

J. P. Seeburg Piano Company, 1310 Dayton Street, Chicago, Ill.

Organ Slides

Refer to SLIDES

Ornamental Fountains

Ornamental fountains are invariably placed of interest in the theatre. In addition to their decorative value they create a desirable atmosphere of coolness in the summer time through the sound of the trickling water as it falls into the base of the fountain.

Ornamental fountains may be obtained in many sizes and in many forms. The water supply is provided by a small pump operated from light socket current, the same water being used over again in most instances.

Batchelder-Wilson Company, 2955 Artesian, Los Angeles, Cal.

The Crane Company, 850 S. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Kugler Brothers, 321 W. 50th Street, New York City.

Bundt-Geppert Manufacturing Company, 52 Second Street, Milwaukee, Wisc.

The Mulvey W. Taylor Company, Warren, O.

Ornamental Bronze and Iron Work

Refer to BRONZE AND IRON WORK

Paint, Plastic

Refer to PLASTIC PAINT

Paint, Screen

A PAINT for refining a screen surface. This paint comes in flat white and metallic. Five pounds of flat white is sufficient to coat a 9x12 screen with two coats. Prices range from $1.75 to $3.50.

DA-LITE SCREEN COMPANY, 2714 N. Crawford Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
E. E. Fulton Company, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

HEWES-GOTHAM COMPANY, 529 W. 47th Street, New York, N. Y.
Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, 1618 Frick Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Panel Boards

With lights playing such a prominent part in the operation of a theatre, the theatre owner must look to his lighting equipment for consistent service. The panel board with its multi-circuits and its easy accessibility gives to the theatre a lighting system which is, endurable, elastic and efficient.

FRANK ADAM ELECTRIC COMPANY, 3650 Windsor Avenue, St. Louis, Mo. BELLON MANUFACTURING COMPANY, 890 Sibley Street, Chicago, Ill.

Bull Dog Electric Products Company, 1710 Joseph Campeau Street, Detroit, Mich. The Cleveland Switchboard Company, 2925 E. 79th Street, Cleveland, O.

General Electric Company, 1 River Road, Schenectdy, N. Y., HOFFMANN—SOONS, 187 First Avenue, New York, N. Y.

HUB ELECTRIC COMPANY, 1225 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Major Equipment Company, 4603 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

The W. F. Parkinson Electric Manufacturing Company, Plainville, Conn.

Paper Drinking Cups

Refer to DRINKING CUPS, PAPER

Paper Towels

Refer to TOWELS, PAPER

Paper Mache

PAPER mache is extensively used in theatres in the building of ornamental relief decorations. This material has the advantage of being light and durable with the added feature of being comparatively inexpensive. It is particularly adapted for stage and screen settings, being used for this purpose by a number of the country's leading theatres. Alpha Compressed Wood Company, 2544 Larrabee Street, Chicago, Ill.

Paste, Poster and Labelling

ENDING to efficiency in a theatre or-organization is a prepared wheat powder, which, when mixed with cold water, mixing easily and offering an adhesive paste for all types of poster billing.

HEWES-GOTHAM COMPANY, 520 W. 47th Street, New York, N. Y.

Arthur S. Hoyt Company, 90 Broadway, New York City.

Peanut Roasters and Popcorn Machines

Refer to POP CORN MACHINES

Perfumed Disinfectants

Refer to DISINFECTANTS, PERFUMED

Perfumes and Perfumers

DISAGREEABLE odors are unfortunately a usual concomitant of crowds, particularly in such compact enclosures as the motion picture auditorium. These odors may be effectually eliminated by the use of highly aromatic perfumes, which are diffused through-out the air. One method of diffusion is the simple one of placing the perfume in decorative cones, resembling a vase, at various places along the walls. These cones are made of clay and readily absorb the perfume, which may be said to saturate the cones, and the odor radiates from the latter to quite a large area beyond.

Another widely used method is to spray the air with a perfume at suitable intervals.

A trifle less simple and perhaps more effective method is that of placing perfume in a disseminator located at the ventilating fan so that the evaporated liquid will be carried by the solidified perfume and its fragrance through the auditorium along with the fresh air.

Prices vary from 50 cents for the vasedissemiators, to $2.50 for the ventilat-system disseminators. A variety of odors are obtainable at from several dol-ars to $7.50 per pound.

Photography

THERE are several phases of photography having a close relationship to the theatre. Special theatre layout stills are produced at a cost which depends upon the volume and extent of the work required. Trailers range in price from 5 cents a foot to 10 cents; the price of special cutting depends upon volume and extent of work; scenic likewise are specially priced.

Holland Picture Productions, 1402 Broadway, Detroit, Mich.

Phonograph Motors

PHONOGRAPHS motors are small motors that drive the turntable of a phonograph or non-synchronous device. These replace the spring motor that requires the muscles of its "human" motors are universal and work on 110 volts, 60 cycles, or most any lighting circuit. Others work on A. C. current only and are designed for frequency ranges which the purchaser must specify.

Allen-Hough Carriage Company, 279 Walker Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

Bedine Electric Company, 2254 W. Ohio Street, Chiicago, Ill.

J. A. Fischer Company, Inc., 387 Seventh Avenue, New York, N. Y.

General Electric Company, 1 River Road, Schenec-
dady, N. Y.

L. S. Gordon Company, 1500 Montrose Avenue, Chi-
icago, Ill.

The Imperial Electric Company, Akron, O.

The Lakeside Supply Company, 73 W. Van Buren Street, Chicago, Ill.

United Air Cleaner Company, 9705 Cottage Grove Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Phonograph Turntables

PHONOGRAPHS turntables are metal roating discs on which the records are placed for reproduction. These discs are rotated by phonograph motors, either spring or electric, and have a device to regulate the running speed. The tops of these discs are covered with a velvety fabric to eliminate danger of scratching the record. Alongside the turntable is a supporting arm that carries the needle.

Bedine Electric Company, 2254 W. Ohio Street, Chi-
icago, Ill.
The Five-O-Phone Company, Florals, Air.

Ferrard Manufacturing Company, Inc., Metropolitan Building, Long Island City, N. Y.
The Lakeside Supply Company, 73 W. Van Buren Street, Chicago, Ill.

Reiser Manufacturing Company, 15 Michigan Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

Wholesale Radio Service Company, Inc. 6 Church Street, New York City.

Photoframes

THESE are carried as standard stock in sizes 11x14 and 22x28 to accommodate photographs furnished with film features. Prices range from 75c to $1.50.

The Newman Manufacturing Company, Norwood Station, Cincinnati, O.

Pianos

PHIANOS vary in size and type, depending upon the use to which each is to be put. Both upright and baby grand, reproducing and non-reproducing pianos, are widely used in theatres as entertainment and to accompany the picture. The use of pianos on the mezzanine of the theatre is becoming more and more general. The larger theatres will have as many as six and eight pianos as a part of the permanent equipment.

The Baldwin Piano Company, 147 W. Fourth Street, Cincinnati, O.

W. W. Klineball Company, 308 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

The Link Company, Inc., Binghamton, N. Y.

Nelson-Wiggen Piano Company, 1741 Belmont Aveues, Chicago, Ill.

J. P. Seaborg Piano Company, 1510 Dayton Street, Chicago, Ill.

The Rudolph Wurlitzer Company, 121 E. Fourth Street, Cincinnati, O.

Piano Trucks

THE theatre today must operate on an efficient basis. Its costly equipment must be guarded against inadvertent damage. Equipment, also, must be moved from one section of the theatre to another. To accomplish these tasks, a theatre should be amply equipped with time-saving, safety-saving and utility-saving devices. The piano truck is a guard against damage to the piano or organ which must be moved about the theatre stage or other parts.

THE J. H. CHANNON CORPORATION, 223 W. Erie Street, Chicago, Ill.

Picture Sets

PICTURE sets in non-presentation houses are usually changed seasonably or prepared for holiday programs and special events. Theaters offering presentations must make its a point to change weekly the effects surrounding the picture screen.

Draperies and other equipment necessary to the production of an artistic stage setting are readily obtainable.

Novelty Scene Studios, 340 W. 41st Street, New York City.

TIFFIN SCENIC STUDIOS, Torn, O.

Woolen Scene Studios, 212 Cass Street, St. Louis, Mo.

Pipe Organs

Refer to ORGANS

Plastic Paint

PLASTIC paint is extensively used for decorating auditorium walls, lobbies and foyers of theatres. With this paint almost any sort of rough texture can be developed from the most refined stipple to the shaggiest Spanish palm finish. Sand swirl, two-tone and other effects can also be obtained in a number of colors and color combinations.

Plastic paint comes in the form of a white powder. Before application it is mixed with water sometimes also with coloring matter. It may be tinted with dry colors before application, or the plastic paint may be sized and then glazed with an oil glaze tinted with oil colors. It may be applied on any type of surface and when thus properly applied and treated it can be washed from time to time with soap and water.

In the decoration of theatres today, the use of plastic paint opens up a new field of expression to the architect and decorator. It is not only applicable in many striking and unusual texture effects to walls and ceilings, and in remarkably beautiful blended color combinations—but it is also adaptable to many unique, original and conventional treatments. It can be used in panels and frescoes, in sgraffito and relief work. Sprayed with bronze or aluminum powder over a richly colored background, it produces gorgeous gold and silver effects.

Architectural Decorating Company, 1600 S. Jefferson Street, Chicago, Ill.
The Craftsmen Company, 25-29 Antwerp Street, Brighton Station, Boston, Mass.
Hoechst, Inc., 244 West Washington Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
H. H. Wright's Sons Company, Bloomingdale, N. J.

Plumbing Fixtures

EVERY part of the theatre should be in keeping with the general architectural beauty of the theatre. Also, those parts of construction which are under cover of plaster and other exterior coverings must meet the requirements of building codes. The value of hidden fittings of high quality cannot be too strongly stressed as a factor in efficient and economical theatre operations. Included in these specifications are plumbing fixtures, both exposed and concealed.

Plumbing fixtures play an important part, both in the decorating scheme of a theatre and in the cost of insurance. They should, therefore, be investigated by the theatre owner, remembering that they may be had in both white and in colors, and with various distinguishing sanitary features.

The Crane Company, 530 S. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Kohler Company, Kohler, Wis.

Pop Corn Machines

POP corn machines offer an excellent opportunity for theatres to increase their revenue according to information from exhibitors who are operating them. One exhibitor states that in one week he cleared $39 with a corn popper in his lobby. Figures provided by another exhibitor state that in six months he took $597.91, out of which his expenses were $296.94, leaving a profit of $670.97. One theatre circuit in the east is using pop corn machines at five of its houses.

Pop corn machines may be had in a number of sizes and styles ranging from small models to elaborate machines which also include peanut warming facilities.

Burch Sales Company, 1432 Wyandotte Street, Kansas City, Mo.
C. Creuters & Company, 612 W. 22nd Street, Chicago, Ill.
Dunbar Company, 2652 W. Lake Street, Chicago, Ill.
Holcomb & Hohe Manufacturing Company, Indianapolis, Ind.
Kingery Manufacturing Company, 420 E. Pearl Street, Cincinnati, O.
Mr. M. E. Klinkel, Albion, Mich.
Star Manufacturing Company, 4477 Finney Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
Tullock Manufacturing Company, 1213 Chouteau Street, St. Louis, Mo.

Portable Projectors

PORTABLE projectors are motion picture projection machines which are designed to be set up only temporarily and not for permanent installation in a regular theatre, as a rule, although used there. They are particularly adapted for use in schools, clubs, etc., and may be obtained for installation in connection with leading makes of sound equipment or with sound apparatus built in.

There is a model with a heavy pedestal for permanent installation.

Semi-Portatile projectors are standard motion picture machines which may be utilized for either temporary or permanent installations. That is to say, these machines, while sturdy constructed, are comparatively light in weight and may be moved from room to room or from one building to another. Specially designed carrying cases are also provided at slight additional cost for convenience in transporting for longer distances. For permanent installations, the model with the heavy pedestal no doubt has its advantages. Sound apparatus specially constructed for portable machines is available.

Acme Motion Picture Projector Company, 734 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Bell & Howell Company, 1601 Larchmont Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Heewes-Gotham Company, 520 W. 47th Street, New York, N. Y.
Q. R. S.-Be Vry Corporation, 552 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Corner of women's lounge PARAMOUNT THEATRE Lynn, Mass. C. W. & George L. Rapp, Architects

The Holmes Projector Company, 1815 Orchard Street, Chicago, Ill.
Safety Projector Company, 310 W. Second Street, Dubuque, Minn.

Poster Frames

Refer to FRAMES, POSTER

Poster Paste

Refer to PASTE, POSTER AND LABELLING

Pottery, Decorative

THE theatre, properly proportioned architecturally, requires almost meticulous care in decoration. Because of the volume of floor space and wall space, decorative pieces are imperative. Produced for this purpose is a pottery ware which fulfills all artistic requirements, whether the decorative scheme be period or modern.

Cambridge-Wheatley Tile Company, 1001 Woodburn Avenue, Covington, Ky.
The Krockod Petaly Company, Mt. Adams, Cincinnati, O.

Poster Lights

THESE are tubular shaped reflectors to be fastened to the poster frame for illuminating poster displays. They come completely wired, with bracket for attaching. Prices range from $16 up.

Power Plants

Refer to LIGHTING AND POWER PLANTS

Printing, Theatre

Refer to THEATRE PRINTING

Programs

UNUSUAL progress has been made in the publication of theatre programs in the past few years. Today the program is one of the outstanding advertising mediums of the motion picture house. It goes into the home where it is perused by the family. In obtaining programs the exhibitor need only specify the names of the attractions and the dates. Within eight hours programs containing effective copy, suitably illustrated, are completed. This is possible through the efficiency of highly organized and ably manned printing plants devoted exclusively to this work. Copy provided in theatre programs carries a well balanced selling "punch" creating a desire to see the attractions. The programs are amply illustrated and complete facts concerning stars, players, author and other matters of interest are included.

In the dissemination of theatre programs many theatres have regular lists of patrons to whom programs are mailed each week while others distribute the programs to patrons as they leave the theatre.

Prices range from $7.75 per thousand in one color to $8.50 per thousand in two colors. Prices decrease with additional thousands.

Prominent concerns specializing in this work are:

EXHIBITORS PRINTING SERVICE, 711 S. Dearborn Street

Filmaco Company, 720 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Screen Publications, Box 216, Appleton, Wis.

October 25, 1930 Exhibitors Herald-World
CONSTRUCTION of bigger and better theatres has developed a demand for a higher class of advertising. Offset color program covers are representative of the efforts of theatre owners toward increasing artistry and dignity in their advertising. These colored program covers are highly artistic and colorful. The fact that they are extensively used has been due to improvement of programs. Covers of this type at a reasonable cost considering their beauty and effectiveness. In fact, the use of program covers has enabled exhibitors to attain a highly desirable individuality in this phase of their advertising. These program covers combine all the elements of a program announcement with the necessary distinctive features of a high class house organ. Prices range from $5 per thousand to $7 per thousand, depending on size of cover.

Projection Booths and Equipment

THE projection room, or booth, because of the fact that it is one of the nerve centers of the motion picture theatre, is becoming standardized. Not in size, naturally, but in general construction, and the high standard of equipment, etc. The projection booth, because of the very nature of the purpose it serves, must be fireproof and ideally ventilated. Though standardized in the general meaning of the word, the booth, in its placement, construction and equipment, should have individual treatment for each theatre. The skilled projection engineer should be consulted on this vital phase of motion picture presentation.

There are many things to keep in mind in the planning of projection room equipment. Certain parts of this equipment must conform to the building codes, it must be practical, it must satisfy the projectionist and it must lend itself to better projection. It is wise in a majority of instances to consult a skilled projectionist before purchasing this equipment for his knowledge of completeness and product is broad. The projection booth today is an efficiency room with an expert in charge, and the equipment purchaser should be selected with that in mind.

The design and layout of the projection room should have the careful attention of the architect for his knowledge of the time the plans for the theatre are being prepared. The co-operation of projection machine manufacturers or their distributors can profitably be called into use in the planning of a projection room and in considering its equipment. A number of factors are known where the design of the projection room, reverted to last minute consideration by the architect or owner has necessitated expensive remodeling when it has been found that beams and other constructional features made proper projection impossible.

The desirable projection room may vary in size but to accommodate two projectors, it should be at least 15 feet by 10 feet, with 12 foot ceiling. This size will also care for a spotlight and slide dissolver. By all means should toilet facilities be provided and a shower bath be highly desirable.

For construction, a floor of 6 inch cement slab is recommended with 4 inch tile wall. Doors, windows and casings should be of steel. There should be two entrances to the booth. A room adjacent to the booth, at least by 8 and well ventilated should be provided for the generator.

It is important that in the event of fire the flame or smoke be kept out of the auditorium and for this reason the aperture on the front wall of the booth should be lined with steel and fitted with steel covers which will automatically drop when a fusible link melts that is over each projector, releasing the aperture covers.

At the Metal Works, 2601 Alamo Street, Dallas, Tex., COXACKIE HOLDING CORPORATION, Cohoes, N. Y.

ENTERPRISE OPTICAL MANUFACTURING COMPANY, 564 West Randolph Street, Chicago, III.

E. E. Patton Company, 1918 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Holmes Projector Company, 1414 Orchard Street, Chicago, Ill.

INTERNATIONAL PROJECTOR CORPORATION, 90 Gold Street, New York City.

THE NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY, 32-96 Gold Street, New York City.

O.K. Harry Steel Company 2333 Papin Street, St. Louis, Mo.

E. E. Southern Iron Company, Kienland and Hamburg, St. Louis, Mo.

Projection Machines

PROJECTORS here referred to are the standard non-portable machines designed for permanent installation, usually in theatres. It is the expressed belief of theatre owners and projectionists that practically ideal projection is possible with equipment of the quality at present, provided it is in the hands of a competent operator. Modern projection machines are the result of many years of improvement and development to meet the ever-growing requirements for the best possible screen results.

Noticible in the latest developments are the efforts of the manufacturers to keep abreast of the exacting requirements for projection in conjunction with sound reproduction. A type of shutter designed to eliminate the heat from the film and to provide air currents tending to draw dust and dirt from the film, are among the latest developments.

All late model standard projectors are either constructed especially for sound picture projection or are readily adapted to any make or model of sound apparatus, either for sound-on-disc or sound-on-film. The latter method, due to its greater dependability and density of filler, requires the use of much more amperage at the arc and this factor has been met with lamps and lamphouses of greater illuminative output capacity. Also the use of the perforated sound screen has to a very great extent added to the necessity of greater illumination. Moving picture projectors are now constructed more accurately and sturdily than ever before due to the more exacting requirements of talking picture projection and greater area of picture surfaces.

While thousands of dollars are frequently spent in many other departments of the theatre an apparent indifference to the value of the best possible projection has been shown by too many theatre owners in the past. Fortunately this attitude is undergoing a very marked change and projection is beginning to receive due attention.

The motion picture theatre, despite the many trimmings connected with its construction today, offers to the public as its chief attraction the film story on the screen. Even sound has not made clarity of image less important. That the projected image should be as bright and steady as is possible to produce by modern machinery and engineering skill goes without saying.

One of the handicaps to the securing of proper projection in the past has been in the delay given this phase of the theatre at the time plans for the house are made. In a measure responsibility for this may be placed with the architect who, in his desire to create a palace of beauty and grandeur has apparently failed to consider that such facilities are without purpose unless the thing which the public pays its money to see—the picture on the screen—is of a quality to produce the highest type of entertainment.

It is not the desire nor the intention here to go into any technical details concerning projection machines. It is rather aimed in these columns to impress upon the exhibitor who is not already alive to the fact that projection in his theatre should have his keenest attention. The picture with which his audience is confronted always and any skimping in its quality ultimately will be reflected in decreased receipts.

Prices of the standard projection machines range from $625 to $1,500.

Baldwin Motion Picture Machine Company, 21 E. Runyon Street, Newark, N. J.

THE COXACKIE HOLDING CORPORATION, Cohoes, N. Y.

ENTERPRISE OPTICAL MANUFACTURING COMPANY, 564 West Randolph Street, Chicago, Ill.

E. E. Patton Company, 1918 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Holmes Projector Company, 1414 Orchard Street, Chicago, Ill.

Kamins Corporation, 7331 Kimbark Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Holmes Projector Company, 1414 Orchard Street, Chicago, Ill.

INTERNATIONAL PROJECTOR CORPORATION, 90 Gold Street, New York City.

Shaw Kaplan, 729 Seventh Avenue, New York City.

Morette Company, Inc., 600 W. 57th Street, New York City.

THE NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY, 32-96 Gold Street, New York City.

The Pathé Company, Bound Brook, N. J.

Safety Projector Company, 210 W. Second Street, Duluth, Minn.

Projection Machine Parts

No machine is stronger or more efficient that its parts. Replacements in projection machines are a more Important phase of showmanship today.

NATIONAL PROGRAM & PRINTING COMPANY, 723 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Star Program Company, 1799 Jerome Avenue, New York City.
Three recent installations of Perfection Rheostats pile up the growing proof of leadership—

In Paramount Theatre, Paris, France —
In State Lake Theatre, Chicago —
In Warner’s Theatre, San Pedro, Cal.

(To say nothing of the in-betweens)

Such coast-to-coast evidence — across the Atlantic—and on to the Pacific—has an old and new world meaning for crowded-theatre-seeking executives.

For sale by the National Theatre Supply Co., Sam Kaplan, New York, and by your dealer.

HOFFMANN-SOONS
Electrical and Engineering Corporation

387 First Avenue  Moving Picture Theatre Electrical Specialists
Mfg. Division

than ever before, with the constantly growing demands of both the industry and the public for the best possible projection of motion pictures. Concerns dealing in parts for projection machines have their experts and the wise exhibitor gets their opinion.

E. E. Fulton Company, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Globe Reliance Corporation, 29 Glenwood Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.
GOLDE & MANUFACTURING COMPANY, 213 Le Morne Street, Chicago, Ill.
GUERCIO & BARTHET, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Sam Kaplan, 727 Seventh Avenue, New York City.
THE NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY, 52-56 Gold Street, New York City.
Freligion Machine Company, 265 Milwaukee Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

Projectors, Advertising

EXPLORATION in the theatre lobby by means of an advertising projector using trailers from current or forthcoming attractions is a means of theatre publicity that is growing in popularity. Projectors for this purpose are available together with a trailer service. By means of receding the screen daylight projection has been made possible. Continuous and automatic action is a feature of many of the advertising projectors now available.

Exhibitor Illustrating Company, 226 W. 54th Street, New York City.
Holmes Projector Company, 1815 Orchard Street, Chicago, Ill.

Projectors, Portable

Refer to PORTABLE PROJECTORS

Public Address Systems

PUBLIC address systems provide a means of electrically amplifying the voice. The microphone picks up the words, and as electrical energy corresponding to the original sound waves, these "words" are carried through amplifiers to the speakers, where they are transformed into their original physical form as sound waves, only now of much greater intensity than when merely created by the human vocal mechanism. Public address systems are used principally in the theatre for announcements, though it is adaptable to many related purposes. Microphonic attachment may be made at several points in the system, making its function available to the manager in his office as well as backstage.

H. J. Baier & Son Public Address Systems, Inc., 3714 Lee Road, Cleveland, O.
Gates Radio & Supply Company, Quincy Ill.
The Orchestron Company, 42 W. 18th Street, New York, N. Y.
WESTERN ELECTRIC COMPANY, 258 W. 57th Street, New York City.

Publicity Clocks

THIS is a device designed to produce revenue for the theatre by means of securing advertising from neighborhood merchants and shops. The publicity clock is placed in the projection room and projects the advertisement of a local business upon a circular face to either side of the proscenium arch. Upon this face are shown in silhouette the hours and hands of a clock. The clock shows the time and a new advertisement is projected upon its face every two minutes. Some manufacturers of the clock operate upon a basis of paying the theatre a certain amount of money for the privilege of installing the clock for one year in his theatre. They can obtain the advertising from the neighborhood stores. As the value of the advertising increases, the sum which the theatre obtains from the manufacturer increases.

Seth Thomas Clock Company, 19 W. 44th Street, New York City.
Western Clock Manufacturing Company, 167 Lafayette Street, New York City.

Publicity Films

THEATRE publicity assumes many forms and the alert exhibitor utilizes each at some time or other to suit the occasion. One of the most effective forms is the publicity film, which may be presented as a local news reel, a trailer, a presentation, a leader, a playlet, etc. In some cases as many as ten such films are run, giving the exhibitor advertising for his own business or an income from the charge he makes for this advertising other businesses.

Alexander Film Company, 3865 S. Broadway, Denver, Colo.
Appreciation Films, Inc., 1029 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Leuba & Noelting, Inc., 245 W. 55th Street, New York City.

Radium Paint

RADLUM paint is a substance which gives a spectacular effect to the stage when the house is darkened. Its application has been simplified, and it is used with frequency in the stage shows of the country’s motion picture theatres. It may be obtained in different shades, and offers a colorful background for the show.
Records for Music and Sound Reproducing Devices

The exhibitor who has installed a music and sound reproducing device, or is contemplating the installation of such an instrument, a comprehensive library of records is of first consideration. Such a library should contain a wealth of material so that any picture, whether comedy or dramatic, may be cued.

An electrical rectifier is a device for adapting 110 volt or 220 volt alternating current to direct current for use with motion picture projection low intensity reflecting arc and hand fed arc lamps. It produces up to 30 amplifiers of steady D. C. supply. Rectifiers have a price range from $125 up.

Reels

There are various types of these made, from the 10 inch as used by film exchanges to the accurately constructed type used on the projector machines. Some have machine embossed sides, wire welded sides, and still another type has die cast sides. Most of the types offered for use on the projectors have large diameter film hubs, which greatly aid in relieving the strain on the projector as well as giving more even take-up tension. The prices range from $0.75 to $6.50 each.

Reel End Alarms and Film Indicators

A MECHANICAL device placed on the upper magazine of a picture machine to warn the operator that the end of the reel of film is near, takes the name of Reel End Alarm. They are so constructed that they can be set to ring a warning at any distance from the end. At all times the amount of film on the upper reel is shown.

Reflectors

Reflectors are all made for Mazda projectors, Reflecting Arc Lamps, and for Spotlights. Various sizes are made with different spherical curves, as well as parabolic curves. Prices range from $3.75 to $20.

Reproduction Devices for Sound and Music

The resonant orchestra base is a comparatively new development. It consists of box-like layers made of the finest type of wood of which fine violins are made. These are placed together to form a pit base for the musicians, their instruments resting on the resonant box. It is stated that a resonator platform of this type not only greatly increases the volume of the orchestra but adds materially to the beauty of the music itself. Orchestra pits of this type have been installed in many of the leading metropolitan theatres.

Rewinders

A MECHANICAL device is placed on the upper magazine of a picture machine to warn the operator that the end of the reel of film is near, takes the name of Reel End Alarm. They are so constructed that they can be set to ring a warning at any distance from the end. At all times the amount of film on the upper reel is shown.

Reflectors

Reflectors are all made for Mazda projectors, Reflecting Arc Lamps, and for Spotlights. Various sizes are made with different spherical curves, as well as parabolic curves. Prices range from $3.75 to $20.

Reproduction Devices for Sound and Music

The resonant orchestra base is a comparatively new development. It consists of box-like layers made of the finest type of wood of which fine violins are made. These are placed together to form a pit base for the musicians, their instruments resting on the resonant box. It is stated that a resonator platform of this type not only greatly increases the volume of the orchestra but adds materially to the beauty of the music itself. Orchestra pits of this type have been installed in many of the leading metropolitan theatres.

Rewinders

A MECHANICAL device is placed on the upper magazine of a picture machine to warn the operator that the end of the reel of film is near, takes the name of Reel End Alarm. They are so constructed that they can be set to ring a warning at any distance from the end. At all times the amount of film on the upper reel is shown.

Reflectors

Reflectors are all made for Mazda projectors, Reflecting Arc Lamps, and for Spotlights. Various sizes are made with different spherical curves, as well as parabolic curves. Prices range from $3.75 to $20.

Reproduction Devices for Sound and Music

The resonant orchestra base is a comparatively new development. It consists of box-like layers made of the finest type of wood of which fine violins are made. These are placed together to form a pit base for the musicians, their instruments resting on the resonant box. It is stated that a resonator platform of this type not only greatly increases the volume of the orchestra but adds materially to the beauty of the music itself. Orchestra pits of this type have been installed in many of the leading metropolitan theatres.

Rewinders

A MECHANICAL device is placed on the upper magazine of a picture machine to warn the operator that the end of the reel of film is near, takes the name of Reel End Alarm. They are so constructed that they can be set to ring a warning at any distance from the end. At all times the amount of film on the upper reel is shown.

Reflectors

Reflectors are all made for Mazda projectors, Reflecting Arc Lamps, and for Spotlights. Various sizes are made with different spherical curves, as well as parabolic curves. Prices range from $3.75 to $20.
Da-Tone Sound Screens
ARE YOU EASILY SOLD?

When a salesman tells you his merchandise must be better than others because it costs more, he thinks you are a poor fish waiting to grab his hook—

When he knocks on a product he does not sell, he usually has the proverbial ax to grind. The wide-awake buyer will call his bluff and ask for a competitive demonstration. The Da-Lite Screen Company, after specializing in the manufacture of Motion Picture Screens for twenty years, makes no claims we cannot sustain, and we claim the following for our product—

(a) Superior reflection
(b) Lowest price consistent with quality
(c) Endorsed and used by every large circuit in the United States and Canada

(d) The only acoustically perfect sound bead screen on the market
(e) There are more Da-Lite Sound Screens in use today, than all other makes combined.

THE DA-LITE SCREEN COMPANY
2723 North Crawford Avenue Chicago, Illinois

Box office safes are made of steel and provided with a slot into which surplus receipts are placed as received, or are equipped with a chute through which the surplus receipts may be dropped. Safes of this type usually make possible the lowest rates of burglary insurance.

Sanitary Specialties
THE theatre in its modern clothes, and to meet local health board regulations, must adopt a strict policy of sanitation. Such a policy encourages patronage and, what is just as important, it will eliminate complications with local authorities.

Arthur Reck Chemical Manufacturing Company, 4743 Bernard Street, Chicago, Ill.
BREWES-GOTHAM COMPANY, 520 W. 47th Street, New York, N. Y.
Huntington Laboratories, Inc., Huntington, Ind.
Lavo Company of America, 48 Seventh Street, Milwaukee, Wis.
Theatrical Spray & Perfume Company, 2437 W. Chicago Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
U. S. Sanitary Specialties Company, 455 S. Western Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Scenery, Stage
Refer to STAGE SCENERY AND DRAPERIES

Scenic Artists Service

OFTEN TIMES an exhibitor is in need of some one to paint a front drop or curtain, or do some special building and painting of sets for a stage prologue. There are several reliable firms that make a specialty of this kind of work. They will design and decorate the set to suit the exhibitor's needs and often will recommend lighting combinations that will do a lot to increase the beauty of the set.

Da-Lite Screen Company, 2715 N. Crawford Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Theatre management and theatre organ playing are no longer hit or miss propositions. Both have become highly specialized. The theatre manager must be trained in administration duties, advertising and techniques, and the organism must be able to dramatize the music to accompany the screen attractions. So valuable do chain organizations consider the trained man or woman that they are demanding those persons who have become skilled through graduate work in schools.

Ball Organ School, 215 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
The Del Castillo Theatre Organ School, 209 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston, Mass.
The Gunn School of Music, 421 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Moving Picture Theatre Managers Institute, Emira, N. Y.
New York Institute of Photography, 10 W. 2nd Street, New York City.
The Vermont Knues School of Theatre Organ Playing, 210 N. Seventh Street, Allentown, Pa.
White Institute of Organ, 1420 Broadway, New York City.

There are three types of screens for motion picture projection, metallic surfaced, white surfaced and beaded surfaced. Sound screens are perforated to permit the issuance of the sound waves from the horns behind.

The metallic surfaced screens are built in various finishes, from a smooth surface to a heavy pebbled surface. The smooth surfaced screen has perpendicular reflective characteristics while the heavy pebbled surfaces somewhat diffuse the light. In wide houses, the best image is obtained on the latter type. Metallic surfaces, as a rule are built to fit the requirements of each house.

Flat white or diffusing type screens in most cases are used with high intensity projection. Screen surfaces are made to meet the requirements of manda, reflecting are, regular are and high intensity projection. Prices of screen range from 50 cents to $2 per square foot.

AMERICAN SILVERSHIFT COMPANY, 800 Beacon Street, St. Louis, Mo.
DA-LITE SCREEN COMPANY, 2715 N. Crawford Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
L. J. Gardner Company, 935 W. Goodale Boulevard, Columbus, O.
Jacobson Picture Screen Manufacturing Company, 3423 W. 48th Street, Cleveland, O.
MINUSA GINE SCREEN COMPANY, 2665 Morgan Street, St. Louis, Mo.

 Screens for Sound Pictures

SCREENS for sound pictures are used with most sound apparatus. They differ from silent screens in that they are porous. When the horns are located behind the screen, a tightly woven canvas would retard or muffle the sound. These screens are perforated or other-
FOR EXPERIENCE
EXPERT WORKMANSHIP
HIGH QUALITY OF MATERIAL

There Are No Satisfactory Substitutes
A realization of this fact and our consistent refusal to cheapen quality, are largely responsible for the steady demand for and the permanent popularity of

THE

RAVEN TRANSTONE SCREEN
Pat. U. S. and Canada

FOR SOUND
Samples and prices submitted upon request
Raven Screen Corporation 1476 Broadway, New York

METALLITE SIGNS
The Newest in Lobby Displays on any attraction at your theatre. In 1-2 and 3 sheet size and 12 ft. x 3 ft. For the Marquee. Rented or Sold.
Send for particulars
METALLITE SIGNS
385 Halsey Street
Newark, New Jersey

wise made porous. Some are coated with a silver finish and are constructed to lace into a frame.
AMERICAN SILVER SHEET COMPANY, 860 Beaumont Street, St. Louis, Mo.
Boulton Screen Corporation, 425 W. 37th Street, New York City.
THE DA-LITE SCREEN COMPANY, 2213 N. Crawford Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
E. L. DuPont de Nemours & Company, Wilmington, Del.
E-ZEE SCREEN COMPANY, 2255 Genesee Street,
Buffalo, N. Y.
MINUSA CINE SCREEN COMPANY, 2645 Morgan
Street, St. Louis, Mo.
RAVEN SCREEN COMPANY, 1476 Broadway, New York City.
Radio Industries of Canada, Ltd., 120 Fort Street, Winnipeg, Manitoba.
Rambusch Screen Company, Elyseeville, Ind.
SARASUN SCREEN COMPANY, 8 Boylton
Street, Boston, Mass.
SCHOONMAKER EQUIPMENT COMPANY, 627 W.
43rd Street, New York City.
Vocalite Screen Company. Roosevelt, N. Y.
WALKER SCREEN COMPANY, 83 Thirty-sixth Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Screen Brushes
In order that the screen may be kept clean, and therefore give the best possible results in projection, a screen brush has been contrived for keeping the silver sheet clean and responsive to the image flashed from the projection room.
AMERICAN SILVER SHEET COMPANY, 860 Beaumont Street, St. Louis, Mo.

Screen Frames
After all the picture's thing, and without stability and solidity of the screen frame the picture is being shown at a disadvantage to both theatre owner and projectionists, to say nothing of the patron. Billowing of the screen is a blow to good projection. Now, too, there is the added element of the steel frame as another form of equipment development.
AMERICAN SILVER SHEET COMPANY, 860 Beaumont Street, St. Louis, Mo.

Screen Paint
Refer to PAINT, SCREENS

Seat Covers
Refer to CHAIR COVERS

Seat Indicators, Vacant
Refer to USHER SIGNAL SYSTEMS

Seats, Theatre
Refer to CHAIRS, THEATRE

Sharpeners, Carbon
Refer to CARBON SHARPNERS

Shutters, Metal Fireproof
The Port Shutter is made entirely of metal with a metal sliding suspended on a cord in which is connected a fusible link. In case of fire, the fusible links melt and the fire shutter automatically drops over the port hole in the booth.
They are made to fit standard openings, such as projection port holes, sartectiport holes and spotlight port holes.
Prices range from $9 to $25.
BELSON MANUFACTURING COMPANY, 860 Sibley
Street, Chicago, Ill.
BEST DEVICES COMPANY, Film Building, Cleveland, O.
H. B. Cunningham, 964 University Avenue, St. Paul, Minn.
Missouri Fire Door & Corinice Company, 2144 Eaton Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
The Mosseh-Edwards Corating Company, Inc., 411
E. Fifth Street, Cincinnati, O.
W. G. Prodey, 187 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, Cal.

Sign Flashers
Refer to FLASHERS, SIGN

Signal Systems, Usher
Refer to USHER SIGNAL SYSTEMS

Signals, Reel End
Refer to REEL END SIGNALS

Signs, Directional
Take the case of a patron who comes from the auditorium and asks for directions. If the theatre owner has had this experience he realizes the embarrassment and other inconvenience. The patron is paying his way into the theatre and he deserves every consideration.
The modern theatre today is equipping itself with the directional sign. Every business building is doing likewise.
Signs may be considered in two general groups—those that are illuminated and those which are etched on metal or wood without illumination. The illuminated signs, which are highly artistic in finish and construction, are made to read either from one side or both. The lettering in the signs is chipped into the glass and silvered, making it easy to read in daylight. The letters glow in a soft greenish color. Illumination is accomplished with 25 watt show case lights. Signs are fitted with lamps, cord and plug ready for attaching to light socket.
BELSON MANUFACTURING COMPANY, 860 Sibley Street, Chicago, Ill.
Flexiline Corporation, Buffalo, N. Y.
E. E. Fulton Company, 1018 E. Washash Avenue, Chicaico, Ill.
Guercio & Berthel, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
HUB ELECTRIC COMPANY, 2210 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
The Ideal Sign Company, Inc., 149 Seventh Street,
Brooklyn, N. Y.
KIEGL BROTHERS, 221 W. 58th Street, New York
City.
La-ML-Nu Signs, Inc., 2736 Wentworth Avenue, Chi-
caico, Ill.
Lustrolite, Inc., 125-24 E. Fourth Street, Davenport, Ia.
Major Equipment Company, 4030 Fullerton Avenue,
Chicago, Ill.
Metal Products, Inc., 462-44 Fourth Street, Milwaukee, Wis.
Metallite Signs, 355 Halsey Street, Newark, N. J.
Rawson & Evans, 716 W. Washington Street, Chi-
caico, Ill.
Toilet & Ticket Company, 1015 W. Adams Street,
Chicago, Ill.
Trillite Screen Company, 4541 Ravenswood Avenue,
Chicago, Ill.
Viking Products Corporation, 422 W. 42nd Street,
New York City.
The Voss Company, 1745 N. 12th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Wiley Sign Company, 1559 Church Street, Detroit, Mich.

Signs—Electric
Motion picture theatres are leaders in the use of electrical advertising, the usual electric signs at some of the metropolitan houses being the most elaborate of their kind. Since the sign must necessarily be made with consideration for the size of the theatre facade and facilities for anchoring it, the material is usually given individual consideration, and sketches prepared for the specific building to which the sign is to be fastened.
American Signs Corporation, Kalamazoo, Mich.
The Artistic Sign Company, 80 E. Lima, O.
Cloud Neon Lights, Inc., 56 E. 42nd Street, New York City.
Commonwealth Electric Sign Company, 4543 W. Lake
Street, Chicago, Ill.
Federal Electric Corporation, 8740 S. State Street, Chi-
caico, Ill.
Flexiche Surface Corporation, 1100 Military Road, Buffalo, N. Y.
Ideal Sign Company, Inc., 149 Seventh Street, Brook-llyn, N. Y.
KIEGL BROTHERS, 221 W. 58th Street, New York
City.
Kolux Corporation, Kalamazoo, Ind.
Exhibitors Herald-World

October 25, 1930

WALKER
SOUNDSCREEN
PATENT PENDING

APPROVED BY ERPI & RCA

Be cautious—Insure perfect sound transmission without muffling or impairing the quality.

INSTALL THE SCREEN APPROVED BY THE MANUFACTURER OF YOUR SOUND EQUIPMENT—

THE WALKER SOUNDSCREEN

MORE LIGHT — MORE SOUND — MORE LIFE

SOUND SATISFACTION

Lu-Mi-Nus Signs, Inc., 2736 Wentworth Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Leitrodite, Inc., 122-24 E. Fourth Street, Davenport, Iowa.

Metal Products, Inc., 462-64 Fourth Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Baltion & Company, 211 Jefferson Street, Wauwatosa, Wis.

Tellie Sign Company, 451 Ravenswood Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

U. S. Electric Sign Company, 203 E. 27th Street, New York City.

Willey Sign Company, 1559 Church Street, Detroit, Mich.

Signs, Exit
Refer to EXITE LIGHT SIGNS

Signs, Marquee and Attraction Board

ELECTRIC illumination is a bonanza to the program. Presenting the program in the marquee or in the attraction board is a box office asset. The electric presentation of a theatre and a program is an invaluable adjunct to the theatre attendance. Large and small theatres, today, are utilizing this type of promotional presentation to bring the people to their box offices. The theatre owner today must tell his public about his organ, his refrigeration and heating and the general comfort of his audience. In the marquee or in the attraction board this message can be presented to these people.

American Sign Company, Kalamazoo, Mich.

Artcraft Sign Company, Box 86, Lima, Ohio.

Claude Neon Lichts, Inc., 60 E. 42nd Street, New York City.

Commonwealth Electric Sign Company, 454 W. Lake Street, Chicago, Ill.

Pershing Corporation, Buffalo, N. Y.

HUB ELECTRIC COMPANY, 2119 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

Ideal Sign Company, Inc., 149 Seventh Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

KLEIGL BROTHERS, 321 W. 59th Street, New York City.

Kokux Corporation, Kokomo, Ind.

The Langdon Corporation, Dayton, O.

Lu-Mi-Nus Signs, Inc., 2736 Wentworth Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Leitrodite, Inc., 122-24 E. Fourth Street, Davenport, Iowa.

The McNamara Sign Company, 631 E. Lafayette Avenue, Detroit, Mich.

Metal Products, Inc., 462-64 Fourth Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Milne Electric Sign Company, 614 Cherry Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

Pattie Sign Company, 4541 Ravenswood Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

U. S. Electric Sign Company, 203 E. 27th Street, New York City.

Willey Sign Company, 1559 Church Street, Detroit, Mich.

Slides

SLIDES are divided into four different classes: Song slides, advertising slides, announcement slides and special advertising slides. Song slides have come into vogue within the last few years. There are two types of these: the comedy type and the sentimental type. They are sold or rented in complete sets to be run in conjunction with organ solos. Advertising slides: These are of the stock advertising type in which may be inserted the name of the advertiser. There is a large selection for every line of business artistically drawn and cleverly worded. Announcement slides: A standard stock selection makes it possible for the theatreman to buy already made any announcement that he desires to make. They can be secured in very artistic designs. Special advertising slides: Are those made from copy furnished by the advertiser from photographs, drawings, or any other material the advertiser may have. In every case they are made up specially. Prices for stock slides range from 25 cents up. Original slides cost from about a dollar up.

The Aklay Sign Company, Inc., 621 Film Exchange Building, Cleveland.

Ecker Brothers Optical Company, 608 Olive Street, St. Louis, Mo.

Loupich & Norling, Inc., 246 W. 56th Street, New York City.

National Studios, 226 W. 56th Street, New York City.

QUALITY SLIDE COMPANY, F. E. Lake Street, Chicago, Ill.

Ramsley Studios, 308 W. Randolph Street, Chicago, Ill.

Standard Slide Corporation, 230 W. 56th Street, New York City.

WORKSTEL STUDIOS, 151 W. 46th Street, New York City.

Soaps, Liquid
Refer to SANITARY SPECIALITIES

Sound Devices, Synchronous and Non-Synchronous
Refer to MUSIC and SOUND REPRODUCING DEVICES

Sound Picture Equipment
Refer to MUSIC AND SOUND REPRODUCING DEVICES

Sound-Proothing

WITH a growing tendency on the part of theatre owners to incorporate into the theatre building additional recreational features such as bowling alleys and ballrooms, the matter of sound-proothing has become a subject of wide interest.

In a great many instances it has been shown that modern methods of sound-proothing make it possible to place a ball-room or bowling alley room either directly above or directly under a theatre auditorium, with positive assurance that noise will not reach the auditorium and interfere with the audience enjoying the program.

Proper sound-proothing is a difficult problem, due to the difference in building constructions, method of ventilating, etc. The accomplishment is a matter of using proper design and materials based on years of successful installations. The system is based on proper breaking of solid contacts combined with proper absorbing mediums.

Hearing conditions in an auditorium can be provided for to a large extent in advance of construction from a study of the plans. Acoustical defects in existing auditoriums can also be diagnosed and corrective measures applied with satisfactory results.

Acoustic defects may be corrected by applying an efficient sound-absorbing material on walls or ceiling, as prescribed by a competent acoustical engineer. A number of efficient sound-absorbing materials are available, which may be elaborately decorated without reducing its efficiency.

In case a theatre auditorium is to be located in a large office building, the system can be used to prevent sound of pipe organs from penetrating to office spaces.
THE CELOTOX COMPANY, 919 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
John-Manville Corporation, 392 Madison Avenue, New York City.
THE INSULTE COMPANY, 1212 Builders Exchange, Minneapolis, Minn.
Macmillan Engineering Company, Ninth and Euclid Avenue, Cleveland.
NATIONAL H.G. MILLS, INC., 241 South Fifth Street, Milwaukee, Wis.
Union Pacific Rail Company, Minn., Minn.
WESTERN FELT WORKS, 4624-1333 Odgen Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Sound Reproducing Devices

Refer to MUSIC AND SOUND REPRODUCING DEVICES

Speakers and Horns

Horns and speakers used in sound installations are air columns with a bellowed outlet, or magnetic or electrodynamic cones (in baffles or horns), used to project the sound waves created by the amplified electrical pulsations. They are attached to amplifiers and usually number a few or more, depending on the size of the theatre.

H. J. Bailer & Son Public Address Systems, Inc., 2134
Lee Road, Cleveland, Ohio.
Bryant Products, Inc., 2552 Bellevue Avenue, Detroit, Mich.

ELECTRO-FONE CORPORATION, 2494 University Avenue, St. Paul, Minn.
Pacific Building Products, Inc., Metropolitan Building, Long Island City, N. Y.
Cultural Building Supply Company, Quincy, Ill.
Jensen Radio Manufacturing Company, 6611 S. LaGrange, O.

MACY MANUFACTURING CORPORATION, 1451 56th Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
The Mamavac Company, 151 E. Ohio Street, Chicago, Ill.
MILES MANUFACTURING CORPORATION, 21 W. 11th Street, New York City.
Oxford Radio Corporation, 2055 W. Pershing Place, Chicago, Ill.
The Peters Company, North Chicago, Ill.

RACON ELECTRIC COMPANY, Inc., 18 Washington Place, New York City.
Radio Industries of Canada, Ltd., 120 Fort Street, Winnipeg, Manitoba.
The Rea Company, 4256 Halle Street, Oakland, Cal.
SILVER-MARSHALL, INC., 1411 W. 6th Street, Chicago, Ill.
Stroumbi-Carbon Telephone Manufacturing Company, 2620 University Avenue, Rochester, N. Y.
Temple Incorporated, 1925 S. Western Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Truman Radio Manufacturing Company, 487 W. Harrison Street, Chicago, Ill.
Ultrafone Radio Speaker Company, 1046 W. Van Buren Street, Chicago, III.
The Union Fabric Company, Derby, Conn.
United Radio Corporation, 15th and Washington Avenue, Rochester, N. Y.
The United Radio Products Company, 1725 S. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Speed Indicators

Speed indicators are electrical devices with an indicator which can be located in the booth, on the orchestra director's table and in the manager's office, with the meters or speedometers attached to the picture machine to register at what rate of speed the film is being run through the machine. It indicates the time remaining and also may show minutes per thousand feet. In modern theatres where the performances are run on a schedule with everything synchronized, speed indicators are a necessity. Prices range from $15 a unit up. Generators extra.

Barbour-Stockwell Company, 100-400 Broadway, Cambridge, Massachusetts.

CHICAGO CINEMA EQUIPMENT COMPANY, 1791-793 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Cinema Specialty Company, Inc., F. O. Box 1007, Gary, Ind.
Essanay Electric Company, 2309 W. Van Buren Street, Chicago, Ill.
J. H. Halber, 25 W. 57th Street, New York City.

INTERNATIONAL PROJECTOR CORPORATION, 96 Gold Street, New York City.
Oliver Manufacturing Company, 2208 Payne Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.
The J. E. McAleavy Manufacturing Company, 552-554 W. Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.
Stewart-Warnor Specialist, 1826 Diversey Parkway, Chicago, Ill.
Watson Electric Instrument Corporation, Waverly Park, N. J.

Splicing Blocks

A device used in theatres and exchanges for splicing motion picture films. Splicing blocks sell for as low as $7.50.

BELL & HOWELL COMPANY, 1927 Larchmont Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Duques Moulton, Inc., 847 Sherwood Avenue, Long Island City, N. Y.

McNeely-Patterson Company, 240 W. 47th Street, New York City.

Spotlights

Refer to LIGHTS, SPOT

Sprinklers, Automatic

Refer to AUTOMATIC SPRINKLERS

Stage Hardware

Refer to HARDWARE, STAGE

Stage Lighting Equipment

UNDER the heading of Stage Lighting Equipment, come strip lights, proscenium strips, footlights, border lights, floodlights, stage effects. There are so many details in connection with stage lighting that we suggest getting in touch with the manufacturers of such equipment for specific information.

FRANK ADAM ELECTRIC COMPANY, 3650 Windsor Place, New York City.

BELSON MANUFACTURING COMPANY, 902 Sibley Street, Chicago, Ill.
Broman Light Projection Company, 7348 S. Ashland Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Buckeye Distributing Company, 7017 Euclid Avenue, Cincinnati, Ohio.

CHICAGO CINEMA EQUIPMENT COMPANY, 1751-53 N. State Street, Chicago, Ill.
Chicago Electric Equipment, 417 S. Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.
CHICAGO SWITCHBOARD MANUFACTURING COMPANY, 306 Central Street, Chicago, Ill.
Cincinnati Stage Lighting Company, 127 Opera Place, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Display Stage Lighting Company, 410 W. 47th Street, New York City.
John W. English, 1613 Belmont Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.
Great Western Stage Equipment Company, 511 Holcomb Field Avenue, Kansas City, Mo.

HUB ELECTRIC COMPANY, 2219 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

KLEFGL BROTHERS, 321 W. 58th Street, New York City.
Lee Thresh Studios, 1818 Amsterdam Avenue, New York City.

KLEISEN BROTHERS, 405 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Henry Moshkin, 817 Sixth Avenue, New York City.

Karl Kobin, 27 South Street, New York City.

Main Equipment Company, 1610 Joseph Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.
John W. English, 1613 Belmont Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.
Great Western Stage Equipment Company, 511 Holcomb Field Avenue, Kansas City, Mo.

HUB ELECTRIC COMPANY, 2219 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Lee Thresh Studios, 1818 Amsterdam Avenue, New York City.

KLEISEN BROTHERS, 405 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Henry Moshkin, 817 Sixth Avenue, New York City.

Karl Kobin, 27 South Street, New York City.

Main Equipment Company, 1610 Joseph Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.
John W. English, 1613 Belmont Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.
Great Western Stage Equipment Company, 511 Holcomb Field Avenue, Kansas City, Mo.

HUB ELECTRIC COMPANY, 2219 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Stage Rigging

Refer to HARDWARE, STAGE

Stage Scenery and Draperies

DRAPERIES are an important feature of theatres today. They accent color and give softness and richness to an interior. Architectural lines of doorways and archways are usually distinctively hard and draperies are the mediums by which these lines are softened to give a pleasing appearance. A drapery scheme usually creates an inviting, flowing and decorative semi-special. If the drapery is in harmony with the main color in the surroundings and in proportion to the richness of the architecture there need be little worry about it being too rich or elaborate. Likewise, scenery, colorful and delicate, has become an important adjunct to the motion picture theatre. Scenery to properly clothe the stage should be of a type which is eye-catching the moment the drop is raised. Many specialists have been developed in this particular field. Acoustical treatment is also quite closely allied with draping for color effect and harmony. Acoustical specialists have made a close study of draping for acoustical correction, and today, of course, acoustics are an all-important consideration in stage and house drapery installations.

Beck & Sons, Highland Avenue and Dorchester, Chicago, Ill.
Continental Studios, 100 E. Ohio Street, Chicago, Ill.
Danae, Inc., 140 W. 46th Street, New York City.
Eastman Brothers Studios, Inc., 34 W. 46th Street, New York City.
John W. English, 1613 Belmont Avenue, Cleveland, O.
E. P. Fulton Company, 1518 S. Washab Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Great Western Stage Equipment Company, 817 Holmes Street, Kansas City, Mo.
S. M. Baxter & Company, Inc., 2406 E. Superior Street, Cleveland, O.

Interstate Decorator Company, 1458 S. Washab Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Leland Studios, 40 Ames Street, Rutherford, N. J.
Lee Line Studios, 1818 Amsterdam Avenue, New York City.
Mendel Brothers, Inc., State and Madison Streets, Chicago, Ill.

Manhattan Studios, 1434th Street and Park Avenue, New York City.
E. L. Mantere Company, 1605 Indiana Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Matney Studios, 397 W. 47th Street, New York City.
NATIONAL THEATRE STAGE COMPANY, 92-96 Gold Street, New York City.

Norton Scene Studios, 416 W. 41st Street, New York City.
Radion Screens & Decorating Company, Financiers Building, Cleveland, O.
Sosman & Landis Company, 415 E. Kedzie Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Tiffin SCENIC STUDIOS, Tiffin, O.

Twickenham Studios, Inc., 2819 Nicollet Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.

The Universal Scene Studios, Inc., 730-32 Fifth Street, Milwaukee, Wis.
Voluntas Scene Studios, Inc., 3737 Eau Claire Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

J. Weiss & Sons, 808 W. 35th Street, New York City.
Windover Wallace & Drapery Company, 225 Superior Avenue, N. W., Cleveland, O.

Statuary

ARTISTRY of decoration in a theatre is reflected never more vividly and accurately than by the statuary. A dignified and beautiful statue at the head of the stairs leading to the mezzanine, for example, can establish the tone of a theatre almost as rapidly and conclusively as the construction.
October 25, 1930

Exhibitors Herald-World

KIEGL BROTHERS, 321 W. 39th Street, New York City.
Major Equipment Company, 4603 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Milwaukee Electric Switchboard Company, 156 Clinton Street, Milwaukee, Wis.
THE NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY, 92-96 Gold Street, New York City.
Trumpet Electric Manufacturing Company, Plainville, Conn.
War, Leonard Electric Company, 27 South Street, Mil. Vernon, N. J.
Wm. Wardell Electric Manufacturing Company, 4444 Clayton Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

Switches

NEVER in the history of the theatre has electrical equipment played as vital a role as it does today. From projection room to stage and to manager’s office, electricity to a large extent runs the show. With the program on a minute schedule, electrical switches in turn have an important duty to perform.

FRANK ADAM ELECTRIC COMPANY, 3559 Windsor Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
The Bryant Electric Company, Bridgeport, Conn.
Downey Manufacturing Company, 225 Broadway, New York City.
Hart Manufacturing Company, Hartford, Conn.
HOFFMAN-SOONS, 387 First Avenue, New York City.
Kohler Company, Kohler, Wis.

Telephones, Inter-Communicating

Refer to INTER-COMMUNICATING TELEPHONES

Temperature Control Apparatus

TEMPERATURE control apparatus are devices for automatically controlling the temperature of the auditorium, organ chambers or any part of the theatre where a uniform heat must be maintained. In a control for an auditorium the device is a small thermostat, which actsuate a valve on an air-line, which in turn operates the shutters in the air ducts. In the average size theatre several of these will be located at various places and each will operate independently of the other, thus relieving hot or cold spots in any one section. Controls for organ chambers turn on or off electric heaters and also work on the thermostat principle.

The Electric Heat Control Company, 5902 Carnegie Avenue, Cleveland, O.
The Foxboro Company, Nesonset Avenue, Foxboro, Mass.
Johnson Service Company, 149 E. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
National Regulator Company, 2001 N. Knox Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Power Regulator Company, 2710 Greenview Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Terra Cotta, Architectural

THEATRE architecture and decoration today reflects both the freedom of individual expression and the character of the showplace itself. Not least in the material forms of that expression is terra cotta, with the variety of structural decoration it affords.

Midland Terra Cotta Company, 105 W. Monroe Street, Chicago, Ill.
Northwestern Terra Cotta Company, 2525 Clifforne Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Theatre Accounting Systems

Refer to ACCOUNTING SYSTEMS

Theatre Costumes

Refer to COSTUMES AND COSTUME FABRICS

More Than 500 Theatres Use MACY HORNS

Do You?

Your pictures may be "features" but if the sound coming from behind the screen is rapping and unevenly distributed you will lose patronage—Good "Tadles" are possible only if you have good acoustic equipment.

A Macy Horn Improves Any Installation 50%

A whole new equipment is NOT necessary. State the capacity of your theatre and send for booklet and prices.

Our smaller model Horn 5.72 is especially for small capacity houses. Ask about it.

Macy Manufacturing Corporation
1451—39th Street
Brooklyn, N. Y.

GER-BAR THEATER EQUIPMENT

Quick, easy installation, easily removed, TROLLEYS DOUBLE BEARING MOVEMENTS

Perfect alignment. Twice the security for half the money

ILLUMINATED SIGNS

Change advertisement prices without changing whole sign

DELUXE "NO PARKING" SIGNS

Beauty, Strength, Durability

Write for descriptions and prices

GUERCIO & BARTEL

1018 S. Washington Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

Telephones Telephone 2500 or 2605
MILES REPRODUCER CO.
45-H WEST 17TH STREET
NEW YORK, N. Y.

Miles Ahead of Others

"MILESOPHONE" FOR ORGANISTS
MICROPHONES & TYPES MICROPHONE STANDS
DYNAMIC HORN UNITS
EXPOSITOR TRUMPETS
EXPOSITOR HORNS
BARRÉS FOR DYNAMIC CONES

Theatre Curtain Advertising

THEATRE curtain advertising in many places has been the means of bringing together the exhibitor and the local merchant on more friendly terms, besides being a source of revenue for the exhibitor. It also has stimulated community interest among the patrons in trading at their neighborhood stores.

Chicago, Minn.

Twin-City Scene Company, 2819 Nicollet Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.

Theatre Brokers
Refer to BROKERS

Theatre Dimmers
Refer to DIMMERS

Theatre Seats
Refer to CHAIRS

Theatre Promotion

TWO primary factors in promotional work of a theatre, as far as paper is concerned, are quality production and speed of service. Just as those two elements figure in the contact between theatre owner and patron, so too they loom in the relations between the exhibitor and the company that serves him with his promotional material.

Adviser Corporation, 727 Seventh Avenue, New York.

Davis Bulletin Company, Inc., Lock Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Bower Show Print, Fowler, Ind.

CHICAGO SHOW PRINTING COMPANY, 1333-45 W. Lake Street, Chicago, Ill.

EXHIBITORS PRINTING SERVICE, 112 S. Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.

Plenach Company, 238 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

The Hamil Corporation, 1174 Third Avenue, N., Birmingham, Ala.

The Hennepin Company, 311 Genesee Street, Cincinnati, O.

THE LEADER PRESS, Oklahoma City, Okla.

M. E. MOSS PUBLISHING COMPANY, Hartford, Conn.

National Pumper & Printing Company, 729 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

NATIONAL SCREEN SERVICE, 120 W. 46th Street, New York City.

THE VITAPHOTO COMPANY, 729 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Frank Roberts, 111 N. Franklin Street, Syracuse, New York.

Screen Publications, Box 126, Appleton, Wis.

Tickets

THEATRE tickets are available and used in many forms as roll tickets, folded tickets, reserved seat tickets, and ticket coupon books. Roll and folded tickets of the more usual denominations are carried in stock. Tickets are commonly sold in even multiples of 10,000, the price decreasing with additional thousands ordered.

Tickets are made for use with ticket issuing machines and are consecutively numbered. This enables accurate check of tickets sold for each day. Stock tickets may be obtained for 50 cents a roll. Special printed roll or center hole folded tickets range in price from $8 for 10,000 to $158 for a million. The admission price must be printed on each ticket, by order of the government.

 Arens Ticket Company, 346 N. Ashland Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

AUTOMATIC TICKET REGISTER CORPORATION, Paramount Building, New York City.

Columbia Printing Company, 1632 N. Halsted Street, Chicago, Ill.

Hancock Brothers, Inc., 25 Jessie Street, San Francisco, Cal.

International Ticket Company, 50 Grafton Avenue, Newark, N. J.

Kerstein Ticket Company, Rahway, N. J.

Mid-West Ticket & Supply Company, 910 S. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

National Ticket Company, Rahway, N. J.

Simplex Ticket Company, 313 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Whelton, Williams & Lick, Fort Smith, Ark.

Ticket Booths

KEEPING pace with advancement in theatre design the box office has been developed from a rather unsightly necessity to a thing of beauty, modernly equipped for speedy and accurate sale of tickets. It is usually designed in harmony with the architectural scheme of the theatre.

Attractive booths are made of plastic composition or wood. Others are made of cast brass or bronze with marble bases.

While larger theatres require several booths, one of these is always placed as near the sidewalk lines as possible. This procedure is usually followed where only one box office is used also, thus placing the ticket window within easy access.

Ticket booths vary in price according to their construction, size and elaborateness from $350 to $1,500.

Natural Metal Works, 2501 Alamo Street, Dallas, Tex.

The Caille Brothers Company, 1210 Second Boulevard, Detroit, Mich.

Litho-Silversmith Corporation, 1610 Broadway, New York City.

Lobby Dimmers Frame Corporation, 721 Seventh Street, New York City.

Newman Manufacturing Company, Norwood Station, Cincinnati, O.

Stanley Frame Company, 727 Seventh Avenue, New York City.

Ticket Booth Heaters

THE ticket booth heater is a compact device which is a necessity, especially in cases where the booth is set away from the walls of the theatre. The seller in the booth must be protected against climatic conditions to function efficiently in change making. A cold booth is not productive to correctness.

The Prometheus Electric Corporation, 360 W. 17th Street, New York City.

Time-O-Stat Control Company, Elkhart, Ind.

Ticket Choppers

A MACHINE for punching tickets dropped in box as patron enters theatre. The ticket chopper guards against the resale of tickets. Mutilation of the ticket consists of perforations made on the ticket, which, however, is done in a manner that does not prevent accurately checking results. Ticket choppers are made in several wood and metal finishes, and are operated by electricity, or hand on any standard foot. Prices range from $75 to $250.

AUTOMATIC SIMPLEX REGISTER CORPORATION, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

AUTOMATIC TICKET REGISTER, Paramount Building, New York City.

H. V. Bright, 1104 Prospect Avenue, Cleveland, O.

Caille Brothers, 6310 Second Avenue, Detroit, Mich.

GENERAL REGISTER CORP., Paramount Building, New York City.

Mid-West Ticket & Supply Company, 910 S. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Newman Manufacturing Company, Norwood Station, Cincinnati, O.

SIMPLEX TICKET REGISTER, Paramount Building, New York City.

Viable Coin Company, 1724 W. 111th Street, Cleveland, O.

J. H. Waesch & Son, 369 37th Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

Ticket Holders

THERE are various forms and types of these made for both the single and coupon ticket rolls and generally constructed so that the roll of tickets is automatically held under tension, which prevents the roll of tickets from unwinding. The prices range from $0.50 to $1.50.

AUTOMATIC SIMPLEX REGISTER CORPORATION, 1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

AUTOMATIC TICKET REGISTER, Paramount Building, New York City.

GENERAL REGISTER CORP., Paramount Building, New York City.

SIMPLEX TICKET COMPANY, 3120 W. Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

SIMPLEX TICKET REGISTER, Paramount Building, New York City.

Ticket Machines

Refer to MACHINES, TICKET

Tile (for Floors and Decoration)

IMPORTANCE of first impressions has been repeated often enough, yet many a patron has drawn negative reaction toward a beautiful theatre because insufficient attention has been paid to the appearance of the lobby. The usages of decorative tile in the theatre are many and valuable. Besides its use for fountains and purely decorative features, it is proving beautifying as well as durable as floor material in theatre lobbies, lounges, etc.

American Encaustic Tiling Company, Ltd., 15 E. 41st Street, New York City.

Associated Tile Manufacturers, 420 Lexington Avenue, New York City.

Monarch Tile Company, Zanesville, O.
Tool Kits

TOOL kits, or outfits, are made complete with a set of tools for use on the picture machine. They usually contain "V" Block, Split Screw Driver, Driver Pins, Taper Pin Reamer, Taper Pin Remover and Sprocket Puller. Price is $5.

INTERNATIONAL PROJECTOR CORPORATION, 90 Gold Street, New York City.

Towels, Paper

PROGRESSIVE operation of a theatre does not stop at the screen or stage of the theatre. It extends even to the small details of equipment of the entire theatre. Paper towels are a factor of efficient equipment, but in this, as in all other phases of running a theatre, there are varying standards and values. The most successful theatre owner has the highest standards.

Bay West Paper Company, Green Bay, Wis.
Pl. Howard Paper Company, Green Bay, Wis.

Trailer

THE exhibitor has for screen for entertainment purposes, but it also is an invaluable asset in promotional work. Trailers are widely used and vary just as widely in style, depending, of course, upon the type of entertainment to be promoted. Trailers on feature pictures may be obtained on a weekly, monthly and yearly contract basis. Other trailers may be designed and produced for some special feature of the program. A great many theatres also have their own title trailer for the news reels, especially when several news reels are combined.

ADVANCE TRAILER SERVICE CORPORATION,
936 Ninth Avenue, New York City.
Appleton Films, Inc., 1729 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Artfilm Studios, Inc., 6001-03 Euclid Avenue, Cleveland, O.
Artfilm Productions Corporation, 725 Seventh Avenue, New York City.
Ekler Brothers Optical Company, 608 Olive Street, St. Louis, Mo.

EXHIBITORS PRINTING SERVICE, 711 S. Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.
Filmsack Company, 538 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Holland Picture Productions, 401 Broadway, Detroit, Mich.
NATIONAL PROGRAM & PRINTING COMPANY, 725 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
NATIONAL SCREEN SERVICE, INC., 126 W. 40th Street, New York City; 410 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, and 1912 S. Vermont Avenue, Los Angeles.
QUALITY SLIDE COMPANY, 6 E. Lake Street, Chicago, Ill.
Kaye Studios, 308 W. Randolph Street, Chicago, Ill.

Transformers

Refer to GENERATORS, MOTOR

Transparencies, Window Displays

THE transparency offers a colorful and eye-catching form of advertising. Use of this type of display is growing, for the effect is one of delicacy, yet it attracts. It may be ordered in the form of window displays, lobby boards, etc.

Eastman Brothers Studio, 16 W. 44th Street, New York City.
National Studios, 25 W. 56th Street, New York City.
Hendry Studio, 304 W. Randolph Street, Chicago, Ill.

Uniforms

THEATRE prestige emphasized through the training of ushers, doormen and other attendants, is greatly enhanced by costumes worn by such employees.

Uniforms for Summer wear should be of a lightweight material to provide comfort and in addition, to create an atmosphere of coolness. Uniforms for the Winter months should be of a heavier material of a dark color.

Many theatres at present are making it a practice of equipping ushers, etc., in a style that harmonizes with the architecture of the house. For example, a theatre done in a Spanish style very frequently adopts a Spanish type of uniform for house employees.

Uniforms should be made to individual measurements to assure perfect fit and neatness at all times. Special catalogues are available containing appropriate suggestions for theatre attendants' uniforms.

Angelina Company, 1419 Olive Street, St. Louis, Mo.
Brownie, King & Company, 244 Fourth Avenue, New York City.
Chicago Uniform & Cap Company, 208 East Monroe Street, Chicago, Ill.
DeMoulin Brothers & Company, 1020 S. Fourth Avenue, Greenville, Ill.
Lottie, Ltd., 16 W. Lake Street, Chicago, Ill.
M. C. Lilly & Company, 252 E. Long Street, Columbus, O.
MAIER-LAVATY COMPANY, 2319 Lincoln Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
A. G. Miller and Company, 205 W. Monroe Street, Chicago, Ill.
National Uniform Company, 12 John Street, New York City.
Pettersen Brothers Manufacturing Company, 552 Main Street, Cincinnati, O.
The James E. Richards Company, Dayton, O.
Marcus Ruben, Inc., 525 S. State Street, Chicago, Ill.
Russell Uniform Company, 400 Broadway, New York City.
Western Uniform Company, 105 S. Wells Street, Chicago, Ill.

* Usher Signal Systems

The usher signal system provides a sending station at each aisle, equipped with numerical push buttons that give any total of seats that aisle might have. The usher registers on this station the number of vacant seats available, which information is transmitted to the floor head usher, depending on the size of the theatre. In the larger houses the floor usher relays the information to the head usher. The head usher sends total of all aisles and floors to the doorman who directs the people to the different sections of the house where the vacant seats are waiting. This operation goes on continuously, and rapidly takes care of waiting crowds. The various stations can be furnished in any finish.

Seat indicators have proved to effect economy and safety in moving picture theatres by reducing the possibility of accidents in aisles and rows to its minimum, reducing the number of ushers used in handling patrons, together with speeding up the locating of vacant seats which are otherwise lost due to the inaccuracy of the human element manifested in the very best of ushering systems. The reduction of accidents means reduction in insurance premiums, and the reduction in the number of ushers means a reduction in uniforms, salaries and upkeep.

The Acme Electric Corporation, 497 S. Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.
Automatic Electric Supply, Inc., 1027 W. Van Buren Street, Chicago, Ill.
ILLINOIS CORPORATION, 1907 Broadway, New York, N. Y.
Bryant Electric Company, Bridgeport, Conn.
GALLAGHER ORCHESTRA EQUIPMENT COMPANY, 415 W. Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill.
Guerin Theatre Seating Company, Inc., 609 Ikhana Street, Chicago, Ill.
Holzemer-Cahoe Electric Company, 125 Amory Street, Boston, Mass.

Vacuum Cleaning Equipment

THOUGH the constant and careful cleaning of the interior of a theatre worked upon with pressure, the vacuum cleaner has simplified matters considerably, since it can be used in cleaning carpets, drapes, chairs, organ lofts, stage floors, etc. The vacuum cleaner also promotes sanitation, which old methods did not do. Vacuum cleaners are procurable for theatres of all sizes and are priced nominally when consideration is taken of their efficiency and labor saving.

Cleaners may be purchased for as low as $67.50.

Apex Electrical Manufacturing Company, 1027 E. 115th Street, Cleveland, O.
Atwood-Stewart Vacuum Machine Company, 4527 Pennsylvania Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Bureka Vacuum Cleaner Company, Hamilton and Dewey Avenues, Detroit, Mich.
General Electric Company, 1 River Road, Schenec
dady, N. Y.
The Hoover Company, Canton, O.
Thehoover Machine Company, Inc., 400 W. Madison Street, Chicago, Ill.
Spencer Turbine Company, Hartford, Conn.

Vending Machines

Due to the Yankee disposition to get what he wants with the least fuss and bother, vending machines are now being adopted by many theatres. The newer models are designed to dispense many kinds of package goods and the customer makes his purchase and the proprietor makes a quick sale and profit, without the expense of a hired attendant. This feature of low investment and overhead, with a high percentage of profit, has resulted in many installations in theatres, and the number is growing fast. The machines are designed to meet the requirements in appearance of the fine theatre.

The American Vending Company, 59 S. LaSalle Street, Chicago, Ill.
Columbus Vending Company, 2005-13 E. Main Street, Columbus, O.
Corporated Automatic Merchandising Corporation, 245 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.
Margaret Finch, 54 W. Randolph Street, Chicago, Ill.
Keussen & Shwingler, 385 W. 42nd Street, New York, N. Y.
Mills Novelty Company, 4110 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Superior Automatic Vending Company, 1225 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

Ventilating Systems

Refer to Air Conditioning and Cooling Equipment—Cooling, Ventilating, Ice Systems—Electric Fans—Fans, Ventilating

Ventilators

PROPER distribution of air in the theatre is an important feature of correct ventilation. One of the methods of achieving this is through the use of ventilators located in the auditorium floor. Air brought into the theatre is distributed in this manner to all parts of the house. Ventilators of this type which are generally known as mushroom ventilators, may be adjusted to permit the desired amount of air entering the auditorium. It is claimed that diffusers of this type enable an evenly distributed amount of air to reach all portions of the building. The prices range from $50 to $150 each, depending on the diameter. A six-inch diameter is generally used.
American Metal Products Company, 5655 Manchester Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
Knowles Mushroom Ventilator Company, 41 N. Moore Street, New York City.
Sobel & Kraus, Inc., 517-21 E. 120th Street, New York City.

Wall Coverings

SINCERE consideration must be given to the subject of wall coverings for in the final analysis they are one of the most important factors in theatre construction.

Steen Products Company, Inc., 1440 Military Road, Buffalo, N. Y.
Cornwell Wood Products Company, 199 N. State Street, Chicago, Ill.

University Screen & Linens Company, 111 W. Washington Street, Chicago, Ill.
U. S. GYPSUM COMPANY, 300 W. Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.
Vitrolite Company, 133 W. Washington Street, Chicago, Ill.

H. B. Wipgin's Sons Company, Bloomfield, N. J.

Waste Cans

THESE generally have self closing covers, some of them being operated by foot levers. Some are finished in high-grade enamel to harmonize with the rest of the house equipment, while others are made of galvanized iron. Some types are also water tight, so they will hold water to extinguish carbon buttons or the immersion of film fragments in water for safety. The prices range from $5.00 to $7.50.

E. E. Patton Company, 1918 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Water Purifiers and Coolers

WATER purifiers and coolers have made theatre attendance more welcome to the prospective patron. These devices assure them of refreshing water which is cool and pure at all times.

National Carbide Machinery Company, Wisconsin Rapids, Wis.

U. S. Gypsum Company, 500 N. Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.

Wheels, Color

Refer to COLOR WHEELS

Modern Installations

UNITED STATES GYPSUM COMPANY
Acoustical Treatment Material

PETER CLARK, INC.
Stage Equipment

exit facilities exceed by 25 per cent those required by law.

Special equipment for the hard-of-hearing is another of the refinements. The headphones are plugged in a socket near the seat by the usher. A volume control regulates the sound.

The projection room has been developed to accommodate wide-screen projectors or any new innovations that it might be necessary to install. The stage has also been built with wide-screen in mind. Ventilating and cooling equipment balances the humidity of the air with the number of patrons present.

The balance of the building is devoted to stores and offices, the managers' headquarters being located off the right stairway leading to the mezzanine and balcony.

The exterior of the seven-story building is modernistically designed in a dull gray finish, with the theatre marquee in bright black tile. A revolving neon tube sign carrying the name of Fox has been installed on the tower.

WHAT'S A TRAILER?

Outside of the motion picture industry the word TRAILER means to tag behind something.

In our industry the word TRAILER means an ADVANCE AGENT in your theatre who tells beforehand what's going to come on your screen.

These ADVANCE TRAILERS are not only the last word in deluxe screen advertising but also present sound and talking effects to a selected audience.

The small theatre as well as the large theatre can find the use of AD-VA NCE TRAILERS a profitable service, worthy of its investment. It has been proven that this sort of advertising brings back your patrons for every change of program in your theatre.

Are you selling them the coming attractions with worthwhile trailers or are you letting your patrons gaze upon an old fashioned message?

For "Real" ADVANCE Trailer Service get in touch with AD-VANCE TRAILER SERVICE CORP.

"The Press Sheet of the Screen"

CHICAGO
845 S. Wabash Ave.

NEW YORK
930 Ninth Ave.

LOS ANGELES
1928 S. Vermont Ave.

GALLAGHER ORCHESTRA EQUIPMENT COMPANY
616-618 W. Elm St., Chicago

Announcing the Biggest Box Office Attraction of the Future

THE ELECTRIC SEAT USHER

No Vacant Seats.
No one in your aisles to disturb those seated.
Your patrons enjoy your show, and see the complete program in the allotted time.
Increases your performance attendance, and keeps the line in the lobby moving.

Makers of the highest grade music stands and orchestra equipment. Also furnishings for your lobby, and Electric Towels for your wash rooms.

The Modern Mostif in Fantastic Mood

(Continued from page 25)
The Electrical Center for all Theatres

Hub Electric Company offers a service which is everything that the name implies—the center for all theatre electrical equipment and installation.

No theatre is too large or too small for the Hub organization. Our many years of experience and wide background of theatre work enable us to offer a service which stands supreme in the motion picture theatre field.

Many of the results of our extensive experience are gathered together in a new and comprehensive catalogue which we have just published. This book is of priceless value to every theatre executive. A copy will be cheerfully sent FREE on request.

NOTES ON THEATRE EQUIPMENT AFFAIRS

Conducted by G. J. Reid

THE du Pont laboratories are submitting a fire-resistant motion picture screen material which has been subjected to the tests of the National Fire Underwriters and has received the approval of the National Board of Fire Underwriters. The latter's report states:

"The product in single sheets as used in theatres will not burn or propagate flame beyond the area exposed to ignition. The product in compact form can be ignited with difficulty, resulting in smouldering (flameless) combustion. The product is stable and is not likely to undergo decomposition or change in an increase in hazard, as tests showed that aging did not show any change in regard to combustibility."

Aside from the fire resistant feature, it is stated that the material has the advantages of a matte finish, with a uniform degree of reflection and a construction that permits of easy and clean perforation for sound projection. More about this product will doubtless be obtainable soon.

CHANGE-OVER SHUTTER

A mechanical changeover shutter is one of the recent additions to the manufactures of the Golde Manufacturing Company of Chicago. It is an arrangement of three compound levers in an aluminum housing that is fitted to each projector between the framing light shield and the fire shutter; these levers being interlocked by a flexible wire in a tube reaching from one shutter to the other.

Depressing a handle on the incoming projector snaps open the shutter and at the same time drops the shutter on the outgoing machine. The device has five moving parts, and may be installed by the projectionist himself. The change-over shutter is also interlocked with the tension gate and fire shutter.

This device tends to obviate the necessity of the projectionist reaching across hot metal when making ready.

A NEW SCREEN

The announcement comes from the Bell & Howell engineering laboratories that a new screen is now available which is characterized as being "extra bright," light in weight, and successful with Kadacolor pictures as well as black and white films.

A double frame is one of its features. The outer frame is attractively finished in brown walnut and on the black finished inner frame a fine-textured projection surface is mounted, which can be unsnapped and reversed. This aids in the protection of the projection surface. from dust and dirt while it is not in use. The projection surface is a composition of several metallic elements in finely powdered form, held in solution and applied to a 14-gauge sheet aluminum base. This surface may be dusted lightly with a clean soft cloth. The screen is available in two sizes, 20x27, and 30x40 inches.

THE BILMARJAC SYSTEM
- It will be recalled that some time ago the Bilmarjac Corporation developed a seat indicator system that incorporated considerable provision for the indication of vacant seats without the usual manual operation of aisle attendants. In this system was also provided means for lighting approaches, etc.
- It seems that the Bureau for the Prevention of Accidents, following a survey of conditions in theatres having the system, has issued a statement declaring it to be effective in preventing accidents to patrons seeking seats.
- The Bilmarjac arrangement provides for the indication on a master board of each empty seat, directly, without transmission of the information to the captain of the ushers by one of his staff. The system was explained in detail, it will be recalled, in a previous issue of Better Theatres.

BY WAY OF NEWS
- B. L. Donahue has been appointed manager of the Buffalo district office of Cutler-Hammer, Inc., of Milwaukee, manufacturers of electric control apparatus. Donahue succeeds B. A. Hansen, who has resigned. Donahue has been connected with the Pittsburgh branch of Cutler-Hammer for the past eight years. He is a graduate of Penn State, where he received a Bachelor of Science degree in electrical engineering. He is a member of the Association of Iron and Steel Electrical Engineers and of Sigma Tau engineering fraternity.
- It is learned that the job of completely redressing the interior of the Oriental theatre in Boston, Paramount Publix house, was done by Frank Netschert, Inc. The Netschert firm specializes in the shrubs and flowers for interior decoration that form such necessary elements of the atmosphere theatre.
WHO'S WHO
A DIRECTORY OF THEATRE EQUIPMENT MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS AND THEIR EXECUTIVES ARRANGED ALPHABETICALLY BY NAMES OF FIRMS

A
AC SPARK PLUG COMPANY
Flint, Michigan
Manufacturer of film speed indicators.

FRANK ADAM ELECTRIC COMPANY
3650 Windsor Place, St. Louis, Mo.
Manufacturers of F.A. Major system lighting control stage switches, live and dead face safety type light and power switches, panelboards and cabinets, plug-ins, panel fanger outlets, adjustable brushes, safety rotators, knife switches, type brush switch and flush range switches. President and General Manager—Fred B. Adam, Vice President in Charge of Sales—H. J. Reichardt. Factory Superintendent—H. J. Schmelzig.

BRANCHES

ADDRESSEOGRAPH COMPANY
901 W. Van Buren Street, Chicago, Ill.
Manufacturer of names and addresses and other duplicating products; addresseograph, duplicigraph, stereograph, graphotype. President and General Manager—J. E. Rogers, Compt. and Treasurer—C. R. Martin, General Sales Manager—J. B. Ward.

BRANCHES AND AGENCIES

ADSGN CORPORATION
333 W. 52nd Street, New York City
Advertising service. President—Joseph F. Coufal, Treasurer and Secretary—Harry A. Smith.

BRANCHES
Chicago, Ill., 845 South Wabash Avenue, Cleveland, O., 214 East 105th Street, Detroit, Mich.

ADVANCE TRAILER SERVICE CORPORATION
630 Ninth Avenue, New York, N. Y.
Silent and talking trailers; merchants film-ad service.

ALEXANDER FILM COMPANY
Alexander Industries Building, Colorado Springs, Colo.
Producer of motion picture publicity films. President—J. Don Alexander, First Vice President—D. M. Alexander, Second Vice President—Mark Fitzgerald, Secretary-Treasurer—R. A. Duncan, Vice President in Charge of Sales—M. J. McManey.

BRANCHES
New York City, Portland, Ore., Detroit, Mich., Los Angeles, Calif.

ALLIED CLOTH SPECIALTIES, INC.
(Division of American Aggregates Corporation), Greenville, Ohio
Manufacturer of seat and chair covers for theatres. American Aggregates Corporation. President—J. G. Cupp, First Vice President and General Manager—C. E. Patsy, Second Vice President and Sales Manager—J. R. Deeter. Sales Department, Allied Cloth Specialties, Inc.—J. W. Baker.

AMERICAN BLOWER CORPORATION
6000 Russell Street, Detroit, Mich.
Manufacturers of Sirocco fans, "ABC" air washers, Ventures fans, Sirocco utility blowers. President—J. G. Cupp, Vice President and General Manager—J. F. G. Miller, Vice President and Sales Manager—G. T. Morse, Vice President in Charge of Export—F. R. Still. Secretary—E. Valle, Assistant Treasurer—S. H. Eibel, Assistant Sales Manager—G. C. Polk.

FACTORIES
Detroit, Mich., Windsor, Ontario, Canada.

AMERICAN CARBONIC MACHINERY COMPANY
Wisconsin Rapids, Wis.
Manufacturer of air cooling and conditioning equipment. President—G. W. Rhythm, Vice President and General Manager—W. A. Reinh. Secretary—O. E. Uehling.

BRANCHES

AMERICAN SEATING COMPANY
114 East Jackson Boulevard, Chicago

BRANCHES

AMERICAN SILHESERVICE COMPANY
500-12 Beaumont Street, St. Louis, Mo.
Manufacturer of sound screens.

AMERICAN TRANSFORMER COMPANY
1725 Emmet Street, Newark, N. J.
Manufacturer of transformers and amplifiers.

AMPLION RADIO CORPORATION
133 W. 21st Street, New York City
Manufacturers of complete sound equipment. President—J. W. Wolf, Treasurer—L. S. Wolf, Secretary—F. E. Young.

ARCTIC NU-AIR CORPORATION
Northwest Terminal—Minneapolis, Minn.

SALES OFFICES

THE ARCUS TICKET COMPANY
318 N. Ashland Avenue, Chicago
Manufacturer of roll and folded tickets, coupon books, tickets, driving seats, theatre, audience, sound vents, vending machines, ticket boxes, reserved seat coupon holders. President-Treasurer—James A. Areu, Vice President-Secretary—H. J. Hessell.

BRANCH
New York City, 461 Eighth Avenue.

ASSOCIATED FABRICS CORPORATION
723 Seventh Avenue, New York City
Manufacturer of drapery and costume fabrics. President—Samuel H. Gutterman, Secretary and Treasurer—Irving Olkin.

AUDAK COMPANY
565 Fifth Avenue, New York City
Manufacturers of the Polyphon, Polyphon remote control and Electro-Chromatic pick-ups for synchronous and a.c. equipment. Creators of electrical and acoustical equipment. President—Maximilian Well.

AUDIO PRODUCTS CORPORATION
138 West Avenue, Long Island City, N. Y.
Manufacturers of sound-on-film devices.

AUDITONE COMPANY
52-27 S. Jefferson Street, Chicago, Ill.
Manufacturer of portable and stationary sound equipment. President—J. H. Kiel.

AUTOMATIC DEVICES COMPANY
737 Hamilton Street, Allentown, Pa.
Manufacturer of STABIL ARC motor generator, ABC automatic curtain machine, AUTODRAPE Junior curtain control, SILENT-STROBE curtain track. President and Treasurer—Irving Sampols, Secretary—F. A. Ambler.

FACTORIES
Allentown, Pa., 1124 Hamilton Street, Newark, N. J., 186 Mill Street.

AUTOVENT FAN & BLOWER COMPANY
1805 N. Kostner Avenue, Chicago
Manufacturer of a complete line of ventilating equipment. President—J. E. Truitt, Sales Manager—J. S. Ragen.

BRANCHES
Bridgeport, Bridgeport & Jones 123 Stella Street, Boston, Autovent Fan & Blower Company, 180 Milk Street.
BELSON MANUFACTURING COMPANY
800 South Sibley Street, Chicago
Trade Mark "BEL-SUN-LITE"
Manufacturers and distributors of bollard lights, footlights, cycle racks, strip lights, lexilites, ovantes, spotlights, borderlight cable, controllers, pin, set and automation equipment, Stromer planters, panel boards, boxing bags, stage pockets, towers, switchboards, city lighting effects, 自治 machine, cove-light equipment, exit and direction signs, sidewalk, luminaires, reflections by area, acme, reflector, lights, light machine, signal systems, and all accessories.
President
M. J. Belson
Sales Manager
M. H. VanAlen

BRANCHES
Atlanta, Ga., Charles C. Schoen, 158 Marietta Street, Baltimore, Md., J. S. Perkins, 11 East Centre Street, Buffalo, N. Y., R. Hoffman, 203 Caroline Street, Cincinnati, O., R. H. Helm, 2413 Union Central Building, Cleveland, O., Calvin B. Moore, 1572 Royalston Road, Denver, Colo., Arthur E. Bacon, 912 Twelfth Street, Detroit, Mich., Thomas W. Butler, 2720 Columbus Avenue, Fort Worth, Tex., Fred J. Kether, 520 Campus Building, Houston, Tex., Fred C. Arnold, 999 Merchants & Manufacturers Building, Indianapolis, Ind., Henry J. Damon, 704 Union Title Building, Kansas City, Mo., Miss, Fitchburg L. Funsten, 219 East 14th Street, Los Angeles, Cal., H. B. Squires Company, 229 Broadway, Miami, Fla., Frank E. Purif, 24 Northwest First Street, Minneapolis, Minn., Harold R. Harris, 708 Sixth Avenue South, New Orleans, La., Lyman C. Reed, 708-710 Girod Street, New York, N. Y., I. M. Fine, 110 East Forty-Second Street, Omaha, Neb., Garber & Pet, 404 Merchants National Bank Building, Philadelphia, Penn., Herbert Bacher, Machinery Exhibition Hall, The Bourse, Pittsburgh, Penn., E. A. Seifer, Century Building, Richmond, Va., George T. Hewitt, 504 West Broad Street, St. Louis, Mo., Frank C. Unger, 444 Clayton Avenue, San Antonio, Tex., Fred C. R. Spenne, P. O. Box 210-201, North Manhattan Street, San Francisco, Cal., H. B. Squires Company, 1277 Howard Street, Seattle, Wash., H. B. Squires Company, 521 First Avenue, South, Tampa, Fla., Charles A. Schall, Builders' Exchange Building.

CANADA
Montreal, Que., C. L. MacGillivray, 580 St. Antoine Street, Toronto, Ont., A. E. Woodridge, 33 Melinda Street, Vancouver, B. C., R. H. Rock, 550 Bute Street, Winnipeg, Man., J. G. Smith, 123 James Street.

BERLINER ACOUSTIC CORP.
1808 Paramount Blvd., New York, N. Y.
Manufacturers of Berliner Acoustic System.
General Manager
Samuel Weiseman

BEST MANUFACTURING COMPANY
1200 Grove Street, Irvington, N. J.
Manufacturers of loud speakers—dynamical and magnetic.
Officers
G. G. Cromartie
E. W. Nelson
H. H. Burt
Credit Manager
J. P. Diller

BRANCHES
Minneapolis, Minn., Merrill E. Franklin, 202 Baker Building.
Kansas City, Mo., Enrl E. Edwards, 218 W. 9th Street.
St. Louis, Mo., Otto E. Hermann Company, 1226 Syndicate Trust Building.
Cleveland, O., C. O. Winter, Jr., 1301 13th Street.
Buffalo, N. Y., Manufacturers Sales Company, 206 Riverside Building.
Denver, Colo., H. D. Robertson Company, 6515 Woodward Avenue.
Pittsburgh, Pa., W. J. Herlitzy, 2528 Fern Place.
Atlanta, Ga., J. F. Burton and Company, 655 Candle Avenue.
San Francisco, Calif., F. E. Sette, 454 Turk Street.
Chicago, Ill., Nicholas & Host, 1632 South Michigan Avenue.
Philadelphia, Pa., J. H. Felgenbaum, 2420 Walnut Avenue.

BOSTONE, INC.
Davenport at 16th Street, Omaha, Nebr.
Manufacturers of Beatone sound systems, both Disc and Sound-on-Film.

FACTORY
Creighton, Nebr.

BEGLOW-SANFORD CARPET CO., INC.
385 Madison Avenue, New York City
President
John A. Sweeten
Vice-President
H. D. Campbell
Vice-President
F. J. Klawonn
Secretary
J. J. Delaney

OFFICES
New York, 385 Madison Avenue.
Boston, 715 Clark Building.
Philadelphia, 556-558 Public Ledger Building.
San Francisco, 715 Clark Building.
Atlanta, 120 Marietta Street Building.
Dallas, 1300 Dallas National Bank Building.
Chicago, 14 East Jackson Boulevard.
Omaha, 214-215 Plymouth Building.
St. Louis, 604 Arcade Building.
Detroit, 1223 Book Building.
Denver, 1133 Sixteenth Street.
Los Angeles, 125 East 8th Street, Room 301.
San Francisco, 719 Mission Street.
Seattle, 1952 First Avenue, Room 707.

MILLS AT Thompsonville, Conn., Singapore, N. Y.
Chatsworth, Calif., London, Ont.

BILMARJAC CORPORATION
1627 Broadway, New York City
Manufacturers of silent film projectors.

BLIZZARD SALES COMPANY
1524 Davenport Street, Omaha, Nebr.
Manufacturer of coin changing machines.

FAC TORIES
Creighton, Nebr.
Omaha, Nebr.

A. R. BOYD ENTERPRISES
1700 Sansom Street, Philadelphia, Penna.
Brokers who buy, build and operate motion picture theatres.

BOSTON ACOUSTICAL ENGINEERING DIVISION OF HOUSING COMPANY
40 Central Street, Boston, Mass.
Manufacturer of Acoustus—sound absorbing material for correction of acoustics in theatres.

BRANDT AUTOMATIC CASHIER COMPANY
515 First Street, Watertown, Wis.
Manufacturer of coin changing machines.

Chairman of the Board and Treasurer
President
E. W. Quirk
Secretary
O. E. Hoffman

BRAZEL NOVELTY MANUFACTURING COMPANY
4005 Apple Street, Cincinnati, Ohio
Manufacturer of advertising novelties.

BREKTERT LIGHT PROJECTION COMPANY
7848 S. Aubin Avenue, Detroit, Mich.
Manufacturer of theatre spotlights, effect machines, light and low intensity lamps for motion picture projection, and strobe lights.

BRILLIANT STEEL NEEDLE CO., INC.
370 Seventh Avenue, New York City
Manufacturer of brilliantine and dynamite needles.

President
W. J. Bagshaw
Secretary
C. H. Bagshaw

BRANCHES
Lowell, Mass.

BRUCKER-MITCHELL, INC.
525 West 22nd Street, New York, N. Y.
Manufacturers of Magnacope frames, Horn Towers, Oraphone Hits, Stage Riggers and Certain Tracks.

President
Richard R. Brucker
Better Theaters Section

October 25, 1930

BRUNSWICK BALCOLLIER COMPANY
622 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago
Manufacturer of combination radio and record playing instruments, Panographs with radio receivers and non-synchronous record libraries (special recordings)
President—B. E. Belewinger
General Manager—W. B. Jackson
Advertising Manager—Paul S. Eillson
Record Sales Manager—F. E. Stevens, Jr.

BRUNSWICK-KROESCHELL COMPANY
66 W. Madison Street, Chicago
Manufacturer of air conditioning systems, distributors of service in principal cities

THE BRYANT ELECTRIC DEVICE COMPANY
Bridgeport, Conn.
Manufacturer of wiring devices, switches, receptacles, sockets, attachment plugs, cord connectors, fuses, cut-outs and switch plates
President—Walter Cary
General Manager—W. J. Weaver
General Sales Manager—F. S. Montgomery

BRANCHES
Boston
New York
San Francisco

C

THE CAPEHART CORPORATION
Fort Wayne, Indiana
Manufacturer of continuous playing automatic phonographs
President—H. E. Capehart

CARBON PRODUCTS, INC.
8 Beach Street, New York City
Manufacturer and importer of carbons

CARRIER ENGINEERING CORPORATION
850 Frelinghuysen Avenue, Newark, N. J.
Manufacturer of Carrier Central Station System for Air Conditioning, Carrier Centrifugal Refrigeration
President—Willis H. Carrier
Treasurer and General Manager—J. I. Lyle
Vice President and Sales Manager—E. F. Murphy
Secretary—L. L. Lewis
Advertising Manager—W. E. Smith

BRANCHES
New York
Philadelphia
Boston
Chicago
Cleveland

CARRIER ENGINEERING COMPANY, LTD.
London, Paris, Bombay, Colombo, Johannesburg

CARRIER LÜTHERISCHE GESELLSCHAFT
Stuttgart, Berlin

THE CELOTEX COMPANY
919 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago
Manufacturer of Celotex standard building board, roof insulation, industrial board, refrigerator insulation, Acoustic-Celotex and carpet lining
President—John P. Daubner
Vice-President in charge of Mill—C. F. Dahlberg
Vice-President in charge of Sales—C. E. Redman
Vice-President in charge of Research—T. T. Morris
Advertising Director—J. S. Rosenfelt
Manager of Acoustical Department—George F. Little

BRANCHES
Seattle
Baltimore
Cleveland
Los Angeles
New York City
St. Louis
Chicago
Boston
Kansas City

CENTRAL IMPORT COMPANY
1655 S. Central Park Avenue, Chicago
Manufacturer of SUPER-TRANSFLEX GELATINE SHEETS, DIAMOND TINSEL AND METALLIC FLITTER

FACTORY
Germany

J. H. CHANNON CORPORATION
292-292 West Erie Street, Chicago
Manufacturer of steel and asbestos curtains, draw curtain tracks and operators, stage hardware and counterweight rigging, grand piano trucks, cyclorama arms, and electric nigger head winches
President—Lesley J. Corr
Vice-President—N. G. Nussbaum

FACTORY
223-223 West Erie Street, Chicago

CHICAGO CINEMA EQUIPMENT COMPANY
1736-54 N. Sprinfeld Avenue, Chicago
Manufacturers of deluxe effect projectors, deluxe double dissolvers, deluxe automatic motor driven rear winds, deluxe rewind tables, high intensity floodlights, spotlights, searchlights, arc, air-electric effect machines for stage and circus, window draperies, curtain stands, color wheels, color frames, speed indicators, music stands, orchestras, spotlighting, searchlighting, spotlight, strip lights, carbon racks, carbon waste cans, color frames, stage, stage lighting equipment, cabinets for records, and sound accessories
President—Walter W. Pitkin
Vice President—A. M. Berg
Manager of Sales—Edward H. Wolk

CHICAGO SHOW PRINTING COMPANY
1334-45 West Lake Street, Chicago, Ill.
Display printing, canvas hangings, cloth muslin, canvas—fire barriers, prayer, window cards
PERSONNEL
R. L. Reiner
Jules R. Mass

CHICAGO SWITCHBOARD MANUFACTURING COMPANY
426 South Clinton Street, Chicago, Ill.
Manufacturers of switchboards, spotlights and complete stage lighting equipment

CINEMA PATENTS COMPANY, INC.
1726 Broadway, New York City
Manufacturers of operating machines and general laboratory equipment

CINEMA SPECIALTY CO., INC.
P. O. Box 1037, Gary, Ind.
Manufacturer of automatic film indicators, and reel end alarms
President—J. C. Kovich

J. R. CLANCY, INC.
1010 W. Belden Avenue, Syracuse, N. Y.
Manufacturer of a very fine line of theatrical stage hardware
President and Treasurer—J. R. Clancy
Vice President—E. K. Myers
Secretary—J. C. Myers

PETER CLARK, INC.
544 W. 39th Street, New York City
Manufacturers of stage rigging, hardware, counter-weight systems, scissor, and soundproof curtains, hand and electric curtain holds, draw curtain tracks, orchestra pit lifts, orchestra canopy lifts, stage lift, stage band cabinets, movie sets, house rigging, mechanical stage effects, automatic screen mechanisms, steel frames for picture sheets, orchestra pit, metal tie downs and cases, stage floor traps and portable hall room floors
President—Peter Clark
Vice President and General Manager—J. E. Johnson
Vice President—William Otto-behn
Secretary—John F. Barke
Treasurer—Thomas L. Kaveny
Advertising Manager—Arthur E. Clark
Western Representative—Frank E. Sams, 1715 N. E. Molino Avenue, Pasadena, Cal.

THE CLEVELAND SWITCHBOARD CO.
2925 E. 79th Street, Cleveland, Ohio
Manufacturer of power and lighting panelboards and switchboards
President—W. C. Hefkomister
Vice President—C. A. Hefkomister
Secretary—J. H. Stiles

BRANCHES
BUFFALO

CRAFT CARPET COMPANY
150 N. Wells Street, Chicago
Manufacturers of Orlite Rug and Carpet Cushions and Miniature Golf Felt President—L. H. Regensburg
Advertising Manager—T. R. Sills

New York City, Clinton Carpet Company, 295 Fifth Avenue

CLINTON CARPET COMPANY
Los Angeles, Cal., Clinton Carpet Company, 120 East Eight Street
St. Louis, N. J., Clinton Carpet Company, 295 Fifth Avenue

FACTORIES
Milwaukee, Wisc., New York, N. Y.
Los Angeles, Cal., St. John, Quebec, Canada

CLOSE-TO-NATURE COMPANY
Coila, Ia.

CYLNE ENGINEERING COMPANY, INC.
3550 Easton Street, St. Louis, Mo.
Manufacturer of Perles-Tone Synchronous Reproduction Equipment
President—J. R. McNee

CORNELL WOOD PRODUCTS COMPANY
307 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago
Manufacturer of Cornell wood board, Indian board, inlays, veneers, N. 1, industrial board Number 3, 4 ply blackboard, 6 ply blackboard
President—W. J. Osborne
Vice President and General Manager—W. J. Osborne, Jr.
Secretary and Sales Manager—W. R. Rice

BRANCHES
Los Angeles, Cal., Gasther & Hatchins, Inc.

FACTORY
Cornell, Wis.

COVINGTON METAL PRODUCTS CORP.
Successors to Architectural Metal Products, Inc.
17 W. Eighth Street, Covington, Ky.
Manufacturer of marquise, metal covered doors, and ornamental bronze
President—A. L. Castellini
Secretary and Treasurer—Geo. D. Miller

COXSAKIE HOLDING CORPORATION
23 Mansion Street, Coxsackie, N. Y.
Manufacturer of professional projectors
President—Herman A. Kep
Vice President—George M. Werbach
Secretary-Treasurer—W. I. Meyer

BRANCHES
Cleveland, Ohio, Oliver Moving Picture Supply Company, 264 Film Building.
Charlotte, N. C., Carolinas Theatre Supply Company, United Film Building.
Pittsburgh, Pa., Super—Star Motion Picture Supply Company, 1024 Forbes Street.
Chicago, Ill., Theatre Supply Company, Film Exchange Building.
President—R. L. Wright & Matsoner, 76 Dorrance Street.
Boston, N. Y., United Projector & Film Corporation, 228 Franklin Street.
Tampa, Fla., Amusement Supply Company, 705 Twelwe Street.

CRAFT FILM LABORATORIES, INC.
729 Seventh Avenue, New York City
Printing and developing of film
President—Nathan Saldan
Secretary—Alfred E. McCoy
Treasurer—Stephen J. Dovee
Lab. Manager—Harry Glickman

LABORATORY
Fishing, L. I., Congress Avenue.

CRAFTEX COMPANY
37 Antwerp Street, Brighton, Mass.
Manufacturer of Crestex, Craftsizer, Craftco, Craftex and Shadowall
President—David Murray
Vice President—W. R. McComb

BRANCHES
New York City, 60 E. 42nd Street, Chicago, 203 No. Wabash Avenue.

CRYSTAL MOVIE SCREEN CORPORATION
Wyckoff Building, Celina, Ohio
Manufacturer of motion picture screens
President—Leo E. Dryer
Secretary—M. L. Dryer
OLIVER DITSON COMPANY
179 Tremont Street, Boston, Mass.
Manufacturer of musical instruments and publisher of music and musical literature.
President. Henry H. Hohler Porter
Vice President. Fm. Arnes Fisher
Treasurer. S. Frederick Brush
Treasurer-Controller. G. A. O'gallaughlin
PLANTS
Boston, Mass., Oliver Ditson Company
New York City, Oliver Ditson Company, Inc.

DOWNEY MANUFACTURING COMPANY
225 Broadway, New York City
Manufacturer of change over and light control, and foot switches.
President. J. M. Pulkinen
Vice President. S. B. Greene
Treasurer. S. T. Thode

DUNBAR & COMPANY
2629 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Manufacturer of corn poppers and popcorners.
Owner. C. P. Dunbar
Manager. H. Dryfoult

DUO-FONE CORPORATION
2895 E. Jefferson Avenue, Detroit, Mich.
Manufacturer of sound reproducing equipment.
President. R. O. Hallis
Vice President. W. F. Brink
Secretary-Treasurer. J. E. Huling

THE DAVIS BULLETIN COMPANY, INC.
Lock Street, Buffalo, N. Y.
Manufacturer of Davis logo, an automatic poster, display bulletin and Davis automatic announcement.
President. J. J. Davis
Secretary-Treasurer. A. D. Borchard

THE DAYTON SAFETY LADDER COMPANY
121-123 West Fourth Street, Cincinnati, O.
Manufacturer of Dayton safety ladders.
President and Sales Manager. A. S. Seaman
Manager of Works. W. E. Seaman

BRANCHES
Chicago, Ill., 1234 W. Caster Ave.
Boston, Mass., 40 Charles St.
New York City, 999 Madison Ave.

DAZIAN'S, INC.
142 W. 44th Street, New York City
Manufacturer and importer of fabrics for stage costumes, fabrics for costumes, trimmings for stage costumes, trimming for costumes and window display fabrics.
President. D. J. Dazian
Vice President. H. C. Dazian
Secretary-Treasurer. W. C. W. James

BRANCHES
Chicago, Ill., 1234 W. Caster Ave.
Boston, Mass., 40 Charles St.

DEL CASTILLO THEATRE ORGAN SCHOOL
State Theatre Building, Boston, Mass.
Director. L. G. D. del Castillo
Assistant Instructor. E. W. Philpott

THE DISCO-PHONE COMPANY
Florada, Ala.
Manufacturer of sound equipment.
President. W. D. Patrick
Exhibitors Herald-World

THE HENNEGAN COMPANY
311 Genesee Street, Cincinnati, O.
Manufacturer of program covers, name plates, window cards, data strip.
President..................Joseph F. Hennegan
Vice-President and Sales Mgr.........John E. Hennegan
Secretary-Treasurer...............Milton J. Hennegan

FACTORY
Cincinnati, O.

THE HERTNER ELECTRIC COMPANY
11990 Elmwood Avenue, Cleveland, O.
Manufacturer of the Transverter, a line of motor generators for the theatre and industry in various sizes.
President-Treasurer...........J. H. Hertner
Secretary..................G. C. Dash
Superintendent..............L. J. Beabow

BRANCHES
Represented by the National Theatre Supply Company.

HEWES-GOTHAM COMPANY
520 W. 47th Street, New York, N. Y.
Manufacturer of film cement, carbon adapters, color wheels, perfumed disinfectants, film cleaner, fire extinguisher fluids, fireproofing compounds, screen paint, poster paste, radium light and lamp edgings.
Edward W. Harris.............M. M. Muidel

S. M. HECTOR & CO.
2400 E. Superior Avenue, Cleveland, O.
Manufacturer of dressings and asbestosing fabrics.
S. M. Hexter................T. L. Felber
L. A. Hexter

BRANCHES
New York, N. Y.
President......................Robert A. Goodall

Three-day branches in each of the key cities of the United States.

GREES REPRODUCER CORPORATION
185 E. 13th Street, New York City
Manufacturer of sound on film and disc equipment.
F. B. GRIFFIN
Oskosh, Wis.
Manufacturer of film cement.
V. F. Griffin

GUERCIO AND BARTHEL
1018 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Manufacturer of double bearing movements, Ger-Bar light shields and changepieces.

THE EDWIN F. GUTH COMPANY
Washington Boulevard at Jefferson, St. Louis, Mo.
Manufacturer of lighting fixtures for theatres.
President......................Edwin F. Guth
Vice President...............Geo. S. Watts
Treasurer....................O. B. Guth
Sales Manager.............Joe Chassing

BRANCHES
Kansas City, Mo.
Columbus, O.
Dover, Mich.
Atlanta, Ga.
Boston, Mass.
Buffalo, N. Y.
Chicago, Ill.
Los Angeles, Cal.
San Francisco, Cal.

Detroit, Mich.
Chicago, Ill.
Pittsburgh, Pa.
San Francisco, Calif.

Seattle, Wash.

V. A. HALL COMPANY
589 Campbell Avenue, West Haven, Conn.
Manufacturer of lamp, reflector, projection lamps, high intensity reflector projection lamps, high intensity spot lights, stage high intensity lamps.
President......................Theodore Gill
Treasurer..............J. J. Connolly

BRANCHES

J. H. HALLBARG
119 W. 42nd Street, New York City
Manufacturer of electric meters, transformers, high voltage transformers, factory and commercial meters.
President......................Joseph H. Hallberg
Vice President...............G. W. Flood
Assistant Treasurer.........Edward H. North

HANCOCK BROS.
23 Jessie Street, San Francisco, Cal.
Manufacturer of roll and folded tickets, reserved seat coupons, and railway tickets.
President and Manager...........J. F. Hancock

Lighting, Cast Bronze Electric Signs, Bellied Bronze Electric Sign, Window Lighting, and Lamps.
President......................F. L. Decker
Secretary-Treasurer..............A. M. Kranz

BRANCHES
New York City, 1457 Broadway.
Milwaukee, Wis., 1323 Second St.
Toledo, O., 1214 Madison Ave.

I

THE IDEAL ELECTRIC & MANUFACTURING COMPANY
E. First and Oak, Mansfield, O.
Manufacturer of electric motors, heating, ventilating, and cooling purposes, and motor-generator sets for lighting, battery charging, motion picture, etc.
President and General Manager........E. Glan Viscom Secretary-Treasurer...............O. H. McDaniel

BRANCHES

New York
Greenvale

San Francisco
Baltimore

Cincinnati
Birmingham

Jacksonville
Canton

Philadelphia
Charleston

Kansas City
Columbus

Los Angeles
Detroit

Milwaukee
Grand Rapids

New Orleans
Norfolk

Pittsburgh
Philadelphia

St. Louis
Oklahoma City

Cleveland
Seattle

Chicago
Washington

ILEX OPTICAL COMPANY
Rochester, N. Y.
Manufacturer of projection lenses.

ILLINOIS THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY
1150 S. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Manufacturer of theatre chairs, interchangeable seats and chair panels.

INTERNATIONAL PROJECTOR CORPORATION
90 Gold Street, New York City
Manufacturer motion picture projectors.

THE INSULITE COMPANY
300 Builders Exchange, Minneapolis, Minn.
Manufacturers of acoustical products.
President......................W. W. Backus
Vice President...............S. W. Backus

INTERNATIONAL REGISTER COMPANY
19 S. Throop Street, Chicago, Ill.
Manufacturers of scroll cutting machines (International Outlaw).
President.....................A. H. Woodward
Vice President...............J. G. Hoffman
Vice President...............G. W. Hoffmang
Secretary....................W. F. Hoffman
Treasurer.....................W. J. Vaughn

JEFFERSON ELECTRIC COMPANY
1500 S. Laffit Street, Chicago
Manufacturer of Universal restaurant uses, Gem switch boxes, Union outlet boxes, Gem plug fuses, Jefferson and signal transformers, Jefferson sign transformers.
President......................J. A. Benman
Treasurer..............E. G. Boling
Vice President...............A. E. Trunegen

BRANCHES

New York
St. Louis
Chicago

New York
Philadelphia
Cleveland

Oakland, Calif.

FACTORIES

40 South Laffit Street, Chicago, Ill.
561 South Green Street, Chicago.

JOHNS-MANJI CORPORATION
292 Madison Avenue at 41st Street, New York City
Manufacturer of acoustical engineering and contracting. Manufacturer of hot and cold pipe insulation, fire proofing compound, soundproofing materials, vaue and asbestos wood, asbestos roofing, asbestos theatre curtains.
President......................J. E. Hoffman
Vice-President in Charge of Sales...............J. E. Hoff
Vice-President and Industrial Sales Manager...............J. 0. Boley

Staff Manager of Acoustical Section...............R. V. Parsons

BRANCHES

New York, N. Y.
Terrace, Ont.
San Francisco, Calif.
Chicago, Ill.
Cleveland, O.

J. H. HALLBERG
Manufacturer of electric light fixtures.

HALL ORGAN COMPANY
590 Campbell Avenue, West Haven, Conn.
Manufacturer of pipe organs.
President and Treasurer.........George A. North
Vice President...............B. Boyd
Assistant Treasurer.............Edward H. North

HANCOCK BROS.
23 Jessie Street, San Francisco, Cal.
Manufacturer of roll and folded tickets, reserved seat coupons, and railway tickets.
President and Manager...............J. F. Hancock

HUB ELECTRIC COMPANY
219-29 West Grand Avenue, Chicago
Manufacturer of Stage Switchboards, Power Boards, Panel Boards, Theatre and Auditioning Lighting Equipment, Footlights, Beleedlights, Spotlights, Stage Pockets, Core Lighting, Stilumin Indoor and Outdoor, Fight and Hockey Clocks—Exterior and Interior Floodlights, School Lighting, Emergency
Better Theatres Section

October 25, 1930

Better Theatre

K

KAUSALTE MANUFACTURING COMPANY
1829 Rhodes Avenue, Chicago
Manufacturer aisle lights and organ heaters.

JULIUS JULIARD & COMPANY
175 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
Agents for all kinds of theatre insurance.

K

KAUSALTE MANUFACTURING COMPANY
1829 Rhodes Avenue, Chicago
Manufacturer aisle lights and organ heaters.

THE R. D. KAUTZ CO.
2115 Madison Avenue, Norfolk, Virginia
Manufacturer of perfect synchronous sound equipment, public address systems and radio systems.

FACtories

GEORGE KILGEN & SON, INC.
4016 Union Boulevard, St. Louis
Manufacturer of theatre organs and manufacturer of the Kilgen Wonder Organ for theatres.

Branches: Distributed by the National Theatre Supply Company whose branch offices are listed in this issue. The export department is located at George K. Kilgen & Son, 4016 Union Boulevard, St. Louis.

FACtory

KINETIC ENGINEERING COMPANY
Lansdowne, Pa.
Manufacturer of electric organ blowers for pipe organs. Secretary-Treasurer—H. J. Knoll

Branch

New York City, 41 Park Row.

FACtories

THE KINGERY MFG. CO.
420-26 E. Pearl, Cincinnati, O.
Manufacturer of popcorn machines, peanut roasters. President—G. F. Stewart, Vice President—E. K. Boutet Secretary and Treasurer—S. K. Knoll

Branch

Chicago, Ill., 29 South Clinton Street.

FACtories

KING STUDIOS, INC.
308 S. Harwood, Dallas, Tex.
Theatre planning, decorating and furnishing, acoustical correction.

President—W. R. King Secretary and Treasurer—E. S. Segall

KLIEGL BROS., UNIVERSAL ELECTRIC STAGE LIGHTING COMPANY, INC.
231 W. 50th Street, New York City
Manufacturer of Klieglights for movie studios and stage and auditorium lighting specialties.

President—John H. Kliegl Secretary and Treasurer—Herbert A. Kliegl Sales Manager—Frank H. Bills

KNOWLES MUSHROOM VENTILATOR COMPANY
41 N. Monroe Street, New York City
Manufacturers of cast iron and steel mushroom air diffusers and deflectors for auditoriums. Ne-natch mushroom air diffuser, Aervatec mushroom air diffuser, Bla-bloc gallery riser ventilator, Oething gal-

L

LAKE CITY COMPANY
Hermanville, Mich.
Manufacturer of ventilators, Type "K", "L", "L-1", "L-2" and "M" also Furbos for wall air fans.

President—S. E. Earle Vice President—H. E. Hare Secretary and Treasurer—I. W. Rowell

THE LEADER PRESS
Okahoma City, Okla.
Theatre printers, producers of cards, posters and banners.

THE LINK COMPANY, INC.
Binghamton, N. Y.
Manufacturer of theatre pipe organs, pianos and An-teox, an amplifying phonographic instrument play-

M

LITTLEFORD BROTHERS
443-57 East Pearl Street and 456-70 East Second Street, Cincinnati, O.
Cable: Littlebro, Cincinnati
Manufacturer of horn loudspeakers for sound installation.

General Manager—Ralph S. Littleford Sales Manager—Wm. H. Reuter Advertising Manager—Allan E. Buchen

LOUCKS & NORLING STUDIOS
215 West 57th Street, New York City
Producers of motion pictures and films, also specialists in cartoon, technical and novelty animation.

LUSTROLITE, INC.
125-24 East 44th Street, Davenport, la.
Manufacturer of electrical advertising displays, theatre marquees and decalcoaters.

Branches

Chicago Kansas City
Detroit Cedar Rapids
Denver Colorado
Des Moines Rock Island
Sioux City Sioux City
Peoria

T

THE J. E. McAULEY MANUFACTURING COMPANY
552-55 West Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.
Manufacturer of reflector arc lamps, low amperage reflector arc lamps, film speed indicators, are lamps, theeds and pedestal for bare ceiling fixtures.

MACY MANUFACTURING CORPORATION
1149-51 39th Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Manufacturer of horns and accessories for group address systems and radio and television broadcasting. President and General Manager—Col. R. Blum Treasurer and Treasurer—Paul H. Furman

Chief Engineer—Carl Wurm

General Sales Manager—F. J. Wallace

MACY MANUFACTURING CORPORATION
1469-71 39th Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Manufacturer of horns, accessories for group address systems and radio and television broadcasting. President and General Manager—Col. R. Blum

Chief Engineer—Carl Wurm

General Sales Manager—F. J. Wallace

Branches

New Bedford
San Francisco
St. Louis
Cleveland
Denver
Chicago
Washington
Philadelphia

FOREIGN SALES AND SERVICE BRANCHES
Sydney, Australia
Zurich, Switzerland
Melbourne, Australia
London, England
Montréal, Quebec
Toronto, Ontario
Bombay, India
Tokyo, Japan
Manila, P. I.

MAIER-LAVATY COMPANY
2114 Lincoln Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Manufacturer of UNIFORMS for Theatre Attaches.

MAJOR EQUIPMENT COMPANY, INC.
4603 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Manufacturer of footlights, hardware, spotlights, floodlights, silhouettes, reflectors, direction signs, stage switches and panelboards.

President—R. E. K. Major Vice-President and General Sales Manager—P. J. Rabon

DISTRICT OFFICES

Atlanta, Ga., L. A. Crow, 44 Cone Street, Northeast, Baltimore, Md., Wolfe-Mann Mfg. Co., 220 South Hanover Street
Boston, Mass., J. J. Campion, 141 Cortland Street, Buffalo, N. Y., Ralph E. Jones, 1390 Hartel Avenue

New York, Fred Kress, 185 North 11th Street, New York, Fred Kress, 185 North 11th Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., photograph company, 213 South 12th Street.
Philadelphia, Pa., W. A. McAvoy, 244 North 16th Street.

Pittsburgh, Pa., B. Frank Perry, Inc., 233 Third Avenue.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Raymond Ackerman, 218 Dooby Block.

San Francisco, Calif., C. J. Holmstrum, 1108 Howard Street.

St. Louis, Mo., O. H. Rottmann, 3640 Bell Avenue.

the Ohio, O. E. Borden, 514 South Vine Street.

Toronto, Canada, Amalgamated Elec. Co., Ltd., 279 Bay Street.

Vancouver, Canada, Amalgamated Elec. Co., Ltd., Granville Island.

Montreal, Canada, Amalgamated Elec. Co., Ltd., 1006 Mountain Street.

EXPORT OFFICE

The Roy Chandler Co., Inc., 305 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

MANDEL BROTHERS

State and Madison Sts., Chicago, Ill.

Interior decorating, draperies, carpets and rugs, furniture, floor and table lamps, fabric stage sets, wall hangings, stone furniture, upholstered materials, rubber floor mats, murals and scenic decoration.

MARSH LABORATORIES, INC.

64 East Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Ill.

Recording of phonograph records for personal, commercial, broadcasting and all other purposes.

President and Treasurer—Orlando R. Marsh

Vice President—G. H. Trout

Secretary—M. Morley

MELLAPHONE CORPORATION

Keith Albee Building, Rochester, N. Y.

Manufacturers of sound equipment.

President—C. F. Pergen

BRANCHES

Pittsburgh, Pa., M. S. England, 1625 Forbes Street.

Tampa, Fla., W. C. Burgert, Amusement Supply Company, 305 North Twenty-Fifth Street.

New Orleans, La., Frank DeGrauwe, 1315 Tulane Avenue.

Salt Lake City, Utah, J. R. Cummings, 1333 Thornton Avenue.

Vancouver, B.C., United Pacific Company, Ltd., 847 Davie Street.

METALLIC SIGNS

385 Slauson Avenue, Newark, N. J.

Lobby displays and all kinds of signs for theatres, exhibits and advertising purposes.

MIDGET GOLF COURSES, INC.

330 S. Wells Street, Chicago, Ill.

Builders of indoor and outdoor golf courses.

MILCO STEEL COMPANY

36th Avenue and Burnham Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

Manufacturer of sheet metal building products, metal lash, metal collage.

President—L. S. Bell

Secretary and Treasurer—A. J. Lucola

Vice-President and General Sales Manager—J. H. Christian

PLANTS

Milwaukee, Wis.

Canton, O.

Kansas City, Mo.

La Crescent, Wis.

MILES REPRODUCER COMPANY

15 W. 17th Street, New York, N. Y.

Manufacturer of microphones, dynamic units, exponential horns, complete sound systems.

BRANCHES

In all principal cities in U. S. A. and foreign countries.

Long Island, N. Y.

FACTORIES

Newark, N. J.

MILLS NOVELTY COMPANY

4110 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Manufacturer of advertising novelties and automatic musical devices.

President—Fred L. Mills

Vice-President—Ralph J. Mills

Treasurer—Herbert S. Mills

Advertising Manager—Harry E. Seiter

MICHEL E电灯SING COMPANY

614-18 Cherry Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

Manufacturer of sheet metal building products, metal lash, metal collage.

President and Treasurer—L. S. Bell

Secretary and Assistant Treasurer—A. J. Lucola

Vice President and General Sales Manager—J. H. Christian

MILWAUKEE CARRUGATING COMPANY

36th Avenue and Burnham Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

Manufacturer of sheet metal building products, metal lash, metal collage.

President and Treasurer—L. S. Bell

Secretary and Assistant Treasurer—A. J. Lucola

Vice President and General Sales Manager—J. H. Christian

BRANCHES

LaCrosse, Wis.

Kansas City, Mo.

MILWAUKEE ENGINEERING & MANUFACTURING COMPANY

107 E. Seebath Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

Manufacturer of sheet metal building products, metal lash, metal collage.

President—W. W. Pfister

DISTRICT REPRESENTATIVES

Chicago, G. D. Kahweiler, 205 West Wacker Drive.

Cleveland, Wells Electrical Insulation Co., 2054 East Fourth Street.

St. Louis, L. R. Mann, 441 Forest Avenue.

New York, American Licorice Co., 415 Greenwich Street.

Cambridge, C. J. Murphy, 66 Broadway.

Baltimore, T. G. Tripper Co., Dollar Savings & Trust Building.

MINUSA CINE' SCREEN COMPANY

2065 Morgan Street, St. Louis, Mo.

Manufacturer of sound screens.

President—A. E. Feasler

THE MISSOURI FIRE DOOR & CORNICE COMPANY

714 Easton Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

Manufacturer and distributors of standard fire doors, shutters for booths and fusible links.

President—J. C. Faust

THE MOHAWK CARPET MILLS

295 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Manufacturer of rugs and carpets.

President—Arthur W. Shuttleworth

Vice-President and Treasurer—Howard L. Shuttleworth

Secretary and Controller—S. M. Brown

Silk Sales Manager—George Lambie

BRANCHES

Boston, Mass., 52 Chancery Street.

Chicago, Ill., 14 East Jackson Blvd.

Philadelphia, 736 Edgerly Building.

San Francisco, Cal., 180 Montgomery St.

MOHM FIXTURE COMPANY

1445 Thordarson Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Manufacturer of general theatre equipment.

OFFICERS

N. Bernstein

I. M. Cohen

MORELITE COMPANY, INC.

500 West 57th Street, New York City.

Manufacturer of Morelite deluxe reflector arc lamps, super-morelite reflector arc lamps, improved super-morelite reflector arc lamps, morelite reflectors, ac-cency for resident of theatre and part of the audience.

President—Ralph Tyroler

Vice-President and Secretary—Sidney Nickelsburg

THE MORROW CO., INC.

400 West Madison Street, Chicago, Ill.

Manufacturer of vacuum cleaner of electric portable type, and attachments for the machine.

President—R. H. Morrow, Sr.

Vice-President-Treasurer—R. H. Morrow, Jr.

Secretary—M. B. Morrow

FACTORY

624 Grand Avenue, Waukegan, Ill.

ROBERT MORTON ORGAN COMPANY

Van Nuys, California.

Manufacturer of pipe organs.

President—Louis E. Goodman

Vice-President—R. E. Wallace

Vice-President and General Manager—R. P. Matthews

Secretary and Treasurer—E. M. Smith

BRANCHES

New York, N. Y., 1569 Broadway.

Chicago, Ill., 624 North LaSalle Avenue.

Los Angeles, Calif., 1914 S. Vermont Avenue.

FACTORY

6081 Van Nuys Boulevard, Van Nuys, Calif.

M. E. MOSS PUBLISHING COMPANY

Hartford, Conn.

Manufacturers and printers of advertising novelties.

M. E. Moss

MOVIE SUPPLY COMPANY

844 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Manufacturers of special products.

NATIONAL CARBON COMPANY

(Carbon Sales Division)

(C. O. Box 168, Cleveland, Ohio)

Manufacturer of carbons for motion picture projectors, spotlights and effect lights; brushes, carbon, graphite, and metal-graphite for electric motors, generators and converters.

Manager—R. A. Willford

Assistant to Manager—K. R. Geib

Brush Department Manager—N. F. Bowman

Advertising Manager—A. Borgatti

BRANCHES

New York, N. Y., 306 Fourteenth Avenue.

Chicago, III., 220 North Michigan Avenue.

Pittsburgh, Pa., 411 Clark Building.

Birmingham, Ala., 1524 Ninth Avenue, North.

San Francisco, Cal., 599 Eighth Street.

FACTORIES

Cleveland, O.

Fostoria, O.

NATIONAL ELECTRIC TICKET REGISTER COMPANY

1806 E. Kenyon Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

Manufacturer of ticket registers.

President—W. L. Sullivan

Secretary-Treasurer—W. L. Poole

BRANCHES

National Theatre Supply Company (all offices).

Midwest Ticket & Supply Company, 918 S. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Simplex Ticket Company, 3120 West Grand Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

World Ticket & Supply Company, 1060 Broadway, New York City.

NATIONAL LAMP WORKS OF GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY

Nela Park, Cleveland, O.

Manufacturer of incandescent lamps.

General Sales Manager—J. E. Keeler

Assistant General Sales Manager—N. H. Boynton

Assistant General Sales Manager—W. G. Mcllwirteck

BRANCHES

Cleveland

Pittsburgh

Detroit

Oakland, Cal.

Minneapolis

Cincinnati

Philadelphia

Atlantic City

NATIONAL MOTION-AD COMPANY

2445-50 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Manufacturer of sound equipment.

President—Ralph G. Phillips

NATIONAL PROGRAM & PRINTING COMPANY

729 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

320 W. 46th Street, New York City

Producers of theatre promotional literature, programs and general theatre printing.
NATIONAL RUG MILLS, INC.
1621 Cliburn Street, Milwaukee, Wis.
Manufacturers of fine furnish and cushioning, acoustic felt, and miniature golf courses.

NATIONAL SCREEN SERVICE CORP.
126-130 W. 46th Street, New York City
Producers of Talking Trailers, Sound Trailers and Silent Trailers. Also special animated, pictorial trailers (client or service), advertising films, advertising trailers, animated presentation leaders, film titles, trailer industrials, film music trailers, organ novelty, film overture, decorative flick reel trailers, and non-synchronous reproducers.

Toby Green General Sales Manager. 310 W. 48th St.

BRANCHES AND STUDIOS
Distribution point locations and special service departments.
New York, 126-130 W. 46th St.
Chicago, 810 Wabash Ave.
Los Angeles, Cal., 320 S. Vermont Ave.

SALES OFFICES
Oklahoma City, Okla., Wallace Walkall, 726 W. Grand Ave.
Kennebec, Me., J. E. Dodson, 184 and 186 State St.
Philadelphia, Pa., Herman Recher, 253 Vine St.
Cleveland, O., Arthur Ehrlich, 713 Film Building.
Detroit, Mich., Frank Schley, 46 Sibley St.
Buffalo, N. Y., Louis Schwartz, 565 Pearl St.
Savannah, Ga., W. B. Seabrook, 289 Tift St.
Minneapolis, Minn., C. C. Coven, 523 Girard Ave.
St. Louis, Mo., L. R. Zehrer, 30 Gilmore Bldg.
Philadelphia, Pa., Jack Judell, 236 Sherrubk St.
Los Angeles, Cal., W. E. McManus, 2912 Wilshire Bldg.
Indianapolis, Ind., W. Freudenberger, 947 N. Pennsylvania.
Milwaukee, Wis., Al Perretz, 728 N. State St.
Dallas, Texas, Roger Miller, 512-524 S. Harvard St.
Boston, Mass., Miss G. C. Church.
Atlanta, Ga., J. E. Kitchen, 183 Walton St.
Albany, N. Y., W. Webster, 1146 Broadway.

NATIONAL STEEL FABRIC COMPANY
92 Union Trust Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Manufacturer of wire fasteners for use in wire, paper, wire cutter, plastic wire, wire reinforcement for floor, concrete rebar, wire mesh.

BRANCHES
Atlanta, Ga., W. W. Scott.
Chicago, Ill., 1118 Forest Street.
Cincinnati, Ohio, 85 N. Terminal Ave.
Detroit, Mich., 73-75 Willard St.
Los Angeles, Cal., 1338 Wholesale Street.
New York, N. Y., 90 White Street.
Philadelphia, Pa., Franklin Trust Building.
St. Louis, Mo., 50 Exchange Building.
San Antonio, Tex., Builders Exchange Building.
Syracuse, N. Y., Golden Building.
San Francisco, Cal., 321 Bryant Street.

NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY
92-96 Gold Street, New York City

DISTRICT OFFICES
Chicago, 624 S. Michigan Ave., C. A. Denney.
New York City, 727 Seventeenth Ave., H. Stanley McLean.

BRANCH OFFICES
Atlanta, Ga., 190 Walton St.
Los Angeles, Cal., 180 Beverly Blvd.
New York, N. Y., 222 S. Liberty St., J. G. Brown.
Philadelphia, 811 S. Liberty St., C. F. Anderson.
Los Angeles, Cal., 161 S. Vermont Ave., A. Hanson.
Portland, Ore., 460 Glisan St., O. H. Dutten.
Salt Lake City, Utah, 320 South 7th St., J. B. Hessen.
San Francisco, Cal., 121 Golden Gate Ave., J. G. Riley.
Seattle, Wash., 1st and Battery Sts., F. B. Carter.

NATIONAL TICKET COMPANY
Pearl & Webster Streets, Shamokin, Pa.
Manufacturer of rolls of every description—roll, folded, flat, strip, book, reserved seat, etc.
Treasurer, W. C. N. Luces Secretary, W. A. Conway.

BRANCHES
Chicago, Ill., W. P. Graham, Vice President.

CLAUDE LEON NEON LIGHTS, INC.
40 E. 32nd Street, New York City
Manufacturer of commercial display signs, interior and exterior decorative lighting, building and marquees lighting and aviation beacons.

BRANCHES
Alpha-Claude Neon Corporation, Pittsburgh.
Better-Claude Neon Corporation, Cleveland.
C. I. Brink, South Boston, Mass.
Claude Neon Displays, Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.
Claude Neon Corporation, St. Louis, Mo.
Claude Neon Federal Company, Wichita.
Claude Neon Corporation, Oklahoma City and Tulsa.
Claude Neon Federal Company, Shreveport, La.
Claude Neon, Inc., Des Moines, Iowa.
Claude Neon Lights of Maryland, Inc., Baltimore.
Claude Neon, Inc., Clude Neon-Leaman, Inc., Jamestown, N. Y.
Claude Neon Southern Corporation, Miami, Florida.
Claude Neon Southern Corporation, Atlanta, Ga.
Claude Neon, Inc., Birmingham, Ala.
Claude Neon Southern Corporation, Charlotte, N. C.
Claude Neon Virginia Corporation, Richmond, Va.

BRANCHES
Los Angeles, Calif.
Detroit, Mich.
Chicago, Ill.
Pittsburgh, Pa.

PRACENT REPRODUCER CORPORATION
609 Ninth Avenue, New York City
Manufacturer of reproducing systems.
President, L. G. Pracent General Sales Manager, J. B. Stedman Foreign Sales Manager, J. B. Emsline.

BRANCHES
Chicago, Ill.
Detroit, Mich.
Cleveland, Ohio.
Boston, Mass.
Atlanta, Ga.
Charlotte, N. C.
Memphis, Tenn.
Waco, Texas.
Oakland, Cal.
San Francisco, Cal.
Seattle, Wash.
Utica, N. Y.
Cincinnati, Ohio.

THE PAGE ORGAN COMPANY
Lima, O.
Manufacturers of pipe organs.
President, E. A. Williams.

THE PAINE COMPANY
2919-51 Carroll Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Manufacturer of expansion shells, toggle bolts, countersunk washers and inn head bolts.
President-Treasurer, E. C. Hall Vice-President, J. E. Niecen Secretary, A. L. McWilliams Assistant Treasurer, P. M. Bolger.

BRANCHES
New York, N. Y., 760 Broadway.
Dallas, Texas, 801 Main St.
Louis, Mo., 90 Washington Ave., J. P. King.
Seattle, Wash., 1916 First Avenue, South.
San Francisco, Calif., 711 Minna St.

FACTORY
2929-31 Carroll Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

PATENT SCAFFOLDING COMPANY
1530 Dayton Street, Chicago, Ill.
Manufacturer of safety ladders and scaffolding.

BRANCHES
Chicago, 1510 Dayton Street.
Baltimore, 49 Ellery Street.
Los Angeles, Calif., 576-578 8th Street.
Philadelphia, 2845 Bridge Street.
New York, 2121 16th Street.

THE NORTHEASTERN TERRA COTTA COMPANY
2525 Cliburn Avenue, Chicago, III.
Manufacturer of architectural terra cotta for trimming or facing of buildings.

BRANCHES
Chicago, St. Louis Denver
Better Theatres Section

October 25, 1930

BRANCHES

New York, N. Y., Paymaster, Samuel H. Hussey.
Chicago, Ill., 588 S. Dearborn St., Room 408.
Harford, Conn., W. B. Russell, 66 Summer Street.
Houston, Texas, 738 S. Indianola Ave., 244 Central Building.
Vancouver, B. C., Canada, Harry Nobbs, 702 North West Building.

SEMIN BACHE & COMPANY

636 Greenwich Street, New York City
Manufacturer of lenses, mirrors and colored glass.
President:...[illegible]...J. Dreyfuss. Vice-President:...I. Sobel.

SENTRY SAFETY CORP. OF CORP.

N. W. Cor. 13th & Church Streets
Manufacturer of complete receivers, amplifiers and radio parts.
President:...McMurdo Silver. General Sales Manager:...Howard Sams.
Chief Engineer:...K. Clough.

SILVER-MARSHALL, INC.

6301 W. 65th Street, Chicago, Ill.
Manufacturers of sound reproducing machines.
President:...J. A. Des Rosiers.

W. & J. SLOANE

577 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.
Manufacturer of full lines of receivers, amplifiers and radio parts.
President:...W. S. Fesler. Treasurer and General Manager:...H. B. Eyre.

ROXURY CARPET COMPANY

Central Street, Saxonville, Mass.
Manufacturers and distributors of carpets and rugs.
President:...J. P. Brown. Vice-President:...A. P. Brown.

S. O. S. CORPORATION

1600 Broadway, New York City
Manufacturer of wool uniforms as well as wash ones.
President:...Harold J. D'Antona.

SAMSON ELECTRIC COMPANY

Canton, Mass.
Manufacturers of amplifiers and faders.
Branches in all principal cities.

SARASON SCREEN COMPANY

80 Boylton Street, Boston, Mass.
Manufacturers of motion picture screens.
President:...Chester A. Hanson.

SCHOOLMILL EQUIPMENT COMPANY

611-27 W. 43rd Street, New York, N. Y.
Manufacturers of Raybune Flamouscope Sound Screens.

SELECT-O-PHONE COMPANY

1012 Eddy Street, Providence, R. I.
Manufacturer of Select-O-Phone automatic interior telephone.
President:...George Briggs. Treasurer:...S. E. Lunnins.

TECHNICOLOUR MOTION PICTURE CORPORATION

1290 Boulevard, Boston, Mass.
Manufacturer of colored film and color cameras.
Chairman of the Board:...William Travers Jerome.

BRANCHES

Los Angeles, 823 Seward Street.
Seattle, 223 Park Avenue (Advertising and Publicity Department).

THE THEATRE SOUND EQUIPMENT COMPANY

Hope, Arkansas
Dealers in accessories for sound equipment.
President:...Harold T. King.

TIFFIN SCIENTIFIC STUDIO

Tiffin, O.
Manufacturer of stage scenic and stage draperies, stage rigging, curtain controls, and auditorium draperies.
Business Manager:...P. E. O'Connell.

TIME-O-STAT CONTROLS COMPANY

Elkhart, Ind.
Manufacturer of organ heaters and electric sign flashers.

TRAVEL Rubber COMPANY

E. 7th Street, Ashland, O.
Manufacturer of Toyo promotion balloons for publicity and advertising.
President:...H. D. Wiibler. Vice-President and Sales Manager:...G. C. Spies.
Secretary-Treasurer:...R. T. Scantlebury.

TONE-O-GRAPH, INC.

729 Seventh Avenue, New York City
Manufacturers of talking picture equipment for theatre and home, home recording equipment, 16MM films and records.
President:...L. B. Harrell. Secretary-Manager:...R. W. Desenati.

TRICO FUSE MANUFACTURING COMPANY

Tenth and McKinnley Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis.
Manufacturer of Trico renewable fuses, Kanaski renewable fuses, Trico C locomotive plug fuses, Trico fuse pullers.
General Manager:...O. L. Jung. Sales Manager:...J. M. Epling.

TYPHOO FAN COMPANY

315 W. 33rd Street, New York City
Manufacturer of ventilating equipment.
President:...James F. Bailey. Treasurer:...Jacob Schonfeld.
Advertising Manager:...Gene G. Gendel.

ULTRATONE MANUFACTURING COMPANY

1018 W. Van Buren Street, Chicago, Ill.
Manufacturer of sound devices.
President:...A. Diltskop.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., James C. Pope, Jr., 201 Boston Street.
DURACO, Colo., C. M. McIntosh Company, 1554 Calhoun Avenue.
DALLAS, Tex., P. P. Case, P. O. Box 410.
NEW YORK, N. Y., Brown Johnson & Co., Inc., 85 Chambers Street.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., F. C. Somers, 214 39th Street.
SEATTLE, Wash., Northwest Radio Laboratory, 7314 Washington Street.
Cleveland, Ohio, Sterling Sales Corporation, 22nd and Prospect Avenue.
MILWAUKEE, Wis., Walter E. Bran, 123 Wisconsin Avenue.
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Lyons Radio Corporation, 120 North Eighth Street.
ST. LOUIS, Mo., Gardner Radio Corporation, 2728 Locust Street.
SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., N. P. Andrus, 426 Larkin Street.
CHICAGO, Ill., Earl L. Bahn, 1130 Franklin Street, Pittsburgh, Pa., F. C. Bittner, 440 Penn Avenue.
Exhibitors Herald-World

115

WEBSTER ELECTRIC COMPANY
Racine, Wis.
Manuacturers of electric phonograph pick-up and power amplifiers.
President... P. A. Loeb
Vice President... A. C. Kelder
Secretary... P. G. Crewe

WELDON, WILLIAMS & LICK
Fort Smith, Ark.
Manufacturer of amusement tickets of all kinds.
President... W. T. Henning
Vice-President... W. Jackson
General Sales Manager... C. A. Lick, Jr.

WEST COAST PERFUME COMPANY, LTD.
Manufacturer of prefds (solid perfumes).
Sales Director... John Conrad

WESTERN ELECTRIC COMPANY
195 Broadway, New York City
President... Edgar S. Bloom
Vice President... C. G. Stil
President... W. F. Hasford
Vice President... W. H. Teague
Vice President... J. A. Keating
Vice President... W. P. Slidy
Vice President... G. P. Allen
Vice President... H. N. Halligan
Vice President... C. G. Rice
Vice President... S. H. Holme
Vice President... W. H. Meese
Manager... H. Gregory
Manager... F. L. Gillman
Secretary... Charles DeNitto
Director: Public Relations... P. L. Thomson
Personnel Director... D. F. P. Biss

PLANTS
Havirnabe, Chicago
Philadelpia
Kansas City, Mo.

WESTERN FELT WORKS
1085-1123 Ogden Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Manuacturers of Acoustical Westfelt.
President... Henry Faurst
Vice-President... Geo. M. Silverthorne
Secretary... Henry Hoopes
Manager... J. A. Heiser

BRANCHES
Chicago, Ill., 409 Ogden Building.
New York, N. Y., 43-44 E. 35th Street.
Detroit, Mich., 916 Fisher Building.
Cleveland, O., 105 Prospect Avenue, Room 611.
St. Louis, Mo., 464 Paul Brown Building.
San Francisco, Calif., 1223 Howard St.
Boston, Mass., Chamber of Commerce Building, 80
Federal Street.
Los Angeles, Calif., 1061 E. First St.
Seattle, Wash., 1110 Post St.

WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC & MFG. CO.
East Pittsburgh, Pa.
Manufacturer of theatre switchboards, panelboards, power switchboards, safety switches, carbon breakers, all metal bakelite, motor-generator controls, projection equipment, motor-generators and control motors for pumps, ventilating, fans and blowers.
President... A. A. Smith
Vice-President & General Sales Manager... W. S. Rugg
General Advertising Manager... G. C. Mulosin

BRANCHES
Chicago, Ill., 409 Ogden Building.
New York, N. Y., 43-44 E. 35th Street.
Detroit, Mich., 916 Fisher Building.
Cleveland, O., 105 Prospect Avenue, Room 611.
St. Louis, Mo., 464 Paul Brown Building.
San Francisco, Calif., 1223 Howard St.
Boston, Mass., Chamber of Commerce Building, 80
Federal Street.
Los Angeles, Calif., 1061 E. First St.
Seattle, Wash., 1110 Post St.

WESTINGHOUSE LAMP COMPANY
150 Broadway, New York City
Manufacturers of Mazda Incandescent electric lamps of all sizes.
President... Walter Cary
Vice-President... E. Allen
Treasurer... T. J. Bling

FACTORIES
Bloomfield, N. J.
Trenton, N. J.
Belleville, N. J.
Milwaukee, Wis.

WESTON ELECTRICAL INSTRUMENT CORPORATION
Waverly Park, Newark, N. J.
Manufacturer of speed indicators, voltmeters, ammeters, wattmeters, vacuum tube testers, phase angle meters, electrical testing instruments.

BRANCHES
Atlanta, E. A. Thornberg, Citadel Bldg.
Binghamton, K. A. Thornberg, 810 Brown-Marx Bldg.
Boston, James O. Murray, 126 Newbury Street.

Exhibitors: H. M. Black
Sales Manager... A. A. Berard
Agents in principal cities of the world.

WEBER MACHINE CORPORATION
59th Street, Rochester, N. Y.
Manufacturers of SYNCHRODEX Turntables and Sound on Film.

BRANCHES
New York City, Rocke Intercontinental Company.

FACTORY
Bloomfield, N. J.

WESTON ELECTRICAL INSTRUMENT CORPORATION
Waverly Park, Newark, N. J.
Manufacturer of speed indicators, voltmeters, ammeters, wattmeters, vacuum tube testers, phase angle meters, electrical testing instruments.
Better Theatres Section

WILLARD STORAGE BATTERY COMPANY
246- E. 151st Street, Cleveland, Ohio
Manufacturer of storage batteries
President and General Manager—R. C. Norberg
Vice-President and General Manager’s Assist-ant—W. W. Rolph
Vice-President in charge of sales—J. N. Nightingale
Secretary and Comptroller—C. H. Gibney

BRANCHES
Willard Storage Battery Co. of California, Box 1558, Arcade Station, 2190 E. Ninth St., Los Angeles, Cal.
Atlantic, Ga., 1302 Citizens & Southern Bank Building, Chicago, Ill., 1403 The Bankers Building, 105 W. Adams St.
Cleveland, O., 1920 Scranton Rd.
Dallas, Texas, 1900 Dallas National Bank Building.
Kansas City, Mo., 501-301 Midland Building.
New York City, 521 Fifth Ave.
Toronto, Ont., Willard Storage Battery Co. of Can-ada, Ltd., 269 Campbell St.

WISCONSIN CHAIR COMPANY
Port Washington, Wis.
Manufacturer of theatre chairs.
C. L. Severson

WITTENMEIER MACHINERY COMPANY
880 N. Spaulding Avenue, Chicago
Manufacturer of air cooling systems, and CO, refrigerating machinery.
President—Stephen Sholtes
Vice President—E. F. Bergmann
Secretary—A. F. Hunt

BRANCHES
New York City, 30 Church St.
New Orleans, La., H. J. Kelly, Southern representa-tive, Louisiana Building.

REPRESENTATIVES
St. Louis, Mo., 2300 Morgan street, Sodomast Heat & Power Co., Los Angeles, Calif., 3631 Avalon Boulevard, Stewart Joe Machinery Co.

WOOD CONVERSION COMPANY
300 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
D. W. Hinte

BRANCHES
New York City, 2107 Chalmir Building, Detroit, 318 Stevenson Building.
Kansas City, 201 Plaza Theatre Building.
Seattle, 621 Liggett Building.
Minneapolis, 414 Baker Building.

THE WOOTEN-EDGE COMPANY
7530 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich.
Manufacturer of theatre furniture.
President—W. W. Gedge
Vice-President—K. A. Wooten

DISTRIBUTORS
The Superior Seating Co., 105 W. 40th Street, New York City.
Barker Bros., Ltd., Los Angeles, Cal.

FACTORY
Union City, Ind.

M. J. WHITALL ASSOCIATES, LTD.
295 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.
Manufacturer of plain and figured Wilton rugs and carpet seams and seamers, Chemnitz and Broad looms.

BRANCHES
Chicago, Ill., M. J. Whitall Assoc., 14 East Jackson Boulevard.
Davenport, Ia., C. W. Wheat, Santa Fe Bldg.
Los Angeles, Cal., N. L. Walter, 719 South Los Angeles Ave.
San Francisco, Cal., N. L. Walter, 833 Market Street.

WICKS PIPE ORGAN COMPANY
Highland, Ill.
Manufacturer of pipe organs.
President—John F. Wick
Vice-President—Eugene Buchheim
Secretary-Treasurer—Louis J. Wick

BRANCHES
St. Louis, Mo., Wicks Pipe Organ Company, 3690 Lindell Boulevard.
Imagining, Ind., Wicks Pipe Organ Company, 460 Newes College of Fine Art.
Kansas City, Mo., J. W. Jenkins Music Company.
San Francisco, Cal., Sherman Clay & Company.
Montrose, Cal., W. J. Mullany.
Portage Street.
Honolulu, Hawaii, Ware & McCreary.
Houston, Texas, 2609 Palm Street.

H. B. WIGGINS’S SONS CO.
1880 S. Halsted Street, Chicago, III.
Manufacturer of fabricika cloth wall coverings.
President—R. R. Wiggins
Vice-President—J. D. Wiggins
Sales Manager—J. A. Tucker
Manager Chicago Branch—Wm. Freeman

BRANCH
Blumfield, N. J.

Works presented in the Far East in the Interest of Industrial Engineering, which today is making motion pictures into its family of modern methods. These Japanese engineers are shown at the entrance to the Bell & Howell plant in Chicago, where they worked with technicians on the use of motion pictures in industrial efficiency. Allan H. Morgenstern, assistant editor of Factory and Industrial Management, is shown holding a filmo 16-d motion picture camera. At the extreme right is O. N. Wilton, sales manager of the Bell & Howell foreign division.

BUFFALO, SCHLEIFER ELECTRIC CO., ING. 755 Ellsott Square.
Chicago, Westinghouse Engineering Co., 703 Monadnock Block.
Cincinnati, Bevel Equipment Co., 1300 Union Trust Bldg.
Dallas, Paul G. Bentley Co., 1018 Allen Bldg.
Denver, B. H. Sweeney, 19th Avenue and Broadway.
Detroit, T. F. Mueller, General Motors Bldg.
Los Angeles, A. A. Barbera, 503 Delta Bldg.
Minneapolis, Elliot Equipment Co., 700 6th Avenue South.
New Orleans, W. J. Keller, 320 Natchez Street.
New York, L. C. Nichols, 50 Church Street.
Pittsburgh, Rutherford & Uptegraft, 1414 Clark Bldg.
Rochester, Schleifer Electric Co., Inc., 89 East Avenue.
San Francisco, J. H. Southard, 84 Mission Street.
Spokane, Graybar Electric Co., Inc., 182 South Post Street.
St. Louis, J. W. Jones, 425 Pennant Bldg.
Syracuse, Schleifer Electric Co., Inc., 614 City Bank Bldg.
Tampa, Graybar Electric Co., Inc., 1115 A Street.

October 25, 1930

WORKSTEL STUDIOS
151 W. 16th Street, New York, N. Y.
Manufacturer of silent slides.
Maurice Workstel

WRIGHT-DECOSTER, INC.
2233 University Avenue, St. Paul, Minn.
Manufacturer of automatic reproducing machinery.
President—D. H. Wright
Secretary-Treasurer—W. D. Coester

DISTRICT SALES OFFICES
Detroit, Mich., B. J. Frinner, 159 E. Elizabeth.
Kansas City, Mo., C. M. Clifton, 252 Railway Exchange Bldg.
Lakewood, O., Chas. F. Sager, 1254 Hall Ave.
Los Angeles, Cal., 2736 S. Hill St.
Miami, Fl., John C. Gillett, 15 Northwest Ave.
New York, N. Y., Ben J. Pitof, 545 Fifth Ave.
Philadelphia, Pa., L. F. Clark, 1207 Race St.
Pittsburgh, Pa., H. C. Sanderson, 260 Patton Bldg.
Salt Lake City, Utah, J. G. McCollom, 221 Southwest Temple St.
San Francisco, Cal., E. J. Watkins, 90 Ninth St.
St. Louis, Mo., S. N. Locust St.
Syracuse, N. Y., J. J. Ambrose, 1925 W. Govlin St.
Washington, D. C., 333 Eleventh St.
Montreal, Quebec, Canada, W. T. Croydell Sales Co., 619 St. James St.
Toronto, Ont., C. J. Douglas, 109 Pembroke St.
Winnipeg, Man., Can., Sprung Sales Co., 270 Port St.

THE RUDOLPH WURLITZER COMPANY
121 East Fourth Street, Cincinnati, O.
Manufacturer of musical instruments.
President—Rudolph H. Wurlitzer
Vice-President and Treasurer—Harry R. Wurlitzer
Secretary—Thomas P. Clancy

YORK SAFE AND LOCK COMPANY
York, Pa.
Manufacturer of safe, burglary chests and vault doors.
President and General Manager—S. Perry Laucks

BRANCHES
New York City, 55 Maiden Lane.
Baltimore, Md., 7 West Redwood Street.
Boston, Mass., 94 South Street.
Chicago, 217 West Monroe Street.
Philadelphia, Pa., 111 South Street.
Seattle, Wash., 112 Third Avenue, South.
St. Louis, Mo., 416 North Fourth Street.
Cleveland, O., 105 Cleveland Avenue.
San Francisco, Cal., 209-218 Howard Street.
Pittsburgh, Pa., 338 Washington Building.
New Haven, Conn., 273 State Street.
Huntington, Tex., 1120 Main Street.
Los Angeles, Cal., 914 Towne Avenue.
Montreal, Que., 320 St. James West.
Havana, Cuba, Buenos Aires, Argentina.
Honolulu, Hawaii, Japan.
Paris, France.

FACTORIES
York, Pa.
Baltimore, Md.

ZERO VALVE & BRASS CORPORATION
634 Fourth Street, Buffalo, N. Y.
Manufacturers of brass railing and ornamental bronze work.
Projection at the Pantages

My trip this summer having taken me to the shores of the Pacific, I could not very well fail to look in on Hollywood. And I took advantage of the opportunity thus offered to examine the projection facilities of the film capital's latest theatre, the Pantages. Let us visit this magnificent house together.

Here we are in the projection room, which, incidentally, has over its door a good big sign reading exactly that—"Projection Room." I have, as you all know, seen a great many projection rooms. I have seen some which, I think, are perhaps just about as good, but certainly I have seen none better than the one I am now in.

To begin with the length of the room is between 50 and 60 feet. The ceiling is about 11 feet high, and the depth, front to back is, perhaps 14 or 15 feet. The walls are painted a light gray and so is the ceiling. That's the only criticism I have of the entire plant. It would be more effective projectionally if the front wall were of a darker color. The effect of a darker color would be to make the screen more visible. This would be particularly true in this room, because the ports are all covered with high grade optical glass. (However, I am advised that the present color will be changed.) The floor is covered with an inlaid linoleum, dark red in color and of a sort of tile effect in design. The appearance of the room is indeed very pleasing.

At the right end of the room—right-hand as we face the screen—is the projection room control board, which is fully enclosed and is dull black in color. This board stands out about eight feet from the end of the room. Back of it is another room, closed by a door, from which we have access to the rear of this control board. The rear of the board also is entirely enclosed by metallic doors.

In this small rear room is another switchboard. On the face of this board are five banks of switches. The top bank has ten switches, five of which control flood No. 1, and five control flood No. 2. Each switch is connected with a rheostat at the back, which possesses ten amperes of current. Hence, with all ten switches, 100 amperes of current would be available to each flood. The second bank of switches is ten in number and these control, similarly, spot No. 1 and spot No. 2. The third bank of switches, ten in number, operates similarly on Brenographs No. 1 and No. 2. The third bank of switches is much heavier. There are ten switches, five for projector No. 1, and five for projector No. 2. The five switches at the left hand in the lower bank control the current to projector No. 3, and the five on the right control a high intensity flood lamp. By closing the additional switches the current may be mounted up to a maximum of 50 amperes for each and every piece of apparatus in the room.

But that isn't all of it. There is a lot more, because before you start to cut in current with these switches on, for example, floods No. 1 or No. 2, spots No. 1 or No. 2, or Brenographs No. 1 and No. 2 there is already a 50-ampere current flow cut-in. Therefore, instead of cutting in 50 amperes with the switches, you start with 50 and cut in up to a maximum of 100 for each piece of apparatus. With the three projectors and the high intensity flood, you start, however, with 100 amperes, instead of 50, and thus, when all switches are closed, you have a total of 150 amperes. However, that's not quite all either, because when wide film comes and a 250-ampere maximum is required, it is possible to arrange the ballast resistance of this board so that it will supply the required current.

The rather remarkable thing about it is the fact that with this reel running, the heat produced is so slight that the room, being well ventilated, is quite cool and comfortable.

Going back to the rear of the main control board again, which is located in this same room, each lamp is controlled with a 300-ampere alternating current contact, with an additional 100-ampere shunt contactor, which has the effect of shunting 50 additional amperes to each lamp after it has been warmed up.

The projectors consist of three Super-Simplices equipped with the new Aircraft "600" super-high intensity lamps, a description of which I give later. All the motion picture projector lamphouses are connected by means of a six-inch ventilating pipe, which feeds directly into a 12x12-inch exhaust duct, which runs up to the roof. In addition to the three projectors, there is a Brenograph to the left, and to the right are two Brenkert spot lamps. To the right of the motion picture projectors there is an Aircraft high intensity flood using 120 amperes. To the right of this, facing the two windows, each about 20 inches square and covered with optical glass, are two Chicago Cinema PCE-CO spot lamps, equipped with five color effects each.

On the left wall of the room is a wash basin with hot and cold water and a drinking fountain. In the rear wall are the film storage cabinets built in flush with the face of the wall. There are twenty 2,000-foot wide film reel compartments, surrounded by 16 metallic drawers of goodly size.

I forgot to mention that on the control board at the right of the room is an ammeter, which registers the total amperage being consumed in the projection room. Just at this moment it is exactly 300 amperes with three spots going. To the right of the ammeter is a voltmeter, now registering 115 volts. There is also a stage ammeter to the right of these.

Communications to the editor of this department should be addressed (until further notice) as follows:

F. H. Richardson
Box 100
South Lyme, Conn.
At the left of all the projection equipment named is the non-sync apparatus. At the rear of the room is a large metallic case clock which even goes to the extent of having a large second hand. Oh, yes, immediately under the rewind table is a film storage cabinet for the 35-mm. film now used, having many compartments and three or four metallic drawers. On top of this is the end-of-reel rewinder, an excellent piece of equipment. It runs a little faster than it should but this is not enough to bring forth any serious criticism.

The Western Electric sound equipment is built into the rear wall, the rear side facing a small narrow room enclosed by a door, by which access may be had to its various connections. Instead of batteries, this plant uses motor generators, of which two are provided. The men express their opinion that these motor generator sets are better than the battery. They say that the results are equally as good as the set and gives careful and intelligent attention. One of these generators takes care of film and disc while the other is taking care of public address and broadcasting, about which latter I will tell you later.

The room is lighted by a very excellent lighting system. The fixtures are entirely opaque, so that all lighting is received by reflection. The ventilation is what might be called perfect. But should the room ever become in any degree, uncomfortably warm, the men can get all the air they want merely by opening the door of the air housing the main blower, which handles the entire theatre. By doing this they can bring a gale of air through the room that would cool off almost anything.

Then there is the public address system, which is handled by the projectionists of the theatre. The reasons for this being is, first, for an emergency set in case anything goes wrong with the initial sound system; and second, for public address in the theatre and for broadcasting over local broadcasting stations.

In order to accomplish this purpose, one 42-A amplifier panel is built into the wall of the projection room adjoining, and to the right of the regular sound panel, 1-S-43. Below the bridging amplifier is another 42-A amplifier, used for the purpose of connecting or "patching" the regular projection room sound panel to the public address system. When this public address system is used in connection with broadcasting, it must be done by means of an order wire, or telephone wire, to a licensed broadcasting station. Therefore, one 4-A amplifier is equipped with a broadcasting attenuator in order to measure and maintain the proper D-B's, which means, in effect, transmitting current.

In a small room adjoining the main projection room, public address or sound equipment is located consisting of two 207-A horn panels, one 203-B panel, one panel of six film control indicators, one measure film control indicator, 50 two-hole plug-in receptacles (telephone type), one panel of 16 microphone single-plug-in (female type) with six single-hole plug-in filter receptacles, two 41-A amplifiers, one 42-A amplifier and two 45-A amplifiers.

This system is called the most flexible that has ever been designed by the Bell Laboratory engineers. It is to be used for all purposes within the theatre, such as public address, emergency for regular sound system, etc. It is so arranged, with patching outlets, that any part of the regular sound system may be eliminated while repairs are being made, and without any wait or delay the public address system can be used in its stead. To show the flexibility, an entire rehearsal in the theatre can be carried on without anyone leaving their posts of duty.

And now to give you chaps a jolt! All of this equipment is under the charge of the projection room staff of the Panthages Hollywood theatre. These men are C. C. Harden, chief projectionist; Ray Melling, Lloyd Peterson, Ralph McDonald, and T. W. Toensing.

These men have full charge of, and must handle, this equipment. When equipment of this sort is established in one deluxe theatre, we have every right to believe that in the near future it will be adopted by every deluxe theatre. As a matter of fact, it has already been adopted by other ones. So you see what you chaps are facing. I have told you many times on this trip, and hundreds, if not thousands of times through the medium of type, that you had better get busy and study your profession and gain every possible bit of information. You are going to have to handle equipment of this kind. Mr. Harden is just now showing me the wiring diagram of this public address system. One glance at it and a man goes cold. It is wider than a public telephone exchange has. Projection of the future, gentlemen, is coming into its own and it begins to look as if the claim that a projectionist must be an engineer is going to become a fact. He will either have to be an engineer or gracefully retire from the projection room.

Now as to the Ashcraft "600" super-high intensity lamp:

I had the pleasure of visiting the Ashcraft Automatic Arc Company's plant in company with Business Agent T. H. Eckerson and Friend Daughter, I had not purposely set out for dissecting or examining the new Ashcraft "600" super-high intensity lamp, which is primarily designed for use with wide film. I was a wee bit astonished at the size of the apparatus.

The lamp house is 28 inches long, 23 inches wide and 24 inches high, and it has a six-inch vent pipe. It is so constructed that anything from a four-and-one-half-inch to an eight-inch diameter parabolic condenser can be used. The douser is, of course, in line with common practice, inside the lamp house between the lamp and collector lens. The apparatus is built to use 120 to 200 amperes. At the present time the maximum carbon diameter is 16 mm., but a new and larger diameter carbon is being developed.

The carbon contact is made of Monel metal, which is a nickel alloy with very high heat-resisting properties. The current contact is three inches long, which should prevent quick damage to the contacts, even when using the maximum current, 250 amperes.

The lamp itself is of massive construction. The wire contacts are one and five-eighths inches long, and it seems to me of excellent design. I might in fact say that, in line with everything that Ashcraft has made up to date, the apparatus is distinctly high grade.

STANDARD RELEASE PRINT MAKEUP

A decided step in advance (not only because it should prove to be a great help to projectionists) is the standardization of release prints just brought about by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts & Sciences.

We are given to understand that this is the result of efforts begun by studio and theatre interests over a year ago. The technical organizations behind the movement were the Technicians Branch of the Academy, the American Projection Society, the American Society of Cinematographers and the Society of Motion Picture Engineers. The committee appointed to work out the standard practice was as follows:

Sidney J. Twining, of Paramount Publix, chairman; N. H. Brower, formerly of the Los Angeles Film Board of Trade; A. J. Guerin of Consolidated Film Industries, Sidney Burton, president of the American Projection Society; Gerald F. Rackett, former manager of the Academy technical bureau; I. James Wilkinson, of Paramount Publix; and Donald Gledhill of the Academy technical bureau, who acted as secretary.

The Association of Motion Picture Producers cooperated, and the committee was made a sub-committee of the producers-technicians committee of the Academy, and representatives of the 17 major studios were appointed to collaborate with this committee.

The result of this movement was a standard set of specifications, adhered to by most of the studios, for the make-up of a release print, including leader, runout and cues, in order to attain accurate threading and correct change-over. These specifications are given in a chart formulated by the committee, which is shown in this department. In a booklet issued by the Academy, the following explanation of these standard practices is presented.

Use of Standard Prints in Projection

The standard release print was designed to make threading up, synchronizing, change-over and handling of prints easier for the projectionist. Take advantage of the new system as you would an improvement on your machine.

Spend a half hour in rehearsing change-over on the first standard print that comes into your theatre in order to determine the layout of your machines. As the leaders and cues on all standard prints will be just the same from then on, all changeovers will be just the same.

1. Every standard print you receive from the exchange will have the words printed or stamped on the red band.

2. Do not mark or mutilate any footage of leader ahead of the action or in the run-out. Remember that the reason the standard is a convenience to you is because it is measured exactly.

3. The protective leader and the protective trailer are never to be less than four feet, or more than six feet in length when sent out by the exchange.

4. Any special instructions by the producer of the picture will be found in the two feet of leader immediately following the part title and the two feet immediately following the end-of-part title.

5. How to Find Your "Actual Change-over Footage."

Fifteen or twenty minutes rehearsal per machine will be necessary when you receive your first picture made up on the standard release print. Once you know your speed you can change-over between any two standard prints from then on without any additional cries or rehearsal.

The "actual change-over footage" is the length of leader which must be left to run through the incoming machine in order to make a perfect change-over. In other words, it represents the leader that will run through the incoming machine in eight seconds. (Eight seconds is required to complete the changeover, as the start motor cue is 12 feet from the end of the outgoing reel.)

The easiest way to determine your "actual change-over footage" is to rehearse by placing the footage frame numbered 11 in the aperture of the incoming machine. Then change-over according to the cues, starting the motor of your incoming machine the instant you first see the start motor cue and throwing the douser switch the instant you see the change-over cue. If there is a lapse between the two reels showing on the screen, try it again by placing the footage frame No. 10 in the aperture of the incoming machine. Continue this process with the same machine, trying footage frame Nos. 9, 8, 7, and so on, until you have found the foot and the frame in the foot which when threaded up at the aperture will give you the exact change-over. This frame then marks your exact change-over footage for that machine. As all standard prints will be of exactly the same leader footage, you will be able to run down to the footage frame number you have found to be necessary for a perfect change-over and this same frame number will always be in your picture aperture when starting the incoming machine. Repeat the timing process for the other machine or machines as there is often appreciable varibation between the pickup speed of two machines in the same projection room.

6. Threading for Movietone

In threading up for disc, set the needle on the disc at the synchronizing mark and thread the start mark frame into the picture aperture of the projection machine. Then turn down the machine until the proper footage numeral appears in the picture aperture.
In this manner, changing over from the signals on the outgoing reel will not be successful.

When running down the machine to the proper footage number note the revolutions of the turn table. This will simplify the process of threading.

7. Threading for Movietone

Once you have determined the actual change-over footage which must be left to run through the incoming machine, it is simple to thread up each standard leader so that the same footage frame number will be at the aperture ready for the start.

If you wish to test the length of your loops to insure synchronism thread up so that the start frame or any numbered footage frame is the aperture. A diamond mark will show at the sound gate as the diamonds are placed twenty frames ahead of the start frame and change-over cue. Then turn down to have the exact frame in the aperture for the change-over footage.

8. Change-over

When you see the motor cue start the incoming machine. When you see the change-over cue throw the douser switch.

The Motor cue is a circular opaque mark with transparent outline printed in the upper right hand corner of four consecutive frames. The first of these frames is exactly twelve feet from the end of the picture. This distance, like the length of the synchronizing leader, was designed to accommodate the variety of nichespeeds among machines in use.

The change-over cue is a mark like the motor-cue on four consecutive frames, the first of which is one foot from the end of the picture. In placing the change-over cue in this position it was assumed that the average time lapse occurring when an alert operator sees the cue on the screen until he throws the douser switch is half a second. It is essential that the operator throw the switch immediately the cue flashes on the screen if the change-over is to be perfect.

10. Counting Disc Revolutions.

When playing discs with standard release prints many projectionists prefer to count the revolutions of the disc to reach the proper turn down for perfect change-over.

11. Change-over on RCA Machines.

Because of the almost instantaneous pickup of RCA projectors, reels may be threaded up at the start frame, or these machines and the standard signals at the end of the outgoing reel employed for motor start and change-over. In this case practically the same amount of footage will be run through on the incoming reel as on the outgoing reel.

12. Partial Exceptions to Standard Prints.

It will naturally be some time before the standard release print comes into universal use throughout the country, as past releases will continue in circulation.

The dubbing process of some producers releasing on disc necessitates the use of more than 12 feet of leader between the start frame and the action. These prints will be standard in other respects and as the footage will be numbered at every foot up to the start frame the projectionist can readily see the length of his leader without measuring.

Handling Standard Prints in the Exchange

1. Exchange Film Inspectors are expected to make sure that every print insppected conforms to the measurement outlined in the Standard Specifications.

2. Any cut-outs or mutilations in any the leader or run-out will affect the change-over. It is suggested in this regard that a standard charge be made for any mutilation of leader or run-out and that any theatre returning a print with a reel damaged in this manner be charged for it, and that a complete new leader or run-out be used each time rather than making patches.

3. It is suggested that the nomenclature of the parts of a print be thoroughly understood and used by all exchange employees handling prints.

4. It is important that the exchange stamp or print the words, "Standard Print Make-up," on the band of every reel which fulfills the standard specifications.

Makeup of Reels in the Studio

The standard print will be a distinct convenience to the studio cutter and in the handling of negatives through the dubbing processes.

1. While each reel division involved an individual problem in cutting it is recommended that picture action start and finish on fades wherever possible. Otherwise significant sound should be kept at least five feet from the start and finish of the picture. This extra footage insures steady down of the projector carrying the incoming reel before significant sound is reproduced and also allows a margin of safety on the change-over.

2. In the case of change-over on a fade, the fade itself is considered as "picture" in the terms of the specifications. The change-over cue will be put 12 feet, and the motor cue one foot from the end of the fade. The six feet of opaque run-out trailer is in addition to the fade.

3. The line across both the picture area and sound track twenty frames ahead of the start mark frame will serve as the base for all matching of sound track and picture in making up the original negative.

4. The protective leader and the protective trailer of course apply specifically to the release print. However these lengths of either transparent or raw stock can with advantage be carried through most of the studio operations.

5. The form of the part title is definitely specified. The part title is to occupy at least the first 32 frames of the Identification Leader. It may be extended to the entire four feet if desired. Otherwise the second 32 frames may be left blank or provide space for cues or other instructions as prescribed in the individual studio policy.

6. As the Synchronizing Leader is uniform for all prints, it is only necessary for the cutting department to specify it to the laboratory. If these leaders are applied by the cutting department to sample prints, care should be exercised to see that the synchronizing leader has been retained in its full length.

7. The visible signal will show as a black dot against light background and as a white circle against dark background. No special cutting is necessary on account of the signal.

CHART

ACADEMY SPECIFICATIONS FOR 35-MM. RELEASE PRINTS

For the guidance of studios, laboratories, exchanges, and theatres in the makeup and use of release print leaders, runouts and cues, to secure perfect exchange-over (see Report No. 5, Technicolor, Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences).

Nomenclature:
- Sound print (film) — A print with a photographic sound record integral with the print.
- Sound print (disc) — A print with a disc sound record.
- Sound print (film and disc) — A print with a photographic sound record integral with the print and a record corresponding disc sound record, either of which may be used.
- Silent print — A print without a sound record.
- Leader — That part of the print from the beginning to the first frame of picture.
- Runout — That part of the print between the leader and the runout.

October 25, 1930
THEATRE SUPPLY DEALERS
A Directory of Concerns in the United States and Canada Supplying Motion Picture Equipment Over Restricted Territories

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>State</th>
<th>Company Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Alabama</td>
<td>THE QUEEN FEATURE SERVICE, INC.</td>
<td>1915 1/2 Morris Avenue</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Birmingham</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Arkansas</td>
<td>THE THEATRE SOUND EQUIPMENT COMPANY</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Hope</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Arizona</td>
<td>ARIZONA FILM SUPPLY COMPANY</td>
<td>84 West Pennington Street</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Tucson</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>California</td>
<td>GENERAL ELECTRIC VAPOR LAMP COMPANY (Formerly Cooper-Hewitt Electric Company)</td>
<td>7830 Santa Monica Boulevard Hollywood</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Los Angeles</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>BRECK PHOTOPLAY SUPPLY COMPANY</td>
<td>1909 South Vermont Avenue</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Los Angeles</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>EDUCATIONAL PROJECT-O-FILM COMPANY</td>
<td>214 American Bank Building</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Second and Spring Streets</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Los Angeles</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>PINEAU &amp; HOWSE STAGE LIGHTING EQUIPMENT COMPANY</td>
<td>1451 Venice Boulevard</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Los Angeles</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>J. SLIPPER &amp; COMPANY</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>922 South Olive Street</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Los Angeles</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>AMERICAN STUDIOS, INC.</td>
<td>1060 Folom Street</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>San Francisco</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>WALTER C. BREDHEIM</td>
<td>187 Golden Gate Avenue</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>San Francisco</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>C. J. HOLZMUELLER THEATRICAL APPLIANCES</td>
<td>1108 Howard Street</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>San Francisco</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>THEATRE DRAPERY STUDIO</td>
<td>233 Golden Gate Avenue</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>San Francisco</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>THEATRE LIGHTING &amp; EQUIPMENT COMPANY</td>
<td>235 Golden Gate Avenue</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>San Francisco</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>WESTERN THEATRICAL EQUIPMENT COMPANY</td>
<td>146 Leavenworth Street</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>San Francisco</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Colorado</td>
<td>GRAHAM BROTHERS</td>
<td>546 Lincoln Street</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Denver</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Connecticut</td>
<td>HARISON HARDES</td>
<td>Rialto Theatre Building</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>235 Franklin Avenue</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Hartford</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Iowa</td>
<td>DES MOINES THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY</td>
<td>922 West Grand Avenue</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Des Moines</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kansas</td>
<td>SOUTHWEST THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY</td>
<td>309 W. Douglas Avenue</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Wichita</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kentucky</td>
<td>AMERICAN MOTION PICTURE COMPANY</td>
<td>Rex Theatre Building</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Louisville</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Blake Amusement Company</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>211 West Jefferson Street</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Louisville</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Louisiana</td>
<td>HARCOI MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRIES, INC.</td>
<td>610-612 Baronne Street</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>New Orleans</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maine</td>
<td>MAINE THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY</td>
<td>263 St. John Street</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Portland</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>J. F. DUSMAN</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>213 Calvert Street</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Baltimore</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Massachusetts</td>
<td>INDEPENDENT THEATRE ACCESSORIES SUPPLY COMPANY</td>
<td>1605 N. Milton Avenue</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Baltimore</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Michigan</td>
<td>CAPITOL MOTION PICTURE SUPPLY COMPANY</td>
<td>206 Piedmont Street</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Boston</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>INDEPENDENT THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY, INC.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>47 Church Street</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Boston</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Minnesota</td>
<td>NATIONAL EQUIPMENT COMPANY</td>
<td>409 W. Michigan Street</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Duluth</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>NORTHERN THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY</td>
<td>19 Glenwood Avenue</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Minneapolis</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>NORTHERN THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY</td>
<td>19 Glenwood Avenue</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Duluth</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>PORTER'S ELECTRIC SHOP</td>
<td>533 S. Seventh Street</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Minneapolis</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Better Theatres Section

October 25, 1930

Missouri

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Company Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>City</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>A. A. Electric Machinery Company, Inc.</td>
<td>1117 Cherry Street</td>
<td>Kansas City</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>EXHIBITORS FILM DELIVERY &amp; SERVICE COMPANY</td>
<td>111 West 18th Street</td>
<td>Kansas City</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>STEBBS THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY</td>
<td>1504 Wyandotte Street</td>
<td>Kansas City</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>EKES BROS. OPTICAL COMPANY</td>
<td>610 Olive Street</td>
<td>St. Louis</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>VAN ASHE RADIO COMPANY</td>
<td>10th and Walnut Street</td>
<td>St. Louis</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Nebraska

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Company Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>City</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>QUALITY THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY</td>
<td>1618 Davenport Street</td>
<td>Omaha</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>THE SERVICE THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY</td>
<td>305 N. 16th Street</td>
<td>Omaha</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>U. S. SCENIC STUDIOS, INC.</td>
<td>Film Exchange Building</td>
<td>Omaha</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>U. S. THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY</td>
<td>Film Exchange Building</td>
<td>Omaha</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

New Hampshire

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Company Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>City</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>G. K. WARBLEIGH</td>
<td>Hillsboro</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

New Mexico

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Company Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>City</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>EASTERN NEW MEXICO THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY</td>
<td>Box 548</td>
<td>Clovis</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

New York

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Company Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>City</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>EMPIRE THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY</td>
<td>42 Orange Street</td>
<td>Albany</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HAUSER BOB</td>
<td>11 W. Tupper Street</td>
<td>Buffalo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>UNITED PROJECTOR &amp; FILM CORPORATION</td>
<td>225 Franklin Street</td>
<td>Buffalo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WINEZAR PICTURES</td>
<td>265 Franklin Street</td>
<td>Buffalo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ACME EXCHANGE</td>
<td>345 E. 17th Street</td>
<td>New York</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>AMUSEMENT SUPPLY COMPANY, INC.</td>
<td>630 Ninth Avenue</td>
<td>New York</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BEHREND M. P. SUPPLY HOUSE, INC.</td>
<td>630 Ninth Avenue</td>
<td>New York</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CAPITOL MOTION PICTURE SUPPLY COMPANY</td>
<td>630 Ninth Ave.</td>
<td>New York</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CONTINENTAL THEATRE ACCESSORIES, INC.</td>
<td>325 W. 44th Street</td>
<td>New York</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CROWN MOTION PICTURE SUPPLIES</td>
<td>729 Seventh Ave.</td>
<td>New York</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NATIONAL THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY</td>
<td>92-96 Gold St.</td>
<td>New York</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>S. O. S. CORPORATION</td>
<td>1600 Broadway</td>
<td>New York</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>J. A. TANNENBAUM, INC.</td>
<td>1600 Broadway</td>
<td>New York</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WILLOUGHIBS</td>
<td>110-114 W. 32nd St</td>
<td>New York</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MOTION PICTURE EQUIPMENT SERVICE</td>
<td>325 Temple Street</td>
<td>Syracuse</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>QUEEN CITY SCENIC STUDIOS</td>
<td>145 High St.</td>
<td>New York City</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CHARLES BESSELER</td>
<td>121 E. 28th St.</td>
<td>New York City</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SERVICE-ON-SOUND CORPORATION</td>
<td>1600 Broadway</td>
<td>New York City</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

North Carolina

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Company Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>City</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>CAROLINA THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY</td>
<td>206 S. Poplar St.</td>
<td>Charlotte</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

North Dakota

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Company Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>City</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>MCCARTHY THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY</td>
<td>64 Fifth St.</td>
<td>Fargo</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Ohio

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Company Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>City</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>THE WILLIAM BECK &amp; SONS COMPANY</td>
<td>Highland &amp; Dorchester Avenues</td>
<td>Cincinnati</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CINCINNATI MOTION PICTURE COMPANY</td>
<td>1434 Vine St.</td>
<td>Cincinnati</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CLARENCE E. RUNYAN</td>
<td>1436 Vine St.</td>
<td>Cincinnati</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>THE ARKAY SIGN COMPANY, INC.</td>
<td>Film Exchange Building</td>
<td>Cleveland</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ESCAR MOTION PICTURE SERVICE, INC.</td>
<td>10008 Carnegie Ave</td>
<td>Cleveland</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>OLIVER MOTION PICTURE SUPPLY</td>
<td>2209 Payne Ave.</td>
<td>Cleveland</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TRI-STATE MOTION PICTURE COMPANY</td>
<td>2108 Payne Ave.</td>
<td>Cleveland</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>AMERICAN THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY</td>
<td>165 N. High St.</td>
<td>Columbus</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Oregon

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Company Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>City</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>AMERICAN THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY</td>
<td>310 St. Clair St.</td>
<td>Toledo</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Pennsylvania

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Company Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>City</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>CHARLES H. BENNETT</td>
<td>1324 Race St.</td>
<td>Philadelphia</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>INDEPENDENT THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY</td>
<td>309 N. 13th St.</td>
<td>Philadelphia</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LEWIS M. SWAAB &amp; SON</td>
<td>5058 Chestnut St.</td>
<td>Philadelphia</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WILLIAMS, BROWN AND EALE, INC.</td>
<td>918 Chestnut St.</td>
<td>Philadelphia</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MOTION PICTURE MACHINES COMPANY</td>
<td>607 Neville St.</td>
<td>Pittsburgh</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PINNEN FILM SERVICE COMPANY</td>
<td>1028 Forbes St.</td>
<td>Pittsburgh</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>S. &amp; S. SALES COMPANY</td>
<td>1010 Forbes St.</td>
<td>Pittsburgh</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SUPERIOR MOTION PICTURE SUPPLY COMPANY</td>
<td>86 Van Brum St.</td>
<td>Pittsburgh</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PENN-YORK UTILITIES, INC.</td>
<td>126 Penn Ave.</td>
<td>Scranton</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY</td>
<td>940 Quincy Ave.</td>
<td>Scranton</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Rhode Island

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Company Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>City</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>RHODE ISLAND THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY</td>
<td>27 Snow St.</td>
<td>Providence</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wright &amp; Macomber, Inc.</td>
<td>76 Dorsett St.</td>
<td>Providence</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

South Carolina

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Company Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>City</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>IMPERIAL FILM SERVICE, INC.</td>
<td>N. Main St.</td>
<td>Greenville</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>INDEPENDENT THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY</td>
<td>22 W. North St.</td>
<td>Greenville</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TRIO AMUSEMENT COMPANY, INC.</td>
<td></td>
<td>Greenville</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

South Dakota

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Company Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>City</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>AMERICAN THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY</td>
<td>320-322 S. Phillips Ave</td>
<td>Sioux Falls</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SIoux FALLS THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY</td>
<td></td>
<td>Sioux Falls</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Tennessee

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Company Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>City</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>WHITE THEATRE EQUIPMENT</td>
<td>24 Sixth St.</td>
<td>Bristol</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
The Modern Use of Light in the Theatre

(Continued from page 22)

out of the line of vision of any seat in the house. Each individual reflector is aimed at the cove surface directly opposite, the beam covering an area from the center down to the far edge. Reflectors having a fairly wide distribution of light are necessary for such service. A mirrored glass, polished metallic, or semi-mat surfaced reflector of a contour that gives a light distribution curve that is flat at the top (or having nearly the same candlepower over 15 to 25 degrees on either side of the center of the beam) is desirable. The reflector should be rippled, or striped, or a rippled or stippled glass roundel or cove plate should be used to smooth out filament images, streaks and striations.

In flat shallow coves where there is a great distance to the opposite side, a more concentrating reflector should be used. The individual units are mounted as described above but aimed at the center of the dome, so that the reflector lights the surface adjacent and above instead of at the opposite side of the dome.

With all four colors—green, red, blue, and amber or white—maximum lighting flexibility is obtained. This number of colors makes it imperative that reflectors be placed close together to avoid a scalloped lighting effect. In general, reflectors producing a particular color should be no farther apart than four times their diameter. Colored glass roundels or plates have been found satisfactory color media, since they ensure permanent and uniform results.

If the surface is small, and where the area to be lighted is not more than three or four feet from the light source, bare lamps may be used. As in the colorama installations, natural-colored lamps can supply the colored light but are expensive over a long period of time. Moreover, they are apt to lack uniformity in color, due to variations in the thickness of the glass, and they will have to be thoroughly inspected in a selection box (Figure 2) before they are installed. Color hoods have the advantage over natural-colored lamps in that they need be selected only once, and they are otherwise less costly in the long run.

Unless a spotty lighting effect is intentionally desired, a smooth or polished surface for the cove should be avoided. Rough white plaster or some such material provides the ideal diffuse surface.
THEATRE ARCHITECTS
A Directory of Leading Designers of Motion Picture Theatres and (for Those Giving the Data) the Principal Houses Designed

A

Principal Theatres Designed

B

Principal Theatres Designed

Charles Bacon, 1104 I. O. O. F. Building, Indianapolis, Ind.

Leonard H. Bailey, 1317 Cordell Building, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Principal Theatres Designed

Elmer F. Behrens, 605 N. Michigan Avenue, Room 302, Chicago, Ill.

Principal Theatres Designed

Berger & Kelley, Lincoln Building, champagne, Ill.

Bescek & DeFeo, 114 W. Tenth Street, Kansas City, Mo.

William B. Estes, 32 W. Randolph Street, Chicago, Ill.

Principal Theatres Designed

Fred A. Bishop, 908 Electric Building, Richmond, Va.

Principal Theatres Designed

W. S. Bittner, 4902 Forsythe Street, East Chicago, Ind.

Boller Brothers, 114 W. Tenth Street, Kansas City, Mo., Douglas Building, Los Angeles, Cal.

Principal Theatres Designed

Associate: J. H. Ladehoff.

Principal Theatres Designed
Capitol, Morivion, Ill., Italian, 400 seats. H. A. Brandt, 1319 F Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

B. A. Branssion, 1502 W. 20th Street, Indianapolis, Ind.

Finley Brooke, Conway Avenue, Cincinnati, O.

Murray Brown, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Canada.

Brussel, Black & Vittert, 1630 Arcade Building, St. Louis, Mo.

A. O. Buinwa, 200 W. 57th Street, New York City.

Building Service Bureau, 301 Broadway, Market Building, Detroit, Mich.

Clarence Cornett, 227 Construction Industry Building, Dallas, Tex.

L. E. Burkett, 244 Farmers Trust Building, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Brosith Brothers, Fairbury, Neb.

C

G. R. Callis, Hoerst Tower Building, Baltimore, Md.

Cannon & Felzer, 506 Templeton Building, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Frank B. Carpenter, Brown Building, Rockford, Ill.

Swan A. Clausen, 701 Millkin Building, Decatur, Ill.

J. W. Clyde, Proctor Building, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

Clyde B. Cook, Ashbury Park Trust Building, Asbury Park, N. J.

Arthur Cottrell, 527 Bangs Avenue, Ashbury Park, N. J.

S. A. Craig, 103 S. Capitol Avenue, Indianapolis, Ind.

C. Howard Crane, 1001 Fox Building, Detroit, Mich.

W. Holmes Crosby & Company, 31-32-33 Boer Building, Oil City, Pa.

Perry E. Crozier, 916 New York Life Building, Minneapolis, Minn.

SAMUEL N. CROWAN COMPANY, 2 W. Monroe Street, Chicago, Ill.

R. H. CUTTING, 1842 E. 81st Street, Cleveland, O.

D

Daves & Wilson, 525 S. 13th Street, Lincoln, Neb.

Principal Theatres Designed
Stuart, Peoria, Ill., 2,000 seats.

L. A. Desjardins, 101 Bank Block, Denver, Col., and 914 N. Dewey, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Associate: J. J. Huddart, 409 Bank Building, Denver, Col.

Dick & Baker, Inc., 208 Third Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

Members of Firm: Gustave A. Dick, Alex H. Bauer, Harvey M. Risserou.

Principal Theatres Designed

CLARI W. DITCHY, 415 Brainard Street, Detroit, Mich.

J. A. DEMPSEY, Cassett Building, York, Pa.

H. B. DOX, 502 Lehmann Building, Peoria, Ill.

S. T. DURTIKNI, 161 Main Street, Fall River, Mass.

W. SCOTT DUNNE, Melba Building, Dallas, Tex.

Principal Theatres Designed
Howell, Coleman, Tex., Italian, 1,500 seats. Ritz, Big Spring, Tex., Spanish, 1,000 seats. Texas, San Angelo, Tex., Spanish, 1,800 seats. Ritz, Corpus Christi, Tex., Spanish, 1,600 seats. Plaza, El Paso, Tex., Spanish, 1,700 seats. Arcadia, Dallas, Tex., Italian, 1,600 seats. Dallas, The Master Builder, Commerce Building, Erie, Pa., accessible for both financing and contracting.

E

EBERSON & EBERSON, INC., 370 Lexington Avenue, New York City. Members of Firm: John Eberon, Presidcnt.

Principal Theatres Designed

Associate: R. C. Stevens, O. H. Horton. (This firm, which specializes in standard designs for theatre work from 250 to 3,000, is represented by a number of structures in Eastern and Southern United States, in general of Renaissance style. A publisher, The Master Builder, Commerce Building, Erie, Pa., is accessible for both financing and contracting.)
PRINCIPAL THEATRES

EISENBERG & FEER, 11 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass.
Members of Firm: S. S. Eisenberg, H. L. Feer

Principal Theatres Designed

Exhibitors Herald-World

October 25, 1930

125

HOOPER & JANUSCH, INC., 879 N. State Street, Chicago, Ill.

THE E. C. HOOPER SONS, 1476 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

Members of Firm: Charles T. Horn, Stephen W. Horn

Principal Theatres Designed

State, Waterbury, Conn., 15th Century Italian, 1,500 seats.

Strand, New Britain, Conn., Italian Renaissance, 2,500 seats.

State, Harrisburg, Pa., Italian Renaissance and Spanish, 2,500 seats.

HOUGH & SMENNER, 108 E. Washington Street, Muncie, Ind.

C. G. HOWELL, Robert Fulton Hotel, Atlanta, Ga.

PETER M. HULSKE, 506 Savings Building, Lima, O.

Associate: Lynn T. Strong

Principal Theatres Designed

Schene's Ohio, Lima, O., Italian Renaissance, 2,500 seats.

Schene's State, Sandusky, O., Spanish, 1,800 seats.

Ritz, Tiffin, O., Italian Renaissance, 1,400 seats.

Schene's Ohio, Canton, O., Spanish, 1,200 seats.

Sherman, Chillicothe, O., Spanish, 1,600 seats.

JENS J. JENSEN, 1105 Lawrence Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

JOHNSON & BRANSON, Lynchburg, Va.

BEYCHOK, An American, A. C., 1,000 National Bank Building, Sheboygan, Wis.

Principal Theatres Designed

Empire, Manhattan, Wis., Classic, 1,000 to 2,500 seats.

Bowler, Sheboygan, Wis., Classic, 1,000 seats.

ALEBERT KAIN, INC., 1000 Marquette Building, Detroit, Mich.

LOUIS S. KAPLAN, Michigan Central, Buffalo, N. Y.

JOHN EDMOND KELLY, 38 Chauncey Street, Boston, Mass.

KELSEY & SIMPSON, 1,006 Land Bank Building, Kansas City, Mo.

MELVIN L. KING, 300 Dennison Building, Syracuse, N. Y.

ERNEST KINN, 1020 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, Cal.

W. H. KING, Magee Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.

FLOYD E. KINGS, 201 Lauriston Avenue, Lake Worth, Fla.

BROOKS & MITCHELL, S. D. Associates: G. W. Hutchinson, C. S. Weller

Principal Theatres Designed

Oakley, Lake Worth, Fla., 600 seats.

Show Boat, West Palm Beach, Fla., Spanish, 1,100 seats.

KIRCHOFF & ROSS, 1300-13 Empire Building, Milwaukee, Wis.

WADE H. KLAMBERG & COMPANY, 317 N. 11th Street, St. Louis, Mo.

A. J. KLINKHART, Kohler Building, Hagerstown, Md.

CHARLES E. KOUNTZ, 115 Young Building, Hagerstown, Md.

H. K. KRAPP, 1 W. 47th Street, New York, N. Y.

E. D. KRENN & H. BUDLER, 362 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

KROKY, BROWNES & ROSENSTEIN, 223 Devonshire Street, Boston, Mass.

Members of Firm: Ambrose A. Brown, J. Frederick Kroky, Arthur Rosenzweig

Principal Theatres Designed

Seville, East Boston, Mass., 1,750 seats.

Colindale, North Attleboro, Mass., 1,250 seats.

Strand, South Boston, Mass., 1,100 seats.

Noody Street, Watertown, Mass.

Humboldt Avenue, Roxbury, Mass., 1,100 seats.

THOMAS W. LAMB, 648 Eighth Street, New York, N. Y.

C. W. LAMPE, 155 N. Clark Street, Chicago, Ill.

W. J. LAWES & COMPANY, 1018 Hales Building, Oklahoma City, Okla.

PRINCIPAL THEATRES DESIGNED

Circle C, Oklahoma City, Okla., 1,000 seats.

Carnegie, Oregon, Ore., Movie Theatre Company, 1,000 seats.

Associate: Armand D. Carroll

PRINCIPAL THEATRES DESIGNED

Astor, Reading, Pa., Modernistic, 2,500 seats.

Seligcliff, Philadelphia, Pa., Modernistic, 2,000 seats.

Dorado, Gill City, Pa., Modernistic, 2,000 seats.

Emagee, Pa., Modernistic, 1,500 seats.

Harriss, Harriton, Pa., Modernistic, 2,500 seats.

Carnival, Panoramic, Philadelphia, Pa., Modernistic, 2,500 seats.

LEON M. LEMPERT & SON, 1058 Mercantile Building, Rochester, N. Y.

S. P. LEWIS & CAPRON, 409 S. Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.

LEWIS & DAUGHERTY, Adams Building, Danville, Ill.

C. W. LINSLEY, Lamar Building, Jackson, Miss.

H. C. Loomis, 7016 Euclid Avenue, Cleveland, O.

J. HAL LYNCH & SON, 625 Locust Street, St. Louis, Mo.
A design for a fountain feature in a foyer, created by C. W. & George L. Rapp, Architects.
QUESTION: We are a constant reader of the Herald-World, both the regular magazine and the Better Theatres section, and now we have a problem that we would like you to help us solve.

Our present theatre is 24 feet by 120 feet, and we have an option on the adjoining lot, making a full 48 foot front, and we are going to build a theatre on this site. We have talked with a number of architects, and as they always want to know just the kind of a theatre we want, but though we want one that will be built for sound, we are at a loss to tell them. Have noted the plans and pictures in your magazine but most are far more elaborate than we want.

The theatre we have in mind would seat 600 to 650 and be very plain inside, with two exits at rear, small stage to take care of horns, two rest rooms, with porch, sign and a pleasing front and foyer.

If you have any sketches or plans that would come close to the above or any advice you may be able to give us in regard to building a theatre in a small town, it would be greatly appreciated.

W. W. B.

ANSWER: Your problem should be one of the easiest ones to be solved. The way I understand it, you want to build your theatre as economically as you possibly can, and I believe that you are very wise, as you state your town is rather small. You would suggest that you bank an enormous amount of money on ornamental plaster to procure the effect of a comfortable, nicely designed house. The careful selection of electric light fixtures, drapes and a harmoniously decorative scheme will be a great deal govern the effects of good taste and harmony.

You did not state, with your lot dimensions, whether you had an alley in the rear of the theatre, but I presume you have. Your over-all dimensions of the width of the house are 48 feet. Figuring on 13-inch walls, you would have about 45 feet, 10 inches for seats in the width. I would suggest that you bank your seats 12 in a row in the center of your house, with an aisle on each side, leaving five seats on each side between and walls, and these aisles would be approximately four feet wide. This would give you the maximum seating capacity. This would give you the maximum seating capacity in the width of the house of 22 seats in a row. Six hundred and fifty seats will be about 30 rows (or, better, figure 31 rows, as you lose some seats on the flare walls; 31 rows equal 77 feet, six inches).

I would eliminate the stage and build an apron about 10 feet wide. This would eliminate rigging loft and ventilator over the stage and cut down your cost immensely. Still you could design it in such a way that the appearance would be like a prosценium arch. Of course this would be only a picture house. If you figure on vaudeville, you will have to have a larger stage and have to have all the rigging facilities. I suggest you make the prosценium arch about 35 feet wide and then build flare walls from the side of the prosценium to the side walls. In these flares you could put in your exit openings to the alley in the rear, and also ducts for your heating and ventilating system. These flare walls will improve your sound. Having 22 seats in a row and obtaining 650 seating capacity, the amount of space for stage, pit and seats require a total length of 97 feet, leaving 23 feet for lobby and foyer. You should plan for a foyer at least 10 feet wide. This would leave about a 12-foot lobby. There should be two exits from your foyer to the street. There will be ample space left for women's and men's rest rooms and a manager's office.

We are working on plans for a new theatre. Through existing friendly relations, I engaged a local architect. He is a splendid architect of very good reputation, but unfortunately he has never designed any theatres. We are disagreeing on certain construction details, and while I have the utmost confidence in my architect that he will and can design a beautiful theatre, I want to be absolutely sure in my mind that some of the details are correct, as in my opinion they cannot be remedied after the building is completed should they be wrong. I therefore wish you would be kind enough to give me the following information, as these are the items on which we disagree:

What pitch would you recommend for the auditorium floor? How high should the person in the last row of the auditorium be able to see on the curtain and how high should the steps in the balcony be?

I dislike to bother you about these questions but I would like to have them answered so that I can feel sure that I have my theatre designed without any flaws or mistakes. Thanking you for this information and assuring you that my architect will not take any offense should he be wrong—F. W. H.

ANSWER: I see that you are in a predicament like that so many find themselves in. Friendship should be reciprocated and therefore you decided to employ the architect of your choice. I must commend your architect for being so frank with you by stating that he never had designed any theatres. This example should be followed. While I believe your architect may be one of the best designers and a most efficient and ethical man, no matter how much he has studied theatre architecture, I would find the most successful houses are the result of past experience. I may suggest that your architect call in a consulting theatre architect, even if you have to increase his commission, so that all the details can be carefully checked. It is a very costly matter and sometimes it is impossible to change conditions after the building is completed. Or in a case like this, you may send your preliminary plans to this department and they will be checked without cost to you or your architect.

The general rule for sloping the auditorium floor, as it all depends on the length of the auditorium. The majority of state building codes will not allow the slope to exceed a rise of one foot to a run of five feet, and they are right, as that slope is entirely too steep. There is a rule which is often practiced but which I do not think is entirely accurate. This is to use a rise of one-quarter of an inch per foot for the first 16 feet, then one-half an inch per foot for the next 16 feet, one inch per foot for the next 16 feet and then doubling the rise for each 16 feet. Of course the rise will have to be balanced according to your conditions. Other rules are to make the first six or eight rows level, give the next ten rows each a two-inch rise, the next ten rows each a three-inch rise, and the balance each a four-inch rise. But this might have its shortcomings, too. If both rules are carefully taken into consideration and adapted to the condition, you might obtain a very well laid out house. Be sure to eliminate any kind of a step in the aisles of the auditorium floor.

The persons in the last row of seats of the auditorium should be able to see the entire proscenium arch (especially on account of the expected wide screen). In the old days it was sufficient to see 16 feet high, or the last drop of the stage, but that is entirely passe now. The height of the steps in the balcony also depends on the length of the auditorium. If the house warrants it, it is a good rule to make the rise not less than 12, or more than 14 inches, as then the intermediate steps in the aisle in front of the rows will be easily ascended.

There is a rule that is used a great deal. This is to take a point four feet below the curtain line and draw a line through the first row of the balcony and let all the farther rows come to that line. This, however, is not always practical, as when cross aisles are used this changes the whole situation.

I feel that the best results are obtained by laying out every eye, or vision line on the section and draw your lines to the points of your stage, or to that point of the orchestra pit that you deem should be seen, and if they are free of obstructions and have from three to four inches of space between them, you may rest assured of obtaining results.

Be absolutely sure that your projection room is high enough so that no light beams will strike any person who might stand up in the balcony. If a clearance of about six feet, six inches is adopted, there will be no danger of interference with the projection beams.

Better Theatres Section
October 25, 1930

Copyrighted Radio Music in Theatres

(Continued from page 41)

was contested. During the trial evidence was introduced to show some 60 possible uses for which a stadium could be utilized. Among them are historical pageants, patriotic celebrations, playground festivals, all-nations carnivals, civic demonstrations, school pageants, mass dramas and dramatic and folk festivals, outdoor opera, band concerts, musical festivals, caenferfests, receptions to famous visitors, mass meetings, community Christmas celebrations, Americanization ceremonies, expositions, and baseball, football, boxing, wrestling and other athletic contests. In holding that the city may legally construct the stadium, the court stated the following important law:

"It has been uniformly held that a municipality has power to construct a public auditorium. . . . It is difficult to see the difference, from a legal standpoint, between the erection of a stadium and erection of an auditorium, except that one provides for performances and gatherings within doors and the other outdoors. If an auditorium is designed to promote the education, amusement and inspiration of the public, we cannot see why an appropriate building erected for such purposes out of doors, where the assembled multitude may enjoy and breathe the fresh air, may not be more conducive to the public welfare than the auditorium, as it in addition promotes the public health. . . . It is obvious these purposes promote the public welfare and afford recreation, entertainment and education to the public quite as much as those activities which may be carried on within a public auditorium."

Liability in Fires

Generally speaking, any failure on the part of a theatre owner to provide means reasonably necessary to safeguard patrons against injury may result in liability. This held the highest court in Morton v. Stack (170 N. E. 869).

In this case it was disclosed that a fire occurred, and a person, after having unsuccessfully attempted to escape by an inside stairway, was obliged to remain there for fifteen to twenty minutes before he could secure and erect a ladder and assist him from the building. He thereafter, during a period of some weeks, was nervous, would shake, and cry out in his sleep, and apparently live over again the occasion of the fire, and a year and a half thereafter this complaint was filed. He sued to recover damages and in holding the owner of the building liable, the court said:

"The facts would support a reasonable inference that the coughing and subsequent abnormal condition of the defendant in error were attributable to the smoke inhaled during the fifteen minutes, and would tend to prove that the delayed escape was attributable to the absence of the fire escape, which would have afforded an immediate avenue of escape."

Sunday Closing Law

It is well settled that a municipal corporation cannot enact a valid ordinance for the punishment of an act which constitutes an offense against a penal statute of the state. It follows therefore from this principle that if on the trial of one charged with the violation of a municipal ordinance, it appears from the evidence that the accused has committed no act save that which would constitute a violation of a penal statute of the state, a decision finding the accused guilty, and imposing a punishment for the alleged crime, is contrary to law. For example, in City of Crawfordsville v. Jackson (170 N. E. 850), the court reviewed a city ordinance, which provided:

"It shall hereafter be unlawful for any person, persons, firm or corporation to exhibit or participate in exhibiting or maintaining, or open or operate in any way any theatrical performance, moving picture show, or other show, in the City of Crawfordsville, Indiana, on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, for which such person, persons, firm or corporation so exhibiting, operating or maintaining the same, either receives or demands from the person or persons admitted to such performance or performances anything of value."

Also, there is in force in this state a statute, as follows:

"Whoever, being over 14 years of age, is found on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, by the Court of Appeals or the Supreme Court on the contention that the city ordinance was void because it contradicted the state statute. In reversing the lower court's conviction, the higher court said:

"The test to be applied in determining whether or not the state law and the municipal ordinance cover the identical offense is whether the one can be violated without violating the other. . . . It is well settled in this jurisdiction, not only by statute but also by the decisions of this court, that an act punishable under the criminal law of this state cannot also be punished by a municipal ordinance."
The Unconventional Punch and Judy

(Continued from page 36)

... and grand uses made every theatre seating outside Hamadan, Meshed, other Pahlavi, Kermanshah, Sultanabad, and Meshed reported America's 'Civic' Company, in the opening of the Wardman Park hotel theatre in Washington, D. C., in 1926. Similar theatres followed in New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Rochester and Chicago, with still others projected. Shortly after the Punch and Judy was opened, Machat said to me, "It is high time for the motion picture industry to take cognizance of the fact that the whole population of the United States does not care for gilded walls. If we must exist, we must go along with the times. Our theatres should in every way reflect those times. There is a lot of room in America for some native theatrical architecture. I have always sponsored and will keep up the fight for something original as long as I am in the theatrical business."

The Market for American Motion Picture Equipment in the Far East

[The following is a compilation of reports on the markets in Asia for American motion picture equipment, following a survey conducted by the U. S. Department of Commerce. The reports began in the August 21 issue. The survey also included the markets of Africa and Oceania. This material on the Asiatic and African continent will complete presentation begun in BETTER THEATRES over a year ago, when government reports on similar markets in Europe and South America were published. The compilation of the reports is by Nathan D. Golden, assistant chief of the motion picture division of the Department of Commerce.]

PERSIA (Continued)

Whereas a year ago Tabriz, Resht, Pahlavi, Isfahan, and Meshed were the only other towns in Persia to boast of a motion picture theatre, the first three cities now have two each, and Kerman- shah, which had none, now also has two. Other cities which in 1929 saw the installation of theatres for the first time were Kazvin, Barfurush, Bandar Gaz, Sultanabad, Hamadan and Ahwas. It is reported that in Bushire, Seistan, and one or two other places motion picture theatres have also been opened, but details are as yet lacking.

The theatres known to be in operation outside of Teheran, together with their seating capacity, are described as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Theatre</th>
<th>Seating Capacity</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Tabriz</td>
<td>600</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Resht</td>
<td>450</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pahlavi</td>
<td>420</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Isfahan</td>
<td>360</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kerman- shah</td>
<td>380</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meshed</td>
<td>350</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kazvin</td>
<td>380</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hamadan</td>
<td>375</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barfurush</td>
<td>285</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bandar Gaz</td>
<td>250</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ahwas</td>
<td>250</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

This gives a total of 6,110 seats, but with the addition of small local halls temporarily used for exhibition purposes and a number of theatres probably unreported, the actual figure is no doubt greater. Perhaps a grand total of 13,600 seats is a fairly accurate estimate for the entire country, with the likelihood that this will increase steadily from now on.

The range of admission prices in Teheran is from one to five krans (10 to 50 cents), with loge and box seats at ten krans (approximately $1). One theatre restricts its prices to six krans and eight krans, and another has loge seats at 20 krans as well as at ten krans.

In the provinces, the average price of admission is three krans.

Most of the motion picture theatres in Persia are large rectangular halls equipped with benches and with chairs held together in rows by means of boards. Many of the halls have been converted from other uses and are not especially adapted to the exhibition of motion pictures. The lowest-priced seats are near the screen, while the rest of the chairs, either of hardwood or cane, afford a scale of prices depending on how far they are removed from the stage. Since there is no slope to the aisles, the best seats are in the loges, which are at the rear of the hall and raised above the level of the floor. Some of the theatres have small balconies.

There is usually an orchestra of two, three or four pieces, stationed behind a screen as a corner of the stage. A few of the larger theatres advertise seven or eight piece orchestras but a full roll call of the members is unusual. The music generally consists of a piano, violin and drums. Pipe organs are unknown.

Heating of the theatres is effected by means of tin stoves, but in the winter it is generally cold notwithstanding, and most of the audience keep on their overcoats during the performance.

PROJECTORS.—Nearly all projectors in use in Persia are Pathé machines. No theatre has more than one projector, but those employed are all fairly recent models. The reputation of the Pathé firm, coupled with the fact that an able demonstrator installed the machines when purchased, has probably been the factor in determining the theatre owners in their choice of French equipment. No American projectors are in use. In Teheran the 220-volt alternating current of the municipal electric-light plant, used with a transformer provides the power for most machines. Since few other municipalities have electric equipment, projectors elsewhere take a 110-volt current generated by their own power plants.

Two firms in Teheran have expressed interest in handling American motion picture projectors. They would confine themselves to the theatrical type of projector, since the electric current in Teheran is inadequate to permit the general use of projectors.

GENERATORS.—Generator sets are used only in industries where the cost of power is a negligible factor. The motion picture theatres are not exceedingly prosperous and consequently are satisfied with buying their current from municipal or private suppliers. The fact that the current often falls in the middle of a reel does not seem to increase their desire for battery generating sets. Such sets are practically unknown in Persia, and none are in use as far as is able to ascertain.

Where the public current is not used in the Teheran motion picture theatres, a rectifier is sometimes used. Three such devices are in use in Teheran, and it is estimated that two other theatres employ it. They are of French make and cost.

October 25, 1930
Exhibitors Herald-World

129
approximately a sum equivalent to $12. It would appear that the sale in Persia of American generators depends upon the general development of not only the motion picture industry, but also of the use of electricity and electric equipment. Arc lamps and screens.—High-intensity reflector arc lamps are in use in the motion picture theatres in Teheran. Both horizontal and vertical lamps are installed. They are all Pathé equipment. Each theatre is equipped with one arc lamp. Plain linen screens are used.

Visual education.—There is at present no possibility for the sale of motion picture material, nor is there a Ministry of Education in Persia. The Ministry of Education, which has all matters pertaining to education under its supervision, has made no move toward adopting the visual method of instruction. No budgeting provisions are made for the purchase of projectors or films, and from the general position of education in Persia the guess may be hazarded that no such provision will be made for some time to come.

TABRIZ

From report by Augustin W. Ferrin

Projectors.—There are but two motion picture theatres in the Tabriz consular district and the operation of one of them is irregular.

The projectors used are Pathé and Goerz, for which $200 and $300 was paid. The principal reason for preference for those machines was the price.

There are no motion picture equipment dealers in Tabriz, but the company operating the main theatre, Ostfilm, with theatres also in Teheran, Pehlevi, and Resht, would be interested in receiving information about American equipment, as no American projectors are in use.

Neither of the two theatres has a second projector. The single projector is, in each theatre, of the latest model.

Generators.—No equipment is required for converting alternating into direct current, as the two theatre of motion picture current created by their own Dutch generators.

ArC lamps and screens.—Mirror-reflector arc lamps are used, of Zeiss make. Screens are not employed in projecting pictures, which are thrown onto a wall plastered with white gypsum.

Visual education.—Visual education has not yet been attempted in purely Persian schools, but the American Presbyterian schools and the Seventh Day Adventist mission use magic lanterns for certain purposes. Recently, also, one of the American missionaries has imported personally a small American motion picture machine which she uses somewhat educationally.

ARAria

From report by Clove K. Huston, Aden

The motion picture industry in Arabia has not yet become very highly developed; in fact, there is only one public motion picture theatre in the whole of Arabia. The one projector there is a fairly recent model Pathé, which was purchased second-hand in India at an undisclosed price. It is presumed that the machine was not selected because of any peculiar features or superior qualities, but because it was available at a greatly reduced price.

Two other projectors are in private use in Aden, being employed for weekly showings to exclusive groups of foreign residents. Definite information concerning the projectors used is difficult to obtain, but they are understood to be larger than the Pathé projector. In any case, none of these machines has been subjected to critical demands, they have all proved satisfactory.

As may be surmised, only the crudest arrangements and equipment are used in local showings of motion pictures. Only one projector is used, high-intensity and mirror-reflector arc lamps are not known, and there are no sound films. The simple plastered walls, which are occasionally given a coating of whitewash. Generator sets naturally would find no sale at present.

In the field of visual education nothing at all has been done in Arabia. Education throughout the peninsula is either nonexistent or in the most elementary stages, the small percentage of those who are literate confining their studies in most cases to reading and writing Arabic and to the Koran. It seems reasonable to say that visual education by means of motion pictures in Arabia belongs to a rather distant future.

Future prospects, rather than the present state of the motion picture industry in Arabia, might be of interest to American projector manufacturers. The Arabian peninsula is a vast area containing roughly 5,000,000 inhabitants, an area into which western manufacturers, modern conveniences, and new ideas are just now beginning to penetrate. The process of change and development is slow, innovations having a bitter and often a tedious struggle with custom, tradition, and long-established habits of life. It seems probable, however, that with continued development and the gradual opening up of the territory to western commerce, even the cinema will find a place in Arab life.

As a distributing center for much of Arabia, as well as for the African Somali-lands, Aden is the key to the market. At present there are no dealers in motion picture equipment there.

IRAQ

From report by John Randolph, Baghdad

Iraq is a country with an estimated population of 3,000,000, of whom nearly 2,000,000 are Bedouins pasturing their flocks in the deserts or cultivators living along the river banks. Baghdad has three motion picture theatres, Basrah, two, and Mosul and Hinaidi one each. Hinaidi is a British military cantonment and its theatre offers two shows a week only. The theatres in Basrah were closed for over a year because of lack of patronage, but reopened early in the fall of 1929. The theatre in Mosul closes five months during the summer, there being no patronage, and the three theatres in Baghdad are planned to very poor houses and sometimes to empty ones.

Projectors.—There are three different makes of projectors in use in Iraq. The Central Cinema and the Iraq Cinema of Baghdad and the Depot Cinema of Hinaidi cantonment are all equipped with Gaumont projectors; the National Cinema of Baghdad, the Basrah Cinema of Basrah City, and the Royal Cinema of Ashar, Basrah, are all equipped with Pathé projectors; while the National Cinema of Mosul is equipped with an American projector.

It has been impossible to ascertain the cost price of these different projectors, as all of them are comparatively very old models. The Gaumont projector of the Central Cinema cost, it is understood, in the neighborhood of $725 several years ago. Also, it is understood the owners of the National Cinema in Mosul actually paid for their American projector about $545, but it was purchased second-hand from someone else who had imported it with the idea of opening a motion picture theatre and then abandoned the idea and sold the projector.

It is difficult to say what special features made the three above-mentioned projectors appeal to the parties who imported them. The appeal of the American machine was undoubtedly its low price and immediate availability. The appeal of the Gaumont, it is understood, was its durability and service.

There are no equipment dealers who might be interested in handling American motion picture projectors, as there is no demand for projectors for theatrical uses, nor is there a demand as yet for projectors for non-theatrical uses. Perhaps the demand for projectors for theatre purposes will develop as educational methods develop and school equipment is improved.

The different theatres in Iraq are each equipped with one projector only. The projectors in use in this country, as mentioned previously, are all old models. The Gaumont projector of the Central Cinema is about 5 years old, but was rebuilt two years ago. The Gaumont was added. The Gaumont projector of the Iraq Cinema is about 4 years old and was also rebuilt two years ago, and a new arc lamp added. The Gaumont projector of the Depot Cinema at Hinaidi is an old projector rebuilt quite recently.

The Pathé projector of the National Cinema of Baghdad is about six years old, and those of the Basrah Cinema and the Royal Cinema of Ashar, Basrah, are still older.

The American projector of the National Cinema in Mosul is seven years old, but was rebuilt two years ago and a new arc lamp added.

[Continued in next Better Theatre]
FOLLOWING is a list of new projects in motion picture theatre construction compiled from reports available on October 21. The list also includes remodeling projects and contracts awarded. An asterisk before the item indicates that additional information has been received since a previous report.

THEATRES PLANNED

California

SANTA MONICA.—The Independent Theatres, Inc., plans the erection of two houses, to be known as the Newport and Wilshire.

AURORA.—Publix-Rahman & Katz Company, 175 North State street, Chicago, for a brick and reinforced concrete theatre, with seating capacity of 1,500. Estimated cost, $200,000.

CHICAGO.—Publix-Rahman & Katz Company, 175 North State street, has plans by Rapp & Rapp, 190 North State street, Chicago, for brick and reinforced concrete theatre. Estimated cost, $1,000,000.

EVANSVILLE.—Three Brothers have plans by A. E. Nealey, Old National Bank Building, for a two-story brick theatre, 83 by 113 feet, to be located on Washington Avenue. Estimated cost, $150,000.

GRAND RAPIDS.—C. Ferriso plans to erect a fireproof moving picture theatre and store building, with seating capacity of 600. Estimated cost, $40,000.

GRAND RAPIDS.—Jose Madison, of Kewanee, Min., owner of the new Grand Theatre, plans shortly to erect another house.

MICHIGAN

EVANSVILLE.—Eakin Brothers plan the erection of a fireproof moving picture theatre and store building. Theatre will have seating capacity of 1,000. Estimated cost, $50,000.

EXPERIMENT.—The United Theatres, Inc., 122 E. State street, Philadelphia, has plans by Hoffman & Hill, 180 South Fifteenth street, Philadelphia, for a seven-storey house and apartment building. 165 by 260 feet, to be located at 143-55 Main street.

TEXAS

Pampa.—Griffith Brothers are reported planning the erection of a new theatre. Estimated cost, $25,000.

Newport News, Va.—An old house has been purchased and redorsed, under the management of A. H. Abrams with an all-audience policy.

LA GRANDE, Ore.—The Liberty theatre, formerly known as the Arrowhead, will be remodeled and redecorated.

TENNESSEE

MEMPHIS.—Warner Brothers’ Pictures, Inc., 321 West Forty-fourth street, New York, plans to expended $70,000 for improvements to its theatre.

SAN ANTONIO.—The Bijou theatre will be modelled.

WASHINGTON

SPOKANE.—RKO Orpheum theatre will be extensively improved, including a new type of leather seats, specially constructed to clarify sound projection.

West Virginia

PARKERSBURG.—The Strand theatre is to be remodelled and redecorated.

CONTRACTS AWARDED

California

LA GRANDE.—The Liberty theatre, formerly known as the Arrowhead, will be remodeled and redecorated.

TENNESSEE

MEMPHIS.—Warner Brothers’ Pictures, Inc., 321 West Forty-fourth street, New York, plans to expend $70,000 for improvements to its theatre.

SAN ANTONIO.—The Bijou theatre will be modelled.

WASHINGTON

SPOKANE.—RKO Orpheum theatre will be extensively improved, including a new type of leather seats, specially constructed to clarify sound projection.

West Virginia

PARKERSBURG.—The Strand theatre is to be remodelled and redecorated.

CONTRACTS AWARDED

California

*TALULAH.—M. M. Bloom has awarded the contract for the new Bijou theatre, 133 South 300 North, to E. Y. Wark, Salt Lake City. Estimated cost, $150,000.

LOUISIANA

CAMBRIDGE.—O’Leary’s Inn Square theatre, is to be renovated, and the old Bijou has been redecorated, and reopened as the Strand.

Missouri

Theatre	in	Kansas City, to be renovated and redecorated.

MICHIGAN

BAY CITY.—The old Orpheum theatre has been completely rebuilt. Theatre now has seating capacity of about 1,200. It has been renamed the Bay Theatre.

DETROIT.—The Strand theatre is being remodelled. Interior changes include complete redecoration and. seating arrangement.

DETROIT.—Improvements to the RKO Temple theatre includes an attractive new front and lobby.

DETROIT.—Improvements to the Astor theatre includes reconstruction of the front.

Missouri

KANSAS CITY.—Midland Theatre and Realty Company, R. S. Sheahan, vice president, Midland Building, plans the remodelling and enlarging of the Apollo theatre at 3227 Troost avenue.

MARYLAND

HUBERT.—The Star theatre has been remodelled, acoustics improved and a new screen, etc., has been installed.

New York

BATH.—The RKO theatre is to be extensively improved, including up-to-date acoustics, larger screens, changes in the auditorium, new carpets and furniture.

BINGHAMTON.—The Lack theatre has been remodeled.

ITTACA.—The Olympic theatre has been remodelled, including new electrical effects, new color schemes, new screen, etc. House reopen on Friday night.

Ohio

CANTON.—The Mozart theatre has been redecorated and reopened under the management of A. H. Abrams with an all-audience policy.

PARKERSBURG.—The Strand theatre is to be remodelled and redecorated.

TENNESSEE

MEMPHIS.—Warner Brothers’ Pictures, Inc., 321 West Forty-fourth street, New York, plans to expend $70,000 for improvements to its theatre.

SAN ANTONIO.—The Bijou theatre will be remodelled.

WASHINGTON

SPOKANE.—RKO Orpheum theatre will be extensively improved, including a new type of leather seats, specially constructed to clarify sound projection.

West Virginia

PARKERSBURG.—The Strand theatre is to be remodelled and redecorated.

CONTRACTS AWARDED

California

*TALULAH.—M. M. Bloom has awarded the contract for the new Bijou theatre, 133 South 300 North, to E. Y. Wark, Salt Lake City. Estimated cost, $150,000.

LOUISIANA

CAMBRIDGE.—O’Leary’s Inn Square theatre, is to be renovated, and the old Bijou has been redecorated, and reopened as the Strand.

Missouri

Theatre	in	Kansas City, to be renovated and redecorated.

MICHIGAN

BAY CITY.—The old Orpheum theatre has been completely rebuilt. Theatre now has seating capacity of about 1,200. It has been renamed the Bay Theatre.

DETROIT.—The Strand theatre is being remodelled. Interior changes include complete redecoration and. seating arrangement.

DETROIT.—Improvements to the RKO Temple theatre includes an attractive new front and lobby.

DETROIT.—Improvements to the Astor theatre includes reconstruction of the front.

Missouri

KANSAS CITY.—Midland Theatre and Realty Company, R. S. Sheahan, vice president, Midland Building, plans the remodelling and enlarging of the Apollo theatre at 3227 Troost avenue.

MARYLAND

HUBERT.—The Star theatre has been remodelled, acoustics improved and a new screen, etc., has been installed.

New York

BATH.—The RKO theatre is to be extensively improved, including up-to-date acoustics, larger screens, changes in the auditorium, new carpets and furniture.

BINGHAMTON.—The Lack theatre has been remodeled.

ITTACA.—The Olympic theatre has been remodelled, including new electrical effects, new color schemes, new screen, etc. House reopen on Friday night.

Ohio

CANTON.—The Mozart theatre has been redecorated and reopened under the management of A. H. Abrams with an all-audience policy.

PARKERSBURG.—The Strand theatre is to be remodelled and redecorated.

TENNESSEE

MEMPHIS.—Warner Brothers’ Pictures, Inc., 321 West Forty-fourth street, New York, plans to expend $70,000 for improvements to its theatre.

SAN ANTONIO.—The Bijou theatre will be remodelled.

WASHINGTON

SPOKANE.—RKO Orpheum theatre will be extensively improved, including a new type of leather seats, specially constructed to clarify sound projection.

West Virginia

PARKERSBURG.—The Strand theatre is to be remodelled and redecorated.

The Oak Cliff in Dallas

The Oak Cliff theatre is a new R & R project in Dallas, Tex., for which R. Scott Dunne, Dallas architect, has prepared the plans. This house, the architect’s per- vision of which is reproduced here, will be of a design of Venetian motifs and will seat 2,000, partly in a balcony. The auditorium treatment will be atmospheric. Provision has been made for installation of a full-sized stage when and if required. Construction will be entirely fire-proof. The structure will cover a site measuring 175'x138 feet. The theatre is L-shaped, with six stores adjoin the entrance. The opening is scheduled for about April 1.
New Inventions. Illustrated descriptions of devices related to motion pictures and allied crafts, recently published by the U.S. government and selected for Better Theatres by William N. Moore, patent specialist of Washington, D.C.

1. In a sound amplifier, a cabinet of rectangular shape open at the front, and a horn within said cabinet constructed of panels connected at the side edge portions to form a chamber having a sound emitting opening of rectangular shape to conform to and at the open front of the cabinet, and a pair of panels extending at a right angle to each other and parallel to the bottom and a side of the cabinet and the connection of said pair of panels extending parallel to the bottom of the cabinet formed by said side and bottom of the cabinet, and the connected edges of the other panels inclining from the front toward the back of the cabinet and converging in a direction toward the corner formed by the one side and bottom of the cabinet, and having a sound wave receiving opening at the terminus of said converging corners and the corner of the panels arranged at a right angle.

2. A fastener for a film wound on a reel, said fastener including means to engage the end of a film, and means including a pair of members to detachably engage the sides of the reel, said means being resilient to actuate said members into engagement with the reel.

3. A method of producing multi-colored cinematographic film positives upon double width transparent material of half standard thickness consisting in simultaneously exposing, or applying width of the double width material with a sensitized colloid containing dye of one color, and the other half width with a sensitized colloid containing dye of a different color, photographically printing on each half width a partial image, washing off the surplus colored colloid, repeating each half width of the support with a differently colored sensitized colloid which also differs in color from the colors in the first coating, printing on each half with a second partial image in the same picture space as the first partial image, washing off the surplus colloid, dividing the strips with their partial images in register and cementing them together to produce a complete picture in four colors in a single picture area.

4. A sound reproducing device comprising a flexibly supported sounding board, a motor for actuating said sounding board and a flexible half for regulating the mechanism of air produced by the actuation of said sounding board and setting as the support for the sounding board.

5. The combination with a standard motion picture camera and a sound recording attachment therefor, having a casing in communication with said camera through an opening, of means for passing the film from said camera through the opening into the sound recording attachment and back into the camera.

6. The combination, with a light projecting mechanism, of a glass disk having near its periphery prismatic characters, means for rotating said disk, and a lens between said disk and the screen said lens having inscribed thereon another inscription which is thrown upon the screen within the path which is traversed by the inscription upon said glass disk when the latter is rotated, the latter inscription being projected through said lens.
A CROSS INDEX TO Better Theatres

An Alphabetical and Cross Reference List of the Contents of Better Theatres for the Six Issues from May 10, 1930, to September 27, 1930, Inclusive

ACOUSTICS

ADVERTISING, THEATRE

AIR CONDITIONS
Adjusting Air Conditions to the Weather, by Malcolm Tomlinson. June 7, p. 17.

ARCHITECTURAL TYPES
Atmospheric
Gateway, Chicago. May 10, p. 36.
Midwest, Oklahoma City. Aug. 30, p. 28.

East Indian
Patha Cinema, Bombay, India. June 7, p. 22.
Fox, Visalia, Cal. Sept. 27, p. 13.

Egyptian

French Baroque

Georgian
Little Picture House, New York. June 7, p. 27.

Mediterranean

Modern
Gateway, Chicago. May 10, p. 36.
Fox, Spokane. July 5, p. 29.
Fox, Billings, Mont. Aug. 2, p. 28.

Spanish
Texas, San Angelo. June 7, p. 34.
Ritz, Corpus Christi, Texas. May 10, p. 30.
Midwest, Oklahoma City. Aug. 30, p. 28.
Fox, Hanford, Cal. Sept. 27, p. 18.

ARCHITECTURE, THEATRE
Designing the Theatre Exterior, by Robert Bollier. May 10, p. 21
(continued from April 12th issue).
Publix Adds Another to Its Great Chicago Group. May 10, p. 36.
The Modern Theatre Comes to India. June 7, p. 22.
The Theatre for the Encouragement of “Better Pictures.” June 7, p. 27.
The Texas Theatre in San Angelo, a Fine Small House. June 7, p. 34.

AUDITORIUM LAYOUTS
See PLANS, THEATRE

BUDGETS, EQUIPMENT
The Economical Equipment Budget. May 10, p. 35 (Continued from April 12th issue).

CODE

DECORATIONS, THEATRE
See ARCHITECTURE, THEATRE

DIMMERS
Development of Modern Dimmer Systems, by R. H. Hunter, Sept. 27, p. 11.
E

EFFECTS, LIGHTING
See PROJECTION

EQUIPMENT

EXPORT MARKET
Netherland East Indies. Aug. 30, p. 58.
Japan. Aug. 30, p. 60.
Chosen. Aug. 30, p. 60.
India. Sept. 27, p. 53.
Ceylon. Sept. 27, p. 58.
Persia. Sept. 27, p. 58.

F

FLOOR PLANS
See PLANS, THEATRE

H

HISTORY, MOTION PICTURE
When the “Movies” First Tried to Talk, by David A. Hulfish. Aug. 2, p. 33.

I

INVENTIONS, NEW
June 7, p. 70.
Film Making Machine.
Tone Amplifier for Sound Reproducing Apparatus.
Stage Curtain or Drop.
Automatic Sound Reproducing Machine.
Color-Projection Apparatus for Cinematographs.
Sound Amplifier.
Film-driving Apparatus.
Sound-amplifying Horn.
July 5, p. 70.
Method of Producing Films for Color Cinematography.
Television Apparatus.
Duplex Horn for Sound Reproducers.
Sound Amplifier.
Cinematograph Projection Apparatus.
Loud speaker.
Cinematograph Spool Case.
Sound-translating System.
Film Winder.
Acoustic Amplifier.
Loud Speaker.
Projecting Apparatus.
Loud Speaker.
Cinematograph Color Film and Method of Manufacture.
Sound locating Apparatus.
Manufacture of Multicolor Cinematographic Films.
Multicolor Cinematograph and Other Film.
Aug. 30, p. 62.
Film-driving Means.
Sound Reproducing Device.
Sound Reproducing Machine.
Loud Speaker.
Sound Reproducing Device.
Sound Recording.
Sept. 27, p. 54.
Photographic Sound Reproducing Apparatus.
Sound Reproducing Device.
Image Modifier.
Synchronizing System.
Device for Exhibiting Pictures with Colored Scenery.
Camera Sextant.
Optical System of Motion Picture Projection Machines.
Sound Radiator.

LEGAL

Blue Laws

Liability
Trustee Liable for Payment. May 10, p. 65.
Not Liable for Exploiting Film. May 10, p. 66.
Liable for False Arrest. May 10, p. 66.
Determining Liability. June 7, p. 60.
Liability Reduced. June 7, p. 60.
Liability in Chronic Disease. July 5, p. 60.
When Landlord is Liable. Sept. 27, p. 27.

Patrons
Injury Caused by Another Patron. May 10, p. 34.
Liability for Ejection. June 7, p. 29.
Patron Damages. June 7, p. 64.
Patron Must Use Care. July 5, p. 25.

Miscellaneous
Intimidation by Union. May 10, p. 34.
Damages for Employer’s Death. May 10, p. 34.
Breach of Contract. May 10, p. 64.
Reselling Tickets. May 10, p. 64.
Leasing Agent and Rent. May 10, p. 65.
Injury to Pedestrian. May 10, p. 67.
Safe-guarding Employees. May 10, p. 68.
Liability for “Holding Over.” May 10, p. 68.
Purchasing Contracts. May 10, p. 69.
Safe-guarding Employees. May 10, p. 70.
Copy-right Infringement. June 7, p. 29.
“Gum Chewing” Said the Court. June 7, p. 29.
Dangerous Appliances. June 7, p. 60.
Injuries to Unlicensed. June 7, p. 61.
Damages Due to Lien. June 7, p. 61.
Authority of President. June 7, p. 62.
Bank’s Duty to Endorsers. June 7, p. 63.
Sewer Assessments. June 7, p. 63.
Advertising Contracts. June 7, p. 64.
Duty as to Elevators. June 7, p. 64.
Employee Denied Damages. June 7, p. 64.
When Employee is “Employed.” June 7, p. 64.
Inspection Requirements. June 7, p. 64.
Scope of Employment. July 5, p. 60.
Injuries While at Play. July 5, p. 60.
Oral Agreements. July 5, p. 60.
Related Contracts. Aug. 2, p. 27.
Contracts by Musicians. Aug. 2, p. 27.
Contracts Made by Son. Aug. 2, p. 27.
LIGHTING

M

MATERIALS, BUILDING

(continued from April 12th issue).

MUSIC

P

PLANS, THEATRE

Ritz, Corpus Christi, Texas. May 10, p. 32.33.
Gateway, Chicago, by Arthur Frederick Adams. May 10, p. 36.
Fox, Visalia, Cal. Sept. 27, p. 13.
Fox, Hanford, Cal. Sept. 27, p. 18.

POSTER ART, THEATRE

PROJECTION

See also \textit{SOUND IN THE THEATRE}

Better Projection, by F. H. Richardson.
New Styles in Effects. May 16, p. 52.
A Visitor from South Africa. May 10, p. 55.
A New President of Projection Advisory Council. May 10, p. 56.
Periscope Projection. June 7, p. 49.
Distortion and Eye Strain. June 7, p. 50.
Questions Requiring Investigation. June 7, p. 52.
Valuable Information. June 7, p. 53.
Dust xPlenty. June 7, p. 55.
Slow-burning Film. June 7, p. 57.
Able Management. June 7, p. 57.
Vacuum Tube Coupling. July 5, p. 50.
Projection Costs Versus Results. July 5, p. 52.
Wide Film an Installation Cost. July 5, p. 54.
The Best Projection Plant I’ve Seen. July 5, p. 54.

Public Stunts. July 5, p. 56.
Connel on Periscope Projection. Aug. 2, p. 44.
Sound and Wide Film. Aug. 2, p. 44.
Outraging Film. Aug. 2, p. 45.
Sound—Old Lenses—A. C. Aug. 2, p. 46.
As to Color. Aug. 2, p. 49.
The Development of Carbons. Aug. 30, p. 43.
Filament Shows on Screen. Aug. 30, p. 44.
Number of Teeth in Mesh. Aug. 30, p. 44.
Managers and Projection. Sept. 27, p. 43.
Rewinding. Sept. 27, p. 45.

SHOWMANSHIP

SOUND IN THE THEATRE

The Problem of Strays in Disc Attachments. May 10, p. 50.
Tone Controls and Their Relation to Stray Noises. Aug. 2, p. 33.
From Flickers to Movies to Talkies, by O. F. Spahr. June 7, p. 42.
When the “Movies” First Tried to Talk, by David S. Hulfsch, Aug. 30, p. 33.
The Needle and Its Importance in Accurate Reproduction from Discs. Sept. 27, p. 29.
How Much of the Original Do Patrons Hear? Sept. 27, p. 29.

T

THEATRES, NEW

Ritz, Corpus Christi, Tex. May 10, p. 30.
Gateway, Chicago. May 10, p. 36.
Pathé Cinema, Bombay, India. June 7, p. 22.
Little Picture House, New York. June 7, p. 27.
Texas, San Angelo. June 7, p. 34.
Midwest, Oklahoma City. Aug. 30, p. 28.

W

WIDE FILM

See PROJECTION
ALPHABETICAL LIST OF ADVERTISERS

ACCESSORIES FOR SOUND DEVICES
Amplion Corporation of America ........................................ 29
Boston & Sanford .......................................................... 18
Curtain Liner Assemblies ................................................ 74
Electro-Tone Corporation .................................................. 7
Electric Tone Company ..................................................... 7
Mullinger Manufacturing Company .................................... 71
Reiner Manufacturing Company ...................................... 71
Reiner Manufacturing Company, Inc. ............................... 71
Simiplex, Inc. .............................................................. 71
S. O. S. Corporation ........................................................ 71
The Theatre Sound Equipment Company .......................... 69

ACOUSTICAL PRODUCTS
The Celotex Company ...................................................... 5
The Jervis Company ........................................................ 5
Johns-Mansville Corporation ............................................. 5
King Studio, Inc. ............................................................. 5
Distributors of National Ray Mills, Inc. .............................. 5
United States Gypsum Company ....................................... 5
Western City Supply, Inc. .................................................. 5

ADVERTISING NOVELTIES
Brass Novelty Manufacturing Co. ...................................... 63
Enamel Novelty & Printing Co. ......................................... 63
The Leader Press ........................................................... 63
The Vibro-lier Company ................................................... 63

AISLE LIGHTS
Kaiser Manufacturing Company ....................................... 53

AMPLIFIERS
American Transformer Company ...................................... 53
Wesley Company .......................................................... 53

ANCHOR EXPANSION BOLTS
Bull & Howard Company .................................................. 53

AUTOMATIC CURTAIN CONTROL
Automatic Device Company ............................................. 53
Bruckner-Mitchell, Inc. ................................................... 53
Fellow Electrical Company ............................................. 53

BANNERS, SIGNS
H. Draycott Company ..................................................... 53

CAMERAS AND PROJECTORS
Bell & Howell Company .................................................. 53

CARBON ADAPTERS
Best Devices Company ................................................... 53

CARRIERS
Bigelow-Stanford Carpet Company .................................. 53
Smith-Curtis Mills ........................................................ 53

CARPET CUSHIONING
The Cobbler Company .................................................... 53
Curtain City Company ..................................................... 53
National City Company ................................................... 53
Western Full Works ....................................................... 53

CENTRAL HEATING CHAIRS
General Seating Company .............................................. 53

CHANGING ROOMS
Crutcher Products Corporation ....................................... 53

COLOR LIGHTING EQUIPMENT
Rhein Electric Company .................................................. 53

DIMMERS
Rhein Electric Manufacturing Company ............................ 53

DOUBLE BEARING MOVEMENTS
Quesada Manufacturing Company .................................... 53

EFFECT MACHINES
Chicago Cinema Equipment Company ................................ 53

ELECTRIC PICKUPS
The Auda Company ....................................................... 53
Bassoon Manufacturing Company ..................................... 53
The Or-Tone Company .................................................... 53

EQUIPMENT SUPPLIES
Horner Company .......................................................... 53
Illinois Theatre Stage Exchange Company ........................ 53
Monarch Theatre Supply Company .................................. 53

EMERGENCY LIGHTING SYSTEMS
Electric Storage Battery Co. .......................................... 53

ENGINEERING SERVICE
Basson Manufacturing Company .................................... 53

FACTORIES ASSOCIATES
Associated Fabrics Corporation ...................................... 53

FANS, VENTILATION
Century Electric Company ............................................. 53
Plymouth Fan Company .................................................. 53

FILM CEMENT
F. R. Griffin .............................................................. 53

FILM STOCK
Electric Supply Company .............................................. 53

FIRE PREVENTION
Safety Equipment Corporation ....................................... 53

FLOW COVERINGS
Mohawk Carpet Mills .................................................... 53
W. & J. Shannon .......................................................... 53

FRAME LIGHT SHIELDS
Gold Manufacturing Company ......................................... 53

GENERATORS
Automatic Devices Company .......................................... 53
General Electric Company .............................................. 53
Hertter Electric Company .............................................. 53

GOLF COURSES, MINIATURE
Clifton-Nature Company ................................................ 53
Whitney Golf & Company ............................................. 53

HOUSING AND SPACERS
Miles Enrother Company ................................................ 53
Stony Mountain Manufacturing Company ........................ 53
Tacon Electric Company ............................................... 53
Radio Industries of Canada, Ltd. ..................................... 53
Silver-Marshall Company............................................... 53

INSURANCE
James Jeffrey & Company .............................................. 53

INTERCHANGEABLE SPRING SEATS
Rhein Electric Manufacturing Company ............................ 53

LAMPS, HIGH INTENSITY
Wall & Barlow ............................................................ 53

LAMPS, REFLECTING ARC
Rhein Electric Manufacturing Company ............................ 53

LENS MOUNTS
Gold Manufacturing Company ........................................ 53

LENSES
Bassoon & Lamp Optical Company .................................. 53

MASADA REGULATORS
Carrington Manufacturing Co. ......................................... 53

NEEDLES, PHONOGRAPH
Sound Service Systems, Inc. .......................................... 53

ORGANS
George Kijon & Sons, Inc. .............................................. 53

ORGAN HEATERS
Roosevelt Manufacturing Company .................................. 53

PATENT ATTORNEYS
William N. Moore ....................................................... 53

PROJECTORS
Cameo Molding Corporation .......................................... 53
Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co. .......................................... 53

RAILINGS, GLIDES
Zero Valve and Brass Corporation ................................... 53

SAFETY LADDERS
York Safety & Lock Company .......................................... 53

SCREENS
American Silvercoat Company ....................................... 53

SEATS
American Seating Company .......................................... 53

SLIDES
Quality Slide Company .................................................. 53

SPEED INDICATORS
Basson Manufacturing Company .......................... 53

BETTER THEATRES SECTION
October 25, 1930

CLASSIFIED LIST OF ADVERTISERS

[In this and other issues of BETTER THEATRES]
BETTER THEATRES CATALOG BUREAU

"Better Theatres" offers on this page an individual service to its readers. Detailed and authentic catalogs are arranged and presented here with a selection of the most forthcoming products by this Bureau. For full information, and to purchase any of the products listed by this Bureau, visit Exhibitors Herald-World. Read on and enjoy the variety of products available to you.

A

1. Acousting systems.
2. Air conditioning equipment.
3. Air conditioning systems.
4. Air conditioners, central.
5. Air conditioners, room.
6. Air conditioning units.
7. Air conditioning units, portable.
8. Air conditioning units, roof.
10. Air filters.
11. Air supply systems.
12. Air conditioning equipment.
13. Air conditioning units.
15. Air conditioning units, roof.
16. Air conditioning units, roof,
17. Air conditioning units, roof.
18. Air conditioning units, roof.
19. Air conditioning units, roof.
20. Air conditioning units, roof.
21. Air conditioning units, roof.
22. Air conditioning units, roof.
23. Air conditioning units, roof.
25. Air conditioning units, roof.
26. Air conditioning units, roof.
27. Air conditioning units, roof.
28. Air conditioning units, roof.
29. Air conditioning units, roof.
30. Air conditioning units, roof.
31. Air conditioning units, roof.
32. Air conditioning units, roof.
33. Air conditioning units, roof.
34. Air conditioning units, roof.
35. Air conditioning units, roof.
36. Air conditioning units, roof.
37. Air conditioning units, roof.
38. Air conditioning units, roof.
39. Air conditioning units, roof.
40. Air conditioning units, roof.
41. Air conditioning units, roof.
42. Air conditioning units, roof.
43. Air conditioning units, roof.
44. Air conditioning units, roof.
45. Air conditioning units, roof.
46. Air conditioning units, roof.
47. Air conditioning units, roof.
48. Air conditioning units, roof.
49. Air conditioning units, roof.
50. Air conditioning units, roof.

B

1. Balloons, advertising.
2. Banners, advertising.
3. Banners, educational.
4. Banners, educational.
5. Banners, educational.
6. Banners, educational.
7. Banners, educational.
8. Banners, educational.
10. Banners, educational.
11. Banners, educational.
12. Banners, educational.
13. Banners, educational.
15. Banners, educational.
16. Banners, educational.
17. Banners, educational.
18. Banners, educational.
20. Banners, educational.
22. Banners, educational.
23. Banners, educational.
24. Banners, educational.
25. Banners, educational.
26. Banners, educational.
27. Banners, educational.
28. Banners, educational.
29. Banners, educational.
30. Banners, educational.
31. Banners, educational.
32. Banners, educational.
33. Banners, educational.
34. Banners, educational.
35. Banners, educational.
36. Banners, educational.
37. Banners, educational.
38. Banners, educational.
39. Banners, educational.
40. Banners, educational.
41. Banners, educational.
42. Banners, educational.
43. Banners, educational.
44. Banners, educational.
45. Banners, educational.
46. Banners, educational.
47. Banners, educational.
48. Banners, educational.
49. Banners, educational.
50. Banners, educational.

C

1. Calculators.
2. Calculators.
3. Calculators.
5. Calculators.
6. Calculators.
7. Calculators.
8. Calculators.
10. Calculators.
11. Calculators.
12. Calculators.
13. Calculators.
15. Calculators.
17. Calculators.
18. Calculators.
20. Calculators.
22. Calculators.
23. Calculators.
25. Calculators.
27. Calculators.
28. Calculators.
29. Calculators.
30. Calculators.
31. Calculators.
32. Calculators.
33. Calculators.
34. Calculators.
35. Calculators.
36. Calculators.
37. Calculators.
38. Calculators.
40. Calculators.
41. Calculators.
42. Calculators.
43. Calculators.
44. Calculators.
45. Calculators.
46. Calculators.
47. Calculators.
48. Calculators.
49. Calculators.
50. Calculators.

D

1. Draughtsman, technical.
2. Draughtsman, technical.
3. Draughtsman, technical.
4. Draughtsman, technical.
5. Draughtsman, technical.
6. Draughtsman, technical.
7. Draughtsman, technical.
8. Draughtsman, technical.
10. Draughtsman, technical.
11. Draughtsman, technical.
12. Draughtsman, technical.
15. Draughtsman, technical.
17. Draughtsman, technical.
18. Draughtsman, technical.
20. Draughtsman, technical.
22. Draughtsman, technical.
23. Draughtsman, technical.
24. Draughtsman, technical.
25. Draughtsman, technical.
27. Draughtsman, technical.
29. Draughtsman, technical.
30. Draughtsman, technical.
31. Draughtsman, technical.
32. Draughtsman, technical.
33. Draughtsman, technical.
34. Draughtsman, technical.
35. Draughtsman, technical.
36. Draughtsman, technical.
37. Draughtsman, technical.
38. Draughtsman, technical.
39. Draughtsman, technical.
40. Draughtsman, technical.
41. Draughtsman, technical.
42. Draughtsman, technical.
43. Draughtsman, technical.
44. Draughtsman, technical.
45. Draughtsman, technical.
46. Draughtsman, technical.
47. Draughtsman, technical.
48. Draughtsman, technical.
49. Draughtsman, technical.
50. Draughtsman, technical.

E

2. Exhibitors, Herald-World.
34. Exhibitors, Herald-World.
42. Exhibitors, Herald-World.
43. Exhibitors, Herald-World.
44. Exhibitors, Herald-World.
46. Exhibitors, Herald-World.
47. Exhibitors, Herald-World.
A Tribute to a Great Inventive Genius

TRIBUTE of inspiring grandeur was paid October 6, to one of America's earliest inventive geniuses whose works directly and indirectly contributed importantly to the motion picture. On that day leaders in industry, business and science gathered at Schenley Park in Pittsburgh to attend the unveiling of a magnificent memorial to George Westinghouse.

Assembled in a setting of unusual beauty, they observed the unveiling of the monument erected by the Westinghouse Memorial Association, composed of 54,251 members, mostly Westinghouse employees, who, with the assistance of subscriptions made by the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company and the Westinghouse Air Brake Company, financed the undertaking.

The dedicatory ceremony, which began at 2 o'clock, was presided over by E. M. Herr, vice chairman of the board of directors of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company. The program included addresses by A. L. Humphrey, president of the Westinghouse Air Brake Company and one of the leaders in the movement for providing the memorial; James Francis Burke, former congressman and now general counsel of the Republican national committee; and Bishop Alexander Mann of the Pittsburgh Episcopal diocese.

Following these addresses, George Mann, representing the Westinghouse Veterans, presented the memorial. The monument was unveiled. Then Mayor Charles H. Kline of Pittsburgh, made the speech of acceptance in behalf of the city.

The program was interspersed with music numbers by the Westinghouse Employees' Band and the Westinghouse Employees' chorus.

In the evening the guests attended a banquet at the William Penn Hotel, where a program of music and speeches was presented. Dr. E. J. Van Etten delivered the invocation, and after the dinner, the toastmaster, A. W. Robertson, chairman of the board of directors of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, was introduced by Mr. Humphrey. Addresses by Congressman James M. Beek of Philadelphia, former solicitor general of the United States, and Right Hon. Balfour, G.C.B., prominent industrialist of England, followed. The program was concluded by an address, "George Westinghouse—An Appreciation," by John F. Miller, vice chairman of the board of directors of the Westinghouse Air Brake Company.

Both the afternoon and evening programs were broadcast by Westinghouse Electric Radio Station KDKA. Scales were being largely maintained, although even here there is reason to believe that in many instances men are being obtained well below the scale. In the smaller cities and towns, wages in the building trades are frankly well below the level of two or three years ago. Again, this is a condition likely to be radically changed with the increase of general business activity.

In connection with labor costs, the greater effectiveness of labor at the present time should not be overlooked as a factor in reducing the total cost of any construction project. Men working at a time when a job is important may be expected to be more efficient, and of course speed, a highly important consideration in construction costs, is a natural concomitant of efficiency.

Available money is at the present time abundant, awaiting an outlet on some what more favorable terms than are offered by the low returns on current loanings, etc. While a number of real estate loans have fallen into disfavor, the proven stability of the motion picture business and the excellent security afforded by the buildings, make the theatre, undoubtedly the place such enterprises among those favored by the banking institutions seeking profitable investment channels.

The Lowering of Theatre Building Costs

(Continued from page 23)

90 per cent of the wage earners with approximately their normal income. It is precisely for the acceleration of recovery that the lessons learned in financing and management during the last year and a half be applied toward the prevention, so far as possible, of the conditions that gave rise to the present recession.

In this connection, it is interesting to note the thesis asserting a greater share in prosperity of a greater number of individuals in the future. Statistics recently published as to the increasing share of labor in the total national income realized by manufacturers, property owners and workers, show that during the period from 1909 to 1928, inclusive, the proportion of the total income received by the property-owning group declined from 49.05 per cent to 42.63 per cent. A continuation of this increasing percentage to labor is indicated for the future, a factor that is being carefully watched by every business man whose own revenues are dependent upon the increased purchasing power of the general public.

Even more interesting, perhaps, as showing the growth in the purchasing power of the nation as a whole during this same period, are the absolute figures that show an increase in income from $14,515,000,000 to $38,296,000,000 for the property owners and entrepreneurs, and from $15,990,000,000 to $36,053,900,000 for labor.

Factual signs are noticeable that the general business recession is approaching an end and that increasing activity will gradually manifest itself more and more in a large number of lines, increasing the purchasing power of a considerable part of that relatively small number of consumers whose buying is nevertheless so effective as to provide the marginal factor between prosperity and depression.

It is generally agreed that the liquidation of raw material inventories throughout the world, and a stabilization of commodity prices is a necessary prerequisite for the return of normal business activity. Lacking assurance that prices may not fall lower, manufacturers and retailers both refuse to purchase for future needs. Raw material prices throughout the world are in many instances, however, at the lowest point in decades, and inventories of many commodities in this group are at lower levels than have been seen for many years, a large part of this having been effected as the result of underproduction and liquidation the last year.

The over-production of a year and a half and two years ago formed an inventory problem that, while not always apparent, has been nevertheless present. This is being overcome, retailers figures show, more and more each day, at least partly, to meet demand for commodities which at last are wearing out. Making continuation of such rigid economy as has been obtaining, no longer possible.

To return to theatre construction itself, it should be remembered that as general business conditions improve, the ensuing activity is likely to result in an increase in the cost of materials, labor and also money. The cost of building materials at the present time, according to the F. W. Dodge Corporation, is the lowest since 1917, and at least a good share of this decline can be attributed to a decline in demand.

The lowered cost of labor in construction at present are of two kinds, direct and indirect. In the larger cities, union scales have been largely maintained, although even here there is reason to believe that in many instances men are being obtained well below the scale. In the smaller cities and towns, wages in the building trades are frankly well below the level of two or three years ago. Again, this is a condition likely to be radically changed with the increase of general business activity.

In connection with labor costs, the greater effectiveness of labor at the present time should not be overlooked as a factor in reducing the total cost of any construction project. Men working at a time when a job is important may be expected to be more efficient, and of course speed, a highly important consideration in construction costs, is a natural concomitant of efficiency.
SIMPLEX REAR SHUTTER
A REVOLUTIONARY IMPROVEMENT

Illumination Increased 35 to 48%
Heat Reduced 50 to 75%

Every Owner, Manager and Projectionist Should Send for Information Regarding

The new Super Simplex

AND THE

NEW REAR SHUTTER ATTACHMENT

For SIMPLEX REGULAR PROJECTOR

SIMPLEX REAR SHUTTER PREVENTS BUCKLING

INTERNATIONAL PROJECTOR CORPORATION
90 GOLD STREET
NEW YORK
THE ENTERPRISE OPTICAL MFG. CO., 564 W. Randolph St., Chicago, Ill.

"MOTIOGRAPH" QUALITY FROM PROJECTOR TO SPEAKER BACKED BY 30 YEARS OF SUCCESSFUL MANUFACTURING AND PROJECTOR BUILDING EXPERIENCE.

MATCHED, UNIT BUILT!

NO ATTACHMENTS!

"MOTIOGRAPH" MODEL "C" SOUND EQUIPMENT FOR SOUND ON FILM ONLY

"MOTIOGRAPH" MODEL "F" SOUND EQUIPMENT FOR SOUND ON FILM

"MOTIOGRAPH" COMPLETE SOUND EQUIPMENT
FOR SOUND ON FILM AND SOUND ON DISC

YOU TAKE NO CHANCES WITH THIS GUARANTEED SOUND EQUIPMENT!

WHEN YOU BUY IT - YOU OWN IT!!

THE ENTERPRISE OPTICAL MFG. CO., 564 W. Randolph St., Chicago, Ill.
Three stories in one issue of Variety

"Laughter" Surprises H. O.

Finished and sent to Paramount's home office, a tumult started at the first projection room showing of "Laughter". The Paramount people asked each other why no one had said anything about the picture before.

The oldest Paramount staff man could not recall of a studio turning out a big picture and keeping it a secret.

"LAUGHTER"

It's a screen success before released. Which means a real grosser. There aren't many "Laughters" on stage or screen.

Nancy Carroll plays well. If he can duplicate his work in "Laughter", Fredric March is a star. He is a merged breeze of all breezes.

Hugely enjoyable entertainment. The sort the flaps like. They'll talk about "Laughter" for a long time.

"Laughter" Wins Against Gold in New Par Film

Nancy Carroll, put to the test, comes off with high honors. Fredric March is a knockout feminine spectators will adore.

After Wise Showmen See It, They're Saying:

PARAMOUNT'S
"LAUGHTER" IS THE MOST IMPORTANT PICTURE MADE SO FAR THIS YEAR!

Directed by H. D'Aubuis D'Irnest

"Paramount has turned out one of the best pictures of the year, and one that should stand as such in the opinion of any audience."

—Hollywood Reporter
On the Level, the Critics All Say It’s So Funny It’s Simply NUTS! "She Got What She Wanted"

Mad, glad, hot, crazy, hilarious — that’s James Cruze’s first Tiffany hit this season. You just must have it!

M. P. NEWS — “A laugh from start to finish. Swell!”

EX. DAILY REVIEW — “Rolled them in the aisles!”

EXHIB. HERALD-WORLD — “There isn’t a let-up!”

HOLLYWOOD FILMOGRAPH — “Greatest laugh producer we have previewed in many months!”

HOLLYWOOD REPORTER — “One of the most delightful absurdities ever to reach the screen!”

Year’s prime comedy performances are given by Betty Compson, Lee Tracy, Alan Hale, Gaston Glass, Fred Kelsey, and Dorothy Christy... It’s an outstanding nut picture — a howl. “She Got What She Wanted” — and man, oh man, what she wanted!

Directed by JAMES CRUZE • Produced by SAMUEL ZIERLER

Author GEORGE ROSENER • with notable cast given above

A JAMES CRUZE PRODUCTION

Tiffany tidings are just scrumptious! “The Third Alarm” coming as the thrill-epic of the year. “Extravagance” sweeping the first-runs. Tiffany Chimps in the money everywhere. And now the comedy sensation of the season, “She Got What She Wanted!”
Mr. C. A. Smith,
Paramount Publix Corporation,
1214 Central Parkway,
Cincinnati, Ohio.

Friend Smith:

Paramount has given complete satisfaction.

I opened with "LET'S GO NATIVE", "PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS" and a "PARAMOUNT COMEDY SHORT." I made no mistake there. Then I came along with "ANYBODY'S WAR." Results were much more than I expected.

I followed with "--------------", that "-------------" picture that they bragged so much about and the receipts were far under "ANYBODY'S WAR." Hurry for Paramount! It's grand you said you would stick to me. Your selection has been wonderful.

Yesterday I opened with "MANSLAUGHTER." To say the business surprised me would not express it. I did something that I have not done for a long time - turned them away! Considering what business has been, it seems almost impossible.

I put up all my money and borrowed all I could stand to complete my new house. It's wonderful how Paramount has helped me out. All of my patrons praise your pictures. The opposition house was almost empty Sunday. To say I'm pleased isn't half enough. Hurry for Paramount!

A Booster for Paramount,
J. B. RUSSELL

THE BEST ARE STILL TO COME, MR. RUSSELL!

Wait till you play "FEET FIRST", "ANYBODY'S WOMAN", "ANIMAL CRACKERS", "MONTE CARLO", "PLAYBOY OF PARIS", "LAUGHTER", "MOROCCO", "TOM SAWYER", "FIGHTING CARAVANS" and the unending stream of other big money-makers in Paramount's 1930-31 program. You'll agree more than ever that there's no other company like Paramount in sight or sound!

Thousands of Exhibitors Are Thankful They Bought Paramount's Greater New Show World LEW AYRES star of
"All Quiet on the Western Front" and "Common Clay"—in his greatest role!

coming
*VIENNESE NIGHTS*
The Greatest Love Story Ever Told
WARNER BROS.
Present

THE DOORWAY TO HELL

Story by George Rosener
Directed by Archie Mayo

A BABY-FACED KILLER!

Wanted by the police, marked by the gang, betrayed by the woman he loved!

This inside story of underworld vengeance is a box-office natural that ties in with the biggest front page news of the year!

Record-smashing business at the Earle in Washington and the Stanley in Philadelphia. Opens this week at the New York Strand. AVAILABLE TO YOU DAY-AND-DATE WITH BROADWAY!
Swift Messages... that leave an Accurate, Printed Record

An exhibitor in Iowa wants to know what's happened to the picture scheduled for tonight's show...

A producer on the Coast asks its publicity department to release stories on a new film...

An exchange in Indiana requests a new print to replace one damaged in transit...

Urgent messages between the nerve centers of the motion picture industry. Speed is essential...accuracy vital...a printed record of the transaction necessary.

* * *

Orders... confirmations... inquiries... reports... an ever-increasing stream of communications flashes across the vast network of Postal Telegraph wires—reaching over 70,000 points in the United States, 8,000 in Canada.

Executives appreciate the reliability and convenience of Postal Telegraph service.

The alert messengers... the highly trained operators... the second-splitting equipment... the sense of responsibility evident in every transaction—all contribute to make Postal Telegraph as efficient as the industries it serves. Postal Telegraph is the only American telegraph company offering a world-wide service of coordinated record communications. Through affiliation in the International System, Postal Telegraph goes to Europe, Asia and the Orient over Commercial Cables; to the West Indies, Central and South America over All America Cables; to ships at sea via Mackay Radio.

Postal Telegraph

ALL AMERICA CABLES

MACKAY RADIO

COMMERCIAL CABLES
ACES all aces!

Here's your winning hand of hits—the top of every entertainment suit, 4 of a big box office kind.

With these money attractions, you can count on 4 sure tricks. Fox has the product, and Fox movie-tone bids are game bids every time.

Four great pictures with all the honors—production, story, cast, and box office.

THE BIG TRAIL — Raoul Walsh's masterpiece—all the thrills, glamor and epic romance of the West—ace production of the screen, with John Wayne, Marguerite Churchill.

JUST IMAGINE—DeSylva, Brown and Henderson's successor to "Sunny Side Up"—a musical romance of 1930 with all-name cast topped by El Brendel. Directed by David Butler.

LIGHTNIN'—Will Rogers—diamond in the rough with more sparkle than the British crown jewels—starring in a great comedy from John Golden's stage success. A Henry King production.
Whole Nation in the Grip of Amos 'N' Andy Hysteria . . .
Hold-overs Everywhere Already Announced to Accommodate Clamoring Multitudes . . . All America Stampedes to Bursting Box-offices as Twin Meteors Thunder to Titan Triumph!

WIRES THROB WITH DRAMATIC

WM. SINGER, STATE LAKE THEATRE, CHICAGO:
"Attendance and receipts surpassing all existing records by thousands of dollars stop. Showed to nearly twenty thousand paid admissions on opening day."

CURT BECK, MGR., MAJESTIC THEATRE, DALLAS:
"Amos 'N Andy turned Dallas inside out with laughter today with their Check and Double Check greatest picture ever screened!"

MARK GATES, LOWELL:
"Every house record smashed as crowd stood in torrential rains awaiting seats."

A. D. POPEL, ORPHEUM, LOS ANGELES:
"Started performance two hours earlier than usual with crowds lined up for two blocks at seven a. m. clamoring for admittance stop Check and Double Check positive sensation."

G. WM. WOLF, ORPHEUM, SAN FRANCISCO:
"My opinion we have greatest box-office picture in show history stop San Francisco is checked and double checked from every angle."

LOUIS HELBORN, ST. LOUIS:
"Never in history has any attraction ever stampeded St. Louis like Amos 'N Andy in radios Check and Double Check stop. A sensation from every angle breaking all records stop. Compelled to run extra shows to accommodate enthusiastic crowds."

ARTHUR FRUDENFELD, DOWNT'N TH. DETROIT:
"Hold outs hour after hour stop. Played to enormous number of children and in this age of sex how wonderful it is to have an attraction that brings out every member of the family from Willie age six to Grandma age seventy-six."

THOS. D. SORIERO, ST. LOUIS:
"St. Louis wild with enthusiasm stop. Have never seen its equal since I have been in show business."

R. C. CONNOR, R K O KEITHS, BOSTON:
"Glorious Amos 'N Andy opening despite good old fashioned New England northeaster with rain sleet and wind stop. Bostons enthusiasm over Check and Double Check unparalleled and theatre jammed from opening to close."

STORY OF TERRIFIC GROSSES!

LEN. S. BROWN, EMBROYD FT. WAYNE, IND:
"Amos 'n' Andy in Check and Double Check opened here today to biggest business ever achieved by any picture in history of Fort Wayne."

G. ALAN DUNNING, PALACE, CINCINNATI:
"Audience reaction proves Radio Pictures Check and Double Check a sensation and will sweep the country."

HOMER GILL, SEATTLE:
"This attraction will do for the theatre industry what Lincoln did for slaves stop Positive revelation."

EMIL R. FRANKE, ORPHEUM, MINNEAPOLIS:
"Never have I seen a picture receive such response from an audience stop Picture will prove to be greatest sensation to be had in a good many seasons."

P. C. TAYLOR, TORONTO:
"Amos and Andy opened here last Friday Tivoli Theatre Paramounts ace house to tremendous business stop Marvelous drawing power of picture best illustrated by fact that gross receipts for Friday and Saturday were largest house has had for one year."

VERNON REAVER, MGR., BIRMINGHAM:
"If any picture producers ever brought out a natural RKO has done this with Amos 'n' Andy."

JESS DAY, DES MOINES:
"Have never seen in all my career audiences so enthusiastic and as many laughs as in Check and Double Check."

RAY O'CONNEL, ST. PAUL, MINN:
"Even with five shows today house is not big enough to hold the crowd stop Undoubtedly the picture smash of the century."

E. J. SPARKS, JACKSONVILLE:
"I have seen landslides on mountain sides and avalanches in volcano pits but none of these equal crash at Palace gate this morning at nine o'clock. "What a gold mine in store for distributor and exhibitor on Amos and Andy congratulations and best wishes."
No Greater Compliment—to a reference book such as the Motion Picture Almanac could be expected than the following letter from

Frederic J. Haskin

"It is impossible for me to express the appreciation I feel regarding the two volumes, the 1929 and 1930 editions of the 'Motion Picture Almanac' which you so kindly sent us. In the few days that I have had these books on my desk I found occasion to refer to them many times and have also found the information desired complete in every detail.

"I wish to thank you again for your prompt attention to my request for them."

The 1931 Motion Picture Almanac to be issued early in 1931 is now in preparation

Advance Subscriptions

FROM people within the motion picture industry now being accepted at $1. Price upon publication will be $2.

Advertisements

ARE now being accepted from all branches of the industry. Write or telephone Exhibitors Herald-World for rates.

Published by Quigley Publishing Company
New York
CHICAGO
Los Angeles
Box-Office Strength

WELDED BY UNEXCELLED UNBREAKABLE UNBEATABLE PRODUCTION ACCOMPLISHMENTS

FIRST NATIONAL'S CHAIN OF HITS IS HOLDING THE LINES IN FRONT OF THE WORLD'S BUSIEST BOX-OFFICES!
Story Strength plus STAR STRENGTH guarantee your box-office strength

Football Special!
COLLEGE LOVERS
The Sensation of all Times!

MOTHERS CRY

Paste THIS in your Hat!

"First National—has sold every important circuit in the world—F. N. has sold twice as many independents as ever before...78% of the First National product is completed, ready for inspection...F. N. has already delivered more hits this season than ever before...

and the best are still to come!"

More than ever before
FIRST NATIONAL
UNIVERSAL IS MAKING THE BEST SHORTS IN THE WORLD!

(No. 702 Straight from the Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation)

The new Universal two-reelers and one-reelers are turning the short product market upside down and inside out.

You're positively behind the times if you don't know about them.

All past efforts of the whole industry are forgotten. This is a new day for shorts and Universal is the new leader of the band!

Ten "Leather Pushers," made from the famous stories of Harry C. Witwer, are being booked sensationallly fast by the best theatres in the world. You can't possibly realize how much can be packed into two reels of sound pictures until you see these.

Ten Slim Summerville two-reel comedies will turn your house into a real riot. If you have not seen and heard "Parlez Vous" and "We We Marie," you cannot know what's newest and best in comedies.

Ten Sidney-Murray comedies (two-reelers) are proving to be far the funniest work ever done by George Sidney and Charlie Murray. Rapid fire dialogue and gags that steal the show from the average feature.

Thirteen "Strange As It Seems" one-reel each. Have you seen any of these? They are in full color and they give a terrific boost to the variety of your program. See one and you'll beg for the whole lot.

Twenty-six "Oswald the Lucky Rabbit" . . . the one-reel cartoon that is setting the pace in cartoon-in-sound comedy. At the very first flash of the main title, the audience shows its delight. Every one a corker!

Four serials so totally different and fine that houses which never ran a serial in their history are booking and featuring them! Led off by "The Indians are Coming" and "The Spell of the Circus."

And every week two issues of the Universal's talking newsreel, featuring Graham McNamee . . . the combination everybody is trying to copy . . . but simply cannot!

If you really want the best shorts, you've got to see Old Man Universal!
EXHIBITORS

HERALD WORLD

In This Issue—

ARBITRATION

OPINION PREVAILS IN HIGH CIRCLES THAT COMING ARBITRATION DECISION BY UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT WILL BE OF LITTLE OR NO CONSEQUENCE BECAUSE EVERY EFFORT WAS MADE IN DRAWING UP NEW CONTRACT AND ARBITRATION CLAUSES TO CONFORM WITH PRACTICES ACCEPTED BY FEDERAL AGENCIES.

COMPLETE INDEX TO CONTENTS

NEWS

Warner Brothers helps solve unemployment problem by big construction program—Twelve more model exchanges only one phase of expansion.

Twin premiere gives Broadway RKO Mayfair theatre and Amos 'n' Andy picture—60 theatres ask permission to hold over film for second week.

First came a trailer, next a newspaper ad, and the fun began—Patent and capital tieups brought by vacuum tube, says Dr. Irby.

What to do? Ten Warner and First National specials ready but nine must wait for theatre—First runs are given 42 days protection in Cincinnati plan.

FEATURES

WARNS OFFICERS OF ALLIED STATES ASSOCIATION THAT IT IS HELPING TO CRUSH HOUSTON INDEPENDENTS—DENIED FLOOR AT DALLAS, F. D. WILKE APPEALS TO EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD FOR HEARING—CHARGES HORWITZ HAS UNFAIR ADVANTAGE WHICH COULD BE CORRECTED BY PROPOSED ZONING PLAN.

DEPARTMENTS

NEW PRODUCT

The Voice of the Industry (Letters from R. M. Anderson) 67
Securities Price Range 26
Hollywood, by Douglas Hodges 43
Broadway 18
Sound Reproduction 49
Pictorial Section 27
J. C. Jenkins—His Colomyn 48

ADVERTISEMENTS

MUSIC AND TALENT—Kae Studios, Dick Betts, Art Thompson, Remick Music Corporation, Don Galvan, Leo Feist, Inc., Julia Dawn, Brooks Costumes.
Mr. Hughes

WHEN "Hell's Angels" was brought to Broadway last Summer, and two theatres were rented, presumably because one theatre would not be large enough to hold the crowds that would flock to see it, many of the experts along New York's Main Street hailed the production as the greatest attraction of the day. The experts, in all of their wisdom, apparently were greatly impressed with the two-theatre ballyhoo, together with the grossest example of dollar publicity in the history of the business. The picture, they seemed to reason, cost four million dollars so it must be great.

The writer of these lines found himself in sharp disagreement with these so-called experts. To us the picture was a four million dollar shot in the dark and we took about two columns in this publication to make our opinion perfectly clear. Having a pitifully weak story, some very bad actors and acting, some fine airplane stuff which did not mean very much on the screen and a liberal helping of inexcusable filth, we could not quite see where and how "Hell's Angels" was destined to rock the amusement world.

And the fact is, it has in no way rocked the amusement world. It has, however, very closely lived up to Mr. James R. Quirk's estimate in "Photoplay" when he characterized it as "a four million dollar flop."

We are assuming no I-told-you-so attitude. Neither in this case nor in any other case do we lay claim to being able to prophesy what shall be the public's reaction toward a motion picture. We leave this illusionary claim to those who are willing to appear ridiculous in the eyes of all sensible people. But there was so little in "Hell's Angels." stripped of its ballyhoo, upon which to predicate a great success that we are a little surprised that even the "experts" had to add this one to their long list of mistakes.

The results of this expensive experiment would under ordinary circumstances sharply and definitely cut short the producer's activities in motion picture production. Mr. Howard Hughes, the producer of "Hell's Angels," however, is reputed to be a very rich young man to whom the loss of the greater part of four million dollars may be an unpleasant incident but not a disaster. Hence, the motion picture industry may contemplate the prospect of further efforts from Mr. Hughes. Such a prospect is somewhat strengthened by assurances from Mr. Hughes that he intends to carry on in motion picture production. In fact, his press department has frequently announced that a motion picture is to be made of a scandalous story of Hollywood and its people entitled, "Quer People." We have met with no denial of this announcement from Mr. Hughes.

So with what we have seen from Mr. Hughes in "Hell's Angels" and what we may expect in "Quer People" the case of Mr. Hughes presents a perplexing problem.

In the instance of "Hell's Angels" Mr. Hughes set a stern face against all of the proposed measures of prophylaxis indicated by the presence of the filth above noted. Mr. Hughes and his agents have fought with the censor boards and other cleansing agencies for the retention of some of his prized scenes and lines with the zealously of a crusader. In his inexperience he seems to have gauged the tastes of the picture-going public with about the accuracy that would be expected from an Eskimo.

If there is another picture from Mr. Hughes—and the circumstances seem to warrant expecting the worst—the industry is likely to find itself laboring under another unpleasant and unprofitable burden. If the subject of his selection is "Quer People" the industry is certain to be confronted with such a burden.

Aid from Exhibitors

AS everyone knows, the only great problem confronting the motion picture business is the question of product—the quality of the product. There is hardly a theatre anywhere which cannot operate profitably, or very profitably, at such times as it is presenting pictures of an outstanding character.

The quality of the product is primarily the concern of the producer but only in a barely secondary way is it the problem of every branch and every factor of the industry. Every branch and factor in the industry should and must eventually cooperate to its fullest in improving the popular appeal of motion pictures.

The theatre branch of the business, in its immediate contact with the public, learns a great deal about product requirements which has never yet been passed on systematically to the producer. The exhibitor obviously is able to assist tremendously on the product problem, yet no adequate arrangements have ever yet been set up to make such assistance available at the studios.

Leading executives of the principal chains are, of course, available for consultation with the theatre departments of their organization and this arrangement is unquestionably an important aid in the improvement of product. Yet these executives are not out in the theatre field; their information comes to them largely through reports of subordinates. Although these men are operating the large chains, their work is in the offices and not immediately in the theatres. They have before them a close-up picture of no theatres except the Broadway houses.

It seems to us that an exceedingly promising arrangement would be the establishment of a rotating committee of exhibitors at Hollywood, available for consultation with producers. Such a committee would, we believe, be an important force for the betterment of pictures.
Declare Arbitration Decision Of No Consequence to Trade

Say New Contract Conforms to Practices Approved by U.S.

Final Rulings by Supreme Court on Credit Committee And Arbitration Expected Within Month

(November 3, 1930)

BERLIN, Oct. 24.—[By Mail]—

An uproar in the Ufa theatre, Universum, occurred at the premiere of a Max Gloria Terra production, with Michael Bohner, the well known singer, in the leading role, when the audience became irritated by the scratching noises. The patrons stamped their feet, shouted and whistled, and when the hero on the screen had to exclaim, "I wish I had stayed at home!" laughter thundered through the house.

WIN to Install Own Wide Film System In All Its Theatres

(November 3, 1930)

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Vitascope, the wide film development of Warner Brothers, involving the use of a 63 millimeter film, is to be installed in the complete circuit of Warner houses.

Installation of the necessary apparatus, which is said can be put into operation in a half hour, will commence immediately. A new projector head, in which either 35 or 63 millimeter film can be used, is owned by Warner Brothers, and has been manufactured at the Brunswick plant in Muskegon in sufficient quantity to supply all theatres on the circuit.

It is possible that the new type projector head, which will be distributed through the Continental Theatres Accessories Company, will in time be sold to theatres outside the Warner circuit.

 Clarke, Grainger See "Big Trail" at Chicago Opening

(November 3, 1930)

Harley L. Clarke, president of Fox, and J. R. Grainger, general sales manager, were among those who attended the popular preview of "The Big Trail" when the Fox picture opened at McVicker's in Chicago Tuesday night.

Others who attended were John Wayne, a star of the film, and Paul Whiteman.

So great has been the public interest in the picture that morning matinees are being shown every day at 9 o'clock.

deny RKO Plans Using RCA Studio in N. Y. with Trans-Lux Operating It

(November 3, 1930)

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—A report to the effect that RKO plans to utilize the RCA studio on 24th street for production, to be operated by the Trans-Lux Corporation, and under the supervision of Courtland Smith, was officially denied at the office of the latter by Jack Connolly of Smith's staff.

RKO Shows Nearly 100% Increase in Net Earnings for First Nine Months of 1930

(November 3, 1930)

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation's net profits for the first nine months of this year, ended September 30, showed an increase of almost 100 per cent over the corresponding period of last year.

For the nine month period net profits, after federal taxes, was $3,052,571, compared to $1,637,899 for the corresponding period last year.

A report of earnings has just been made by Herman Zobell, treasurer.

Operating profits for the third quarter totaled $1,006,437.62, and net of $976,437.62, as against net of $410,230.36 in the previous quarter.

The net for the first three-quarters is equal to $1.27 a share on the Class A stock outstanding, as compared to 69 cents a share on the same share basis last year.

Working on Film of New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS.—The Harcol Film company is now working on an educational picture of the city of New Orleans which is to be released by the state department of conservation.

 Paramount Tries 65 mm. Magnafilm On Short Features

(November 3, 1930)

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Although Paramount will make no definite plans for wide film production until the width has been standardized, the company is now experimenting with production of short features on 65 mm. stock at the Long Island studio.

Paramount's method is called Magnafilm.
EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD  November 1, 1930

BROADWAY

WITH the new fall picture season now in full blast the advertising and publicity men along the Rialto are earning their bread and have little worry over the unemployment situation. And dito the reviewers.

The week of October 27 bore down heavily on several of the publicists, and those whose shoulders are a bit more stooped and whose hair is a bit more gray are: Hy Daub of Radio Pictures, Mark Luescher of RKO, A. M. Botsford of Publix, A. P. Waxman of Warner Brothers, Charles Einfeld of First National, and Bruce Gallup of United Artists.

Each had an extended run picture or a new theatre opening either Thursday or Friday. Two nights of "soup and fish."

Marian Nixon was a charming hostess to the press at her suite in the Savoy Plaza. She related a recent experience while on location. Her husband, scion of a rich Chicago family, drove up in one of Henry Ford's best known makes. The star's maid rushed to him and said excitedly: "Mr. Nixon, you will find Miss Nixon right over there."

Walter Eberhardt of the advertising and publicity department of Western Electric, departs shortly for Sunny Italy, Gay Paree and Foggy London. Vacation, yes, but like a cocktail, it's mixed—a little business, also.

Leo Brecher is one of the livest of the independent theatre owners in the Metropolitan area. He has just installed in his elite Plaza in 59th street sets of theatrepines for the hard of hearing. And he adds; "No additional charge is made for the service at the Plaza."

Eddie Horn, head of the print department of Radio Pictures, is just crawling out from under one of his biggest assignments—the preparation of prints on the Amos 'n' Andy picture for the premiere of "Check and Double Check" (Sam Warshawsky says it's knocking 'em cold everywhere) in more than 300 cities. A slip somewhere and a million anxious fans would have been disappointed, but Eddie knows his prints, so disappointment there was none. Eddie is using a German preparation to extend the life of prints, and on "Rito Rita" alone several thousand dollars in additional gross were checked up on the original prints.

Cliff Lewis, Al Adams, Bob Moriarity, Len Daly and Carl Harrison have done an excellent piece of work on the 24-page press book for the new Harold Lloyd picture, "Feet First," Prominent showmen (and women) of the Publix circuit contributed suggestions, making the book one of practical ideas. Madeline Woods of Chicago received the first award of $100 for the best exploitation stunt to be incorporated in the campaign sheet.

E. S. Gregg, managing director of Western Electric, Ltd., met several members of the trade press at a luncheon at the Park Central just prior to his departure for London on the Berengaria.

Don Hancock and his white carnation—they are as inseparable as Tammany and New York politics. Don, who has resigned from Van Beuren, has interesting plans for the future, it is understood.

JAY M. SHRECK.

"Divorced Sweethearts"

There certainly doesn't seem to be any indication that a "divorce" is imminent in the first picture shown below. Instead, one would say that it's plain out and out adoration. Doesn't it look real, though? But in the scene at bottom, the adoration element seems to be lacking. However, there is positive indication that someone is all "hot and bothered." Both are scenes from the Educational-Mack Sennett comedy, "Divorced Sweethearts."
Warns Allied It Is Helping to Crush Houston Independents

Denied Floor at Dallas, Wilke Appeals to ‘Herald’ for Hearing

Charges Horwitz Has Unfair Advantage Which Could Be Corrected by Proposed Zoning Plan

Allied States Opens
New Cincinnati Unit;
3 States Included

(Special to the Herald-World)

CINCINNATI, Oct. 30.—A new Allied States unit, to be known as the Allied Theatre Owners, in southern Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia, has been organized here. Offices will be in the Film Mart building, 1637 Central Parkway. Fred Stribe is acting as business manager.

A meeting has been called for November 12 to discuss plans.

Those who organized the organization were: Henry Levy, Elmer Shard, Phil Miller, Charles Fine, Mrs. A. Schwenker, Andy Hirsheimer, Doris Orchard, and Carl Brown, all of Cincinnati; John Kaiser and Earl Myers of Chillicothe, Ohio; Harry Silver and Nat Burbank of Hamilton, Ohio; Ed Keene, Oxford, Ohio; Fred Rowlands, Real Neth, William Pullin, L. Goldsoll, all of Columbus; Theodore Chifas, Middletown, Ohio; Mr. W. Va.; P. Barrett, Parkersburg, W. Va.; Charles Brown, Middleborough, Ky.: J. Guilfoil, Wellston, Ohio.

Denies Reduction
Of Dues in Order To Combat Allied

(Special to the Herald-World)

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 30.—E. Van Hynng, president of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Kansas and Western Missouri, in a letter to The Allied Exhibitor, monthly Allied publication, denies that his organization reduced dues to combat Allied competition in this territory. An article in The Allied Exhibitor, October issue, stated that the Kansas and Western Missouri association, unit of M. P. T. O., A., had lowered the membership fees in order to discourage Allied sentiment.

Although the organization here reduced its dues recently, this was done in order to make it possible for the smaller exhibitors to join the association, according to Mr. Hynng. At the time the fee was reduced, the possibility of an Allied invasion was not considered, they say. Van Hynng admits that his organization is aided financially by affiliated theatres, but he also declares that Allied is supported in a similar manner.

New Unit of Allied at St. Louis Opens Office

(Special to the Herald-World)

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 30.—Allied States has opened offices at 3200-A Olive street here to handle business of the recently formed local unit. Arthur Elliott, formerly K.F.O. exchange manager in Detroit, will be in charge.

Bradley King Marries

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 30.—Bradley King, married George Boyd, a contractor and builder, yesterday.

Detroit Allied Houses
Donate Funds for Jobless

(Special to the Herald-World)

DETROIT, Oct. 30—Exhibitors who are members of Allied States here have devised their own method of handling the unemployment situation. One night each week they will deduct 10 per cent from their receipts for use by the city in helping the jobless.

Announcement of the plan will be made on red, blue and white posters, on which the name “Allied” will be featured.

November 1, 1930 ECONOMIC HERALD-WORLD 19

The requirements and regulations prescribed by the proposed Uniform Zoning Plan are valid and unobjectionable to Mr. Horwitz in comparison to the oppression and rank injustice he has imposed on the independent exhibitors in the city of Houston.

Continued on next page
What to Do? 10 Specials Ready But 9 Must Wait for Theatre

Warner and First National Open "Kismet" Only by Transferring "Outward Bound"—Find It Necessary to Withdraw "The Office Wife" Despite $28,000 a Week

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Warner Brothers and First National executives have puzzled looks on their faces these days. The reason is too few Broadway theatres for the showing of their ten specialties which are resting uncomfortably on the shelves. Tonight will see the premiere of one of these, First National's "Kismet," but the other nine must wait a while longer.

Ready for the showing are: First National—"Kismet," "Illicit," "Sunny," "Why Do Mothers Cry?" and "Woman Hungry?"; Warner Brothers—"Barber John's Boy," "Doorway to Hell," "Viennese Nights" and "Captain Thunder."

"Outward Bound" Transferred
In order at this time to open "Kismet," starring Ronald Colman and Greta Garbo, "Outward Bound" will be transferred from the Hollywood to the Warner theatre, where it will replace "Old English," which has had a ten weeks run.

It has been found necessary also to pull "The Office Wife" despite the fact that it has been drawing in other theatres to the tune of $28,000 a week. Although the end of the run was not in sight, executive officials decided to get "Life of the Party" on Broadway as early as possible, so next week will see "The Office Wife" disappear from the screen of the Winter Garden.

Joe Leo and Franklin Reported Planning New Theatre Circuit

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Various reports have said what to do with Leo, still under contract to Fox, and formerly head of the Fox theatres in the East, is about to head a new circuit of theatres in the East, and that he is planning a circuit in cooperation with Harold B. Franklin.

It has been understood that a nationwide chain was to be developed, with Leo as chief executive, in the East and Franklin handling the outfit in the West.

Leo, in commenting on the situation, said that this circuit proposition is but one of a number of such offers he has had and which he is considering, but that all are subject to the approval of his present employers. His plans, he said, depend entirely upon the outcome of a contract settlement with Fox, now of us in negotiations. If one definite word on the situation last week, but up to the present, no settlement has been reached.

Philo Meyer Directs N. Y. Columbia Exchange

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—With jurisdiction over Metropolitan New York, Northern New Jersey and part of Southern New York state, Phil Meyers has been appointed manager of Columbia Pictures New York exchange. He was formerly Metropolitan divisional manager for Tiffany, and replaces Jack Bellman, resigned in his new position. Meyers has held managerial positions with Pathé, Associated Exhibitors and Tiffany in the New York area.

warns Allied Is Helping to Crush Houston Independents

(Continued from preceding page)

Mr. Horwitz is getting only a mild dose of the same medicine he has been giving to us for nearly ten years.

"Now what does this proposed Uniform Zone Plan propose to do in Houston. In the first place it proposes to take away from Mr. Horwitz his proposed life long monopoly of showing pictures second and third run in Houston to him. If any first run theatres before any independent exhibitor regardless of what class theatre that exhibitor is, and the Uniform Zone Plan, as I understand it, would make pictures available in Mr. Horwitz's Texan theatre, which charges 25 cents, from 46 to 60 days after first run and if he decides to raise the price of his Iris, which is another second run theatre, from 15 cents to 25 cents it can get service from 45 to 60 days after first run and this is about 15 days quicker than he himself ever got service after the big deluxe theatres in Houston.

"After Mr. Horwitz, fellows like myself running suburban theatres charging 25 cents admission, and there are three of us running suburban, can get service 60 to 75 days after first run while which is 30 to 60 days quicker than we have ever been able to get in the past.

"And this isn't all the story from the opposed independent exhibitors in Houston, there are four confer day theatres in Houston and all of which are run by white men except one. The only white theatre in Houston that advertises color is the Majestic theatre owned by RKO but in the past years Mr. Horwitz has bought his film service in such a way that these color theatres are showing 25 cents adult admission and one of them charging 30 cents admission, have had to wait until after Mr. Horwitz runs the pictures second run in his Texan or Iris and in many cases have had to wait until he ran them in his Ritz third run and this was anywhere from 60 to 90 days after the competition.

"The proposed zoning plan makes pictures available to first run coloured theatres 30 days after the second run showing instead of waiting 60 to 90 days after the first run white showing.

Says Independents Drive Out
"One more independent exhibitor in Houston is to be considered and that is Mr. Bridges, running a theatre, which is a silent house charging 15 cents. Mr. Bridges enjoys the distinction of being the only independent subsequent run exhibitor in downtown Houston. Mr. Horwitz's arrangement has broken and run out of business every other independent that has tried and if the fellows are as familiar with Houston you know that only a few years ago there were lots of them. Due to Mr. Horwitz's arrangement, Mr. Bridges is forced to run a theatre of the very lowest exhibition type.

"I want to close by saying just two things. That it seems to me Mr. Horwitz is trying to hoodwink you fellows into believing he is going to be damaged by this zoning plan the same as he is trying to convince the public in Houston that the movie trust hog is trying to put him out of business. I tell you Mr. Horwitz has damn near put us little fellows out of business already. And the other thing is: That if the Allied Theatre Owners of Texas is an organization of independent exhibitors organized for the benefit and welfare of the majority of independent exhibitors that you fellows ought to get behind the zoning plan and insist on its adoption and application."

Big 4 Bookings Jump 100% in Sept.; Look for More Gain This Month

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—A 100 per cent gain in sales for the four weeks ended September 30 over the previous four weeks is reported by Big 4 Film Corporation and, according to executives, October will top September. Big 4 officials take this as an indication that the independent market is on the upswing trend, especially for talking pictures of the outdoor type.

The company thus far has released a series of six action Westerns, and has launched production on another series starring Wallace Beery, the initial release will be "Breed of the West," and the date November 12. In the initial series were "Beyond the Rio Grande," "Ridin' Law," "Firebrand of Montana," "Postman Brings the News," "Ridin' the Range," and "Canyon Hawks," "Trails of Danger."

Phil Meyer Directs N. Y. Columbia Exchange

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—With jurisdiction over Metropolitan New York, Northern New Jersey and part of Southern New York state, Phil Meyers has been appointed manager of Columbia Pictures New York exchange. He was formerly Metropolitan divisional manager for Tiffany, and replaces Jack Bellman, resigned in his new position. Meyers has held managerial positions with Pathé, Associated Exhibitors and Tiffany in the New York area.

Six Film Concerns by Theatre Owner

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 30.—Damages of $1,800,000 are asked of six motion picture producers and distributors and a talking picture equipment company in a suit filed in Federal court by Harry Muller, theatre operator of Anderson, Ind. Defendants are Daily Films Corporation, Universal Film Exchange, Inc., United Artists Corporation, Pathe Exchanges, Inc., R.K.O. Distributing Corporation, Tiffany Productions, Inc., and the Electrical Research Products, Inc.

The suit alleges that a co-operative setup of motion picture distributors exists, whereby Muller was blacklisted and that service by motion picture distributors in the country, except perhaps one, was refused to him to put him out of business.

Sue for $1,800,000 Filed Against Six Film Concerns by Theatre Owner

(Continued from the Herald-World)
Warners Help Solve Job Issue By Big Construction Program

Twelve More Model Exchanges Only One Phase of Expansion

Harry Lorch Heads Western Division Of Universal Sales
(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Harry Lorch, recently assigned Midwestern division sales manager for Pathe, has been named Western division sales manager of Universal by Phil Reisman, general sales manager.

Lorch succeeds Harry Taylor, who has been relieved to handle other duties. Several additional offices have been put under the supervision of Lorch, including Detroit, Dallas, Oklahoma City, and Atlanta. He will maintain offices both in New York and Chicago.

Negotiations Under Way for Merger of Two "Air" Concerns
(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The merger of the Carrier Engineering corporation of Newark, N. J., and the Brunswick-Kroe schell company of New Brunswick and Chicago is at the present time being negotiated. It has been announced. When consummated, the merger will join two companies that pioneered in the development of air conditioning installations in American theatres.

Between them, the two concerns are said by those interested in the merger to have made more than 60 per cent of the air conditioning installations in the American theatres. Included in the consolidation is the York Heating and Ventilating corporation of Philadelphia, and with their subsidiaries, the three firms will bring together a total of 15 companies, with total assets of $15,000,000. The parent company is to be known as the Carrier corporation.

Warner Club to Meet At New York Nov. 6; Executives to Attend
(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The Warner Club will enliven its first general meeting at the Hotel New Yorker on Thursday, November 6, with a buffet supper and entertainment.

H. M. Warner, Herman Starr, Sam Morris and other executives of the organization are expected to attend. Mr. Nichols, newly elected president, will preside.

Five Listed on M P T O's Convention Committee Not Going, Says Allied
(Special to the Herald-World)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Seven men listed on the convention committee of the MPTOA are Allied members who have stated they do not intend to attend the MPTOA convention, says an announcement from headquarters of Allied States.

Five of the seven were named as Ernest H. Horstmann, L. L. Baird, Harry Nolan, A. C. Zaring and Merle Davis.

In the construction of these buildings every effort was made to obtain greater efficiency and more rapid distribution of the company's products. They were built only after an exhaustive study by experts and engineers thoroughly familiar with the requirements of the film business.

So well have these requirements been met, it is said, that the new film theaters have become known as the Warner model-type exchanges. These centers were built not only to house Warner staffs, but those of First National, Vitaphone and all other subsidiaries. Every time-saving device to increase efficiency was implemented.

The arrangement of the screening room, it is said, has resulted in a 40 per cent increase in efficiency and speed. It is said that other companies have patterned the poster and shipping rooms in their exchanges after those of the Warners.

The betterment in other departments of the exchanges has been equally great and in the matter of comfort, proper lighting and heating, with a maximum amount of sun light, all they surpass anything known to the old exchanges. Projection rooms have been laid out by sound engineers and the highest quality of the latest projectors installed.

Arrangements were made for conference rooms where exhibitors may meet. Further, a new system has been installed for the rapid and safe handling of exchanges.

Cities Picked for New Exchanges

The exchanges, built during the last two years, have proved so efficient and serviceable that the decision was reached by executives to erect additional exchanges all over the country.

The cities selected by the company for the new film centers are Detroit, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Omaha, Cincinnati, Atlanta, Seattle, Portland, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Pittsburgh and Indianapolis.

Direct telephonic communication with the home office will be made possible. One of the features of the new exchanges will be the provision for the storage of film and discs. Others will be the matter of convenience for the exhibitor in both the screening of new pictures and the display of prints and accessories, and the installation of screens capable of taking the new 65-mm film, as well as the 35-mm.

The entire equipment of each building will be provided by the Warner subsidiary, Continental Theatre Accessories, Inc.

In addition to the building of these new exchanges, Warner and brothers also is planning elaborate expansion work at the Brooklyn studio of the Vitaphone Corporation.
First There Was a Trailer, and Then Came a Little Newspaper Ad
And So Balaban & Katz and RKO Ad Departments Do Some Jousting in the Public Prints Over Stage Programs

THE Chicago theatre of Balaban & Katz ran a trailer. Nothing unusual about running a trailer. But this trailer stated that “competitive theatres found themselves far behind us again and again, so far behind that they have dropped out altogether.” And that’s where the fun began, with RKO taking vigorous and emphatic exception to B & K’s stage show claims, as shown in the reproduced ad in an adjoining column.

RKO termed the wording of the B & K trailers misleading, citing the Palace theatre as having a combination of vaudeville and pictures.

RKO Presents Two Exhibits
Another RKO house in Chicago, the State and Lake theatre, recently changed its policy from picture-vaudeville entertainment to straight pictures, leaving the Palace theatre the only RKO house to have a combination policy. The two houses, the State and Lake and B & K’s Chicago are directly opposite each other on State street.

RKO, in presenting its case, submitted two exhibits. Exhibit A, the B & K trailer at the Oriental, is given here-with. Exhibit B, the trailer at the Chicago theatre, was virtually the same as Exhibit A.

Exhibit A
“A word about Publix-Balaban & Katz modern stage shows: “Back in 1919 we introduced stage entertainment in motion picture theatres. We popularized it and continually improved it. Others tried to imitate. When they reached what appeared to be our standards . . . we had the last word! On to newer and more modern ideas.

“Competitive theatres round themselves far behind us again and again, so far behind that they have dropped out altogether. Today we are alone in the field of modern stage entertainment in duplicate motion picture theatres. We have succeeded where others have failed because of our policy of greater value and originality.

“Theatre through our theatres, is the birthplace of the modern stage shows. Our production department and unlimited resources are the cause of the continuance of the best in stage talent and stage presentations, and it will continue to be the scene of its greater advancement for your enjoyment.”

While all is fairly quiet on the Midwestern front for the moment, interested fans are awaiting the next outrush of the inspired ad men of the rival theatres.

Bechtel Dies, Called First “Legit” Player in Pictures
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 30—William A. Bechtel, 63 years old, said to have been the first screen player recruited from the legitimate stage, died here this week.

Bechtel deserted the footlights in 1907 to join the old Edison Company. He was at one time the leading man for Lillian Russell.

Famous Players Makes Harry Dahn Division Head
MONTREAL, Oct. 30.—Harry S. Dahn, manager of the Capitol theatre here for the past six years, has been appointed division manager of Famous Players Canadian Corporation, with headquarters at Toronto. Mr. Dahn is a veteran showman, having been with road shows and managed tours of opera stars in the United States for years before becoming a theatre manager. He has been with Famous Players for the past eight years. Gordon Dahn, his son, is manager of the Seattle theatre here, owned by United Amusements, Ltd.

Hays Will Address Film Academy on Nov. 5 in Hollywood
(Special to the Herald-World)
NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The guest speaker at the third annual dinner of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, to be held in Hollywood on November 5, will be Will H. Hays, president M P P D A. Hays has accepted the invitation and will make a special trip to the Coast for the occasion, which will be featured by the presentation of merit awards for distinguished achievements in motion pictures.

Thomas A. Edison will appear at the dinner via the talking screen, and make a brief address to the members of the Academy and their guests. Formal announcement will be made of the acceptance by Edison and George Eastman of honorary membership in the Academy.

Paramount Seeking Four London Houses
IN CHAIN, IS REPORT
(Special to the Herald-World)
LONDON, Oct. 30.—It is reported here that Paramount has placed an offer for the purchase of four London houses.

Involved in the deal, it is said, are four of the newest and largest theatres in the city, including the Astoria, on Kingsway, with a seating capacity of 3,000. The remaining three are in outlying districts.

More than $5,000,000 is said to be the figure for the purchase. This represents the first concerted effort on the part of an American company to establish a cinema circuit in Great Britain.

Audible Filmcraft Will Make Sound Editions of British News Films
(Special to the Herald-World)
LONDON, Oct. 30.—Sound editions of both British Screen News and British Screen Talk will shortly be issued, according to an announcement from Audible Filmcraft, Ltd., owners of these two features.

The recording plant is at present being installed in the company’s studios for the purpose, and the first edition of the Screen Talk (expanding into a programme on December 1, in addition to the regular silent version.

DON’T BE MISLED—THE R-K-O PALACE THEATRE IS THE ONLY LOOP THEATRE WITH R-K-O VAUDEVILLE
Certain loop theatrical interests have caused a message to be placed upon the screens of their theatres worded as to lead the public to believe they are playing R-K-O vaudeville and that no other loop theatre is presenting flash and blood entertainment.

THIS IS UNTRUE. Hundreds of thousands of Chicagoans know that the Palace theatre is bringing week after week mighty stars in person who are unobtainable. THE FOUR MARX BROTHERS, GUS VAN (OF VAN AND SCHENCK), JACK PEARL, TOM PATRICI- O & MACK, and the WEATHER BROTHERS AND ELYVRE are among those who will appear in the near future. These celebrities appear in a FULL ACT; not in "presentations" with "boop-a-doo" girls, the same old scenery, and a master of ceremonies. This obsolete form of amusement is rapidly disappearing from Chicago, having been eliminated from the North Side months ago, and from the West Side two days ago.

THE PALACE THEATRE THIS WEEK HAS THE FINEST STAGE ENTERTAINMENT THAT R-K-O OR ANYBODY ELSE EVER BROUGHT TO THE PUBLIC. IT IS HEREBY GUARANTEED AS SUCH BY R-K-O, THE LARGEST THEATRICAL ORGANIZATION IN THE WORLD, WITH REPRESENTA-TION FROM COAST TO COAST.

DON’T MISS THE PALACE SHOW THIS WEEK!

This ad was run in the Chicago Tribune by the RKO interests in Chicago upon the appearance of trailers shown at the Publix-B & K houses, the Chicago and Oriental.

MPTO of Ohio to Hold Convention November 18-19
(Special to the Herald-World)
COLUMBUS, Oct. 30.—The tenth annual gathering of the MPTO of Ohio will be held at Columbus on November 18 and 19, according to an announcement sent out by P. J. Wood, business manager of the organization.

Among the questions that will come up are score charges, excessive sound equipment charges, the new standard uniform contract and zoning and city protection.

Members are asked to bring their wives, as there will be a banquet followed by dancing.

Boston Suburb, Years Without Shows, Votes To See If It Wants Them
(Special to the Herald-World)
BROOKLINE, MASS., Oct. 30.—The question, "Do you want motion picture theatres in Brookline?" was to be placed before the voters of this city November 4. It is the first time the public had been asked to act upon the question since 1923.

This city, with more than 20,000 of voting age, is a suburb of Boston. For years it has been the dream of citizens since citizens are only a few minutes’ ride from Boston showhouses.
Twin Premiere Gives Broadway
RKO Mayfair, Amos 'n' Andy

60 Houses Ask Permission to Hold Picture for Second Week

Dedication and New York Opening Climax Showings in 300 Theatres After Tremendous Campaign
(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Broadway was to experience a double-barrelled premiere tonight—the opening of the new RKO Mayfair theatre and of the Radio Picture special, Amos 'n' Andy in “Check and Double Check.”

The famous radio team in person was to christen this newest of the cinema palaces on New York’s Rialto.

Dedication of the 2,300 seat theatre and the opening of “Check and Double Check” have been preceded by one of the most comprehensive advertising and exploitation campaigns ever conducted for a similar affair.

Mr. Diah has directed the picture exploitation and Mark Laescher advance drive for the theatre.

Climaxes 300 Theatre Openings

Amos 'n' Andy’s opening in New York climaxes premieres of the feature, according to Radio officials, in approximately 300 theatres of the country this week.

So immediate was the public’s reaction to this popular radio team that on the second day of the nationwide day-and-date showing 60 theatres had wired the home office of Radio Pictures asking permission to hold over the picture for a second week.

From theatres showing the attraction (picture) come reports such as the following:

“Previous opening day record was doubled.”

“The audience went wild on comedy situation.”

“Amos 'n' Andy are breaking all records on the opening with audiences positively eating it up.”

“Lines formed hours before the opening time.”

“Enthusiastic surging crowd attended Amos 'n' Andy opening.”

“The reception was electric with anticipation.”

Such are the comments from theatres throughout the country, many telegrams stating that it has been necessary to open houses two and three hours early so that additional showings may be given.

Among the cities having day-and-date showings are:

- Detroit
- New Orleans
- St. Louis
- San Francisco
- Atlanta
- New Haven
- Houston
- Buffalo
- Springfield, Mass.
- Portland, Me.
- Sioux City, Ia.
- Salt Lake City
- Albany, N. Y.
- Memphis
- Providence, R. I.
- Syracuse
- Lowell, Mass.
- Tulsa, Okla.
- Cedar Rapids, Ia.
- St. Paul, Minn.

Amos 'n' Andy (Gosden and Correll) are scheduled to appear in person at the premiere here tomorrow night, when two showings will be given, the first at 8:30, which will be an invitation affair, and the second at 11, which will be the first performance of the grind run.

Winfield Sheehan is Chosen President of Film Social Group

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 30.—Winfield Sheehan, Fox film executive, was named president of the Mayfair Club, exclusive motion picture social organization, at a meeting yesterday of the board of directors at First National studios. Fred Niblo is the retiring president.

Other elections were Conrad Nagel, vice president; Irving Thalberg, secretary; M. C. Levee, treasurer; Margaret Ettinger, assistant secretary, and Jack L. Warner, Fred Niblo, B. F. Schulberg and Sid Grauman, directors to serve with the officers as board of directors.

"Big Fight" to Play All of Publix in Pennsylvania

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—"The Big Fight." Sono Art-World Wide special made by James Cruze, has been booked to play the entire Publix circuit in Pennsylvania.

3 More Dailies Affiliated With U Newsreel; Total Of 68 Are Now in Chain

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—With the addition of the Duluth News-Tribune to the nationwide list of dailies affiliated with the Universal talking newsreel, the total of newspapers in the alliance has been brought to 68. This is said to be the greatest number of dailies ever associated with a regular motion picture release.

Two other papers were added just prior to the signing of the News Tribune. These were the Palm Beach Post of West Palm Beach, Fla., and the Key West (Florida) Sun.

Manager is Transferred

(Special to the Herald-World)

BALTIMORE, Oct. 30.—Everett Stein-buck, former manager of the Paradise theatre in New York City has been transferred to Loew’s Stanley theatre, here in the same capacity.

The McNunn twins, born the night "Check and Double Check" opened at the Orpheum theatre in Omaha, were named Amos and Andy. L. R. Pierce, manager, made the most of the occasion to boost the RKO picture.
Patent and Capital Tieups Brought by Vacuum Tube, Declares Dr. Irby

Associate Editor of Electronics Says Almost Continuous Litigation of 20 Years of Industry Was Followed by One of Free Expansion

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Advent of the vacuum tube in the motion picture industry has led to development of a very complex structure, which has resulted in interlocking patent agreements and capital tieups, both here and abroad, says Dr. Franklin S. Irby, associate editor of Electronics. Dr. Irby discussed "International Relations in the Sound Picture Field," in a paper read before the Society of Motion Picture Engineers on October 20.

ELABORATING on the background of the situation as it exists today, Dr. Irby considers that the motion picture industry has passed through three decades of growth, the first 20 years having been a period of almost continuous litigation over patent rights and licensing agreements. The following 10 years, including the advent of sound pictures, was a period of enormous expansion and rapid growth quite free from legal obstacles.

Fields Brought Closer Together

Certain capital affiliations were in existence previous to the introduction of sound films, but the present situation economically has brought into closer relation the fields of electronics, such as disk manufacture for phonographs, talking machine production, radio and the sound picture industry.

The procedure relative to the unification of hundreds of patents following the production of sound pictures was similar to the earlier stages of radio development in the United States, which resulted in the organization of RCA. These numerous patents represented the development of several different systems. The building up of Klangfilm, Tobis, Kuechenmeister and other European groups has come about as the result of various patent pooling arrangements made with the holders of the different patents. The earliest patent pools in connection with the use of the vacuum tubes were completed in 1919-1921, known as the "Radio-Audio Agreement," and included the A T & T Company, General Electric, RCA, Westinghouse and other interests.

These agreements were made, however, long before the approach of the sound picture. Dr. Irby pointed out that licensing and patent pools are not new to the industry, since the old Patents Corporation which came into existence in 1907 held a formidable position for almost ten years in licensing producers and exhibitors.

He notes as particularly significant that Edison, in his early experiments with the phonograph, attempted to synchronize sound with the first projector. Thirty years later occurred the first successful recording of phonograph records, which was a definite step in the making of sound pictures as they exist today. Litigation in the early days of the motion picture, beginning with Edison's court action in 1897 led to the first patent pooling agreements.

Patents Corporation—More Litigation

Following a decision by the courts in 1907 that the cameras used at the time by Selig were infringements on the Edison patents, an agreement was made whereby Kalem, Vitagraph, Lubin, Selig, Essanay, Melies and Pathe were licensed under the Edison patent, with participation in royalty payments. Biograph did not join the pool, demanding recognition on a par with the Edison group, but finally succumbed to the pressure of organization after a year of contention.

Thus was organized the Motion Picture Patent Company, known as the Motion Picture Patents Corporation, one of the most powerful concerns in the history of the industry. Independent companies, among them Actophone, Rex, Yankee, Powers, IMP, were later initiated, and litigation continued. In 1910 the Patents Corporation formed the General Film Company for the purpose of acquiring the principal exchanges throughout the country, thus controlling the output of films from the production to the exhibitor. It succeeded in getting control of every licensed exchange except that of William Fox. An injunction by the latter against this resolution suit which, after dragging on in the courts for years, finally resulted in a decision against the trust, which stood its ground in April, 1917, when the United States Supreme Court held that the Corporation could not enforce the use of licensed film on patented projectors in similar theatres.

There followed thereafter a period of ten years singularly free from litigation. The taking over of the industry by the Motion Picture Patents Corporation was followed by one of the most complex corporate machines in the world, according to Dr. Irby, and in the course of simple contract agreements, there exists today a great international network of inter-connected patent agreements extending in influence over 57,000 theatres serving hundreds of millions of persons throughout the world.
Films' Morals Far Higher Than Stage and Novel: Cardinal Hayes

Producers Are Striving to Maintain High Standard of Decency
Under Guidance of Will Hays, Says His Eminence—Opposes Censorship by Legislation

By JOSEPH JEFFERSON O'NEILL

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 30.—"Motion pictures today are on a far higher moral plane than the average novel, the average stage play, offered for the entertainment of the public."

Cardinal Hayes of New York—one of the three Princes of the Roman Catholic Church in America—made this highly important statement to me as we sat together on the edge of Filmland, within almost a stone's throw of the RKO, Paramount, Warner and Fox studios.

"Motion pictures do not—as novels and soaps and stage plays—do not deal with the elements of foulness, carnality, sensuality," Cardinal Hayes said.

"They are not perfect. Few things of the world are perfect. But those who produce them are striving. I believe, to maintain a high standard of decency, under the guidance of J. H. Hays."

"I have great hopes for motion pictures with Mr. Hays at the head of the industry."

Says What He Thinks

No matter who used these words, they would mean much to those who make pictures and those who watch them. But coming as they did from an outstanding American personality—a man who has the spiritual qualities necessary to his charge—they are, it seems to me, most vital.

His Eminence—a real American, brought up on the sidewalks of New York, honored by his great Church—was talking for publication and was saying exactly what he thought. As a journalist who had written several motion pictures and had always maintained the deepest interest in the industry, I thought that every writer, player, director, producer and exhibitor should know these words of Patrick Cardinal Hayes and should keep them in mind.

Our interview did not, primarily, concern motion pictures. It was a general talk on world conditions for the Los Angeles and Espanola, New Mexico, Princes of the Church, and one who has the ear of the State. I brought up the subject. We had been, at the moment, talking about prohibition, to which His Eminence, incidentally, is firmly opposed.

He voiced his disbelief in the possibility of regulating certain phases of human conduct by laws and ordinances that are man-made, rather than by the God-given commandment that came from Mount Sinai.

Cardinal Hayes is against censorship—of motion pictures, of speech or of press. "Conscience," from within, is the requisite regulatory measure, he told me, to keep pictures, drinking or anything else.

"Censorship through legislation is not the best method of determining what standards motion pictures should hold to," His Eminence said. "Those who make them and show them have their own personal reverence and respect for others."

"I think the producers, under Hays, are honestly trying to do what is right."

Stage and Novel at Low Ebb

The stage and the novel have reached a very low point in decadence, according to Cardinal Hayes. They are catering—to a very appreciable extent—to the basest instincts of those who patronize them.

"I do not believe or say that every novel, every play, should primarily be written with the idea of teaching a moral—I mean, there is no conscience on duty here—just the opposite."

But I certainly am opposed, as a man as well as a priest, to the utter foulness, the sensuality and carnality that is being offered to the public by these forms of entertainment. The motion pictures have not descended to these forms of appeal, and I hope they never will."

We talked of the educational possibilities of pictures. The Cardinal revealed to me—maybe this is news and maybe it isn't, because no one has more or less recently made—or, rather, been the subject of—a talking picture. Somehow I got switched off and haven't had an opportunity to ask him about what it was. But it must be good.

His Eminence has a clear, pleasing voice. He is quite erect in person and slender, with a straight-gazing gray eye, he looks altogether the man, as well as the churchman.

Sees Unlimited Possibilities

He doesn't know—nor do those who are professionally educators—in just which manner the motion picture may be used in teaching; whether it might serve by itself or might be more advantageously used in conjunction with oral instruction by teachers, plus the reading of text-books.

"But the picture—especially the talking picture—has unlimited possibilities," he said. "The development is in the hands of the picture-makers and the educators of the world. They realize, I am sure, their opportunities and responsibilities."

Cardinal Hayes was the guest here of Bishop John J. Cantwell, a fine, upstanding prelate who governs the diocese of Los Angeles and San Diego.

The Cardinal did not visit any studios. But he made it very plain that he knows about pictures, realizes their importance, and—best of all—is sympathetic with their producers and exhibitors.

(A talking motion picture subject, consisting of an address on Catholic Education by Cardinal Hayes was produced last summer by E.R.P.I.)

---

French Seeking Tie With German Trade Despite U. S. Pact

PARIS Money in Emelka Seen as Further Link as Reich Sells Its Holdings

[By Special Correspondent to the Herald-World]

BERLIN, Oct. 20.—[By Mail]—Efforts to place in effect the reciprocity agreement of last August between French and German producers and distributors are vigorously being made by French film interests. Enforcement of the agreement so far has been held up by the protests of American distributors in Paris, who say that the pact nullifies their agreement with the French trade. Conferences have begun under the auspices of the French commission of control and presided over by an official of the Ministry of Fine Arts.

The possibility of French interests becoming further allied with the German trade was realized when the Reich ceded its option to issue of Emelka shares to a German-French group. The Reich waived all its claims arising out of the old Phoebus deal and did not recover the half-million marles in interest paid.

The government declares that national interests are safeguarded. The new Emelka will have to sell 80 per cent of its domestic productions, and the Reich exercises a control over the Emelka newsreel. A renting arrangement with Ufa is under discussion.

The other major exhibitor, Emelka have participated in the trade talk concerning that company. E. A. Dupont, production manager of Ufa, was the publicity manager with the same fate. It is regarded as probable that Dupont will return to British International.

Barring of "Big House" A Political Move, Ohio Democratic Organ Says

(Special to the Herald-World)

COLUMBUS, Oct. 30.—The extent to which the recent barring of "The Big House" has been used as a political issue is demonstrated in an article in the Ballot Box, Democratic campaign organ, which charges that the ban on the film was merely a political move.

Statements in the campaign organ are quoted in part as follows: "Power to determine what picture theatregoers shall be permitted to see or shall be forbidden to see rests now in a Board of Political Strategy at Columbus rather than in the legally authorized Board of Motion Picture Censorship. ... After Democratic state headquarters exposed the misuse of censorship powers, a storm of protest followed in newspapers which objected to the suppression of public discussion of overcrowding and other prison evils depicted in the picture."

"The strategy board directing the campaign of the present governor feared the possible political effect of exhibition of the motion picture, 'The Big House,' recalling as it does, conditions incident to the Ohio penitentiary fire in which 321 lives were lost."

Lift Ban on Children

(Special to the Herald-World)

WICHITA, KAN., Oct. 30.—A four-weeks' ban, prohibiting children from attending theatres because of an infantile paralysis epidemic, has been lifted.

CHILDREN SWELL N. Y. THEATRE ATTENDANCE

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Large increase in theatre attendance during the month of October has been attributed to the number of children which have been found among the audiences in motion picture houses throughout the country. In downtown theatres here, child attendance is still somewhat limited, but in neighborhood and suburban theatres the young patron seems to be a fairly picture-minded. The policy of clean and comical shows in both vaudeville and talking pictures, is a factor.

25
Officials Deny Offering Free Wiring to Theatres of Paris

Producers Silent on Proposal Voiced by Exhibitor in Letter to Herald-World That They Might Have to Equip Smaller Houses Without Charge to Get Maximum Distribution

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Reports have been received from Paris that an American talking picture equipment company has offered to wire gratis theatres and music halls of that city.

Inquiry here has not revealed the identity of the company.

P. L. Palmerton, foreign manager of Electrical Research Products, Inc., said emphatically that the offer was not made by his company, and that ERP had no intention of adopting a policy of free installation.

Other Companies Explain

RCA Photophone executives explained that their equipment is sold outright to Pathé Cinema, which owns theatres in France. What the French company was doing they did not know, they said, and it was of no interest to them.

An official at General Talking Pictures, which is the DeForest Phonofilm, said that the product of his company is handled by Associated Sound Industries in Paris and that he had not been informed of the procedure of this concern.

In the "Voice of the Industry" department of the Herald-World there was published recently a letter from an exhibitor who expressed the opinion that producers eventually might find it necessary to install equipment free of cost in the smaller houses in order to get maximum distribution for their product. Producers, however, have remained silent on the proposal.

Chiefly to "Legit" and Variety Houses

The Paris report indicates that the offer was made primarily to the "legitimate" and variety houses, the idea being to show films in the afternoons and play or variety shows at night.

Although it appears that the theatre men have shown a decided interest in the proposal, the authors' league is opposing it, expressing the fear that the films might eventually supplant the stage play altogether.

The authors say further that under the terms of their contracts they have the right to refuse the screening of pictures in a number of theatres.

Hughes Assured of Distribution By His Buying In

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 30.—Following repeated denials, Howard Hughes, producer of "Hell's Angels" and other pictures, this week became associated with Joseph M. Schenck, president and chairman of the board of directors of United Artists. Hughes closed the deal by purchase of stock in the Art Finance Corporation, which Schenck also heads. The exact amount of money involved is not disclosed.

The deal is said to represent a virtual merger of the Schenck-Hughes holdings.

Release Through United Artists

"Mr. Hughes will become associated with me in all my production activities and all of the pictures will be made at United Artists studio and will be released by the United Artists Distributing Corporation," Schenck said.

At the same time Schenck denied that Hughes had purchased the stock in the finance corporation owned by Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks. He is reported to have purchased stock owned by a number of persons. The corporation into which he bought is a closed one.

Hughes is reported moving his offices from Metropolitan Studios to United Artists.

Release on All Hughes Films

The Art Finance Corporation finances and produces all pictures made by Feature Productions, Inc. Schenck also heads the latter company. All feature productions are distributed by United Artists. The distributing corporation is owned jointly by Schenck, the Art Finance Company, Gloria Swanson, Samuel Goldwyn, D. W. Griffith, Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford and Charles Chaplin.

By his purchase of stock in the finance company and his association in the production activities of Schenck, Hughes obtains a release on all his forthcoming pictures. Hereafter he released through a picture-to-picture agreement with United Artists.

SEcurities PRICE RANGE

Week Ending October 29

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Following a weekend in which stocks in general showed some strength, with gains, the trading on Tuesday showed mixed results in amusement shares. A T & T advanced 1%; Loew's, Inc., 1½; but Eastman Kodak dropped 8 points, General Electric ¾, Radio ¾, Warner Brothers ¾. Wednesday brought further losses. Following is the summary of sales of amusement shares for the week:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>NEW YORK STOCK MARKET</th>
<th>Sales</th>
<th>High</th>
<th>Low</th>
<th>Close</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>American Lighting</td>
<td>280</td>
<td>27%</td>
<td>18</td>
<td>15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brunswick-Bailey-Cellender</td>
<td>2,960</td>
<td>30%</td>
<td>18</td>
<td>15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Colgate</td>
<td>2,400</td>
<td>30%</td>
<td>18</td>
<td>15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do, etc.</td>
<td>2,600</td>
<td>30%</td>
<td>18</td>
<td>15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do, pfd.</td>
<td>100</td>
<td>15%</td>
<td>15</td>
<td>15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Consolidated Film</td>
<td>2,900</td>
<td>15%</td>
<td>15</td>
<td>15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do pfd.</td>
<td>2,100</td>
<td>15%</td>
<td>15</td>
<td>15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eastern Kodak</td>
<td>34,800</td>
<td>15%</td>
<td>15</td>
<td>15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eastern Reserve Battery</td>
<td>90</td>
<td>100%</td>
<td>120</td>
<td>100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fox Film &quot;A&quot;</td>
<td>114,200</td>
<td>90%</td>
<td>90</td>
<td>90</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>General Theatre Equipment</td>
<td>8,000</td>
<td>25%</td>
<td>20%</td>
<td>20%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Loew's, Inc.</td>
<td>141,400</td>
<td>6%</td>
<td>6%</td>
<td>6%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do, pfd. w, w, w</td>
<td>500</td>
<td>1%</td>
<td>1%</td>
<td>1%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do, pfd. w, w, w</td>
<td>500</td>
<td>9%</td>
<td>9%</td>
<td>9%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Metrol-Goldwyn-Mayer, pfd.</td>
<td>980</td>
<td>2%</td>
<td>2%</td>
<td>2%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paramount</td>
<td>6,000</td>
<td>61%</td>
<td>40%</td>
<td>40%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pathe Exchange</td>
<td>9,800</td>
<td>4%</td>
<td>4%</td>
<td>4%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do, &quot;A&quot;</td>
<td>6,700</td>
<td>3%</td>
<td>3%</td>
<td>3%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Radio Corporation</td>
<td>244,800</td>
<td>25%</td>
<td>25%</td>
<td>25%</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>CHICAGO STOCK MARKET</th>
<th>Sales</th>
<th>High</th>
<th>Low</th>
<th>Close</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>General Theatres, Inc.</td>
<td>3,000</td>
<td>24</td>
<td>20%</td>
<td>20%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mack Bros., et al.</td>
<td>100</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morgan Litho</td>
<td>200</td>
<td>6%</td>
<td>6%</td>
<td>6%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>U. &amp; S. Armour, pfd.</td>
<td>450</td>
<td>125%</td>
<td>150</td>
<td>150</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do, pfd.</td>
<td>250</td>
<td>50</td>
<td>50</td>
<td>50</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>NEW YORK CURB</th>
<th>Sales</th>
<th>High</th>
<th>Low</th>
<th>Close</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Columbia Pictures, etc.</td>
<td>100</td>
<td>25%</td>
<td>25%</td>
<td>25%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fox Theatres</td>
<td>500</td>
<td>7%</td>
<td>7%</td>
<td>7%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do, &quot;B&quot;</td>
<td>1,000</td>
<td>5%</td>
<td>5%</td>
<td>5%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do, &quot;C&quot;</td>
<td>1,000</td>
<td>5%</td>
<td>5%</td>
<td>5%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>National Safety</td>
<td>1,000</td>
<td>1%</td>
<td>1%</td>
<td>1%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sentry Safety</td>
<td>1,000</td>
<td>1%</td>
<td>1%</td>
<td>1%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Telefunken, Inc.</td>
<td>2,000</td>
<td>12%</td>
<td>12%</td>
<td>12%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Trans-Lux</td>
<td>500</td>
<td>7%</td>
<td>7%</td>
<td>7%</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Lupita Tovar, beautiful Latin girl, who has been awarded a five-year contract by Universal to appear solely in Spanish productions, of which the Spanish version of "The Cat Creeps" is her first. She is a native of Tejuantepec, Mexico.

We can hardly imagine this being a conclave of barristers. It looks more like an admiration party to us, that is, on the part of the four rather charming gentlemen ranged about this very lovely secretary (we're not sure that she is) but—here we have Louis Bartels, Kenneth MacKenna, Basil Rathbone, John Roche and Constance Bennett, all of whom appear in Pathé's "Sin Takes a Holiday."

From the way the poor man looks as he rests against the base of the tree, it doesn't seem as though the money that is being offered him by the young senor would be of much avail. The setting would lead one to imagine many dangers, any one of which may have befallen him. This is a scene from the First National picture, entitled "Adios," in which Richard Barthelmess plays the leading role.

Well, well, look what's here! We'll bet they're too young to realize what lucky dogs they are to drowse sleepily in the arms of lovely Edwina Booth, MGM featured player who played the leading feminine role in the film version of "Trader Horn."
Just another idea of the arrangements that are made to film pictures. This camera battery looks as though it were all set, firmly, for some rapid action, and Regis Toomey and Grant Withers appear to be set too. According to the testimony of both, railroading has nothing to do with eating cake and wielding a teacup. This film in which they appear is "The Steel Highway," a Warner Brothers picture.

Charming Lupe Velez, star of Universal's recent picture, "East Is East," spends a great deal of time at her home in Beverly Hills. Her next picture will be "Resurrection," in which she will be co-starred with John Boles. Edwin Carewe directs.

Two "much traveled" gentlemen meet, and talk over some of the "out-of-the-way" places that it has been their pleasure to visit. Burton Holmes is making a series of shorts for M.G.M, while Charles Bickford is busy on "The Passion Flower."

One of the first contingents of foreign actresses to invade Hollywood for foreign versions of American pictures. First National is responsible for their arrival. They are Jeanne Helbling and Susy Vernon of France and Lisa Arna and Carla Bartheel of Germany. The first picture in which they will be cast is "Those Who Dance," which will be made in both German and French.
These two gentlemen are tickled to death, evidently, to see each other. Whether they have just met or are old acquaintances is a question, but from the look on the face of the man with the derby, it's a puzzle. A scene from the first James Cruze special for Tiffany, which has just been completed, entitled "She Got What She Wanted." The players are Lee Tracy, Betty Compson, Gaston Glass and Alan Hale.

Over the bounding main, away on the briny deep goes this fearless "captain." And we'll rather wager that she can guide the ship to the port to which she wishes to go. Marie Dressler, attired for one of her inimitable characterizations, which this time is "Min" in the M G M film, "Min and Jim," which is now the title for the picture formerly entitled "Dark Star." George Hill was the director.

Oh, Oh! We don't know what's bothering Harry Gribbon, but it looks as though he'd have plenty to think about very shortly. This is one of the amusing scenes from the picturization of the play, "The Gorilla," by First National.
Views of New Warner Structures

Typical storage and file room for discs in a model Warner Brothers exchange.

New Warner music building in New York.

Excavating for a ten-story addition to the home office in New York.

The shipping room, showing the vaults, in the Cleveland exchange.

Main office of the Chicago exchange.

Front exterior view of the exchange building in Chicago.
Exterior of the Warner exchange in Dallas.
The office of the manager of the Dallas exchange.

View of the exterior of the Kansas City exchange building.
The main office of the Kansas City exchange.

Exterior, Philadelphia exchange.
Exterior, Minneapolis exchange.
Enterance, Minneapolis exchange.
Need of Amazing Versatility Met by Industry’s Leaders, Says Hays

Tells Millions of Radio Listeners He Knows of No Other Field Demanding More Ability or Greater Responsibility

(New to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Amazing versatility in leadership was the foremost requirement for the development of the motion picture industry and those requirements have been fulfilled, Will H. Hays, president of the M. P. D. A., told millions of Americans over the Columbia Broadcasting system.

‘In no other industry,’ he said, ‘need business leaders be at one and the same time technicians, artists, dramatists, showmen, sociologists, financiers and business operators. In no other industry must leaders combine such depth of human interest, such insight into the human heart, such tremendous human sympathy with the foresight, tenacity, sound judgment and other qualities needed in business.’

Hays deputed long enough in his discussion of the film industry to comment upon general conditions.

“It would be absurd, he declared, “to underrate the difficulties and distress of the deflation period from which we are now passing. But it would be equally absurd to give way to unfounded pessimism. Our whole history proves that we have the courage to face conditions, and that we have the means to correct them when necessary. We have been suffering from the financial distemper that came after the catastrophe of a World war, but I believe we are gathering momentum for an upward swing that will lead world recovery.”

Pays Tribute to Pioneers

“American prosperity will arise, not pale and wan, from the sickbed of wasteful remedies. It will return strong and vigorous. I am confident, without a record of doles, without pauperization, and without onerous taxation.”

Hays’ subject was “Forging an Industry Out of Shadows and Sound,” and in his talk he paid tribute to the courage, the genius and the enterprise of the pioneers who had led and were still leading in the develop-

44 State Legislatures to Tackle Bills Affecting Theatres Early in 1931

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Legislation affecting motion picture theatres is expected to be considered by legislatures in 44 states at sessions beginning just after New Year. Taxation will be the principal objective of the solons.

Serkovich Resigns as Editor of Publix Organ

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Ben Serkovich, one of the lives exploitation men in motion pictures, has resigned as editor of Publix Opinion, the Publix theatre house organ, to devote himself to another enterprise. His new connection will be announced soon.

Delayed Strike Is Certain If Parleys Fail, Union States

Five Circuits Involved in New York Dispute Over Number of Musicians Employed

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEWARK, Oct. 30.—Operators and stage hands in theatres here who were supposed to have walked out last Tuesday in sympathy with musicians, will definitely take such action November 2, if settlement of the controversy is not reached by that date.

It is understood that the New York union headquarters suggested the delay because of negotiations now in progress. An official of the Newark musicians’ local No. 16, however, stated that officers of his organization have not been called into conference by the theatre operators.

Circuits involved are Warner Brothers, Loew, RKO, Fox and Independent Newark Theatres. With 26 houses in the city and is attempting to employ only 15 musicians in all houses. The union insists on the continuance of last year’s agreement, which provided for the employment of 109 musicians in the houses of all circuits involved. Union officials state walkout by operators and stage hands, if carried through, should bring about settlement of the strike situation within a short time.

Louisiana Buys Film

NEW ORLEANS.—A duplicate of the film on Louisiana’s wild life, produced last summer by Alfred M. Buxey and other members of the Chicago Academy of Science expedition, has been purchased by the state conservation department and will be released as part of its educational program.

2 Men to Face Charges In $1800 Alamo Robbery

(Special to the Herald-World)

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 30.—Roy Bartlett, 40 years old, and Henry Maddux, 22, alleged confessed bandits, have been returned here from St. Louis to face robbery charges in connection with the $1,800 hold-up of the Alamo theatre here.

The men admit, according to Detective Tutt, of kidnapping Maurice Magers, manager of the Alamo, forcing him to open the theatre and gaged in a room on the second floor of the theatre.
MPTOA Convention Predicted as Best Since It Was Started

Every Division of Industry Is Expected to Be Represented at Philadelphia

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Indications are that the coming convention of the MPTOA in Philadelphia will be one of the largest yet held by exhibitors and others in the industry since the inception of the organization. Sessions will be held at the Benjamin Franklin hotel, November 10, 11, and 12.

Every division of the industry will be represented. Higher executives of most producing companies will be present to speak at the convention or the dinner. They have promised a message of great business value to exhibitors.

Woodhull Return Seen

It was learned today also that R. F. Woodhull, absent for some time from exhibitor-organization circles, may again become active at the Philadelphia convention. It is understood that pressure is being brought to bear to assure his attendance.

Sidney R. Kent will address the convention on the contract conferences and other important subjects. The exhibitor report on the Atlantic City conference will be made by President M. A. Lightman.

M. E. Comerford, member of the board, has an important statement to make in furtherance of the service work of the MPTOA. His plan, it is understood, involves definite lines of activity which has well thought out and arranged in conjunction with other exhibitors and public officials.

Banquet Speakers Chosen

At the banquet on Armistice Night the principal speakers will be Congressman William P. Connery, Jr., of Massachusetts, Major-General Smedley Butler of the Marines, David Sterr, publisher of the Philadelphia Record, Governor John S. Fisher of Pennsylvania, Mayor Harry A. Mackey of Philadelphia and others.

Charles L. O'Reilly of the TOCC, New York, will head a delegation from this city.

Theatre Owners Not Members of the MPTOA

Theatre owners not members of the MPTOA and other exhibitors in any way identified with or interested in the motion-picture business are welcome to attend and listen to the discussions and business of the convention, the leaders announce. They also are invited to the convention banquet.

First-Runs Are Given 42 Days Protection in Cincinnati Plan

System Finally Worked Out and Submitted to Distributor Executives for Action—Approval Regarded as Certain—Seven Days Added for Each Outlying Group (Cincinnati, Oct. 30.—The zoning plan for Cincinnati finally has been settled upon, after a series of meetings in various parts of the territory, proposals and counterproposals seeking settlement of the issues involved.

The plan now awaits the approval of the distributor executives in New York.

Under the terms of the plan as it is now drawn up, first-run houses are given 42 days protection. Any second-run pictures, however, in the theatres of the downtown districts are to be shown during that period.

Groups Outlying Theatres

The theatres in the immediate outlying districts are divided by the plan into five groups, with that arrangement being according to location and with a certain number of houses in each group.

Protection in these neighborhood theatres is determined on the basis of the 42 days plus seven days more, for the first group (that containing those theatres located closest to the first-run district). In this manner seven days is added for each group, making the first-run clearances increase from 42 days to 49 days to 56 days, and so on.

Approval Called Certain

A zone outside the city extends 25 miles out from the city, and in this district the protection period under the plan is 14 days, beginning from the closing of the first-run in Cincinnati.

It is not expected here that many, if any, changes will be introduced by the New York executives, and acceptance is regarded as certain.

Lightman Gets Ready For MPTOA Convention By Opening New House

NORTH LITTLE ROCK, ARK., Oct. 30.—M. A. Lightman, president of the MPTOA, opened a new theatre here this week, which will be known as the Rialto. The official opening and dedication took place Monday evening, October 27. The house is the newest in the circuit of Malco Theatres, owned by Lightman.

Lightman’s exhibitor friends are pointing out that he opened his new theatre at a strategic moment, for he will now have factual evidence to prove that there is nothing wrong with business conditions when he goes to Philadelphia to preside at the annual convention of the MPTOA November 10-12.

Lightman was formerly president of the MPTO of the South.

Indiana Exhibitors Join Fight on “Monopolistic Business Conditions”

(Indianapolis, Oct. 30.—Organization has been completed here of the Association Against Business Monopoly, Inc., and the statement is made that its purpose is “to assist theatre owners, shopkeepers and store operators in their fight against monopolistic conditions in their business.”

Articles of incorporation have been filed. Two theatre men are named among the incorporators. They are Theodore H. Jefries of this city and Frank J. Rembusch, a theatre operator of Shelbyville.

The commercial conditions which the organization will fight are similar, it is explained, to “those existing in the motion-picture industry, where the large operators compel operators of individual theatres to sign contracts agreeing to take films that are sent to them.”

Ask Receiver for House

(Kingston, N. Y., Oct. 30.—The Supreme Court has been requested to appoint a receiver, in the mortgage foreclosure action against the Kingston Theatre Corporation, operators of the Broadway Theatre in this city. The Kingston Trust Company is owner of the mortgage.
Technicolor Profitable, Say Theatre Managers in Survey

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—A survey, partially completed, which is being conducted on behalf of Technicolor to ascertain the popular appeal of natural color productions, reveals that theatre managers, finding it profitable to advertise features filmed in color, are desirous of obtaining more of this type production. Managers of news-features offices located in Boston, Bridgeport, Danbury, Providence and East Orange, New Jersey, answered the inquiry, conducted for the most part by personal interview.

Following the results of the preliminary investigation, Technicolor executives are planning a more comprehensive survey.

Here are excerpts from some of the interviews:

Manager of theatre in Danbury, Conn.: "I mention Technicolor in every newspaper ad we use every time we have a Technicolor picture (even though our local newspaper man says it doesn't mean a thing and might as well be left out). If a producer of news-features films asks us to use Technicolor, we will use it. And when other Technicolor pictures are coming, and of course, we don't know. The short subject in color seems to be popular.

Theatre manager in Bridgeport, Conn.: "When we get a Technicolor picture we mention it in our advertising. Technicolor always draws a good crowd but there aren't not many of them made."

Will All Be In Color

Theatre manager in Boston: "I think all pictures eventually will be in Technicolor. People are a little tired of the musical comedy type of picture and more features such as follow, "How do you like this story?" If the picture is a good one, it certainly helps to say it's Technicolor. We believe in taking advantage of what Technicolor advertising is being done—it helps our business."

Theatre manager in Boston: "We hear the public say a lot about how beautiful, etc., and the name Technicolor is undoubtedly a coming thing. Musical comedies are out and now it's the show that counts. Technicolor needs the large screen to put it over."

Theatre manager in Providence: "Personally I don't like Technicolor, but the public does—that's because the pictures have been fine and popular. We haven't had a Technicolor in about eight weeks but next week have Dixie's Companions and announcing Technicolor does help because Technicolor is popular with the public—no question about it."

Confined to Feature

Theatre manager in Providence: "Technicolor seems to be popular with the public—though we have very little of it. I think Technicolor should confine itself to big features. I think it will continue to stand out and not become commonplace."

Theatre manager in Providence: "All that advertising (to the public) is confusing. You would be surprised to see how quick people are to catch on to new things that are advertised. And they know too that we have a Western Electric Sound System. We take advantage of national publicity whenever we can. We announce Technicolor out front and in our newspaper ads. It helps.

"Don't kid yourself. The public is becoming more discriminating all the time and they want to know exactly what they are going to get in the way of entertainment—just as with a can of peas—it used to be anyone would do anything for Technicolor, now everybody want to know who made it and all about it. That's the way they are about movie entertainment, too."

Theatre manager in East Orange, New Jersey: "Technicolor is helping business. I should say it was past its primary stage and was susceptible of further improvement. I try to take full advantage of the fact that Technicolor is being advertised. We had a beautiful Technicolor picture here recently. 'Under a Texas Moon,' in which Frank Fay played the leading role. In the electric lights out front we didn't mention him or say anything about the all-star supporting cast, but simply announced—'Under a Texas Moon'-All Technicolor. We did a very fine business on that picture."

Sono Art Adds to Sales

Staffs in Denver, Omaha

(Denver, Oct. 30.—Syd Weisbaum, formerly with Columbia in Omaha, has been added to the Sono Art-World Wide sales staff here.

(Special to the Herald-World)

OMAHA, Oct. 30.—W. C. Wallace, at one time RKO branch manager in Denver and more recently employed by Pathe, will work out of the Sono Art-World Wide sales office here.

Sam Kaplan Honored by New York Projectionists

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Sam Kaplan was to be guest at a testimonial dinner and dance by the Kaplan Projection Society in the grand ball room of the Hotel Commodore on Saturday, November 1.

The society is an organization made up of members of Local 306 of the Moving Picture Machine Operators Union of the United States and Canada. Station WMCA arranged to broadcast the evening's proceedings.

Fox New York to Show Pathé in 25 Theatres

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Through the terms of an agreement just concluded, Fox New York circuit will show all the 1930-31 Pathé features in 25 or more theatres in the Metropolitan district.

The deal was closed by Robert Wolff, Pathé branch manager in New York. Most of the theatres involved are in Brooklyn and Long Island.

“CHIC” CHATS

NEW YORK

When Army scored that touchdown against Yale on October 25 in the Yale Bowl, three of the Cadet-Captains and Yale men thought of a lot of things to say but didn't say them. Down on the sidelines, however, was the best evidence of all, a moving picture camera. Yale officials, after viewing the film of the game at a private showing, came to the conclusion that the screen is in good hands in a not altogether legal manner, according to the rules of the game.

When newspapering the ball is not supposed to receive aid from a teammate. The film showed, though, that when the Army ball was deadlocked, the Cadets with one yard to go for a touchdown, he was hauled back after hitting the Yale line. Another Army man, charging hard, hit him in the back and boosted him over the line, for the score that caused the game to end in a tie. Yale authorities have no intention of appealing from this decision, which is good sportsmanship, and Army athletic leaders are not commenting, which is sensible. We merely tell the story to indicate that the motion picture camera can be used for other purposes than to provide amusing and entertaining populace.

When television is sufficiently perfected, it may be possible to sit in the old east chair by the fire (or radiator), and see the great games as they go on, on the year of the gridiron, without the necessity of catching special trains, paying two bucks to park or standing under a load of robes and blankets, which they used to fasten on the backs of pack horses in the old days of '49.

Broadway was treated to a sight of the Amos ’n Andy Fresh Air Taxicab Company incorporated the other day, when an RCA sound truck ran up and down the street playing various songs, followed by two boys in black face in an excellent representation of all that the famous taxicab driver is supposed to look like, even to the name of the "corporation" painted on the side. It seemed to be a hit with the folks on the street, and should bring at least a few of them into the new Mayfair.

Here's a story straight from a New York City courtroom, which happens to be true whether anybody believes it or not. It was one of those newspaper cases which help to keep the court calendar some three years behind. A little girl, 3½ years old at the time, fell down a flight of stairs into a cellar while out walking with her mother. The owner of the property was being sued for damages, in quite the usual way.

The defense attorney asked the 6-year-old child to take the stand, to the surprise of the jury (those who were awake) and the annoyance of the judge. At first he refused to permit the small girl to give testimony but finally consented after pleading by the attorney. His Honor began to question the child about her school work and such like things, and the following resulted:

H. H.—Do you know what an oath is?

6-Year-Old.—No, sir.

H. H.—Did you know what this place is?

6-Year-Old.—A court.

H. H.—Have you ever seen a court before?

6-Year-Old.—Yes, sir.

H. H.—Where?

6-Year-Old.—In the movies.
In one short year Technicolor has risen to the top. Made records—and broken 'em. And made 'em again! There's just one answer. Color keeps the B. O. busy. The tremendous increase in Technicolor business brought its problems, too. Print orders increasing way out of proportion to original plans. Last minute orders coming in all the time. But now, in addition to our Boston plant which is running overtime, there is also a big, new Hollywood plant, now going full tilt, to meet the ever-increasing demand for color. Technicolor is preparing itself in every way to serve a motion-picture future bright with color.

TECHNICOLOR
IS A BOX-OFFICE NAME. ADVERTISE IT!
And now it is Bebe Daniels who sweeps into this new light of the motion-picture day ... another in the long list of stars who shine brighter than ever in the living, vital reality that is Technicolor! Not a picture to be missed is Radio's latest—"Dixiana" ... nor a picture, even, to be billed with the usual enthusiasm due a current hit. "Dixiana" is dynamic—warm as its southern setting—swift and sure as its star. And as lovely and real as Technicolor—at its best—can make it. No mistaking this one. It's out to pull—capacity!
WARNER BROTHERS'
VIENNESE NIGHTS

Gray...Segal...Hersholt...
Pidgeon...Technicolor! Such is Warner Bros. 5-star line-up in the musical romance, "Viennese Nights." Stars all—at their brightest—in a rollicking new story of love with its "old Vienna customs."

And is it tunefully seasoned...?

"Viennese Nights" is one of the best night's entertainments ever out of the Warner fold of S.R.O's! One of the finest Technicolor pictures.

Get behind it. Feature it. Advertise it!

SAMUEL GOLDWYN'S
WHOOPEE

EDDIE CANTOR, GEORGE OLSEN and his band, and ZIEGFELD BEAUTIES make Samuel Goldwyn's ALL-Technicolor presentation of Ziegfeld's comedy,
"Whoopee," one of the most lavish productions ever screened.

OTHER TECHNICOLOR PRODUCTIONS

BRIDE OF THE REGIMENT, with Vivienne Segal and Walter Pidgeon
(First National); BRIGHT LIGHTS, with Dorothy Mackaill (First National); DIXIANS, with Bebe Daniels and Everett Marshall
(Radio Pictures), Technicolor Sequences; FIFTY MILLION FRENCH-MEN, all-star cast (Warner Bros.); FOLLOW THRU, with Charles Rogers and Nancy Carroll (Paramount Pictures); GOLDEN DAWN, with Walter Woolf, Vivienne Segal and Noah Beery (Warner Bros.);
HELL'S ANGELS, with Ben Lyon, James Hall and Jean Harlow
(Caddo), Technicolor Sequences; LEATHERNECKING, with Eddie
Foy, Jr. and Irene Dunne (Radio), Technicolor Sequences; LOTTERY BRIDE, with Jeanette MacDonald (United Artists), Technicolor Sequences; MAMBA, with Eleanor Boardman, Jean Hersholt and Ralph Forbes (Tiffany); SWEET KITTY BELLAIRS, with Claudia Dell and Perry Askan (Warner Bros.); THE LIFE OF THE PARTY, with Winnie Lightner and Joe E. Brown (Warner Bros.); THE MARCH OF TIME, all-star cast (Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer), Technicolor Sequences; THE ROGUE SONG, with Lawrence Tibbett and Catherine Dale Owen
(Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer); THE SINGER OF SEVILLE, starring Ramon
Novarro (Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer); Technicolor Sequences; THE TOAST OF THE LEGION, with Bernice Claire, Walter Pidgeon and Edward Everett Horton (First National), VIENNESE NIGHTS, with Vivienne Segal and Alexander Gray (Warner Bros.); WHOOPPEE, starring Eddie Cantor (Florenz Ziegfeld-Samuel Goldwyn); WOMAN HUNGRY, with Sidney Blackmer and Lila Lee (First National).

TECHNICOLOR
IS A BOX-OFFICE NAME - ADVERTISE IT!
Final Showdown Is Reached in Strike of St. Louis Musicians

And So Sympathetic Walkout Again Is Delayed by Projectionists
And Stage Hands Though Leader Says It's Last Time—
Eight Indicted in California Bombings

(ST. LOUIS, Oct. 30.—A final showdown conference was in progress in New York today in a strenuous effort to settle the two-months strike of musicians in St. Louis. A new proposal by the American Federation of Musicians was being considered by a joint committee of the projectionists, stagehands and musicians, at meetings with executives of Publix, Warner Brothers, RKO, Loew's, and Fox.

In the meantime the projectionists and stagehands once more have postponed the sympathetic strike which has been hanging fire for weeks during the negotiations.

John P. Nick, international vice president of the stagehands, did not reveal the details of the new proposal by the musicians. The decision to continue the negotiations was made after the St. Louis labor committee was in communication with New York by telephone.

The final conferences in New York are necessary because the local managers of the various St. Louis theatres are without authority to sanction any agreement with the labor organizations.

Nick stated the new conference would be absolutely the last and that if the differences with the musicians are not settled at the new meeting the walkout of the stagehands and projectionists will be called.

In the last peace offering by the theatre owners to the Fox, the Embassy and the Granada theatres would have hired 21 musicians each, the St. Louis 12 musicians and an organist and the Granada theatre 15 musicians. This plan would have eliminated the pit orchestra at the Missouri theatre and at all other motion picture houses in St. Louis. It was rejected.

Eight Indicted in Bombings

(Special to the Herald-World)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—Developments in the fight in which theatre owners, projectionists and musicians in San Francisco, Oakland, Sacramento, Stockton, Fresno, San Bernando and other northern California cities are involved, have come thick and fast during the past week, with further outrages and arrests. Petty smears have given way to bombings and slugging, and incensed communities are demanding that the outrages be stopped.

Following the placing of a dynamite bomb in the Mission theatre, Sacramento, the grand jury there returned indictments against eight men, naming Floyd M. Billingsley of San Francisco, business agent of the Motion Picture Operators Union, as director general of an organized gang. Others in the indictment are Walter Federoff, business agent of the Sacramento Motion Picture Operators Union; Hiram W. Reynolds, Leo Smith, H. M. Addie, Joe Gerbert and "John Doe" Walker, all operators.

The trouble at Sacramento dates from September 13, when theatre owners specified that operators and musicians would be employed in the projection rooms of the Mission, California, Sequoia, Del Paso, New Roseville and Liberty theatres.

The Industrial Association has offered a reward of $1,000 for the arrest of those responsible for the planting of a bomb in the lobby of the Alhambra last week.

Second Portland Bombing

(Portland, Ore., Oct. 30.—For the second time this week a Portland theatre was the victim of stench bombs when evil-smelling chemicals were released in the Fox Broadway theatre. Two hundred patrons left, with a refund of 60 cents each, though most of the audience remained because of the large air space and ventilating system. A similar outrage was perpetrated on the Capitol theatre earlier in the week.

Klein Firm to Distribute
12 Audio Cinema Shorts

(NY, Oct. 30.—Edward L. Klein, president of the Edward L. Klein Corporation, will be in charge of distributing 12 new short films for two-reel all-dialog plays to be produced at the Audio Cinema studios.

Production will begin when the studios have finished "Her Story," a feature being directed by Raymond Friedgen for Audio Cinema. The 12 two-reelers will be adaptations from stage successes.

Silvan Harris Named
To Edit S M P E Journal

(NY, Oct. 30.—Silvan Harris, formerly with the Fada Radio Corporation, has been appointed editor-manager of the SMPJE by the board of governors.

A member of the Radio Institute of Engineers and several other societies, Harris will edit the monthly Journal published by the organization and carry on the regular duties of the secretary and treasurer.

Sam Wood Hunts Homely
Women for MGM Picture

(NY, Oct. 30.—Sam Wood, who is filming "Within the Law" for MGM, is on another hunt for homely women. He wants to use them in the penitentiary scenes.
NEW PRODUCT

This department does not attempt to predict the public's reactions to pictures. It does, instead, present detailed and accurate information on product, together with the frank and honest opinion of the reporter.

GIRL OF THE GOLDEN WEST
ANN HARDING SCORES AGAIN!

Ann Harding, as the girl who cheats in a poker deal in order to save the life of her highwayman lover, does as admirable and sincere a piece of work in this screen adaptation of the old Belasco stage success as could be desired. This despite the fact that the story itself is highly melodramatic in the Wild West fashion of the earliest silent pictures.

James Rennie in the featured role opposite Ann Harding does more than a little in the manner in which he renders his lines to further the melodramatic atmosphere; as a matter of fact the dialog itself is decidedly that character. In certain sequences he appeared to handle himself in a somewhat stilted way which did not fit very perfectly with Ann Harding's masterly interpretation of her part.

The film seemed a bit unreal, partly because of the nature of the story, partly by reason of the dialog, and to a certain extent because of the settings. Most of the picture is photographed in the interior of the saloon which the girl has run since the death of her father.

There is, however, the fine performance of Ann Harding, who falls in love with a robber, not knowing his identity, then sticks by him after it is revealed to her that he is a notorious holdup man for whom the sheriff is searching. Jack Rennie, played extremely well by Harry Bannister, is the gambler sheriff who has been refused by Ann and bears an added grudge against the robber for that reason.

The high spot in the film appears when, after the sheriff has tracked Johnson, the highwayman, to Ann's cabin, she offers to stake herself and her lover against the result in two out of three hands in a poker deal. When about to lose on the third hand, she cheats and wins. Later, when Johnson attempts to make his escape, he is captured, but is freed at the intervention of the girl in the true melodrama style.

Direction is fortunate in that it gives Miss Harding every opportunity to take the center of the picture, particularly in several soliloquies, which she renders exceptionally well, despite their rather sentimental nature. A good closeup of Ann Harding, as an indication of the way individual characteristics may be delineated by facial expression, merits a viewing of any motion picture in which she is starred.

HEROINE OF THE WEEK

In this film her part calls for a girl both wise and ingenuous, and her acting portrays both.

The cast in general is at least capable, but the picture is purely an Ann Harding vehicle, and as such scores well. — Charles S. Aaronson, New York City.

A WIDOW FROM CHICAGO

One hour of good program entertainment is provided in this light comedy of gangster operations, featuring Alice White. An exceptionally good cast keeps the film moving with lots of funny smart-cracks and situations. Against a background of Chicago dance halls, Alice White turns in a clever comedy performance with the assistance of Frank McHugh.

Direction is not only clever, but a plot that has been overlooked in the handling of the situations and the dialog. On the stage dialog can be on the borderline, but not on the screen, for the motion picture is not confined to metropolitan audiences. More
If you remember Robert McGowan's famous combination of Mickey Daniels and Mary Kornman in Our Gang shows not so long ago the news that the director-producer has brought out another comedy featuring them is probably welcome enough news.

While those two are featured he also goes further and centers the story on Miss Todd and the new line of comedians. She is again in a role of half vampire and half clown. Her reading of lines is himself the best of most of the other players who have transferred their talents to the recording devices.

It is fare-harvest straight through. Not much slipstick, but enough.

Three youthful couples who have typically adolescent grievances resolve that "love is bunk," and consequently the young men in turn find themselves in the restful and enchanting lair of Miss Todd, an actress. Each in turn decides to marry her.

This and that happens to bring the seven players to a high point of excitement that is extremely good comedy—Doughes Hodges, Hollywood.

Murder

T HIS British International film, adapted most expertly by Alma Reville from Clemence Dane's stage play, "Enter Sir John," is as good a mystery thriller picture as they come. As seems to have been the case with the rest of the Elstree studios in England, the cast is exceptionally fine, from the lead of Herbert Marshall as Sir John, actor and amateur detective, to the supporting cast.

Marshall gives an excellent exhibition of self confidence in his role, and handles his lines with a restrained and perfect delivery of dialect which is seldom bettered on the talking screen. Norah Baring plays opposite in the feminine lead and does her part as well. The story is the work of Herbert Marshall's own, in which he and his company, in whose lodging house room another girl, also a member of the company, is found dead from the blow of a poker. Norah is found sitting against the most innocent body.

At the trial her only defense in support of a plea of not guilty is that she cannot remember when she lost her senses after a certain moment. Sir John is the only individual on the jury who holds out for acquittal, but despite the coldly reasoned efforts of the prosecutor, he is overwhelmed by the arguments of the others. The actress is sentenced to be hanged.

Sir John embarks on a little amateur sleuthing and discovers the real murderer, another member of the company, in time to save the girl from paying the penalty for a crime she did not commit. In which Sir John traps the suspect into betraying his guilt, and the odd way in which the murderer beats the law in the end provide an unusual combination of mystery and action in a mystery thriller which is novel for its new angle.

The direction of Alfred Hitchcock is all that anyone could ask. Every motion and speech is pointed toward the climax, with little or no time wasted on unnecessary incidents. Photographic beauty is good throughout, as the peculiar scenes easily rating a grade better than good.

Norah Baring does fully as able work as Herbert Marshall. Her part calls for a quiet, almost dazed, and the rapid events which have swept her around, and she performs admirably in the role. Her voice is low but very expressive which adds just that much to her performance.

An able cast, and fine adaptation and direction of a story which has at least one or two unusual twists, make this film one of the most entertaining British International has sent over. There can be little doubt that it will win a world-wide success and bring another real kick out of it.—Charles S. Ansonson, New York City.

South Seas

FASCINATING TRAVEL:—A Talking Picture Epic Production presenting Mr. and Mrs. Hitchcock and their son "Gifty" in an informal account of their cruise to the South Seas. Length, 5899 feet. Release date, September, 1930.

O NE of the most interesting and most beautifully photographed adventure films ever produced is made in "South Seas," as it is in the camera and microphone account of a trip made by Mr. and Mrs. Gifford Pinchot and their young son, Gifty, in their own schooner to the scenic wonders of the islands in the South Seas.

Rare species of bird and fish, native dancers, pearl divers and gardens of coral are a few of the interesting scenes photographically graphed. There are no offensive canibals or filthy appearing natives in "South Seas." The camera's eye caught only that which was beautiful and merited attention. These scenes are carefully timed and last just long enough.

Gifford Pinchot's synchronized voice, heard in the background describing the various queer nature specimens, is strong and clear. He is heard only when it is necessary to explain scenes. As an orchestra is on during his absence.

Much of the success of this film depended upon its camera work. It was an artist who cranked his camera all over the country and obtained seemingly impossible closeups of wild birds; he submerged his equipment for underwater shots of coral gardens and pearl divers. The picture is wholesome, beautiful and tremendously interesting.—Tom Hacker, Hollywood.

The Virtuous Sin

uagh, Eric Kallirath, Oscar Apfel, Gordon Mcllartin, Joyce Troubetzky and Victor Potel.

I LF Walter Huston is as thoroughly capable in his other parts as in the Great Plattei I've missed some excellent acting.

He avails himself of an opportunity to display his skill in "The Virtuous Sin," because Laxos Zilhny, the Hungarian novelist, wrote a strong part for him. Martin Brown and Louise Long gave him excellent dialog. And he had Kay Francis to make love to, which is inspiration for any man.

Second honor's go to Miss Francis and third to Kenneth McKenna. The latter has a difficult role, and does it well. J ohnyu Howland, as the propriestress of a Russian night club, is very good, excelling the natural crudeness for which her role called with alleged royal manners, to the delight of the audience.

The four protagonists are perfectly cast and credit is due to the directors.

Louis Gascier and George Cukor gave all four ample opportunity to demonstrate their ability.

The story involves a Russian chemist who is attempting to discover a serum to cure tuberculosis. The chemist is played by Kay Francis and Kenneth McKenna. Kay Francis is the wife who has married him platonically and is very fond of him but does not love him, and Huston is the Russian general who condemns the chemist to die.

Miss Francis starts out to give herself to the general to save her husband's life, but falls in love with him. The chemist is saved and Miss Francis and Huston reach an understanding.

The photography is splendidly handled, particularly a shot of Miss Francis eating cherries. This scene, if done in oils, would not be out of place in a mansion. There are, however, two scenes where the lighting looks a little flat. Dramatic situations, delicate love-making, tense moments and laughable incidents follow one upon the other.

An important part of the story is the religious conflict which is brought up, and is handled throughout—Edward Churchhill, Hollywood.

The Sin Ship

DON JUAN WOLHEIM! Produced and distributed by Radio. Directed by Louis Wolheim, Story by Agnes Brand Leech and Kenneth McKenna. Photographed by Nick Musarouca. Adaptation and dialog by Hugh Herbert. With Louis Wolheim, Mary Astor, Hugh Hep bert, Jan Keith, Russ Powell, Alan Roscoe.

F ACED with the task of both acting and directing—the latter a new role for him—Louis Wolheim works overtime in making this story by Thompson and Agnes Brand Leech a fair entertainment. "The Sin Ship" is filled with blood and thunder, tough sea salts and stark drama.

As the captain of a tramp schooner, Wolheim falls in love with the wife of a pseudo minister to whom he has given passage. The last word she hears is "demons" from him. The wife, who has an alias, "Frisco Kate," resents his attentions, and, to ward them off, turns Wolheim's attentions to religion.

The ship docks, detects shoot the pseudo minister, who is wanted for a crime, and all ends well.

Wolheim, apparently, essayed too difficult a schedule for himself, paying more attention to direction than of his work as an actor. He is far better as a swashbuckler than as a romantic lover.

An excellent performance is given by Hugh Herbert, who plays comedy to lightening Wolheim's work. Herbert also wrote the dialog for the picture, this being the second person of the cast to double up on assignments. Ian Keith takes his part playfully. Mary Astor, as usual, is beautiful.—Tom Hacker, Hollywood.

A Devil with the Women

BUT A BETTER SOLDIER. Produced and distributed by Fox. Director, Richard Cummings. Associate producer, Henry M. Johnson. Dialog by the adap tors, Editor, Jack Murray. Photog

VICTOR McLAUGHLIN is the "whole show." He has always registered prominently in former pictures but in this, he completely dominates.
HERO OF THE WEEK

VAGABOND ADVENTURE SERIES

Pathe—Talking

Tom Terris, the vagabond director, takes us to Guatemala, with its ancient temples, palaces and market places for this number of the Vagabond series. Usually interesting, this is no less so than the others. Featuring people, buildings, and manners totally unfamiliar to the inhabitants of North America, the picturegoer of these parts should be fascinated by the majesty of the ancient and crumbling temples which date from the day of Cortez, the explorer of Spain's great age of discovery. Close shots of the market place, illustrating the headgear and general appearance of the women, and the tremendous loads borne by the tradesmen who set up their wares in the square, all heighten the interest of this short subject. Numerous excellent scenic effects are achieved with volcanic mountains as the background. Perhaps the most unusual portion of the film shows the cathedral of San Francisco, oldest church in America, where the natives worship after losing their lives in the town of that name. This presentation of Tom Terris again clear and comprehensive. Running time, 10 minutes.

THE EBBONY SHRINE

VAGABOND ADVENTURE SERIES

Pathe—Talking

Tom Terris, the vagabond director, takes us to Guatemala, with its ancient temples, palaces and market places for this number of the Vagabond series. Usually interesting, this is no less so than the others. Featuring people, buildings, and manners totally unfamiliar to the inhabitants of North America, the picturegoer of these parts should be fascinated by the majesty of the ancient and crumbling temples which date from the day of Cortez, the explorer of Spain's great age of discovery. Close shots of the market place, illustrating the headgear and general appearance of the women, and the tremendous loads borne by the tradesmen who set up their wares in the square, all heighten the interest of this short subject. Numerous excellent scenic effects are achieved with volcanic mountains as the background. Perhaps the most unusual portion of the film shows the cathedral of San Francisco, oldest church in America, where the natives worship after losing their lives in the town of that name. This presentation of Tom Terris again clear and comprehensive. Running time, 10 minutes.

KID THE KIDDER

A CAMPUS COMEDY

Pathe—Talking

There is a slightly new and rather humorous twist to this number of the series of college boy antics, featuring Vera Marsh, Ray Cooke as the stupid freshman, Monroe Owsley and Jasemson Tracy. The boys attempt to take down the swelled head of the new football star by inviting him to an impromptu home of "birds" who doesn't exist. This is apparently an old knack trick. He is supposed to bring sandwiches and cold drinks to the "date," and when he appears for the second time, the "date" is supposed to be the one who has been turned up. The boy starts packing up the house and the unwitting fresh- man makes a few more drinks and then, with the air so light, said freshman stages a fake suicide act in his room with the help of the police and an ambulance, and the boy and girl have the last laugh. This comedy moves rapidly, the situations are amusing, particularly to the youthful, and the cast better than the average. Running time, 21 minutes.

AUDIO REVIEW—No. 39

Pathe—Sound

Women will appreciate the number of this review which goes into detail on the best manner of applying facial makeup, from powder to eyebrow pencil. Grace Lawrence describes the method as the works on a subject. "Big Lens Hunt" is interesting as animals subjects always are, with excellent shots of wild game in the Canadian woods. The review concludes with a picture of a gingerbread castle designed a "house" on a back. This is an exceptional piece of pastry construction, located in New Jersey. It makes an interesting audio subject and will be especially a treat for the younger, seen wandering about the place. An unusual review in that there is a subject for men, a second for women and a third for children. Running time, 10 minutes.
HOLLYWOOD

$5,000 If He Finishes Shooting by Christmas
(Story in the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 30.—What, ho! A conspiracy! The conspirators are Monroe Oswal, jr., juvenile actor, and Carl Laemmle, jr., general manager of Universal studios.

If they are successful, the victim will be Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Sr., who has offered his son $5,000 if he will complete his shooting schedule in time to be home for the Christmas holidays. Oswal, Jr., is a New York importer. Both Laemmle and young Oswal are working overtime to get the money half of which will be given to charity.

FN Concentrating On Foreign Films: Nine Are Finished
(Story in the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 30.—First National, during the quiet days before January 1, is concentrating on foreign versions entirely, a subject at the studio reveals.

The German version of "Moby Dick," titled "Daemon Des Meeres," and directed by Michael Curtiz, is being completed, bringing the total of foreign versions to nine.

Six French players are now on the First National payroll, and two more, Helene Darby and Leon Larena, are on their way. There are five German players and four more are being signed.

FN Concentrating On Foreign Films: Nine Are Finished
(Story in the Herald-World)

In addition to Curtiz, William Seiter, John Duangr, William Dieterle and William McGain are working as directors of the contemplated foreign versions.

Considerable attention is being directed by Grey Fleisch, said to be the most popular young actor in Germany today, who is scheduled to arrive at Burbank November 15 to play the juvenile role in the German version of "11."

Vladimir Sokoloff, well known Roubikard and Ufa player, will have the part played by Otto Skinner in "Kismet."

No Snow on Location So Skis Are for Sale
(Story in the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 30.—If any Eastern exhibitor has a craving for an assortment of fur clothing, skins and a toboggan sled, they can be purchased cheaply from William Bekerwell and Gavin Gordon, Bakewell, a Southern Californian, and Gordon, who is from Mississippian, went to Sonora, California, a short time ago, on location with M.G.M.'s "The Great Meadow" and took this equipment along.

The climate of the Sonora region which temperatudes for called light underwear. Before they started neither stated ever had any close contact with snow. They returned still with out having had their wish—and the equipment is up for sale or trade.

MGM Puts 41 Films in Work: Eighteen Are Foreign Versions

By DOUGLAS HODGES

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 30.—An unprecedented record was established todaywhen Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer announced that its schedule boasts of 41 pictures under the process of preparation, shooting and completion.

Of 23 domestic versions underway, seven are actually before cameras. Eighteen are foreign versions, and in some stage of production. The pictures occupying stage space are as follows:

"Bachelor Fathers"—Marion Davies.
"The Southerner"—Lawrence Tibbett.
"The Great Lover"—Adolphe Menjou.
"The Big Pound"—Myers-White Dogs.
"Within the Law"—Joan Crawford.
"Trader Horn"—Carey, Booth and Renaldo.
"Inspiration"—Greta Garbo.
"Reducing"—Marie Dressler.
"Toto"—Maria Alba.

Ten others will go into camera work within the next ten days, it is reported.

Leonard Directs Miss Davies

Robert Z. Leonard is directing Marion Davies, recently returned from Europe, in her newest starring picture, "Bachelor Fathers." In the cast are Ralph Forbes, C. Aubrey Smith, who is coming from London to play the role, David Torrence and others.

"Stranger in a Kiss" will mark the return to the screen of Norma Shearer after an absence of several months. Ursula Parrott, author of "The Divorcee," wrote it.

Within the next few weeks production will get under way on "Mata Hari," in which Greta Garbo will be featured. This is being planned as one of the company's most ambitious productions.

Cecil B. DeMille is preparing to begin work on his talking picture version of Edwin Milton Roch's American play of racial intermarriage, "The Squawman." Completion of the screen adaptation by Josephine Lovett, and dialog by Gladys Unger and Elsie Janis will be followed by an immediate selection of a cast.

Foreign Pictures

Foreign pictures scheduled to go into production shortly include French and Spanish versions of "Seeing Hollywood"; a French adaptation of "Call of the Flesh," with Ramon Novarro, star of the English version, as featured player and director; and "Let Us Be Gay" in French with Andre Luquet as both star and director.

Among the foreign versions now being edited are "Olympia" in French and German; "The Trail of Mary Dugan," Spanish; "Anna Christie," Swedish; "The Girl Said No," Spanish; "The Big House," Spanish; Ernest Vyas' "Wu Ling Fan."

Eisenstein Contract Ends

Paramount revealed this week that Serg Eisenstein, director recently imported, is leaving the lot by mutual consent to terminate the preliminary contract under which he was employed.

Eisenstein arrived here during the summer when it was hoped by Paramount that he would direct "An American Tragedy." He is known in Europe to be suited to that kind of subject and would have been possibly better on such an assignment than any director Paramount could have chosen.

It was not at that time, however, fully determined that the story would be filmed. It is away from the beaten path in theme and has been regarded as a "screen risk."

Author a Secret

Paramount also makes an announcement about its picture, "Confessions of a Co-Ed." It is authored by a girl just out of college who will not permit her name to be used because of the subject matter in the diary. It will boast Phillips Holmes of "The Devil's Holiday" and Martin Burtin of "Death Takes a Holiday."

What They Told Me

Leo McCarey: "In order to direct successful comedy feature, a man must permit his cast to clown through their between scene periods."

Carl Laemmle, Jr.: "We have just signed Celia Montalvan, a Mexican actress, to do the female role in 'Boudoir Diplomat' for Spanish booking."

Herbert Brown: "R.K.O. has erected ten sets, three large exteriors and seven lavish interiors for my picture 'Beau Ideal.'"

Howard Estabrook: "'Hell's Angels' will be acknowledged one of the big pieces of propaganda that is making the American public air-minded and fearless of plane transportation."

E. H. Allen: "Arid Gilstrom is working for us now. He will direct a Mermaid-Educational film."

Harry Renner: "If Ryan is on the Metropolitan lot directing a picture, but it's not on our release."

Aaron Kantor: "If a friend of mine who owns an Austin went home, found his wife knitting on a tiny white garment and exclaimed, 'Why didn't you tell me sooner?' but the darline replied, 'Don't be funny—I'm making a winter cover for the new Austin.'"
- The Sound Box -

[EDITOR’S NOTE: Tah, tah, we don’t know what to do with Krasna. We introduced him to a dozen very nice people, all big executives in the motion picture business, just so that they could explain the wide film situation to him. They talked to him about an hour, and he seemed to be listening and catching on, when all of a sudden he began to jump up and down and scream and holler that he wanted a typewriter so that he could write down the whole thing once and for all. We’ve read his piece over but we can’t see where the executives have done him any good.]

HOLLYWOOD.

Ha, Ha. Has anybody got a millimetre? Not an inch, but a millimetre. Has anybody got sixty-five millimetres? I want to make a picture on wide film. If you haven’t got sixty-five millimetres maybe you got seventy, or seventy-two, or even fifty? I can make wide film with any of them.

I’m gonna take all these millimetres and give ’em to my exhibitor friends. On Mondays they can show the sixty-five millimetre film. On Wednesdays they can show the seventy millimetre film. They can’t show nothing on Tuesday because they gotta build a new theatre to show Wednesday’s film. Ha, ha, ha, have a millimetre on me.

What the exhibitor needs is a good five cent wide film. What the exhibitor needs is five cents.

There ain’t enough machinery in the theatre booth. What we want is a couple more Whazzacolor, Bitascope, Magnifico, Wottalife and Chevolets. So there won’t be any room for mortgages. This is smart. An Ohio exhibitor says he has been losing half a penny on every seat in his house for a month. It’s his own fault. Take out the seats. Let them eat millimetres.

A millimetre a day’ll keep the doctor away. What do we care? There ain’t enough doctors to count.

What this country needs is a miniature wide film. About twenty-six-and-a-half millimetres. Stop saying millimetres. Millimetres for you, White Rock for me.

Seventy-five millimetre film. Pish tish. Pikers. Let’s see a million millimetre film. Make it run all around the theatre. “Every picture a long run picture.” Then fill the theatre with barber chairs so everybody can turn around and follow the picture. Or merry-go-rounds, and try to catch the brass ring.

You try to catch the brass ring. My head rings right now. What I want is a wide film that fits on the regular screen. It’s easy. Give the audience eye-glasses that are out of focus. Paint pictures on the eye-glasses and make the customers run around in circles.

It’s good advice. Honest. All bull and a millimetre wide. Give me millimetres or give me death. How do you do, death.

NORMAN KRASNA.

Newspaper Answers Charge That Films Are Chief Cause of Crime

Says Lawlessness Resulting From Motion Pictures Is Negligible

(BB Editorial from L. W.)

BELLINGHAM, WASH., Oct. 30. — Answering a charge of the W. C. T. U. of this state that “motion pictures are the underlying cause of crime, the Bellingham Herald has published an editorial upholding the opposite side of the question. The newspaper takes the stand that the amount of lawlessness directly traceable to the motion pictures is negligible as compared with other factors that contribute to the crime wave.”

“For several years,” says the editorial, “it has been popular in some quarters to blame the moving pictures for a large share of the crime wave, and we note that the president of the W. C. T. U. in this state takes the view that the unregulated movies, and not the post-effects of the Great War nor the automobile, are the ‘one great universal cause of crime.’

“So far as the movies are concerned, they are by no means perfect, and doubtless they could be subjected to further regulation with proper result. But it should be remembered that under the direction of Will Hays they have set up a code of their own, aimed to improve the type of pictures and to eliminate features of an objectionable nature. . . . Canada has many theatres and comparatively little crime. . . .

“There is an inherent lawlessness in the human nature that is more powerful than any film picture, and it is not the film picture that is the most dangerous instrument. It is the unscrupulous trading of pictures to the public that is the most dangerous instrument.”

12 Spanish Features
On Producing Program Of Iberia Productions

Ben Lichtig Announces List of Dialog Films for Release
In Current Year

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Iberia Productions, through its general sales manager, Ben Lichtig, has announced a production schedule comprising a series of 12 Spanish feature pictures for release during the current year.

Lichtig, just returned from a visit to the Spanish speaking countries, said, “Installation of sound reproduction equipment in theatres of South America, and the other Spanish speaking countries, is going forward at a record breaking pace. On every hand I found an extreme enthusiasm for sound pictures, the only complaint being that there are not enough pictures being made in the languages of these people.”

The Larry Darmour studios in Hollywood is to be the scene of action. “La Cautiva,” written by Armando S. Mom, is already in work at the plant. Nelly Fernandez, Alfonso de Larios, Julian Rivera, Isidro Jaramillo, Irene Jaramillo, and other well-known Latin actors, are included in the cast.

Paris is the locale of the film. A number of stories are being considered, and it is expected that announcement of titles and casts for the balance of the series will be made shortly.

Catholic Guild Opens Season; Ryan Speaks

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 30.—The Catholic Motion Picture Guild officially opened its fall season last Monday evening at the Columbus Club here, with principal addresses being made by James Ryan, president, Johnny Hines, vice president, James Gleason and Father Mullins, guild chaplain.

Popular stage and screen stars assisted in the entertainment which featured the program.

“Boom” Crane Draws
Crowd to Film Location

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 30.—Police had to hold back the curious crowds when the production unit for “She Got What She Wanted,” under the direction of James Cruze, went out to a railroad station to make certain sequences.

The chief object of the crowd’s curiosity was the “boom” or crane which suspends the microphone out of range of the camera.

Loretta Young in First
RKO Role in “Beau Ideal”

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 30.—Loretta Young this week is taking her first role on the R K O lot. She is playing the romantic feminine lead in “Beau Ideal.” Irene Rich has been recalled from rehearsals at the Mason theatre, leased by R K O, for the role of the mother in the same picture.

M G M Dogs to Do Song
Takeoff of Marx Four

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 30.—The talking dogs of M G M are going in for music, it was revealed here the other day. Their latest assignment is "The Barlow Brothers," and they will do a takeoff on those noted humans, the four Marx brothers. They are dressed in hats and voices are dubbed into their pictures.
STAR GAZER

HOLLYWOOD

DARING

Lilith and sinuous as a tigress, and just as graceful as one, Joan Crawford waits for the call of her director, Sam Wood, for an emotional and dramatic scene in the law. Her long shot, most distinctive in the 1920s, is the strolling vehicle. Her hair is a flaming, exotic red. Her hair, her makeup and the clinging gown all produce a daring effect.

The actress, languidly and, just as languidly, walks across one of the huge stages at the MGM studios to go through the opening day of shooting. Joan Crawford, who plays opposite her, is the drama. The scene is now 18 years old and has been done from San Francisco to New York on the stage and twice produced in the days of the silent.

Her "stand-in"—the woman who wears clothes identical with hers, who resembles her in height, and looks like her—stands inside the stage while Crawford, who plays opposite her, the drama. The scene is now 18 years old and has been done from San Francisco to New York on the stage and twice produced in the days of the silent. She steps out of character and returns to her chair to recline again and to study her part. The eyes of her stand-in follow her. They can’t help it. She fascinates with every move she makes. She is exactly the same before the camera and in real life. In fact, in real life she is even more fascinating than on the screen.

The youngish blond clap who plays opposite her is Robert Douglas, Jr., who has spent three years with the stage play "Caprice" in London and in New York. He does not have to do much in the film, he loves it. His father is a wealthy jeweler in Los Angeles. His name was changed to Douglas Jr. last year to avoid confusion with Robert Montgomery.

In taking the stellar role in "Within the Law," Joan Crawford shows her daring. Jane Cowl ("Cowards at All") and Douglas Montgomery, 23, who spent three years with the stage play "Caprice" in London and in New York. He does not have to do much in the film, he loves it. His father is a wealthy jeweler in Los Angeles. His name was changed to Douglas Jr. last year to avoid confusion with Robert Montgomery.

In the stellar role in "Within the Law," Joan Crawford shows her daring. Jane Cowl ("Cowards at All") and Douglas Montgomery, 23, who spent three years with the stage play "Caprice" in London and in New York. He does not have to do much in the film, he loves it. His father is a wealthy jeweler in Los Angeles. His name was changed to Douglas Jr. last year to avoid confusion with Robert Montgomery.

One of the most interesting moments was an interview with O’Connor. He is the perennial detective. He chews gum, wears his hat on the back of his head and has flat feet. He looks like a minion of the law.

"I know I look like a cop," he told us, "I’ve been in motion pictures for so long that everyone accepts me as a ‘flat-foot’ or ‘fly cop.’ I’ve gone to homes for information and I’ve had doors slammed in my face. Traffic policemen get a flash of my face, think I’m on the force and change the flow of traffic for me. I’ve had them salute me many times.

"He confided that he never wore makeup— that he came to work in the clothes he wore on the screen—and that he’d never been on a police force in his life.

We arrived on the set just as Miss Crawford—in private life the wife of Douglas Fairbanks Jr.—was revealing to Robert Douglas who she had not married him because she loved him but because she wanted to get revenge on his father for sending her to prison for three years.

The short bit which we saw had the conviction of realism and, if the rest of the picture is as well done, may be a long step forward in establishing Miss Crawford’s popularity.

—Churchill

---

Elaborate Construction at Eastern Studio of Warners

Modern Buildings to Supplant Old Glass Covered Buildings of Vitagraph Days—Varieties Production at Full Speed—

 Paramount Starting Nancy Carroll Film Soon

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—An elaborate expansion program of studio construction is shortly to get underway at the eastern studio of Warner Brothers. At present the three stages at the plant are overburdened with the production of four to five Vitaphone Varieties each week. Industrial Films, Inc., is especially in need of additional studio space for turning out industrial films for the company. The proposed plan calls for the demolition of the old glass covered buildings used as stages in the Vitagraph days, which will be replaced by modern buildings, equipped with soundproof stages. New vaults for the storage of films are to be constructed, and an expansion of the laboratory to double its present capacity is planned.

While the Eastern studio of Paramount in Astoria is experiencing more or less of a lull this week, preparing for the opening gun in the production of "That Lady of the North," starring Nancy Carroll, the Warner Brooklyn studio, where Vitaphone Varieties are made, is going full blast.

"Stolen Heaven" Starting

Activity on "Stolen Heaven" is due to begin next Monday, under the direction of George Abbott, who with Dana Burnett collaborating, wrote the story. No male lead has yet been selected for the feature.

In the meanwhile, one short subject is being completed, entitled "A New Religion," which has been aptly described as a "Green Pastures" in a miniature golf course setting with the addition of equally novel ideas. J. P. Murray, Barry Trivers and Ben Oakland are responsible for the script.

Clauddie Colbert to Begin

Two weeks after the Carroll picture goes into work, Clauddie Colbert’s starring vehicle, tentatively titled "Strictly Business," will take the center of the Astoria lot. Dorothy Arzner is scheduled to direct. No definite date has been set, but it is thought that the picture will run during the next few weeks.

"Stolen Heaven" is going into production. Since the completion of "Lady of the North," Miss Carroll, who is the present moment keeping himself occupied around the studio, will begin work on his fourth serial. Miss Carroll is unable to direct this feature, for which no cast has been selected up to now. At the Warner plant, short subjects are being completed in quick succession, with the palm for speed going to Roy Mack, director, and Robert I. Montgomery. There is the seventh of his "Believe It Or Not" series in six hours, which halved the time previously required.

For release during Christmas holidays, the studio staff has completed "Xmas Greetings," which is said to get away from all the old sentiment, pertaining to that period of the year, having been done in true comedy style. Alf Goulding directed from the story by Stanley Reuhl of the staff writers in Brooklyn.

---

Does Anyone Remember This Chap With a Can of Film?

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 30.—Kane Richmond, Heaven only knows what his name was before he came here, has made good his boast. He came here after a long and successful venture selling film. He wanted to be an H."

He has completed his latest role in "The Leather Pushers" for Universal—what a change, and he’s got the blues. And he has started his seventh. Universal is satisfied with him and plans to build him into a box office name.

---

German Houses Using Two-Feature System

(Special from Department of Commerce)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Competition has brought some exhibitors in Germany back to the old system of two feature talking pictures on one program.

This policy was prevalent in the era of silents and caused serious damage to the German film industry, it is said. In the face of protests from renters and one-feature exhibitors, the two-feature system has gained considerable foothold.
Picture to Come Direct by Wire from Studio Without Film? Cruze Asks

Producer-Director Suggests Possibility of Sending Color and Third Dimension Productions to Theatre Without Film

(Hollywood-Oct. 30.)—Is the day coming when film will be discarded entirely and the motion picture will be put on German silver wire directly to the theatre for production on a bakelite screen, and with natural color and third dimension?

JAMES CRUZE, director and independent producer, hazarded a "Jules Verne" today in commenting to this reporter on the motion picture of the distant future. "Today we have sound and color produced over the wire," said Cruze, "and when that producer will be produced in the same manner. The product will come to the screen with natural color and will be third dimensional. The chances of improvement are far-reaching and continuous."

Coming closer to the present, Cruze, whose next picture will be "San Antonio," in which he expects to return to the stage within the next two months in a comedy of his own authorship, gave a director an idea of just what he is to do. After I've finished preparations, I spend nights planning out a schedule of what I'm going to do each day—and I stick to that schedule."

Converted to Sound

Cruze, at one time outspoken in his criticism of talking product, revealed his conversion to the ranks of its supporters. "My chief objection was that each person in the silent audiences placed in the mouth of the leading characters the words he or she wanted said. With talking pictures, this is impossible. The players read their lines and nothing was left to the imagination."

"This objection has been overcome, as far as I'm concerned. I'm convinced that talking pictures are here to stay."

"I've found speech is another tool for the director. He can convey the thoughts of his characters quicker and more thoroughly with his voice. He can unravel his plot, and sum up his story at the end with more rapidity. This is good, for the mechanics of plot laying and summing up and foreshadowing are less for both the director and the audience."

"The intelligent director, with talking picture, has greater chance of getting away from the obvious."

Sees Big Help in Wide Film

Cruze revealed himself interested in the adaptation of wide film to the industry as a whole. "The public likes the outdoors on its screen," he said. "There will be many open shooting and a tendency to get away from the limits of the legitimate stage. Wide film will be of immeasurable help in this."

"At the same time, there will be interiors and closeups. The ideal combination would be the use of both types of film, which may be possible in the near future. This would give the motion picture art a scope which it has never before known."

"I'm trying to preserve the oldtime silent technique. Silent technique is an art in itself. At the same time, I'm anxious to use dialog to amplify the audience-interest. But there can be too much dialog—and there is too much at the present time."

Cantor Plans "Legit" Test Of Story for New Film

(Exclusive to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Eddie Cantor is expected to return to the stage within the next two months in a comedy of his own authorship. It is the median that the picture possibilities of a play cannot be determined until it is actually seen on the stage, the coming production being a tryout of story and material for Cantor's second talking picture.

First presentation will be in Los Angeles, possibly followed by San Francisco and other Coast towns.

Moreno Makes Personal Appearance with Film

(Exclusive to the Herald-World)

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 30.—Antonio Moreno, cinema star, made a personal appearance here recently at a mid-night show at the R. K. O. Greater Majestic theatre in conjunction with his latest starring Spanish talkie "Robin Hood" that was entitled "The Bad Man." The actor was brought to the Alamo City by the management of the Majestic theatre and the editor and publisher of the local Mexican daily newspaper, La Prensa, to raise funds for a charity organization.

"Mike" Cheats Windstorm

HOLLYWOOD.—A newly perfected "concentrator microphone" has been used by R. K. O. technicians in shooting dialogue on the Sahara desert in the face of wind storms of more than mile-a-minute velocity. The picture was "Beau Ideal."

Four UA Films on Broadway at One Time

(Exclusive to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK. Oct. 30.—United Artists, which releases only about 17 "special" films each year, has more pictures in the air just now than at any period in its history. "Hell's Angels" is in its eleventh week at the Criterion and Gaiety. "Abraham Lincoln" in its tenth week at the Central, and "Whoopie" and "What a Widow" in the fourth week respectively at the Rivoli and Rialto.

Thousand Extras Used By R. K. O. In Single Week

(Exclusive to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD Oct. 30.—With four major companies working on the largest scenes, R. K. O. established a record for all time in number of persons employed as extras and as featured players last week. On one day there were more than a thousand extras inside the studio. In addition to bit, featured players and stars. Sets included the bouquet in "Cimarron," the covert curtain in "Beau Ideal," the ghostly procession in "Hook, Line and Sinker," and the wharf scene in "The Queen's Husband."

Drop Stage Shows at Paramount Houses in Portland and Seattle

(Exclusive to the Herald-World)

PORTLAND, Oct. 30.—Stage shows at the Paramount theatre are to be discontinued both in Portland and Seattle on October 31st, following the engagement of Horace Heidt and his Californians. It is also announced that the present stage bands will be continued, supplementing the talkie program. The stage shows will be continued in San Francisco and Los Angeles, but it was stated that the increase in business at the Paramount here and in Seattle has not been sufficient to justify bringing these shows to the Pacific Northwest.

A rumor that Fanchon & Marco units would soon be a thing of the past at the Paramount was set at rest by Floyd Maxwell, division manager of Fox West Coast theatres for Oregon. It was admitted that some basis had existed for the rumor, due to discussions with unions serving the theatre, but everything has now been settled satisfactorily and that the stage shows would be continued, with a program calling for even bigger and better shows.

Conference Resolves to Ask for Moral Pictures

(Exclusive to the Herald-World)

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 30.—The St. Louis conference of the Methodist church, at its closing session held at University Church, University City, Mo., adopted a resolution calling upon motion picture producers to make pictures of moral value.

The use of underworld themes in motion pictures was condemned along with pictures bringing into prominence the use of liquor, tobacco and subjects which might have a bad influence on the youth of the country.

"This industry," the resolution continued, "can be one of the most helpful sources of entertainment to the people, and it can also be the source of evil. We call on the movie industry to come out into the light and take its place of leadership with the great moral agencies of the age."

"Hell's Angels" General Release Will Be Nov. 15

(Exclusive to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK Oct. 30.—"Hell's Angels," the Howard Hughes picture of the air, will be ready for exhibitors throughout the country beginning November 15, according to an announcement by Al Lichtman, vice-president and general manager of distribution for United Artists in the United States and Canada.
Herald-World’s Production Directory

RKO Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>STORY</th>
<th>DIRECTOR</th>
<th>CHIEF PLAYERS</th>
<th>BRAND NAME</th>
<th>STARTING DATE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>“Cimarron”</td>
<td>Wesley Ruggles</td>
<td>Richard Dix</td>
<td>September 18</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Beau Ideal”</td>
<td>Herbert Breton</td>
<td>Ralph Forbes</td>
<td>September 16</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Hook, Line and Sinker”</td>
<td>Edward Cline</td>
<td>Bert Wheeler</td>
<td>September 20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“The Queen’s Husband”</td>
<td>Lowell Sherman</td>
<td>Mary Astor</td>
<td>October 15</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Fox Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>STORY</th>
<th>DIRECTOR</th>
<th>CHIEF PLAYERS</th>
<th>BRAND NAME</th>
<th>STARTING DATE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>“Shroom”</td>
<td>Leo McCary</td>
<td>Edmond Lowe</td>
<td>September 15</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Spy”</td>
<td>Bertold Viertel</td>
<td>Kay Johnson</td>
<td>October 2</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“The Man Who Came Back”</td>
<td>Raul Walsh</td>
<td>Charles Farrell</td>
<td>October 15</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Once a Sinner”</td>
<td>Guthrie Mc Clint</td>
<td>Janet Gaynor</td>
<td>October 9</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“The Sea Beneath”</td>
<td>John Ford</td>
<td>George O’Brien</td>
<td>October 16</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Universal Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>STORY</th>
<th>DIRECTOR</th>
<th>CHIEF PLAYERS</th>
<th>BRAND NAME</th>
<th>STARTING DATE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>“Dracula”</td>
<td>Tod Browning</td>
<td>Bela Lugosi</td>
<td>September 29</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Resurrection”</td>
<td>Edwin Carewe</td>
<td>John Boles</td>
<td>September 22</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Gunga”</td>
<td>Harry Cason</td>
<td>Dorothy Janes</td>
<td>September 20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“The Modern Wife”</td>
<td>Hobart Henley</td>
<td>Conrad Nagel</td>
<td>October 15</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Summerville Comedy No. 5</td>
<td>Harry Edwards</td>
<td>Slim Summerville</td>
<td>October 9</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Leather Pushers” No. 8</td>
<td>Al Kelly</td>
<td>Kane Richmond</td>
<td>October 20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>STORY</th>
<th>DIRECTOR</th>
<th>CHIEF PLAYERS</th>
<th>BRAND NAME</th>
<th>STARTING DATE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>“Trader Horn”</td>
<td>W. S. Van Dyke</td>
<td>Harry Carey</td>
<td>September 29</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Within the Law</td>
<td>Sam Wood</td>
<td>Jess Crawford</td>
<td>September 29</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“The Great Meadow”</td>
<td>Charles Brabin</td>
<td>Robert Montgomery</td>
<td>October 15</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“The Southerner”</td>
<td>Harry Pollard</td>
<td>Lawrence Tibbett</td>
<td>October 3</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Inspiration”</td>
<td>Clarence Brown</td>
<td>Greta Garbo</td>
<td>October 3</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Reducing”</td>
<td>Charles Riser</td>
<td>Marie Dressler</td>
<td>October 3</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Trio”</td>
<td>Chester Franklin</td>
<td>Ernesto Vilches</td>
<td>October 9</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Paramount Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>STORY</th>
<th>DIRECTOR</th>
<th>CHIEF PLAYERS</th>
<th>BRAND NAME</th>
<th>STARTING DATE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>“The Right to Love”</td>
<td>Richard Wallace</td>
<td>Ruth Chatterton</td>
<td>September 20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Fighting Caravan”</td>
<td>Brewster-Koop</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>September 21</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“No Limit”</td>
<td>Frank Tuttle</td>
<td>Clara Bow</td>
<td>October 18</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Untitled</td>
<td>Edward Sutherland</td>
<td>Jack Oakie</td>
<td>October 20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Dishonored”</td>
<td>Joseph von Sternberg</td>
<td>Gary Cooper</td>
<td>October 15</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Untitled</td>
<td>Edward Sisman</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>October 20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Pathé Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>STORY</th>
<th>DIRECTOR</th>
<th>CHIEF PLAYERS</th>
<th>BRAND NAME</th>
<th>STARTING DATE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>“The Painted Desert”</td>
<td>Howard Higgin</td>
<td>Bill Boyd</td>
<td>September 5</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Fighting Dishonored”</td>
<td>Paul Hurst</td>
<td>Paul Hurst</td>
<td>September 22</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“No Leather”</td>
<td>William Watson</td>
<td>Charlotte Greenwood</td>
<td>October 21</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Untitled</td>
<td>Frank Griffith</td>
<td>Chester Conklin</td>
<td>October 20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Columbia Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>STORY</th>
<th>DIRECTOR</th>
<th>CHIEF PLAYERS</th>
<th>BRAND NAME</th>
<th>STARTING DATE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>“Dirigible”</td>
<td>Frank Capra</td>
<td>Jack Holt</td>
<td>August 13</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Criminal Code”</td>
<td>Howard Hawks</td>
<td>Walter Husten</td>
<td>September 23</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Thundering Tenors”</td>
<td>James Horne</td>
<td>Dorothy Granger</td>
<td>October 15</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Hal Roach Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>STORY</th>
<th>DIRECTOR</th>
<th>CHIEF PLAYERS</th>
<th>BRAND NAME</th>
<th>STARTING DATE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>“Voices of Hollywood”</td>
<td>Louis Lewyn</td>
<td>All Star</td>
<td>September 21</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Mickey Monte”</td>
<td>Disney Bros.</td>
<td>Elmer Clifton</td>
<td>September 22</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Untitled</td>
<td>Frank Strayer</td>
<td>Paul Hurst</td>
<td>October 25</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Untitled</td>
<td>Frank Strayer</td>
<td>Nita Martan</td>
<td>October 25</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Tiffany Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>STORY</th>
<th>DIRECTOR</th>
<th>CHIEF PLAYERS</th>
<th>BRAND NAME</th>
<th>STARTING DATE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>“Ten Nights in a Bar Room”</td>
<td>Sig Neufeld</td>
<td>The Chimpanzee Family</td>
<td>October 25</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Untitled</td>
<td>Frank Strayer</td>
<td>Paul Hurst</td>
<td>October 25</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

United Artists

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>STORY</th>
<th>DIRECTOR</th>
<th>CHIEF PLAYERS</th>
<th>BRAND NAME</th>
<th>STARTING DATE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>“Kiki”</td>
<td>Sam Taylor</td>
<td>Mary Pickford</td>
<td>October 20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Mack Sennett Studio

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>STORY</th>
<th>DIRECTOR</th>
<th>CHIEF PLAYERS</th>
<th>BRAND NAME</th>
<th>STARTING DATE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>“Taxi, Taxi Girl”</td>
<td>Mack Sennett</td>
<td>Mary Pickford</td>
<td>October 13</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Educational Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>STORY</th>
<th>DIRECTOR</th>
<th>CHIEF PLAYERS</th>
<th>BRAND NAME</th>
<th>STARTING DATE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Untitled</td>
<td>Arvid Gilstrom</td>
<td>Bobby Apgar</td>
<td>October 25</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Untitled</td>
<td>Arvid Gilstrom</td>
<td>Albert Vaughn</td>
<td>October 25</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Untitled</td>
<td>Paul Hurst</td>
<td>George Manf- er</td>
<td>October 25</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Untitled</td>
<td>Reginald Denny</td>
<td>Margaret Hitler</td>
<td>October 25</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
J. C. Jenkins—His Colyum

LINCOLN, NEBR.

DEAR HERALD-WORLD:

Isn't it astonishing the amount of ignorance there is in this country? A few days ago we heard a man in a little town in the western part of the state make the statement that the administration at Lincoln had stolen 200 million dollars from the people. We asked him if he had underestimated the amount, and he said it was that much if not more.

The facts are that since the organization of the state there has been but one instance of malfeasance and that offense was promptly sent to the penitentiary. That is true insofar as the state officers are concerned. It is also true that no state in the Union has been so free from graft as has Nebraska, and yet that man honestly believes that the state officers have actually robbed the people out of 200 million dollars. This condition can be accounted for, no doubt, by the fact that Nebraska has the smallest percentage of illiteracy of any state in the Union, with the possible exception of one, and we are not even making the exception.

Through education lies the road to prosperity and happiness. Through ignorance lies the road to ruin, and often to the penitentiary. Too many in every community take the wrong road, hence every state has to have penitentiaries. Some states don't have enough of 'em. Nebraska has one and it's jammed full. How many does your state have?

According to a dispatch from Lake Tahoe, Clara Bow and Will Rogers must have been trying to guess which shell the ball was under. Up in that high altitude, guessing is a rather precarious occupation. The dispatch says Clara stopped payment on a $14,000 check, and Will says he never guesses at over $575 per guess. Some people might surmise that they had been gambling, but that would be entirely wrong, for people who walk in the upper strata of life don't gamble. It's only those of the common herd who engage in that pastime. There can be no harm in guessing. People guess on how large the moon is, how many beans there are in a quart, how soon the bootlegger will get there, and how many pugs there will be in the litter, so where could there be anything wrong in guessing which shell the ball was under? Clara ought to pay that check and charge it to hotel expenses.

Last night we paid 60 cents to see Nancy Carroll in “FOLLOW THRU.” We didn’t follow “thru,” because we quit before the show was half over.

This is another evidence of the lack of understanding of what people want in entertainment. It’s a hodge-podge performance with no story.

Lincoln has 80,000 people and nine theatres. Five of 'em are closed. That makes an average of 20,000 people per theatre. Publicis owns all of the theatres but one. After we had visited a while, Bob said to us, “Boys, do you know I'm so chicken-hearted that I've got to get out of this business. I just can't stand it to see these hundreds of men, women and children standing out here on this hard pavement, first on one foot and then on the other, waiting for that gang in there to come out and let 'em in. My show is so good that that bunch in there won't vacate their seats until after the second show.”

We asked Bob, “Yes, that's probably true, judging from the billing out here. We always did like that picture.” And Bob said, “Whadja mean, always did?” And we replied, “Well, we remember playing that picture in the spring of 1911, and we liked it very much.” Then Bob blew up and said something that sounded like, “Ohyayougethokin—!” Then he continued, “I play all my pictures pre-release, play 'em before they are shown in Hollywood.” And we replied, “Yes, that's probably true also. Out there as soon as they grind 'em out and see what they are they shoot 'em right out of town on the first train.”

Bob is a great showman. He said that when they were taking pictures of that mob that gathered at the bank after the robbery he went up there and told them that the pictures of the robbers would be shown on the screen of the Strand theatre in 15 minutes and that there were 30 or 40 crippled in the stampede for this theatre. Bob wouldn't agree to pay us anything but said he would let us see his show for nothing.

Bob and Prof. Schram are great favorites with the Lincoln ladies. They always wear carnations in their button-holes and earrings in their pants and are very fond of shrimp salad and oxtail soup. When you come to Lincoln be sure to meet 'em.

J. C. JENKINS,

The HERALD-WORLD man.

P. S.—The HERALD-WORLD COVERS THE FIELD like an April shower.
SOUND REPRODUCTION

H. RICHARDSON on PROJECTION
SOUND IN CALIFORNIA'S THEATRES

[Until further notice, all communications to this department should be addressed to H. Richardson, 43-28 Thirty-Ninth Place, Long Island City, N. Y.]

SAN FRANCISCO

FROM Sacramento to San Francisco the run was through farm country, a distance of 102 miles—about. We had reservations at the Hotel Wilcox Club.

Local 162 has always been progressive. Even in the old days it was in the lead, always up-to-date and sometimes a few jumps ahead. Its secretary, Mr. Martin, has held the office for years. He is not only a corking good secretary and able projectionist, but also is a mighty fine man.

And now I desire, if I may be permitted to do so, to compliment the board of education of San Francisco. The San Francisco educational department has a visual educational board, in charge of a lady who impressed me as knowing her job very thoroughly. I had a long and very pleasant conference with Miss Martin (if I have the name wrong, may I be forgiven?), who has promised to give me an article setting forth her views with regard to the use of films in educational work.

The thing for which I want to compliment the board of education and Miss Martin is the fact that a professional motion picture projectionist has been employed to take charge of the board’s motion picture projection work. It is a very wise thing to do. Not only does it make for additional safety, but also it will vastly improve the life of equipment, prevent injury to the eyesight of the children and in every way make the work more efficient.

Secretary Woods is the man employed for this work and in her selection Miss Woods made a wise choice.

While in San Francisco I visited the RKO Golden Gate theatre, which has a very fine projection room some 20 feet wide by about 14 feet from front to back. Its floor is covered with dark red magnetite. There are three Simplex projectors, equipped with Aircraft lamps, which are very largely used on the West Coast. RCA sound is of course used, this being an RKO theatre.

The sound panel is at the right side of the room—right side as we face the screen—and is about three feet from the wall, so that access may be had from all points. There are individual steel lockers for the men’s personal equipment, good film magazines, plenty of metal drawers, and so on, and enclosed rewinder and a band rewinder for inspection. Incidentally, there is a large Western Union clock on the left wall of the room. There is a toilet room with hot and cold water. There is a separate generator room. In this projection room were several very clever starters, a detailed description of which has been promised.

Adjoining the projection room is a small work room, on the work bench of which is a small motor, the shaft of which extends out two or three inches. Through the end of this shaft has been saved a slot two inches deep and just wide enough to admit a piece of emery paper. In a box on the bench were perhaps 25 pieces of number 0 emery paper, one and three-fourths inches by two inches in size. Now, when they decide to clean the carbon contacts of the lamp they stick one of these pieces of paper in the slot and start the motor. The wire of course wraps around the shaft, and when the contact is held in suitable position it will be cleaned in an instant.

In this room, attached to the wall, is a wooden frame made of seven-eighths inch lumber about two-and-one-half inches wide. The frame is of course seven-eighths inches high. In the wall within this frame, headless nails are driven at spaces of about three inches up and down. On the frame is hinged a galvanized iron door having a suitable latch.

All trailers used in this theatre are wound into compact rolls and with a suitable tag are placed on one of the nails. Thus all the trailers are not only well protected but also instantly available.

In this plant is what seems to be an excellent changeover, developed by Projectionist Reinhardt, who has promised us a complete description with drawings.

In the afternoon of our first day in San Francisco, Secretary Woods and his charming daughter took us for a buggy ride all around the city, and it was thoroughly enjoyed. We included a trip to the wharf where all the fishermen park their boats. We parked some of the results of their labors while there.

Next day, Frank L. Sevier, president of the American Projection Society, Chapter 16, San Francisco, and his exceedingly likable wife were on the scene and taking us into their very classy car showed us about everything there was to be shown. For several hours life was just one interesting thing after another. For one thing we went up on Twin Peaks, whence the entire city of San Francisco may be seen, stretched out like a gigantic map. Then we visited the Aquarium in Golden Gate Park.

In the evening of the second day, in company with my son Lee and his wife, who live in Alameda, Oakland suburb, we were taken by President Sevier, Secretary Woods and their ladies out to an especially fine hotel, where we enjoyed what I think was one of the best dinners San Francisco was able to provide, plus dancing an’ everythin’.

The meeting was complete, in so far as San Francisco projectionists are concerned, although it was one of the few at which no managers were present, though all were invited. On this trip I had had dozens of theatre managers, some of whom came considerable distance to attend the meeting, and each one of them has been friendly and pleasant.

Both Friend Daughter and I desire to express our thanks and appreciation for the many courtesies extended to us both by Local 162 and Chapter 16 of the American Projection Society, through their officers.

OAKLAND

BEFORE starting on to Oakland let me say that so extensive were the doings during and immediately following our visit in San Francisco that it was impossible to do any writing until we were far beyond these cities. It is very hard to keep straight the notes on the various places visited, unless the notes are used at once. If any facts that should have been included are, missing, or if I have become mixed on any of my “dates,” forgive the error.

The afternoon of the day on which I talked to the men in Oakland Friend Daughter and I met two new friends, and his family, I had not seen my son in seven years. During the afternoon I visited the Fox Oakland theatre, which is run by France, the owner of a 1,800-seat house. In the projection room I met L. C. Litton and A. V. Nagle—also Erpi service engineer D. L. O’Brien. The rest of the projection crew is composed of R. O. O’Brien and C. Borian.

E. H. Bishop is president of Oakland Projection Local 169. L. C. Litton is president of Chapter 12 of the American Projection Society. I am assured by Brother Litton that whereas Chapter 12 A, P. S. has been a bit lagging, it is going to jump into the harness and pull good and strong in the future days.

The meeting in Oakland was successful. All the members were present, plus some of the managers. It was evident by the faces of the men there that they were very much interested.

Oakland is reaching rapidly to the half million mark in population. I am told that it has taken rapid strides in advancement, that it has very good theatres and that the projection work is excellent. I must since I trust that that report is 100 per cent correct. The projectionists of the city of Oakland, and all other cities, must remember that very much of the value received by the people in return for the money paid to the box office depends on the skill, care and intelligent work of the projectionist. The projectionists must also remember that since they ask the I. A. to represent them, and to obtain for them the maximum possible in wages and working conditions, it is only right and decent that they in return do housework to the I. A. by giving the very best possible service.

* SAN JOSE, CAL.

FROM Oakland and San Francisco we went out to San Jose (pronounced San Hozy), the notes concerning which are somewhere between a mess of papers but are evidently hiding.

San Jose local is a small one. As I recollect it there are about ten members, though something like thirty men are working in the city, the difference being made up of out-of-town members who have an unusual permit. It is my second visit to this charming and fast growing city. We were very cordially received by the officers of the local, who did everything possible to make our visit a pleasant one.

The meeting consisted of all the San Jose United Artists has just completed a new branch office building in Toronto, Ont., which is said to be the last word in exchanges. The edifice is fireproof, steel being used throughout. The view on the right shows the poster room, while the other photograph is of one of the inspection rooms. The structure was planned and executed by J. K. Burger, under the direction of H. D. Buckley, both of United Artists.

projectionists and some of the managers. Also, as I remember it, there were projectionists present from the following cities: Gilroy, Pechico, Los Vents, Mericete and Bemid.

May I also remark that the local took considerable pains to get publicity for the meeting, which is something all locals should do.

YOSEMITE PARK.

LEAVING San Jose we headed for that wonder spot, Yosemite Park, arriving in the dusk of evening, to find great, massing rock walls frowning down from a height of thousands of feet.

That evening we watched the much advertised "Fire Fall," which is accomplished by burning a great pile of wood down to embers and shoving the said embers off the top of a perpendicular wall of rock said to be something like 3,000 feet high. All this happens at 9 p.m., when it is quite dark. It therefore is quite spectacular.

FRESNO, CAL.

FROM Mariposa Grove we turned south, heading for Fresno. The road was an ordinary mountain dirt one, except that it was often muddied about five miles. Don't blame the country, though. We insisted on taking back roads since we got so used to narrow curves while up in British Columbia that we were beginning to get lonesome for them. I believe these curves almost out-curved the Canadian ones, except they were decent enough to stay somewhere near sea level, and not try to get us up near the angels. The next day some more crooked roads and then Fresno.

At Fresno we encountered what may have been serious trouble, but troubles don't bother the Fresno men at all. It seems that in writing to that city, some ununderstandable error was made which would put us into Fresno while we were somewhere up in Alberta. All the Fresno men gathered to listen to the lecture two weeks ago, plus men from fifty miles away. Of course there was no lecture. Naturally you would think they would be sore at Richardson, but they shook hands, called up their best hotel to store us in for the time of our stay, and got all the men together again.

The Fresno local seems to be very excellently managed. That is to say it is progressive. This is shown by the fact that when I published the statement that I would make this lecture tour, it immediately wrote asking us to include their city. I say the Fresno local is well managed, and that is borne out by the fact that although it has only thirteen members, it has a nice reserve' fund in its treasury and, considering the size of the local, that is to say the least unusual. The wage scale is from $75.50 to $78.00. Next year it receives an automatic increase to $81.00. Fresno has only four large theaters. The population is about 75,000.

No sooner were we seated ourselves than Secretary H. E. Perkins came in and shortly after that W. B. Clark, who is business representative of the local, C. F. Markle, H. E. Perkins, secretary of the local, G. C. Miller and E. Murphy.

They ordered all that we wrote as soon as the fact was published that the trip would be made, asking us to visit their city. When notification of the fact was sent to them from somewhere in Canada, an error was made, as I have already told you, yet within ten minutes after our arrival, a suite of rooms was engaged, consisting of a reception room and two beautiful bedrooms, with dining room accommodations of course provided. In the afternoon they took us out to their airport, with intent to show us Fresno by air. However since the one big cabin plane available on the field was declined to go up without the company of our hosts, that particular thing was called off. That evening Brother Markle, his wife and daughter entertained us at dinner and took us to a show.

Sixty miles from Fresno is the General Grant Park. The local had suggested that we take in that sight, therefore it entertained us for two days, on the second of which friend Markle, his wife and daughter were our hosts on a trip to the park, which contains the most beautiful symmetrical, huge redwood trees we have yet viewed. The General Grant tree is said to be forty feet in diameter and is claimed to be the oldest living thing on earth, its age is estimated at 5,000 years. Imagine a plant like that, its trunk as round as a true circle, reaching hundreds of feet in the air with almost undiminished diameter. May I compliment Mrs Markle, who brought along a lunch which was equal to anything in the food line almost everywhere. We ordered our car I found it had been washed and polished, the tank filled with gas and even the oil charged in the engine. When I asked orderer all that done I was informed that our hosts gave the order, accompanied by the remark that Fresno men didn't do things halfway, in which I thoroughly agree with them—they most certainly do not.

My compliments to the motion picture-sound projectionists of Fresno.
Western Electric's New Installations

City and State Theatre, Seats
Eugene, Ore., Heise Theatre, 300
Princeton, Ky., Savoy, 300
Pitt, Pa., 300
Chester, Pa., Strand, 400
Bridgeport, Conn., 250
Knoll, Okla., Ardenda, 761
Owensboro, Ky., Elkhorn 375
Leonardtown, Md., Duke, 600
Elma, Wash., General, 1,234
Easton, Pa., Third St., 880
Lampasas, Tex., Lumber, 565
Quakertown, Pa., Dickinson, 265
Bentonville, Ark., Centre, 96
Web, Sta., Ac., Imperial, 343
Huntington, W. Va., Riolo, 440
Nordfolk, Va., Star, 405
Philadelphia, Pa., Loewest, 374
Quincy, Mass., Queeny, 1,306
W. Orange, N. J., Star, 1,155
Lawrence, Mass., Premier, 659
Addison, Mo., Star, 615
Murray, Ky., Capitol, 340
New York, N. Y., Strand, 817
Schuyler, Neb., Avalon, 616
Huron, S. Dakota, Odeum, 240
Plymouth, N. C. State, 600
Spokane, Wash., 916
King City, Mo., Lucille, 374
Bellevue, Mo., Odeon, 798
Brooklyn, N. Y., Feely, 1,430
Macon, City, Pa., New Family, 1,075
Pittsburgh, Pa., 1,275
Hollywood, N. Y., Zam, 638
Kennebunk, Me., New, 343
Little River, Fla., Roscoe, 787
Winter Haven, Fla., Roscoe's, 787
Concord, N. C., Concord, 450
Cape Girardeau, Mo., New Broadway, 174
Toledo, Ohio, E. Auditorium, 662
Oldhamton, City, Okla., Loew, 450
Charleston, S. C., 400
New York, N. Y., Olympic, 616
W. Plaia, Mo., Davis, 625
Flat River, Mo., Roseland, 780
Montpelier, Vt., Gen. Gen, 725
Copperhill, Tenn., Doradal, 331
Palmer, Mass., Caracas, 725
Brooklyn, N. Y., Lincoln, 588
Bay City, Mich., Bay, 375
Stetinok, Ca., Fidelity, 610
Plainfield, N. J., Paramount, 240
Rockford, Ill., Midway, 1,094
Clinton, Tex., Midway, 725
Montoya, N. C., Pastime, 725
Herndon, Va., Liberty, 410
Lynch, Ky., Lynch, 725
Trenton, N. J., blurbird, 725
Cape Girardeau, Mo., Park, 410
Lake Winnie, N. J., 725
Honolulu, Hwai, New Kahili, 725
Pullman, Wash., 725
San Francisco, Cal., Circle, 725

RCA Announces New Sound Installations In Canada and U. S.

Lumberjacks in Vancouver, B. C., are to have their own talking picture equipment. RCA Photophone has installed sound apparatus in a new theatre operated by the Pacific Mills Company, Ltd., said to be one of the largest lumber camps in British Columbia. Sound pictures are to be provided for employees every week.

Other theatres in Western Canada which have recently purchased RCA Photophone equipment are the Bijou and Colonial houses in Winnipeg; New Olympia in Assiniboia, Sask.; Princeie, McElvain; Sask; Roxey, Yorkton, Sask.

Theatres in the United States which have been equipped with Photophones since the last list of installations was announced are as follows: Shore Road and Dyker houses, Brooklyn; Canton, Hanamrick, Mich.; Bon Ton, Jackson, Mich.; Savannah, Ga.; Monroe, Mich.; Detroit, Mich.; Irving, Miskesgon, Mich.; Palace, Toledo; Mainstreet, Racine, Wis.; Fort Myers, South Carolina; New York; Walworth, Kan.; Wausau, Wis.; Springfield's Montansanto, Montansanto, Wash.; Southern, Cleveland, and Royal, also at Cleveland.

W. E. LaDue, manager of Electrics, Ltd., Montreal distributors for RCA Photophone, reports additional installations at the Strand in New BRunswick, and the Mason, Montreal.

New Electricity Speaks for Itself

Here's How.

The electrical industry, which also implies projection and sound in motion pictures, has added many new words to common usage. Some one with a humorous bent has compiled a list of terminology to show how easily and briefly the electrician might express himself.

Here is what the nucleus of his vocabulary might be to fit the need, personal or otherwise:

If he wants:

- If she comes to call—Receiver.
- If she wants an escort—Conductor.
- If she wants to be an angel—Transformer.
- If she proves your fears are wrong—Compensator.
- If you think she is picking your pockets—Detector.
- If it is slow of comprehension—Accelerator.
- If she goes up in the air—Condenser.
- If she wants chocolates—Feder.
- If she is a poor cook—Discharger.
- If she eats too much—Reducer.
- If she is wrong—Rectifier.
- If her hands are cold—Heater.
- If she fumes and spatters—Insulator.
- If she wants a vacation—Transmitter.
- If she talks too long—Interrupter.
- If she is narrow in her view—Amplifier.
- If her way of thinking is not yours—Corrector.

Cincinnati Music Hall

Equipped with Sound

Music Hall, a Cincinnati landmark containing an unusually large auditorium, is being equipped with sound.

It is operated by civic sponsors. Only selected pictures dealing with art, science, religion and other educational subjects will be shown.

P A M Educational Marketg Amplifying System for Schools

P A M Educational Distributing Systems has placed on the market 14 distinct types of amplifying or distributing systems to use for group education in schools. Each of these systems is described as a complete unit, having a radio, microphone and phonograph device.

The amplifying sets are designed to give programs of instruction to several groups of students simultaneously. A loud speaker, according to the plan, is placed in each classroom and laboratory. It has been reported that fire drills be handled in this way.

The company has perfected an automatic phonograph, known as the Caperate Orchestra, to be used with the amplifying system. It is capable of playing 28 records continuously. A specially designed magnetic speaker is said to compare favorably with the dynamic speaker, called the Wright-DeCoster "Hiflux", is made for use in the individual classrooms.

U F A Plant Expands

BERLIN.—Marking another step in expansion of its production plant at Neubabelsberg, U. F. A. has been under construction for a film copying agency.

Practical Aspects Of Film Recording

By A. W. DESART

The movietone print or sound and picture on one film has the advantage that the sound can not get lost in the many handlings between release and projection of the film. Disc records on the other hand are liable to breakdown, projectionists mix discs or lose them and the record itself has a very short life before it must be replaced by a new one. When movietone prints are used and the projectionist gets the correct loop in his projection the picture can not go out of synchronism unless it was printed that way on the original negative.

On our first sound on film picture, "Wings," we were very much afraid of the theatres damaging the sound track. As that was very necessary, the dialogue was placed on another film and the musical and sound effects accompaniment on another. After these doppelgangers had been out for some time it was found that the sound track was just as long-lived as the picture, as the sound track film did not go through an intermittent mechanism and was not submitted to the heat of the arc. Of course in the now general movietone print where the sound and picture are on the same film, any sound track does get the heat and intermittent jerk. Nevertheless unless very badly abused the life of the sound track is virtually as long as the picture. Small scratches on variable density sound track have almost no effect on the sound.

While these new inventions will improve talking pictures in the future it is a fact that the quality of recording is considerably better than that of reproduction at the present time. If theatre projectionists would take better care of their equipment talking pictures would be even more popular than they are. In the studio we keep about fifty reproducers of the latest improved type in the best of condition. All pictures are run on this equipment many times before release. If theatre would avail themselves more frequently of the services of the equipment manufacturing company engineers and follow instructions to the letter there would be less distortion between sound as recorded and as reproduced.

Along with the advance of technique there will need to be an ever closer association of the different departments in production if talking pictures are to stand comparison with their development. Sound recording is a new department in the motion picture industry and is not very well understood by those in other departments. As directors, assistant directors and cameramen understand clearly why the sound department asks for certain conditions they will be more than glad to accede in arrangement which will be best for production and thus for the good of all.

Copyright, 1930, by Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. Printed in U. S. A.

Victor Announces New Radio Model, 3 Feet High

A new, compact model, known as the R-15, has been added to the Victrola line of radios to fit homes of limited space. H. C. Grubbs, vice-president of R.C.A. Victor, describes it as a "four circuit screen grid radio capable of bringing in distant stations and eliminating overlapping ones."

The R-15 cabinet stands three feet high. It is called a reduced likeness of the larger Victor radios.
BOX OFFICE PROMOTION

58 Couples of Twins Attend Theatre Party For Siamese Pair at Waterloo

Patrons had more fun and the box office enjoyed more business than there had been in a long time at the Iowa theatre, Waterloo, Iowa, when Jake Rosenthal, manager, gave a Twins Party.

Practically every pair of twins for miles around was present, for the occasion was the stage appearance of the Texas Siamese twins. Rosenthal says he had 58 pair of twins altogether, and Waterloo is still wondering were the twins came from. There were big ones and little ones, old and young, a few colored and the rest white.

The stunt was well advertised in advance. Rosenthal saw to that. He tied up with the Waterloo Tribune, which jointly sponsored the party and donated the publicity.

Give Radio Program

The two Texas Siamese twins, Daisy and Violet Hilton, helped to exploit the event by giving an air program over WMT, a local radio station. They played instrumental numbers and sang and the announcer gave details of the party to be held at the Iowa theatre. The night the party occurred there came twins not only from all parts of Waterloo but from the adjacent towns of Cedar Falls, Fairbank, Jesup, Denver, La Porte, Lawler and Fredericksburg.

It must have been a sight to see when all the twins came trooping up on the stage to pose for a picture. The oldest pair was 70 years, while some were so young they had to be carried by their mothers. The youngest pair was only three months.

More Than a Success, "He" Says

Though the party occurred three weeks ago, Rosenthal still hasn't gotten over it. He writes enthusiastically: "It was more than a success. Positively much more than the proudest proudest man could have produced. I wish you could have been present to see those twins parade up on the stage—black and white, big and little—they were all there."

After the stage program was completed, the Siamese twins acted as hostesses in the lobby, where ice cream and cake was served to all patrons. The entire assembly of twins also assisted in the informal reception, that is, all those old enough to be of any assistance. The rest just lounged around to watch and be watched by the curious crowds. Both the ice cream and cake were donated by local firms.

Each twin was given an autographed photograph of the Siamese twins.

The day after the party the Tribune carried a five-column picture of the twins, while other papers carried stories. Every advance ad inserted by Rosenthal plugged the event. Did people turn out? Well, they came in such throngs that Rosenthal thinks if he were to put on many more such attractions he would have to build an extension or some kind of annex for extra seats.

"Goldiggers" Dig for Theatre's Buried Prizes in "Sea God" Treasure Hunt

"Goldiggers" by the score hurried to the Metropolitan theatre, Houston, when it was announced that the house would sponsor a treasure hunt in connection with the screening of "The Sea God."

The treasure was buried in a vacant lot in the business section. There was $25 in cash and 25 show ducks. Bright and early on the day of the "digging," the "goldiggers" arrived with their picks and shovels.

Both old and young went in search of the treasure trove. It was like looking for Captain Billie Kidd's lost fortune. Hundreds of passersby stopped to gaze at the strange sight of men, women and children digging in a vacant lot with shovels. That alone was enough to make the stunt a treasure as far as exploitation was concerned.

Skywriter Scrawls Ad on "Sky Paper" To Boost "Whoopie"

A skywriter proclaimed to San Francisco in words of smoke the fact that "Whoopie" was being shown at the California theatre there. The aviator went up during the noon hour, when most people were on the streets, and wrote the words "Eddie Cantor in 'Whoopie'" in immense letters high above the city. Many thousands saw it and the novelty made it excellent exploitation.

Cantor appeared in person at the picture's opening. He was met at the depot by a reception committee and taken on a tour of the city before attending a luncheon arranged for critics and civic leaders.

He also talked and sang over local radio stations. So it didn't take long for the word to pass around that Eddie Cantor was in town.
Outstanding Ads from Here and There

Representative theatre advertisements selected from newspapers of the country by writers for EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD. This page will be a regular weekly feature. The ads are numbered as follows: 1, Fox, San Francisco; 2, Aldine, Philadelphia; 3, Alamo, Louisville; 4, Music Box, Portland, Ore.; 5, Criterion and Capitol, Oklahoma City; 6, Mary Anderson, Louisville; 7, Strand, Louisville; 8, Fox, Philadelphia; 9, Roosevelt, Chicago; 10, Fox, Seattle; 11, B. F. Keith's, Cincinnati; 12, United Theatres, Montreal; 13, Majestic, San Antonio.
Sam Wheeler Tells How to Make Electric Sign from 24-Sheet Poster

Sam J. Wheeler, who serves in the dual capacity of publicity director and projectionist for the Columbian theatre, Wamego, Kan., writes a description of an electric sign he created which has promotion value for the exhibitor who relies on his own resources for exploitation.

The sign, which is illustrated above, was devised from a 24-sheet poster for the showing of "Common Clay." It is nearly six feet high and 15 feet wide. Wheeler describes its construction as follows:

"The frame is 70 inches high and 180 inches long, made of cypress lumber one inch by two inches in thickness. When the frame has been put together, it is well to brace the corners with eight-inch angle braces. A long piece of lumber should be cut at a length of 176 inches to run down the center of the sign. Use thin white pine for the splice so the face of the sign will be smooth.

Uses Wrapping on Frame

"Then put in three rib braces, 45 inches apart. These, too, should be spliced with white pine and should be about 32 inches long. When this is done a long cloth or canvas should be stretched over the whole, but not too tightly. A good idea is to put wrapping paper next to the frame before the canvas is put on.

"We wet the poster by unfolding each section and letting water enter two days before use, without giving it opportunity to dry. Since the words do not run in a straight line, it is necessary to lay out the poster on the frame before cutting and use part of the plain poster to match. A good medium thick paste should be used and the paper smoothed out well, for the cloth will stretch when wet. The sign should not be placed in the sun to dry.

"When made in this fashion, it can be used on almost any 24-sheet, by cutting it up. It may be illuminated with three 100-watt bulbs in a reflector and a 500-watt bulb in another."

Wheeler also describes construction of the cutout head, which is illustrated above. Here is what he says:

Cutout Is Nine Feet High

"The head is made of insulite, nailed on 16-foot legs. The legs are three feet apart and well braced. The cutout itself is six feet wide by nine feet high and mounted on a frame. Eighteen inches is allowed above the frame to cut out the head. Two sets of braces support the head, one set being 18 feet high and 14 feet. The head is cut out with a keyhole saw. A guy wire runs from the top of the head to the lower end of the 18-foot braces and another from the sign to the nearest window. Wires are on the sides keep the sign from swinging."

Wamego is a town of only 1,500 population, but the Columbian house seats 650 and they go in strong for exploitation out there.

Maybe Harry Martin Was Once a Football Player, Too

Harry J. Martin, manager of the Brown theatre, Louisville, made a 90-yard run for an exploitation touchdown when he invited the high school coaches and gridiron teams in the cities of New Albany, Jeffersonville and Louisville to see the Knute Rockne football film as his guests.

Martin set aside one night for each high school team, and played his publicity accordingly, appealing to followers of the various schools in the order that their team appeared at the theatre.

Acrobats, Contest And Window Tieups Plug "Unholy Three"

Identifying Lon Chaney was the problem in a contest conducted by the Grand theatre, Terre Haute, Ind., in a tieup with a local newspaper. Chaney's last picture, "The Unholy Three," was the film exploited.

On three consecutive days the newspaper carried cutout heads of Chaney in its news section. In each of the illustrations he was disguised in the makeup he used for one of his pictures.

Those guessing the role which Chaney played in each of the films received theatre tickets.

Rex Williams, manager of the Grand, also tied up with book stores to get special window displays. Special covers, exploiting the film, were placed on all books.

Three professional acrobats, calling themselves "The Unholy Three," appeared in the streets the day before the picture opened and went through gymnastics in weird costumes at every street intersection. The name of the picture was given in large letters on the backs of all the acrobats.

Trans-Atlantic Fliers Given Five-Year Show Admission

K. P. Allison, manager of the Texas theatre, San Antonio, gave a ticket two feet wide and a foot high to Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte when the trans-Atlantic fliers visited his city.

The ticket is good for five years at the Texas. One of the newspapers gave Allison a good publicity break on the stunt by running a three-column cut of the manager holding the ticket.

F N Distributes "Sunny" Card

First National has issued a greeting card for its new picture "Sunny," which bears the message "Everyday Is SUNNY Now!" The film, starring Marilyn Miller, is to be released the latter part of November. The filmland cards are being distributed by First National exchanges to exhibitors.
A double truck of "double check" advertising for the RKO Radio film, "Check and Double Check." The cooperative stunt with the managers was promoted by the publicity staff of B. F. Keith's theatre in Dayton, "Isn't that black and white border pretty clever?"

Musical Manager Writes School Song and Sings It for Students

That a theatre manager can build up a following among the young folks for his theatre is excellently demonstrated in the case of Ted Hilgendorf, manager of the Ritz theatre, North Milwaukee independent house. By virtue of his interest in the affairs of the local high school and young people, he has created for himself a reputation for fun and good fellowship.

Ted, it appears, has always been popular with Ritz patrons, even as an organizer. But when he wrote a school song for the Custer high school in North Milwaukee, his standing in their estimation was elevated. The event was celebrated with a Custer night at the Ritz where the composition was played and sung by its composer, with the prep students chiming in.

More recently, Hilgendorf promoted a "Treat Week." A different feature picture was offered every night in the week and an admission ticket, good for seven shows, was sold at a flat rate of $1.25.

Another feature of "Treat Week" was a tieup with the Miller High Life company, whereby that firm served glasses of its beverages in the lobby gratis to all patrons.

Still another of Hilgendorf's exploitation stunts was one he used for "The Big House." Inspector Momsen of the Milwaukee House of Correction, loaned convict uniforms which were worn by the Ritz usheresses.

Hilgendorf is apparently the busy man about the house at the Ritz, for he acts as organist and manager—to say nothing of all the publicity ideas he supervises and creates.

The occasion of this special show attraction is the celebration of "Prosperity Week" by Famous Players Canadian Corporation. The latter is associated with United Amusement. To advertise the double screen program, the two companies cooperated in running a series of large display ads.

ATTENTION! Producers - Distributors Exhibitors!

This is notice that the undersigned have under production and about ready for release a talking and sound motion picture; in seven reels under the definite title "OVER the GREAT DIVIDE"

Adapted from an original story entitled "T. roud" and produced under the temporary title, "All Faces West," starring BEN LYON and MARIE PREVOST.

—L. E. GOETZ
—ALBERT DEZEL

FOR U. S. OR FOREIGN RIGHTS ADDRESSES Road Show Pictures, Inc. 804-806 S. Wabash Avenue Chicago, Ill.
Release of RKO Radio's "Check and Double Check" October 24 was preceded by a storm of exploitation in every city where it was shown. At the upper left is a view of the midnight premiere crowd at the Orpheum in New Orleans. On the right the radio broadcasting effect is well illustrated in an ad carried by the RKO Proctor theatre in Albany, N.Y. To the left is an RKO State-Lake ad ran in Chicago newspapers. Below is a two-page spread inserted by the State-Lake for the Chicago opening of the picture. The Chicago Tribune has facilities for publishing color ads. This element was utilized with excellent effect in the double truck, which appeared in red and black ink.
“Danger Lights”

the stupendous railroad motion picture production, a thrilling, spectacular epic of the rails at the

R-K-O

Majestic Theatre

THIS WEEK

R-K-O uses Southern Pacific Lines’ exceptional mode of transportation in this territory.

Southern Pacific

City Ticket Office, 115 N. St. Mary’s St.
Phone Crockett 6290

An ad inserted by the Southern Pacific railroad in a tieup with the Majestic Theatre at San Antonio to plug the R-K-O Radio picture “Danger Lights.”

“Danger Lights” Lights

Way to Film-Railway Tieup

When “Danger Lights” played the Majestic in San Antonio, the Southern Pacific railroad agreed to run a single column ad in three newspapers. The film is a railroad picture and naturally a good subject for such a tieup. Copy in the ad also explained that the railway company had transported the Majestic stage troupe to San Antonio.

Tieups were effected with several department stores which devoted window displays to advertising of the fact that they carried wares such as caps, overalls, gloves and shirts worn by trainmen. Each window had a poster on the picture.

Exploitation via a recording artist, Ruth Etting is shown presenting theatre tickets to one of the five autoists who were selected in Cincinnati each day for their careful driving. The gag was sponsored by a local newspaper and the Cincinnati RKO organization while Miss Etting was appearing on the stage at the RKO Albee. The man at the right is Fred Burns, automobile editor of the newspaper.

Ruth Etting Picks Careful Drivers

In RKO News Tieup in Cincinnati

The RKO organization in Cincinnati made the most of a stage star for exploitation when Ruth Etting, recording artist, made a personal appearance at the Albee theatre. Tieup with the Times-Star, a local newspaper, provided all the publicity and ballyhoo necessary.

Throughout the week she was at the Albee, Miss Etting spent a certain amount of time each day driving about the city with Fred Burns, automobile editor of the newspaper, in search of careful drivers.

The first five drivers who were found to obey all traffic regulations and make it generally apparent that they were careful drivers, were stopped by the copple and presented with a pair of guest tickets to one of the RKO houses. An explanation was made as to why the tickets were given together with information on the merits of the current film at the house and the motorist was then sent on his way.

Each day the newspaper published an account of the proceedings, giving names of winners in a bold face box. A photograph elsewhere on this page shows Miss Etting handing one of the winners his tickets while the newspaperman jots down his name.

Bill Danziger, head of the RKO publicity department in Cincinnati, is the man responsible for the stunt.

Offer $500 Reward

For Star’s Capture

In Joplin Poster Gag

Hundreds of colored posters were tacked on telegraph poles and sign boards in Joplin, Mo., for “The Last of the Duanes,” with the catchline, “Wanted for the Murder of William Morgan.”

The idea was simply this that one William Morgan was good for $500, dead or alive. The “William Morgan” was none other than George O’Brien, who plays the role of Buck Duane in the film.

Printed bills concerning escaped convicts always attract a certain amount of interest, and this gag was exceptionally good because the bills received such wide distribution.

The picture was showed at the Fox Hippodrome house, of which Bill Prass is manager.

Boy Policemen Visit Circle

Members of school safety patrols in small towns about Indianapolis were guests at the showing of “Check and Double Check” in the Circle theatre, Indianapolis.
“FOLLOW THRU” AT THE RKO COLONIAL ATTRACTS THRONGS OF GOLF ENTHUSIASTS

CASTLE HILLS
INDOOR GOLF and TEA ROOM

TODAY—
Enjoy a game of golf with your friends at Castle Hills.

TODAY—
CHICKEN BRANDY Kip In the Tea Room

You must see Castle Hills to appreciate it—Come today with your friends.

MAIN FLOOR
DAYTON INDUSTRIES BUILDING
THIRD AND LUDLOW

FOLLOW THRU

Owl Indoor Golf Course

There is no static between the theatre and the miniature golf courses in Dayton. Look at this cooperative ad layout and see for yourself. Six putt-putt courses joined in boasting Paramount’s golf picture “Follow Thru” in a set of display ads that occupied more than half a page in the Dayton newspaper.

MINIATURE GOLF AND THEATRES ARE LIKE BROTHERS IN DAYTON

Motion pictures and miniature golf are old pals in Dayton. When the one needs help the other provides it.

The other day the R K O Colonial theatre, wanted to push a campaign for “Follow Thru,” a big time was. The Colonial manager went into a huddle with the miniature golf men and presto! a cooperative ad was arranged. At about the same time the Dayton Indoor Country Club, devoted to miniature golf, had its own campaign. “Follow Thru” is a golf picture, making it ideal for a tieup with the small courses. Before the Colonial advertising manager had finished, there were six putt-putt courses agreed to cooperate in an advertising stunt.

Using a double page spread in the newspaper, the theatre and golf organizations urged the public to participate in an old-fashioned spelling bee, the object being to find how many words could be made from the letters in R K O—Dayton Indoor Country Club.

The contest drew large numbers of people. Prices included wrist watches, tons of coal, furniture and hundreds of theatre tickets.

PATRONS BECOME BUDDING

SCENARIISTS IN CONTEST TO WRITE DIALOG FOR STILLS

The Strand and Alamo managers in Louisville have undertaken scenario writing in a big way. Not real scenario writing, of course, but a good imitation, anyway, for exploitation purposes.

All the writing is done by the public, through a tieup with the Louisville Herald Post. Each day the newspaper publishes one still from the current attraction at one of the theatres with an invitation to readers to write their own dialog for the scene.

Those participating are also required to name the film from which the still is taken. A total of $65 in cash is to be given away and numerous theatre tickets, 2,240 to be exact.

The dialog written for the stills must be strictly original and cannot duplicate that used in the picture.

NEWS STORY OF OLD BOAT

PLUGS "SEA WOLF" PICTURE

A. M. Miller, manager of the Fox California house, San Jose, Cal, got a good news break when a local paper ran a story on Jack London’s old boat, the Bear, shortly before “The Sea Wolf” opened at his theatre. The film story was written by London.

The Bear is in possession of the city of Oakland, where it is on exhibition. To boost “The Sea Wolf,” a San Jose newspaper sent a reporter to Oakland to get a story of the old cutter.

He Wants Help

Here is a challenge for you exhibitors with house organs. Aitch Shulgold (he only gave us the initials “A” of his first name) writes for assistance. He is manager of the Roslan theatre, McKees Rocks, Pa. Here is what he says:

“I want to know why all my members of the Exchange have ceased sending me their organs. I have been sending mine to them ever since it was born. Some time ago I went so far as to write the members a letter asking ‘How come?’ But to no avail.”

Now, it’s plain that Friend Shulgold wants help. Who is going to be first?

A FEW TUNES FOR YOUR HOUSE ORGAN

[Use the articles below in whatever form you desire for your house organ. They may be lifted as a whole or in part and reprinted to suit your individual theatre.]

What Makes the Talkies Talk?

A motion picture film is the size of approximately two postage stamps, side by side. This is the same as our separate photographs to the foot. There are a thousand feet and 16,000 separate photographs to a reel. A feature picture contains from five reels up to as high as 14 reels and sometimes more. It takes 11 minutes to show a reel of 1,000 feet. As many screens are 24 feet in size it is easy to see that a first class optical system is necessary to magnify this film to the size of the curtain. The film is a little long ribbon. Sometimes 2,000 feet are spliced together.

Most equipments in theatres use regular phonograph records which are synchronized with the film to obtain their talking pictures.

The Ashland Rex pictures can never get out of syncronization because with the sound on film method of reproduction, both the projection of the picture and the sound is on the same film. In simple words, the sound is photographed on the film at the same time the picture is taken. When the picture is shown on the screen the photographed sound track is transformed from light waves to sound waves by a photo electric cell.

The sound is broadcast to the audience through our perforated screens designed to see the projection room and the sound reproducing apparatus may obtain a permit from the house manager.

ARMISTICE DAY

Next November 11 it will be 12 years since the World War ended. To celebrate the anniversary we will have a special program that day. There is no better place to come and observe the anniversary than in our theatre.

Here you can see newsmen which tell again the story of the declaration of peace in 1918. Speakers on the newscast will give you the best obtainable in speeches.

Armistice Day should be a quiet day, for quiet is the symbol of peace. We offer you that, together with educational, inspiring and patriotic entertainment.

And let us make a suggestion, at which, we hope, you will take no offense. If you have been burdened with domestic disputes, come to our theatre and declare peace. Burry the hatchet, as the old saying goes. If not, the entertainment will still be worth your time.
Leader of African Expedition Hears “Africa Speaks”

Harry Huffman, manager of the American theatre, Denver, had little trouble getting cooperation in his exploitation for “Africa Speaks.” The reason was that Paul Hoefler, head of the Colorado-African expedition which made the picture, lives in Denver.

Local newspapers needed no encouragement at all to run long stories on the coming of the film. They even printed articles on its reception in the East. During the showing some of the papers had feature stories on highlights of the African trip as they were told by Hoefler.

Denver merchants who provided the traveling supplies cooperated in running a full-page ad. Others who had interests in the trip combined to insert a page of advertising urging all Denver to attend.

Hoefler was present on opening night and attended a banquet given by Manager Huffman. Business was so good the picture was held over.

Chicago Tower Organizes Christmas Club; Merchants Will Give Prizes to Patrons

There is nothing like starting early, thinks the management of the Tower theatre in Chicago. Already the house has organized a Christmas Club, with merchants in the community tying up to give Christmas gifts in a fan contest.

Each patron is presented with a card. Every time the patron attends a show, this card is punched. When it has been punched 10 times, it is deposited in a box and a new card issued. The name and address of the owner appears on each, but it may be used by any member of the family.

Naturally, the more cards filled with punches, the better chance there will be for one of the prizes donated by merchants, for shortly before Christmas a drawing is to be made. The awards to be given include everything from candy and jewelry to furniture and radios.

Shorthand on Throwaways Advertises “The Office Wife”

Exploitation work by Warner Brothers publicity department for the picture “The Office Wife” has attained more than usual recognition and attention in New York because of its clever tactfulness and completeness.

A. P. Waxman, Warners director of publicity as the first step, distributed 100,000 throwers through office buildings in Manhattan and Brooklyn. The throwers resembled a sheet torn from a notebook. In shorthand, across the top, were written these words: “I love my boss. What do I care about his wife?” In large letters appeared the query, “Are you an office wife?” There is no need of explaining what a hub-bub this aroused.

At the Winter Garden, where the picture had its premiere, a scaffold was built above the marquee. On it a man sat at his desk, phoning his wife, with the girl—the office wife—sitting in his lap.

As a background for these two persons, there was a huge 30 by 155 foot mural painting by Bela de Tircort on the scaffold, adding impressiveness to the setting.

Tieups promoted with the Graphic and Mirror, two New York tabloids, were far more successful than had been anticipated.

A stunt similar to the one carried out on the Winter Garden’s marquee was also arranged by the Warner Brothers Downtown house in Los Angeles. The Downtown, however, placed the office setting on a truck with loudspeaker attachments. This theatre also employed two girls to walk the streets with suitcases carrying copy on the picture, as illustrated elsewhere in this section.

Carnival Tieup Adds Color

John Schoeppep, manager of the Midwest theatre, Oklahoma City, added real local color to his showing of “Girl of the Golden West” by tying up with a Wild West show troupe. The carnival, consisting of a band, cowboys and cowgirls and several covered wagons paraded through the streets with much noise and all the “atmosphere” necessary.

Loew’s in Montreal Has One Old Film, One New In 4-Hour Double Feature

J. Adams, manager of Loew’s theatre, Montreal, has conceived his own system of giving his patrons their money’s worth. He shows what he calls a “revival feature” together with the regular program to attract the public to his early matinees.

Patrons who come at 11 a.m. get four hours of entertainment for 25 cents, for this early show does not end until 3:15 p.m. Although his house is one of the few remaining theatres in Canada to give stage shows, Adams is now able to compete with the straight picture theatres by running his double feature programs.

One of his recent billings was “The Return of Dr. Fu Manchu” as the first screen feature on the early matinee. This was followed by Buster Keaton’s “Forward March” and the five acts of vaudeville was presented next.

Indiana Theatres to Sponsor Radio Contests

One theatre in each county of Indiana will hold a home talent music contest during the next few weeks in a tieup with station WBMP in Indianapolis. The stunt is being used to search out new radio talent.

Each theatre will pick the three best amateurs from its contest, who are to be heard at the radio station. The Zaring house will be WBMP’s representative in Indianapolis.
Educational Hits Steady Pace in Production of 3 Comedy Series

Educational studios are maintaining a steady pace with the Audio Cinema plant in New York producing two Terry-Toons each month, and five comedies completed or in various stages of production on the Coast.

William Goodrich is directing the third in the new series of Lloyd Hamilton comedies, titled "Marriage Rows." In the cast are Al St. John, Doris Deane, Al Thompson and Edna Martin.

Bert Roach has the leading role in "Expensive Kisses," with Eleanor Hunt playing opposite and Ernest Wood prominently placed in the support. William Watson is directing.

The latest of the Mack Sennett comedies to be completed is "No, No Lady," with the second of the Sennett Brevities series also finished and titled "Take Your Medicine." Andy Clyde takes the comic lead in both pictures, with Frankie Eastman in the juvenile role. Dorothy Christy has the feminine lead in "No, No Lady" and Pat O'Leary in the Brevity. Eddie Cline handled the direction of both comedies.

Two Filmo Cameras Shoot Football Film For Analytic Study

A complete film, to be used for technical study of football plays and players, was made of the Northwestern-Ohio State gridiron contest at Evanston, III., with the aid of two Filmo cameras and an Ediphone sound set.

The play-by-play pictures were taken on 16 mm. film from a position above the press box at the Northwestern stadium. While one of the Filmo cameras was in operation the other was being reloaded with film.

L. W. St. John, athletic director of Ohio State, was at the operator's side, dictating a detailed account of the game to the operator of an Ediphone. The joint record was to be used by coaches at Ohio State for football instruction and analysis.

The motion pictures were taken at a speed of 32 exposures per second, a speed which has been found sufficiently slow-motion to permit study of the plays in detail.

Metropolitan Gives Detroit Film Scoop On Football Contest

The Metropolitan Motion Picture Studios in Detroit, with a sound track recently added to its equipment, has been giving theatregoers repeated "scoops" on the news.

When Illinois and Michigan clashed on the gridiron October 25, the Metropolitan cameras and sound men shot several hundred feet of film of the first half of the game. The 38-mile trip to Detroit was made in record time and the film placed in developing tanks at 5 p. m. At 10 a. m., six prints were in the hands of six local first run houses, the Fisher, Michigan, Paramount, United Artists, Madison and State, ready for showing at the last show. Running comment was supplied by Al Weeks, the Times Topics Talking Reporter.

Set Speed Record on 7th Film in Ripley Series; Six Hours and It's All Finished!

A speed record of six hours was set in the production of the seventh Vitaphone picture in Robert L. Ripley's "Believe It or Not" series at Warners' Brooklyn studios.

This is said to be the fastest time achieved on any of the Ripley films. It is less than half the best time made on any of the other six pictures.

Films for French Officials

Addition of a film projection room has been made to the French Chamber of Deputies in Paris. M. Berel, president of the Groupe Cinematographique, was in charge of the inauguration ceremony.

Newspictures

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL No. 85— dedicates a thought to the known in talk of building druggie—Los Angeles' favorite expedition— In Sweden pays tribute as Andree expedition victims are brought home—Temple Stamps unemployed seeking work; numbers of young actors and actresses, unemployed, make most of film stars in Berlin—Bolshoi dance is feature of public ceremonies at St. Petersburg—John Nicholas Brown, heir to $50,000,000, weds newspaper columnist in Baltimore—West Point wins Harvard 6-0 with one close play.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL No. 86—Hoover calls former New York police commissioner to aid government in regulating unemployed situation—Ventriloquist tells first flight of world's largest land plane—100,000 Catholics attend diamond jubilee of St. Ignatius college in New York—Son of Belgium's Prince Leopold baptized at Brussels; 11 prisoners and liquor of the best snatched by coast guard off New Jersey coast—Dynamiters re-route carloads of old busses, hull which rearranges upon surface outside New York harbor.

PATHE SOUND NEWS No. 86—Glenna Collett wins gold crown—Fresh breeze forecast over winter—Girl harbors give Philadelphia orphanage—Dedicate $1,500,000 church in capital—Boston mayor welcomes Australian kangaroo—Nursel sets world record in Germany—New York girl values chocolates more than money—Aviators battle with backing chasers at Roosevelt Field, New York.

HEART METROTONE NEWS No. 208—New York sees some flying windmills—Japanese girls turning athlete—More bad news for the thirsty from Virginia—Catholics of West hold a jubilee in San Francisco—Kids of Britain hold a frolic—Metrotone films Miller in Germany, Mosquilino.

HEART METROTONE NEWS No. 209—Guns roar at Fort McPherson in Louisiana—Diplomacy of first salvo fired by Yanks in World war—Heathiest New York hobo gets prize—Still of Morocco hobo President Doumergue of France in pomp at Casablanca—Milwaukee brewery pumping all ahead up for big business, if—Mrs. Hoover sees Navy trip Princeton—Metrotone brings wire sayings from Mr. Courage and Mr. Fear.

KINORAMAS No. 5651—Britain mourns as Rl10 victims are carried to graves—President meets committee to help jobless—Revolting thousands meet in Madrid in protest against war plea for overthrow of Spanish monarchy—Cardinal Hayes jubilant guest of St. Ignatius college in San Francisco—German children greet President Von Hindenburg—on right in New Jersey academy kids revive days when "knighthood was in flowers." Dynamiters give gun for old war liner off Sandy Hook.

KINORAMAS No. 5652—Oldtimers escort old Wild West days at Tombstone—Arlie Tolland's ship dug out of Lake Nemi, Italy, after 1900 years in grave—In its empty safe at grade crossing so children can learn safety first—Scouts honor Theodore Roosevelt at Army Day ceremony—All the canaries at Philadelphia's dog show—Munich greets "sad mutter" in gay October festival—Yale and Army meet on gridiron.

Roxy Creates Special Acts

The Roxy theatre in New York has organized a special stage production for use in connection with its presentation of "Scotland Yard," which will feature three members of the chorus and two dancers from its ballet company.

Special song numbers will be rendered by the members of the chorus, with featured acts by the ballet girls as a departure from things customary at the Roxy.

Paramount Loans Actors

The Paramount in San Francisco loaned its stage stars to the Pacific Radio Trade Association when that organization held its exposition in Dreamland Auditorium there. The theatre received its due share of publicity from this tieup.
MUSIC AND TALENT
Organist Is a Modern Pied Piper

STAGE SHOWS

Chicago Chicago
Week Ending October 30

“High Speed” is the name of the stage show this week, and that’s just what it is all the way through. Eddie Stailey, a screen comedian, who appears and reappears throughout the show, is part of the fun in the program. Wilbur Hall, a musician of parts (many, many parts), is just about all the rest of the comedy. Stailey appears before the curtain, with the lights off, plays a semblance of a tune on a squeaky clarinet and announces the program. From that time, he is off the stage on again at frequent intervals and sometimes he is extremely funny, but toward the end, his humor runs out on him. He lacks the finishing punch. His start is great but his ending is rather weak.

Al Evans, master of ceremonies, was master of the situation at every turn, from the time he sang the little song in tenor called “Ringling Bros. to the Stars” until he delivered his little sermon on the high speed of this day and age (or words to that effect).

Wilbur Hall, who is advertised as a former member of Paul Whiteman’s band, lived up to whatever fame he had when he toddled out on the stage with his galaxy of instruments and his two-foot shoe. Nobody knew how much a violin bow could be mistreated until Wilbur took his fiddle in hand. He played it behind his back and over his head and he tossed the bow this way and that, but it always came back just in time to play the right note at the right time. Then he played a number on his slide trombone that was replete with triple or quadruple (maybe more than that) tonguing. But it wasn’t until he began playing tunes on an automobile tire pump that the crowd really went into guffaws. He got a roar of applause when he had finished his act.

Chicago patrons saw an adagio dancing act as good as anything they had seen for a while when Deno and Rochelle performed a rough and furious creation of their titled the “Rachetee Dance.” There was an abandon and yet a preciseness about it that couldn’t fail to win the audience.

The Blasteppers, consisting of two boys and girl, were only fair in a tap dancing number. One of the boys, Jimmy Jada, does deserve credit, however, for his hand-springs. He did them up so high one could easily imagine it was a kangaroo hopping about. Arthur Randy and Billie O’Brien were the other members in this act.

Virginia Bar, a cute little girl who sings and dances, displayed an abundance of personality in her song numbers. Al Evans and his stage orchestra added diversion with a charming medley of popular tunes played almost entirely by the stringed instruments. There was no laughing noise. It was all played with the soft pedal down, so to speak, and it was good atmosphere.

Ballet numbers were provided by the Guild Girls, who were attired in red costumes.

R. Leopold Spitalny directed the Chicago orchestra in the overture, “Caprice Italiane.”

Omaha Orpheum
Week Ending October 23

The Berkoffis, Louis, his two sisters, Gertrude and Frieda, supported by a chorus of four other girls, were on this week’s R.K.O. vaudeville program in (Continued on next page, column 2)

Jay Witmark, a pioneer in the production, exploitation and merchandising of sheet music has assumed his new duties as vice president and general manager of the Red Star Music Company, Inc., a subsidiary of the Fox Film Corporation. He succeeds Pat Fisherty, retired. The name of Witmark has been outstanding in the sheet music industry. M. Witmark & Sons being founded some 35 years ago. Mr. Witmark was one of the founders of, and a director of, the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, of which society he was at one time treasurer.

JEAN ANTHONY
Beckons and Kids Follow

“One way of building up child patronage at a theatre is to find some way of interesting them. Children, almost without exception, like to do something themselves, and they rather watch one of their number perform than anything else they know of. Those who have worked with children will tell you that, and if you have ever had occasion to be with them, you will know it to be true. And they just love an audience, and, in this particular case the audience is always there, because it is a part of the scheme, for children will sit and watch another child perform when an adult bores them to tears.

Jean Anthony is the organist at the Belpark theatre in Chicago, and a short while ago he established what he terms the Future Star Contest, which is an exceedingly interesting stage and musical contest being conducted at the theatre for the youngsters. Also, in the opinion of many of the adults who attend, it may result in the selecting of stage and screen stars of the coming generation.

Every Saturday matinee is a “tryout” matinee, at which time children are selected to appear at the evening solo of the following Wednesday. The winners in the Wednesday contest are chosen to appear in a group for the final show and contest held on each eighth Wednesday, when the grand prizes are awarded by some merchant. Anthony arranges his contest solos in a way that puts the kiddies over in a professional manner. The audience does not choose the winners, but three judges, who sit in the audience do.

This is one of the activities that the Belpark uses to keep the attention of the neighborhood on its organist and the organ solos. The daily request broadcast in the theatre has been a big success, having brought as many as 600 requests in a single day. The Birthday Club is a separate feature and the most recent thing to be started is Football Night, when the local football squad with the coach, faculty and cheerleader take over the show, singing college songs only.

DICK BETTS Successfully Featuring
The New Vogue in Organ Presentations

At the
WARNER BROS.
Roger Sherman Theatre
New Haven, Conn.

“BETTS’ SOLOS ARE GOOD BETS”

UNIFORMS FOR HOUSE ATTACHES

FOR STAGE PRESENTATIONS

BROOKS

1437 B’way
N. Y. City
HELLO EVERYBODY—Just came in from big dealings with the world's largest New York music publisher, Phil Kornheiser, Inc. Thank goodness, I'm pretty skinny, because as it was I had a hard enough time. I'm through. I think nearly everyone in the Times Square district (and lots from other districts and cities) were there, too. I know that every music publisher and down this old alley was there wishing Phil, and his wife Helen, success. Professional people, hungry reporters and the like were there trying to get a bite to eat and maybe a little drink, but it was impossible because the counter was jammed with people from music firms, getting a free meal.

In other words, we all had a good time, and I know every friend Phil's got (and that's plenty) wishes him plenty of success.

George plantation singer, pretty well scrambled, all busy, welcoming such personalities as Joe Keil, Benny Moroff (oh, what a use!), hundreds of others. Did you hear about Abraham, secretary to Jack Mills, of the Mills Music, Inc.? Well, he has been an ardent enthusiasm of miniature golf (aren't we all), since the firm published the comedy novelty entitled: "I Give Goody Over Miniature Golf." She has entered the Tom Thumb Golf Tournament, and par of the course she plays on is 45, but after days of constant practice she is able to go around the nine-hole course in only 56. All of which proves that ice cream and waltz dances are not the only way to keep in condition after his solo. Hy by no only is a good organist but a great tap dancer, as well. More tap information (take it or leave it, as you please), J. Howard Scott, formerly featured organist at the Mayfair, Ashbury Park, N. J., is appearing on a one man show at the Convention Hall at Ashbury Park. Scott is putting on organ concerts every day in conjunction with whatever is doing at the massive hall and, though it is a tedious task, he is growing fat on it and looks well.

Incidentally he is getting fatter from all over the country from visitor's who have heard him.

Julius P. Witmark, Jr., son of the late great music publisher of the same name, is also at the convention, and to-day his business manager, W. Witmark & Sons. In addition to his new duties, Mr. Witmark is head of the music publishing and Sidewalk and Hassard Catalog. He is a graduate of Columbia University (five years ago), and has been actively engaged in the music publishing business with W. Witmark & Sons....

Don Danny Winkler, general manager of the onionscoring company, is on his way to New York, where he will complete the score for the new summer hit. The company includes in its offering, "Rhythm in Blue," and "Rhythm in Blue" and "Rhythm in Blue." Also, a bit of snappy stepping, which is followed by another number by the chorus attired in light blue veils. Paul Russell again offers a vocal selection in connection with the show. Mitzi Mayfair turns some difficult dance steps, followed by her beautiful friend up to A J Alford, who sings and jokes and introduces another tap dancer. Mitzi then comes back to do a bit of tap dancing to the tune of "Stop, You Sinners." "Rhythm in Blue" again furnishes the musical selection for the next episode, which finds the chorus in ragtime and does a pretty good job. The attention given to the people who have come to introduce Rossell & Remora in a bit of fine dancing.

Weber and Marino again take the stage, this time with a humorous sketch of ballet dancing. The piece is fairly clever and funny.

For the finale the chorus is again attired in blue with Paul Russell singing "Blue City Blues." Minin- gos and buildings form the background for closing episodes.

Oshawa, opening an international melange of vaude- ville entertainment.

In colorful Russian costumes, these players presented exceptional, well received folk dance num- bers. In the second act, the girls appeared in costumes in which yellow predominated, set off with striking effect by aborning black. They wereheadgear. Next one of the four girls presented an American tap dance, wearing a blue dress of brilliant design, here the three girls were elaboration uniform style costumes, in which blue, gold and silver trim and white shoes added to the striking effect. The orchestra leader, introduced as Lenin himself to supply additional Russian atmos- phere, sang a solo during this dance. Each girl carried a black rope, used in the close of the number in a "ship" dance. "Petrouchka" and other numbers followed.

Bert Walton, comic introducer of each of the acts and an interpreter and "real man" kept the audience in laughter, especially in his repartee with Louis Berko and with Don Galvan, Spanish banjo boy, who surprisingly impromptu fashion carried the role of Arsen, while Walton kept referring to himself as "the president of de tux-tux company." A Galvan's guitar and banjo numbers went over big. He clowned along a good bit and asked the audience to pass its applause along to "the boys in the pit," who "are good showmen." Galvan's combination mandolin-banjo effect was a winner. He left the stage and crossed the front of the theatre in front of the pit in an effort to prove he used no mechan- ical device. His dueling of the guitar and banjo, in addition to his other numbers, were popular.

The third of the international acts was "Any Stamps," by a company of five in which Jerry Hausner, Emma De Wolfe, Velma McCall, Granit Erwin and Russell Baker, a local boy, showed in accordian and guitar and a cello, all highly admired and rounds from "Famous Women of History," singing of Lucretia Borgia as well as other ladies of the past and present. A beautiful and stately外表isation of "Scarlet Sister Mary" at the finale is a gem, and timely, too, as this production is lagging in management.

A runner-up for headline honors is Dave Apollon and his string band, together with a number of real hooferers. The star performer of the act is Donald Goddell, who sings their contemporary appreciation of rhythm in orchestral dancing. Apollon moves about throughout the act, playing his mandolin and indulging in witty conversation and witticisms. The act goes over with a bang.

The act is a series of ridiculous parodies on popular songs, together with plenty dialogue, vocal and rhythmic accompaniment.

"Following You" number went over especially big.

The Sevra Nelsons, heralded as an European Impresario, offer a series of impersonations that are extremely difficult, in fact, some are really the breath-taking kind.

Don Galvan
"The Spanish Banjo Boy"

Book Solid R. K. O.

Playing RKO Orpheum Theatre, Omaha

Hugo Morris
Sam Roberts
R. K. O. N. Y.
Chicago R. O.

Mortons West Coast

(Continued from preceding page, column 1)
the average. The girls show much grace and strength. The band gives a fine rendition of "Rhapsody in Blue" while the girls do their dance. Later Dick sings "Here Comes the Sun," and the band puts over the poppy "Tiger Rag."

Oklahoma City Orpheum
Week Ending October 17

The Weaver Brothers, Glees and Ahrons, and Elviry, the gal, return to the Orpheum for a week's stay—and it goes without saying that the theatre was packed for every performance.

Here is a real big time act, with the Arkansas boys showing that the unsophisticated drama isn't everything the stage has to offer.

The best part of it is they are really funny. Dance, dance, and dance, and their shtick, pull wisecracks by the yard, and the big audiences responded nobly. Here is a show well worth seeing.

On opening afternoon and night, a line a block long reached in each direction.

Detroit Fisher
Week Ending October 30

Fred Lightner, play-brother of Winnie Lightner, screen star, hands out lots of laughs, and does plenty of comedy on the stage of the Fisher this week. Fred has a likable personality, possesses a natural ability as a comedian, and works fast. More M. C.'s like this boy would make reviewing stage shows a pleasure.

"Hallow'en Revels" is the title of the new Public unit which is introduced by Lightner. A nice lineup of acts has been gathered together, and they all strut their stuff against a background in keeping with the season and show title. The Kemmys and Eva Ivey click to start the ball rolling, while the Rhythm Hotel (melodically faulty) is a vocal act of five syncopators. This crew has a well chosen group of songs, and how they sing them means everything.

Fred Crump and Joseph Jones, billed as "The Drumming Ace" and "Harmace's Favorite Singer," lend color to the production. Both boys perform in such a manner as to fully explain the billing, and their entertainment is in a class by itself. Pete and Aprile, a tap duo, and Frank and Carter, a vocal unit, line up with the rest of the talent to complete one of the better grade shows seen at the Fisher in several weeks.

Detroit Michigan
Week Ending October 23

Mittie Green, the child wunder from screenland, steals the show. And for good reason. Her imitation, as a part of "Foot Sweet," her Public unit, vehicle, are clever. She sings and struts and has the audience rolling for encore. Lou Kooloff as M. C. introduces the little star and works with her. Sumner and Hunt, a male and female chatter act, and a pair of fast steppers named Bernice and Emily, who really are good, complete the bill. Edward Wener and the Michigan Symphony, with Mrs. Edward Werner at the organ console, offered pleasing melodies. Clara Bow's "Her Wedding Night" is the screen offering.

Detroit Michigan
Week Ending October 30

Billy Glascen tops the stage bill at the Michigan this week, as master of ceremonies in charge of the fun and merriment in the Public unit, "Garden of Girls." The setting is in keeping with the title, and Fred Evans' 22 beauties are all that could be expected of a chorus. Billy himself has a pleasing line of nonsense, and gets across with his audience.

Bob, Bob and Bobbie, three whirlwind jugglers of no mean ability, furnish thrill and comedy with their offering, which moves at a pace almost as fast as the objects which they toss and throw about the stage. Gertrude Fisher has a neat spot on the bill, and proceeds to entertain the audience with just the sort of stuff that makes the coins tinkle into the bee box. Olive Sibley, soprano, wavers two numbers, and if permitted, might even be tempted to offer an encore.

Lou Kooloff, who is well known to Detroit theatregoers as a stage master of ceremonies, appears in a new role this week, as the conductor of the Michigan Symphony Orchestra. In the absence of Edward Wener, who is "squeezing it" at the Fisher, Lou does a neat job with the piece, titled "Shades of Blue."

(Continued on next page, column 3)
Before the Mike

By BOBBY MELLIN

Art Kassel, popular leader of the Metrople orchestra, broadcasting over WIBO and conductions of the Shell shows and others of the NBC network, is rapidly winning nationwide recognition in the radio field for his dynamic personality and clever entertainment specialties. Although Kassel is still a young man, his accomplishments and the field make up a long list. He plays many types of music, and does them well enough to please the most critical listeners, he has assembled one of the most effective orchestras in Chicago. He has written a number of popular pieces, is an expert soloist himself, and has received favorable acclaim from many sources. Art is a likable chap and should go a long way towards reaching the top of the holder.

With the new NBC offices finally settled in Chicago, the long-planned move of important radio features will soon take place in the city. The company will move the entire set-up of all basic sustaining programs to Chicago. This means forty hours work for the entire orchestra. The freshly assembled New York stations more room to expand with "name" attractions for the commercial accounts. The Chicago symptoms are always welcome. The station is known into national names, with all programs set for cross-country broadcast.

* * *

Igor Faderowski, one of four conductors, "name" holdouts, now available for broadcasting by NBC radio, has been brought over this week. The broadcast plans will appear on the air if his manager agrees, Faderowski leaving it to his judgment. Other three holdouts are Geraldine Farrar, Frank McHugh and Sergei Rachmaninoff. The hold-out artists figure radio work lessens their drawing power on the concert stage.

The girls seem to have a sure-fire way of identifying Wayne King, leader of the Pure Oil Orchestra, broadcasting every Thursday night over an NBC network. Having just completed a broadcast in a nineteen-studio floor studio of the National Broadcasting company, Wayne was down and on the elevator. "That's Wayne King there," whispered one young miss to her friend. "Oh, but he isn't the cutest tech, though," returned the other.

Jan Garber and his Greater Recording Orchestra are broadcasting regularly to the group of see and broadcast daily over WBBM, Chicago. Garber, like Paul Whiteman and Ben Bernie, is a world famous orchestra leader, whose wonderful music is appreciated by all radio fans who tune in daily over the above station. Jan and the boys are now playing at the New Lincoln Tavern at Broadway and Lawrence avenues.

* * *

Ted Fiorito orchestra goes into the Lowry hotel, St. Paul, for four weeks, beginning November 1, and then to the Schroeder hotel, Milwaukee, for an additional month—Ben Pollack and his NBC orchestra open at the Gibson hotel, Cincinnati, November 3, for 18 weeks—the Music Corporation of America, Chicago, added a radio producing department in charge of Edward Kapp, brother of Jack, who is head of the recording division for Brunswick's. The company's first account is Lucien Le Long perfume.

San Francisco Fox

Week Ending October 30

Various moves took place at the Fox theatre especially spay this week, with "Way For A Folio" on the screen; a symphonic program, "Japanese Fantasy," presented by Rose Valdy, and top dance in ballet style, and "On the Talkie Set Ideas," Fanchon and Marco stage attraction. With some notable interiors the stage is mighty. The other one is "Japanese Sand Man" with airs from Puccini's "Madame Butterfly" and this offering is made realistic with tableau representing Japanese scenes, and a soprano solo by Elsa Behlow Traun. For a change, the orchestra is on the stage for the stage show and the curtain goes up on a scene representative F. & M. Productions Stage No. 4, with camera directors and a lively lot of chorus girls in action, dressed in nifty fur-trimmed costumes. Marian McFadyen and Frank Schram do a lot of gabbling around on the set and pull off a lot of funny gags, songs and dances without wasting any time. One is very short and snappy and the other tall and shirmy, which helps out the fun.

Walt introduces Rose Valdy, of the centennial voice, who proves as entertaining as ever and as attractive to the eye. The girls come on and present a piece of song and dance. They are just what is needed to balance the outstanding acts, one starring in this work.

Dee Dora and Lollie, Apache dancers, demonstrate that this week's entertainment was not been overhead by offering a performance full of novelties and thrills and ever so polished. They are followed by the picture director and his companion in crime who offer a burlesque on the dance that gets a lot of hearty laughs. The Carl Torney Dancers, in ballet costume, come on their stage again, and top dance in ballet style, with two doing a dance on steps. Brown and Villa present a demonstration of rag art, making a picture in a huge frame by means of colored rags. In he completed form this proves to be Betty Ross making the first American flag.

The set comes to a close with the Carl Torney Dancers making their appearance in enormous hoop skirts and top hats, that clut in a cloth-saving costume and doing an ultra modern acrobatic dance.

San Antonio Majestic

Week Ending October 23

Jean Sarli and his R-K-O Illus are still holding full swing in the Majestic. Jean brought another novelty over that got to good advantage and pleased mightily. Each week the genial Sarli has an original idea of his to offer via musical instruments and the Majestic theatre solo organist, Vernon Geyer, always comes in to inject his melange into the introductory symphony.

This week, the headlining R-K-O vaudeville set on the program is Geraldine and Jo, the international kiddey stars, are billed in "Something Different," offered a bright turn of entertaining features which was clever and unique and these two youngsters pleased the audience.

Lane, Osborne and Chleo appeared in a classical diversion and their presentation included several dances of the latest and Melody and motion reign over this entire number.

Tom and Ray Boscos, in a skit called "Voiley Neighbors," was a farce comedy throughout with funny tunes and dance steps to top off their sketch. Their pair comedians are about the best on the vaudeville stage today, according to local critics and reviewers.

Harry Holmes, "The Pessimist," sure did rock the crowds with laughter all during the time he was on the stage at the Majestic. Mr. Holmes also appeared before the Optimist Club here, a local organization, and this helped to plug his act at this vaudeville house. He met at each and every performance that he made in the Atmo City.

On the silver screen was the talking picture released by Universal "A Lady Surrendered."

Detroit Fox

Week Ending October 30

Fifi Darvey, "than whom there is no other" in the current production, is held over by popular demand, for a second week as the head- line stage attraction. What Fifi does to the custom- ers with her vocalizing down into the audience, where she muses the hair and kisses a few bold heads, makes her one of the outstanding varieties of personal appearances. Fifi simply jumps wholeheartedly into the spirit of the occasion and makes the most of every opportunity.

The F & M "Caudets" idea serves as a background for the week's entertainment. Presented over by Sam Jack Kaufman, who might have been lined up earlier in the season, are these rambUNCTious "blue" and "Japanese" from the Old Mill Stream," while the others are, in their big number. Johnnie Dunn, a uke player, proves that the truly American instrument can be made to do things when he plays "Strips and Stripes Forever" in a way that calls for an encore.

The tumbling of Begman and Trigavy, and the vocal effects of Mija, the pretty girls, don't leave much to be desired. Just to do the job right, however, the audience and Bernes get off some neat and clever stepping. It is, as a unit, a great show, with more than one individual performer of merit and ability. Warner Baxter is seen on the screen in "Rena- gades." A short storylogue, and Fox Movietone narrated the complete bill.

San Antonio Majestic

Week Ending October 16

Headlining this R-K-O vaudeville bill was Harry Carroll and his 1920 Edition revue, featuring Miss Maxine Lewis, who has a very charming voice and did a medley of several of the famous song hits with Carroll, bringing out former musical numbers as well as present ones. Carroll himself is a well known song composer, revue producer and with this current stage show acts as the master of ceremonies for the production. The 1920 edition of the Harry Carroll review contains a host of dancing, singing and musical comedy stunts, among them is Eddie Brack, a new find of the vaudeville ranks, also does his bit to put his likable comedy onto most of the review scenes. Six very talented dancing numbers go on the clever steps. Opening the program were Gaynor and Byrom, showing off two of the latest and biggest roller skates. They do a turn of eccentric whirlwind twists on these little rollers, which was entertaining and pleasant.

Harry Foster Watch, a novelty entertainer featured on this week's stage, was, somehow, a one-man band and his presentation is truly a high spot on any bill of fare. Audience responded with a good humored round of applause for his presentation, according to this reviewer, who believes that this is the best intact show to play the Greater Majestic alone last summer. Jean Sarli and his R-K-O Illus, theatre house orchestra produced a most delightful novel overture, then offered the usual march number, "Value of the R-K-O."
SAN FRANCISCO Generous With Theatre Talent
(Special to the Herald-World)
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26.—The success attained by Walt Rooney of the Fox theatre, San Francisco, with the recent presentation of his "symphonic poems" at the Eady theatre, New York, emphasizes the importance of the city by the Golden Gate in developing theatrical and musical talent. Panchon and Marco, now at the top in producing stage shows, began here in the Little Club in Tuit's Cafe, on O'Farrell street. Jack Partington, painter and designer of stage shows, went from the Granada theatre to New York to do the charge of all Paramount stage productions in that city.

Paul Ash, who has won fame in Chicago and New York, went East after winning acclaim at the Granada theatre here, while Paul Whiteam, king of jazz, was born in San Francisco. During the war he led a marine band at Mare Island.

Ollie Wallace Returns to Portland Broadway
(Special to the Herald-World)
PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 30.—One of the most popular and well-known actors on the Pacific Coast, "Ollie" Wallace, has again returned to the Fox Broadway theatre, Portland, where he opened for an indefinite engagement. Wallace has spent the past three years playing in the larger theatres in Southern California.

Vaudeville Is Reinstated At K. C. Pantages
(Special to the Herald-World)
KANSAS CITY, Oct. 30.—Fanchon and Marco stage shows have been dropped from the Pantages policy here after several months of continuous presentation, Wallace has been reinstated.

The Globe theatre reopened this week with pictures and Lulu Bridge's vaudeville company. The Globe has been dark for several months. It was the first theatre in town to show talking pictures.

Ellard at the Texas
(Special to the Herald-World)
SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 30.—Jimmie Ellard, stage band leader of the Metropolitan theatre, Houston, is now guest master of ceremonies at the Texas theatre here this week.

Hollywood Tunes
(To the Herald-World)
HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23.—Eddie Cantor and George Olsen have always been great friends. This week, Cantor opened at Olsen's night club for a short engagement, refusing an offer of $20,000 to appear on the stage, as a favor to his friend. He offered his services gratis.

Warner Brothers' "Oh Sailor Behave," formerly "Nancy From Naples," has a duet of "naturals" in "Highway to Heaven" and "When Love Comes in the Moonlight." Although the picture has not yet had its New York premiere, the mechanical companies are recording the numbers. The film is playing second run here and the songs are climbing high on the "best sellers" list.

Ted Weiss and his Victor recording artists are playing an indefinite engagement at the Roosevelt Blossom Room. The "Personality Boys," Country, Emanuel, Art Weiss, Parker Gibbs and Arthur Jarrett, are assisting.

Meyer Synchronizing Service has found it necessary to move its offices to Tec-Art studios. The recording equipment will remain at Metropolis where the "musical service for producers" will be maintained.

Charlie Murray enjoyed an extra holiday during Yom Kippur while George Sidney remained at home. Sidney says he will even the score when St. Patrick's day arrives.

Fox has exercised the second option of a contract for five years with Pat J. Flaherty as vice-president and general manager of the New York Red Star Music Company, publishers of Fox song product. New branches in Detroit, Chicago and Boston will be established.

Charlie Hamp has signed for 52 weeks over the NBC network. The high salaried singer will be heard in practically every section of the country except the West, where he has the largest following. Hamp is tremendously popular over the air here.

Josiah Zuro has completed the musical score to be synchronized for the foreign release of "Her Man." This is in accordance with Pathe's plan to release its entire foreign product in silent form with musical accompaniment.

Cherniavsky New Guest Leader at Saenger
(To the Herald-World)
NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 30.—Joseph Cherniavsky, known in California as the Emperor of Jazz, and most famous because of his musical score in the motion picture, "Show Boat," opens at the Saenger theatre Friday. The Saenger is seeking for the new guest conductor of the Saenger grand orchestra. Cherniavsky came to New Orleans directly from Hollywood. For the past three years he was general music director for the Universal studios in California and was responsible for all musical scores in Universal pictures, among them being "Show Boat," which played at the Saenger in June, 1927.

Cole on Southern Trip
Bob Cole, Chicago salesman for Lewis, Manne and Butler, is away on a southern trip that will eventually take him in the West Coast, carrying with him a catalog that includes their new song hit, "What a Fool I've Been to Believe in You." Cole has been in the music business for the last 15 years and was at one time affiliated with Witmark.

Remick Music Corp.
219 W. 46th St. New York City
Reaching a Million Homes
EVERY SONG A TOUCH-DOWN
FOOTBALL FREDDY
(1930 Collegiate Man)
Novelty-Rah-Rah Song
The cheer-leader of 'em all—
The song that makes the boys play.

MAYBE IT'S LOVE
Fox Trot theme from Warner Bros. Vitaphone
"Maybe It's Love" featuring the "All American Football team.

WASTING MY LOVE ON YOU
(Fox trot ballad)
Crashes right thru the line.

IF I COULDN'T BE WITH YOU
(One Hour Tonight)
(Fox trot hit)
Knocks 'em for a goal.

EVERYTHING IS EVEN
Even worse than it was before
(The timely comedy song)
Wins the game with a laugh.

ORGANISTS: Have you received your cue-sheets of "The Tom Thumb" slide novelty featur- ing "Songs They Sing".
Write for it to Cliff Hess
Special Service Mgr.

Remick Music Corp.
ORGAN SOLOS

DICK BETTS (New Haven Roger Sherman) presented another of his pleasing novelties last week for his audience to sing to. This one was entitled "Let's Do Someimitations." and opened with an introductory slide explaining to the audience that they were to impersonate famous Broadway stars. These slides were written in lyric form and sung to the tune "Inspiration." The first song to be sung was "Tell Me You Break My Heart." This was written by a local boy and it naturally got the audience in a singing mood right from the start. "Swinging the Clouds Away" was next played and the audience tried to imitate Maurice Chevalier's poppy way of singing it. The next song was a Yiddish version of "If I Had a Talking Picture of You" as Fannie Brice would sing it. The lyrics were so funny that the audience got a bigger kick laughing than by singing them. The imitation of Helen Kane singing "Confesin'" (with a lot of Roop Rouq Ba Da Quo in it) was well sung and the tongue-twister, played real fast, as an imitation of Floyd Gibbons, had the audience all twisted up. For a final encore Dick pleasantly played "Whispering" and all the audience joined with him in singing it. Betts has a pleasant smiling voice which he uses to good advantage in leading his audiences in the singing, and a personality and playing ability that have made him very popular here.

ART THOMPSON (Clarksburg, W. Va., Ritz), Clarksburg's favorite organist, after a two-weeks' vacation (spent in New York City) is back on the job with a very clever "singing" novelty, entitled "An Endowing Concert." The way the audience responds to Art's demands certainly proves his popularity and their happiness at his return. After telling a short story of different ways of lowbrow imitating, records, etc., the solo turns to the singing of the following song: "So Bots My Heart," "Moonlight on the Colorado," "Don't Tell Her What Happened to Me" and "Only a Midnight Adventure." Art was called on for encore, for which he very softly played "The Sidewalks of New York." While playing this number Art told the audience (via mike) of his pleasant trip to New York and of the wonderful material he brought back with him for his future programs.

WEEK ENDING OCTOBER 25

BEST SELLERS WEEK ENDING OCTOBER 25

No. 1
"Little White Lies"—(Donaldson, Donaldson, Davis & Gamble).

No. 2
"Springtime in the Rockies"—(Villa Moret).

No. 3
"Betty Co-Ed"—(Carl Fischer).

No. 4
"Go Home and Tell Your Mother"—(Robbins).

ARTISTRY

"Says He's a Singer"—(Famous).

"I'll Be Blue Just Thinking of You"—(Feist).

"You Are My Music"—(Famous).

"Rube Brown's First Program"—(Remick).

"Gee But I'd Like to Make You Happy"—(Remick, Brown & Henderson).

"Davy & Sue"—(Remick).

"Moonlight on the Colorado"—(Shapiro, Bernstein).

GREAT "MUSIC" MOVIE

Somehow in Old Wyoming"—(Joe Morris).

"My Baby Just Cares for Me"—(Mills Music, Inc.).

"Rhubarb"—(Remick).

"For You"—(Remick).

"Rhubarb, Rhubarb & More"—(Remick).

"I'm Ready To Die"—(Remick).

"I Still Get a Thrill Thinking of You"—(Davis, Coots & Engle).

"Goo Goo G'Gee"—(Davis, Coots & Engle).

"Kiss Me"—(Remick).

"Kiss Me Good"—(Remick).

"All the Things You Are"—(Remick).

"I'll Be Blue Just Thinking of You"—(Feist).

"You Are My Music"—(Famous).

"Rube Brown's First Program"—(Remick).

"Gee But I'd Like to Make You Happy"—(Remick, Brown & Henderson).

"Davy & Sue"—(Remick).

"Doss, Coots & Engle).

"Tell Me You Break My Heart"—(Remick, Donaldson, Donaldson & Gamble).

"Thrift Shop"—(DeSyro, Brown & Henderson).

"I Still Get a Thrill Thinking of You"—(Davis, Coots & Engle).

NEW YORK

Oct. 30—Suburbs have recently in- troduced "DeSyro, Brown and Henderson song, "So Beats My Heart for You," in their "Street Singer," which is now on the road. The song made its debut in "Rah Rah Dance," a collegiate musical comedy, featuring Fred Waring.

MONTREAL

Oct. 25—Immense crowds turned out for the introduction of the "Greatest Show Idea" at the Capitol Theatre here, on October 11 by manager Harry Dano, the program comprised a stage revue, stage band, pit orchestra and film attractions. The new policy had been delayed one month by the strike of Montreal musicians but difficulties have been smoothed out. Jack Arthur, of Famous Players Canadian Corporation organized the stage presentation which was called "Hello Montreal." Maurice Pallett is master of ceremonies and Guilloue Apollini is conductor of the concert orchestra. The film feature was "Love in the Rough." There was no advance in the price scale.

“SO BEATS MY HEART” PUT IN “STREET SINGER”

NEW YORK

Oct. 30—Suburbs have recently in- troduced "DeSyro, Brown and Henderson song, "So Beats My Heart for You," in their "Street Singer," which is now on the road. The song made its debut in "Rah Rah Dance," a collegiate musical comedy, featuring Fred Waring.
THE VOICE OF THE INDUSTRY

LETTERS FROM READERS

Paging Toby Durali

WILL YOU AID ME IN LOCATING G. G. Durali, the Exhibitor of the pastry and the “Country Store” under a more modern title, “Toby Durali’s Gift Show.” He and his wife work together in putting on this “Gift Show.” Her name is Kathern Durali. He advices me to write to Richardson, WRR, Dallas. They travel together in a blue model “A” Ford coupe.

I believe he is working somewhere in West Texas as it is his favorite territory, and Wichita Falls is his home town.

Would appreciate anyone knowing his whereabouts writing me collect.—Thos. J. Simmons, Manager, Ritzo theatre, Morrilton, Ark.

Thanks to Richardson

I WISH TO EXPRESS TO YOU AND your wonderful magazine on behalf of the members of Local 279 IATSE and MPMO of Houston, Texas, our sincere thanks for having heard such a wonderful lecture on projection given by your Mr. Richardson, who possesses such a wonderful knowledge of projection.

Our only regret is there are not more men in the field today who take the interest of the projectionist, and manager at heart as Mr. Richardson does.

We sincerely hope to have the pleasure of hearing Mr. Richardson again and often.

With the best of luck and good health to Mr. Richardson, and your wonderful magazine.—Frank Cooper, Secretary and Treasurer, Local 279, Houston Moving Picture Machine Operators Protective Union, Houston, Texas.

Those House Records

I HATE TO BE OBNOXIOUS AND INQUISITIVE, but being only a dumb exhibitor, there are some things I can’t understand. When the Roxy theatre in New York first opened, the trade papers reported that every inch of space was filled and many turned away the first week. Since then, about every month or two, some big picture comes out with a big announcement that it has broken all existing house records at the Roxy. Now, I am doubting no one’s word, but I am just curious as to where these extra customers sit or stand. Really these smart advertising experts shouldn’t take advantage of us rubes that way; “it ain’t right, it ain’t.”

Now for a few reports on the stuff that has been shipped to my town under the heading of “features.”

The Border Legion (Par) is a wonderful Western “shoot,” but they sold it to me for a feature. Runs all of 38 minutes. Richard Arlen starred, but Jack Holt makes him look weak. Has some handy action in it. Fay Wray is pretty, that’s all. Hit the Deck (RKO): I got this too old, but it is good. Jack Oakie is getting very popular in my town. We need some better “technician” stuff in it. Very good. Parade of the West (U): medicine show, and circus atmosphere. Very good but needed a little more action. Great riding of stunt and wild horses are varieties in it. Ken Maynard draws well and is well liked. Good for small towns. The Headhunter (WB): lots of fun for everybody but the poor exhibitor, as it will not draw. Good comedy. Patsy Ruth Miller and Edward Hor- ton couldn’t get credit here, nobody knows ‘em. Midnight Mystery (RKO): dandy mystery picture. They must see it from the first to appreciate it. Drew fair and pleased very well. Betty Compson great. Lowell Sherman might have been a star on the stage but on the screen, he just doesn’t appeal. Roy Rong Ranch (U): Hoot Gibson gets over some nice comedy in this but it needs some more action. Please and drew good on Saturday. In the Headlines (WB): good picture. Did not draw, I don’t know why, but it didn’t. Shooting Straight (RKO) with Richard Dix. Dix is great in this. There’s a fight in it that will raise them off their seats. Mary Lawlor very appealing. Drew well and pleased.—L. L. Levy, Iris thea- tre, Kerens, Texas.

Wins Sunday Shows

HERE ARE a few reports on some pictures played recently: Way Out West (MGM): a dandy, one of the few small town pictures possible to obtain. One of Haines’ best. Madame Sansone, a good picture done on an elaborate scale. Night Work (P): a good program picture with the customary smut the producers think they have to put in a picture to make it click. Call of the Flesh (MGM): this would make a good Sunday show. The title would lead you to look for something hot. Just the opposite. “The Call of the Flesh” was the call of the boy to the girl in the convent.

We have just finished a Sunday show election and won by fourteen votes.

I promised to do my best, and to date in the best and election I have ever had. This is some order. If you do not have Sunday shows try and find some good pictures you would date, and see how many there are which are as good. How they ran in the last dozen used in which there was no boom or asked women. Even the comedies are getting full of the same stuff.

Why not, when the Herald-World reporters give a review on a late picture, have them state whether it is a suitable Sunday show for the smaller towns or not. We have nothing to go by only the reviews and the press books and who would believe what a press book says. We find that if off my chest and whatnill good does it do to kick anyhow. Guess I’ll just go to the show and see whether the styles in bloomers and home brew have changed since last night.—John Conser, Sun theatre, Sargent, Neb.

Too Many Big Ones?

HERE ARE SOME PICTURES I WOULD like to report on. King of Jazz (U), a 100 per cent picture in every way. Too big for towns of this size. Did not draw, over their heads. They have killed the big pictures. Too much of a good thing in a short time. They have to be used. All flop at the box office. Both Pleading Around and Flirting Widows (F-N) are good program pictures, but they have got to be bought at the old silent picture prices in order for you to play even on any of them. The Shadow of the Lane (Par) is a good program picture. So is The Big Ford (Par). White Hell of Pitz Palu (U) is a good freak picture but has no drawing power. Alias French Gertie (RKO), a mighty good program picture. Illusion (Par) is a program picture sold as a special. It’s a fair program picture but is the poorest special we ever played.—Bear Silver, Silver Family theatre, Greenville, Mich.

Essential in Keeping Up

THE BEAUTIFUL PLAQUE WAS RE- ceived a few days ago. Have been so busy telling and displaying it that I have neglected you who honored us with it.

We have only a small theatre but we are confident that our plaque is “good as the best and better than the rest.”

I have been in the show business just a year, and the first thing I did as a showman was to subscribe to the Exhibitors Herald-World, and am always waiting for the next copy as I think it is really essential if you want to keep up with the news. T.E. Archambault, Palace theatre, Holgate, Ohio.

Bigger Towns Hurt

HERE IS A REPORT ON THE SQUEALER (Col), with Jack Holt, Dorothy Revier and Dasy Lee. Holt to my mind is the best star in the business in the he-man roles. In his picture he is immense, and the picture is good entertainment. What the average audience wants is action and less dialog. They are dialoging them to death and it certainly is not getting by. Only an exceptional picture will stand it, like “Holiday.” The problem with the small town exhibitor is to keep his Sunday audiences at home. The grass always looks greener over the fence, and that hurts the live film which is again being pushed. How many of us own in the last dozen used in which there was no boom or asked women. Even the comedies are getting full of the same stuff.

When not, when the Herald-World reporters give a review on a late picture, have them state whether it is suitable for small towns or not. We have nothing to go by only the reviews and the press books and who would believe what a press book says. We find that if off my chest and whatnill good does it do to kick anyhow. Guess I’ll just go to the show and see whether the styles in bloomers and home brew have changed since last night.—John Conser, Sun theatre, Sargent, Neb.

Once Was Once Too Many

I HAVE A REPORT TO MAKE ON ONE picture, The Case of Sergeant Grischa (RKO). Listen, boys, don’t play this picture, because it is terrible. Of all the pictures we have played, this is the worst. Had it bought for two nights but only played it one. And to tell the truth, that was one night too many. When the few people who didn’t see it came out of the theatre I felt like hiding. I was too ashamed to face them. Boys, take my advice and don’t play the picture. Too bad they wasted the film to make it.

But they had wasted a little film with what RKO calls pictures and comedies. The one real comedy we used the same time was just as bad as the picture. The “great” RKO tries to tell you about their good pictures and comedies, but they are few and far between Sunday audiences to the larger cities. The same thing is true in the mercantile business, but what the merchant doesn’t sell today he has a chance to sell tomorrow, and that is not true of the theatre business.—Columbia theatre, Columbia City, Ind.
Mail Order Bargains

WE UNDERSELL THEM ALL—BRAND NEW MERCHANDISE—FACTORY TO YOU. Acoustical Felt, 29¢ sq. yd. Da-Vein Tissue Carpet, 3¢ per sq. ft.; Daurelyn Fireproof Drapes, 4¢ sq. yd.; W. E. Approved Sound Screens, 3¢ sq. ft.; Sound Mixers, $19.95; Sound-On-Film Heads, $198.60; Photoscopic, $14.95; G. E. Exciter Lamps, 98¢; Optical Systems, $29.90; Head Amplifiers, $29.60; 1/2 h. p. Synchronous Motors, $29.30; Turntables, $175.00; Exciter Amplifiers, $49.50; Samson-Pam 19 Amplifiers, $69.15; Audak Tuned Pickups, $33.91; Standard Audak, $17.91; Weight-DeCover Horns, $17.64; Giant Exponential Units, $46.35; Constant Faders, $13.90; Jensen Speakers, $17.80; Exponential Horns, $48.80. Bargains. Demonstrators, Rebuilt Booth Equipment, Projectors, Arc Retreat. Write us your needs. Address Service-On-Sound Corporation, 1600 Broadway, New York City, New York.

TWO PERFECTION LOW INTENSITY LAMPS $235.00. General Electric low intensity generator $175.00. Two Simplex rebuilt double hearing machines like new with Perfection low intensity lamps $350.00. With new Strong Junior low intensity $997.50. One Powers 6h, rebuilt with new Vitadisc turntable, Samson amplifier, two speakers everything complete for sound $375.00, with Powers mada lamp and regular $450.00. Sound on film heads complete for Powers or Simplex $500.00. Vitadisc turntable complete with pickups and fader $75.00. Samson Pam No. 35 amplifiers $75.00. Large 3/4 H. P. Fidelity synchronous motors $50.00. Audak professional pickups $37.50. Exciter lamps $12.50. Mada regulators $37.50. Half size lenses $25.00. New matched quarter size lenses a pair $12.50. Sure fit parts for Simplex and Powers discount 10%. National Carbons discount 10%. Rectifier tubes 15 amperes for Strong or any 10 amperes rectifier $13.50. Da-Lite Screen coating large bucket $3.50. Low intensity mirrors 7 in. $5.00, 8 in. $14.00. Mada projection globes for any machine discount. Devry sound machine 16mm with Elma and records $150.00. Write or wire us your needs. Oldest independent theatre supply house in America. You take no chance when you buy from the Western Motion Picture Company, Danville, Illinois.

STORE AND LOFT SPACE

724-54 SOUTH WABASH BUILDING

Northwest Corner of Wabash Ave. and Eighth St.

FOR LEASE—exceptionally light and attractive store and second floor units from 1,400 square feet to 5,000 square feet at moderate rentals. Very desirable for film companies, exchanges, supply and equipment dealers. Vault facilities available. If required. Four blocks south of Jackson Boulevard. Excellent transportation and good parking facilities. For further information apply.

PHILIP F. W. PECK

506 South Wabash Avenue

Wabash 2120

Chicago, Illinois

Theatres for Sale or Rent

OWNER OF BUILDING WILL LEASE THEATRE to responsible party with all equipment. Two years old. Everything new: 1931 DeForest Sound-On-Film, 650 seats. Address Ritz Theatre, 2323 West Seventeenth Ave., Gary Indiana.

THEATRE FOR SALE—Wonderful opportunity—real money-maker. Mr. Showman, if you want a real location, better hurry and investigate this. Address Ideal Theatre, Fremont, Michigan.

TO RESPONSIBLE PARTY—TWO YEAR OLD MOTION PICTURE HOUSE. South Side of Chicago —300 seats—well equipped with sound—reasonable rent. Address Box 316, Exhibitors Herald World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Illinois.

THEATRE FOR SALE—Modern; 600 seats; sound-on-film equipment; Sunday town; no competition; 4,000 population; Bijou Theatre, Abingdon, Illinois. Address owner: S. E. Pirrie, Jerseyville, Illinois.

FOR SALE—250 seat theatre, perfect sound, 1,000 population, good payroll. Address Rosy Theatre, Cyril, Oklahoma.

THEATRE OWNERS wanting to sell, send all particulars to Albert Goldman, 5 South Wabash Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

IN SOUTHEASTERN MISSOURI. A live wire town. No competition, tickets, equipment and fixtures in first class condition. Lease or sell building. Address Box 236, Houston, Missouri.

Positions Wanted

HOUSE MANAGER NOW EMPLOYED DESIRES CHANGE, preferably with chain. Present position for 15 months. College graduate, age 23, married, thoroughly experienced in advertising and exploitation. Can take complete charge or open house. Address Box 599, Exhibitors Herald World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

ARIZONA—NEW MEXICO EXHIBITORS—A YOUNG MAN, experienced sound projectionist desires change—best of references—extraordinary references willing to work full or part time. Address E. F. Stahl, c/o the Kaufman theatre, Montpellier, O.

PROJECTIONIST 5 YEARS—EXPERIENCE ON WESTERN ELECTRIC and other sound equipment. State salary. Go anywhere. References. Address Wayne Smith, 4363 Lockwood St., Los Angeles, California.

THEATRE MANAGER WHO REALLY KNOWS HOW—Desires a change. Must give two weeks notice. Address Box 518, Exhibitors Herald World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

Help Wanted

LIVE DISTRICT REPRESENTATIVE WANTED—One familiar with theatre trade preferred, though unnecessary. Unlimited financial possibilities. Address Hammill Co., Box 524, Birmingham, Alabama.

Equipment for Sale

MOVIEPHONE TALKING PICTURE EQUIPMENT FOR SALE. Two machines including two stage amplifying horns and one box horn set up for Powers 6A and Simplex Machines. Sale on account, paid for. Price complete, $450. Address C. O. Littlefield, Whitman, Mass.

BARGAINS IN NEW AND USED EQUIPMENT. Disc talking equipment, double channel amplification, special synchronous motor drives, cheap for quick sale. Lenses, reeds, film cabinets, screens, at big discount. Used Powers and Simplex projectors. 3 unit ticket register, Butterkist Popcorn machines, Proportional Movielite apertures cheap. Write us your needs. Can save you money. Address Box 511, Exhibitors Herald World, 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

ADDITIONAL CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING ON FOLLOWING PAGE
Your Classified Ad Will Do the Work

Exhibitors Herald-World has helped hundreds of Theatre owners in solving many a problem. The classified advertising department has placed organizers all over the country, has helped in obtaining equipment, in selling equipment, and in solving many another problem that seemed difficult. The rates are but 10¢ per word payable with order, 10% discount if run for 3 insertions. See this week’s classified pages. Maybe you are in need of something that is being advertised this week. The cost is small, the results are great.

 Classified Ad Dept., Exhibitors Herald-World, 407 So. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.
CHICAGO PERSONALITIES

By JIM LITTLE

A MOST timely example of what the theatre manager may do to establish good will and aid in a worthy cause is the benefit show which will be held at the Adelphi theatre on North Clark street, Chicago, from November 2 to and including November 8. One-third of the receipts of the theatre for the week will go to charity and relief for the unemployed. It was planned by the Rogers Park-Clark Business association, in cooperation with Ludwig Susman, manager of the house, and the neighborhood paper.

In order to induce the residents to attend the theatre during this period, and to help in making the fund as large as possible, merchants will donate prizes to the holders of lucky coupons which are given away with every admission ticket. More than 200 prizes have been donated, which are displayed in the lobby.

At first, Mr. Susman contemplated giving one benefit performance, but he decided to give it for the entire week. Feeling that proceeds would be at least tripled, and more would have an opportunity to help. A box for contributions will also be placed in the lobby, and those who wish to give more can place it there.

A committee has been chosen to take care of the fund, including several bank officials and prominent business men of the neighborhood. Each day, a third of the day’s receipts will be taken and put into the fund, which will be deposited in a bank.

And now, did you ever hear of a “dawn preview”? Once upon a time, we used to get up occasionally and see the sunrise, or else was already up before we had — well, anyhow, this “preview” is of the motion picture variety, and it was conceived, and probably dedicated, by a theatre in Oklahoma. Everybody that went could go in an automobile if they chose, and hot cakes and coffee awaited them when they got to the theatre, at the hour of — it doesn’t seem possible — 5:45 a.m. and then the show would be over by 7:30, and they could go to work. We wonder what would happen if one of those previews were scheduled for this town.

Viola Braun, who has a smile that — well, it’s a very lovely smile, and who is known to everyone on the Row as “Vi,” is now office manager and assistant to the secretary of Local No. 666 of the International Photographers of the Motion Picture Industry, with headquarters at 1027 South Wabash. Vi, as you all know, played guardian to the switchboard at the Pathe Exchange for some time, and we’ll be willing to bet the voice that floated over the wires will be badly missed by those who have occasion to phone Pathe.

Road-Show Pictures of Chicago have bought an original story entitled, "Exodus," which will be produced under the tentative title of "All Faces West." This picture will star Ben Lyon and Marie Prevost, and in the cast are included Russell Simpson and other well-known players.

L. F. Goetz and Albert Dezell left last week for New York to take charge of the production and the talking and sound sequences. It is understood that the film will be recorded on Western Electric equipment. It is also understood that the picture will be released under the definite title of "Over the Ground." * * *

In taking over the Woods theatre, the firm of Jones, Linick and Schaefer re-enter the motion picture field after an absence of several years. This organization has been identified with theatrical entertainment of one type or another for over a decade, among them being McVickers, which was subsequently sold to Pablix.

It is reported that the Woods will continue to operate as a continuous first-run picture house, presenting features, news reels and short subjects. We understand that negotiations are now under way which will undoubtedly materialize in the presenting of several outstanding pictures at this theatre in the near future.

Harry Ross, founder of the Federal Theatrical Accounting Service, with offices located in the Palmolive building, has announced the opening of branches in New York, Albany, Boston, Buffalo, Cleveland, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, which brings the total of branch offices in full operation up to 11, those in Chicago, Milwaukee, Detroit and Indianapolis completing the list.

At present, the organization is employing over 1,000 "checkers," although this does not include a corps of "inspectors" who are constantly supervising the work in the field, thus making a regular Amos ‘n Andy "check and double check." It seems as though the growth of this new system is a tribute to its worth, its present status having been attained since its inception last August. We should like to extend our compliments to Mr. Ross.

Now that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has completed its move, and is more or less settled at its new quarters (the old quarters of Paramount) but old in point of time only, not in appointment, Educational has got the moving spirit, and contemplates moving down a floor into the space vacated by M.G.M. It seems to us that we heard something about Universal getting ready to consolidate itself in a new location, but so far, nothing definite has been stated about it.

So that will make one less floor for us to go up to see — but we might put it this way, that Fred Martin is slowly coming down to earth, and that maybe some day he will get off his high horse and write things that are equally good. We asked him for way back — well, it’s far too back to mention. But Fred is pretty busy, so — anyhow, we wish he would write it.

The Marquette theatre has gone and dollyed itself up with Western Electric.

Elmer Stepanek, owner of the Lyon theatre, has installed RCA sound equipment.

Charles House, who spends most of his time at the Midway theatre in Rockford, Illinois, was a visitor to Film Row last Monday morning, and he seemed as carefree and jubilant as he was last year. He’s unusual with him, but he seemed more so than usual, and the answer is this. His mile wide smile was due to the fact that "All Quiet on the Western Front" had broken to bits a record of 12 years’ standing at the Midway. No wonder he appeared jubilant.

Manager John J. Clarke, of Pathe, announces the appointment of Sam Edelman as a member of the sales force in Chicago. Sam is well known along the Row, where he has made a host of friends with his cheery manner and smiling good humor.

Alvo, Charles Delaney is now sales manager but has been promoted to that position after having served on the Pathe sales force in both the city and country territory for the past five years, during which time he has made many friends.

Harry Graham, who was recently appointed to the local sales force of Universal, has been promoted to assistant to E. T. Gomersall, Central Division manager for Universal. Graham left immediately for St. Louis, where he plans to spend a few days.

Harry Lorch, former division manager for Pathe, has been chosen as Western Sales manager for Universal, succeeding Harry Taylor. Harry dropped into Chicago about a week ago for a conference with "Peck" Gomersall.

George Levine, Universal’s branch manager in Milwaukee, waxes enthusiastic every so often, and this time his enthusiasm is tempered with a bit of wit. He tells us that the title of the Universal serial, "The Indians Are Coming," is decidedly wrong. It should be, "The Indians Are Sold" — and then he goes on to explain the fact that the entire Fox Midwest circuit has booked the serial solid for all of its theatres.

And now that we’ve devoted three paragraphs to Universal, we might as well add one more, and that may be dropped into town so that he could drop right out again, but, he didn’t get out so quickly that we couldn’t catch a glimpse of him. And what a glimpse! We couldn’t for a minute tell whether it was Fred or Beau Brummel himself, but fortunately he was smiled, and — well, there isn’t another one like it. Fred was off for New York, and we understand that Charlie sent him a telegram, to ask for second run of a new serial.

The Chicago branch of General Talking Pictures Corporation has moved its offices to 1155 South Wabash avenue. We understand that the Chicago territory has proven exceedingly productive of business on Domestic equipment, and much of it is no doubt due to the able management of Bert Rosenberg. During the past six months of August and September, 104 installations in this territory have been chalked up, which, we should say, is an excellent record.
The Public Wants Color

These positive films supply it, through beautiful, over-all tints—
at black-and-white cost

THE public’s appetite for color has been whetted. Colored pictures are the cream of the show.

With Sonochrome Tinted Positive Films any picture can be made in delicate, atmospheric, over-all tints that help to express every turn of the plot....to bring out the prevailing mood of the picture. And this color costs nothing extra....for the Sonochrome price is the same as that of ordinary, black-and-white positive.

Sonochrome reproduces sound faithfully....of course. It’s designed particularly with that requirement in mind.

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY
ROCHESTER, NEW YORK

J. E. Brulatour, Inc., Distributors
New York Chicago Hollywood
“WAR NURSE” THRILLS $2 CROWDS AT ASTOR, N. Y.
Roadshow Engagement on Broadway Gives Audiences Woman’s Side of War in Romantic Drama!

EXHIBITORS

HERALD

WORLD

MARIE DRESSLER AND WALLACE BEERY in "MINT AND BILL"

LOOK!
WE put THEM both TOGETHER THEY spell MAZUMEH!
A word that MEANS money TO YOU!

MARIE DRESSLER alone! Great!
WALLACE BEERY alone! Great!
But TOGETHER! OH BOY!

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER
YEAR IN AND YEAR OUT!
THE INQUIRING REPORTER VISITS HOLLYWOOD!

—he finds the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios the busiest spot on the West Coast. Here are a few of his observations:

JOAN CRAWFORD
will thrill her fans in a new character in "WITHIN THE LAW." She stars soon on "DANCE POOL DANCE."

TIBBETT-MOORE
in "NEW MOON." Naturally the industry awaits this Big One with intense interest. Lawrence Tibbett, Grace Moore, are a revelation. Watch!

DRESSLER-MORAN have the season's surprise comedy as their follow-up to "Caught Short." It's "REDUCING." Charles Riesner directs again!

RAMON NOVARRO has Arthur Schnitzler's "DAYBREAK" underway. It's a strong romantic drama. Original music by Oscar Strauss!

GRETA GARBO
will top "Romance" with her next talkie "INSPIRATION." Clarence Brown is directing and Robert Montgomery plays opposite her!

NORMA SHEARER is working on "STRANGERS MAY KISS." Ursula Parrott's new best-seller. She wrote "The Divorcee."

WALLACE BEERY
in "THE SECRET SIX." Has a characterization better than "Butch" of "The Big House." George Hill directs again.

When all is said and done—when the year's reckoning is made—the name that leads the industry is METRO GOLDwyn MAYER YEAR IN AND YEAR OUT!

We have caught the thrill of world events for a score of years and have presented them to you in graphic realism. This has been done by reason of far-flung man power, restless speed and the ability to see and depict only the big, the significant, the entertaining... The pioneer of all news reels has seen all—and you have seen all through its eyes... We pledge a continuance of that service which has brought good fortune to you and the honor of leadership to us.

Thank You!
EVERY INCH A LAUGH!
ABIG Event in any show year!
A brand new all-talking Harold Lloyd comedy production. This year more than ever. Because Lloyd’s latest, “Feet First”, has everything the millions of theatre-goers want.

More thrills than “Safety Last”.
More laughs than the funniest Lloyd picture you can remember. It’s the Monarch of Mirth at his box office best.
YOU triple your theatre’s normal drawing power when you play Harold Lloyd. You get all your regulars. Plus the crowds that only come to see the screen’s very best. Plus the kids. Here’s one show your bank-roll can’t afford to do without. Get in touch with your Paramount representative and arrange bookings now!
HAROLD LLOYD
IN “FEET FIRST”
Produced by HAROLD LLOYD Corp. A PARAMOUNT Release.
Victor McLaglen in A DEVIL with WOMEN

with Mona Maris
Humphrey Bogart
Luana Alcaniz
Directed by Irving Cummings

Make love and run away—
You'll live to love another, another day.

Sprightly romance of much love and some adventure down near the equator where blood runs hot.

Vic tries his arts on the raven-haired, dark-eyed senoritas, and how they like it!

Blondes are nice, but those Spanish brunettes know every part in the orchestra of love.
A mighty melodrama dressed in Pathé's inimitable "BIG HIT" style

BILL BOYD

in The Painted Desert

Directed by HOWARD HIGGIN
Produced by E. B. DERR

with HELEN TWELVETREES and WILLIAM FARNUM
Especially selected for Pathé's "BIG HIT" schedule

A Predestined box office smash

Constance Bennett in Sin Takes a Holiday with Kenneth MacKenna

Directed by PAUL L. STEIN • Basil Rathbone and Rita Le Roy
Produced by E. B. DERR
IN THE BIG MONEY CLASS WITH ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT!

EDWIN CAREWE'S
RESURR
UNIVERSAL
The World's Most Dramatic Love Story! with John Boles and Lupe Velez and thousands of others.
Presented by Carl Laemmle and produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr.

ECTION
FIRST IN FIRST RUNS EVERYWHERE
Elected!

Ambassador of Prosperity

BROKE THE WEEK END HIGH AT

WARNER BROS.
HOLLYWOOD THEATRE, N. Y.
at $2.00 TOP!

“Skinner in ‘Kismet’ scores triumph.”—American.
“Finely wrought audible version of Edward Knobloch’s successful stage contribution.”—Times.
“An artistic achievement of note.”—Film Daily.
“A talkie treat for those who like their pictures different.—News.

LORETTA YOUNG
MARY DUNCAN
DAVID MANNERS
SIDNEY BLACKMER
A JOHN FRANCIS DILLON PRODUCTION
Warner Amalgamation—
Sam Morris announces centralizing of sales forces of Warner Brothers, first National and Vitaphone Varieties in United States and Canada—Claude Ezell heads Eastern section; Ned Depinet in charge of Western—Moray Heads Varieties Sales.

Hays and Academy
Unity of industry is vital to progress, says Will H. Hays at Academy banquet—says industry has junked more gold than it has placed in treasury, in elevating standards—MGM and Universal each win three of eight annual awards of Academy.

Complete Index to Contents

United Artists declares war on Fox West Coast Theatres, charging monopoly—Fox spends nine millions since May on improving theatres.

Fox decision to eliminate stage shows in seven theatres indicates close margin on which houses are operating.

Loew's, Inc., shows increase of three millions in net profits for fiscal year—Wehrenberg replies to charge of St. Louis MPTO apathy.

MPTO opening convention in St. Louis—Paramount kicks over traces on protection at New Orleans—Columbus zoning plan summarized.

Departments

The Short Feature..................................................57
Music and Talent..................................................58
Box Office Promotion.............................................51
Classified Advertising............................................64
Chicago Personalities, By Jim Little..........................66

Features

New Product......................................................39
The Voice of the Industry (Letters from Readers)..............63
Securities Price Range...........................................24
Hollywood, by Douglas Hodges................................44
Broadway...........................................................18
Sound Reproduction..............................................48
Pictorial Section..................................................25
J. C. Jenkins—His Colyum.......................................43

Advertisements

The Artist-Exhibitor

When Will H. Hayes told the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences that "this is an industry made up of artists," he likely was referring particularly to those engaged in production, as the occasion was the presentation of the Academy awards to eight organizations and individuals for outstanding work in the past year in the making of motion pictures.

The phrase can be applied equally aptly to the field of exhibition. The successful exhibitor is himself an artist. He, as is the case with each of the winners of the Academy awards, is not satisfied with doing a good job but must do a better one. In so doing he is "never for a single instant content with accepted standards, but must work out each problem in accordance with some inner compulsion which bids him do more than is expected of him."

Such an exhibitor is personally interested in the education of public taste to even higher standards of motion picture entertainment than the industry has achieved. He is more than willing to show a picture which may not have the direct "box office value" of another available production but is certain to enhance the future welfare of the motion picture business in general, and several worthy motion pictures in this category have been produced by far-seeing leaders in the past year.

This successful exhibitor welcomes and lends his active support to the Production Code. He follows the spirit and letter of the Advertising Code as well, in exploitation of the programs of the theatre in his charge. In both cases he is cooperating with the leading minds in other departments of the industry to produce and sell product of an even better grade than the public itself demands.

Exhibitor organizations can play an important part in these progressive developments. Subjects of this nature constitute appropriate topics for discussion and action at the annual convention of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America, now about to go into session at Philadelphia.

The proposed establishment of a rotating committee of exhibitors at Hollywood, who would be ready to consult with the producers in the furtherance of quality in motion pictures, is an important phase of the same topic. The exhibitor can help and the artist-exhibitor will help.

Trend in Architecture

There are numerous signs that an increased portion of the activity in theatre construction during the next few years, at least, will be concerned with remodeling. Not only may we expect a great deal of minor structural changes and refurbishing, but it seems quite probable now that we shall see more remodeling projects than ever reach major proportions, constituting in an unusually large number of instances complete transformations.

Sound has already proved a potent stimulus to remodeling, not only in those parts of the theatre immediately involved in the new mechanisms, but generally. This influence will continue to exert itself. The business of adapting the theatre to sound at first had to be transacted quickly, and, as might be expected, speed did not always permit satisfactory thoroughness. We constantly see in reports of the openings of new theatres, the statement that the house was "designed for sound." What of those others designed before sound came? Competition with these new ones "designed for sound" is today, and will continue to be for some time, a factor promoting the remodeling of theatres.

Besides this factor, there is wider film, with its effect on the projection room; there is also wider screen, demanding new conditions at the front of the auditorium. And there remains still another influence that present tendencies indicate may eventually have considerable effect.

This latter is the new and essentially different architectural style to be noted more and more in theatres of recent construction. Having its basis in modern architectural elements, it is being developed with specific regard for the theatre presenting audible motion pictures. And since it employs decorative details as well as structural lines especially favorable to accurate sound reception, and since it relies on paint and flat surfaces instead of expensive materials, this style permits the creation of an imposing theatre at reduced cost. That the increasing adoption of this architectural manner will tend greatly to render the older styles more or less obsolete, is possible.

Change, of course, is something the motion picture industry is used to, and though industrial organization must try to keep it from being revolutionary, change should be welcomed. It is the fruit of development, without which any industry must go backward. The increase in the amount of remodeling that now seems so likely, will be only an inevitable result of the general advance of motion picture entertainment.

The Election Is Over

Business men generally will draw a sigh of relief that the election is over. Six weeks were consumed in orators assuring the country that the "other" party would bring panic if elected.

Optimism is again asserting itself. Here and there are unmistakable signs that business is again on the upgrade. This seems especially true of the theatre business, now that the best of the season's product is starting to reach the exhibitors.

Organized efforts can be expected in every community to fan the spark of confidence into a real flame. The theatre owner should stand ready to take a prominent part.

Martin J. Quigley, Publisher and Editor

Exhibitors Herald-World

Incorporating Exhibitors Herald, founded 1915; Moving Picture-World, founded 1907; Metography, founded 1909; The Film Index, founded 1906. Published every Friday by Quigley Publishing Company, 407 S. Dearborn Street, Chicago; Martin J. Quigley, President; Edwin S. Clifford, Secretary; George Clifford, Assistant Treasurer. Member Audit Bureau of Circulations. All contents copyrighted 1929 by Quigley Publishing Company. All editorial and business correspondence should be addressed to the Chicago office. Better Theatres, devoted to the construction, equipment and operation of theatres, is published every fourth week as Section Two of Exhibitors Herald-World, and the Film Buyer, a quick reference picture chart, is published every fourth week as Section Two of Exhibitors Herald-World. Other publications: The Motion Picture Almanac, Pictures and Personalities, published annually; The Chicagoan.
$9,000,000 Spent by Fox on Improvement Of Houses Since May

Balance of $20,000,000 Budget to Be Used by Spring of Next Year

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Fox Theatres Corporation already has expended $9,000,000 of the $20,000,000 appropriation voted last May by the board of directors for the purpose of reconstruction and alteration in the theatres of both the West Coast and Eastern divisions.

The remaining $11,000,000 is now being used in a similar program scheduled for completion in May, 1931.

Twelve Theatres Reopened

Harley L. Clarke urged the appropriation following the announcement of the Fox corporation in May as an expression of confidence in business conditions. Despite the fact that West Coast comprises 1,000 theatres and the eastern group only 300, half of the $9,000,000 has been spent in the East. This is due to the large number of houses acquired in this division, many of which required almost complete reconstruction. Approximately twenty theatres have been reopened in the area within recent weeks, following installation of new sound equipment where necessary, acoustic devices, cooling systems, and the like.

Plans Drawn for Three Houses

Within the past week Clarke has been conferring with Oldknow and Arthur in Chicago relative to further plans for expenditure of the balance of the appropriation. Fox officials report that in every case where a theatre was closed for a period, due either to lack of business or necessity for repairs, the box office since reopening has gained considerably in comparison with the previous figures. Plans already have been drawn for three new Fox houses, located at Hackensack, N. J.; Maysville, Ky.; and Salamanca, N. Y., with construction well on the way in Hackensack.

2,500 Houses Have Chance To Reopen with Improving Conditions, Declares Bunn

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Two thousand five hundred theatres now closed have "a possibility of reopening," according to C. W. Bunn, general sales manager of Electrical Research Products, who has just completed a national survey, which, in report form, shows conditions in the amusement field adjusting themselves in an orderly manner.

That economic conditions are improving is indicated, according to the survey, by the fact that payments on credit accounts are being made maintained surprisingly well in view of financial conditions. Theatres equipped to give quality reproduction, the report says, are in a position of doing even bigger business than a year ago.

Bunn's survey, the report states, showed less than sixteen thousand theatres in operation.

DeForest Sues WE, Erpi and Otterson

For $2,520,000; Foiled Fox Deal, Charge

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Western Electric, Electrical Research Products and John E. Otterson, president of the latter organization, have been named defendants in a suit for $2,520,000, brought in the New York supreme court by Lee DeForest, who charges that "the defendants wrongfully, knowingly, intentionally and maliciously dishonestly engaged in a conspiracy going through with an agreement to purchase the DeForest equipment for the sum mentioned in the suit for stock in the DeForest Phonofilm corporation."

The complaint states that previous to September 23, 1926, DeForest and Fox had entered into an agreement whereby Fox was to purchase certain stocks in the Western Electric company and was to employ the inventor for ten years at $30,000 yearly. The complaint is based on the charge that the deal was not consummated because the defendants represented to Fox that DeForest did not control or own the patents which he purported to assign to Fox, with his stock sale, but that such property was in ownership and control of Western Electric.
Publix Kicks Over Traces on Zoning Plan Outside New Orleans

Fact of Not Providing Protection in Towns Under 20,000 Is Believed Cause—Columbus Zone System Approved

By Special Correspondent to the Herald-World

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 6.—Rejection of a suggested plan for protection for the country districts by Paramount Publix after it was understood that the plan met with approval of all parties, comes as a surprise.

The Louisiana Allied Association had endorsed the plan, which called for a maximum of 30 days protection on all cities of 20,000 or over, within 40 miles.

Towns under 20,000 received no protection. It is understood Paramount Publix would have accepted the plan if a concession had been made to extend the same protection to towns under 20,000 in which Publix had affiliated houses.

PARAMOUNT, however, has signed a contract with Bercson Brothers’ State theatre, Bogalusa, La., a firm with which it was having a misunderstanding.

E. J. Bethancourt, president of the L.A.A.P.A., is reported to be especially to discuss protection in the country and approved the suggested plan.

While the matter of protection on second runs in the city and of protection on first runs in the country is still unsettled, local exchanges are doing their selling and at least one theatre—United Theatres, Inc.—is buying.

Present protection is granted under the new contracts, with a statement that any plan which may meet with the approval of the majority of exhibitors and exchanges will supersede the present protection.

But while United Theatres, Inc., is buying and receiving the sixty days protection it was receiving heretofore, Louisiana Allied is apparently holding back. The latter group operates all second run houses, independently owned, and in matters of zoning follows the houses operated by United. Hence its refusal to accept 60 days protection for pictures playing United houses.

Columbus Zoning Plan Agreed Upon

By Special Correspondent to the Herald-World

COLUMBUS, Nov. 6.—Protection ranging from thirty days over eight towns to fourteen days over two others (Circleville and West Jefferson) have been agreed upon by United Columbus under the plan agreed upon by the committee of exhibitors and distributors.

Dayton first-runs have fourteen days, other eight towns and seven days over three others. Sixty days grace is granted exhibitors in the event that the plan interferes with “the recognized practice of an exhibitor” in such a way as to prevent his immediate adoption of the new system.

Following is a résumé of the plan:

COLUMBUS: Thirty days protection given first run theatres from end of run over theatres in Westerville, Grove City, East Columbus, West Jefferson, Worthington, Reynoldsburg, Canal Winchester and Plain City.

Fourteen days protection over Circleville and London.

Delaware, Lancaster and Newark shall not play pictures prior to Columbus, but pictures shall be available to them on the days on which they are first shown in the first run theatres in Columbus.

DAYTON: First run Dayton theatres to have seven days protection from the end of run over Troy, Piqua and Xenia. Pictures to become available to Sidney, Ohio, at the same time they are available for Troy and Xenia.

First run Dayton theatres have fourteen days protection from end of run over Tipppecanoe City, Franklin, Jamestown, Osborn, Gettysburg, West Milton, Miamisburg and Covington, Ohio.

Thirty days protection from the end of run over Westley.

SPRINGFIELD: First run Springfield fourteen days protection from end of the run, pictures located in Urbana, New Carlisle, Mechanicsburg, Cedarville and South Charleston.

Thirty days protection over Yellow Springs.

PORTSMOUTH: First run theatres in Portsmouth have thirty days protection over subsequent runs and the theatres in Sciotosville and New Boston.

HAMILTON: Seven days protection from end of run, Oxford, Ohio.

CHILLICOTHE: Thirty days protection from end of run over Frankfort and Waverly.

Wins Long Contract

By Special Correspondent to the Herald-World

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Boris Karloff, a graduate of the legitimate stage, has been placed on a long term contract by Columbia. His outstanding work in “The Criminals Code” is said to have won him his new contract.

“Gus” Harms Now Branch Manager at Omaha Pathe

By Special Correspondent to the Herald-World

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 6—E. A. Harms, better known as “Gus” Harms, is now branch manager of the Pathe office here, succeeding R. S. Ballantine, who was recently appointed Midwestern division manager with headquarters in Chicago. Harms has been connected with sales work for Pathe in Omaha, western Iowa, northeastern Nebraska and southern South Dakota.

Associated with Harms are two salesmen, W. C. Wallace, who represents Pathe in the territory formerly covered by Harms, and H. F. Lefholz, who handles Nebraska.

Broadcast of Talking Pictures from Theatre Popular with Shut-ins

By Special Correspondent to the Herald-World

MADISON, WIS., Nov. 6.—Broadcasting of talking pictures at Orpheum theatre in this city over station WISJ, for the benefit primarily to enable shut-ins in hospitals, homes and sanitariums to partially deaf people to hear talking pictures, has been meeting with considerable success, according to John R. Scharnberg of the K.R.O. theatre in Madison.

Announcers from the station give the names of the cast and explain what takes place between the talking of the characters. Numerous letters, cards and telegrams have been received by the station commenting favorably on the broadcast.

San Francisco Police In Charge of Putt-Puts

By Special Correspondent to the Herald-World

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—Jurisdiction over miniature golf courses, whether indoors or outdoors, has been placed in the hands of the local board of supervisors here. All operators of courses will be required to secure permits.

The board has ruled that indoor outdoor courses within 100 feet of homes, apartment buildings, hotels or hospitals shall be closed from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 7 to 11 p.m. outdoor courses shall be closed from 2 to 7 a.m. Sound amplifying devices will not be tolerated from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. in the morning. There are no restrictions on indoor courses.

A Putt-Putt Deluxe

By Special Correspondent to the Herald-World

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 6.—Indoor golf has invaded this city in deluxe style. A nine-hole course has been opened on the first floor of the International building, in the heart of the St. Louis real estate district, with special telephone service at hand so players can keep in touch with their business offices.

Henri Chouteau, owner of the International, owns the course, while Marie Chouteau, general manager, Chouteau also owns the Liberty theatre building.

Klangfilm Gets Studio

By Special Correspondent to the Herald-World

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Klangfilm has entered the motion picture field and has rented the Slaaker studios, which were vacant for several months. The company’s first picture will be “Two Kinds of Morals.”
Joe Schenck Opens Fight on Fox West Coast as “Monopoly”

Says Stars of United Artists Will Not Book Films in Chain

Threatens to Show Pictures in “Tents, Armories or Halls”—Charges Dictation of Prices

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Charging Fox West Coast Theatres with “arrogant monopoly” on the Coast, Joseph Schenck today declared that United Artists will fight West Coast to a finish by showing its product in independent theatres, and in “tents, armories or halls” if necessary.

Schenck, in a statement to the press, declared that the United Artists organization will show none of its pictures at West Coast houses “as long as that monopoly maintains its present greedy and shortsighted policy.” He charged that Fox West Coast is dictating prices and is “fixing a price so low that we cannot accept it.”

Schenck’s statement to the press follows:

“The unbearable condition of affairs forces us to discontinue displays against Fox West Coast Theatres. That organization is an ‘arrogant monopoly’ and has made demands upon us which we cannot and will not accept. Rather than do so, we issue this statement of artistic principles and make this declaration of intention.

Refuse to Show in Fox Houses

“We must fight for our principles. Because of this, we announce that hereafter none of the motion pictures made by us as United Artists shall be shown in Fox Theatres, as long as that monopoly maintains its present greedy and shortsighted policy.

“Fox West Coast Theatres owns or controls approximately 400 theatres on the Coast. It has attained a powerful, monopolistic position through money derived from sale of stock to the American public. That money, provided by millions of Americans who enjoy the motion picture, is being used to cheapen and degrade the motion picture itself.

Wehrenberg Replies To Charge of Apathy Of St. Louis MPTO

Fred Wehrenberg, president of the MPTO of St. Louis, Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois, in a statement just issued brands as false an article appearing in a reviewing service entitled regarding the annual meeting of the association at the Coronado Hotel, St. Louis, in September.

The pamphlet stated that the convention had to be postponed from day to day on account of lack of attendance and that when seven exhibitors were finally gotten together, Wehrenberg reeked himself president and adjourned the meeting.

Wehrenberg states that there were fifty exhibitors registered the opening day of the two day session. On Tuesday, he said the registration had increased to seventy exhibitors, representing 126 theatres. The regular program was carried through as planned, he says, and that he was forced to accept re-election by unanimous vote of those present over his protest.

He points out that the association defeated a proposed 10 per cent state tax on Missouri theatre admissions; defeated state and city censorship moves; defeated the Sunday free admission plan, and also the “no standing room” bill. These together with a successful effort to suppress dog tracks as a nuisance “mean millions of dollars in increased revenues,” he declares.

In regard to the national organization, he stated that the Washington meeting, derided in quarters, resulted in a reduction of between about and five million dollars to exhibitors on talking picture contracts.
MORDAUNT HALL of the New York Times, one of the ace motion picture critics of the country, drifted into the technical details of the sound screen in his review of First National’s “Kismet,” and by doing so gives this column one of its laughs for the week.

Hall wrote: “The reproduction of the voices and sounds is excellent, being more modulated than in the standard film, which is perhaps due to the space allowed for a wider sound track.”

(“Kismet” was presented in New York on Vitascope, Warner Brothers 65 millimeter process.)

The statement by Hall resulted apparently from a slight oversight in the collection of facts. The sound was on disc, not film.

Betting on the Motion Picture Club’s ping pong tournament is more precarious at the moment than placing the bank roll on the races. The reason is that some of those with big handicaps have been taking advantage of election and weekend holidays to perfect their game, and what upsets may occur in the opening rounds is nobody’s business.

The schedule for opening rounds with official handicaps follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Low</th>
<th>Dave</th>
<th>3</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Childs</td>
<td>Irv</td>
<td>15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spiegel</td>
<td>3</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Menseau</td>
<td>15</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gallup</td>
<td>5</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Shreck</td>
<td>15</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hamscheid</td>
<td>15</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Blumberg</td>
<td>15</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Low</td>
<td>Arthur</td>
<td>14</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ebenstein</td>
<td>14</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lobin</td>
<td>Louis</td>
<td>14</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ferguson</td>
<td>14</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brecker</td>
<td>Louis</td>
<td>14</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Said</td>
<td>N. C.</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eddie</td>
<td>14</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pedler</td>
<td>7</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Abeles</td>
<td>14</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Our money’s on Dietz, but don’t blame us if you lose.

You have read of the King of Kings who has just been crowned. This paragraph, however, does not refer to him, but rather to the Host of Hosts—the New York projectionist.

He (hundreds of him) was host at a midnight supper and dance at the Commodore hotel tendered in honor of Sam Kaplan, head of Local 306.

The press is grateful for the courtesy extended by the projection society as a whole and by T. Osborn Eltenhead in particular. It was a night one doesn’t soon forget. Celebrities in civic life, of the stage and of the screen were there, some to enjoy themselves and others to entertain for the enjoyment of the assembled.

George Bilson has a new “sidekick” in the advertising department at First National. Gilbert Golden, who knows advertising production from “A to Z,” is now assisting George in the preparation of copy.

Oscar Hanson, general sales manager of Tiffany, gave his newly appointed local branch manager a suitable introduction to the trade in New York. A banquet in honor of Al Elfonson was given at the Warwick hotel, and when Hanson and Al Selig sponsor such an affair one is never disappointed.

It’s Papa-in-Law Bill Brandt now. It was Mayor James J. Walker who presided at the wedding of Brandt’s daughter, Charlotte, and Samuel H. Levine, former Princeton athlete.

JAY M. SHRECK.
MGM and Universal Each Win Three of Eight Academy Awards

Members Vote “All Quiet” Is Outstanding 1930 Production

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 6.—Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer shared honors with Universal in the total number of awards received when each won three of the eight awards of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, which were announced last night at the annual banquet at the Ambassador hotel. The awards are made annually for distinguished achievement in motion pictures during the past year, and the winners are selected by vote of the six hundred members of the Academy.

Following are the names of the winning individuals, companies and pictures:

Performance by actress—Norma Shearer (the year's popular in MGM).

Performance by actor—George Arliss “Disraeli” (Warner Brothers).

Outstanding production—Carl Laemmle, Sr., “All Quiet on the Western Front” (Universal).

Achievement by director—Lewis Milestone, “All Quiet on the Western Front” (Universal).

Cinematographic achievement—William A. Seiter and Joseph V. Rucker, “With Byrd at the South Pole” (Paramount).

Sound recording achievement—Douglas Shearer, “The Big House” (M G M).

Writing achievement—Frances Marion, “The Big House” (M G M).

Achievement in art direction—Her- man Rossel, “King of Jazz” (Univer- sal).

Will H. Hays, the only speaker, declared that unity in the industry is vital for its further success. He said he had great hope for the future industry if it must have a spirit of “all for one and one for all” if it is to survive and prosper.

The meeting was also a business session. In the absence of William C. De Mille, president, Conrad Nagel, vice-president, was in charge. Announcement was made of the acceptance of honorary membership by Thomas A. Edison and George Eastman. Seven hundred fifty attended.

Nagel said 200 new members enrolled during the year. Michael Le Vee said the deficit for the year was approximately $5,000, but that this had been met and a budget for the Academy was assured for the following year.

The winners of the awards were selected after the Academy had balloted upon five candidates in each field of competition. Besides the winners, those voted upon included:

Performance by Actress

Nancy Carroll (Paramount), “The Devil’s Holiday.”

Ruth Chatterton (Paramount), “Sarah and Son.”

Greta Garbo (M G M), “Anna Christie” and “Romance.”

Gloria Swanson (United Artists), “The Trespasser.”

Performance by Actor

Wance Beery (M G M), “The Big House.”

Maurice Chevalier (Paramount), “The Love Parade” and “The Big Pond.”

Robert Colman (United Artists), “Bull- dog Drummond” and “Condemned.”

Lawrence Tibbett (M G M), “The Rogue Song.”

Achievement by Director

Clarence Brown (M G M), “Anna Chris- tine” and “Romance.”

Outstanding production

Cinematographic Achievement

“All Quiet on the Western Front,” Uni- versal.

“The Big House,” M G M.

Sound Recording Achievement

“Case of Sergeant Grischa,” R K O.

“Raffles,” Samuel Goldwyn.

“Song of the Flame,” First National.

Writing Achievement

“All Quiet on the Western Front,” Uni- versal.

“Street of Chance,” Paramount.

A special committee is considering the tenth award, for the best scientific or technical contribution to the industry.
Loew's Nets Three Million Gain In Profits Made Over Last Year

Gross income increased thirty millions over preceding year and operating profit before depreciation and federal taxes shows four million advance over 1929.

(Original to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—An increase of $3,000,000 in net profits over 1929 is shown by Loew’s, Inc., and its 100 per cent owned subsidiaries in the annual statement for the fiscal year ended August 31, 1930.

Gross income is $13,000,000 over the preceding year, while operating profit before depreciation and federal taxes jumped $4,000,000 over 1929.

Profits increased $1,989 a share in comparison with the earnings for the preceding fiscal year. It is announced that earnings amounted to $96,900 a share on the average number of common shares outstanding, or $9.65 on the total number outstanding at the end of the fiscal year, August 31, 1930. Earnings during the previous fiscal year were $7.92 a share.

The consolidated balance sheet of the company follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>ASSETS</th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Current: Cash and Call Loans</td>
<td>$6,933,370.34</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cash Reserved for Construction</td>
<td>1,489,944.92</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Receivables: Accounts Receivable</td>
<td>$2,323,736.01</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Notes Receivable</td>
<td>331,712.01</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Due from Affiliated Corporations</td>
<td>1,662,120.66</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Inventories—At Cost: Film Productions in Process, Completed and Released (after Amortization)</td>
<td>$256,532,729.18</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Film Advertising Accruals</td>
<td>64,831.81</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Theatre and Studio Supplies</td>
<td>261,283.83</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total Current Assets</td>
<td>$4,131,971.96</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Investments: Stock in Mortgage Affiliated Corporations</td>
<td>$12,456,263.93</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Deposits on Mortgage Loans</td>
<td>4,322,281.24</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Contracts</td>
<td>711,017.97</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Property—100% Owned: Land</td>
<td>74,671,325.03</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Buildings and Equipment</td>
<td>55,249,371.04</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total Property</td>
<td>$132,920,696.07</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Less Reserve for Depreciation</td>
<td>12,325,637.54</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total Non-Current Assets</td>
<td>$120,594,958.53</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>LIABILITIES</th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Current: Accounts Payable</td>
<td>$5,630,833.58</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Notes Payable</td>
<td>158,264.26</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Federal &amp; State Taxes</td>
<td>1,487,483.33</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Accrued Interest</td>
<td>1,411,677.17</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Advances from Affiliated Corporations</td>
<td>820,387.10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Deferred Rent and Taxes</td>
<td>1,335,461.44</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Subsidiary Corp. Dividends Payable Sept. 15th</td>
<td>1,945,500.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total Current Liabilities</td>
<td>$9,047,290.22</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Subsidiary Corp. Dividends Payable Sept. 15th</td>
<td>9,047,290.22</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reserve for contingencies</td>
<td>4,554,445.37</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reserve for Contingencies</td>
<td>972,918.56</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total Liabilities</td>
<td>$13,384,654.05</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Operating Statement

For the Year Ended August 31, 1930

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Item</th>
<th>Amount</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Gross Income</td>
<td>$23,872,047.50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Less:</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Operating Expenses</td>
<td>$13,869,103.50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Profits before Depreciation and Federal Taxes</td>
<td>$10,002,944.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Depreciation of Buildings</td>
<td>146,763,000</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Depreciation of Equipment</td>
<td>11,466,000</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Federal Income Tax</td>
<td>1,021,539.39</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Net Profits</td>
<td>$8,092,367.11</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Summary

For the year 1930, Loew’s, Inc., and its 100 per cent owned subsidiaries, have reported a net profit of $8,092,367.11, an increase of $3,000,000 over 1929.

Ben Benjamin Is Made Manager of Columbia Middle States Division

(Original to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Benjamin, formerly with Universal in Kansas City and RKO in Chicago, has been appointed manager of the Middle States division for Columbia.

In his new capacity, Benjamin will have jurisdiction of the exchanges in Omaha, Kansas City and Des Moines. His headquarters will be in Kansas City.

He has been connected with the sales end of the business for 14 years.

Phil Goldstone Looks For “Third Alarm” to Be Box Office Success

(Original to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Phil Goldstone, chief studio executive for Tiffany on the Coast, has informed Grant L. Cook, executive vice president, that he believes “The Third Alarm,” first of the Big Ten productions of the 1930-1931 season, will be one of the biggest box office draws of the year. The film is scheduled for a Los Angeles preview within a short time. Hobart Bosworth, James Hall, Anita Louise, Jean Harlow, and other stars are included in the cast.

“The Little Divorcee” another of the Tiffany Chico comedies for “One Punch O’Toole,” first of the Paul Hurst comedies, have been completed and are due to reach New York next month.

The Ken Maynard Western, “The Midnight Stage” has already gone into production, with casting completed on “Cought Cheating,” a Charlie Murray and George Sidney comedy, which is next in line. “The Single Sin” and a story with the feminine title “Crime Pays,” are ready for early shooting.

“Check and Double Check” Breaks Record in Omaha

(Original to the Herald-World)

OMAHA, Nov. 6.—Breaking all past records for attendance, the Orpheum in Omaha enjoyed capacity capacity for nine successive days during the showing of Amos ‘n Andy. The week day program was increased from three to four shows daily and five shows instead of four were presented on Saturday and Sunday. The following week’s picture will run for five days instead of a full week.

Frank Farrington Dies; Built 10 Detroit Houses

(Original to the Herald-World)

DETROIT, Nov. 6.—Frank Farrington, said to have built the first motion picture theatre in the city, was shot to death at the age of 63. Farrington, a building contractor, erected the old Casino theatre, his first project here, for John H. Kunsky and the late Arthur Kalle.
More Gold Junked Than Saved
To Elevate Industry, Says Hays

Ever Raising Standard of Art
And Good Taste, Academy Told

Hays Asks Unity

The motion picture family must be all for one and one for all if it is to survive and progress, Will H. Hays declared at the annual banquet of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences on Thursday night. This is the 150th present that he looks to the future with great hope.

room a single man or woman—not a single one of you—who gets a good night's sleep if on any particular day he has failed, in his own eyes, to achieve those levels of excellence which he has set for his personal standard of work. You might not admit this, but it is a consideration, and it is considerable support. The fact is, the international distinction of this group is confirmed by the largest body of contemporary opinion that ever judged an artist or an art.

An Industry of Artists

Another way of saying it is that this is an industry made up of artists. Think, if you will, of any other, comparable in size or scope with this one—the food industry, the clothing industry, the steel industry—and you will quickly see that of no other could quite this statement be made from the point of production in the conception of the idea for it, to its exhibition in the last and smallest theatre, our destiny is in the hands of artists—of artists in writing, artists in directing, artists in acting, artists in illumination, artists in sound recording, artists in attracting the public, artists in surrounding each picture with an atmosphere of comfort which lends to the watcher’s and the listener’s enjoyment.

Not Content With Set Standards

And in all this my idea of an artist is simply this: That an artist does his job is never for a single instant content with accepted standards, but must work out each problem in accordance with his inner compulsion which bids him do more than is expected of him. An artist is one who works to the theme of inspiration, and not to the clock of a time-clock. Nobody with a time-clock soul ever got half way from the scratch. Art is eternally a democratic art, without class bias or racial prejudice. It has never consulted a social register or a genealogy to determine its judgments. Art is not found in the tip of a search for the ripe fruit of genius. It does not care whether the forebears of originality crossed with the Plymouth plantation or the Island contingent. There is no room on the scales with which genius is measured for favoritism or influence. Therefore history will always remember Nero as a poor fiddler, and Frederick the Great as a second-rate musician. A great art will always find within his own soul the timbers to build a ladder to the stars.

Now let me point out to you a way in which all of this is vitally tied up with something that is very important to us all. You will agree with me, surely, that the movie is just not better than he is asked to do it; or, the business organization which gives to it's public something of higher quali—

(Continued on page 30, column 1)
Lively Exhibitor Fight Looms
As Horwitz Heads Texas Allied

Eleven Theatre Owners Bandied Together as the Independent Exhibitors of Houston Flood State with Literature—
Colonel Cole Now Manager of Allied Unit

Election of William Horwitz of Houston as president of the Allied Theatre Owners of Texas after a delegation of "independent" Houston theatre owners were denied the privilege of the floor precipitate a lively exhibitor battle in Eleven Houston theatre owners have banded together as "The Independent Exhibitors of Houston" and are flooding the state with an effort to prevent Allied from building up the strength of its organization. The theatre owners making the fight, and their Houston theatres, are:

F. D. Wilke, Boulevard; O. B. Bridges, Crown; Victor Baracco, Washington; O. P. Delk, L. E. Whitney, Schubert; St. Elmo; Robert Wygant, Heights; Sam Kirschheimer, North Side; Bohne & Hunt, Melba; S. J. Swenson, Vendome; L. E. Newton, Blue Bonnet, and Aaron Lewis, Pastime & Artex.

The main portion of their broadside of the downtown is the film, "The Righteous," which, Mr. Wilke had intended to deliver at the Dallas meeting, the text of which appeared in the November 1 issue of EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD.

To it has been added a postscript which reads: "The little fellows in Houston formerly leased used paper from Bill Horwitz for 5 cents a sheet.

When the zoning fight started, he was used to go without.

The letter accompanying the copy of the Wilke speech centers its attack on Horwitz. It is as follows:

C. L. Cole's New Managerial Post

"Enclosed is a copy of the speech signed by the 'Independent Exhibitors of Houston' in which we endeavor to tell the Allied Convention something about what was going on in Bill Horwitz's home town.

"As you know, Mr. Wilke was denied the floor at the Dallas meeting. If you have an independent exhibitor you ought to absorb every word of it, especially since Mr. Horwitz (who just joined the association in July of this year), after suggesting himself as the best material for the presidency of the organization, has accepted the position of president and Colonel Cole, former president, now becomes manager of the association at a handsome salary. Together they are going to campaign the state for membership in the Allied Theatre Owners of Texas, an association of independent exhibitors.

"Ask Whose Is the Battle"

"Any exhibitor who was in Dallas at the convention can readily see what it is all about—that Bill Horwitz is interested in the fight and his personal fight. When Mr. Horwitz is through fight ing his own individual battle, does the association get off?

"We are not members of the association and of course are not concerned about what happens to it. The association of independent exhibitors in Texas may become a mere farce and in six months' time there won't be any association unless some suckers are willing to pay for it. Is your battle with Horwitz or is it all for the good?"

When you are told about the "boogie bears," trusts and hogs, just stop and think if any of these imaginary animals have bothered you in the operation of your business.

"When they come around for your membership and your money to carry on the association, just ask Mr. Horwitz what he has done for the independent exhibitor in Houston, or anywhere else. You are going to be a great guy with Mr. Horwitz as long as you keep out of his way, and we warn you to keep out of his way and keep out or get out of any association that he heads under the guise of an 'independent exhibitor.' If you fellows don't believe this, come down to Houston and take a look at us and try, just try, to make a living running a subsequent run theatre in Houston with Mr. Horwitz—the great emancipator and the man who has dealt the independent exhibitors of Houston plenty of grief and misery."

A copy of the existing zoning arrangement in Houston and the proposed one for which the "independents" are fighting was enclosed. It then was declared as "proof that Bill Horwitz has made Houston the toughest town in Texas, if not the world, for an exhibitor. It is his 'theatre' that Houston, larger than either Dallas and Ft. Worth, has half as many suburban show places and his present run independent downtown theatres.

The figures given are that Houston has a population of over 275,000, the screen capacity of the above classes; Dallas with 261,000 has 22 with two more buildings, and Ft. Worth, with 160,092, has fourteen.

Portland Paramont
Drops Stage; Films Only

PORTLAND, ORE., Nov. 6.—The Paramount theatre here announces a new entertainment policy, with screen attractions featured and stage productions abandoned.

Some of the special attractions that have been booked include "Indian Against Fate," with George Bancroft; "Sea Legs," with Jack Oakie; "Tom Sawyer," featuring Mitzi Green and Jackie Coogan; "Morocco," starring Cary Grant and Marlene Dietrich, the new German star.

What Are the Censors Going to Do About This?

(Windsor, Ont., Nov. 6.—Following the banning of "Hell's Angels" by the Ontario board of censors, Shubert's Detroit id made a definite bid for Canadian patronage at its current road engagements of "The Dollar Princess."
The Detroit theatre has carried several advertisements in newspapers on the Ontario side of the border.

Reveal Screen Believed Able to End Glare and Wide Angle Distortion

Erpt Engineers See Invention Demonstrated—Reduction in Amperage Also Claimed

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Technicians and engineers of E R P I, it is revealed, recently witnessed a demonstration of a new motion picture screen with a projected surface that is said to eliminate all glare, bring small details into clear view without cataract, and offer a "front view" from any angle in the theatre up to 30 degrees.

Exhibited at the Lyric theatre in Hoboken, N. J., the screen, known as the Ortho-Krome, is the invention of a New York physicist, who developed a process for eliminating the glare from the printed page. A further advantage of the development, it is said, is the possibility of saving about 30 per cent in the amperage required for projection with its use, and a corresponding reduction of heat in the projection booth.

The attention of Harley was first drawn to the projection picture screen in this regard while he was engaged in research in an effort to solve the problem of eye injury due to projection glare. It is believed that the glare on the motion picture screen might be due to the composition of the screen rather than the projection light itself.

"Heretofore," stated the inventor, "the surface material of the projection screen has been selected from those giving the lowest ratio of brightness to a spectator in the center of the theatre and the highest to a person on the extreme sides. The non-glare screen, regardless of the angle at which it may be viewed, gives every person in the theatre not only the same amount of light but delivers to the retina of each watching eye a light quality that is normal and wholly free from glare.

When Winter Comes, They Creep Inside—And How

(Windsor, Ont., Nov. 6.—Vacant lots in the summer time and all available inside space in the winter. At least, that's what it seems like when a vacant lot at B. I. Alterman has recently donned miniature golf garb, the Seibach hotel has put a course on its mezzanine floor, and the Mason building has an eighteen hole course in the basement.

An interesting feature of this basement course is that the golfer doesn't need to even brave the wintry blasts. It is connected with the Brown hotel by an undergound tunnel.

Arson Attempt
In Theatre Fails

(Greenwich, Conn., Nov. 6.—A firebug's attempt to burn the Star theatre here last week was frustrated by a fireproof runner beneath a central aisle carpet, the carpet had been soaked in gasoline and ignited, the blaze did not extend sufficiently to reach the seats and side walls, though damage amounting to several hundred dollars was done to draperies and other fixtures, mainly by smoke.

The theatre is owned by Dennis Regan of Greenwich, and has been operated for the last two months by G. A. Woodard, of Luzerne, a former Albany film salesman.

ALLEY STAGE

(Windsor, Ont., Nov. 6.—Following the banning of "Hell's Angels" by the Ontario board of censors, Shubert's Detroit id made a definite bid for Canadian patronage at its current road engagements of "The Dollar Princess."
The Detroit theatre has carried several advertisements in newspapers on the Ontario side of the border.

When Winter Comes, They Creep Inside—And How

(Windsor, Ont., Nov. 6.—Vacant lots in the summer time and all available inside space in the winter. At least, that's what it seems like when a vacant lot at B. I. Alterman has recently donned miniature golf garb, the Seibach hotel has put a course on its mezzanine floor, and the Mason building has an eighteen hole course in the basement.

An interesting feature of this basement course is that the golfer doesn't need to even brave the wintry blasts. It is connected with the Brown hotel by an undergound tunnel.
Circuits Control Only Fourth Of 1,108 Theatres in Canada

Herald-World Survey Reveals 809 Houses Individually Owned

Only One of the 31 Chains in the Dominion Operates in More Than a Single Province

OTTAWA, ONT., Nov. 6.—Circuits control only 25 per cent of motion picture theatres in Canada, a situation parallel to that in the States. This is revealed in a survey just made by the Herald-World to obtain essential facts of the motion picture market in the Dominion.

In Canada there are 1,108 motion picture theatres, and these are tabulated according to ownership, as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Province</th>
<th>Number of Houses</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Individually owned</td>
<td>501</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Circuit owned</td>
<td>307</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>More than one circuit</td>
<td>290</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The total of individually owned houses in each of the six territories follows:

- Ontario: 258
- Quebec: 146
- Winnipeg: 124
- Calgary: 144
- British Columbia: 41
- Maritime Province: 95

Total: 809

The survey shows the following circuit-owned theatres in each territory:

- Ontario: 117
- Quebec: 53
- Maritime Province: 24
- British Columbia: 30
- Calgary: 20
- Winnipeg: 45

Total: 299

The circuits are distributed through territories as follows:

- There are in Ontario, 11; Quebec, five; Maritime Province, four; British Columbia, one; Calgary, five; Winnipeg, five.

The one circuit operating in more than one Province is counted only in the Ontario table. The number of theatres wired for sound in the Dominion now totals nearly 500, or slightly less than 50 per cent of the total number of houses in Canada.

Music Out of Theatres

In Albany and Troy, N. Y.

(Special to the Herald-World)

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 6.—All orchestras and organists are out of the theatres in this city and in Troy, N. Y.

Stephen Boisclair, who at one time had a following of thousands when he played at Harmonus-Bleckner Hall and later at the Ritz here, and whose organ selections were broadcast over WGY, is now said to be somewhere in the Midwest.

Allied’s Iowa Unit Rejects Zoning Plan Of Omaha Territory

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 6.—Allied Theatre Owners of Iowa, Inc., many of the members of which are served by the Omaha territory, has gone on record as opposed to protection between towns such as it is provided in the Omaha territory.

A copy of a resolution adopted by the protection committee of the organization was recently sent to the Omaha Film Board of Trade. It reads as follows: “The protection committee of the Allied Theatre Owners of Iowa, Inc., is opposed to protection between towns as drafted and submitted for consideration, and hereby rejects the same.”

The letter was signed by the members of the committee, Clifford L. Niles, F. P. Hagemann and E. O. Ellsworth, and Lester F. Martin, secretary and treasurer.

Protection Gets Full Day at Ohio MPTO Convention

COLUMBUS, Nov. 6.—Wednesday, November 19, has been set aside for the discussion of protection matters only, in the coming convention of the MPTO of Ohio, which holds its annual meeting here on November 18 and 19.

A letter, sent out by F. T. Wood, business manager of the Ohio MPTO, urges every member to be present, as the discussion on protection is of vital importance to all.

Vetoes Bill Requiring Automatic Seat Raisers or 46 Inches Between Chairs

The attack of Chicago theatre owners on an ordinance already passed by the city council, radically affecting seating provisions, met success Thursday when Mayor Thompson vetoed the measure.

The bill demanded that all theatre chairs be equipped to raise the seat automatically when a patron rose, or in lieu of such a device, that all chairs be placed 46 inches apart, instead of the present minimum of 32 inches.

The measure was passed several months ago without theatre interests being aware it had been introduced. Discovering it later, chair executives and exhibitor organizations sought its veto or repeal. The mayor in his message indicated the ordinance might prove unconstitutional.
Every Sheriff Has His Day; This One’s Sunday, Day of Ar-Rest

Curator of the Law—and His Name is FREEMAN—Goes Prepared for Any Opposition and His Aide Hangs Hat Over Projection Booth Port

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—When Sheriff M. H. Freeman goes out on a Sunday to stop any moving picture show that may happen to be in progress, he goes prepared to meet any and all opposition, even to the extent of forcing open the doors of a projection room. His aides sometimes resort to hanging hats over the ports of the projection booths, which is a most effective method of prohibiting the picture from being projected onto the screen. But here is what happened.

MOTION picture projecting machines, operators and members of Sheriff M. H. Freeman’s force played a game of tag during the Sunday afternoon performances of the Arabian and Strand theatres here, which are operated by the Strand Amusement company. The films shown were sponsored by the local post of the American Legion. As fast as operators were recruited from the ranks of substitutes and school boys who had previous experience, they were arrested by the sheriff or one of his deputies and carried to his office where they were required to make bond of $500 each.

Threaten to Batter Doors

Quite a bit of amusement was created in the Arabian theatre when Sheriff Freeman and his chief deputy were resisted by Ernest Morey and A. A. Northcutt, who refused to open the door to the projecting room. Threats were made by the officers who were armed with an ax, several files and other tools to batter the door down. The two youths, both under 20, maintained silence and paid no attention to the officers until an order came from W. S. Taylor, manager of the company, to open up. They were escorted to the sheriff’s office and two more youths took their places. These were prevented from continuing the show by the sheriff, who entered the room and seized the roll of film, and refused to relinquish possession of it. Practically the same performance on the part of officers and picture show people were put on at both theatres. Members of the audience divided their attention equally between the screen and the rear of the theatre where the legal battle was in progress.

Roar Protest at Hat Episode

A roar of protest was voiced when Chief Deputy Freeman threatened, from the front of the small projecting room window at the Arabian to prevent the performance. This was done when the officers were denied admission to the projecting room. Operators E. A. Forester, G. E. Edwards and A. A. Northcutt were arrested twice at the Arabian; A. H. Moor, O. B. Moore, George Melo, James Anderson, Clyde Smith, Willard Round, twice each, at the Strand.

Manager Taylor and his attorneys refused to make a statement as to what their legal steps would be, merely stating that “the sheriff is in charge and this is his day.” The door of the projecting room was forced open for one arrest. The management of the company continued shows until 6:30 o’clock as advertised, although frequently interrupted. Other businesses operating in the city and county were not molested.

Studio in Switzerland

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Press reports say a film producing studio, with sound recording apparatus, is to be built in Zurich, Switzerland. Production will begin January 1, 1931. The early pictures may be for domestic release only.

SEcurities PRice RAnGE

Week Ending November 5

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Now that the elections are over, leaders in the market are expecting at least a strong undercurrent to develop with establishment of the certainty that always is jarred by the political campaign periods. There was evidence of such an undertone in Monday’s trading but a decline in Wednesday’s market followed upon the heels of the flood of election news. Here is the summary for the week:

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>High</th>
<th>Low</th>
<th>Close</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>American Seating</td>
<td>69</td>
<td>65</td>
<td>65</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Banning-Bulah-Collier</td>
<td>1,150</td>
<td>1,125</td>
<td>1,125</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Calboex</td>
<td>1,400</td>
<td>1,395</td>
<td>1,395</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd.</td>
<td>29</td>
<td>27</td>
<td>30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Consolidated Film</td>
<td>2,290</td>
<td>2,275</td>
<td>2,275</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd.</td>
<td>1,970</td>
<td>1,965</td>
<td>1,965</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eastman Kodak</td>
<td>74,600</td>
<td>74,500</td>
<td>74,500</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd.</td>
<td>1,740</td>
<td>1,735</td>
<td>1,735</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Electric Storage Bat.</td>
<td>2,900</td>
<td>2,885</td>
<td>2,885</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd.</td>
<td>435</td>
<td>430</td>
<td>430</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fox Film “A”</td>
<td>57,600</td>
<td>57,500</td>
<td>57,500</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd.</td>
<td>76</td>
<td>75</td>
<td>75</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>General Theatre Equipment</td>
<td>18,700</td>
<td>18,650</td>
<td>18,650</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd.</td>
<td>190</td>
<td>185</td>
<td>185</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Keith-Abbe Operaum</td>
<td>159</td>
<td>158</td>
<td>158</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Loez’s Inc.</td>
<td>83,900</td>
<td>83,750</td>
<td>83,750</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd.</td>
<td>160</td>
<td>159</td>
<td>159</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mowhawk Carpet</td>
<td>3,300</td>
<td>3,295</td>
<td>3,295</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paramount</td>
<td>50,600</td>
<td>50,475</td>
<td>50,475</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pathe Exchange</td>
<td>7,000</td>
<td>6,975</td>
<td>6,975</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. “A”</td>
<td>2,900</td>
<td>2,895</td>
<td>2,895</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Radio Corporation</td>
<td>235,900</td>
<td>235,150</td>
<td>235,150</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

ChICAGO STock MARKET

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>High</th>
<th>Low</th>
<th>Close</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Gen. Theil, Inc.</td>
<td>910</td>
<td>895</td>
<td>895</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Metro Theat.</td>
<td>245</td>
<td>240</td>
<td>240</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>G. S. Oyster</td>
<td>1,930</td>
<td>1,920</td>
<td>1,920</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Sales High Low Close

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>High</th>
<th>Low</th>
<th>Close</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Columbia Pictures, etc.</td>
<td>27%</td>
<td>27%</td>
<td>27%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Film Import, Mfr.</td>
<td>12%</td>
<td>11%</td>
<td>11%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fox Theatres</td>
<td>11,000</td>
<td>10,980</td>
<td>10,980</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Loez’s Theat.</td>
<td>220</td>
<td>219</td>
<td>219</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. pfd.</td>
<td>30%</td>
<td>30%</td>
<td>30%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. &amp; pfd.</td>
<td>28%</td>
<td>28%</td>
<td>28%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. A &amp; pfd.</td>
<td>27%</td>
<td>27%</td>
<td>27%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. &amp; pfd.</td>
<td>26%</td>
<td>26%</td>
<td>26%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. A &amp; pfd.</td>
<td>25%</td>
<td>25%</td>
<td>25%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. &amp; pfd.</td>
<td>24%</td>
<td>24%</td>
<td>24%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. &amp; pfd.</td>
<td>23%</td>
<td>23%</td>
<td>23%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do. &amp; pfd.</td>
<td>22%</td>
<td>22%</td>
<td>22%</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Grigsby-Grinovoy’s, one of the litigants before the Supreme Court with RCA regarding anti-trust activities, although it has signed the superheterodyne patent contract. However, it is alleged that the signing was done under "threats and coercion." B. J. Grigsby, in a letter written to R. L. Sabine, Jr., of the Department of Justice, stated that "quite the contrary is true," regarding the idea that the signing was a voluntary action which apparently disposed of the differences between RCA and Grigsby-Grinovoy. To quote from his letter:

"We felt, and developments so proved, that in view of the fact that our new superheterodyne radio receiving set had proven extremely popular with the trade, Radio Corporation would follow its usual tactics of suits against our dealers and distributors and thus seriously injure us in the trade by the same methods of threats and coercion which they have always applied. We also felt that in signing the Supplemental License we had the same case of complaint as set up in our suit against that trust filed in Kansas City, which includes the main allegations of the former suit, and if we were going to use the same method of 'threats and coercion' for the same reason we are running the risk of becoming involved in a financial way which might weaken us in our fight against them." The letter also contained the following statement: "We have not altered our intention and there is no weakening in our efforts to force our case against the Radio Corporation and free the independent radio industry.

Gaumont Palace Being Rebuilt to Seat 6,000

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Reconstruction is now under way on the Gaumont Palace in Paris which will, when completed, make this theatre the largest in the world. When rebuilding is completed, it will have a seating capacity of 6,000.

A four-manual organ is being installed.
John Boles in the role of Prince Dmitri, the dashing soldier of the Imperial Guard, who steals the heart of Katusha Maslova (Lupe Velez) in Universal’s “Resurrection.” Edwin Carewe directs.

Lilyan Tashman plays an important feminine role in Universal’s “The Cat Creeps,” a mystery thriller which includes in the cast Helen Twelvetrees, Neil Hamilton and Raymond Hackett.

Otis Skinner, as he appears in the role of Haji, the beggar, which is the starring role of “Kismet,” the First National picture which opened at the Hollywood theatre on Thursday, October 30.

The only solution for this predicament that we can see is for Oliver Hardy to put on long stockings. Possibly that is what Jimmy Parrott, the director of this Hal Roach-MGM comedy team is thinking, too, but evidently Stan Laurel has made up his mind that that sock is going to be held up—not and how, but how.

“Dad,” John, Marie, Joe and “Buster” Quillan dropped into the Pathe exchange in Chicago on their way back to the Coast. They were greeted by John Clark, branch manager, who is seen at the right. The famous brother of this famous family, Eddie, has recent completed “Night Work” for Pathe.
We wonder if an appropriate title for this picture would be "Hell Hath No Fury Like a Woman Scorned." That gun and that expression on that sweet face—well, it's no wonder that Bernard Granville and Dick Stewart feel rather uncertain and are no doubt cogitating on all of their past sins. Marcia Manning looks as though she meant business in the Educational-Mermaid comedy, "Love a La Mode."

Mitchell Fields, eminent sculptor, gives Ruth Roland a few pointers in the art. The finished head of the actress will be exhibited in the lobby of the Warner Beacon where Miss Roland will make appearances with her Sono Art film "Reno."

As though carved in marble, but imbued with the spirit of life, is this charming new study of beautiful Loretta Young, who has recently completed work in "Kismet," a First National picture.

The three Rs, and how! Here's part of our gang in their studio school room on the MGM lot, plugging away in good style under the direction of Mrs. Fern Carter. Those figures on the board have an ominous look, but from the "concentrating" attitude of these youngsters, they (the problem) don't hold much weariness for them. Just look at the way Chubby is going at it, and Farina—Well, even famous children have to study.
Lightman Reconsiders; Predict His Re-election by the MPTOA

Leaders Welcome Chance to Answer 5-5-5 Attack by Allied

Zoning Is Expected to Be Warm Topic—Independents Not Given Square Deal, Say Some

By JAY M. SHRECK

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Unless the unforeseen happens, M. A. Lightman will head the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America for another year. Although the present incumbent had decided definitely some weeks ago not to accept the post should it be tendered him at the National convention in Philadelphia next week, it is now learned from those closest to him that he has reconsidered and would be willing to serve another term.

Lightman feels, his friends say, that re-election not only would be a vote of confidence in his regime but would give him another four-month period in which to complete the program launched by him when he assumed the presidency.

Whether or not there will be fireworks at the Philadelphia meeting is problematical. Open forum will be the order of the day Wednesday, and it is very probable that this session will develop much oratory. Especially will this be true should Allied States have representatives on the convention floor.

Expect Allied Representatives

Thus far Allied has not advised whether any of its members will be in attendance, but there is a feeling in MPTOA circles that some one from the opposing exhibitor branch will be present. Recent Allied attacks on the activities of MPTOA have aroused the leaders, and there is little or no secrecy in the fact that officials of the latter organization would like an opportunity to have an open discussion before a representative body of exhibitors.

MPTOA executives have taken exception particularly to Allied's statements relative to the 5-5-5 Conference, in which the MPTOA is criticized severely on the ground that it did not stick by the independent exhibitor.

Zoning Controversial Subject

Zoning is almost certain to be a controverted subject at the convention. Even among the leaders it is felt that in many territories the independent has not been given a square deal. Principal objection is aimed at the demands which they say, have been made by Publix.

The headquarters here of the MPTOA express confidence that the Philadelphia convention will draw the largest delegation of exhibitors in recent years. Because of the wide representation expected, the program committee has exerted every effort to get the management's leaders in attendance to discuss important problems of business.

Although Sidney R. Kent, one of the principal speakers, will touch upon many phases of the screen, it is expected that the most important of these will be his discussion of the security of the independent.

Ottawa Theatres Help Revive Child Patronage With Special Programs

OTTAWA, Nov. 6.—An unusually large amount of child patronage has returned to theatres here as a result of special programs being offered for juveniles.

Ray Tubman, manager of the Imperial, drew a capacity crowd Saturday morning, November 1, when he presented a double feature bill, consisting of "The Silent Enemy" and "Song of Soho." The admission was 10 cents. B. F. Kellogg's theatre charged the same price at a children's matinee for "Good News." The Avalon continues to draw capacity crowds of children on Saturday afternoons with its Avalon Kiddies Club. The price is 15 cents.

Al Blofson Honored as Tiffany Promotes Him

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—Al Blofson, formerly Tiffany branch manager here, and recently promoted to district supervisor of the New York territory, was tendered a farewell dinner by the Philadelphia Film Board of Trade Monday, November 1.

More than 100 exhibitors and film executives were present, among them Oscar Hanson, general sales manager of the company; Carl Goe, assistant sales manager; A. L. Selig, advertising and publicity director; and Harris Brown, who replaces Blofson as branch manager in this city.

Roxy's Daughter Will Marry William Stern

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Mabel Rothfels, daughter of the renowned Roxy, is preparing to become the bride of William Stern of Rochester at an early date.

It is reported that a radio celebration of the nuptials may be given.
It's Up to Film Product Now With St. Louis Labor Deadlock

Last Overtures of Exhibitors Are Rejected by Musicians—First Three-Year Agreement Is Signed by Operators at Albany, and Two-Year at Troy—Settlement at Oklahoma City

That first-run theatres of St. Louis will continue indefinitely without pit orchestras, organists and stage shows is now considered certain following rejection by the Musicians Mutual Benefit Association of the latest compromise offer of the St. Louis theatre owners. At the same time, possibilities of a sympathetic strike by projectionists and stage hands were definitely eliminated.

At Albany, the first three-year contract ever made between the operators and exhibitors has just been placed in effect after concessions by both sides. At Troy a two-year contract has been signed. In San Francisco the California supreme court has refused to act on an appeal in the fight of Nasser Brothers and others against the musicians' union. At Oklahoma City, the contract with the operators provide for an increase of $2.50 a week in salary and establishment of a six and a half hour day, and the stage hands also received a salary increase.

Sympathetic Strike Possibilities Ended
(Special to the Herald-World)

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 6.—The musicians' rejection of the latest compromise offer of the theatre owners is considered certain to mean that the first run houses will continue indefinitely without pit orchestras, organists and stage shows.

The theatre owners offered to employ 100 musicians for ten months with the proviso that theatres would be immune to picketing and that the musicians could be discharged on six weeks' notice. The musicians consider the latest compromise offer was "grossly unfair," especially the provisions on picketing and discharge.

Possibilities of a sympathetic strike by the projectionists and stage hands were definitely removed by a decision of William Caravan, head of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, following a conference with Joseph N. Weber, international president of the American Federation of Musicians.

For all practical purposes the first-run theatres continue to hold up fairly well, the probability of the musicians obtaining any further concessions is considered remote, very, very remote. However, should business fall off considerably it is predicted that the owners would not be able to continue. With the pit orchestra, organ music and stage shows.

There are some surface indications that the amusement loving public is tiring somewhat of the "average" type of sound pictures. Outstanding attractions continue to gross up. December, January and February are expected to prove decisive if the dispute is not settled before that quarter arrives.

Albany and Troy Operators Agree
(Special to the Herald-World)

ALBANY, Nov. 3.—Retroactive to September 1, a three-year contract has just been entered into between operators and the exhibitors, following a series of conferences, one in Albany, one in Troy, and one with the operators.

This is the first contract of this length ever made between the two parties.

For the first time in a six-day week, Albany not having Sunday shows, receive an increase of $1.25 a week, making their salary $47.50, and the Troy showmen receiving $70 instead of $60.75 as in the past.

Overtime is to be paid for at $2 an hour up until midnight, and which the rates will be $3 an hour. At the Ritz theatre, a Warner downtown house, the new contract provides for four full time operators, effective at once.

Nuna Won't Stop Custard Pies Any More
(Special to the Herald-World)

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 6.—Nuna, the film lion, is dead. He died at a zoo here this week, leaving 28 children and grandchildren.

Veteran of scores of screen comedies, Nuna was the backup for custard pies in the old silent days and roared into the new talking picture era. Although he was owned by a zoo, he was more or less commonly regarded as being a produc- ing company needed him for film scenes he never turned down the invitation. He was 19 years old.

CHIC "CHATS"

NEW YORK.

We had one of our periodical chats the other day with a film executive, who knows perhaps as much about wide film, its developments and progress, as anybody in this business. From the first point south in the column is something of what he told us.

It was the comparatively recent development of the talkies which definitely reawakened interest in the wide film, after it had been lying dormant for several years. The reason for the sudden enthusiasm for a new form of story-telling was due to the limitation of the angle of vision in the talking film, and the consequent necessity of finding something which would eliminate this failing.

Nine years ago the first serious attempts were made to develop wide film, which has reached the point today where nearly all producing companies are vying with one another in the perfection of a wide film which will solve a particularly vexing problem.

Of the earliest Biograph days, pictures were made on a film wider than the 35-millimeter standard width in use at present, with an old style wide film projector for the showing. One heard from the statement made in a very positive tone that there has been no real improvement in photography since the old patent was granted, with the exception of "trick" camera work.

The first efforts in the direction of a new technique in modern wide film, commenced about 1921, involved the use of three cameras and the making of three prints which were synchronized. Due to technical difficulties, this experiment was abandoned in favor of a two-camera method which raises one above the other and overlapping. Film stock required the use of a right and left hand projector. It was discovered, however, that the prints could not be made to match properly, since they differed in density, resulting in bad projection and a definitely discernible line on the screen.

About one year later was attempted the use of a film 70 mm. wide and six standard sprocket holes high, but not only was difficulty experienced in taking and projecting, but the condition known as "breathing" (loss of focus at frequent intervals) developed, which was attributed to the film being of insufficient strength. With a change to a 70 mm. film and a sprocket hole "breathing" was partly eliminated but the film would not last, which involved heavy expense in replacement.

In 1926 was brought out a 56 mm. film with a special lens for use in projection. A picture made by Robert Greetham and Billy Birzer, who has been handling cameras on studio lots for nearly 35 years, was shown at the Cameo in New York for three weeks. Due to press notices on the experiment, the companies were still not interested. The expense seems to have been the principal objection.

Famous Players screened a picture at the Rivoli about 18 months ago, following the beginning of a 65 mm. development some six months previous.

As the situation stands today, several of the larger producing companies have each on a different line, Warner Brothers, with the Vitasecope development, uses a 65 mm.; Paramount is experimenting with the same, with a new method utilizing a 625%, and Fox uses a 70 with an image 1 by 2 inches.

The point south just now has the attention of the entire industry, with a definite settlement still for the future—"CHIC" AARONSON.
Seven Fox Houses Drop Stage Shows in Stage Hand Dispute

Indicates Close Margin of Profit on Which Theatres Now Are Operating—Officials Charge Refusal to Add Personnel Was Followed by Careless Handling

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The close margin of profit on which theatres are operating at present is indicated by the decision of Fox executives to eliminate stage presentations, including vaudeville bills, in seven houses. This action was taken following a demand of the stage hands' union for two additional men at the Fox Academy of Music in New York and results in probable dismissal of 70 union musicians, 28 stage hands, and vaudeville units.

Theatres involved are: Audubon and Star in Manhattan, Crotona in the Bronx, Savoy and Walker in Brooklyn, and Fox in Philadelphia.

Charge Careless Handling

When vaudeville was resumed at the seven houses about two weeks ago, an agreement was made between the union and the Academy of Music management calling for four men to handle stage performances. Last Friday a demand for more was sent through, and refusal to comply resulted in careless handling of equipment, according to Fox officials.

The regular two weeks' notice was given the stage hands at the Foxes, according to Harry Arthur, general manager of Fox Theatres Corporation, has stated definitely his intention to abandon stage performances in these houses unless the union agrees to stand by the arrangement by the end of the two weeks period.

Would Cost $200 More a Week

According to the wage scale under which the stage hands are employed, the average weekly salary is about $75 a man. Addition of two men at each theatre would mean a further expense of approximately $300 a week at each house, since overtime at $5 an hour occurs regularly. It is apparently impossible to make up this added cost at the box office; consequently drastic action was decided upon by the Fox executives. It is understood that union labor difficulties were responsible for the previous discontinuance of stage presentations in several Fox houses which were recently resumed.

The marked reluctance of circuit operators in establishing stage performances this fall has been definitely attributed to difficulties with the New York Local of the organized stage hand labor, though other companies report no similar trouble at the present time.

"Brothers" Scheduled for N. Y. Capitol November 14

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—A Columbia Pictures feature will be presented by New York showing at the Capitol theatre for the first time when "Brothers" opens there on November 14. The film, adapted from the stage success by Herbert Ashton, Jr., is the first of the company's de luxe "specials." Bert Lytell, who plays the dual lead in the picture, also played the part for two years on the New York and Chicago stage.

Rogers Starts "Millie," First of Four for RKO

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 6.—Charles R. Rogers, independent RKO producer, this week began shooting "Millie," the first of four vehicles which he will make for RKO under special contract. He has selected two of the remaining three stories, which are "Common Law" and "Dark Flame." Harry Joe Brown is associate producer.

"Platinum" Purchased by James Cruze Productions

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 6.—"Platinum," a new novel by Edward Dean Sullivan, and Adele Commandanti, has been purchased by James Cruze Productions, it has been announced by Samuel Zinzer, president and production executive.

The adaptation of the story will be in the hands of Julian Josephson, who has been signed by the company.

MGM Buys Rights to "The American Tragedy"

(Special to the Herald-World)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 6.—MGM has bought the rights to that famous book by Theodore Dreiser, "The American Tragedy" and are negotiating with Sergei Eisenstein to direct it. According to studio announcements Eisenstein is reported to be in New York at the present time, but is expected out here again soon.

Pathe Exchange Expands

(Special to the Herald-World)

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Nov. 6.—J. U. McCormick has been added to the local sales staff of the Pathe branch exchange, by H. A. Silverberg, manager.

$50,000,000 in Group Insurance Is Contracted for by Loew's and MGM

(Special to the Herald-World)

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 6.—$50,000,000 in group insurance for all employees of Loew's and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, who are to receive units ranging from $1,000 to $10,000 based on their weekly earnings, including Loew's State in New Orleans, was contracted for this week by Nicholas M. Schoen, president, and David Bernstein, vice president, according to word received here by Rodney D. Toups, manager of Loew's. The policy provides for coverage against sickness of any nature; accidents of any kind, including non-occupational accidents, and dismemberment, which results from an injury away from the place of employment. The coverage ranges from $10 to $40 weekly indemnity. Double indemnity in case of accidental death is also provided. Every employee of Loew's State theatre here was signed up by Toups for the insurance.
ity than the public demands, reaps no immediate reward in dollars and cents, is making an excellent investment in futures, but at the moment his only reward is usually public recognition. The motion picture industry has created more wealth in less time than was ever accumulated within the same period by any pioneer intelligence. But it has thrown more gold in the junk pile than it has put in its treasury. And the millions in that junk pile increase year by year, because the industry's constructive discontent with its own standards, its own achievements, and its own successes has always been greater than its self-satisfaction.

When extra quality does pay, it is not because the employer or the public at once appreciates or likes it or wants it or is willing to pay for it, but through unconsciously learns to like it and afterward will accept nothing that falls to measure up to it.

The education of public taste in motion pictures is one of the great problems and one of the great constructive efforts of this industry. No producer or distributor or exhibitor can continue in business unless he gives the public what the public will accept and that I do not know, a single individual of importance who is content to have his great industry held down to the lowest common denominator would be interested by an unqualified acceptance of what might be termed "box office standards.

One step we have taken, and it is not as far as you think it is, is the agreement upon uniform minimum standards of good taste, which we know as the Code. Good taste is good business, and to offend good taste is to fortify such resistance. Nothing unclean can maintain growth and vitality. When a tree begins to collect blights, it begins to wither. So does reputation. So does business.

The Code is a splendid and a very healthy step. It is a step forward. It is a step toward the right. It means that we have taken a very big step forward in the right direction. It is a step toward the right. It means that we have taken a very big step forward in the right direction.

But, if we were to stop with minimum standards, we would be looking only one glass of our spectacles.

Only insular as the general level of public taste rises to higher standards will it be possible for this industry or any other industry to bring the general level of its product up to the standards cherished by the makers of the product.

Again and again in the motion picture industry the world has witnessed the spectacle of the courageous and idealistic producer bringing forth a screen drama that was so far above the levels of general public taste that only extraordinary efforts kept it common but financially. Again and again these dramas that reflect new standards of art and good taste are brought forth, and time after time the result is going to their producers. And yet that inner urge which marks every one of our producers as true artist causes him to look to the future. Obviously, to any scientifically-minded observer, every picture that is produced will meet the highest standards of today only when public taste of tomorrow has been educated to the point where it demands and will patronize the best. There are many methods of attacking this problem of educating public taste, and progress has always been made in a number of ways. As many of you, it is a matter very close to my heart, and one to which Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America are devoting a very large part of their effort.

But when it comes right down to it, there is nothing which educates public taste so effectively and so rapidly as watching and listening to talking motion pictures which in every phase of their production are a little better than the public expects or demands. Every one of these courageous productions which are thus disappointingly far ahead of their time, accomplishes at least this much—that thousands of those who see it acquire unconsciously, new standards of taste for themselves.

But even these magnificent producer pictures, which are monuments of our highest ideals, mean less in the education of public taste than do the countless individual contributions made by the members of this Academy to the high standards of every single picture in which they participate.

We can never measure the value of the contribution of a single individual, a single artist, a single picture.

A little better acting here, a more effective touch in direction there, an improvement in the sound effect of this picture. Each of these minor contributions which are lighting of the next picture—these contributions which each one of you as individuals makes to the forward progress of the screen—these, it seems to me, are the most effective educators of public taste which we have.

It is worth observing that the separate excellencies of the different elements simultaneously find their maximum expression in the same picture that we have the really great production.

Thus it is that the inner artist in each of us—that hidden voice which keeps saying to us, "Better yet! Better yet! Better! and Better!"—is carrying the motion picture forward and is making it more than ever the foremost instrument for public amusement, public education, and public leadership.

It is this, as I see it, which is really recognized in the Awards that are being made by the Academy this evening. I want to congratulate, if I may, those who are receiving the Awards. Theirs is the outstanding accomplishment. Theirs is the well-earned recognition.

The Awards themselves, given as the result of a vote by those who see the story of their achievements—of which we are all proud.

What I want to tell you is that I appreciate deeply the splendid work—the high standards and the accomplishments—of every member of this Academy. I believe it thoroughly in the spirit which has banded you together, and I know that with each succeeding year the work of the Academy is going to mean more to us all, as the standards of excellence recognized by the annual Awards reach higher and higher levels.

I leave it to you—artists all—to glimpse at the future which such a prospect ensures. For the world is a wonderful part of the motion picture, this fascinating amusement industry, this extremely important public work in which we are all engaged.

S. W. Fitch

So well did his books show during his five years that Fitch was offered the job of opening the Sioux Falls branch for FBO Pictures Corporation.

A NOther exchange executive who began as an exhibitor is J. J. Milstein, branch manager for MGM in Los Angeles. Milstein was an exhibitor at Denver and "after a hectic career," as he puts it, he joined V.L.E in the capacity of salesman. Following service in the World war Milstein went with Associated Producers as manager of that company's Pittsburgh office. When the concern retired from the field, he joined the F. B. Warren Corporation as its Philadelphia manager. This company also went out of existence, so Milstein's early experience in distribution paralleled that in exhibition for rapid developments.
... that is the supreme object Sono Art-World Wide Pictures, Inc. had in mind in projecting its 1930-31 Program. BANK DEPOSITS! Bank deposits for the exhibitor! No dabbling in long-shot chances. Just box-office realities!

Box-office realities is what the two groups herein depicted offer. In the first group of Ten WORLD WIDE WINNERS (including three CRUZE Productions) are pictures that would add grace and prestige to the finest photo palaces in America. Pictures adapted from Broadway stage successes, best seller novels and popular magazine stories. High class stars, distinguished supporting casts and experienced directors assure the support of the most critical audiences.

In the second group of TEN THRILL-O-DRAMAS, is a type of entertainment for which there has been a crying need ever since the advent of the "talkie". Pictures of action! Dynamic thrills! Pictures redolent of the great outdoors; the mastery of air, water and the frozen tundras of the North by indomitable men. The lure of sex! The chase and quest of romance and red-blooded adventure! Pictures which have ever appealed to all ages and classes!

These twenty Pictures represent a supreme effort toward the practical reality of box-office returns. The exhibitor is asked to confirm his own showmanship judgment by perusing the following pages.
RENO
From Camelia Vanderbilt's sensational novel of divorce. Starring Ruth Roland, the screen's, with Kenneth Thomson, Montagu Love and Sam Hardy. Directed by George P. Coney.

CHARGE OF THE LIGHT BRIGADE
Ten-year's memorial classic made under the supervision of the British War Office. Directed by Melvyn East, Carl Arf Goldsband and 5000 extras. A war epic with splendid photography.

ROGUE OF THE RIO GRANDE
By John Drinkwater. A newspaper reporter in Mexico—his harsh truth about the Conchita Villarosa fortune—and his romance with Dorothy Morgan. Directed by T.分类

THE SCOOOP

ONCE A GENTLEMAN
Directed by James Cruze. Edward Everett Horton in an ace comedy portrayal, supported by Lois Wilson, George Fawcett, King Baggot, Francis X. Bushman. One of the season's freshest stories, by George F. Worts. Dialogue by Maude Fulton.

COSTELLO CASE

JUST FOR A SONG
A Gainsborough Production, partly in color, with large chorus and orchestra. Lilian Davis, Roy Krayton and Constance Carpenter are featured in this alluring triangle theme behind the footlights. Directed by Y. G. Gaudrey.

THE BIG FIGHT
Jane Cune Production. David Belasco's stage success turned into hard-hitting drama, with Lola Lane, Stepin Fetchit, Ralph Ince, Guinn Williams. Directed by Walter Lang. An insight to how big fights are "fixed".

LOLA LANE IN "RENO"
LOLA LANE IN "RENO"
LOLA LANE IN "RENO"
LOLA LANE IN "RENO"
LOLA LANE IN "RENO"
LOLA LANE IN "RENO"
AIR POLICE
By ARTHUR HOERL (Special). Stirring epic of the new guardians of the air.
A breath-taking revelation of the talking screen's new powers. Insures

HELL BENT FOR FRISCO
By GENE PRITCHARD. Rival auto racers competing for a pretty girl's favors run the gamut of incredible thrills. A sensational race reaches a climax in a death-defying crash.

IS THERE JUSTICE?
By FRANCIS PACKARD. (Special). A searing dramatic answer to the question: "Does the death chair serve the ends of justice?" A story that will excite the imagination of a nation.

NECK AND NECK
By THORNTON CHURCHILL. Intrigues of the betting ring, a girl's saucy in the face of heavy odds and the undying grit of a thoroughbred horse make this race horse drama unforgettable.

SWANEE RIVER
By BARBARA CHAMBERS WOODS. Being the story of a spectacular and memorable adventure whose climax is as thrilling as it is beautiful.

CASEY JONES JUNIOR
By GREGORY.F. KELSEY. (Special). Danger and excitement in the newest action western. The adventure that appeals to all types of audience.

MOUNTED FURY
By C. EVARTS SPEITZ. The first cross-country adventure packed with the thrill of the west in its most rugged form. An adventure-packed story with an appeal to all types of audience.

WORLD WIDE PICTURES INC.
TO PATHE NEWS:

As the Pioneer in the News Reel Field
We Congratulate You Upon This,

Your Twentieth Anniversary

WE ARE PROUD TO HAVE IT KNOWN THAT YOUR EXCELLENT NEWS REELS ARE RECORDED BY RCA PHOTOPHONE APPARATUS.
Pathe News Celebrates Twentieth Birthday

A Review of the Achievements of the Oldest Newsreel Through Two Decades of Writing History With Light

Pathe News celebrates its twentieth anniversary as a news film, and its second year as an audible news film, on November 11.

It was in 1910, four years before there was my hint of the World war which was to afford such momentous screen drama, that Charles Pathe, a Frenchman of keen foresight living in Paris, recognized the possibilities of presenting news through the eyes of the motion picture camera. Little did he dream at that time that less than a score of years later his news film idea would reflect world events in both action and sound.

Pathe began the release of a news film in Europe under the name of Pathe Journal, and followed it immediately with Pathe Weekly in America. In 1914 it was made semi-weekly, and its name was changed to Pathe News.

Pathe News today and for several years past, has been under the editorial guidance of Terry Ramsaye and Ray L. Hall, whose names are associated with many of the newsreel enterprises of the last 15 years. Ramsaye is editor-in-chief of the organization.

The first editor of Pathe News was Bert Hoagland. He was engaged by J. A. Bert, who established the Pathe organization in America for Charles Pathe. He was followed by J. E. Francioni, who is still with the Pathe organization, functioning as chief of the extensive film library. G. Hugon and Eric Mayes each served as editors for brief periods. In 1935 Emanuel Cohen became editor, and he continued in charge for 11 years. Resigning to found Paramount News, Cohen was succeeded by Ray L. Hall.

Pathe News personnel is stationed throughout the globe, and since the advent of sound, a fleet of recording camions has been added to the already elaborate equipment.

Achievements of Pathe News during the score of years it has mirrored world happenings are legion. Its cameramen during this period have filmed practically every important event. Its coverage of happenings of news interest at the moment, and of historic interest for generations to come, are too well known to need detailed recital here. Keeping pace with modern invention in cinematic improvements and in means of transportation, Pathe News has improved its methods of recording happenings and has increased its speed of delivery to the theatres.

During the past score of years the world has moved in rapid panorama before the alert lenses of Pathe News cameras. Each year has had its fulsome share of history recorded by the News. During the years from 1910 to 1930, headline events throughout the world have been brought to theatres throughout the world by Pathe News. Some highlights follow:

1910: Roosevelt's African expedition—Roosevelt receives Nobel prize; 1911: Coronation of King George V of England—King George is proclaimed Emperor of India—Suffragette demonstrations in London; 1912: King George and Queen Mary crowned rulers of India—Gold miners' riot in Johannesburg; 1913: Dayton, Ohio, flood—Kaiser Wilhelm entertains King George of England; 1914: Prince of Wales officiates at his first public ceremony—Emperor Franz Joseph marshalls troops—Start of World war—Joffre becomes hero of Marine—Czar Nicholas poses for what proved to be the last film showing him; 1915: Russia's army battles through Galicia—Pan-American Exposition held in San Francisco—Russian Fleet defeats Turks. The big parade of people and events goes on; 1916: Pershing punitive expedition goes to Mexico—German submarine, Deutschland, visits America; 1917: Outbreak of Russian revolution—Wilson signs Declaration of War—Secretary Baker draws first national draft number—Pershing arrives in France—Doughboys go into action; 1918: Marines at Chateau Thierry—Armistice is signed—Armistice celebrated wildly—America's victory fleet returns; 1919: Frederick Ebert be

(Continued on page 38, following pictorial spread)
20 Years of Past never to be Lost

Some of the things the Pathe News cameramen found the world doing during the two decades of this newsreel's existence, as indicated in reproductions from a number of issues.

1910—Theodore Roosevelt and his party arrive in Africa to begin hunting expedition.

1914—Belgian soldiers on way to meet Germans as World war begins.

1917—Bolshevism triumphs in Russia.

1919—Clemenceau reads the Versailles treaty to the Germans.

1912—George V and Queen Mary of Britain crowned rulers of India.
1921—An unknown soldier is buried at Arlington.

1925—Earthquake wreaks destruction in Santa Barbara, Cal., and its environs.

1927—Charles A. Lindbergh thrills the world by piloting his "Spirit of St. Louis" from New York to Paris.

1929—Graf Zeppelin circles the globe.

1930—British dirigible, R-101, ignites, killing 48 passengers.
(Continued from page 15, preceding pictorial spread)

comes first president of the German republic—U. S. Navy aviators in NC4 cross the Atlantic—Wilson attends the Peace conference—Versailles Peace treaty is signed—Bomh explodes in Wall street; New York—Civil War in Ireland—MacSwiney, Lord Mayor of Cork, dies after hunger strike—Ireland becomes free state. Timed the Pathé cameramen grind on:

1921: Naval balloonists lost in Ontario wilds—Five great Allied heroes, Diana Jacques, Beatty, Pershing and Foch, united at American Legion Convention in Kansas City—Unknown Soldier is enshrined in nation's capital—Washington Disarmament conference; 1922: Burning of Smyrna—Eternal City acclaims new Pope, Pius XI; 1923: Earthquake ravages Japan—President Harding dies—Calvin Coolidge takes office; 1924: Four American flyers circle globe—Coolidge elected president—Th

ZR-3 (now Los Angeles) flies from Germany to America—First wireless photos sent across Atlantic Ocean; 1925: Amundsen and Ellsworth attempt flight to North Pole—Earthquake wrecks Santa Barbara—Airship Shenandoah wrecked in cyclone—U. S. submarine S-51 sunk. Graphically, yet silently, was recorded:

1926: United States joins World court—S. S. Antonia founders in mid-ocean—Byrd conquers North Pole by airplane—Amundsen heads first trans-polar flight—Hurricane wrecks terrific havoc in Florida; 1927: Nungesser and Coli lost in trans-Atlantic flight—Mississippi Valley floods—Lindbergh flies alone to Paris—U. S. Marines rushed to Nicaragua; 1928: Bremen flyers make trans-Atlantic flight—Noble flies over North Pole—Subway disaster at Times Square, New York—Fifteen nations sign peace pact—Graf Zeppelin crosses ocean—S. S. Vestris sinks—Mt. Etna destroys Mascal. And then with the sounds as well as the action of life:

In the fall of 1928 arrangements were made to use the RCA Photophone system of sound recording for Pathé News. With the coming of sound, the Pathé Rooster, trade mark that had been the silent emblem of the house founded by Charles Pathé, crowed out loud with all his barnyard vocabulary as a prolog to the day’s news. The release of editions in sound was started November 11, 1928, with fortnightly release established. Weekly release began February 7, 1929, with issue No. 7, within three months after the first sound edition. Two issues a week were inaugurated with issue No. 18, released April 10, 1929, less than six months after the first sound reel.

During its first year in sound, Pathé News brought many innovations to the audible news screen. The screen interview presented in the inaugural issue, with Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, was considered so novel that the United Press gave it the first review of a news film to go over the wires. A talking screen “extra” was issued during the inaugural week of the reel, offering a talk with S. S. Vestris survivor.

An outstanding achievement of its second year in sound, and its twentieth year of establishment, was the presentation of natural color scenes. The Pathé Coloratura process, developed in the company’s own laboratories, is used by Pathé News for scenes that lend themselves to unusual color values.
NEW PRODUCT

This department does not attempt to predict the public’s reactions to pictures. It does, instead, present detailed and accurate information on product, together with the frank and honest opinion of the reporter.

KISMET

"KISMET" is outstanding for at least two reasons—it brings Otis Skinner to the talking screen in one of his greatest stage successes, and it introduces the Warner Brothers-First National wide screen process, Vitascope.

It presents also gorgeous sets which are enhanced by the scope of the stage-wide screen which has been installed at the Hollywood theatre on Broadway.

"Kismet" is almost wholly a Skinner vehicle, the other players being decidedly secondary to the development of the story. Those who know Skinner's work will not regret this, for the finest of these characters exists as he has created him for a foremost place in the American theatre.

There were those at the premiere of the picture who were of the opinion that the wide screen should not have been used through the entire production. In the scenes dominated by big sets, yes, but not in the more intimate scenes and close-ups.

This is the third of the "class" pictures to come from the Warner Brothers-First National studios, the other two being "Outward Bound" and "Old English." Such pictures are placing a new standard of entertainment upon the screen, entertainment which is drawing those persons who make only occasional visits to the motion picture theatre.

"Kismet," as all perhaps know, is the story of Hajji, the colorful beggar of Bagdad who pleads for alms in the name of Allah. Being of an adventurous nature he decides to cast aside the tattered garments of a beggar to seek affluence. In the course of one day following his decision he suffers the tortures of prison and revels in his experiences as a civic official, only to find himself at nightfall back on the cathedral steps begging for alms.

It is a picture that has a ready made audience, especially among those in search of a higher type of entertainment.—Jay M. Shreack, New York City.

HERO OF THE WEEK

LEWIS AYRES gives a fine characterization in the role of a racketeer, in a new part for him, in Warner Brothers' "The Doorway to Hell.""}

THE DOORWAY TO HELL

THIS underworld picture merits rating as a very good job all around, by reason of a dialog which almost crackles and seems to be the real thing a number of instances, and the characterization of Lewis Ayres in a new type of role for him. The picture should go over very well with an S. R. O. on the first day at the New York Strand pointing the way and indicating its possibilities.

Whereas in his last starring role Ayres played a young boy finding out what the evils of the antagonism of men can bring about, here he is a self-confident beer racket boss who rules his "men" and keeps his precincts clear by the casual and expert use of sawed-off shotguns and machine guns. Despite the fact that he appears very young to handle such a role as he portrays here, more credit is due him for the realistic impression he conveys and the confidence with which he does his work.

The dialog is meant to be true to character, apparently, but whether it is or not is of little consequence, because it has the effect of put-
EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD

November 8, 1930

ONE HEAVENLY NIGHT

SAMUEL GOLDWYN’S importation to Hollywood by itself is a remarkable event in the central role of “One Heavenly Night.” Many who witnessed the preview have the conviction that she is good news to the picture business. She has freshness of appearance, a charm that is distinctly individualistic and a fine ability. Her lover, John Boles, provides the other half of the romantic interest. He is the count who holds forth as sovereign of Zapra, a small kingdom. That need not lead one to believe that the picture is a costume show. It is in modern dress, with minor exceptions.

It apparently was decided to use Boles in the principal role, for he is unable to subtlety compete with pantomime and dialogue. Extraordinarily good work is done by Lilyan Tashman and Leon Errol. Miss Tashman’s first scene, a music hall situation, is a great open door for a talented young performer. After the picture began (and during some of the Tashman and Errol work) I heard it whispered in the audience, “Tell me by talking to me the opening is that a swell show.”

Errol is fine throughout but his comedy is best suited to the smaller roles. Previously he has entered a wine cellar with the estate’s overseer and it looks as if Errol is about to be indicted on an accusation of wine cellar hokum. That is not the case. He is there only a moment, or long enough for a half dozen laughs. It goes directly to the point of the story, which consists of a hundred thousands of years old. Therein is a reel of laughs.

The story is told from the viewpoint of Lili, the young flower girl who wants the fame and adulation that are Fritzi’s. The plot is a little thin in the film, a novel in general. She finds herself in the mansion owned by the count. The climax arrives when he locks her in her boudoir and threatens to enter within a few minutes. When he enters she has fled.

The director’s characteristic smoothness is everywhere evident. The mounting and staging of the picture which is always found in Samuel Goldwyn productions.

The musical score is made up of a number of beautiful and beautifully executed selections.

ESCAPE

thorse, Laurence Backcomb. Release date: September 8, 1930.

In this screen version of the famous stage play by John Galsworthy, brilliant English author and playwright, the substance and magnetism of the original has been closely adhered to by Basil Deen, who adapted it and directed the production in England for Radio. Galsworthy himself did not write the play, but he has been intelligently recast for the talking screen, and edited the film.

It is rather fortunate in this regard that the celebrated dramatist in transforming the dialogue to screen eliminated much of the speech of the principal character which dealt with his mental reaction to the social situation in which he finds himself. It seems extremely likely that if he had not, the picture might have been found dry and to a certain extent unintelligible to the average film audience. As it is, however, there is more action, set in a typical English countryside, and less of the introspective speech.

It is almost exclusively the story of one man, Matthew Denant, played in an excellent characterization by Basil Deen. With the exception of Edna Best as the girl who aids the escaped convict as well as she is able, and Austin Trevor in the role of the parson who attempts to shield Denant from the purifying constables, the entire cast is subdued, playing their roles like “ashes onto the ground.”

Denant is a former soldier whose confinement in a German prison camp during the war and subsequent escape have left him with a sober and blustering outlook on the world in which he lives and the high English society in which he moves. He encounters a girl of the streets, Elfrida, who becomes involved in an argument with an officer who attempts to arrest her. When Denant hits the other, the latter falls, strikes his head against a railing and is killed. It is rather incongruous that the officer, a much more powerful man than the exsoldier, should be knocked down by a blow from Denant’s fist, but the detail in the otherwise fine handling of the story by Basil Deen.

Sentenced to prison for five years, Denant attempts to escape after two years. The remainder of the film is occupied with his flight through the English countryside, the effort made by several women and finally the parson to assist him, and his surrender in order to save the parson from lying in his behalf. A clever touch in the stage production necessarily, is the opening scene showing a foxhunt, with the subsequent situation in which Denant himself becomes the human fox pursued by the hounds.

Photography is very good, with excellent scenes of the foxhunt and the moors about the prison particularly noteworthy. The film must be considered as a fine effort to trans-plant the original stage play to the screen without distortion and a definite effort to attract the picture public to the box office through a sacrifice of the Galsworthy theme.—Charles S. Aaronson, New York City.

FEET FIRST

HAROLD LLOYD’S latest opus, “Feet First,” recalls his earlier success, “Safety Last.” The feathery foot office does not move with the rapid pace generally expected in a Lloyd picture of this type. This is noticeable especially in the early reels of the feature. It is after the action shifts to shipboard, on route from Honolulu to San Francisco, that one recognizes the Lloyd touch.

Two sequences especially during the boat trip are notable. One is the star’s mad efforts to destroy all magazines containing a page advertisement in which Lloyd promotes his picture and his endorsement of a correspondence school for personality.

The second sequence reveals his trickery in obtaining the dress code for a seaman traveler. The scenes in this sequence have been handled very carefully and result in good, wholesome comedy, which does not overstep the lines of the feature. It is after the star’s arrival in Frisco that the fun and thrills begin. It is here that there are plenty of laughs and exclamations of “oho” and “abs.” It is here that there is plenty of fun for everyone.

Lloyd, securely tied in a mail bag, finds himself on a painter’s scaffold which is controlled in its upward and downward course by two men who are more interested in the gossip of the day than in their labor. The situation offers many good thrills.

The story is sufficient for the Lloyd gang. It presents a shoe clerk who has ambitions to be an international giant of the world. However, he lacks the courage to meet people and decides to take a correspondence course. Following the receipt of his diplomas he becomes involved in embarrassing situations through the unwelcome interest in him of a man who has made himself a dandy by liquor. The dare is saved, however, when he succeeds in hiding in a mail bag and is carried from ship to shore by a seaman that may deliver a contract for Tanner shoes.

Use of dialogue has been minimized, and this is fortunate, for only occasionally is it necessary. “Feet First” should find a contented public.

—Jay M. Shreec, New York City.
DU BARRY, WOMAN OF PASSION

NORMA TALMADGE returns to the screen in the talking picture version of theReal Madame Du Barry, Parisian milliner who became the mistress of a king of France. William Farnum plays the king, with Hobert Bosworth and Conrad Nagel in the featured roles in support, which indicates that there is no lack of humor in the cast.

Much appreciated was lavished on the production, for there appears to have been no stinting in the matter of settings, costumes, and the like. Enacted in the period of the French Revolution, the story concerns this young girl whose greatest desire in life seems to have been money, luxury, and finery in dress. Her attractiveness draws the attention of a member of the king's court, who sees a possibility of furthering his own ends should the latter be as fascinated with the girl as he expects.

The result is a meeting of the king and the milliner and the eventual establishment of her at court as the favored of the monarch. Her love of the luxury of her new surroundings causes her to be drawn from her sweetheart, a youthful aristocrat, who, however, cannot withstand her charms and, with the help of her former lover, refuses to give up, prepare to tie with her as the picture ends.

The photography, uniformly good, with much attention given to the elaborate court settings, featured by uniforms and fine dresses. NORMA TALMADGE in the title role makes a most attractive figure in her court costumes, but seems to render her dialogue in a rather unnatural manner in several instances. One who the housewife, by the Peugeot Trum, sees her as a quite lovely, refusing to give her up, prepares to tie her with the picture ends.

The photograph is uniformly good, with much attention given to the elaborate court settings, featured by uniforms and fine dresses. NORMA TALMADGE in the title role makes a most attractive figure in her court costumes, but seems to render her dialogue in a rather unnatural manner in several instances. One who the housewife, by the Peugeot Trum, sees her as a quite lovely, refusing to give her up, prepares to tie her with the picture ends.

William Farnum as the king gives perhaps the best performance of the entire cast played, but cannot equal the magnificence and enjoyment of the role he is enacting. Conrad Nagel is good, and Hobert Bosworth, always the faithful, does not have much fine work, though his part calls for but little.

Direction is fair, but in a number of places production seems to lag in action. Though the story is rather weak, a strong name cast and lavish production should carry the picture through.—Charles S. Aaronson. New York City.

COHENS AND KELLYS IN AFRICA

The fourth Cohens and Kellys product, featuring George Sidney and Charles Murray and titled "The Cohens and Kellys in Africa," is fantastic, ridiculous and nonsensical to the point of entertainment, for it takes one's mind off the painful realities of life for an hour and a half. It has a lot of punch, but not, nor is it intended to have. It is more of a travelog, with a laugh in every mile. Cohens and Kellys, in the plains of business, find that the customers are complaining that thecelluloid big tops on the performers are no good, and that they must have ivory tops. They set out to find ivory in Africa with the aid of a salesman of quack medicine who hasn't been to Africa either, but claims he has.

Mixed into the plot are boa constrictors, elephants, zebras, man-eating Zulus, a shik and his assistants, harem, wild cafes, native dancers doing native dances, lions, tigers and a gorilla who says "Manmey, You couldn't possibly throw Kelly and Cohen and their wives into an environment like this with out sending the house into an uproar.

The dialogue is good, though there are some reminced gaglines. In any case the "big four," Murray, Sidney, Price and Gordon — put them over in such a way that they get plenty of laughs in return.

Vin Moore, as co-author and director, reveals himself not only as having a good imagination but also executive ability in carrying out his ideas. His work is outstanding, and this is the fourth of the Cohens and Kellys series.

Hal Mohr's camera work also stands out. He was given excellent settings, and he made the most of them with his lens. Moore was permitted great latitude in the matter of extras, and there are plenty of Zulus in the background as the Cohens and the Kellys chase ivory through the jungle.

Sidney and Murray make the most of their lines. Gordon and Price fit in with their antics. Eddie Kane, as the Zulu chiefman, who turns out to be the former Mr. Ginsberg, of Brooklyn, contributes his share of the comedy, and Frank Davis, the windjamming salesman of African patent medicines, with a constantly reiterated line, "Everything will be hunky-dory now," helps.

I note that in the hodge-podge of properties in the third paragraph, I failed to mention a miniature golf course in the heart of a Zimbabwe. The golf course comes in for plenty of laughs when Sidney, representing the firm of Cohens and Kellys, dates it on the course with the Zimbabwe all Afarcn to see whether or not he should pay for the ivory.

Another panic is the venture of Cohen and Kelly into an African night club, where they imbibe heartily and are entertained affectionately by two French entertainers. The Irish Miss Kelly and the Jewish Mrs. Cohen drop in while their husband has dinner moments with the French girls. Then follow international complications, which wreck the night and bring nothing to Cohen and Kelly.—Edward Churchill, Hollywood.

HEROINE OF THE WEEK

NORMA TALMADGE makes a most attractive figure in her court costumes in "Du Barry, Woman of Passion," and does an outstanding dramatic bit in the scene which shows her lover being led to the place of execution. The picture is a United Artists release.

NORMA TALMADGE has the cute little slave girl in "Passion," and does an outstanding dramatic bit in the scene which shows her lover being led to the place of execution. The picture is a United Artists release.

EAST IS WEST

THIS is a picturization of the highly successful stage play of some years ago, with Lupa Velez enacting the role of Ming Toy, which Winifred Johnstone created on the stage, and Roxelle, which was played by a little girl. Direction and adaptation have made the story fall too closely into the expected plan for the film, and it has a real hard selling of itself, and even the capable, particularly in the persons of Lupa Velez, who makes an attractive and entertaining co-star, and Edward Robinson as the Chinese who has several chiffon-swaying restaurants and a good deal of conceit.

The story is of course an old one and perfectly familiar, at least, as much to be sold in the slave market, is bought by an old Chinese and taken to San Francisco as his adopted daughter. Lewis Ayres falls in love with the girl and takes her to his own home to prevent her being sold to the restaurant owner. The two men make the story fail, and the girl has the anticipated double climax of the failure of the effort and the last minute discovery that she is an American girl, white, which makes everything contemporaneous: Lewis Ayres plays the young man opposite Miss Velez, and does well, though his role calls for very little and he is consequently rather subordinated. It is rather unfortunate that Ming Toy's accent, as she speaks broken English, is a good deal more Spanish in flavor than Chinese. Every opportunity is taken to bring out the vivacity of Lupa Velez, even to her rendering of one or two of her songs.

The dialogue is not particularly unusual, except in the instances where the young star is given one or two bits of speech when she tells her reactions to the life in the West. Photography is on the whole good, with a somewhat elaborate effort being spent in designing the sets, which are quite effective.

Perhaps the best performance is that of Edward Robinson, for there is every opportunity for him to badly overdo his role as the foppish, vanity stricken and Americanized Chinese. But he carries through his performance with an intelligent likeness, which puts much of the life into the film.

Particularly noticeable at the theatre that the women in the audience seemed to enjoy Miss Velez' portrayal of Ming Toy, especially with respect to her amusing speeches. If this may be taken as an indication, the film apparently will so well at least with the feminine portion of the motion picture public. It cannot be classed as more than slightly entertaining — Charles S. Aaronson, New York City.

KID ROBERTS

LEATHER PUSHERS

Universal—Sound

Fast action in the ring and a fine formula for the up-and-coming idle youth, "Kid Roberts," the Leather Pushers picture just completed by Universal. This H. C. Witwer story has the exceptionally convincing one of a young fellow who needs a good deal of college but knows nothing except boxing and football. It's not football season and he must make a living or do it in the ring. His sweetheart is opposed to the ring because of an old prejudice but his first battle breaks down that barrier.

There is a touch of comedy here and there in spots where the picture can do well with it. Richmond is a well built young man who is impressive as a young pugilist. His face is a wise effective player for the love interest role. She is Nora Lane, an old favorite in spite of her mere 21 years.

WITHIN THE LAW

In "Within the Law" Joan Crawford emerges from roles based to a great extent upon her physical attractiveness and reveals herself as a dramatic actress of the first rank. Sharing honors with her is Armstrong, who plays the part of the crook who loves her, deeply so that she, after years of enforced unhappiness, may have the life and love she craves. Too much cannot be said for Miss Crawford's work. She accepted a part which has been played by some of the greatest of America's dramatic actresses. It is the difficult role of the girl who was trained in a jail sentence and for revenge married the son of the man who permitted her to spend three years behind bars.

The play is eighteen years old, but this proved no handicap to Charles MacArthur and Lucien Hubbard, who did an excellent job of modernizing what is called "crook lingo." The play is modern in every sense and loses nothing in its new dress. The movement is rapid and the suspense is excellent, holding attention from the first, when Miss Crawford is sent "up the river" for her term.

The play derives its name from the fact that she learned so much about being a crook while behind the bars that she can explain, as the honest things and still remain within the law.

The action gathers momentum as her partners turn to crime which is outside the law and inadequate. They marry when a murder is committed. The man who confesses to the crime, Robert Armstrong, plays his part well and shares the sympathy of the audience with Miss Crawford.

Marie Prevost, as a young woman of questionable reputation and past who sides with Miss Crawford while she is in prison and subsequently becomes an expert in matters of breach of promise, is the audience's opportunity to laugh at. Further comedy is contributed by George Cooper, the pseudo-buster, and Robert Emmett O'Connor, forever the detective who is wise to the ways of the folks he is after in the name of the law.

Photography and sound come in for their share of applause. Some of the closeups of Miss Crawford are exceptionally clear, and reveal her emotions to the least degree. It appears evident that Douglas Shearer has been making great strides in the MGM sound department.

The cast is exceptionally well chosen, and is well handled by Woods, John Miljan, as the smarm, but at the same time hard police officer, fits into his part like a glove. Kent Douglas, a newcomer to the screen, handled effectively a comparatively minor role.—Edward Churchill, Hollywood.

A HOLLYWOOD THEME SONG

Mack Sennett, they say, is proud of having turned out oaters. He should be. It's one of the cleverest two-reel comedies ever made with dialog. I can't say it's the funniest because I have never seen the two-reelers and I do not pretend to know how many laughs it will get from audiences who are removed from the shop-worn subjects of theme songs of Hollywood.

It strikes me that the more remote sectors were earlier to criticize theme songs than the men "inside" the studios. And for that reason it appears logical that those remote sectors would laugh the heartiest at a satirical burlesque excellent and not-so-sophisticated audiences. It is a comedy built along sophisticated lines but Gribbon's comedy is at times broad so as to meet the requirements of both kinds of audiences.

